EVERY great discovery made demands many lesser discoveries to enable men to use the greater. The invention of a machine is a great boon; but not unless we know how to use that machine so as to improve economic and social conditions. We are living in an age wherein discoveries and inventions follow hard upon one another, and correspondingly great and numerous are the problems of to-day. Progress demands that each succeeding generation shall solve the problems of the last in order to improve conditions in the future; and that can only be achieved by the earnest co-operation of all. Every man must make his contribution to the moulding of new and better circumstances. Who that is a man can fail to be moved by the poverty and distress round about him; the suffering millions that cry for bread and clothing, and who, having obtained them, must still go without many of the things that we consider necessary to civilized life? Can any man discover, unperplexed and undisturbed, that in an age where leisure is increasing culture is becoming less and less? And who can fail to be startled when he realizes that our potential production is almost limitless, and yet there are millions with only the barest essentials of life? It is for us to solve these problems, or at least to pave the way for their solution, and if we neglect to prepare ourselves to face them, then we are failing in our duty to the men of to-day and to-morrow.

To us, the fortunate possessors of a college education, has been given not a greater ability, but a better opportunity, and it is not only our duty, but our privilege, to make use of that opportunity in order to improve the conditions of the world. Whether we intend to devote ourselves to the physical, social, political, economic, intellectual or spiritual side of life, we must live so that when we have concluded our work the world will be the better for our participation in it. What better example could we choose than that of Sir Alexander Hore-Ruthven, who has just completed a term of six years as Governor of this State! Throughout his term of office he and Lady Hore-Ruthven have devoted themselves unsparingly to the welfare of all South Australians, and we cannot but be exceedingly grateful to them for all they have done, and full of regret that they have had to depart. Such people are an inspiration to all who come into contact with them or feel their influence in any way, and we, the young people of to-day, in whom Sir Alexander was particularly interested, should strive to follow their lead. But we cannot achieve this end unless we pay attention to all that the school stands for. Our contribution to the world must represent a selfless and untiring devotion to the great cause of humanity, a devotion which commences with the first ripening of the intelligence and is ended only by the final call of Death.

We must use our knowledge and our talents well; but let us first acquire that knowledge and cultivate those talents, or our efforts will be of no permanent value!

—G.W.B.

School Notes.

The First Term has passed safely, and the School has once more survived the necessary adjustments as new boys have settled down not yet into old boys, but into something not quite so new, and have begun to feel more at home with themselves and the School.

Dr. L. L. Davey has begun his duties as School Medical Officer for the Boarders. The whole School would like to give him a sincere welcome to his new work. The new boys seemed determined to keep Dr. Davey busy at first, for on the first day of School Douady had to have his appendix removed, and soon after Shegog broke his arm. Both fortunately made very good recoveries, and have been back at work now for a good long time.

On March 3rd some of the Prefects had a long distance telephone talk to some Prefects of The King's School, Paramatta. This was part of the programme arranged for the exhibition of Radio and Telephone services in Sydney. Bunday, Bloomfield, and King were our talkers, and some interesting exchanges of views took place, though a good deal of time was spent in discovering and spelling out names, but in spite of this it was a very interesting quarter of an hour.

Three lectures by representatives of the Post and Telegraph Department have been much appreciated by the School, and should help us all in avoiding some of the foolish breaches of good postal customs.

At the end of the term a very interesting experiment was tried in the form of an illustrated lecture in French, on Versailles, by Miss Violet de Mole. The upper Sixth and most of the Sixth found it very interesting, but some of the Intermediates found it rather hard to follow Miss de Mole, who, of course, talked considerably more quickly than the minute-gun style of the Fourth Form French Class. We are grateful to Miss de Mole for coming, and hope that the remaining lectures will be as pleasant as this first.

Bunday, Bloomfield, King, Nicholas, and A. K. Trott, of last year's Prefects, are holding office again this year. D. Trott, H. Holmes, Marlow, P. McBride, Delaporte, and Bond were made Prefects this year, while Bunday was selected as Captain of the School. Congratulations to them all, and may they have a good year!

Magarey, Schinckel, K. McBride, Mattern, Ash, and Gramp were chosen as House Prefects, with Nicholas as Head of the House. On Nicholas's departure Phil McBride was made Head. A good year to them and the house they are managing!

Newbery and A. G. Rowe are doing good work as Librarians, and with Mr. Dennis to advise them are trying to bring order into the Boarders' Library.

The whole School gives a hearty welcome to the new masters—Mr. H. Searle, B.A., Mr. R. S. Forsyth, and Mr. A. H. Dennis. All three have settled down to solid work for the School in all directions, and have already begun to count for much in its life.

Mr. Norman Chinner has also joined the Staff as Music Master. He stands in a good succession. His uncle, Mr. W. B. Chinner, was Music Master here for many years during the eighties, nineties, and the early years of this century. The number of Chinnners who have attended P.A.C. is considerable, and one, the late Mr. J. H. Chinner, stands in the first rank of Old Boys who have given devoted service to the School. Mr. Norman Chinner has already made his presence felt, and is doing very good work. We are all grateful to him for the interest he has shown in the boarders in the Saturday evening "sing songs".

Congratulations to Dr. C. T. Madigan on his appointment as Chief Commissioner of Scouts in South Australia. We feel glad that an old boy of P.A.C. has been thought worthy to fill this important position, and are sure that Dr. Madigan will do a great deal for the Scout Movement throughout this State.

On St. George's Day, April 23rd, Rev. A. H. Webb, the Chairman of the Methodist Mission in Arnhem Land, paid us a visit. His address and his plea for a better understanding of our primitive races will be long remembered by us all. We wish him great success in his fine work.

On the last day of the term the Rev. F. J. Searle, of the London Missionary Society, addressed the Assembly on his work in Papua. His words about native life and beliefs will be long remembered. Mr. Searle is an old boy, and was delighted to renew his acquaintance with the School.

During the meetings of the Methodist Conference the usual visit to the College was paid by the delegates. In cricket and tennis the boys were successful in beating the visitors, but a very pleasant afternoon was spent, and we appreciate very much the interest in the School which this visit displays.

The elections at Conference resulted in honour for two of our clerical Old Boys. The Rev. A. B. Lloyd, our Chaplain and an Old Boy of the nineties, was honoured with the position of President for the year 1935, and the Rev. E. M. Ingamells, his contemporary at School, was elected to the important office of Secretary. We wish them both health and strength to carry out the duties of their high offices to their own satisfaction and the enrichment of the life of the Church.

Christian Union Meetings.

The Christian Union began its activities for 1934 by holding the first of its weekly meetings on Wednesday, February 21st, when the Headmaster addressed the gathering. He traced the history of the movement from the time it began as a branch of the Y.M.C.A. in America. Dr. J. R. Mott introduced the movement into Australian Universities in 1895, and a branch was started at P.A.C. as early as 1896. Known throughout the world as the Students' Christian Movement, it helps people to understand religion by publishing books, and its branches in schools and universities help the younger people to realize their responsibility towards their fellow men. Theoretical Christianity never gets a person anywhere; if we are to better the conditions of the world we must establish Christian relationships between nations.

The second meeting was addressed by Rev. A. D. McCutcheon, who stressed the necessity of a friendship with Jesus Christ. He showed that Christianity was more than a mere movement and religion and more than a convenience, and must be personal to be real.

Rev. V. H. Goldney told us that Jesus shocked the world of his day by saying, "Whosoever doeth the will of my Father, which is in heaven, the same is my brother and sister and mother." After two thousand years we have not developed from the attitude of that time. We do not treat other nations as brothers; we do not even treat our own countrymen as we should, otherwise the conditions of our country would not be as bad as they are. He said that until we broaden our outlook, and accept the Christian principle as Jesus taught it, we cannot expect world peace.

The importance of a good position was the subject of an address by Rev. P. C. W. Eckersley, B.A. A position of wealth or power is a great achievement, especially under the circumstances in which we are living to-day, but it is not the most important. A right position with God counts for most. Each life should be placed where it ought to be, and where it can do most good. We cannot attain a good position without hard work, and he urged us to labour on and merit a good position.

The fifth meeting was addressed by Rev. C. W. Johnson, B.A. He likened his text, "Ye shall not be as the hypocrites are," to an oyster, in which he found a priceless pearl, "Sincerity." First of all we must be perfectly sincere with ourselves. If we are not, we doubt the sincerity of others. We all want the trust and confidence of our fellows, but we cannot have it unless we are worthy of their trust, and the only way to merit this trust is to be sincere in all our dealings.

