Information for applicants

Prince Alfred College

Prince Alfred College, known as PAC or Princes, is an independent, day and boarding, boys' school in Adelaide, South Australia. Founded by the Methodist Church in 1869, PAC is now a Uniting Church school.

Situated on Dequetteville Terrace, adjacent to the parklands surrounding the city of Adelaide, PAC enjoys an excellent location and fine facilities. In addition, Princes has an outdoor education campus at Scott's Creek on the Murray River and an extended-stay, Year 9 campus at Point Turton on the Yorke Peninsula.

The College currently has a record enrolment of over 1140 boys from Reception to Year 12, including around 150 boarders, which is the largest boys' boarding program in South Australia. In addition, the school has a co-educational Early Learning Centre for over 200 children.

PAC is an International Baccalaureate World School, offering PYP and IB Diploma programs, together with the South Australian Certificate of Education at senior levels. PAC is also an active member of the International Boys' Schools Coalition and the International Association of Methodist Schools, Colleges and Universities, with the Headmaster currently serving on the Boards of both those organisations.

PAC's new strategic plan, launched in June 2021 is focused on our role as a leading boys' school, both nationally and internationally, and our responsibilities to contribute, to serve, and to drive positive change. A copy of the strategic plan may be accessed here.

The Position

With the appointment of the incumbent, Mr Ben Evans, to a senior position in a leading independent school in the UK, we are now seeking an outstanding educational leader for the key role of Director of Teaching and Learning. Suitably qualified men and women are encouraged to apply for this position.

The Director of Teaching and Learning is responsible to the Headmaster for providing the best possible educational programs and outcomes for all our students, ELC-12, at Prince Alfred College.

Reporting to the Headmaster, as a member of the College Executive, the Director of Teaching and Learning is expected to make a significant contribution to the overall directions of the College.

Other members of the Executive are as follows:

- Headmaster
- Head of Preparatory School
- Head of Secondary School / Deputy Headmaster
- Director of Co-curricular Activities
- Director of Advancement
- Director of Human Resources
- Director of Corporate Services

The Director of Teaching and Learning has the following key reports:

