The Late Sir Samuel Way.

While our last number was being issued there passed away from the Governing Committee of the College, and from its counsels, one of its most eminent, its staunchest and truest members. The Right Honourable Sir S. J. Way, Baronet, P.C., LL.D., D.C.L., &c., was present at the laying of the foundation-stone of the College building in 1867 by His Royal Highness Prince Alfred, and from that time our school was granted a leading place in the long roll of those public institutions in which he took deep interest, and to whose welfare he was untiringly devoted. He had a genius for friendship, as all our Head Masters knew. In 1877 as Acting Governor he presided over a "breakfast" meeting at which were raised £2,000 to meet an offer of twice as much from Mr. Thomas Greaves Waterhouse, and thus present to the College a new wing to its building. And he has taken the chair at every one of our Speech Day celebrations since then, when he has been in office as Lieutenant-Governor, and this has never been a perfunctory performance, but there has been thrown into it a most stimulating enthusiasm, based on an intimate knowledge of the school and its doings.

His noble career has now closed. He reached the exalted offices of Lieutenant-Governor of South Australia, of Chief Justice of our State, and of Chancellor of the Adelaide University, and reached them beginning from a humble rank in life. The ability and fidelity he displayed in the discharge of his important duties must be a constant example and inspiration to all young men that come under their influence.

Once more the admonition rings out: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might," and once again the aphorism is shown to be true, "Goodness is power." Devotion to his church, the concentration of his great gifts to the causes that work for the good of the community, stand out conspicuous on every page of his history. Prince Alfred College sincerely mourns the great man that has fallen, the whole-hearted friend, able, accomplished, thoughtful, sympathetic, never wavering.

School Notes.

Since the close of the 1915 session the following awards have been made on the results of the work of last year:—F. R. Hone, Government Bursary for Medicine; C. E. Dorsch, Government Bursary for Medicine; K. S. Hetzel, Government Bursary for Science; A. L. Reimann, Government Bursary for Engineering; W. H. James, Angus Exhibition. These awards were made by the Education Department and the University.

The following awards in connection with our own scholarships were not recorded in our Christmas issue:—John Dunn Scholarship, E. T. Rowe; Old Collegians' Scholarship, F. R. Hone; Colton Scholarship, H. E. Tucker; Longbottom Scholarship, A. L. Reimann; Malpas Scholarship, K. S. Hetzel. As E. E. Bayly, to whom the George Wills Scholarship was awarded, was unable to return to school to take advantage of it, the scholarship passed to R. J. S. Muir.

W. A. Shepley has been awarded the Archibald Mackie Bursary. This Bursary was founded recently by the S.A. Commercial Travellers' and Warehousemen's Association. It is awarded by the University to any person nominated by the Association, and enables the bursar to proceed to the course for the Diploma in Commerce. Shepley held second place in the Sixth Commercial form at the end of 1915.

C. C. Driscoll was awarded an entrance scholarship at the School of Mines.

During the term Captain Gilbert was called up for active service. He had already twice made application for an appointment among those going on active service, but the authorities thought fit to retain him in his position of area officer. He expects to be sent to Duntroon Military College for a special course of training before being appointed to a commission with one of the units going to the front. In the assembly the Head Master made reference to the excellent service which Captain Gilbert has rendered the school as a master and as an officer of the cadet corps. On behalf of the school he wished him success in the work he was undertaking, and hoped that he would return safe and sound from a distinguished career in the service of the King.

Mr. R. M. Dunstone, who was at the school from 1908 to 1911, has been appointed to the vacancy caused by Captain Gilbert's departure. He has had considerable teaching experience, and has entered heartily upon his work among us. We welcome him, and wish him a happy term of service with us. When volunteers were called for at the beginning of the war, Mr. Dunstone was among the first to offer himself, but like many others he was disappointed to learn that the medical officers did not consider that he was robust enough to meet the exacting demands of active service.

As a school we tender sincere sympathy to Major Leschen upon the loss of his esteemed father. Probably no one has done as much for the physical training of the citizens of Adelaide, both old and young, as the late Mr. Adolph Leschen. When the gymnasium was built, and gymnastics became a part of the school curriculum, Mr. Leschen was appointed instructor, and carried out his work faithfully and well, until his son, Major Leschen, returned from Europe, whither his father had sent him for a course of training in the best schools of physical instruction. Mr. Leschen's temperate life, steady industry, and thoroughness in his work, have been an inspiration to a great number of his fellow citizens.

Mr. Will Ashton expressed a wish on his departure for England to present another of his works to his old school. This wish has found expression in a very fine picture depicting a scene on the Grand Canal, Venice. The canvas is a 60 in. x 40 in., and gives a spirited representation of one of the most famous highways of the world. It is regarded by those competent to judge as a very fine work of art, and one which the school may well feel proud of. It and Mr. Ashton's former gift—a scene on the River Seine—hang in the entrance hall of the school, which has been greatly enriched by their presence. As a school we thank Mr. Ashton most heartily for his gift; we value it highly as a work, but much more as an expression of the affectionate loyalty of one whose career we shall ever watch with sympathetic interest, and for whom we anticipate great and deserved success in the world of art.