At the sixth meeting Rev. S. Forsyth spoke to us on "Self-Control." He pointed out that it was hard to define because it could be interpreted so widely. To have self-control one must have poise and mental balance, because mental balance above all things gives a person command over himself. As an outstanding example of self-control, Mr. Forsyth asked us to picture Jesus before Pilate. His accusers mocked Him, and even spat upon Him, but He bore it all in silence.

The next meeting was addressed by Rev. C. J. Perry, who told us that the problem of making good friends faces every young man of to-day. The qualities we look for in a friend are loyalty, honesty, and an ambition based on lofty ideals. A good friendship often helps to solve the other problems of life, but to get the best from a friendship, the spirit of comradeship must be mutual.

Rev. C. B. Holmes addressed the eighth meeting as substitute for Rev. G. H. Pemberton. He told us of the seriousness with which people of an older age regarded religion, and how they devoted a great deal more time than we do to their worship. Both John the Baptist and Jesus spent many quiet hours in prayer, and he urged us to find time in our lives for God.

The last meeting of the term was addressed by Rev. R. H. Davidson, D.C.M. He told us the story of the King's Jester who built St. Bart's Hospital. He then mentioned the Crusader Knights, and pointed out how they swore allegiance to the cause of Christ. He asked us to be followers and friends of Jesus; supporters of the cause of Christ.

To all those who so kindly gave up their time on Wednesdays and addressed our meetings, we offer our sincerest thanks. We appreciate their kindness, and only hope that they have found some measure of enjoyment in speaking to the boys.

A few days after the opening of the term a meeting was held for the election of officers. King was chosen Captain, Hamilton Vice-Captain, and Dunn Secretary. After the successes of 1932 and 1933 it was hoped that we would have a larger number of recruits. Although we had but 30 members altogether, they settled down and worked loyally throughout the term. Probably we have never experienced a term in which there was such an atmosphere of willingness in the club. Whenever anything was to be done there was always someone who stepped in and put his shoulder to the wheel.

We were very fortunate in having with us again Hamilton, Dunn, Trott, and King, four of the victorious crew of last year. The bigger fellows were thus faced with a difficult task if they wished to gain a seat. At first it seemed as if the selection committee would have to spend a lot of thought on the selection of our best Eight, but eventually the boys selected themselves.

The final choice was:—

	Weight
McBride, K. M. (bow)	10 6
King, A. J. (2)	9 7
Trott, A. K. (3)	11 2

Gilbert, C. L. (7)	12 3

During the term several of the tub crews were hampered in their practice because of sickness. Even so, they tried their utmost, and were rather unfortunate in not giving a better display of their ability on Regatta Day. Several of our defeats were due mainly to shocking coxing. Although this has been an exceedingly costly lesson, we all hope that it has been a valuable one. Nothing is more distressing than to see a good crew defeated by rowing an erratic course.

The Eight settled down to steady work in tubs, in preparation for their big race, which was only seven weeks off. As we had several boys who had done less than one year's rowing, the Eight had to continue for some time in Tub Slides, making sure of the essential elements of their work. About three weeks before the Head of the River Race we had our first row in the Eight. Our experienced men were:—Hamilton at stroke, Dunn at six, Trott again at three, and King, who had moved from bow to two. An early change in the seating was made. Gilbert then at five was moved up to seven, while Jolly moved to five.

The crew were now put into strict training, and had to forego many pleasures. With Easter coming but a fortnight before our big race, we were forced to row during the break. In the Maiden Eights' regatta on April 14th, we were drawn against the University's second eight. Our boys held 'Varsity to Morphett Street Bridge, but not yet being accustomed to high rating, dropped back to be defeated by a length.

During the ensuing week, the rating was quickened, and steady, hard work was the order of the day. In the race against the same 'Varsity crew on the Tuesday, seven was rather unlucky in losing his slide at the bridge, and had to row from there home on his runners. Our fast starts were a great credit to the whole crew, and on several occasions we surprised our supporters.

Our progress during the term would have been impossible were it not for the untiring efforts of Mr. McLean, ably assisted by Messrs. Potts and Forrestal, and occasionally Mr. A. J. Grayson.

Due to the kindness of Messrs. Hamilton and King, our crew was tendered a dinner on the night of the race, and afterwards entertained at the pictures. In his after-dinner speech, Mr. King assured us that although we had not met with success, our supporters were very proud of our effort.

THE REGATTA.

The weather for the Public Schools' Regatta was unfortunately cloudy and threatening, and undoubtedly kept many away. Despite this, the crowd was larger than in previous years, and we are glad to see that this event is rapidly becoming more popular.

This year, for the third time, curiously enough, we were drawn against Saints in our heat of the Head of the River Race. This saved both crews an extra race to decide the holder of the Blackmore Shield, which went to the winner of this heat.

Staked boats were again provided this year to give the crews a better start in the eight-oared races. In the first heat of the Head of the River, Scotch defeated the High School by half a length in the rather slow time of 3 mins. 8 secs.

The second heat was the Blackmore Shield Race. Princes jumped away at the start, leading by a quarter of a length after the first few strokes. Saints picked up powerfully, and crept up gradually. Halfway to Morphett Street, Princes were still leading by a canvas, but our opponents, helped by the bad course rowed by P.A.C., were leading by three-quarters of a length at the bridge, which was reached in 1 min. 45 secs. The race was not lost at that stage, as, when Saints faltered for a few strokes as they cleared Morphett Street, Princes had a golden opportunity to seize the lead. They were slow to take advantage, and it passed. Opposite the Adelaide Club Boat Shed both crews were rating about 40 strokes to the minute, with P.A.C. still in the race. Saints gathered themselves together, and went on to win a great race by two lengths in the record time of 2 min. 55½ secs.

The final went to S.P.S.C., who defeated Scotch by two and a half lengths in 3 min. 1½ secs.

Congratulations to Saint Peters on winning the Gosse and Blackmore Shields, and especially to stroke for the way in which he held his crew together. Their blade work and rhythm were excellent, and they deserve much praise for their victory.

Our tub crews did not enjoy much success, although they rowed well. The Under 15 crew lost to A.H.S. in their heat by 1½ lengths, while the Under 16s were defeated by Saints by a length in the final, after they had drawn a bye in their heat. The Open Fixed appeared to have an excellent chance until they steered towards the City Baths. Even then the margin was not very great, as they were defeated by Saints by a length and a half.

The Clinker Four trained hard, but although they rowed well, were beaten by a better S.P.S.C. crew, who won by three-quarters of a length in the first heat, and went on to win the final from A.H.S. Although new to light boats, the crew did well, and deserve commendation. Perhaps the most improved oarsman in the club is Tilbrook, who rowed bow.

The Old Boys did not come up to expectations, as they were defeated by Scotch in their heat of the Old Boys' Eights. The fault lay in lack of training, as some had not rowed for months.

CRITIQUE OF THE VIII.

Hamilton, F. A. (Stroke)—A greatly improved oarsman who proved himself capable of putting the necessary "fire" into an Eight. He would improve by developing a lighter grip of the oar and swinging straight.

Gilbert, C. L.—A tall, well-built, and powerful oarsman, who can use his length to advantage. He should improve his slide control.

Dunn, R. K.—A smooth, powerful rower of great stamina. He must habitually avoid crouching, which tends to spoil work. A most promising oarsman.

Jolly, N. D.—A powerful oarsman who has improved immensely this term. His work is crisp and neat, and he promises to become a skilful oarsman.

McBride, P. A.—He improved very rapidly, winning his way from Tub Fixed to the Eight. He pulls a powerful blade, but must keep his length when pushed.

Trott, K. A.—A solid, well-built rower of considerable power. He needs to improve his handling of the oar and his control of the slide.

King, A. J. (Capt.)—He overcame a tendency to drive his slide away, and showed up best when pushed the hardest. He has great spirit, and was an inspiration to the crew.

McBride, K. M.—Greatly improved and powerful, but he needs to be much more crisp in the recovery. He should finish his stroke right through.

Solomon, M.—An experienced coxswain, capable of excellent steering.

INTERCOLLEGIATE MATCH.

The Intercollegiate Tennis Match was played on Saturday, March 24th, and although rain fell earlier in the morning, the weather was ideal for tennis.

Princes won the toss, and at 10.20 a.m. the first round of doubles began.

On the first court, Holman and D. W. Trott played Macklin and Day. Princes made a good start by winning the first set, 6-0; and in the second they lost only one game. By his consistent play and accurate volleying, Holman showed himself to be the best of the four.

