Editorial.

Yet another year has passed—the last of school life for many, whose exodus gives rise to mingled feelings. From the first our School has stood, and we trust, still stands, for something higher than personal gain, and we realize that in leaving we are taking away just as much of good as we, in enterprise and determined endeavour, may have rendered. It is not the prizes we carry away that give a fair account of our school career; it is rather the name we are leaving behind us. In leaving, we know and feel that something that has loomed large in our life is passing out and leaving a great gap. Truly, it is only when we come to leave that we realise the great advantages it has been our privilege to enjoy.

It is very strange, but perhaps only natural, that in completing such an important stage in our life, we should dwell upon our first day at the school, when we first began to realise that we had a part to play in life. A vivid picture of our first day at school comes before our mind—a picture never to be blotted out. We feel again the stranded feeling, the new associations which later on we have found so helpful and lasting. We come under the influence of many worthy traditions which we must live up to, not only while at school, but in the world outside, where we have the opportunity of handing on to others the benefits we have gained.

It behoves those of us who are leaving to remember that in our hands is still placed, perhaps to a greater extent, the reputation of our great Alma Mater. In the life of the world outside, contact with our fellows is more varied, and on a wider scale, and the fact that we received our education in such an institution as ours means that we bear the designation of gentlemen, which each one must strive to maintain. Those who have not yet ended their school career must "carry on," for the outside world is now looking very searchingly on the school as it stands. May those returning zealously cultivate the spirit implied in the cry "Reds can't be beat," and may each remember that, as he is, so is his school.

Speech Day.

On Thursday afternoon, December 9, the final scene in the drama of the year 1920 was acted, and, needless to say, proved "the best scene of all." The Adelaide Town Hall was filled to overflowing, and the audience showed its appreciation of our new Governor, Sir Archibald Weigall, by the enthusiastic greeting it gave him when he had mounted the platform.

After the hymn, "Sing to the great Jehovah's praise," and a prayer by our president, the Rev. W. A. Potts, the Head Master called up the captain of the XI. to read the results of the year's sports contests.

SPORTS REPORT.

Your Excellency, Mr. Headmaster, Ladies and Gentlemen.

The results of the athletic side of our School life this year do not record as great success as we had hoped for. We have been beaten by St. Peter's in all four contests.

The first event to occupy our attention was the Athletic Sports. Previous to this engagement, the District Sports were held, and these served as a guide to the selection committee in arranging the team. C. D. Gray was elected captain of a well-trained team through whom we had high hopes of winning this first contest for the year. Our expectations, however, were not realised, and we suffered defeat by 72 points to 39. Gray was our best performer, winning the 330 yds. steeplechase and the broad jump. The College Sports were held on our grounds a week later, and passed off satisfactorily. The competition for the Cup was not quite so keen as last year. Gray was successful and is to be congratulated on winning by a margin of 6 points. We wish to thank Mrs. Harvey for distributing the prizes.

With the approach of the winter term, our energies were devoted to football. This year we joined the Amateur League and had a fair measure of success. The Rev. C. J. Perry gave his services to the team as coach, and we are deeply indebted to him for his valuable assistance. Under his supervision our first eighteen trained exceptionally well, as was shown in Saturday matches. McKenzie was elected captain. The Intercollegiate football match was played three days after the appointed date, so that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales might be present. This match, according to outside reports, will ever prove memorable as one of the cleanest, best and most exciting exhibitions of football ever witnessed in Intercollegiate games. Our sincere congratulations go out to St. Peter's on their magnificent win. One match was played with Melbourne Grammar School, which proved a very enjoyable one. We were defeated by 59 points to 37.

Jaehne was awarded the football for the best player on the Oval, and N. Walsh the Old Collegians' Gold Medal for the most consistent player throughout the season.

The Second Eighteen again took part in the Schools' Association, and came second on the list. The thirds, fourths, fifths, and under-age teams did exceptionally well by winning 15 out of 18 matches which they played. This gives great hopes for the future First Eighteen.

The House system was first introduced in the second term this year, and great enthusiasm was manifested among the various Houses. Colton House came out first without losing a match, while Waterhouse House came second.

Merit badges, awarded to boys who represent the school in any three Intercollegiate contests, were presented to J. R. Hall and C. W. Crompton.

Owing to the large number of entries, the Tennis tournament was not completed until the third term. N. Walsh again secured the Senior Championship, and the Junior Championship was won by W. R. James.

Practice for the Intercollegiate Tennis was delayed somewhat owing to the full programme of football matches. We take this opportunity of thanking those friends who placed their courts at our disposal, and also Mr. Comley for the interest he took in our preparation. L. S. Walsh was re-elected captain, and is to be congratulated on defeating Leaver for the College Championship. Jaehne and Hall were the most successful of our team; the former won everything he contested. Our defeat in this match is very hard to explain, but our first double, which had previously shown good form, failed to rise to the occasion, and we suffered defeat by 8 rubbers to 7.

The competition for the Champion Gymnast of the College was held this term. I. S. Magarey is to be congratulated on winning the gold medal presented by Mr. Bennett.

Boxing is becoming more popular, and the form shown by enthusiasts has greatly improved. Unfortunately, the demands of other departments of athletics have interfered with the attendance at the class. A. T. Harbison won the gold medal presented by Mr. Schlank, and H. G. Eaton made such good progress that Mr. Pollock gave him a special medal.

The Intercollegiate Cricket is fresh in the minds of all present, and I need do little more than congratulate St. Peters on their narrow win. As a team we heartily congratulate L. T. Gun upon his fine innings, and upon making the highest score yet reached by any representative of his school in Intercollegiate cricket.

Once again we tender our heartiest thanks to all who have helped us during the year, especially to Your Excellency for bringing out a team to give us a game when we were so much in need of match practice; also to Mr. Grey, Mr. B. T. Bailey, and the Old Scholars.

In conclusion, I thank you, sir, for your gifts for the best batting and best bowling in the cricket match. As the game drew to its exciting finish, we hoped to win one of them for the school. All the honour, however, goes to our rivals this year. We congratulate them, and hope to win our share in later contests.

Then followed a charming rendering of "The Valley of Laughter" by E. A. Kayser, who had to favour his delighted listeners with an encore. After that we were in fitting humour to hear the Head Master's report on the year's work.

THE HEAD MASTER'S REPORT.

Your Excellency, Members of the Council, Ladies and Gentlemen, before entering upon a review of the year, may I, on behalf of the School as a whole, tender to your Excellency, both officially and personally, our unwavering loyalty. Those engaged in education in the State have been greatly encouraged and helped by the sympathetic attitude of many of your predecessors toward their work. You, Sir, have missed no opportunity of showing that your interest in our responsible work is indeed great, and covers every department of educational activity. As the representative of our King, and all that the monarchy stands for, you mean much to us. The visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales brought to us a sense of contact with the monarchy, and experiences that have been rare in the history of our young life. As a School we enjoyed with full heartiness the exhilaration of these experiences, and are the better for them. General Birdwood's visit also made increasingly real to us much that had occupied our thoughts during the awful years of the war. As we recall these visits and their deep significance, we welcome you here to-day with the greater heartiness, and with the hope that the sojourn of your Excellency and Lady Weigall among us will be crowded with happy experiences.

At the close of each of the preceding five years I have been able to report an increase in numbers, and latterly, to say that we were fast approaching the limits of our accommodation. That limit has this year been reached, if not passed. The School now numbers 450, of whom 92 are in the preparatory school, and 102 in the boarding house. To meet the pressure upon the accommodation for boarders, arrangements were made to house thirteen of the youngest at the preparatory school, where they are under the immediate supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Mutton. Mrs. Garot took up the duties of matron with much enthusiasm, and has been unremitting in her efforts for the comfort of her young charges. As the class-rooms erected at the preparatory school in 1918 were planned to accommodate 100 boys, we have almost reached our limit in that department.

The requirements of these numbers have taxed our resources to the utmost, and I feel that, in justice to staff and boys, we must not admit more. Quite apart from the question of accommodation, it is certainly debatable whether it is desirable to have a greater number under one command, if the Head Master is to entertain any hope of cultivating that interest in the individual which is so obviously desirable. The block of buildings set out in the plans on view to-day may suggest ambitious, even extravagant ideas, when I say that they are designed, not to provide for any considerable addition to our numbers, but to provide for the present numbers what modern ideas on education call for in a school of our type. I invite all interested in the School, before passing an opinion, to study the plans carefully, and I shall be only too glad to explain them in detail.

That the individual may not be lost in the crowd, we have adopted what is known as the "House System," this year. This system, as its name implies, was developed in schools which are wholly residential, and it can only be worked to full effect in such schools; but it can be adapted to our life with great benefit which we hope in large measure to realise. In Australian schools, inter-school competition has been developed to a higher degree than intra-school activity, though for the greatest good of the greatest number the latter is much more productive in developing opportunities, and, by that very fact, should lead to the best results in the former. For many years past, various intra-school efforts, such as form and district matches, have been carried on, but always with the feeling that they left much to be desired, both as competitions and as opportunities for individual development. Under the new system the School is divided into groups of about 50 strong, and each group is the special charge of two masters, assisted by the house prefects. When a boy enters the School, he is attached to a house, and remains in that house during the whole of his stay at school. He is at once brought under the personal care of certain masters and senior boys, who are expected to feel a peculiar interest him, while he is encouraged to cultivate attachment at once to that section of the School, and through this attachment to feel himself more readily and really a part of the School as a whole. The system not only benefits boys, but masters also, to an equal degree, in that it gives opportunity for intimate personal contact with a section of the School chosen from all stages of development, and thus corrects the insulating effect that the mere class-room association often has upon a master, to his own great disadvantage, as well as to that of the School. The system stands or falls with the enthusiasm and calibre of the staff. I count myself fortunate in having a company of worthy and loyal colleagues to launch it in such a way as to lay its foundations broad and deep in the life of the School.

We bid farewell to-day to Mr. G. G. Wallace, who for the past three years has served the School faithfully and with the happiest relationships toward colleagues and pupils. We are sorry to lose his companionship, but are glad to congratulate him upon his appointment to a position of greater scope and to wish him a successful and happy future. Mr. F. R. Potts, to our regret, is also leaving. During his two years service he has done good work, especially as successor to Mr. Ward as Officer Commanding the Cadet Corps. We wish him success in his efforts to gain further experience in his profession. Mr. A. G. Ducray joined the staff in second term. He is an enthusiastic teacher of French, his native tongue, and we are building great hopes upon his influence in strengthening this important subject. Mr. S. E. Woolhouse will join the staff next year. His training and experience should enable him to place valuable knowledge at the service of the school.

The recent proposals of the Commonwealth Military Department with respect to boys who join the citizen forces in their eighteenth year are causing grave concern in educational circles. The effect of having to spend 70 days per annum in camp will be disastrous to all boys engaged on advanced courses of study. It is our hope that the authorities will either reduce the demands upon students engaged in higher education, as is done elsewhere, or allow them to continue training with the cadets while they are at school. I would urge all parents to give this matter earnest thought, and to lose no opportunity of making their feelings upon it felt. No section of the community has supported the Military Department more loyally or effectively than the Public Schools. The Department have recognised this by many generous tributes to our work, of which we are justly proud. We shall support the new scheme equally loyally, and feel the more justified in asking them to reconsider their proposals as far as they affect our senior boys.

Mr. T. H. Davey has expressed a wish to found a scholarship to be awarded on the results of our highest work in the commercial course. The scholarship is intended to encourage a boy to supplement his school work by a course at the University, or if it be thought advisable, to remain at school for further study in commercial subjects. This endowment is much appreciated, and should be of distinct service in carrying out the donor's wish to improve the educational standing of lads entering on a commercial career. Such gifts as this are of inestimable value. Nothing maintains better the idea of continuity in the minds of the boys at school than to see the names of donors and recipients perpetuated from generation to generation in this way. Whatever her resources, the life of a school provides almost endless opportunities for such gifts. They need not necessarily take the form of scholarships: indeed, I sometimes think that gifts of the kind that enrich the daily lives of all have greater value. An effort is now being made to improve our library, which is in great need of help. Messrs. Haslam, Grey and Langley, members of the staff, have given much appreciated gifts of books, for which we thank them. May I hope that others will rise to such opportunities of service, and gladden our hearts by their generosity!

For some years past the question of finance has occupied the attention of the Executive Committee, with the result that fees have been raised twice during the past five years. Whether wisely or unwisely, it has been the policy of the Committee to keep fees as low as possible—a policy not directed by any spirit of commercial competition, but by a desire to bring any advantages the school can confer within the reach of people of moderate means. No school has been more loyal to an avowed policy than Prince Alfred College has been to that of providing a liberal education at a moderate cost. Such a policy precludes all possibility of accumulating funds, and, under the fluctuating conditions of life among us, often occasions much anxiety. Once again the fees have been advanced all round, and further advances, at any rate in tuition fees, may be advisable shortly. The poor remuneration of teachers throughout the Commonwealth, as well as in Great Britain, has at last forced itself upon the public conscience in such a way as to compel steps toward the betterment of their financial position. No section of the community has maintained a more generous bearing under conditions that would justify cynicism; none have had their work and their calling so exalted before the public mind or had greater responsibilities thrust upon them; none have been so ill-requited when responsibilities and burdens are compared with remuneration received: finally, none stood by the ship of state during the recent stormy years more loyally than they. Justice toward them has indeed been slow of foot, but all who are administering educational activities are impressed with the absolute necessity of adequate recognition of the teacher's financial value, if justice is to be done to them and to the young life committed to their care. When I tell you that the whole of the increase in revenue derived from the increase in tuition fees is to be divided among the regular assistant staff, and that it is a matter of regret to the Committee that they have not greater resources at their command, I feel that nothing more need be said to justify the increase in tuition fees. The daily experiences of every homekeeper will fully explain the advances in boarding fees. Apart from these considerations, equipment and maintenance of buildings and grounds are making such demands upon revenue that the cost of education must necessarily increase greatly if schools are to be kept at a reasonably high standard of efficiency.