Two fine views of Antarctic scenery have been placed in the Sixth Form room. One depicts P. E. Correll peering down into one of those huge rifts in the ice which cause Antarctic explorers such anxiety and danger; the other shows C. T. Madigan and a companion effecting repairs to a sledge. The pictures give instructive representations of the Antarctic regions, and will serve to remind future generations that their school was well and worthily represented in the first purely Australian expedition to dare the dangers of the eternal snows in the hope of mastering their secrets.

Colonel-Chaplain McPhee, who returned recently from Gallipoli, very kindly accepted an invitation to address the school on some of his experiences. We were anxious to have some idea of the way in which the money subscribed in the weekly collections was used for the benefit of our brave soldiers. Colonel McPhee gave us a very interesting story of the experiences of a soldier from the time when he is picked up wounded, and is passed through the different stages of attention represented by the terms "field dressing," "casualty clearing station," "hospital ship," and "general hospital." He made it all very real to us; he made us feel how much we owe to the men at the front; that it is a duty as well as a privilege to do all we can to help, and that the utmost we can do falls short of the needs of the hour.

The weekly collection instituted last year for patriotic purposes by Mrs. Bayly and Miss Dreyer is being continued this year. At the time of going to press, the amount subscribed during the term was £33.

Towards the close of the term an assembly was held by the prefects, who submitted to the school a proposal that they should give up the form prizes for the year and devote the value of them to the service of the Empire. The Head Master gladly welcomed this sacrifice on the part of the boys, and conveyed their wish to the School Committee, who expressed their appreciation of it in these terms to the boys:—"Your generous and kindly action does credit to your heads and your hearts, and is highly appreciated by the Committee. That boys of Prince Alfred College are prepared willingly to make such sacrifices in these great and stirring times is proof—if proof were needed—that you are made of the same stuff as those of your school who have answered the call of duty, and that in you is the same spirit which has compelled so many present and past scholars to join the colours, and to make, if necessary, the greatest of all sacrifices for their country."

Old Boys.

C. B. Benham called at the school during the term. He went from Sydney with the expedition to Rabaul. After his return he joined the corps of engineers and was in training for service with the A.I.F. An interesting description of Rabaul by him will be found in this issue.

E. C. Stirling also called. After spending some time in a camp of instruction in the West, he was incapacitated by a severe attack of laryngitis which necessitated extended leave. He called on his way back from a trip to Sydney. He spoke most enthusiastically of the work done by Old Reds who had enlisted in Western Australia, and hoped to be fit to join them on his return.

J. Godlee, formerly of the Australian 10th Light Horse, has been given a commission in the Royal Aviation Corps, and is in training in Brooklands.

Wilfrid R. Snow also has a commission in the Royal Aviation Corps, and is at Brooklands. He gained experience by first entering himself as a pupil with the Royal and Provincial Aviation Company at Hendon.

G. S. Reed, LL.B., has been appointed Acting Associate to His Honor Chief Justice Murray.

Ronald M. Scott, B.E., has had the distinction of Associate Member of the Institute of Civil Engineers, London, conferred upon him. Mr. Scott has since enlisted for active service.

F. E. Kingsborough writes from France to say that he enlisted in England and is now a lieutenant on the headquarters staff of the 2nd Corps, B.E. Force, France.

W. M. Anderson, who has been for many years in practice as an anæsthetist in London, recently paid a visit to his native State. During his stay he found time to call at the school and refresh his memory amid old associations. He served with the Imperial Yeomanry in the South African War.

L. D. Grewar, who also served in the South African War, has been fighting in Flanders as a captain adjutant in the Royal Field Artillery. He has passed through the horrors of gas, shell fire, and shrapnel, and has suffered severely from concussion and shrapnel wounds. The latest news was that the medical board were uncertain whether he would be fit for service again or would be better employed in home-training work.

Rev. J. H. Allen, who has spent some months in Australia on furlough from his mission work in India, employed his time partly in study with a view to completing his B.Sc. course before his return to his work. He was deservedly successful in his efforts; we heartily congratulate him upon winning his degree, and wish him continued success in his work in India to which he is so devoted.

Lieut. Eric Chinner writes with enthusiasm of the work being done by Old Reds on service in Egypt. He is in charge of Platoon

No. 6, B. Coy, 32nd Battalion, and has Hugh Watts as platoon sergeant and Ken Hobbs as senior section sergeant. Lieut. A. E. Gepp, Sergt. Max Lillecrapp, Corporal George Watts, and Privates Copley, Goldney, Jew, and Pflaum are also with the battalion, and are doing well. The 32nd is a very healthy battalion, and has been made a model sanitary unit. He also says that Captain Blacket visited the battalion. Captain Blacket has quite recovered from his wounds.

Will Ashton, R.O.I., and his family have reached England safely. He has been appointed one of its examiners by the Royal Drawing Society.

C. M. Churchward, B.A., who has been for some time minister-in-charge of the Methodist Church at Cobram, Victoria, has been appointed a tutor at Leigh College, Enfield, New South Wales. Leigh College was established last year for the purpose of training Methodist ministers.

Gordon Swann writes from Gamrah, Egypt, to express the pleasure he has gained from receiving the "Chronicle." He speaks with much enthusiasm of the successes won by Hugo Throssell, H. L. Rayner, and our athletic teams.

News has been received from Germany that A. E. Howard, H. L. A. H. Bröse, and Gordon Short, who are still held as prisoners of war, are all well. This is welcome news to many who are anxious on their behalf.