Newcombe and A. K. Trott easily defeated Cherry and Stokes. Trott served well, but Newcombe was the best player on this court.

The most interesting match of this round was played between our third double, Nicholas and Ash, and Saints' first double, Magarey and Richmond. All four players were tossing well, but Richmond was the most accurate. Nicholas, who is a left-hander, drove and smashed well, his cross-court forehand drive being particularly effective.

The first round of singles was then played. This round produced two very exciting sets.

On the first court, D. W. Trott played H. M. Day. Trott led 3-0 in the first set, when Day, who was serving much better than in the first match, took the next four games to lead 4-3. The score went to 5-5 with Day to serve, but then Trott played excellent tennis to win the set. Continuing his good play, Trott won the second set easily, at 6-1.

In the match Cherry v. A. K. Trott, Cherry found difficulty in trying to return Trott's fast first service, which was very accurate, and Trott, who was driving well, especially on the forehand, won the rubber, 6-1, 6-2.

On the third court, Ash won the first set from Stokes at 6-3, but the second went to 5-5 with Ash to serve. He went down 15-40; picked up to 40-40; lost the next stroke, but drew level again. Stokes won the advantage again, but Ash took the next three strokes to win the set and the rubber. The services of both players were weak and each won the other's service on several occasions.

At 2 o'clock the second round of doubles began. The two first doubles of both schools were now opposed to each other. Magarey's forehand drives were very powerful in this rubber, but D. Trott also drove brilliantly; and an excellent combination between the P.A.C. pair, together with Holman's good interceptions at net, resulted in another win for Princes.

In the match, Newcombe and A. K. Trott v. Macklin and Day, the forehand drives of the Saints' pair were good, but their backhand strokes were weak. Both Newcombe and Trott were serving well, and by taking advantage of their opponents' weakness on the backhand, they won the rubber, 6-1, 6-1.

Although his second service was still weak, Ash played much better than in former rubbers, and helped by the consistent efforts of Nicholas they defeated Cherry and Stokes, 6-1, 6-3. Nicholas' service troubled all his opponents. The rather unusual left-handed action, and the accurate use he made of the swerve, almost invariably found them in difficulty.

The next round to be played was the second round of singles.

Newcombe defeated Magarey, Saints' Captain, by concentrating on his backhand. Although Magarey's forehand drives sometimes passed Newcombe at net, Newcombe passed Magarey far more frequently. Neither player tossed much, but the match produced better tennis than the scores indicate.

By driving hard to Macklin's backhand, and taking advantage of his weak second service, Nicholas won his single in straight sets. The half-volleying of the Princes' Captain during this match was excellent.

Holman played Richmond. Richmond began well, but Holman's accurate tossing and almost uncanny placements were too much for him. When going to net, Holman half-volleyed well, and his volleys frequently found Richmond out of position.

The last three rubbers of the day, constituted the third round of doubles.

Holman and D. Trott defeated Cherry and Stokes. At times Trott's service had been unreliable, but in this rubber he served well, his smashing also was excellent. The accuracy of Trott's overhead shots played no small part in keeping Saints' score down to 2 games in this match.

The second match, Newcombe and A. K. Trott v. Magarey and Richmond, produced some of the most exciting tennis. The standard of play was high, and the net play of both sides good. The smashing of A. K. Trott, especially in the first set, was exceptional. Princes won the first set, 6-4; and with both sides making errors which were due mainly to tiredness, the second went to 4-4. Trott, however, seemed to receive inspiration, for, due mainly to his efforts, Princes won the next two games.

Nicholas and Ash played Macklin and Day. After a struggle to 5-4 in the first set, Nicholas won his service to love and took the set, 6-4. Princes played steadily to win the second at 6-2. Nicholas' driving was again the outstanding feature, but Ash's accurate play helped considerably to achieve this win.

The selection committee had a very difficult task in selecting the final six, but a victory of 30 sets to nil more than justifies their choice. Besides the record win, Holman created another record for an individual player. In his single he lost only two games, and in the doubles, partnered by D. W. Trott, he lost six games, making a total of eight games lost in 8 sets. D. W. Trott lost 11 games, and Newcombe, 13. Both of these compare very favourably with the old record held by J. L. Allen, who lost only 11 games in 1931.

CRITIQUE OF THE TENNIS TEAM.

Nicholas, B. H. — Capable Captain. Left-handed service hard to receive. Severe and consistent forehand and volley; backhand much improved. Played remarkably well at the Oval. Congratulated on leading team to almost unbeatable record.

Ash, A. T. — Capable of good tennis. Nervous in matches. Good forehand drive. Backhand weaker. Smashing and tossing consistently good. Service lacks confidence. Better courtcraft in a double than in a single. Must watch ball more closely.

Holman, A. G.—Steady, but heady player. Tossing very accurate. Reliable and well placed service. Fast and clever on his feet. Forehand and backhand drives lack pace, but are well placed. Has no apparent weakness. Lost only eight games in Intercollegiate match.

Newcombe, M.—Very consistent player with brilliant forehand and backhand drives. Strong and forceful volley. Service needs speeding up, but is well placed. Played excellently in Oval match.

Trott, A. K. — Greatly improved player. Takes game too seriously. Drives powerfully on forehand. Backhand more effective against a fast game. Service very good. Forceful, but erratic volley. Smashes exceptionally well.

Trott, D. W.—Plays an aggressive game. Excellent forehand and backhand. Service fast, but unreliable. Smashing good. Seldom tosses, prefers a fast game. Formed a powerful first double with Holman.

During the term practice matches were played against Roseworthy College (two), Methodist Conference, and Eastern Extension, in all of which we were successful.

We wish to thank the many old Boys who gave us such valuable practice and advice, especially Eric Freak, whose interest was an inspiration.

The school is deeply indebted to those kind friends who placed their courts at our disposal, and we thank them most sincerely.

School Sports.

On Saturday, May 5th, and under ideal conditions our boys provided an excellent afternoon's sport. Apart from the close contests the most pleasing feature of the day was the large attendance of parents and friends.

We offer our sincerest thanks to the Hon. S. W. Jeffries, Attorney General, for presenting the prizes to the successful competitors. It is a pleasing feature that each year our sports fund is gradually increasing, and it is a clear indication of the added interest that is being taken in the school activities. We can not express too fully how greatly indebted we are to those who so generously contributed.

An innovation this year was the use of a loud speaker to broadcast the results. This we hope was an experiment which met with approval from our friends. With this year's experience behind us we hope to make even a better success of it in future years.

Although there were six entrants for the College Cup three, due to ill-health, were forced to withdraw. This left Stain, Newman, and Wellington as competitors. In the 100 yards College Championship the competitors raced neck and neck down the track, only a fraction of a yard separating Stain from the others at the finish.

The main interest centred around the cup events throughout the afternoon. Stain seemed certain to win the high-jump, but Newman managed to tie for first position. Wellington had merely to attempt a jump to gain third place. At the finish of the 220 Stain had a comfortable lead over his rivals, being 3 points ahead of Newman, and 8 ahead of Wellington.

Wellington did not start in the 120 yards hurdles, thus leaving only Stain and Newman. The latter provided a great deal of amusement by struggling down the hurdles to gain his three points for second. Newman, adopting the idea of going to the fore early, kept the lead throughout the 440 flat, winning by a narrow margin from Wellington, with Stain a close third.

Newbery, although not a cup competitor, followed up his second in the 100 yards college championship by gaining first place in the broad jump. Stain, not jumping up to his usual form, was placed second. With only the half-mile to be run, Stain was in a winning position for the cup and had no need to fight out the finish with Wellington and Newman.

K. A. Hill did remarkably well to defeat our Intercollegiate winner, A. M. West, in the 100 yards under 16. Craven was the only Intercollegiate winner who was successful at our own sports. He performed exceptionally well to win the 100 yards junior championship, junior high jump and 120 under 15, handicap, and gained second place in the junior hurdles.

The spectacle of hundreds of boys taking part in the obstacle races proved as usual the most amusing part of the programme, and the prefects' obstacle, which ended in almost a riot, brought to a close yet another year's athletics.

Boarders' Notes.

We opened school with a large addition of new boys, and we heartily welcome them all, and hope that their years of Boarding School life here will hold pleasant memories for them later on in life. Although many of our old friends and leaders of last year did not return, we nevertheless hope that the gaps thus made in our midst will soon be filled from those who have joined us this year. Owing to the large increase in our numbers it was found necessary to use the Junior Dormitory, which had been closed since 1931. We also welcome Messrs. Searle, Dennis and Forsyth, who have become resident masters.