School work as a whole calls for no special comment. Steady work has been done all through the School, and sound progress has marked individual effort, with such variation in results as varying degrees of earnestness foreshadowed. Distinct advance has been made in the standard of work done in the junior and preparatory schools. The value of the work done here cannot be over-estimated; the freedom from strain and the happiness with which the pressure of advanced work is faced depend mainly upon the solid foundation laid in the earlier stages. This makes it increasingly desirable that boys should enter the School at an early age. Nothing is more prejudicial to our more advanced work than the strain upon all caused by efforts to adjust the work to meet the difficulties that must of necessity face boys who change their school surroundings at a late stage. I do not wish to offend any parent, but, in the best interests of the School as a whole, it is becoming increasingly necessary to examine critically applications for the admission of boys of advanced age. Modern methods of education appeal more and more to the disposition of boys to learn; compulsion on the part of teachers is less and less in evidence, and teachers feel that it is not obligatory upon them to use the compulsion of the kind prevalent a generation ago. It has been said that formerly the pupil prepared the lesson and recited it to the teacher, or, if he failed to do so, experienced considerable personal discomfort; that nowadays the teacher prepares the lesson, and recites it to the pupils, who hold him responsible for their assimilation of it. These methods have one serious weakening effect upon the pupil: he becomes altogether too dependant on his teacher, little inclined to seek out knowledge for himself, and unable to tread with determination the somewhat thorny path to any educational heights. The tendency on the part of parents and boys to look for "spoon-feeding" has grown so much recently as to cause grave concern to earnest teachers who feel that it must be resolutely combated.

This leads me to speak of a moral weakness in our school life which I can best define as a form of impatience that reveals itself in various ways. I myself am often impatient of results in my endeavours to push on backward boys, especially those who come from country districts where opportunities for education are few, so that the boy's mental development is far behind that of his body and general intelligence. Some parents are impatient of their boys' progress. In the early stages they are indulgent, and too readily make excuses for their boys, when they show distaste for the steady efforts on which alone sound progress depends. Later on, when they wake up to the fact that the years are passing without the development that should attend them, they become impatient, and expect results which are not reasonable. This is especially noticeable with those who enter at a late stage. It is, perhaps, hoped that a change of surroundings will correct the defects of early training. It rarely does so, rather otherwise. Then again, the quick boy, as well as his parents, is impatient at the suggestion that it is not always advisable in the interest of the development of body and personality, to advance so rapidly as mental endowments may allow. Many a precocious, undersized boy is losing much of the noblest results of education by reason of the very mental smartness of which the home circle are wont to be so proud. In his case the old adage relating haste to speed may well be quoted, if speed be applied to the capacity to hold one's own in the demands of later life upon the whole man. The results of this impatience give colour to the old reproach that the smart boy at school is the failure often of later life. These different forms of educational impatience have impressed me so much during the year, that I earnestly invite parents to consider with me whether in many cases we shall not do well to make haste somewhat more slowly.

H. Leader then gave his prize recitation, "Harmosan," in his best style, preparing the way for the fine address delivered by His Excellency the Governor, who has a way with him which wins our hearts.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S ADDRESS.

"I am only too delighted to come here to-day. Why do I say that? Because I regard this gathering as one of the most important of the year in South Australia. I say it also, as I recognise that Prince Alfred College and other public institutions like it provide a form of education which no other schools can." He went on to say that he had observed the Prince Alfred boys on the playing field, and he had realised that the school was teaching the boys what the game of life would really mean. He had observed that the senior boys, who were responsible for the instilling of the spirit of the school into the younger ones, were careful to do their duty. He mentioned an incident when he was playing on the Princes' ground. His wicketkeeper stumped Walsh, the Prince Alfred captain, before he had scored. It must have been a sore disappointment for the batsman, yet before going out he turned round and remarked, "Well stumped, sir!" If that current of sportsmanship prevailed through the school—and he believed it did—the boys were being thoroughly prepared to go out and take up their life to follow in the real spirit of the game. He had never seen a more sporting game than the conclusion of the match on the Adelaide Oval on Tuesday. Real doggedness was shown by the Prince Alfred boys, and he knew that although St. Peter's had won the match, the boys of that school felt that the honour of the game rested with the Prince Alfreds. (Loud applause.) The Prince boys had shown themselves to be extremely good sports. In the British meaning that term meant much. He asked boys who were about to leave to never let go the traditions of the school. In after years they would be able to regard the time spent within the sphere of the College as the happiest in their lives. There was a much bigger side, however. Australia was a fine young country, and it would need all the help that its educated men could give it. He asked the lads to say to themselves, "When I leave school I am going to do my best all through life for my side, and a bigger side still, and that is humanity as a whole." The Empire side was a fine one to belong to. Aspirations were admirable. The boys should determine to hitch their waggon to a star, but at the same time they should not forget that there were certain inevitable and immutable laws that could not be evaded. Yet those laws could be humanised to the greatest extent. There could be exercised a full spirit of fellow feeling, and a desire to always assist others which would make the inelastic laws work with the greatest smoothness. The boys were thoroughly well aware of what good leadership and good fellowship did for the school. He again asked them when they went from it to follow a similar course of love and leadership. He would like to speak to the parents present. He had heard the words of the Head Master when he had urged the need of more remuneration for teachers. He felt that such a man as Mr. Bayly would not have dwelt upon such a topic unless there was urgent need. In the hall were parents who were engaged in commerce. He asked them whether they did not endeavour to devise the best, and at the same time most economical means of turning their raw material into finished products. Then let them regard the school. Where could they find better raw material than that? (Here His Excellency paused, and pointed a forefinger at the lads before him). To cultivate such resources would add a thousand fold to the value of life in the State. (Applause). Then he asked parents to put their hands a little deeper into their pockets, and make up their minds that the convertors of the raw material of their sons into good and useful citizens, into active, healthy, and intelligent men, should be adequately remunerated for their work. (Loud applause). If the real value of the College was appreciated, there would be no financial shadow on the wall. There would be no worry about the difficulty of running the College. In all seriousness parents should consider the financial side of Prince Alfred, and at the earliest possible moment determine to act. He heartily congratulated the Head Master and his staff on the past year's record. In conclusion, His Excellency said he would give a bat to Walsh, as a memento of his splendid sportsmanship in connection with the Intercollegiate cricket match. The boys cheered the declaration heartily.

His Excellency then distributed the waiting prizes to the fortunate recipients in what must have been record time, for the hour of four was fast approaching. The president of the Old Scholars' Association, Mr. W. S. Kelly, in a happy speech, moved the vote of thanks, to which the Governor briefly replied. One or two unrehearsed school songs, and we had really "broken up."

Prize List.

Preparatory School.—Junior B: 1, N. F. Goss; 2, R. G. Miller Randle. Junior A: 1, M. E. Lawton; 2, B. M. Jolly; 3, K. L. Cowling; 4, R. F. West; 5, H. de J. Fiddian. Senior B: 1, M. W. McKay; 2, C. ## School Notes.

For the best original contributions to the Chronicle during the year, A. C. Harris has won the Head Master's prize for the senior school, and F. O. Miles Mr. Langley's prize for the junior school. Harris's poetic muse is pensively descriptive, while Miles, for a junior, shows a talent for prose of a high order. Amongst other contributors, M. T. Cockburn in verse, and L. Goldsmith in narrative prose, both show promise. The Chronicle hopes that next year the competition will be keener.

Many generous expressions of congratulation have reached this school on the splendid fight the team put up in the intercollegiate cricket match. His Excellency the Governor has been exceptionally kind in his remarks. We thank him heartily for showing his appreciation by his gift to N. A. Walsh, the captain, and we heartily congratulate Walsh upon the honour thus conferred upon him.

It has been decided that the Keith Swann Memorial shall take the form of a special silver medal, a design for which is in course of preparation. Heartiest congratulations to D. K. McKenzie, the first winner! His record is:—At school 1918-19-20; fifth boy in the school at end of 1920; ran in intercollegiate sports, 1920; played intercollegiate football, 1919 and 1920 (captain of team); member of debating society committee; manager of "Chronicle"; and captain of the school.

The response to the Head Master's appeal on behalf of the fund for restoring and maintaining Westminster Abbey was so good that ten guineas will be sent to the Dean of Westminster. At a time when so many influences are at work tending to throw contempt upon many of the stately institutions round which the best feelings of our national character have gathered, it is hoped that this expression of loyal affection on the part of schoolboys in this young community for the Abbey and all it stands for, will be timely and of some value.

The Prefects, as a parting gift, have presented two pictures to the school. One represents the interior of the Colosseum, the other the interior of the Church of St. Paul, at Rome, one of the stateliest examples of building on the pattern of the Roman basilica in existence. These gifts are greatly valued by their schoolfellows.

Dr. C. S. Mead, B.A., called to give the school a farewell chat on his work before leaving on his return to India. His visit was much appreciated; it gave us a very real idea of the noble work he is engaged upon, and we were able to understand the far-reaching effect it is likely to have on the downtrodden Nama Sudras in their struggle for better conditions of life. Few men have done nobler work for God and the Empire in India than he. Nothing could more splendidly support his call for volunteers in the same service than his own magnificent record.

The school congratulates E. A. Kayser on his success in singing, and V. J. Anderson on his success in elocution, at the last Ballarat competition.

On Armistice Day, Rev. A. E. Northey attended assembly as the representative of the local branch of the League of Nations Union. He gave an address to the School on the objects of the League, in which he drew attention to the horrors of war and the desirability of such understanding among nations as to obviate a repetition of them. He especially appealed for the interest of boys in this matter, as the success of all such endeavours lies mainly with them.

Two instructive lantern lectures were given in the schoolroom on Saturday evenings. Mr. Cook gave one on "Argentine and Peru," in which he showed the benefits of Protestant Christianity in elevating the lives of the people. His views were of unusual interest; they dealt with a part of the world whose people are little known to us. Rev. W. J. Eddy gave another on "The lepers of India." He explained how the area of the globe in which leprosy prevailed was being gradually reduced, and how the ignorance and superstition of the people made the difficulty of dealing with the disease so great in India.

Bishop Green, formerly of Ballarat, visited the School during his recent visit to Adelaide. He was a contemporary of Messrs. Sunter and Andrew Scott, two former masters of the School, at Trinity College, Melbourne University, and had heard so much of the School that he was anxious to see it. We greatly enjoyed his call.

The thanks of the school are due to Alan Barr for his splendid work in organising and supervising the rifle team which represented us at the Associated Rifle Matches. Mr. H. R. Adamson, to whose kindly interest our representation and success are mainly due, was untiring in his efforts on behalf of the teams. Without his support we should not have competed; no words are too strong to voice our appreciation of what he did. He was well supported by Mr. Arthur Hill and others, whose experience as riflemen was most helpful.

The Head Master bade farewell to Messrs. G. G. Wallace and F. R. Potts at the last assembly for the year. They thanked the school for the kind wishes expressed for their future success.

---

J. R. Hall received the merit badge for sports, football and tennis. C. W. Crompton received it for sports, football and cricket.

---

Old Boys.

We take the liberty of making the following extract from Mr. F. J. Mills' history of the Cheer-Up Society, which did such good work during and after the war. "Another zealous and valued worker was Mr. Lance Piper, who laboured in the Hut practically from its inception. He became an expert 'washer-up,' and in big stunts especially, Lance was always to be found hour after hour, among the little battalion at the wash-up trough, ever cheerful, and doing his bit with the utmost willingness. He was also an ardent worker on Button Days, and frequently represented the Hut at the Outer Harbour, in directing the returning soldiers, and giving them any assistance which might be of value."

---

A. E. Dawkins, B.Sc., has been awarded a research scholarship granted by the Commissioners of the 1851 Exhibition. He proposes to devote himself to research work in Chemistry at the University of London.

---

G. H. Randell, B.Sc., who has been for the past two years engaged in goldmining in the Malay States, called at the school during a flying visit to South Australia.

---

W. J. Manning has been elected President of the the Churches of Christ Conference, in succession to Rev. R. Harkness, B.A.

---

Rev. N. J. Cocks, M.A., who came from Sydney to address a meeting of the Australasian Student Christian movement at the University, called during his visit. A copy of some verses written by him at the suggestion of the Head Master will be found on another page. It is hoped that some Old Boy will set them suitably to music. They were written with this hope, and, if the right musical setting can be given them, will do fine service in our school life.

Leslie H. Haslam, I.L.B., has been appointed stipendiary magistrate at Mount Gambier.

---

Will Ashton, R.O.I., has been made President of the Arts Club of Sydney. His work is winning increasing fame in New South Wales.

---

R. A. Sanders won the championship of Elder, Smith, & Co.'s rifle club for 1920.

Dr. R. W. Cilento has resigned his appointment as demonstrator in anatomy at the University. He has accepted an appointment under the Government of the Malay States.

Dr. D. M. Steele captained the State cricket team in the matches against Victoria and New South Wales. We congratulate him on his fine score against Victoria.

J. Firmin Jenkins has been elected Mayor of Port Pirie.

Dr. F. S. Hone, B.A., has been elected a member of the Council of the University.

Among the appointments made recently by the Council of the University were Dr. H. S. Fry as lecturer in materia medica, Dr. B. Smeaton as tutor in surgery, Dr. A. K. Southwood as lecturer in general medicine, and Dr. L. W. Jeffries as demonstrator in anatomy.

Mr. Fred. Johnson, who entered in 1869, when the school was opened, and who has been for many years at Charters Towers, Queensland, called at the school on his way home from a trip to Europe. He was greatly interested in all he saw of the school of to-day, and his reminiscences of the school of his day were most interesting to hear.

E. A. A. Dunn won first prize for an essay on "The Security of the Nation." A competition was conducted by the Australian Industries Protection League. It attracted entrants from all parts of the Commonwealth, and the essays were adjudicated upon by Mr. Benjamin Hoare, of Melbourne.

Christian Union Notes.

The Christian Union work has been carried on throughout this term without any slackening, and at many of the meetings we have had record attendances. The work of the year has been very good, and we have had a year which has given us great scope for the intake of those things which are of the highest to which man strives to attain.

The Bible Circles have been carried on, and the book set for study, "Great Leaders," has been completed. Those who were in the Circles greatly benefited from the readings and talks at each meeting.