H. Angas Parsons, LL.B., has been appointed a K.C. We heartily congratulate him upon this well merited distinction.

C. S. Watson, who has played a very useful part as carpenter and stretcher maker for the 1st Australian General Hospital at Heliopolis, was one of the prime movers in a very worthy effort, which resulted in the erection of a chapel. The chaplains attached to the hospital were much inconvenienced in their services through lack of a suitable room in which to conduct them. A branch of the C.E.M. Society, which had been started among the staff and patients, took the matter up, and having obtained permission to use an old carpenter's shop, they set to work, and with such a will that it was soon furnished with all appointments necessary for conducting the services of the Church of England. In this work Corporal Watson and a comrade took the leading part.

J. M. Harvey was in New Guinea as a member of the Naval Reserve, when our forces captured an important wireless station from the Germans. He afterwards joined the Naval Bridging Train and went to Gallipoli. He has since been mentioned in despatches for conspicuous bravery.

Obituary.

Edward Wilkinson Deane, Surgeon-Captain, A.A.M.C., died on April 4th, while on active service at 1st Australian General Hospital, Heliopolis, Egypt. Dr. Deane entered the school in March, 1886.

Alfred M. Oldham passed away since our last number was issued. He entered the school in 1881 and played in the football team of 1887.

Christian Union.

The interest taken in the Christian Union during this the first term of 1916 is unprecedented in the history of the Union. The average attendance was 97, and a record number attended when Chaplain Captain Perry addressed an assembly of 153. The room in which the meetings had formerly been held was so crowded for most of the addresses that lately the assembly room has been used.

The Head Master spoke at the first meeting, and gave some good advice for the year. He was followed by Rev. J. Allen, a former scholar and master of the school, who is now a missionary in India. At the close of his splendid lecture on the castes in the district where he was stationed, Howard, on behalf of the Christian Union, presented him with a communion set for use among the natives.

Chaplain Captain Perry, in a spirited address, gave us a few camp incidents, and entreated us to "keep in step with Christ." As he was once a scholar here and was leaving for the front a few days later, an extraordinary interest was taken in his speech, Rev. H. Howard, who is always a favourite, again drew a large number to hear his fine lecture. Rev. H. Farley, for the ninth time in succession, took the meeting after Conference. Once more the boys came in a body to hear this popular minister. Other speakers were Revs. Stanley, Lloyd, Norwood, and Fleming. All of these were greatly appreciated, and we now take the chance of thanking them for so kindly giving up their time for our benefit.

One hundred and thirty have become members this term, and we hope even more will join during the remaining months of the year. Bible study circles will resume work next term, and all are invited to join.

Rabaul.

Rabaul, the capital of the late German possessions in the Western Pacific, is situated at the foot of a large volcano. There are several of these volcanoes in the neighbourhood, and they are all—or nearly all—active. From the town the harbour has the appearance of being basin-shaped; and, without much doubt, was at one time the immense crater of a volcano. The whole of the hills and the flat foreshore for miles around are composed of ashes and cinders, as the road cuttings and a tunnel prove. The place is prettily situated, the streets planted with fine, shady trees, and the climate is good. The houses are of the bungalow type and well built. Some distance (about a quarter of a mile) from the European quarter, and to the north, is Chinatown, where there are about 400 Chinese. Both the town proper and Chinatown are clean. Dust, flies, and other nuisances are almost unknown. For miles around are cocoa-nut plantations, and just past Chinatown are the Botanic Gardens. These gardens are well worth seeing, especially by anyone interested in tropical agriculture. There are several species of cocoa-nut, rubber, bananas, pineapples, and other plants of commercial value. The natives differ greatly in appearance, tongue, and customs, according to the island they come from. Every few miles there is a difference in the dialect: so great is this difference that few white men take the trouble to learn any of them. The natives are good workers, fairly clean, generally very honest, and as a rule have good morals. They are very conservative, and although true to their own community are often inhospitable to strangers. The principal food of the natives is vegetarian, but not from choice. They will, as a rule, eat any meat they can get, including dogs, cats, iguanas, and so forth.

The soldiers of the naval and military expeditionary force which now occupies the islands lead a very humdrum and idle existence. Many of them earn extra money by doing work usually done by the civilians. There are about six hundred of them.

Rabaul is about 1,800 miles from Sydney, and is situated on the Eastern end of the island of New Britain, so that it is just as well that it is now in our hands and not in those of an enemy or potential enemy.

Boarders' Notes.

It was with expectant hearts that we looked forward to the opening day of the school year—the old boys anxious to renew acquaintances and recount old experiences, the new boys with high hopes for successful and happy days to come.

The first week was spent in rubbing off raw edges and in striking new friendships, but after this we settled down to a term's labour, and little has occurred to disturb the even tenor of our way.

Great joy was evinced by our members at our success in the District Sports. Indeed, Boarders can't be beat! Our hopes for the Ashton Shield have therefore risen considerably.

We must congratulate Swann and Newbold on their appointment as Prefects, and Tudor on his appointment as House Prefect. We are glad to have once more the Head Prefect in our midst in the person of Howard.

Boarders were well represented in the Intercollegiate Sports by Howard (captain), Wilson, Cowan, Newbold, Jeffrey, McTaggart, E. Waddy, Armstrong, T. Price, L. Symons, and Heaslip.