We heartily congratulate all those who have won distinctions in any way in the Boarding House. Special congratulations to Bart Nicholas on being made Head of the House, and to Phil McBride, his successor, and to Mattner, K. McBride, Magarey, Schinkel, Ash and Gramp, who were appointed Boarding House Prefects. The two librarians for the year are Newbery and Rowe. Praise is also due to Nicholas on being made tennis captain, to Ash on his inclusion in the team, to the McBride brothers on earning their seats in the eight and being chosen for the athletics, and to Newbery and Craven, who were included in the Sports' Team. Phil and Keith McBride both received merit badges this term, well done! For two brothers to receive this distinction at the same time is unique.

During the prolonged heat wave towards the end of February we were suddenly overwhelmed by the unexpected and gratifying news, that instead of doing prep we were to go swimming. Immediately after an early tea we began our excursion by double-decker bus. Mr. W. L. Davies and the Scoutmaster, Mr. Close, accompanied the bathing party to see that there was not too much splashing. After the sand dunes near West Beach had provided us with changing facilities, several of our more dressy members gave the onlookers a dazzling display of the latest beach pyjamas. The water was perfect and we were really sorry to leave it at 7.30. The trip home will be a memorable one to us all, especially to those on the roof for the welkin rang and rang again with our profuse vociferations. Imagine our joy to find supper awaiting us on our return; small boys chortled, while seniors strove to look gravely pleased. We would like to thank the Head for giving us this opportunity of visiting the beach in such trying weather.

On Saturday, April 14th, an interesting tennis match was played between the Senior Dorm. and the rest of the House. Sanders captained the Seniors, and Ash, the Rest, the result of the match being a narrow win for the Seniors.

Seniors—8 sets, 87 games.

The Rest—7 sets, 92 games.

Some of the doubles were very interesting, especially in one set, when both sides settled down to about half an hour's consistent tossing! During the afternoon three rounds of doubles and one round of singles were played, and it was generally agreed that we all had a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon's tennis.

Our Saturday evening pastimes have been somewhat brightened by the sing-songs which have been kindly organised by Mr. Searle and Mr. Chinner. These have provided means whereby some of our "whispering baritones" and "chirping tenors" have formed quite an ambitious, if not successful, combination. It is much better than ping-pong alone, and we really look forward to these evenings. Some of the House Masters have indeed been an inspiration to the boys when it comes to singing. The French song, kindly enunciated by Mr. Dennis, proved rather an arduous task, the result being a wild medley of grunts followed by a reverberating silence. We hope our humble efforts will continue next term.

A few weeks after the term had commenced we were granted an evening off to go to hear the A.B.C. Military Band in the Town Hall. We owe this trip to Mr. N. Chinner, who arranged the evening. The concert was indeed a musical treat, and was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Chinner, who is now our music-master, is very popular among us all. We wish him every success in his work.

On the evening of the Intercollegiate Sports Day the boarders of the fifth forms and a large number of day-boys went to see "Twelfth Night," presented by Mr. James Anderson, and the Thespian players. Mr. Val Anderson and Mr. A. J. McEwin, old boys of the school, were included in the cast, and the performance was well staged. Shakespeare's comedy seems much more real to us now.

To Nicholas, who has left us, we wish the best of luck in his future career, and to any others who may be leaving our sheltered and secluded life. We have had a good term, and we can only wish for as happy a year. It is the fine spirit of friendship among our members, that we like to see grow and flourish.

We Would Like to Know—

Why some of the Seniors hurry to their shower in the morning?

Who is this year's champion?

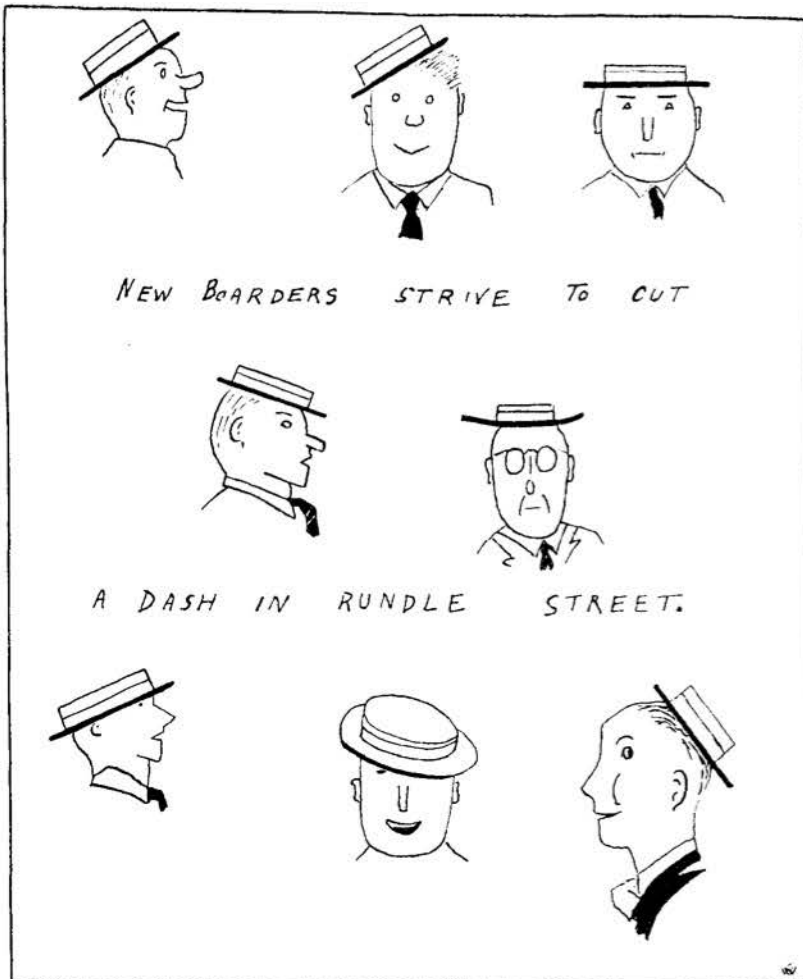

Who is this year's Waltzing Lily?

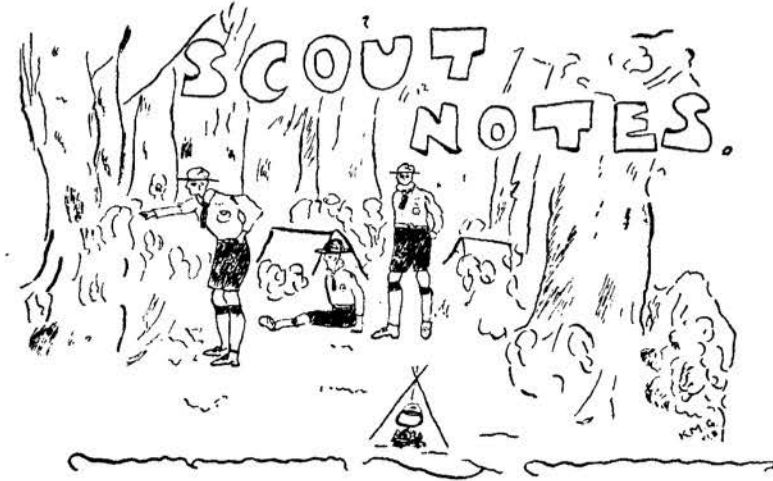

Who is our champion damson-plum eater?

How long have they been makin' two-legged pigs with tusks?

Why some of our enthusiastic mathematicians go to bed with a problem on their minds, and wake up with the solution?

B.N.C.

The troop began the year 42 strong. Most of the older boys had left, and only one of the six patrol leaders, R. C. Muecke, remained. Six new patrol leaders were appointed: R. W. Stain to the Kangaroos, A. H. Toms to the Eagles, R. Heddle to the Owls, R. B. White to the Magpies, E. F. Johnston to the Wood Pigeons, and B. P. Bidstrup to the Hawks. Muecke was promoted to the rank of Troop Leader.

Under the leadership of these boys, the Scouts have shown remarkable keenness. All have been anxious to pass their various tests, and much valuable work has been accomplished.

Competition for the Abotomey Cup has been keen, but the Hawks, with the assistance of five proficiency badges have obtained a comfortable lead. The marks for the Cup are:—Kangaroos, 74; Eagles, 70; Owls, 74; Magpies, 88; Wood Pigeons, 86; and Hawks, 105.