There is to be a camp in connection with the Union, together with the University students, at Port Noarlunga for one week, from

Dec. 10, until Dec. 17, and those who are going are looking forward to a happy time. We hope that this camp will be as successful as those previously held at Port Noarlunga.

Rev. Henry Howard came to us every Tuesday for the first four or five weeks of the term, and his series of addresses were the most helpful which we have heard at our meetings. His subject was centred about Prayer--its value, possibilities, and necessity in our lives. He made us understand why we pray, how to pray, when to pray, and we are deeply grateful to Mr. Howard for the time and thought which he has given us. Let us hope that we shall ever remember his teachings.

We were pleased to welcome Dr. James Johnston, M.A., at our next meeting, and his thorough knowledge of all Biblical studies, together with his fine mode of expression, made his talk with us extremely interesting and enlightening.

Rev. Eddy, a missionary from India, and a noble worker among the lepers there, addressed us, and we were given a helpful insight into the great work which is being carried out among these poor unfortunate people of the East. Mr. Eddy also delivered a lantern lecture in the schoolroom on the following Saturday night, and this was highly appreciated by all those who attended.

We were glad to have the company of the Rev. A. R. Edgerley at our following meeting, and many good thoughts, well worth remembering, were to be gleaned from his eloquent address. This was the first occasion on which Mr. Edgerley had addressed our Union, but we hope that he will come again when the opportunity affords itself.

Rev. Donald McNicoll was asked to come and speak to us at our last meeting of the year. He was asked to take as his subject, "Saul," as set forth in "Great Leaders." He told us the story of Saul, and expounded it in a way that could not have been done had this been left to circle discussion. We thank Mr. McNicoll for his kindness in being ever ready to come and help us at our meetings.

Melbourne Grammar School Match.

On Saturday, August 28, the first eighteen played their last football match, against a team from the Melbourne Grammar School, who were visiting St. Peters. As it was the last Saturday of the term, we were without the services of several of the better players, who had gone home.

There was a fair attendance of spectators, and the weather, although warm, was very favourable. A good game resulted, and we managed to keep the lead until the last quarter, when the Grammar School passed our score, and won by 22 points. Our opponents played with more dash than they did on the previous Thursday against Saints, and taken altogether their play was superior to ours. Our comparative failure in the last quarter was probably due to the slight amount of training that we had done the previous fortnight. The final scores were 9-5 to 5-7. Best Players :—M.G.S.—Smith, Wood, Richardson, Dogget, Walker, and Farrell. P.A.C.—L. and N. Walsh, Hall, McKenzie, Sims, Joyner, Williams, and Giffen. Goalkickers :—M.G.S.—Wood (4), Farrell (2), Wilson, Rennie, and Guthrie. P.A.C.—Walsh (4), and Giffen.

Saints extended an invitation to McKenzie and Hall to a dinner and theatre party they were giving the Grammar School team that night. Later N. and L. Walsh and Tiddy were invited, and we thank Saints for their kindness in having our School represented.

Visits of His Excellency the Governor.

On Friday, November 12, the school was honoured by a visit from His Excellency the Governor. We should have had this pleasure before, had he not been exceedingly busy since his arrival in South Australia.

His Excellency and party arrived at 2.30, and were welcomed by the Head Master, the President of the Conference (Rev. W. A. Potts), and several members of the House Committee, who conducted them on a tour of inspection through the school buildings. The whole school then assembled in the Big Schoolroom where the Governor's entrance was welcomed with the National Anthem and hearty cheers. The Head Master called upon the President to introduce His Excellency, who spoke a few words in response, and was kind enough to request a half-holiday for the school, a request greeted with boisterous delight. The Head Master then thanked His Excellency on behalf of the school, and the party left the room to the accompaniment of further cheering. It was unfortunate that the weather was so unfavourable, as His Excellency had hoped for a few hits at the nets before he left.

On the following Friday week, the First Eleven had the pleasure of playing a match against a team under the captaincy of His Excellency. The whole school was released to watch the match, and their applause added considerably to the pleasure derived from the game. During the play a panic was caused among the Princes in the field by the arrival of a policeman, and much helpful advice was tendered to Chapman, in whose direction he walked. Great relief was expressed when it was found that it was only the Governor's signature to some official document that was required.

His Excellency won the toss and decided to bat, he himself opening the innings for his side. On the first ball he was let off from a chance in slips, but after that he settled down to his scoring, and reached the unlucky number of 13 before being l.b.w. to a ball from McTaggart. Capt. Bennett made 62 before being run out, and Patterson reached 29 before he was bowled by McKay. The innings closed for 147. L. Walsh and Greenslade opened for P.A.C., and reached 31 and 34 respectively before retiring. McTaggart made 41 not out. The innings was declared closed at 5.30, by which time the score was 144.

Boxing.

The Boxing Class was carried on again this term under the able instruction of Mr. Pollock. There were fewer members this term than last, but nevertheless, some very good contests were witnessed.

Mr. Schlank, an old boy of the school, this term offered a gold medal for the best boxer in the class, and he kindly agreed to come out here and referee the contests.

The class was divided into two, a senior and a junior division.

There were eight entries for the senior and six for the junior competition. The winners of the divisions were Harbison, of the senior, and Eaton, of the junior. Some very good bouts were witnessed, especially in one semi-final senior. The boxers were A. K. Muirden and A. J. Harbison. After the allotted number of rounds had been fought, the referee, being unable to decide, called for another round, which was won by Harbison. In the junior division, Eaton stood out as the best boxer, although good performances were also put up by Bayly and McBride.

The results of the contest were:—Senior Division (winner to receive Mr. Schlank's gold medal).—A. L. Dawkins v. W. W. Kerr, won by Kerr; J. O. Pearce v. J. O'Cain, forfeit to O'Cain; A. S. Woods v. A. K. Muirden, won by Muirden; M. B. Dunstan v. A. T. Harbison, won by Harbison.

Semi-finals.—W. W. Kerr v. J. O'Cain, won by Kerr; A. T. Harbison v. A. K. Muirden, won by Harbison.

Final.—A. T. Harbison v. Kerr, won by Harbison.

Junior Division.—H. G. Eaton v. F. R. Metters, won by Eaton; A. J. McBride, v. J. A. Robertson, won by McBride; G. L. Bayly v. W. A. Read, won by Bayly.

Semi-finals.—H. G. Eaton v. G. L. Bayly, won by Eaton; A. J. McBride, a bye.

Final.—H. G. Eaton v. A. J. McBride, won by Eaton. The winner, in recognition of his good display, receives a medal from Mr. Pollock.

Boarders' Notes.

---

Once again we are favoured with the opportunity of giving to the outside world a few events and incidents from our supposed sheltered life. We have collected and here record a few incidents so that those less favoured than ourselves may participate to a slight extent in the joy of boarding-school life. Three or four boys left at the end of last term to take up their life's work, but others came along and filled the gaps. A great deal of work was done in the boarding-house in preparation for the public exams. Many used to start work, sometimes before the sun, and worked till sleep made work impossible, whilst others who judged their powers well thought that early-rising would do them no good, but harm. We hope the workers will reap a good harvest.

A lantern lecture was given by Rev. Eddy on the work in India among the lepers. His lecture was instructive and inspiring, and made us realise our great debt to the men who fight to keep down such a dreaded disease. During the closing weeks of the term, when the strain of examinations had eased, we had the good fortune to witness Shakespeare's plays. These have exerted a widespread influence amongst us, but more especially upon the literary inclined, of the Spenny Williams type. The more striking and dramatic parts of the plays have since been enacted several times, and have drawn forth considerable applause (?) and comment.

Several minor cricket matches have taken place during the term, and have been the means of calling out a great deal of enthusiasm. In the matches many comments from the spectators deplored the inability of most of the class bowlers to bowl one ball out of eight straight. The demon bowler in one of these matches is said to have clean bowled Tank. This seems unexplainable, and we shall refuse to believe that any bowler could dismiss such a consistent batsman. The annual match in which the Seniors play the Combined Dormitories, resulted in a win for the Seniors. Too much cannot be said in praise of Preston's wicketkeeping and the fielding of Dennis.

A number of well-known gentlemen who often are wont to look for outside amusement, have been noticed frequently to take walks for a certain purpose. From reports we gather that most of the excursions have been unsuccessful, although on some occasions excellent work has been done. Most of the seekers go east for some distance, whilst others take a more circuitous course and visit a neighbouring institution. The former are said to be the more fortunate.

In the presence of a large gathering of the unthoughtful and mob-like, a miniature buck-jumping show was recently held on the site of the second eleven wicket. The riding was carried out by the "townies," and was fair. Perhaps in future when a stray horse seeks our green pasture, the persons concerned in the last show will provide themselves with a less destructive amusement, to the betterment of all.

Darnley and Offa were accredited with marvellous resisting powers, in a conference some time back, in that they were able to stand in front of an open safe containing eatables, and keep their hands off. From what we know of these lads we deem this absolutely impossible, and we should be glad if the Murray moon would shed a little light upon the subject.

Again some inquisitive person would like the following answered:—

How long does a sprained ankle take to get right again?

What did the fire-extinguishers?
 What doesn't Spoggie know?
 What interests Chapman, senr., in church?

To those returning we would say "carry on," and we wish those departing from our midst all good fortune.

Annual Concert.

Experience has shown that the big schoolroom is unable to accommodate the large number of boys and friends of the School who wish to attend our concerts. It was therefore thought that something must be done, and those responsible had three alternatives: take the concert to a public hall, limit the attendance to boys, as was originally the case, or hold the performance on two separate occasions. As it was thought that the two former would detract from the significance of the concert, it was decided to adopt the last-named plan. Different tickets for the two nights, Friday, August 20th, and the following night, were printed, and day boys were allowed to come one night only. The result was a comfortably packed hall on each occasion, and two very pleasant evenings were spent.

Once again the talent shown was of a pleasing order, and Mr. Mutton and Miss Nicholls are to be congratulated upon the way in which the Prep. boys and the Third Form gave their items. We must also congratulate the remainder of the performers who combined to form a very enjoyable programme. The thanks of the School are extended to Miss Ethel Ridings (who, unfortunately, could not attend the second night, when her place was taken by Kayser) and Mr James Anderson, for so kindly helping to make the concert a success.

The programme was as follows:—Opening chorus, "Keep on Hurrying On" (C. Grey), Preps. and Third; piano selections, (a) "Venetian Songs," (b) "A Rag Melody," W. W. Todd; song, "Bathing (Longstaff), Senior Prep; concerted recitation, "Timothy," Junior Prep.; recitation, "The Porter's Holiday," I. P. Fiddian; trio, "Three Merry Sailormen" (Furber), Glover, Elford and Jaehne; recitation, "Come back to the Bush," McLeay; song, Miss Ethel Ridings; recitation, "The Hell Gate of Soissons (Kaufman), Mr. James Anderson; violin solo, "Minuet" (Beethoven), K. Reeves; songs, "Songs from Aesop" (Bevan), Junior Prep.; piano duet, "A Summer Ride," R. and G.

Pearson; song, "The Coster's Outing (Longstaffe), Third Form; recitation, "Jimmy" (G. Anderson), V. Anderson; song, "Ferryman Love," E. A. Kayser; recitation, A. E. Bennett; song, Miss Ethel Ridings; recitation, "Jack and Jill" (Spicer), Mr. James Anderson; trio, "Itallo de Lingo" (Cecil), Elford, Glover and Jaehne; song, "The Day Trip" (Cecil), Senior Prep.; dialogue, "Rather Stout," Cohen, Anderson, Cooper and Lees; unison song, "Mother Machree"; final chorus, Prep. and Third Form. "God Save the King."

Spring.

The Spring has come,
 The whole world shouts with glee;
 The birds seek home,
 And build within the tree;
 Old Mother Earth is decked in green,
 And colours fit to grace a queen.

The grasses nod,
 Brushed by the gentle breeze;
 They clothe the clod,
 Their mission but to please;
 And swallows, harbingers of spring,
 Flit ever round on gladsome wing.

The wattle yields
 Its drops of purest gold;
 The waving fields,
 Unharmed by winter's cold,
 Make glad the hearts of all the earth,
 And all the land to song gives birth.

Gymnastic Competition.

On Friday, December 3rd, the whole school, with the exception of the Prep., assembled in the gymnasium to witness the competition to decide the champion gymnast of the school, who is awarded a gold medal presented by the instructor, Mr. Bennett. There were six competitors, viz.—Chandler, S. Krantz, Lawrence, Magarey, Symons, and Taylor. Prior to the contest, the Head Master stated he would like to see a larger number competing in the future. With a school of over 400, there should be more than six entrants, especially as Mr. Bennett is a very capable instructor.

Altogether a very good display of gymnastics was given, and we congratulate the six fellows who took part on the way in which they did their work. The first piece of apparatus was the horizontal bar, in which Lawrence gained 37 marks out of a possible of 40, Magarey and Krantz obtained 36 and 33 marks respectively. On the rings Magarey gained a possible of 40, with Chandler and Taylor second and third with 38 and 37 respectively. During the progress of the competition on the rings, Miss Dreyer arrived with a party of returned wounded soldiers. These brave fellows were greeted with ringing cheers, and they took a lively interest in the competition. On the parallels Magarey was top with 38 out of 40, and Lawrence was second with 35. At the next piece of apparatus, the trapeze, Magarey was again first, obtaining 49 marks out of 50. Krantz gained 42, and Lawrence and Taylor each gained 41. On the low parallels Magarey gained 30 out of a possible 30, while Taylor was second with 29. It was on this piece of apparatus that the majority of the competitors showed the greatest weakness. The final marks out of a possible 200 were:—Magarey, 193; Taylor, 163; Lawrence, 160; Chandler, 146; Krantz, 142; and Symons, 118. We congratulate Magarey on his successful performance, which was indeed a very creditable one.

House Notes.

It was decided that a general survey of the doings of the Houses should be given in this issue, and that the plan of separate notes for each House should be suspended for the time. However, it may be said that each House is keeping a record of the successes of the House and its members. Therefore it behoves every fellow to attempt to make the record of his house as great as possible, for these records will be handed down to coming generations.