Many boys seem to be following Tudor's example in purchasing eye-shades, with which they more or less successfully deceive the masters in the detection of certain facial contortions. The shades are ostensibly aids to eyesight, but we fear they are abused sadly.

There has lately been a great demand for lubricants, which, sad to say, have been liberally spattered on the floors of the dormitories. Therefore the practice of dormitory training has been summarily squashed.

We are losing several of our number this term, and in bidding them adieu we wish them the best of good fortune in their future life. May they never forget the days spent at P.A.C.

The Library has come in for a good deal of use during the term, and we are very grateful to the Head Master for the valuable additions of illustrated papers which he has made to this institution.

Great interest has been taken in the miniature range by the boarders, and some very good shots have been unearthed.

Our Saturday nights have been rendered very enjoyable by games, ping pong tournaments, &c., the successful competitors for the latter being Collins and C. H. Snook. In conclusion, we should like to thank all who have in any way contributed to our pleasure during the term.

Cadet Notes.

At the beginning of the year the company was reorganised and the new boys filled up the places of those who had left. There were two vacancies for lieutenants, and Newbold and E. W. Davies filled these places. Howard has charge of No. 5 Platoon. The new non-coms. also were selected from the boys who attended the class last year.

The thanks of the company are due to Mr. Dunstone, who has taken charge of the drum band, and already there is a marked improvement in the marching of the company.

We have had two whole day drills this term. The 1898 and 1899 quotas went shooting while the others stayed behind and did platoon drill. Some good shooting was done at the ranges, especially by Howard and Collins, who obtained marksmen's badges. Several others nearly obtained the necessary number of points.

During the latter half of the term the miniature rifle range has been in constant use. Mr. Dunstone has taken charge, and here too some very good shooting has been done.

Captain Gilbert, who has been acting as area officer for some months now, has left the school and is soon going to Duntroon to study for a commission in the Australian Imperial Forces. We all join in wishing him the best of success.

The Junior Cadets were examined in physical exercises by the Staff Officer, and were all pronounced efficient.

Intercollegiate Sports.

On Saturday, April 15th, the first of the intercollegiate contests for the year was held. Fortunately no rain fell during the afternoon, although the sky was cloudy and a cold breeze was blowing across the ground. His Excellency and Lady Galway were present throughout the afternoon, and at the conclusion of the programme Lady Galway graciously presented the cup to the St. Peter's captain and the medals to the successful competitors.

The teams were very evenly matched; the points scored in the senior and under sixteen events confirm this. In the junior events, however, we were outclassed by our opponents, our representatives gaining only $1\frac{1}{2}$ points out of a possible 18. Up to the interval the issue was always uncertain; in fact, it was not until the next to last race was run that Saints' win was assured. After the Steeplechase they secured a lead and retained it till the end. We heartily congratulate them on their victory.

R. M. Fowler, in the Hurdles and Steeplechase, gave fine exhibitions of hurdling, especially in the former, in which he dislodged the record established in 1906, and since equalled on no less than five occasions. L. V. Pellew, Saints' captain, is to be congratulated on the splendid manner in which he ran the 220 and 440 Yards Flat. His finishes were exceptionally fine.

Junior High Jump.—In this event the jumping was of a slightly higher standard than last year's, Mildred winning it by clearing 4 ft. $8\frac{1}{2}$ ins. 1, Mildred (S.P.S.C.); 2, Cornish (P.A.C.) and Chapman (S.P.S.C.) equal.

120 Yards Senior Hurdles.—This event almost always brings out some good hurdling, and this year it was even more so than usual, Fowler winning from Howard in the record time of $16\frac{1}{2}$ secs. 1, Fowler (P.A.C.), 2, Howard (P.A.C.), 3, Jose (S.P.S.C.).

100 Yards (under 16).—This race, as we expected, was easily won by Waddy, Saints obtaining second and third places. Time, 11 $\frac{1}{5}$ secs. 1, Waddy (P.A.C.); 2, Salter (S.P.S.C.); 3, Fleming (S.P.S.C.).

100 Yards Senior.—Tassie obtained a fine start and retained his lead to the tape, running a very fast race in 10 $\frac{3}{5}$ secs. 1, Tassie (P.A.C.); 2, Florey (S.P.S.C.); 3, L. V. Pellew (S.P.S.C.).

High Jump, Senior.—This event afforded an exhibition of clean jumping on the part of Gregerson, who finally just defeated Howard at 5 ft. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ in. 1, Gregerson (S.P.S.C.); 2, Howard (P.A.C.); 3, Edgar (S.P.S.C.).

100 Yards Junior.—Saints here outclassed our juniors, obtaining all three places. 1, Salter (S.P.S.C.); 2, Grundy (S.P.S.C.); 3, Jay (S.P.S.C.). Time, 11 $\frac{1}{5}$ secs.

220 Yards Flat.—Tassie took the lead from the start, L. V. Pellew gradually gaining on him and beating him on the tape. 1, Pellew (S.P.S.C.); 2, Tassie (P.A.C.); 3, Wilson (P.A.C.). Time, 24 $\frac{1}{5}$ secs.