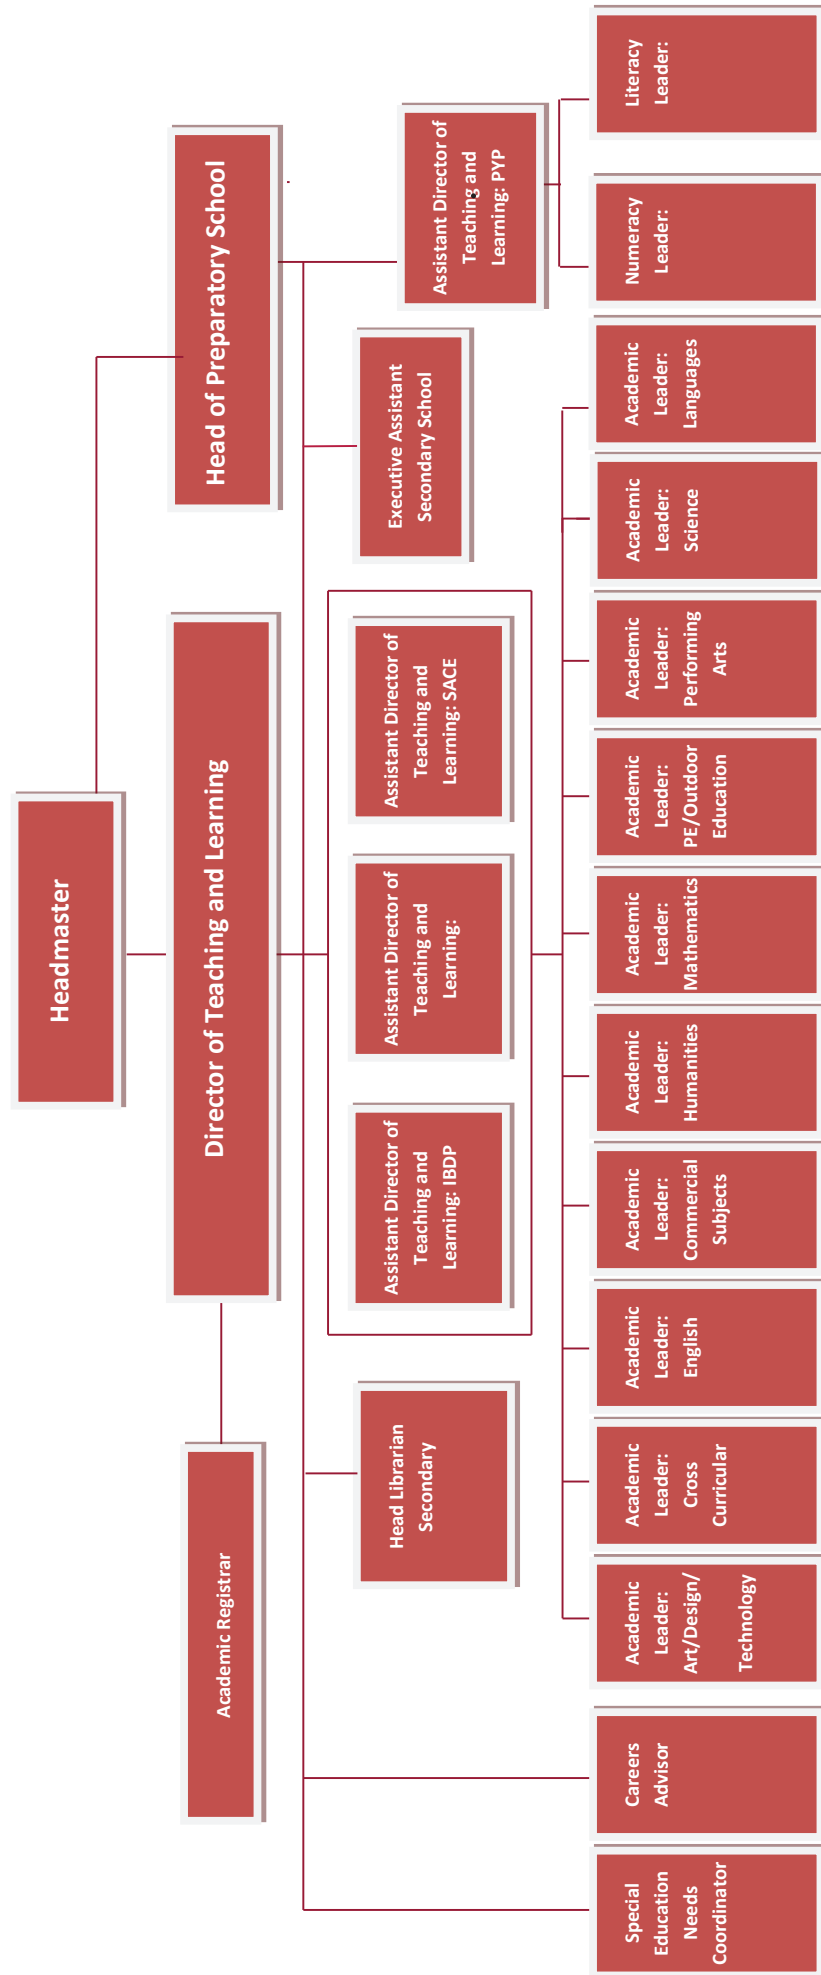

- Assistant Directors of Teaching and Learning for IB Diploma, SACE, Middle Years and Preparatory;
- Academic Leaders;
- Special Education Needs Co-ordinator;
- Head Librarian – Secondary;
- Academic Registrar.

This position will be required to commence at the beginning of the academic year in 2022 and will involve some teaching. Remuneration will be commensurate with the position.