We have missed Mr. Gibbs sorely. Under him everything worked smoothly, and it was not until he had gone that we realized the enormous amount of work he had been doing.

Mr. Forsyth and Mr. Dennis linked up with the troop at the beginning of the term as Assistant Scoutmasters, and they have infected the boys with their keenness.

On Wednesday, March 28th, a party of boys went to the Crystal Pool, Unley. The afternoon was enjoyed by all, and all boys passed their First Class Swimming Test.

On the first Saturday after Easter, 15 Scouts went to the shack at Mylor. It was found that the recent bushfire had come to within 12 ft. of the building, but had left its timbers unharmed. The rest of the day was spent in attempts to press small dishes of cooked meats on the Scoutmaster, who, although willing, was only human after all. The party returned, grimy but happy, and charmed their fellow travellers with melodious renderings of popular songs sung to the accompaniment of Siddall's ukelele.

About 20 boys took part in the Anzac Day parade and farewell to His Excellency the Governor and Lady Hore Ruthven.

In the May holidays a camp is to be held at the shack, to which about a dozen boys are going. They are looking forward to a good time. As the weather is very unsettled and rain is frequent at Mylor, we are not sure of good weather, but with such a snug shack we are not so likely to be swamped out as one unfortunate camp was a short time ago.

Intercollegiate Athletics.

The date of April 27th was well marked in all our minds as the day of the 37th annual meeting between Princes and Saints. Fine weather conditions with a steady breeze favoured the competitors, all of whom were the picture of fitness. Our representatives had been in strict training for weeks and we were hopeful of winning the athletics for the second successive year. The whole day was most enjoyable and provided one of the most exciting finishes seen in Intercollegiate contests. With the result depending on the last race, the excitement can well be imagined. Caps, some red, some blue, flew into the air at the conclusion of the mile. Rev. J. C. Hughes, President of the Methodist Conference kindly presented the Cup to Saints and the medals to race winners.

We all heartily congratulate our opponents on their success.

EVENTS.

(1) 120 Yards Hurdles (Seniors)—Positions: 1st, Magarey (Saints); 2nd, Cowan (Saints); 3rd, Lindsay (Saints). This proved a full point victory for Saints, giving them a nine point lead on the opening event. A fast race with Delaporte holding Saints until the ninth hurdle, when Saints forged ahead.

Time, 17 secs. Progressive points: Saints, 9; Princes, —.

(2) 100 Yards Flat (under 16)—Positions: 1st, West (Princes); 2nd, Hill (Princes); 3rd, Hutton (Saints). West raced in fine style and was slightly ahead of Hill at the tape. He was $\frac{1}{5}$ second off the record.

Time, $10\frac{1}{2}$ secs. Progressive points: Saints, 10; Princes, 6.

(3) 100 Yards Flat (Seniors)—Positions: 1st, Fisher (Saints); 2nd, Stain (Princes) and Magarey (Saints) tied. This was another thrilling race. Newberry was left at the start. There was very little between the first three men at the tape.

Time, $10\frac{3}{4}$ secs. Progressive points: Saints, 17; Princes, 8.

(4) 100 Yards Flat (Juniors)—Positions: 1st, Craven (Princes); 2nd, Smith (Saints); 3rd, Tregoning (Princes). In this race, Craven easily outraced the rest of the field. Tregoning raced hard for second place, but was just beaten.

Time, $11\frac{1}{2}$ secs. Progressive points: Saints, 19; Princes, 13.

(5) High Jump (Seniors)—Positions: 1st, Hughes (Saints); 2nd, Stain

(Princes) and Newman (Princes) tied. Marlow was first to drop out, closely followed by Saints second and third men, thus assuring us of two places. Newman and Stain were still feeling the effects of their previous 100 yards sprint. Both did well to remain in the jump and gain places. Many times the bar rocked, giving the competitors and spectators momentary thrills. Hughes (Saints), jumped well to clear 5 ft. 6 in.

Height, 5ft. 6 in. Progressive points: Saints, 24; Princes, 17.

(6) 100 Yards Flat (Old Scholars)—Positions: 1st, Toms (Saints); 2nd, Campbell (Saints); 3rd, Nicholson (Princes). Toms won this race with ease, equalling the record, 10 secs.

Time, 10 secs. Points not included.

(7) 220 Yards Flat—Positions: 1st, Napier (Saints); 2nd, Fisher (Saints); 3rd, Magarey (Saints). This was a well run race in which the Blues proved too fast.

Time, 24 secs. Progressive points: Saints, 33; Princes, 17.

(8) High Jump (Junior)—Positions: 1st, Craven (Princes); 2nd, Gurner (Princes) and Viney (Saints) tied. Although Craven won this event with ease, he did not appear to jump as well as last year. Gurner jumped well to fill second place. Craven attempted to break the record, 5 ft. 3 in., but was unsuccessful.

Height, 5 ft. Progressive points: Saints, 34½; Princes, 22½.

(9) Putting the Weight—Positions: 1st, Godfrey (Saints); 2nd, Tregoning (Princes); 3rd, Newberry (Princes). Godfrey's effort was outstanding. Our men did well to fill second, third, and fourth places respectively.

Distance, 34 ft. 7 ins. Progressive points: Saints, 39½; Princes, 26½.

(10) 120 Yards Hurdles (under 16)—Positions: 1st, Johnston (Princes); 2nd, Steele (Saints); 3rd, Bennett (Princes). This race was an easy one for Johnston. Bennett was unfortunate to lose his "three-in," but by a determined effort ran into third place.

Time, 18½ secs. Progressive points: Saints, 41½; Princes, 31½.

(11) Broad Jump (Senior)—Positions: 1st, Nitschke (Saints); 2nd, Stain, J. W. (Princes); 3rd, Delaporte (Princes). This was not a very exciting event. Stain and Delaporte jumped well to fill second and third positions respectively, but Nitschke was definitely superior.

Distance, 20ft. 6 in. Progressive points: Saints, 46½; Princes, 35½.

(12) Broad Jump (under 16)—Positions: 1st, Shaughnessy (Princes); 2nd, Hutton (Saint); 3rd, Stain (Princes). Shaughnessy did an exceptionally fine jump to win this event from the Blues' first man. West unfortunately over-ran the board three times.

Distance, 18 ft. 8 in. Progressive points: Saints, 49; Princes, 40.

(13) 440 Flat (Seniors)—Positions: 1st, Napier (Saints); 2nd, Kemp (Princes); 3rd, Newman (Princes). Kemp and Wellington, the latter replacing Stain, J. W., went out early and made the pace fairly fast. Kemp appeared a good winner until the final turn into the straight, when Napier, Saints' first man, and winner of this event for the last two years, gradually overhauled him and went on to win by a very narrow margin with Newman third. Newman put on an exceptionally fast final sprint. This race and the mile were probably the most exciting events of the day. Kemp and Newman must be congratulated on their fine attempt to gain this race for Princes, while Wellington, who set the pace with Kemp, must not be forgotten.

Time, 55½ secs. Progressive points: Saints, 54; Princes, 44.

(14) 120 Yards Hurdles (Juniors)—Positions: 1st, Tregoning (Princes); 2nd, Craven (Princes); 3rd, Boucaut (Saints). Tregoning and Craven ran away from the rest of the field, placing us five points nearer Saints.

Time, 17½ secs. Progressive points: Saints, 55; Princes, 50.

(15) 440 Hurdles—Positions: 1st, McBride P. A. (Princes); 2nd, Cowan (Saints); 3rd, Hughes (Saints). This race was a thrilling event finally won by McBride in great style. McBride and Lindsay were together at 300 yards, but from then onward McBride gradually drew away and won with yards to spare.

Time, 63½ secs. Progressive points: Saints, 59; Princes, 55.

(16) 440 Flat (under 16)—Positions: 1st, Game (Saints); 2nd, West (Princes); 3rd, Bromley (Saints). West put up a great fight, but was finally beaten by Game in the last 20 yards.

Time, 57 secs. Progressive points: Saints, 64; Princes, 57.