440 Yards Flat (under 16).—As in the 100 yards, Waddy, soon after the start, secured the lead, and won very easily, Saints obtaining second and third places. Time, 60 secs. 1, Waddy (P.A.C.); 2, Berndt (S.P.S.C.); 3, Legoe (S.P.S.C.).

300 Yards Steeplechase.—Here Fowler led from the second hurdle and again showed his fine hurdling ability. The time was exceedingly good: 42 secs. 1, Fowler (P.A.C.); 2, Howard (P.A.C.); 3, Henderson (S.P.S.C.).

440 Yards Flat.—This was one of the most exciting races of the day. Wilson was leading by a wide margin, when Pellew gradually overhauled him and beat him on the tape. Time, 56 secs. 1, Pellew (S.P.S.C.); 2, Wilson (P.A.C.); 3, Fordyce (S.P.S.C.).

120 Yards Junior Hurdles.—Saints here again obtained all three places, although the time was not good. Time, 19 $\frac{3}{5}$ secs. 1, Goodhart (S.P.S.C.); 2, Mildred (S.P.S.C.); 3, Pridmore (S.P.S.C.).

Broad Jump.—Page carried off this event by doing the creditable distance of 19 ft. 3 in.; Jose followed, with Cowan third. 1, Page (S.P.S.C.); 2, Jose (S.P.S.C.); 3, Cowan (P.A.C.).

120 Yards Hurdles (under 16).—McTaggart, who was leading easily at the last hurdle, finished feebly, thus losing the race by a narrow margin. Time, 20 secs. 1, Mathwin (S.P.S.C.); 2, McTaggart (P.A.C.); 3, Jeffrey (P.A.C.).

Mile Flat.—This was a very fine race, and at times it looked bad for us, but Howard finished splendidly, overtaking Gartrell a few yards from the tape. Time, 5 mins. 10 secs. 1, Howard (P.A.C.); 2, Gartrell (S.P.S.C.); 3, Harris (S.P.S.C.).

District Cricket.

The District cricket matches were entered into with great enthusiasm.

The most closely contested match was between the Boarders and Norths, in which the latter proved their superiority by a margin of two runs.

The spirit of bantering rivalry existing between the respective adherents gave an added zest and interest to the games.

The results were as follows:—

District Sports.

The second phase of the competition for the District Shield was spiritedly contested after school on April 6 and 7. Many fine finishes were witnessed, and although Boarders won by a big margin, yet the issue was doubtful till the second day. The scores were as follows:—Boarders, 51½ points; Easts, 30½; Souths, 24; Norths, 4. As this is the only completed competition of the District series, the points for the shield are as follows:—Boarders,

Tennis Notes.

The game has been played a great deal this term, and the tournament entries have been abnormally large, so large indeed that it is hopeless to think that the tournament will be finished this term.

Our sister school, the M.L.C., challenged us to a match on April 8th, and we entered with great zest into the spirit of the thing. Our team was G. Hone, S. Howard, R. Hone, J. Vawser, H. Prest, and A. F. Hobbs.

We were victorious in the effort with 9 sets to 0. The games, however, better represent the play, being 81 to 48. The following are the detailed scores:—

G. Hone and Howard beat Misses Bollen and Davidson, 9—6. G. Hone beat Miss Bollen, 9—5. Howard beat Miss Davidson, 9—7. R. Hone and Hobbs beat Misses Bayly and Lade, 9—4. R. Hone beat Miss Bayly, 9—8. Hobbs beat Miss Chewings, 9—4. Vawser and Prest beat Misses Chewings and Griffiths, 9—5. Vawser beat Miss Griffiths, 9—5. Prest beat Miss Lade, 9—4.

It is proposed that this match should be made an annual event; and, as it at least gives the ladies good practice, it is, to our minds, a very good suggestion.

College Sports.

Our Annual Athletic Sports were again held on our own Oval, and this year's Sports have proved the most successful we have yet had. The ground was in splendid condition owing to the showers of rain during the week.

The entries for the various events were very good, although there were no prizes to be given. This year there were more competitors for the Cup, and this made the events more interesting. We heartily congratulate Howard on winning the Cup with 20 points, and Fowler on being second with 15 points. Tassie was third with 12. The jumping and running were of a better standard than our boys showed in the Intercollegiate, the times for the Hurdles, Championship, and Half-Mile being especially good. The Obstacle Races were very exciting, and the runners evidently enjoyed it as much as the spectators.

During the interval Mrs. Bayly and Miss Dreyer acted as hostesses to the visitors in the assembly room, where afternoon tea was served.

The results were as follows:—

The Mobilisation of Cats and Dogs.

(From the French by H. E. Tucker.)

When the Kaiser declared his readiness to arm the cats and dogs in defence of the Vaterland, great excitement reigned among the cats and dogs of the allied countries. The "Cats' Gazette" published a very violent article accusing the Minister of War of having let the enemy get ahead of him.

This article caused a great sensation throughout France. For three days and nights not a cat slept a wink. Everybody knows that the "Cats' Gazette" has a wonderful organisation. Thanks to the electricity which escapes from the fur of these animals when rubbed the wrong way, the delivery of this particular issue was made in record time. From North and South, from East and West, the ether waves began to vibrate as they had never done before. From headquarters at Bordeaux the news spread that the mobilisation of the German cats was imminent. Forthwith the fur of all the French cats—tom-cats, tabbies, kittens, angora cats, and even common or garden cats—began to "switchback" in most disquieting fashion. "What's wrong with Rosy?" the Parisian good-wife kept asking herself as she was busy writing to her husband, a lieutenant of the reservists at ——(erased by the censor). "What in the world is the matter with Winnie?" said the little girl, as she played with her dolls, just as if the Prussians were not at the gates of Paris. "What's got our old tom?" exclaimed the peasant, who was too old to defend his country.