As the House system was not inaugurated until the second term, there were no House sports this year. In the football, which was not commenced until after the Intercollegiate, there was only sufficient time to enable each House to play four matches. The class of football exhibited was, on the whole, good, and the keeness displayed by the players was a credit to the House system. Owing to lack of time there were no second eighteen house matches. The result of the matches played showed that Colton had the best team, and they are to be congratulated on the good football they played. One feature of the matches was the umpiring, some fellows giving very good displays. With the exception of one or two games, satisfaction was given on every occasion. We should like to take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Grey for his careful attention to House football, as indeed he has given to all football connected with the school.

In the last term the House tennis was begun, and as in the football, each house had to play on four occasions. Again Colton, with N. Walsh and Jaehne as their players, came out top. The play all through the House matches was good.

There was no House cricket during the term, but this will commence in the first term next year, when the House system will have a greater significance. The whole school has entered into the new system with the greatest of enthusiasm, which augurs well for its success.

Cadet Notes.

This term's drill has finished the first half of this year, and leaves for many the short space of thirty-two hours to be completed before their Senior Cadet training is finished.

On the first whole day parade our company joined with that of St. Peters for a route march to Hazlewood Park. To make the march easy, it was done in short stages, and long spells were allowed at each halt. Singing was also encouraged to assist in keeping the step, and the value of a good song was soon realised by those in the ranks. Though these marches mean a long drill, they are much less wearying than the ordinary drill, and are at least a change from the usual routine.

Recently some members of the company, under the command of 2nd Lieut. Barr, and coached by Mr. Adamson, have practised shooting at the Fulham ranges, which were very kindly lent by Elder, Smith, & Co. The firing was done at 100, 200, and 300 yards, and some very creditable results were obtained. Webb and Balfour both scored 1 short of the maximum at 100 yards, and Gallasch was the best at 300 yards. From the results of this practice two teams were selected to compete for the Governor's Challenge Trophy.

The actual shooting was done on the Port Adelaide ranges on December 4th, and the better of our two teams obtained second place, being beaten by the Unley team by nine points. The other team was only three places behind them. This team was very successful at 300 yards, obtaining top place with a score of 185, compared with the 183 of the Unley team. Balfour obtained second highest score (32) at 200 yards, while Webb was placed in the individual contests over the same distance. Kemp, Balfour, Webb, Markey, Retallick, Adamson, Rundle and Collison comprised the first team, and each of these will receive a bronze medal as a reminder of the position they obtained. These results are very creditable, and it is to be hoped that the boys coming back will take a keen interest in shooting next year.

The Old School.

(By one who is leaving).

Full fifty years and one thou hast stood fair,
 Through all the seasons of Australia's clime;
 Thy stones, thy walls, thy lofty towers declare
 Thy steadfastness, thou warden of our prime!
 If thou could'st speak, what stories would'st thou tell
 Of classroom, or of pleasant playing-field,
 Of friendships firm, remembrances that dwell
 Within thy mind, with lips forever sealed!

Our life within thy walls must some day end,
 And time draws nigh when we shall have to part;
 Yet e'er I go, I speak to thee, my friend,
 For I am moved within my thankful heart.
 Proud am I to have served beneath thy rule,
 Mentor of youth, my ever-glorious school!

Debating Society Notes.

The 1920 session was concluded this term with two of the most successful meetings yet held. This is most encouraging, and shows that the society is no mean factor in school life. Although athletics and outdoor games hold such a prominent position, the ever-increasing interest which is being shown in literary work at school is highly commendable.

The mock trial was held on Saturday, October 2nd, and a most enjoyable meeting resulted. A. K. Ban, alias Ripem Upp, was charged with "pinching" one dozen bow ties, the property of Abee & Co., which were being exhibited in the All-Australian Peace Exhibition, 1920. Cooper and Hunter were the lawyers for the defence, and Elford and Markey prosecuted. Mr. F. R. Potts kindly consented to be judge, and Cockburn was clerk of court. H. Chapman, as the constable, showed what the arm of the law could do in times of distress. When the judge had taken his seat, the names and occupations of the "gentlemen or not" of the jury were called, viz.—Idoo Nowork (Labourer), Proff. Bumski (Hypnotist), Fusilucas Allabaloniac (his assistant), O. G. Wattastink (Perfume Manufacturer), M. I. Sogonist (Secretary Divorced Women's Home), Dubee Diffrent (Picture Actor), Skeatoff Kowiliski (Composer of "Abe my Boy!"), S. Quogger (a Harmless Pastime), B. Nanaskin (Slipper Producer), A. Donan Coyle (Dabbler in (Psychic Phenomena), Moses Isaac Eisenstein (Pawnbroker), U Littlepeach (Skirt Catcher). Elford stated briefly the case for the prosecution, and called upon Mr. Clarett Cup (Taylor), representative of Abee & Co., to give a clear statement of the loss of the ties. This witness was followed by Det. Uliah Eavesdropper (Crompton), who caused much mirth by his "disguising himself as a gentleman" in order to gain entrance to Ripem Upp's home. Miss Queenie Ann (Webb) came into the witness box sobbing fitfully, and declared accused to be a "faithless brute to women." She then tried hard to regain her lost love. (This was a most pathetic scene). After calling these three witnesses, the lawyers for defence stated their case, and in supporting it called Mr. Olesale Takemdown, owner of the Bowtahie and Boaterhat Co. (N. Walsh), but this witness got things mixed. The next witness was Rev. Lion Schwabb (Schuimann), and his assurance of the prisoner's good character was most convincing. The last witness was Glover, as Mr. Givem Upp, a retired diamond merchant, and uncle of the accused, who had made a present of some ties to his nephew. At this juncture much excitement was caused by the prisoner's attempting to escape, and by Mr. Givem Upp's "tearing into" Miss Queenie Ann. These incidents proved very humorous and diverting, but caused much uproar in the sanctity of the Court. The judge summed up very adequately, and showed the weaknesses and strong points of either side. On the return of the jury, the foreman announced to the breathless court the fatal verdict "Guilty." Groans and sighs mingled with shouts immediately followed. The judge passed the sentence as follows:—"The prisoner is debarred from wearing any bow ties at Intercollegiate matches or girls' hockey matches. The only condition under which the wearing of bow-ties is permissable is when accused goes mixed bathing." The full penalty of one hundred and fifty years was not imposed.

Our annual Mock Banquet was arranged for Saturday, 30th October, at 7.30 p.m. This was the best meeting of the session, and it was a fitting close to a most successful year. There were forty-two members present. The Head Master was in the chair. We had as guests Messrs. Shuttleworth and Miller, who represented the Old Boys' Association, and Mr. Davies, for the masters. Our thanks are due to the matron and Mr. Klose, who so kindly helped in providing the dining-room with flowers, and in preparing the room for us. The programme and toast list was:—"The King," Head Master. "God Save the King." "The School," Harris; responder, McKenzie. "The Society," Mr. Miller; responder, Cockburn. Pianoforte solo, Robertson. "The Masters," McLeay; responder, Mr. Davies. "The Old Boys," Cooper; responder, Mr. Shuttleworth. Violin solo, A. K. Barr. "The Teams," Hunter; responder, Jaehne. Recitation, McLeay. "Boys Leaving," Crompton; responder, Elford. Piano solo, Taylor. "The Ladies," Webb; responder, Schurmann. Chorus. The Head Master made a few remarks about the Society, and particularly about this meeting, and it was encouraging to learn that the speaking at this meeting was of a higher standard than had been reached at any previous meeting. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" brought the banquet to an end.

A ballot was taken on November 4, at a meeting held in the schoolroom, by those who had attended four meetings, to decide the recipients for Mr. W. D. Taylor's gifts. The result was that M. McLeay was voted best speaker for the year, and M. T. Cockburn most improved speaker.

To those who are returning next year, and upon whose shoulders will fall the pleasant task of bearing the name of the school in all her endeavours, we wish the best of good luck and success. To those whose school life is ending, we tender our best wishes for continued success in their new spheres of activity.

To VI.a.

In balmy, mild November,
 Some brainy students go
 Down to the Exhibition,
 To show folks what they know.
 But, for the brain-fagged scholars,
 The papers are too much;
 So after thirty minutes
 They smooth their ties and such.
 And, grinning most sublimely,
 They blandly take their leave;
 To Rundle Street they hasten,
 Where they can mope and grieve.
 So, though they miss a credit,
 And even lose a pass,
 They add to old Drake's millions,
 Do good old Six A Class.

Tennis Notes.

---

A great deal more interest has been shown during this last term in the tournaments, which have at last been finished.

Some very hard fought out games have been witnessed, and the following competitors are to be congratulated on winning the various events.—

Senior Championship:—Walsh, N. A., runner up, Jaehne.

Junior Championship:—James, W. R., runner up, Krantz, R.

"A" Grade Singles —Walsh, L. S., runner up, Jaehne.

"B" Grade Singles:—Crouch, runner up, Hobbs.

Handicap Doubles:—Walsh, L. S., and Harkness, runners up, Walsh, N. A., and Chapple.

---

Intercollegiate Tennis.

On Saturday, October 9th, we met Saints at tennis on the Adelaide Oval. The weather was very pleasant and there was a large number of spectators present.

Some very fine tennis was witnessed, and Jaehne and Hall are to be congratulated on their performances. Treloar and James both played well, but the Walsh brothers did not appear to be in form, their only success being that of L. Walsh in the championship single against Leaver. Both contestants seemed rather nervous and consequently did not play up to form.

The result was in doubt till very late in the match, but our rivals emerged victors by 8 rubbers to 7. The final scores were:—S.P.S.C.—8 rubbers, 20 sets, 160 games. P.A.C.—7 rubbers, 17 sets, 154 games.

RESULTS OF THE PLAY.

Singles:—Hall lost to Evans, 5-6, 3-6; Treloar beat Juttner, 3-6, 6-1, 6-0; James beat Verco, 6-0, 5-6, 6-1; L. Walsh beat Leaver, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4; N. Walsh lost to Gun, 6-2, 0-6, 3-6; Jaehne beat Lloyd 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles:—Jaehne and Hall beat Gun and Evans, 6-2, 6-5; Treloar and James lost to Leaver and Juttner, 2-6, 1-6; L. and N. Walsh lost to Lloyd and Verco, 3-6, 6-5, 3-6; L. and N. Walsh lost to Gun and Evans, 4-6, 0-6; Jaehne and Hall beat Leaver and Juttner, 6-5, 6-2; Treloar and James lost to Lloyd and Verco, 6-5,

CRITIQUE OF TENNIS TEAM.

Walsh, N. A.—Has not played up to last year's standard. Service still rather erratic. Has a fine volley and a good back hand.

Jaehne, H.E.—Most improved player of the team. Plays a steady and thoughtful game, good volleyer and has a fair back hand. Is to be congratulated on his Intercollegiate game.

Hall, J. R.—Much improved player, inclined to be inconsistent. Has a good forehand drive and a fair backhand.

Treloar, A. M.—Good steady player with plenty of dash. Has a good volley and a fine back hand drive.

James, W. R.—Has improved wonderfully of late. With a fair service and a good drive, should prove a great asset to next year's team.

Walsh, L. S. (Capt.)—Good fore hand drive, good back hand and volleyer. Not up to usual form in Intercollegiate. Plays a very steady game. Is to be congratulated on winning the School championship.

VI.U.

Once more we have arrived at the end of a year, and all the exams are over. The long sleepless nights and anxious days of breathless toil have ceased from worrying us, and all is peace. No longer need  $\sin \theta = \theta$ , or  $P. = W.A.H.!$  They can now equal beta or gamma or anything else and nobody cares.

We wish to congratulate James on his inclusion in the tennis, also Elford and Crompton for gaining their places in the Intercollegiate XI. We must not forget "Yank" in our congratulations for he has added yet another scalp to his belt by annexing the boxing championship, and incidentally, a couple of black eyes. "Glasso" also distinguished himself by topping the composition exam., but his masterpiece in this line is undoubtedly "The Ideals of a Public School Boy."

While discussing the period of a simple pendulum, we discovered a new coin—a half-crown bob. They seem to be very rare. Information has come to hand that the Physics paper would be rather long this year, comprising at least forty-six questions. So far as Chemistry and Biology tips were flying round in all "diways," some were even to be seen adorning the wall of the Biology room.

One fine morning the laboratory witnessed a catastrophe in which Billy Bunter played a prominent part, it proved afterwards to be only a "blind."

"Quietness" appears to be rather a tardy individual, we know one person who is continually waiting for him.

At the beginning of the term we were given a weight-lifting exhibition by a member of the form, which was unfortunately interrupted when the audience was held in breathless suspense.

Admiral Tom, the form musician, ably assisted by his company, have, since the exams, rendered musical selections in the lab. One performance was ended abruptly, and the worthy conductor was given a selection from "As You Like It." He didn't appear to like it, however.

To those about to assume felt hats and "guns" we wish the best of luck.

VI.A.

"Time waits for no man," and the fleeting years slip by with apparently ever increasing rapidity. It seems scarcely a term since, with the industry characteristic of VI.A., we plunged into the joys of this year's work, which, like the year itself, is nearly at an end.

Soon 1920 will be another milestone along life's varied course, to indicate that another 365 days have gone, never to return. Yet it is a milestone which, by its glorious significance, will eclipse many of its forerunners, for it marks the visit to these shores of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, whose charming personality endeared him to all loyal Australians, of whatever rank or station in life.

We have survived the trying ordeal of our public exams, but whether all survive the results of the said exams remains to be seen. Anyway, most of us, feeling we have done our best, with stoical resignation "Await alike the inevitable hour" that shall proclaim unto us the fruits of our labour.

Jaehne is our sole representative in the first eleven, but we feel that our honour is safe in his hands, and that he will crown a useful school career with a performance worthy to rank with his best. We wish him and any others who may be leaving the best of luck. Magarey has won the proud title of champion gymnast of the School; Webb has earned fame and "arf a quid" at the butts;

McLeay has gained notoriety as the orator of the year; and Leader is the first elocutionist of the day. Time, space, and modesty do not permit us to extend this list of celebrities, except to add the name of Matthews, the dux of our motley crew. We wonder if our Latin has worn too thin for any of us to "translate and explain the reference" in the following.—Nobis est alius Dux, qui nos a tergo ducit.