(17) One Mile (Flat)—Positions: 1st, Kemp (Princes); 2nd, Hodgetts (Saints); 3rd, Cowell (Saints). The result of the whole contest depended on this final race. Saints were 7 points ahead, and if we gained all three places we would have received 9 points, thus winning the contest. All of our hopes centred on Kemp. We were hoping McIntosh and Johnston would live up to all that was expected of them, but unluckily for us, the Saints' men were too good for our second and third representatives. Cherry went out at the gun and led during the whole race until the scoring board was reached in the last lap, Kemp then spurred brilliantly and won in an exhausted condition, due chiefly to his previous Senior 440 Yards Flat, in which he gained second place. Saints gained 4 points, while we received 5 points, the final totals being—Saints, 68; Princes, 62. Kemp is to be heartily congratulated on his fine effort.

Time, 5 minutes 13½ secs.

Cadet Notes.

This year, the fame of the corps had been noised abroad, and recruits flocked to our ranks. Numbers are well above last year, but if two or three boys at least would join, we could have three platoons instead of two, extra instructors, and greater facilities for training.

The term has been very broken, and training has been interrupted frequently. Uniforms for the newcomers have taken a long time to arrive, but all recruits were supplied by Anzac Day.

On Anzac Day we marched in the procession, as we have done for several years. For the first time we marched as two platoons, and this considerably increased our showing. Although disturbed by the constantly changing step, which was no fault of ours, all did their best, and the result was creditable.

The last two parades of the term were devoted to Lewis Gun instruction, while the recruits did rifle exercises and firing on the miniature range.

The full scores of the shoot at the ranges in December, which were not available for publication in the last issue of the Chronicle, are given below. Unfortunately, a visit to this mosquito-ridden spot could not be arranged this term, but rumour has it that we are to see our friends, the "skeets," in the second week of next term.

The following promotions have been made, as most of last year's N.C.O.'s have left school.

Sgt. H. B. Holmes to be Coy. S.M.

Cpl. A. J. King to be Sergeant, No. 1 Platoon.

Upon returning to school after our Xmas vacation, we found we had seven boys back who had played in the 1933 Intercollegiate Match. This immediately raised our hopes, and we are looking forward to a successful year in cricket.

We congratulate our Old Boys' XI on gaining the Premiership of the Association for the season, 1933-4.

PROSPECT COLTS v. P.A.C.
(Association Match.)

This match, our first for the year, was played in ideal cricket weather and resulted in an easy win for us. Considering that we had had no practice, we did exceptionally well to compile 215 in reply to Prospect's 109. Our chief scorers were Allen (88), who was unfortunate in not reaching his century, Marshall (26), Catt (22), Bond (21), Stanford (20). Bond did well behind the wicket in helping to dismiss six of the opposing batsmen, stumping three and catching three. Marshall carried off the bowling honours with 4 for 16 off 9 overs. Allen took 2 for 11 and Holman 2 for 25. In Prospect's second innings Gibson, with 2 for 10, was unlucky in just missing the "hat-trick."

P.A. OLD SCHOLARS v. P.A.C.
(Association Match.)

Early in this match we had hopes of dismissing the Old Boys fairly cheaply. Marshall at one stage had taken 3 for 5. However, the batsmen gained the upper hand, and with fine efforts on the part of H. P. Kirkwood (58) and L. S. Clarkson (66), their final score was carried to 233. Marshall and Gibson shared the bowling, with 3 for 15 and 4 for 45 respectively.

Holman took 3 for 57. With five College wickets down for 54, our position did not look bright, but a determined stand by Bond (65) and Allen (29) took the score to 117 for the next wicket. The final wickets fell quickly, and all were out for 132.

METHODIST CONFERENCE v.

COLLEGE.

(Association Match.)

While the Methodist Conference was in session, the College played them an afternoon match. The visitors batted first and compiled 112 before all were dismissed. For the Conference, D. Dickson batted very well for 35, while he was ably supported by W. Wilmhurst (22) and C. R. Dadds (20). For the College, MacIntosh took 2 for 11, Gibson 2 for 16, and Parham 2 for 36. The afternoon's sport was not devoid of excitement, for when seven of our wickets had fallen for 92, with only 10 minutes to bat, the game was at an interesting stage. A delightfully brisk display of batting by Allen and Bennett, 31 and 30 not out respectively, saved the College, and the final score was 147 for the loss of seven wickets. Catt (22), Parham (13), and Waterson (18) all retired, after showing good form.

HAWTHORN v. P.A.C.

(Association Match.)

This was our last match for the season, and we unfortunately lost it. Hawthorn had first use of the wicket, and were finally dismissed for 163, of which half were made by H. G. Wilson (87 not out), an Old Boy of the school. Allen (4 for 23), Gibson (3 for 30), and Parham (2 for 14) all bowled well. Parham, in particular, had the batsmen very puzzled with his deceptive pace and length. Catt and Gurner, two of our youngest cricketers, were the only boys to produce form. Catt compiled a very valuable 63 and Gurner 24. The final score stood at 148, all out. Hawthorn had a second innings, during which 4 wickets fell for 68. Allen took three of these for 19. A piece of stumping by Bond, off the bowling of Marshall, was a feature of this innings.

School Blazers.

After a good deal of deliberation the Games Committee, early this term, decided to improve the design of the school blazers and their distinctive markings.

The new school blazers have been on sale throughout the term.

There are two designs. One is predominantly red, with narrow white stripes, and is for general use in the school. The sports blazer has much more prominent white stripes and is generally brighter in appearance. It is seen in the photograph of the intercollegiate tennis team in this issue. This may be worn by those who are in the intercollegiate rowing eight, tennis six, football eighteen, cricket eleven, or who qualify for three or more events or win five or more points in the intercollegiate sports.

These distinctions are preserved irrespective of whether a boy is a prefect or not. But there are three badges which indicate further distinctions between wearers. There is the small badge (half the size of the previous sports badge), which is for use on the ordinary school blazer. Intercollegiate representatives wear the same sports badge as previously on the sports blazer. The prefect is indicated by a scroll with the school motto inscribed, underlying the sports badge. This is to be worn on the sports blazer or on the ordinary school blazer according to the prefect's status in games. Both prefects' and sports badges are shown in the tennis photograph referred to above.

Boys who have left school may purchase these blazers subject to the conditions laid down, but their sale is controlled by the school, and an order from the bursar, Mr. Langley, is necessary before a purchase can be effected in the city.

Prefects' Jottings.

This year Bunday was appointed Captain of the School. We congratulate him and feel certain he will carry on the fine standard set by our previous captains.

The new boys were soon learning their songs, in spite of many excuses, and all knew their songs before the Intercollegiate events. To turn an honest penny, the Prefects decided to sell colours to the rest of the school. One of the salesmen was so keen a student of the markets, that we made profits enough to supply the Preparatory school with free colours. Did they refuse them? This absorbed all the profits, in spite of many allegations to the contrary.

This year, the majority of the Prefects are dignified and reserved. Comparatively speaking, a dead silence reigns in the Prefects' room, save when one of our number fails to conquer his desire to run amok with his battle axe.

We were unfortunate in losing Nicholas, who left school at Easter. P. A. McBride was elected Head of the Boarding House in his stead. This loss was a severe blow to the Prefects' Tennis Team, which had challenged the Rest of the School, less a few of the champions. D. W. Trott was also unable to take part in this historic event, owing to ill-health. The stirring battle was fought out on the school courts on April 28th, and resulted in a narrow victory for the rabble, the Prefects very nearly succeeding in winning one set.

The high light of the school sports was the Prefects' obstacle race, which has already become a classic, being the second richest obstacle race in the southern hemisphere. After a great struggle and some shady wriggling, Phil McBride was declared the winner.