The news spread less swiftly amongst the dogs. At first these animals had suffered a great deal more from the invasion than the cats. For the Prussians had slaughtered a great number of them to make sausages. Further, when its master's house has been destroyed by a bomb, a cat goes off quite calmly into the country, where it lives on the results of its hunting; whilst a dog does not abandon the ruins of its home, but searches amongst the debris for traces of his master; if he scents his track, he follows it, and this often leads him into the hands of the enemy. One must not forget either that dogs have well defined duties. One dog has charge of a flock of sheep, another goes hunting with the master, one attacks the postman four times a day, while another deems it his duty to run after every passing bicycle. No one bothers about cats except to say to them, "Get out of the way!" when they take up the best position near the fire.

The socialist organ, "The Growler," astonished everybody by declaring itself in agreement with the sentiments expressed by its more respectable contemporary. It also observed further that there was in France a number of dachshunds and pomeranians—animals of German origin, and hence unworthy of bearing the name "dog." They could be nothing but spies, and it advised all loyal French dogs to immediately enter upon a campaign to annihilate all the representatives of these perfidious breeds.

It was finally decided to mobilise the cats and dogs of France. The Parliament of the cats met at Bordeaux, that of the dogs at Havre; for in spite of the seriousness of the situation, and the fact that the two races were making common cause, it was thought wise not to bring together two assemblies of animals who, in times of peace, hated each other so cordially.

Then arose the question of selecting the commander-in-chief of each army. Amongst the dogs, this was an easy matter, for there happened to be a watch dog from Brussels, named Albert. He was elected unanimously—a delicate compliment which was much appreciated. But amongst the cats it was another matter. Two candidates presented themselves—the President of the Republic's tom-cat and General Joffre's. The tabbies voted in favour of the latter, for they adored soldiers. The toms voted in favour of the President's cat, for they reckoned that politics took precedence of everything. The ladies won the day.

As conscription does not exist amongst animals, volunteers were called for. The appeal met with a wonderful response. If an animal was rejected at Blois, he would immediately go to Tours to try and join the colours. The veterinary surgeons were worked off their feet, but they nobly stuck to their duties, and at the end of six weeks 840,000 cats and 532,000 dogs were in training.

When a battalion of thin cats happened to meet a squadron of greyhounds, a slight scrimmage often followed, but this was not serious—a few scratches, a bite here and there, that's all. In the end they got on well together.

The news from Germany proved that they were beginning to be anxious there over the patriotism of the French quadrupeds. There was good reason, for the Emperor had not put his threat into action. He had done nothing but boast, whilst in France they had acted. You ask why the German quadrupeds were not organised as well as the French. For the simple reason that in Germany the dogs and cats were under the direct control of the Emperor, who was too busy travelling from one frontier to the other to think of cats. Each time that he passed his son in mid-empire the latter would say to him, "Well, papa, and what about this famous mobilisation of our domestic animals?" And the Emperor would reply, "The time is not favourable! If I do not arrive at Posen by six o'clock, the Russians will be there before me." or else, "If I do not hurry to Flanders, von Kluck will never be able to find the road to Paris!" The Crown Prince would go off sneering, and this made his father very angry.

Meanwhile the two French armies were doing famously. The cats were showing wonderful aptitude. You should have seen the precision with which they obeyed the command, "Shoulder arms!" Immediately every tail would stand upright—stiff as a poker. "Present—arrrrrms!" Every tail was horizontal. "Present!" Backs would bristle, fierce grimaces would wrinkle their faces, teeth and eyes would emit flashes, claws would be sharpened. "Fire!" Immediately the whole company would rush forward—biting, scratching, and slaughtering an imaginary enemy. You should have seen the tom-cats marching past their general on parade days, tails in air, chest thrown well out, and moustaches bristling. "Left, right, left, right, left, right!" Their brave general had tears in his eyes. And all the she-cats in their nurse's uniforms cried out, "Bravo, long live France! Down with Germany!" This, as you can well imagine, encouraged our warriors.

As for the dogs, they were at first busy ridding France of spies. They organised search parties, and when they found a dachshund or a pomeranian they led him under armed escort to the concentration camp at Périgueux. This was not an easy task, for those rascals of dachshunds would slip into inaccessible spots, from which it was almost impossible to make them come out, whilst the pomeranians would no longer dare to place foot on ground, but were carried by their mistresses in beautiful warm muffs, when it was very dangerous to seize them from their owners. When, for instance, a poodle saw a lady passing carrying a muff, from which a little brown tail peeped out, he had to follow her circumspectly, and at the risk of receiving a hit on the nose from a parasol. But when the opportunity presented itself he would leap for the end of the tail, seize it between his teeth, and pull until the remainder of the pomeranian followed the tail. Then there were cries, yelps, hopeless appeals, and sometimes a mad hunt across the streets amongst omnibuses and carriages; the brave poodle followed by a score of foolish men, who could not be expected to understand this patriotic kidnapping at all.