We are the stock of a good old place,
 A place that ne'er loses its name;
 From it her sons flock out into space,
 To win her eternal fame.
 Whether it be to a far-off land,
 Where shines a tropical sun,
 Or whether it be to an ice-bound strand,
 You'll hear of the fame they have won.

VI.B.

Let us call down the muse of prose to show us the hidden possibilities of Form Notes. Our heads, weary with toil, once more incline to catch the scarcely audible words uttered by that divine inspirer. This term began with a dark cloud ahead, namely, the Senior Public Exams. We struggled towards it with heavy sighs, cheered on by the thought of its silver lining. We passed through it, and came out with chastened looks, but with brows cleared of gloom.

There are not many of our worthy brothers leaving this year, but, to those that are, we give hearty wishes for a better time than they have had in our Chemical Society.

The Walsh twins must be heartily congratulated on the fine show they made in the Intercol. Burford and McKay also deserve special mention for the good work they did. Symons must also be congratulated on his Gym. work, also N. Walsh on winning the tennis championship, and Balfour on his shooting.

Our gold-mounted pugilist, Fat, has been displaying his art, much to our discomfort, but he has been defeated once or twice when he has been found asleep on the floor by the master.

There are rumours about that Teddy is abandoning his illustrious career at school, and entering the commercial world. On account of his reliability and industry he is bound to obtain the success which we all heartily wish him.

What is it under the desk that attracts Gaudy? Are any of his relations descended from ostriches?

VI.B. is a bonza class,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 In the Senior we will pass,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 We will always do our best,
 All of us will pass the test,
 And to luck we leave the rest,
 Dig it in VI.B.

VI.B. has some fine old sports,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 We have men of various sorts,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 In the class-room or the field,
 We fight on and never yield,
 Till our glory is revealed,
 Dig it in VI.B.

Sometimes we get tired of work,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 But you'll find we never shirk,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 Masters can on us rely,
 We will always this reply,
 "Until we're dead we'll ne'er say die,"
 Dig it in VI.B.

On our learning set a seal,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 Swallow knowledge as a meal,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 In the outer world will be
 Great men, who once learnt in thee,
 This is so, you wait and see,
 Dig it in VI.B.

This spirit will with us remain,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 In days of sunshine, days of rain,
 Dig it in VI.B.
 It is to us worth more than gold,
 'Twill make us strong, 'twill make us bold,
 And for our school allegiance hold,
 Dig it in VI.B.

 COMMERCIAL FORMS.

We congratulate R. S. Rhodes and R. W. Pearson on winning the dux prizes of VI.c. and V.c. In the cricket match against Saints we were worthily represented by W. J. Chapman and R. C. Giffen. The former held the fort twice, while "George's" innings in the second try was a marvel of endurance, in spite of pain. J. R. Hall battled splendidly in the tennis match, and played well in the doubles with Jaehne. Jack's inclusion in the tennis team won for him the Merit Badge. As Commercial Form Captain for 1920, Jack has been a great success. Adamson is to be congratulated on winning the gym. medal.

To all who are leaving we give our best wishes.

V.A.

The most important event this term was the inspection of the school by our State Governor. We had to wait quite a long time before His Excellency reached our room, but after all it was not surprising that he should reserve the best until last. This is not the first compliment that has been paid to us during the term. Surely we have outlived the bad reputation which rumour gave us most unjustly some months ago.

It has been a very busy term. We have needed little or no encouragement from masters, for everyone of us, excepting perhaps a dozen, has been a real glutton for work. Our exam. results, we hope, will prove that this is no idle boast. Cowling is dux of the form, followed closely by Glyde. We give them both a pat on the back.

Our form captain, Treloar, leaves school this year. We wish him, and any others of V.A. who are to join the ranks of Old Boys, every success in life. Gurner, whom we did not in the least suspect of such shrewdness, took ill just before the junior, and so escaped that ordeal. However, we hope that he is quite well again by this time.

Last of all, let us acknowledge the great debt which we owe to Shakespeare, and to the distinguished company which is staging some of his plays. Since the junior, we have spent many an interesting hour reading the immortal Englishman's ghost yarns and witches' tales, mad scenes and love stories. Better still, we have seen these represented on the stage. This ought to be made an annual affair; no one in V.A. would ever object. We'll post a copy of the "Chronicle" to "Allie Wilkan," and have this paragraph printed in red ink. That will bring him back if anything will.

V.B.

What! Form Notes again! Why, we've worked so hard that we didn't notice the year slip by. (Oh, my!!) But, now you mention it, our chaps do look a bit jaded, and a good holiday will oil the wheels for next year's run. Alan is suffering from brain-fag, and needs Slee-p. Sago's fingers have corns from too much writing of French vocabularies, and Casey's eyes are dimmed from over much looking on the white paper. So let us pack up our troubles in our old kit bag and smile as we depart humming our

SWAN SONG.

Wally Kerr's no cur! In the manly art
Of self-defence he can play his part.
" Archie" McTaggart is good with the ball,
He defeated his namesake, Sir Archie Weigall.
The goodly Godlee, with sun-kissed hair
And sky-blue eyes, delights the fair.
Top of V.B is chatterbox May,
O may he be top next year of V.A.
Cost what it may, Caust always will Keep a steady pace as he climbs life's hill.
" Good old Jeff" Playford in calm and in storm,
With the greatest success has skippered our form.
The push-back king, debonnair and slim,
Is Suddy, our good little champion at gym.
In his new flannel pants pants Wicks at the wicket,
He's full of his tricks and a sticker at cricket.
A brilliant footballer is Jackie Woods,
Like his Norwood dad, he delivers the goods.
A budding musician is Jimmy Delayin',
He charms all our hearts with his singin' and playin'.
After the Junior, our fair-haired " Mag"
Had to take a week off to get over brain-fag.
Never dastard in war, and in love never laggard,
Still waters run deep in old " Rider" Haggard.
A martyr to chemistry science is Woolly,
He blows himself up and collects himself coolly.
The adipose tissue of " Antaeus" Preston
Would make a soft pillow for tired head to rest on.
If you've money to " Lay son" I've a "Bob" to spend
On old " Fin" (Latin, fnis) who sits at the end.

U. IV.A.

We come once more to carol and sing in exultant notes of praise concerning our noble and illustrious form. Although we are not the highest form in the school, we claim to be as intelligent a collection of chaps as will be found anywhere, and we're not to be debarred from singing our own praises. We are inordinately proud, for have not Greeny and Hilly played on the oval? Have not Dido and Stodgy Dunn been seen lately taking their walks abroad in " long-uns?" Have not we at last discovered one who simply revels in working overtime? And didn't Kesting experiment very successfully with an explosive substance? And haven't we been keen on Shakespeare ever since we saw the little page girl in Hamlet? Truly a creditable record you will agree. And who are these bright youths? Well, here goes:—

A's for the form that we are all in;
B is for Bayly, and also Baldwin;
C is for Collison, resplendent with fun,

D is for Davidson, Duncar and Dunn ;
 E for the Evans, and Eaton forsooth,
 F is for Fricker, always telling the truth ;
 G is for Greig and Greenslade and Graves,
 H is for Harris, long at lessons he slaves ;
 I is for the room in which now we appear,
 J for the jokes which sometimes we hear ;
 K is for Kayser and also for Kesting,
 L for the lessons, so bright and int'resting (?) ;
 M is for Michell, and also McKay ;
 N is for Norswo:thy, who comes every day ;
 O is obedience, in which we don't fail ;
 P for one Pearson, not as slow as a snail ;
 Q for our quickness and Quality too,
 R is for Randall, who makes much ado ;
 S is for sports, at which all excel,
 T is for Taylor, who does everything well ;
 U is for us, the great Upper IV.A.,
 V for the victories we win every day ;
 W's for our Wilson, and also for Wundke,
 Neither at Sports are at all at all funky ;
 The last three letters are not so well known,
 So we'll chuck it up now, and give it a bone.

We offer heartiest congratulations to—Harris, Dux of form, and winner of Junior Elder Scholarship ; Hocking, Grasby Scholarship ; Greenslade and Hill, cricketers with Intercollegiate honours : Davidson, best gymnast in the form. To those who are leaving school, Hall, Dunn, Davidson, and Harkness, we wish the best of luck, long life, and happiness.

I. IV.A.

Hurrah ! Hurrah ! shout we :
 One more week and we shall be
 Out of the gates of P.A.C.
 No more Latin, no more French ;
 No more sitting on hard bench.

With the words form notes, a new hope begins to dawn in our miserable lives as the last term draws to a close, and we disperse to our homes in a very dejected manner, we don't think ! This term being shortened by the Prince of Wales week's holiday, it seems no time since the beginning of this period of strenuous toil.

We opened the term by welcoming some of the B-ites, and saying farewell to some of our own chaps. Hall came top in examinations this term, and we all compliment him on his good work as form captain. Since there are no less than nineteen prizes gained by us, we heartily congratulate Shepherd in coming first, and Weston a good second. We had a fair cricket team this term, under Captain Hurn, but were beaten twice by our rivals, Lower IV.B. (strength, not brains) ; but we came out victors against the Upper Thirds. We congratulate Waddy on winning the class gymnastic medal, and are sorry to see that Greenslade was not successful. This solid youth shows signs of making a splendid gymnast, and is especially smart at climbing the pole. Another distinction of which we are proud is that Paul won the neatness prize in the Junior School. Everyone is sorry to hear of Mocco's departure, and we wish him good luck in the world outside. Can anyone inform us whether it is growling or being growled at that gives Hippo brain fag? Our friends in the lower division inform us that:—The important industries of Africa are tropical forests, deciduous trees, and steppes; Kimberley in the Soudan is noted for pearlmining; and Khartoum is where Kitchener beat the "Bores."

We wish everybody a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

L. IV.B.

Everything comes to him who waits. "We" have waited, "they" have come. "We," the 39 young hopefuls of L. IV.B., have waited, and "they," the bonny holidays, have come. Someone once said that we had no "class consciousness." But we are conscious of many things: e.g., that papers have a habit of accumulating in our desks; that saltpetre grows in the north of the south of America; that we are clever, but not very clever. We are grateful for the holidays, if only for the reason that we leave our beloved geometry for a short time. Some of our class have even dreamed of Euclid. It seems a great shame that one mortal should be responsible for so much misery. "O that he had died young!" is the cry of L. IV.B. It is passing strange to us that studious "Slit," who has had so much practice in writing out theorems till after 5 o'clock, should not distinguish himself more in this subject of subjects.

Cricket has occupied our spare time this term. We congratulate the III.U. on twice defeating our team (theirs the victory, ours the glory). We had our revenge, however, in completely vanquishing L. IV.A.

During the term Mac and Joey's boots had a party, and as a result we welcome two "men" into our midst.

Though we did not figure conspicuously on the prize list, let us not forget to congratulate Rowe on topping the class this term, and Reid on being dux for the year. Barker gained the medal for gymnastics, while Cole upheld the honour of the form by coming a good second in the recitation competition.

At the end of our last drawing lesson, Mr. Ashton addressed the class, and some of us (for a time) thought seriously of taking his advice.

We are quite certain L. IV.B. has much material for future debating societies. We all knew "Pat" and "Hannibal" could hold the floor indefinitely, but we have to thank M. Ducray and his Civics lessons for bringing out such prominent speakers as Day, Barr, and Clarkson. Barr's speech on the "Morality of the Police" was "top-hole," and made one wonder how he came by all the inside information.

It is with regret we bid farewell to "Walla," our black-and-white artist, and "Mac," our canny Scot, and we wish them just as happy a time in their new surroundings.

Before saying adieu might we ask the following questions:—

- Why does Day ride in the "Desert"?
- Why do the small fry respect "Jumbo"?
- Who asked for a wuler and a wubber?
- Why does Packer attract the girls?
- Why does Barr buzz round the Beehive?
- Where does Waterford roam on Sunday evenings?

III.U.

Hooray! Hooray! The last term is nearly o'er,
 And all of us are glad to work no more.
 No more "stewing," no more cane;
 We shall be sorry to come back again (?)

J. K. M.

This term was marked by the greatest event in the history of III.U. All the class (including our Rhodes scholar) managed to get a sum (2 + 1) right.

We shall leave the other classes to describe how we vanquished them at cricket. Of course, we play cricket in two ways. J. K. M. obtained a "hat trick" in the last three exams., thus obtaining a bat. Example to you, D.B.

Questions we are asking:—

- Has anyone seen "Windy in a frolic"?
- When will he learn the five-finger scale?
- Do you go up in aeroplanes to get flies?
- Was our "scrutineer" injured?
- Do "metallurgists" make engines?
- Has anyone seen rats or mice stealing our pens? Or are they two-legged?

III.L.

Our first year in the Big School has come to an end, and we feel that we are quite grown up, and can regard with superior airs the little boys who live across the road. Once or twice during the term we have deigned to give them a little cricket practice, but our two great battles have been fought against the Upper Thirds, in one of which we gained the victory. Our cricket, we think, is improving, but we still do not have a full class practice every Tuesday, and as some of us hope to play, as the Firsts did, against Saints, some day, we want everybody out on the field on practice nights.

With regard to the year's work, all of us seem satisfied, and if anyone is feeling the prickings of a restless conscience, it is not revealed on his face. Ah! but wait! Perhaps it is not the year's work which accounts for the happy faces. What about that magic sentence, "The holidays are coming"? Now, you say, you know the reason for Slug's beautiful smile, and the Invisible Chorus's visible grin. There has been a great race for top place in the form, Kangaroo by mighty hops just managing to defeat Fido, who has been close behind him, yapping at his heels during the whole term. Of the other animals in the race, we need not speak, except to remark on the wonderful fact that the Snail beat the Goat.

There have been two removals during the term. Horatius, our mighty man, proved too dangerous, and J. H. S., our humorist (?) proved too funny, so they were removed to the front row. K. F. C. is still thinking, and his thought about pearl mines has been repeated by two other unconscious humorists. A half holiday turned up once, but we endured that interruption with smiling faces.