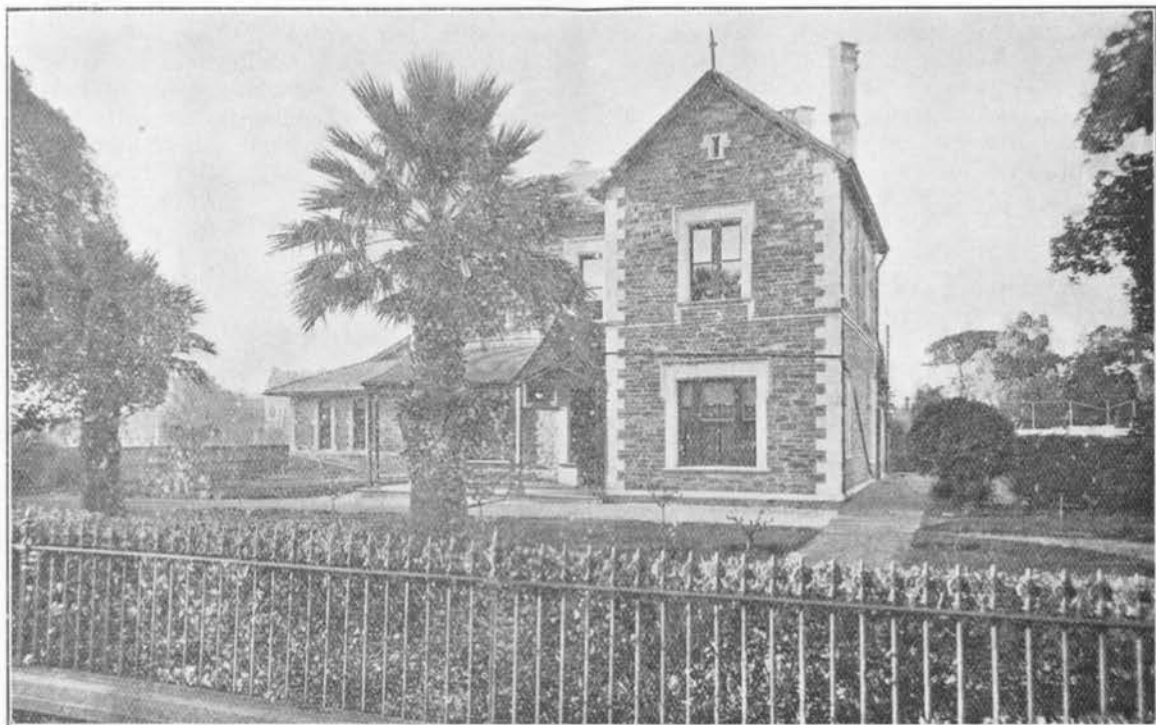

We have been well represented in school sports this term.

Congratulations to Nicholas, D. W. Trott and A. K. Trott on their inclusion in the record breaking Tennis Team; to A. J. King, A. K. Trott, and P. A. McBride on gaining their seats in the Eight; and to Delaporte, McBride, King, and Marlow on their places in the Athletic Team.

We all congratulate A. K. Trott and P. A. McBride on being awarded their merit badges.

In school work we were well represented, as the top five places in the school are occupied by Prefects.

We all heartily congratulate H. B. Holmes on being Dux of the school.

The Preparatory School

New boys always receive a hearty welcome at the Prep., and it is surprising how quickly they lose their look and feeling of newness and enter heartily into the life of the school. Every new enrolment quite fittingly includes a large proportion of boys whose fathers attended P.A.C., but the School is constantly attracting many others as well. Newcomers for 1934 are:—I. H. Hobbs, W. D. Gray, D. A. Barlow, R. R. Barlow, G. F. Chapman, D. L. Davies, and D. E. Dunn (all sons of Old Reds), and W. G. Darby, R. J. H. Harris, A. A. Jessup, L. C. Jessup, B. Jew, R. T. A. Jordan, J. P. Keeves, L. W. Kerr (full boarder), S. B. Martin, D. G. Meller, G. W. Pepperell, R. W. Peters, B. E. Thompson, J. B. White, and D. A. Williamson. Of these, Ian Hobbs and Douglas Gray belong to that small but steadily increasing company who constitute the third generation of Prince Alfred boys.

Scott Dolling left during the term on an extended visit to England, carrying with him the best wishes of his school-mates; also requests for special information about the test matches. No doubt he will have difficulty in keeping his correspondence up to date, for he has been promised a very bulky mail.

Two group photos of the Prep. were taken at the beginning of the term, and the results were very pleasing.

Cricket has claimed chief attention out of class this term, and all promising players have enjoyed valuable practice on the turf. A house-match was played under novel conditions in the hills, and one outside match. The Prep. "under 12" match against Queen's provided an interesting game, which was won by Princes by 16 runs. Queen's captain won the toss and sent P.A.C. in to bat, and they made 55 runs, Harley (22), J. Jessup (9), and J. Nobbs (5 not out) being chief scorers. Fowler and Smith between them secured most of the wickets. Queen's replied with a score of 39, King (11 not out), Freeman (6), and Ross (5) doing best for their side. Nobbs took 4 wickets for Princes, Tuck 2, Newman and A. Jessup each 1, while two were run out.

Composition continues to produce a good crop of unconscious humour in class. One effort made mention of "farming instruments," another of "dental implements." What a difference is made by the omission or misplacing of a letter in a word! In a letter written to Dolling one boy concluded thus:—

I remain,
Your fiend,

The missing letter turned up unexpectedly in the recitation lesson, where, in a poem about "The Merry Breeze," the line, "It swung the beeches to and fro," was so altered as to give a distinct impression of laundry day.

Early in the term, a party of fifty travelled up to Ayrbrook Farm, Aldgate, Library Notes.

Several additions have been made to the shelves of the Memorial Library this term. Most of the new books have gone into the Science section, which is now steadily growing. A few years back the Library made appeals for science books, and we are glad to be able to state that this section has nearly doubled itself in the last three years.

Books added this term are:—

"Lycidas and other Poems."—Milton. Edited by A. W. Verity, M.A. Verity's comments are always helpful, and this book deals with the early poems of Milton, which are usually set for study.

"The Essay Writer, New Style."—Guy N. Pocock. Presented by A. M. Bills, Esq. An instructive book written in a very entertaining manner. It not only helps one to write essays, but to appreciate the work of such great essayists as Addison and Lamb.

"Landscapes."—Published by "The Times." These portray scenes we have read about in well known books.

"The Teaching of Algebra, Including Trigonometry."—T. Percy Nunn. Although written for teachers, it explains theories in simple language and sets out general examples as patterns.

"Examples in Algebra."—T. Percy Nunn. These are based on the work of the former volume.

"Harrap's Standard French-English Dictionary."—Edited by J. E. Mansion. The need has long been felt for a comprehensive Dictionary which will give in greater detail French words and idioms. With the arrival of the second volume, an English-French Dictionary, French masters and students will feel far better equipped for translation and composition.

"Volumetric Analysis."—A. J. Berry. "Analytical Chemistry, Quantitative and Qualitative."—2 volumes by F. P. Treadwell, and translated from the German by W. T. Hall. These three books should prove most useful to Leaving Honours Students. Besides giving a chemical explanation of all analytical tests, they give hints which will be helpful in volumetric work.

"Supplement to the Oxford English Dictionary."—This book shows the increase in our vocabulary during the last few years and the change in meaning which some of our common words have undergone.

"Shorter Physical Geography."—Professor E. de Martonne, of the famous Sorbonne. This book is the last word in land forms and the resulting human reactions to them. It is beautifully illustrated with both photographs and diagrams.

"Principles of Human Geography."—E. Huntington and S. W. Cushing. Despite its American flavour this will appeal to all who realize that there is a cause behind the multitudinous variation of human response to environment.

LE CHASSEUR NOIR (Victor Hugo).

Hail, who goes by? The wood is sombre;
Dark ravens make, in countless number,
Their evil flight.
"I am he who comes when mortals slumber,
The Huntsman of the Night."

The storm-wind stirs the forest leaves,
Moaning and pining;
A spell the revelling witch-throng weaves
With hoots and whining;
Dimly where gloomy clouds it cleaves
The moon is shining.

Oh, hunt the deer, the fleeting hind,
Through waste and woodland, till thou find
Thy prey in sight.
Hunt thou the Czar and Austria's kind,
O Huntsman of the Night!
The storm-wind stirs . . .

Gird on thy hunting raiment; blow
Thy horn; ere long the stags shall know
Their dismal plight.
Hunt king and priest, to freedom, foe,
O Huntsman of the Night!
The storm-wind stirs . . .

'Tis thundering, in furious torrents raining;
The fox has fled—no hope of gaining E'en brief respite.
Hunt spy and judge, all tyrants reigning,
O Huntsman of the Night!
The storm-wind stirs . . .

The fiends that tempted Saint Anthony
Leap in the oats, but move not thee
To trembling fright.
Hunt monk and abbot as they flee,
O Huntsman of the Night!
The storm-wind stirs . . .

Hunt thou the bear; thy pack is yelling
Spare not the boar, his kin excelling
In hasty flight.
Hunt Caesar, Pope, their greatness telling,
O Huntsman of the Night!
The storm-wind stirs . . .

From his wonted track the wolf doth start—
Oh! may thy hungry pack depart
Intent on fight.
Hunt thou the brigand Bonaparte,
O Huntsman of the Night!

The forest leaves by breezes stirr'd
Bright Earth is claiming;
No curse with screech and raucous word
Are witches framing;
But songs of chanticleer are heard,
The dawn proclaiming.