Meanwhile, the Kaiser delegated to General von Katzendogs the task of mobilising the four-footed inhabitants of his kingdom. The news was received with great joy in France. At last they were going to fight! Then came the preparations for the reception of the British expeditionary force which was only waiting for Germany's decision, and one fine day—a memorable day in history—a feline sentinel signalled the arrival of the first transports. The fleet consisted of dog kennels, which, floating upside down on the water, made admirable ships. You have doubtless noticed that the roof of a dog kennel generally has the shape of an inverted V. Turn this upside down and you have a ship. The dogs which belong to the poorer classes often live in barrels, and nothing floats better than a barrel. Doubtless you believe that it was a mere coincidence that the kennels were of that particular shape. Not at all, it was an indication of the admirable foresight of the British Government.

You have rightly admired the spirit and enthusiasm of the French contingents. Well, add to this an absolutely first class equipment of teeth, claws, and little bayonets of fine steel, and you have the British expeditionary force.

Needless to say that an immense crowd was present at the disembarkation. Every one admired the squadrons of pedigree animals—strong and well-fed, collies, Irish and Yorkshire terriers. Then came several of the celebrated English packs—the Belvoir, the Quorn, and the Leicestershire. The bulldogs received a great ovation.

Then came the cats—ordinary cats, Angora and Kilkenny cats, and last of all, a great surprise—Manx cats. It was only with the greatest difficulty that they were protected from the enthusiasm of the crowd. For you must understand that cats without tails had never been seen before in France! Not cats that had had their tails cut off, but genuine cats that had never had tails. They had as great a reception as the Highlanders. These were the last to disembark, and they escorted the commander-in-chief of the British force, the celebrated General Ginger, the hero of twenty campaigns.

However, the 150,000 British dogs and cats did not waste time listening to the acclamations of their French brothers and sisters. With them "time is money" and "business is business," two excellent proverbs that the staff applied without delay. Twelve hours after landing, General Ginger led his troops to the Belgian frontier, where the army corps arrived safely and in good condition, without the loss of a single straggler.

What remains to say is a matter of history. Everyone knows how the heroic French contingent for 36 hours withstood the shock of the whole German army, while General Ginger was leading his men to a point North of the battlefield, and at a given signal rushed on the exposed flank of the Teutons. The struggle was ruthless, for you must not imagine that the German cats and dogs are cowards. Oh, no! quite the other way. For had not the Kaiser said that the first who flinched would be "shoved" into the sausage machine? There were 340 sausage machines ready for work behind the German regiments.

If perchance some of you do not know the true cause of the decisive victory of the Allies, I am going to tell you; but let us keep it to ourselves, for it is still a secret and the censor has immense scissors and a terrible blue pencil. When the Germans saw that their flank was threatened, they had scarcely time to confront this new enemy. For some moments they even thought of retreat, but General von Katzendogs had the cranks of the sausage machines turned, and the terrified troops succeeded in repulsing the charge of the squadrons of dogs. The latter even suffered a good deal. It was then that General Ginger had a wonderful idea—one that occurs to the mind only once in a century. You remember our speaking of the bayonets of fine steel. Now these bayonets had puzzled the French staff greatly. How were these bayonets to be of any use? Cats have claws and teeth, so they have no need of bayonets. However, many spurs are put on game cocks. It was the Kilkenny cats' brigade that was armed with these famous bayonets, which were fixed on their tails.

When the German cats and dogs had repulsed the brave charge of the English dogs, they cautiously advanced towards the infantry, which was composed entirely of cats. The latter faced them for some time, while retreating step by step—a dangerous manoeuvre, you will say, but one which succeeded marvellously. Suddenly, at a given signal, all the Kilkenny cats turned their backs on the Germans. The latter, thinking that their enemies were turning tail, uttered one frantic meow and rushed forward en masse. A fatal mistake! In the confusion, they did not perceive that the Kilkenny cats were marching backwards, tails to the front! The Kilkennies and the German cats met in conflict, and the latter ran on to the bayonets. To their cries of rage and surprise the French dogs and cats replied with joyful meows and barks. The canine cavalry reformed and pounced so furiously on the Germans who had escaped the bayonet, that General von Katzendogs and the German officers who turned the cranks of the sausage machines were panic stricken and bolted.

This is why to-day if you visit the cats' and dogs' museum in Paris or in London, the guide will proudly show you 170 sausage machines—the glorious trophies of the allies' victory over the Kaiser's troops.

OLD COLLEGIANS' ASSOCIATION

Our Committee.

The Old Collegians' Association has invariably been fortunate in the selection of gentlemen to fill the various places on the Committee of Management, and many of the leading Professional and Commercial men of Adelaide have at times given their services to our work. At the last Annual Meeting, vacancies had to be filled on account of the departure of Messrs. L. W. Blacket, L. A. Whittington, and D. L. Bowen to the war, and whilst we deeply regret the loss of these gentlemen's services, still we feel gratified at the selection of Messrs. A. N. Day, C. R. Davies, and L. A. Mander to assist in the management of the affairs of the Association. We hope that these gentlemen may be able to give us their support for many years to come, and we therefore think that a few words about each by way of introduction to our members may not at this time be out of place.