In conclusion, we should like to express our thanks to White for his efficient and painstaking services as Form Captain, and to congratulate him on winning the George Davies Memorial Prize, and to wish everybody, including ourselves, happy Christmas holidays and a joyful return to the best school of all.

Prep. Notes.

Early in the year the Prep. was divided into two houses, and the arrangement has led to some very spirited contests in Football, Cricket, and Athletics. The houses are called respectively Chapple and Robertson, the former after the Head Master of the College at the time when the Prep. was inaugurated, and the latter after the first master in charge of the Prep.

It is interesting to recall that the Prep. began just 10 years ago, with 23 boys, whose names are:—K. F. Richardson, M. McNeil, E. A. Good, A. E. Hill, R. G. Brice, K. E. Cornish, A. V. F. Buckland, N. K. Chennell, F. D. Jackman, W. F. Cooper, J. W.

Bullock, C. T. Piper, S. T. Flint, C. E. N. Lucas, G. R. Cowell, G. R. Rooney, F. Macrow, R. Macrow, H. R. Barlow, N. E. Lade, A. S. Booth, S. Krantz, and R. Krantz. Of these only the first thirteen were at the beginning of the Prep. on Jan. 31, 1911, the others coming later on in the year. The numbers have now reached 92. The divisions for cricket are as follow:—

CHAPPLE HOUSE :—Firsts—H. T. Webb (Capt.), R. H. Dunstan, S. J. Torr, R. H. Toms, R. C. Fleming, J. M. McEwan, G. F. Pearson, L. R. Badcock, D. W. Gilmour, N. T. Todd, R. S. Abotomey, R. B. Lees, F. H. Jackett, W. H. Jemison, C. M. Bennett. Seconds—A. B. Wallace (Capt.), R. H. Fox, N. H. Arnold, M. W. McKay, F. J. Cockington, B. Jolly, C. F. Chapple, N. W. Bayly, G. N. Mitchell, E. A. Kesting, H. R. Adamson, F. D. Hay, R. L. Whitham, T. R. Lloyd, H. E. Cohen. Thirds—R. D. Langsford (Capt.), J. J. Hume, H. M. Adamson, B. B. Adamson, R. F. West, L. R. West, F. A. Gray, H. Fiddian, N. G. Kesting, H. J. Goldman, N. F. Goss, R. Sudholz, R. Brown, T. H. Jackett, H. H. Tanner, S. D. Lade.

ROBERTSON HOUSE :—Firsts—J. R. Marshall (Capt.), L. B. Cooper, R. G. Cleland, R. A. Garland, A. J. Day, L. Lawrence, D. A. Schlank, L. Schlank, C. B. Smith, B. H. Slatter, L. Cowan, V. R. Nimmo, J. C. Reynolds, D. Heywood-Smith, F. C. Hassell. Seconds—W. Gerrard (Capt.), D. N. Webb, W. J. Richardson, C. Eaton, K. Hunter, R. Hunter, J. D. Clark, C. Freeman, R. Harvey, T. Taylor, H. W. Herbert, A. Michaelides, K. L. Cowling, V. Anderson, R. McMichael. Thirds—D. S. Riceman (Capt.), R. Slatter, M. Lawton, C. H. Tasker, A. C. Gibson, L. Solomon, E. Caspers, A. Melville, L. G. Springhall, A. Lewis, A. Weidenhofer, R. M. Randle, G. R. Harvey, E. S. Saunders, N. H. Sutton, R. Baker.

On Wednesday, November 30, Mr. Mutton kindly gave us a whole holiday instead of a half. We (Senior As only, and those of Senior B who were in the first house teams) went up to Belair to play the finals of the house match. John Day's father, who is the traffic manager, put on a special carriage for us, a sleeper, at reduced rates. The Chapple House batted first, scoring 47 runs. Garland 2 wkts., Marshall 6 wkts., Cooper 2 wkts. Robertson House then batted, scoring 99 runs; Badcock 5 wkts., Webb 5 wkts. Second Innings, Chapple House scored 51; Garland 6 wkts., Cleland 1 wkt., Marshall 3 wkts. This finished the match for the picnic, as we had to go for the train. We all had a most enjoyable time, and hope to go again.

The annual cricket match was played in October. The Saints in their first innings made 112, and 68 in their second innings. In our first innings we made 72, and in our second, 50. So the Blues won by 58 runs. We all congratulate Webb on making 20, which was top score. Webb also captured five wickets. We were represented by the team as follows:—H. T. Webb, J. R. Marshall, J. C. Reynolds, J. M. McEwan, L. B. Cooper, S. J. Torr, R. A. Garland, R. C. Fleming, L. R. Badcock, R. G. Cleland, and G. F. Pearson.

P.A.C. Prep. played Pulteney Street in fine weather. They won the toss and decided to bat. Wilcher faced the bowling of Webb. Garland took 4 wickets, Webb took 5. Pulteney Street made 32, to which we replied with 67, of which Webb made 31, Garland 13. These lads deserve our heartiest congratulations.

In the inter-house contests Robertson House have been victorious in football, athletics, and cricket, but certainly have not had things all their own way. They met with strong and spirited competition at every turn.

PREP. ADVERTISEMENTS.

Wanted.—Anti-fat for late-excused boys at Prep.; loss-proof balls for Prep. cricketers; wire netting, 500 feet high, to enclose Prep. grounds; an aquarium for the Toad and the Crab; soap in large quantities.

For Sale.—Superfluous fat, silkworms, tadpoles and blots, ducks' eggs, bats that won't hit sixers, fat boys suitable for rollers, tongues and talking machines.

Persons Wanted.—Attendants for animals, must be used to silkworms; nursemaids for some overgrown Prep. babies; some good sports to take the place of those going to the Big School next year.

A is for Anderson, a poet is he,
 Also for Adamson, and small Abotomey;
 Bennet and Bayly and Badcock are B's;
 Cohen, so plump, is the first of the C's,
 Then Cowan, a boarder, and Cooper so smart,
 With Cleland, the catcher, and happy Joe Clark;
 Dunstan and Day are an honour to D;
 There's nobody here whose name starts with an E.
 Fleming, the prefect, and Freeman are F;
 Gilmour is G, and Garland bats "left";
 H is for Hassell and Herbert and Hay.
 And Harvey; but Jemison sure is a J;
 K is for Kesting we never can tease;
 L is for Lawrence, for Lloyd, and for Lees;
 Marshall, McEwan, and Mitchell are M's;
 N is for Nimmo, whose homework wins tens;
 P is for Pearson, better known as the Grub,
 The boarder who won't come out of the tub;
 S is for Schlank, and also for Slatter,
 Likewise the Smiths—D. H. is the fatter;
 T stands for Taylor, Toms, Todd, and Torr;
 Witham and Webb—but there aren't any more.

Intercollegiate Cricket.

This year the annual cricket match began on Saturday, Dec. 4, and continued on the following Monday and Tuesday. Ours was a young team, only four having played on the oval before, and as such they are to be commended for the great fight they made. The play of our fellows was marked by two outstanding features; first, the comparatively low total of 128 in their first innings, and second, the remarkable way in which they dismissed eight of Saints' batsmen when Saints required only 81 to win. The finish of the match was perhaps the most exciting ever witnessed in an Intercollegiate contest.

FIRST DAY.

Boucaut won the toss; Leaver and Gun opened to N. Walsh and Jaehne. The former batsmen had made 11 when he was caught behind by L. Walsh off Jaehne. Wald took his place, but when he had reached 13 he hit one back to Jaehne, and Lee came in. The last named had made 4 when he was caught at second slip by Crompton off McKay, who had replaced Walsh. B. H. Bednall was the next man in, and with Gun, who had made 3 in 35 minutes, the total was brought to 101 at luncheon adjournment. These two batsmen on resuming proved a valuable partnership for Saints, and it was not until the score stood at 171 that Bednall skied a ball from Crompton to McTaggart. 4-64-171. Pridmore followed, and during this partnership Gun reached his century, which was made in  $3\frac{1}{4}$  hours. When Pridmore was 48, he was run out as a result of smart fielding by Giffen. 5-48-291. Evans came next, but was out l.b.w. to McTaggart without scoring. Boucaut followed, but was out first ball in a like manner, and M. W. Bednall came in. In the next over Gun gave McTaggart a chance off Giffen, and it was taken. Gun had made 144, a record for Saints, and we congratulate him on his performance. Wainwright took his place, and the batting became brisker. Bednall hit the first six of the day off Giffen. Wainwright was smartly caught off the same bowler by Elford. Bagshaw was the last man in, and with Bednall he brought the score to 334, when the latter was run out. Bednall had made 24, and Bagshaw was 12, the latter had also hit a six off Giffen. Taken on the whole, our fielding was good.

With ten minutes to go, Greenslade and Chapman opened for us against the bowling of Leaver and Pridmore, who had one over each. When stumps were drawn the score was 0 for 7, Greenslade 2 and Chapman 5.

SECOND DAY.

Rain was falling at noon on Monday, and the wicket was inspected by the captains and umpires. It was decided to commence play at 1 p.m. if the rain held off. Promptly at that hour the respective representatives filed into the oval. The softening of the turf slightly helped the bowlers. Greenslade and Chapman resumed the innings for Princes against the bowling of Gun and Pridmore. With the last ball of Gun's second over, Greenslade was caught in the slips by Wald, and retired for 8. Bagshaw was given a turn with the ball, and L. Walsh, who had taken Greenslades place, drove the first ball for four, and eight was scored off the over. At lunch, the score was 1 for 32. Chapman 12 not out, Walsh 11 not out.

Fifteen minutes after the resumption of play, Chapman was run out by a smart return. Cheers, loud and long, were given when Jaehne took his stand at the wickets, but off Bagshaw's first ball he was caught by Wainwright at square leg. Our captain, N. Walsh, joined his brother, but Leaver separated them after 3 had been added to the score, N. Walsh having made 1, being caught and bowled. Giffen followed Walsh, and survived Wainwright's medium leg breaks, blocking each ball. After making 11 useful runs, he was stumped by Evans. L. Walsh was still carrying the score higher, and when 29, he quickly rose to 40 by scoring 11 off Gun's over. However, this batsman, after amassing 43 runs in 1½ hrs. at the wickets, was caught by M. Bednall off Leaver. McTaggart, who was shaping well, had bad luck in being given out l.b.w. to Pridmore when 6. 7-6-94. Crompton with Ellford brought the century up after 2 hours' play. Soon after Crompton was bowled by Pridmore. He had made 20, which was next to top score in our first innings. The remaining batsmen brought the score to 128, when Burford was run out by a good throw-in from Pridmore. McKay, 6, was not out.

We had to follow on, and at five minutes to 5, Jaehne and Chapman began Prince's second innings. Jaehne got to work quickly, and Wainwright's first over yielded more than had been hit off him during the preceding innings. Chapman played a very quiet game, and, under the circumstances, a very wise game. At "stumps" the score was Jaehne 41 not out, Chapman 16 not out; total (for no wickets), 64.

THIRD DAY'S PLAY.

We were expecting great things when Jaehne and Chapman resumed their innings. Our expectations were realised, and hopes ran high as the score mounted up, and 100 was posted without the loss of a wicket. Jaehne was playing splendid cricket, and Chapman was supporting him in a most praiseworthy fashion. Twelve runs were scored off Pridmore's over by Jaehne, and Chapman added slowly to his score. At 117 Boucaut bowled from the south end, while Bagshaw went on at the other end. He brought about a dissolution of the partnership when Jaehne lifted one to mid-off, where Wainwright made a sure catch. The retiring batsman had made 85 in excellent style. The score now was 122 for the loss of one wicket. L. S. Walsh was next man in, but after 6 runs had been added, Chapman's long and useful innings came to an end. His 34 was a most valuable contribution. Greenslade only remained long enough to equal his last score, when he was caught at mid-on off Pridmore.

After lunch, N. Walsh joined his brother, but had only scored 3 runs when he potted one to square-leg, which was accepted by Wainwright. 4-3-178.

Crompton, the newcomer, survived one ball, but was then stumped by Evans before he had scored. Walsh reached his 50 after 75 minutes' batting, and by hitting a fine 4 to the leg boundary our combined score was equal to that of Saints' first innings. Walsh then hit freely, and gave a splendid exhibition, but at 84 he was caught by B. N. Bednall in the deep field. His partnership with Giffen had yielded 54 runs for the sixth wicket.

McTaggart followed L. Walsh, but added only 9 when he was caught by Pridmore off Gun. A few minutes before afternoon tea, Elford was clean bowled by Leaver for 7. Eight wickets were down for 264.

Burford made 6 and was then caught and bowled by Leaver. McKay and Giffen, who was plodding along solidly, were left to complete Prince's innings, which was brought to 286, when McKay was given out leg before.

St. Peter's had to make 81 runs to win, and at 4.55 p.m. Leaver and Bagshaw opened their second innings.

Elford was conspicuous at point in stopping several fast shots from Leaver, and the other members of the team were exceptionally alert. Bagshaw was the first to go, being caught in the slips by Crompton, off Walsh. 1-6-19.

M. Bednall came to the wickets to see Leaver hit his wicket in playing back to Jaehne. Five runs later Bednall was clean bowled by Walsh, and excitement ran high. 3-1-24.

Lee and Wald were now at the wickets, but the former, after hitting a 4 off Jaehne, was bowled by a beautiful ball from Walsh. Everyone was now in a state of high nervous tension. Could we win? Certainly things looked brighter when Gun, the hope of his side, was bowled by Jaehne, and the score stood at 6-6-52.

Boucalt joined Wald, but the latter, after making 21, was given out l.b.w. to Jaehne. Seven wickets down for 55. The effect on the batsmen at this stage was almost appalling, and the nervousness of all—players and spectators alike—was terrific.

Pridmore and B. N. Bednall each made 2, and were then run out through mistaken calls and keen and accurate fielding. Boucaut was playing cautiously, and Wainwright helped the score to creep gradually upwards. McKay was given a try in place of Walsh, who needed a rest, and 8 were registered from his over. Three were wanted to win; at last a 2—a tie! Then the run that won the match for Saints was scored from Wainwright's bat.