Mr. A. N. Day, who was selected to fill the position of Vice-President of the Association, entered the college in 1882 and remained there for nearly three years. On 6th August, 1882, he entered the Public Service and made rapid progress, culminating in his appointment on 1st January, 1896, to the position of Secretary to the Railway Commissioner. In addition to the duties pertaining to that position, however, Mr. Day's services are utilized by the Government in many other directions, he being a Justice of the Peace, Chairman of Railway Service Appeal Board, Chairman of Supply and Tender Board—a position carrying exceptional responsibilities—a departmental representative in the St. John's Ambulance Association, and a Committeeman of the Adelaide Circulating Library. It was on the report of Mr. Day that the Government established that most useful institution, the Tourist Bureau, of which he was appointed the first Director. Mr. Day has always taken a keen interest in sports of all kinds, and represented the College once at cricket and twice at football in the annual matches with St. Peters, and had the distinction of kicking 3 goals in the match in which the record of 10 goals 15 behinds was kicked.

Mr. C. R. Davies entered P.A.C. as an exhibitor at the beginning of 1889, and remained at the College for 3 years. On leaving, he joined the Education Department and spent the next 10 years either at the University—where he took the B.A. Degree—or at various state schools. He joined the teaching staff of the College in 1911, and has since made his presence felt both in the school and on the cricket field, where he has kept a watchful eye on any talent likely to be serviceable in the annual matches with St. Peter's. Mr. Davies represented the College in the cricket match with St. Peter's in 1901, and was in the sports' teams of 1899 and 1901, running in the junior championship in the former year and the senior in the later contest. In recent years he has figured very prominently in senior cricket, at first with University A, and latterly with East Torrens District Club, and his performances for both teams have always been of a very high order.

Mr. L. A. Mander, who was elected to a seat on the Committee at the last Annual Meeting, represents the younger section of Old Reds, as it was only in December, 1914, that he left the College. He entered P.A.C. in 1911, and at once made himself prominent both in the schoolroom and the playing field. He played cricket for the first eleven in 1912, 1913, and 1914, and was in the first eighteen in 1913 and 1914. He also played in the tennis match against St. Peters in 1914, and represented the College in the sports teams of 1911, 1913, and 1914, winning amongst other events the under 16 championship. He was a member of the Sports Committee and a prefect. He is at present studying at the University, and at the end of 1915 won the Tinline Scholarship at that institution.

President of the Association.

Mr. W. D. Taylor, who was elected President of the Association at the last Annual Meeting, is the eldest son of the late Mr. Wm. Taylor, of James Marshall & Co. He entered P.A.C. in 1885 at an early age, and there completed his education. Mr. Taylor took a prominent part in sport whilst at the College, and after leaving school he played both lacrosse and cricket. In the former sport he represented the State on five occasions, whilst he played cricket with North Adelaide A team. He has filled the position of Chairman of the S.A. Lacrosse Association, and is on the Committee of both the Royal Institution for the Blind and the S.A. Blind, Deaf, and Dumb Institution at Brighton. In business Mr. Taylor spent 12 years as partner in Messrs. G. Wood, Son, and Co., whilst for six years he held a similar interest in the Lion Timber Mills Co. Quite recently he left the latter company, and is now devoting himself to the pastoral industry as part owner of the Nor' West Bend Station.

Mr. L. B. Shuttleworth.

Nearly three years ago the Association appointed Mr. Len. Shuttleworth to act in conjunction with Mr. Miller as Secretary of the Association. The Committee have since had many opportunities of judging the value of Mr. Shuttleworth's work, and when he recently expressed a desire to resign from the position on account of enlisting for the war, the Committee were reluctant to lose his services. They therefore offered to grant Mr. Shuttleworth leave of absence until his return to Australia—a step which will undoubtedly meet with the approval of all members. At the time of writing, Mr. Shuttleworth is a member of the N.C.O.'s School at Mitcham, and many will watch with interest his further career in the service of his King. We wish him every success and a safe return.

Subscription to the Association.

Hitherto, the annual subscription to the Association has been 5s., whilst for the payment of £3 3s. a member could make himself good on the books for life. For some time, however, it has been felt that both these amounts were inadequate, whereas the ordinary subscription has been sufficient for the Association to pay its way, still the Committee have been always compelled to carefully watch the expenditure, and have had absolutely nothing in hand for any unforeseen calls on the funds. At the last annual meeting therefore it was unanimously resolved to make the annual subscription 6/-. This amount is due for the current year, and members are asked to forward same promptly. The Life Membership is now £5 5s.

The P.A.C. Chronicle, of which a large part is devoted to matters of special interest to Old Boys, is forwarded to each member of the Association.

A dinner is held annually, at a time which is thought likely to give as many Old Boys as possible an opportunity of meeting one another; and social gatherings are held whenever any occasion arises that makes them desirable.

The Association gives annually to the school the Old Collegians' Scholarship, of the value of fifteen guineas, and donates five guineas per annum to the Sports Fund. Two Scholarships tenable for two years are also awarded and are balloted for by the members.

The subscription is six shillings per annum. It is suggested that Country Members should remit sufficient to cover four years subscriptions or become Life Members by payment of £5 5s. Any Old Boy wishing to become a member can do so by forwarding his name and address to the Head Master, or to any member of the staff, or to one of the Secretaries.