Saints won the match by 2 wickets and 1 run, and deserve congratulations upon their victory. But none the less is the glory of our men, for with their exceptionally smart and accurate fielding throughout, their success in the second innings, and, last but not least, their wonderful struggle and uphill fight in the Saints' second innings, won for the team generous recognition from their rivals and the unstinted praise and admiration of their supporters. All lovers of the grand old game of cricket had a royal time watching the match of 1920, which will always be remembered for its surprises and unexpected changes of fortune. Luck, skill, and pluck all did their part to make the match one of the most memorable on record.

The Intercollegiate cricket match of 1920 will long be remembered by those who had the good luck to see the varying fortunes of the game from start to finish. The moderate start of the St. Peters team in their first innings, the long stands of 135 and 120 for the fourth and fifth wickets by Gun, Bednall, and Pridmore, and their comparative collapse at the end of the innings made the day's play interesting, and at times exciting. The second day saw our low first innings score on a wicket rendered uncertain by the rain which fell almost continuously during the morning, and then the invaluable stand for the first wicket of our second innings by Jaehne and Chapman. The third day saw the finish of that partnership of 122 runs for the first wicket—probably the second best first wicket score in intercollegiate matches—and L. Walsh's vigorous innings, all this was but the prelude to the excitement of the last innings. 81 to make to win on a good wicket seemed a light task, and one for 19 was not a bad start. The average for the first wicket for the last 10 years has been only 13, and on 3 occasions only has more than 30 runs been scored before a wicket fell—but 8 for 61 meant that our rivals were in a very tight place, and we shall not soon forget the alternations of complete silence and vociferous cheering as the score gradually crept up through the sixties, and then more slowly through the seventies, until the game was saved by St. Peters, and the winning hit relieved the tension of players and spectators alike.

This reminds us of other exciting finishes in intercollegiate matches. The first I remember was in 1907; we batted first for a score of 275 (Willsmore 74, D. Steele 74). Saints replied with 139, and in our second innings 184 runs were scored, leaving Saints the formidable task of making 321 runs to win. At first the wickets fell fairly rapidly, and 4 were down for 63, then 5 for 102; then came two big partnerships, Robertson and Warren, and Robertson and Hutchins, for the sixth and seventh wickets, so that with 3 wickets in hand, only 50 runs were wanted. Sir George LeHunte, who was then Governor, was always keenly interested in the matches, and on this occasion had to leave the ground when the issue seemed doubtful, to attend the University Commemoration, and his first question after leaving the Elder Hall was "Who won the match?" The last three wickets had fallen cheaply, and we had won by 30 runs.

The following year we had again an exciting finish in a low scoring match. Saint Peters made 82 in their first innings, and we made 159. Our lead of 77 seemed good at the start of Saint's second innings, but infinitely better when they lost 7 wickets in wiping it off, but a good recovery for the last 3 wickets left us with 115 to make to win. The start was disastrous, Ken Steele was out at 4, and Don at 18. Willsmore, who was badly missed when 2, and Magarey carried the score to 33, when Badger went on to bowl. His first ball bowled Magarey, the second Graves, and the third Willcox; the score changed from 2 for 33 to 5 for 33 in less than 5 minutes, and things began to look serious for us. Thomson scored off the first ball he received from Badger, and our run of disaster ended. Every ball was watched with the same interest as on December 7, and every run cheered. The score slowly increased, but until 50 runs had been added by Willsmore and Thomson, some of us preferred to have the game reported to seeing it for ourselves. The end of the match soon came after those 50 had been scored, as both batsmen hit out, and we won without further loss.

After these two good finishes, easy wins were the rule for the next six years, then came the match of 1915, which we remember as Sammy Plush's match. Plush, a slow leg-break bowler, was the hero of the match in bowling and in batting. Saints batted first, and made 214, Plush getting 9 wickets for 71, and our first innings yielded 156, so that we were 58 runs to the bad. Most of the St. Peter's batsmen were afraid of Plush's bowling in the second innings—he got 6 wickets for 20 runs off 14 overs, and the score was only 125. This left us 184 to win in the last innings, the start of which inspired us with but little hope. Robinson was caught in the slips in the first over, and Hone l.b.w. in the second, 2 for 2. The next wicket soon fell, and 3 for 16 was the score with 1½ hours left to bat. Swann and Prest, by patient batting, gradually increased the score and our hopes, and when stumps were drawn we were in a good position, 3 for 105. Disaster soon came on the last day; Swann was out at 114. After a brief stand by Prest and Gray, the wickets began to fall, and the match became exciting. Three wickets fell for only 8 runs, and in the opinion of many the match was virtually over when Plush, not a great batsman, went in. He showed no sign of nervousness, and went for the bowling. Hill-Smith, who had bowled six consecutive maidens for 2 wickets, was taken off, and we appreciated the change. Gradually the score mounted until we had but 16 to make. Three fours by Plush off one bowler, and the rest by Alan White off the next over brought to a finish the match in which, until this year, the fortunes had varied most, as in the last innings each team seemed to have the match in hand twice at least. In these three matches we had the added satisfaction of winning, so that we cannot grudge our rivals a close finish and a win to gild it.

The Reading Room.

It is a Saturday night in the second term, and outside the rain pours unceasingly down. A cold wind is blowing across the playing ground, and strikes the front of the College with an icy blast. Tea is over, and the boarders, shivering with cold, scatter themselves about the building as their habits decide. A few go outside to see what the weather is like, but the cold wind soon drives them inside. They wander aimlessly about the building for a while, but are unable to find any warm and comfortable place. The cold class-rooms offer no cosy corner, and eventually they wander into the reading room. Here a big fire is blazing, and scattered about the room in easy attitudes are a number of boys who have found refuge here. The whole scene suggests comfort and homeliness. In all seasons of the year, hot or cold, the reading room is the main meeting place for the boarders.

During this year, and especially this term, there has been quite a number of acquisitions to the shelves. At the end of last year, the prefects donated a set of Scott's novels, consisting of fifteen volumes. These came into use this year, and have been much appreciated. In the middle of the last term Mr. Haslam very kindly gave us a complete set of Dicken's works, comprising twenty volumes in brown leather binding, and with excellent engravings. Mr. Grey also donated a very fine set of twenty-one of the most famous novels. The greater part of these, although they have not been in use long, have been read with a good deal of enthusiasm by most of the boys. Mr. Grey also gave us a complete set of four volumes of the Encyclopedia of Sports and Games. Needless to say, these books have been perused with even greater interest than the novels. Towards the end of the term we received from Mr. Langley four volumes of a work, entitled "Leaders and Landmarks in European History," which should prove useful as well as interesting. At the end of the second term the shelves were strengthened, and a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica, which had been lying aside for some time, added. This has been found very useful by many of the senior boys, for the other Encyclopedias were becoming worn out, and were not so full of detail. Twenty-seven books of the series, "Common Commodities and Industries," and a copy of the History of the Ancient World, have also been acquired.

A considerable portion of the money obtained from the concert has also been put aside to replenish the supply of novels available for circulation. This section of the library has been for some time needing attention, as all the good books have been read to pieces, leaving only the uninteresting ones. We have to thank Mr. Langley for lately donating four very interesting novels to this part.

Owing to the large increase in the numbers of the boarding house during these last few years, the reading room has been somewhat overcrowded at times. The morning scramble for the newspapers has been one of the events of the day for many. The more fortunate of the contestants are able to lie on the paper, while less fortunate ones, much to the others' disgust, have to lie on top. Now that a scheme is on foot for the building of some new rooms, it is intended to turn one of the class rooms into a new library. There will then, it is hoped, be plenty of room for all the fellows to be accommodated. The Old Scholars' Masonic Lodge has, for several years, been putting aside a sum of money each year for the furnishing and decorating of this room. When the room comes into use, there will be a great demand for books, and we hope that many will follow the generous example of the masters. The value of a good reading room to a school is inestimable.

Shakespeare.

Quite recently within our midst we have been treated to an educational banquet—a table set with some of Shakespeare's dainties. What a hold Shakespeare has upon the English-speaking race! Other nations too join us in singing his praises. This latter fact alone should leave with us no doubt as to his greatness.

Possessed of an extensive vocabulary and wonderful insight, he deals most skilfully with all our human passions and vices. Shylock is the personification of greed and hate, Cordelia of filial affection, Hamlet of weakness. It is the reality with which he writes that makes his work so lasting. Our daily speech is full of pithy passages culled from his rich store, and many a catch phrase is used by those who know but little of its origin. To mention it brings to mind passages too numerous to mention. Can we then wonder that he is the crowned king of English Literature, perhaps of the world's?

Much controversy concerning Shakespeare has taken place, but few are they who believe the name Shakespeare was a nom-de-plume. The annual display at Stratford-on-Avon bears witness to the hold that Shakespeare has upon the English nation, and to the belief that he was the real author of the plays.

Built upon plots which are not quite original, he yet puts into them that subtle something, which gives to an otherwise obscure tale enduring fame. Each plot is as some base metal, which the poet-chemist can turn to precious gold. What do we not owe to the actor-poet, who, though his path was not always rosy, proved that "Sweet are the uses of adversity?"

CRITIQUE OF CRICKET TEAM.

(By the Captain.)

Burford, K. O.—A batsman with a very unorthodox style, playing with a cross bat. Cuts and leg-drives well; Should develop into a useful run-getter. Fields well at cover, and can bowl a fair ball.

Chapman, W.—Steady bat with a good defence, who will do much better as he acquires more strokes. Fair change bowler; fields well at third man. Is to be congratulated on his batting in the Oval match.

Elford, H. S.—Has fine strokes, but too nervous to utilise them. Useful slow change bowler. Good field.

Crompton, C. W.—A much improved and promising cricketer. Is a good batsman, with well-timed strokes all round the wicket. Slow leg-break bowler; his length is erratic, making him expensive.

Giffen, R. C.—A good batsman, who can generally be relied on. Cuts well, and has a good defence. Bowls a good slow ball, with only a fair length. Splendid field, very accurate in throwing to wicket.

Greenslade L. E.—Has improved considerably. Hits freely, scoring all round the wicket. A brilliant field.

Jaehne, H. E. (Vice-captain)—The best all-round man in the team. Very good bat, with strokes all round the wicket. Left-hand bowler, who swings with a new ball. Excellent field.

McKay, D. G.—Has plenty of cricket in him; shows promise of becoming a good bat. Bowls a fair ball, making pace off the wicket. Fine field.

McTaggart, A. M.—Is steadily improving. Has a rather stiff style, and could use his reach and feet to more advantage. As a bowler, has met with a fair measure of success. Fair field.

Walsh, L. S.—Good batsman; hits freely, scoring all round the wicket. Is to be congratulated on his two fine innings on the Oval. Fine wicket-keeper, taking the ball on both sides of the wicket. Has been a great asset to the team.

(By the vice-captain.)

Walsh, N. A. (Captain)—Fast right-arm bowler, swings with a new ball; very dangerous on a wet wicket. Good bat, with a variety of strokes; hits hard, and at times well. Has captained his team well, and deserves more success than he has gained. He is to be congratulated on his excellent bowling in the second innings of the Oval Match.

Prince Alfred Collegians' Lodge.

The Installation of Bro. P. E. Johnstone, S.W., as Worshipful Master of Prince Alfred Collegians' Lodge, in the Freemasons' Hall, Flinders Street, Adelaide, on Friday evening, October 1, was attended by a large and representative gathering. A pleasing feature was the large attendance of visiting Worshipful Masters and Past Masters. No doubt this was a tribute to the popularity of the retiring Worshipful Master (W. Bro. E. J. N. Fisher) and also to the respect in which the newly-installed Worshipful Master is held. The Deputy Grand Master (R.W. Bro. A. A. L. Rowley) was Installing Master, and was assisted by R.W. Bro. C. R. J. Glover, and a large number of Grand Lodge officers.

W. Bro. Johnstone has as officers for the ensuing year, the following brethren:—S.W., A. D. Sutherland; J.W., A. H. Dobbie; Treas., R.W. A. A. L. Rowley; Sec., R. G. Neill; D.C., R. O. Fox; S.D., Henry Thomas; J.D., F. Smith; Organist, J. E. Pearce; I.G., A. H. Hill; Stewards, C. E. Walter, A. L. Bertram, R. A. Haste, E. S. Puddy, and L. F. Koehncke; Tyler, R. Vardon; I.P.M., E. J. N. Fisher.

The ceremony was most impressive. The newly installed W.M. invested his officers. The banqueting hall was tastefully decorated. On the well-laden tables there was an attractive display of red and white sweet peas, and red and white carnations on the tables in the east. Above the heads of the company festoons of red and white muslin added charm.

W. Bro. P. E. Johnstone, in proposing "The M.W. the Grand Master, the R.W. Deputy Grand Master, and Grand Officers," was received on rising with prolonged applause. All of them, including the Deputy Grand Master, was sorry the M.W. the Grand Master could not be present with them. They, however, extended a most cordial welcome to R.W. Bro. A. A. L. Rowley, and Grand Lodge Officers who had accompanied him. (Applause.) He was deeply grateful to the officers of Grand Lodge for having performed the ceremony. He especially thanked the Deputy Grand Master, who, notwithstanding the pressure of other masonic duties, had made it his business to attend. (Applause.) R.W. Bro. Rowley and he had years of friendship behind them, which ran back to the time they were scholars at the old school they loved so well. (Applause.) The loyalty of Prince Alfred Collegians' Lodge was sincere. (Hear, hear.) In the present time of turmoil a good few of them had found it hard to get sleep. He had a certain cure. Brethren should read and re-read the constitutions of Grand Lodge. (Laughter.) Before they began to doze they would find some most interesting and important facts. He commended them to the brethren. They would find the control of the Craft was in Grand Lodge,, which also had supreme legislative authority over the individual brethren, and was master of their fate. It was as a tribute of personal regard, and a token of their allegiance to Grand Lodge that he proposed the toast.

The Deputy Grand Master, received with applause, was very thankful for W. Bro. Johnstone's kind remarks concerning the Grand Lodge officers and himself. Grand Lodge was only what the brethren made it. (Hear, hear.) He had never heard the constitutions suggested for the same use as they had been that evening by the W.M. He reminded the brethren that he was in his own Lodge, and did not intend to make a long speech. He and others had just returned from a busy period in the country. (Hear, hear.) Their country brethren and their wives and daughters had given Grand Lodge officers a great welcome. The country at the present time was looking delightful. On all sides were to be seen waving corn, and nature at her best. The coming year should be one of great prosperity to the State. It had given him much pleasure to place in the Master's chair their old friend, Bro. Johnstone. If he had been up all night, he (the Deputy Grand Master) would have made it his duty to be present notwithstanding. (Applause.) W. Bro. Johnstone took Masonry very seriously, and he was convinced that his year of office would be a most successful one. (Applause.)

V.W. Bro. J. R. Robertson, Asst. Grand Secretary, proposed "The Worshipful Master." That night he could have wished the toast had fallen into other hands, because, with others, he had only just returned from the country, and having come directly from the train to the lodge-room had not had opportunity of preparing something worthy of the occasion. However, it did not require words of his to commend the toast to them. (Applause.) W. Bro. Johnstone and he had been acquainted for many years. The Worshipful Master, as a small boy, went through the school with an excellent record, which culminated in his winning a university scholarship. (Hear, hear.) He had a most brilliant arts course at the university, and then went back to his old school to serve as a master. His return to the school was really his (V.W. Bro. Robertson's) first introduction to him. W. Bro. Johnstone as assistant master did his very best, but found such an altruistic tone pervading the staff that he came to the conclusion he was not good enough for the work. Subsequently, when he viewed with dismay the exiguous proportions of the quarterly cheque, he came to the conclusion that he was too good, and so he left the school and joined that honourable profession which outsiders with experience, and possibly some amount of prescience, call "The Devil's Own." (Laughter.) Whether W. Bro. Johnstone had done better by so doing, he alone could say, but what characterised him in the school and university, characterised him in the law. (Applause.) For some time W. Bro. Johnstone was a lecturer in the law course at the University, and later, with W. Bro. Justice Poole, formed the legal firm which had an honourable record in legal circles. (Applause.) So much for his outside career. He entered Prince Alfred Collegians' Lodge in 1909, and ever since had been practically in harness, for he had occupied every chair up to that in which he had been placed that evening. He had performed all his duties as he had done those that night, and he brought to bear on his work a cultured and disciplined mind. (Applause.) The lodges should be thankful such brethren gave their services to Freemasonry. (Applause.) W. Bro. Johnstone could depend upon the loyalty of his officers and past masters. Whatever he asked of them they would be glad to give him. (Applause.)

W. Bro. Johnstone, who was received with prolonged applause, on rising to respond, remarked that he was indeed grateful to them for the generous way in which they had received the toast. To the newly-installed Worshipful Master installation night was a grand one, but the ordeal was trying. It was an inspiration to him to see the splendid gathering of brethren, and a great expression of their confidence in him. (Hear, hear.) As V.W. Bro. Robertson had said, he was initiated in Prince Alfred Collegians' Lodge in 1909. He missed the office of Tyler, but he had had five years' experience in drawing corks. (Laughter.) During the past 12 or 18 months he had felt doubtful whether he would occupy the Master's chair, because he had so many duties to fulfil that he had felt he could not spare the time. He sometimes wished there were 14 days in a week and 14 hours in a day. But he had to confess he felt proud to occupy his present position in the Lodge, and he was deeply sensible of his obligations. (Hear, hear.) He had concluded that if a thing were worth doing, it was worth doing perfectly; and he believed his Lodge would have a perfect year. He was fortunate in the officers he had associated with him—(Hear, hear)—and he was most fortunate in having the valued services of Bro. Neill as secretary. (Hear, hear.) Bro. Neill had placed the Lodge under a debt of gratitude to him that it could never repay, right from the foundation of the Lodge. Bro. Niell would be to him a genuine friend in time of trouble. (Hear, hear.) The Worshipful Master referred to the pleasure he had derived from seeing W. Bro. G. Degenhardt, his respected father-in-law, R.W. Bro. T. C. Holland (President of the Board of Genegal Purposes), and W. Bro. Edgar Treloar, S.G.D., present in Lodge. R.W. Bro. T. C. Holland had given him the first chance in starting his profession, and W. Bro. Treloar had an intimate acquaintance with his dear father, long since deceased. The principles of Freemasonry were to him living realities. (Hear, hear.) They were vital and immortal principles in which he could not help seeing everything that was best in citizenship. (Hear, hear.) It was his wish to carry the good cause forward, and he would press towards the mark of his high calling. (Applause.)

Bro. A. D. Sutherland, S.W., gave "The Visiting Brethren." In Worshipful Masters alone they had present that evening the representatives of 15 Lodges, including three country Lodges. Their Worshipful Master could take it as a sincere and genuine compliment to himself, because they were present to do honour to him. (Hear, hear.) As the visiting brethren had paid their Worshipful Master the compliment of being present at his Instállation, the Prince Alfred Collegians' Lodge brethren trusted they would officially visit the Lodge during his year of office on some ordinary Lodge night.

W. Bro. Napier congratulated the Lodge upon its newly installed Worshipful Master. He had known W. Bro. Johnstone a long time, and it had given him the greatest pleasure to be present. In W. Bro. Johnstone the Lodge had one qualified to make Freemasonry what it ought to be. (Hear, hear.) Whilst the destiny of the Lodge was in his hands the brethren need never be afraid. (Applause.)

W. Bro. Dr. T. J. Browne appreciated the opportunity given him and the brethren of his Lodge to be present that evening, and also of replying on behalf of the Lodges whose Worshipful Masters had not the opportunity of speaking. His Lodge was sponsor for Prince Alfred Collegians' Lodge. The brethren of Harmony felt a motherly affection for it. Harmony was also sponsor for St. Peter's Collegiate Lodge. The brethren of Prince Alfred Collegians' Lodge were to be congratulated upon the Installation of W. Bro. Johnstone, whom he had known and appreciated for a long time. They could not have chosen a better man. (Hear, hear.) It was true W. Bro. Johnstone was a lawyer, and that someone had said he belonged to the Devil's Brigade. All he (Dr. Browne) could say was that the Devil was a very discerning fellow. (Laughter.) One scarcely picked up the paper nowadays without seeing something concerning lawyers. Two men were having a bet as to which could tell the biggest lie. One of them remarked, "Once there was an honest lawyer—" "That will do," exclaimed the other; "you take the stake." (Laughter.) In W. Bro. Johnstone the Lodge had a man of the greatest integrity, and one who would always carry out the principles of Freemasonry. (Applause.) He heartily congratulated W. Bro. Johnstone upon his attainment to the chair of K.S., and wished both the Lodge and him a profitable year of office. Under his rule the Lodge would flourish like the green bay tree. (Applause.)

W. Bro. Degenhardt said the Worshipful Master of St. Peter's Collegiate Lodge had asked him to represent him at the festive board. He reciprocated the good feeling expressed by W. Bro. Johnstone for him. Wpl. Bro. Johnstone was one whom he was proud to regard as closely allied by marriage to him. (Hear, hear.) The brethren would never regret having elected him to the Worshipful Master's chair. (Applause.)

United Collegians' R.A. Chapter.

On Wednesday evening, September 22, the regular convocation of the United Collegians' Royal Arch Chapter, No. 8, was held in the Freemasons' Hall, Flinders Street. The chief business was the installation of the three Principals-Elect, and investiture of officers for the ensuing year. The installation of M.E. Comps. E. Bendall as First Principal, A. E. H. Evans as Second Principal, and E. Comp. A. S. Lewis as Third Principal, was conducted by M.E. Coms. A. A. L. Rowley, J. R. Robertson, and H. K. Wendt respectively. The three G. Principals were supported by M.E. Comps. A. T. Stoaate, H. P. Butterworth, G. G. Martin, W. A. Ide, V. F. Wiley, and A. Moyle. There were also present M.E. Comps. W. Brindal, A. K. Marshall, and O. A. Smith, of Bombay, and Principals, Past Principals, and Comps. of other Chapters. After the three Principals had been installed, the following officers were invested:—Scribe N., M.E. Comp. C. W. Rutt; Treasurer, M.E. Comp. A. J. E. Archer; P. Soj., M.E. Comp. T. H. Frewin; First Asst. Soj., E. Comp. F. E. Hayward; Organist, Comp. J. E. Pearce; Stewards, Comps. E. A. Murrell and F. I. Grey.

At the supper M.E.C. Bendall proposed "The S.G. Principals, Chapter, and Officers." He remarked that the Principals, Officers, and Comps. of the Chapter had admiration, love, and affection for the three S.G. Principals. The splendid example of work set by them was something other Principals could unhesitatingly follow. (Hear, hear.)

M.E. Comp. Rowley thanked the First Principal for his kindly remarks, and the Comps. for the way in which they had received the toast. R.A. Masonry was growing very fast. At the time of the last report there were 770 members, and 15 Chapters, and another Chapter (King Edward VII.) had since been consecrated. It was growing so fast that G.C. officers had to be provided to carry out the various duties in the north and other parts of the State. Every one of the S.G.C. officers took an interest in the United Collegians' Chapter, and desired to see it make progress. (Hear, hear.) He was pleased to place in the First Principal's chair an old Comp. like Comp. Bendall, who took office in the blue lodge at the same time as he did. The ceremony that evening had been a very pleasurable one, and it had been gratifying to the G.C. officers to attend. (Applause.)

M.E. Comp. T. H. Frewin gave "The Newly-Installed Principals." In R.A. Masonry the number 3 was associated with all that was good, but in ancient times it was not always so associated. He had the highest respect for the three Principals. (Hear, hear.) He wished them every success and prosperity during their term of office.

M.E. Comp. Bendall, in responding, thanked the Chapter for having placed him in the high position he now occupied. He failed to see that it carried so much responsibility as the highest position in the "Blue," because of the fact that he had with him Second and Third Principals. He had, however, an extreme pleasure in being installed as First Principal, and he would, so far as he was able, see that the Chapter did not suffer because of his apotheosis. (Hear, hear.) He intended to visit New Zealand shortly, and would, if possible, attend Chapters there. He hoped when his term of office closed, the comps. would have the same cordial feeling for him as they had now. (Applause.)

M.E. Comp. Evans thanked the comps. for having selected him as Second Principal, and the company for the hearty way in which they had received the toast.

M.E. Comp. A. S. Lewis thanked the comps. for having chosen him as Third Principal. The fact that bodies of men gathered together prepared to work in all that was estimable in the Masonic Order must react upon the life of the comps. and brethren outside. He intended to do his best to further the interests of the Chapter and R.A. Masonry generally. (Applause.)

Comp. P. Stone gave "The Visitors," whom the Chapter welcomed most heartily.

M.E. Comp. Smith (Bombay) thanked the company for the cordial manner in which the toast had been received. Of the 96 members of the Lodge he belonged to, 60 enlisted in the great war, and this fact permitted a quicker promotion for those who were left. In South Australia the work of the officers appeared to be made very easy for them. He had personally to do the whole of the work of installing his successor.

M.E. Comp. B. H. Wilson, First Principal of the South Australian R.A. Chapter, No. 1; and M.E. Comp. W. F. Hunter, Second Principal of King Edward VII. R.A. Chapter, No. 16, acknowledged the toast.

M.E. Comp. J. W. Packard gave the health of the Chapter's retiring First Principal (M.E. Comp. A. J. E. Archer) who had been most unremitting in his services to the Chapter and to the blue lodges.

M.E. Comp. Archer responded.

“Drinks” at the Annual Dinner.

At the Annual Dinner held in July, 1911, a vote was taken from those present to decide whether alcoholic drinks should be available at future Association dinners. The members decided by 262 votes to 70 not to place any restriction on the requirements of the diners. The executive officers of the Association considered that the subject had been settled for all time, but unfortunately it has again been revived. We say “unfortunately” because controversial matters of this description do not tend to aid either the Association or the College. If Prohibition should be adopted by the State as a whole, then the members of the Association will be pleased to abide by the law, but as all classes are represented in the membership of the Association, it makes the duties of secretaries, who place a large portion of their time at the disposal of the Association, more onerous if questions of this nature are introduced. At the last annual meeting the matter was revived with the object of taking a vote at that meeting. Such a course would have been extremely unfair, as only one twelfth of the members of the Association were represented. After a lengthy discussion it was decided that the question be submitted to the vote of the members resident in South Australia, and that the arrangements for the ballot be left in the hands of the Committee. The Committee have now decided as follows:—

1. That the ballot be taken not later than 31st March, and that voting papers be returnable within 21 days from date of posting.

2. That the votes of those who were members of the Association as at 30th Sept., 1920, and whose subscriptions are paid for year ending 30th Sept., 1921, at the time of voting, will be valid.
3. That Messrs. W. D. Taylor, S. W. Jeffries, and A. H. Hill be asked to act as scrutineers.

In accordance with the decision of the Committee, the Secretaries intend to place the work in hand at once with a view to securing a vote during February.

The objects of the Association are:—To keep Old Boys, wherever they may be, in touch with one another and with the boys at the school; also to foster and maintain their interest in the school.

The P.A.C. Chronicle, of which a large part is devoted to matters of special interest to Old Boys, is forwarded to each member of the Association.

A dinner is held annually, at a time which is thought likely to give as many Old Boys as possible an opportunity of meeting one another; and social gatherings are held whenever any occasion arises that makes them desirable.

The Association gives annually to the school the Old Collegians' Scholarship, of the value of fifteen guineas, and donates five guineas per annum to the Sports Fund. Two Scholarships tenable for two years are also awarded and are balloted for by the members.

The subscription is six shillings per annum. It is suggested that Country Members should remit sufficient to cover four years' subscriptions or become Life Members by payment of £5 5s. Any Old Boy wishing to become a member can do so by forwarding his name and address to the Head Master, or to any member of the staff or to one of the Secretaries.

H. W. A. MILLER,
L. B. SHUTTLEWORTH.