Put on again thy fine array:
Thou art once more my France so gay,
So fair and bright,
White angel garb'd in light of day,
O Huntsman of the Night!

The forest leaves by breezes stirr'd
Bright Earth is claiming;
No curse with screech and raucous word
Are witches framing;
But songs of chanticleer are heard,
The dawn proclaiming.

TO MATHEMATICS.

Thou Queen of Science, at whose feet
We all are wont to fall,
Forgive the youths with warped minds
Who dare disdain thy call.

These miscreants would acquire success
By worshipping mere words;
Their reasoning powers they stultify
And chirp like little birds.

The Hindus on the Ganges' banks
Repaired to thee for joy,
Resolving cubics long ago,
The bane of every boy.

In Pharaoh's land was recognised
Thy power and grace supreme,
Those mighty tombs of Egypt still
A token to thy name.

Thy subtle beauty was enjoyed
Before the days of Rome,
Already can we see the dawn
Of greatness yet to come.

The centuries ahead, we trust,
Hold fresh glories for thy name.
To-morrow's youths will turn once more
To tread thy path to fame.

CANBERRA.

On the 18th of December, 1909, New South Wales agreed with the Commonwealth to surrender an area of 912 square miles as the Seat of Government of the Commonwealth. In December of the same year, Acts were passed by the Commonwealth approving of the agreement, and from January 1st, 1911 this area became Federal Territory.

After the Territory had been accepted and the site for the city selected, a world-wide competition was held for a suitable design, which was won by Mr. W. B. Griffin, of Chicago, U.S.A. His plan, with some necessary variations forms the design of the City of Canberra.

The city itself is scattered over a large area, and much of the space has been filled by lawns and plantations containing 16,000 trees and shrubs. There are five suburbs, two of which are close to the shopping centre, while the other three are several miles away across the Molongo River, and are connected to the centre by a service of luxurious motor buses. There are no individual shops, but they are all, banks included, part of two huge buildings separated by squares and broad streets.

The main beauty of the city lies not in the shopping centre, however, but in Parliament House, which, although only a temporary building to serve for fifty years, is a structure of great extravagance. It is 386 feet long, and 345 feet wide, and contains 350 rooms with a floor space of 137,621 square feet. The walls are made of brick, covered with white Medusa cement, and the floors are of Australian timbers.

The King's Hall is the first room one enters, and the atmosphere caused by its dazzling splendour is such that most people walk about on tip-toe for fear of disturbing its silence. Here one may see portraits of many important men in the Parliamentary history of Australia.

The House of Representatives Chamber is perhaps the most interesting, for here the speaker's chair is a replica of the one installed in the House of Commons at Westminster. The Royal Arms over the chair are carved in oak from the timbers of Westminster Hall (1399), and the hinged flaps on the arm rests are of oak from H.M.S. Victory (1805). Upon the table are two despatch boxes presented by H.M. King George V. The seats are upholstered in green leather and the carpets are also green, whereas those in the Senate Chamber are red.

The view from the roof of the building is magnificent. High mountains surround the city on three sides, and it is a pity that such a beautiful city should be so far away from Adelaide.

JOHN BULL.

John Bull is a character created in a work written by Dr. John Arbuthnot, a friend and associate of the great English satirist, Alexander Pope. Arbuthnot was a witty, clever Scottish doctor and writer, who lived from 1667-1735. The work in which the figure of John Bull appeared was a brilliant satirical sketch of the political situation in Europe at the time, in which the various countries were personified as men and women. England was John Bull, and Queen Anne, Mrs. Bull. The Church was Bull's mother, and Scotland his sister Peg.

John was a man of very good nature, but he was not perfect, and had his faults. He was an honest, plain-dealing, bluff man, courageous, but rather hot-tempered. He was represented by his creator as ready to quarrel with the French king on any pretext, and to fight him with any weapons. He was hard to deal with, especially if an opponent tried to master him; but, with a little kindness and flattery, he was easily led.

Strange as it may seem, a real John Bull lived in England. He was a doctor of music, who lived between 1562 and 1628. He is regarded as the probable composer of "God Save the King," our national anthem. The authorship of this piece of music is indefinite, but there is reason to believe that this melody was found among Bull's papers when he died.

If this is so, it is remarkable that the composer of the National Anthem and the character created by Arbuthnot as symbolic of the typical Englishman should have borne the same name.

IF

If I had met Pythagoras,
In some forgotten age,
And he had told me his intents,
I would have said, and with a groan,
"Think more about the elements
And leave geometry alone."

If Julius Caesar I had met,
Whom Britons hate, I fear—
His eyes a gleam with battle lust,
His pen behind his ear:
I would have said, with much disgust,
"Roman troops you well may lead;
But don't write books about yourself
That schoolboys have to read."

A TRIP TO THE BLUE MOUNTAINS.

Last September I spent a fortnight holidaying with my parents in New South Wales. The Government Tourist Bureau of New South Wales conducts motor tours to different parts of that State, and my father decided that we should make the tour to the Blue Mountains by motor.

After leaving Sydney a little before 5 a.m. we first passed through Parramatta. A little while later we began the climb in earnest, and we were really in the mountains. We frequently crossed the railway line, or else travelled parallel to it. Later in the morning we met a number of trains all Sydney bound. The whole time the road was winding in and out of the hills, and the scenery was ever changing. The towns along the road depend chiefly upon the tourist traffic. We arrived at Katoomba, which the driver informed us had a population of some 8,000. The road we had driven over, had been constructed by the convicts, and there were still old stone bridges with indications of convict labour. At one place we passed an old toll-house that had been used years ago. We also passed through a village in which the hotel keeper was named Kelly. He is supposed to be a direct descendant of the notorious Ned Kelly. About eight o'clock we reached a small place named Hampton. Here we had breakfast in a private home, which was the local cafe. The meal was delicious—probably our appetites had been sharpened by the keen mountain air. A little later we reached the highest point, four thousand two hundred feet above sea level. In the next few miles we descended three thousand feet, down to the "Caves House," at the Jenolan Caves. The track we followed was cut out of the side of the hill, and the road overlooked a valley, which was one of the most marvellous sights I have ever seen in my life. Just before we reached the Caves House, we had to pass through a big arch of rock. It was quite dark under this arch, and instead of slowing down the car, the driver accelerated and gave the party quite a thrill. To us there appeared no possible way out of the cave, but we soon emerged into the daylight.

After waiting a little while we joined a party, which was about to be conducted through the "Orient Cave." All the caves lead off from the arch. They are electrically lit, and there is no doubt about their beauty. We walked about two to three miles in this cave, and climbed some fifteen hundred steps. The land around the caves is a sanctuary for wild animals, and we saw a number of wallabies and kangaroos hopping about. The return journey was made over the same track, with a stop at Hampton for another enjoyable meal. Our arrival in Sydney completed the day's tour of two hundred and thirty miles.

THE EMDEN.

How many Australian boys know the full story of the German cruiser, Emden? Very few, I think. But ask a German youth and he might put you to shame. Having read the full story of the Emden, let me give you a brief outline of the amazing exploits carried out by this small cruiser. In view of the fact that the hunting ground of this ship was precariously near our land, I think all boys should have some idea of the ship's war-time service.

In charge of Kapitan von Müller, this ship stationed at Tsing-tau, on the Yellow Sea, received news on July 29th, 1914, that Austria-Hungary had declared war on Serbia, following upon the murder at Sarajevo of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, of Austria, the heir to the throne.

Upon receipt of this message the boat made ready and a preliminary cruise of the Yellow Sea was taken, after which the boat returned to its base, Tsing-tau, to take on more men, provisions, and coal. Having obtained these necessities, the Emden was to proceed to the Isle of Pagan to join the German North Pacific Squadron. Up to this time, August 10, Japan was wholly a neutral country, but from that date, so wireless messages reported, Japan was abandoning her neutral attitude, and would take active steps against German shipping if England's interests in China were attacked by Germany, or if Japanese shipping suffered any damage at the hands of the German navy. This made the trip from Tsing-tau to Pagan fairly exciting in view of the fact that a Japanese fleet was cruising in the neighbourhood.

At Pagan, the Emden received orders to proceed independently, and to act to the detriment of the enemy wherever it was possible. From Pagan the real cruise began, and the boat steered S.W. for the Mollucan Straits.

Whenever any enemy merchant or passenger ships were seen they were destroyed after the merchandise and crews had been transferred to a German merchant boat, which accompanied the Emden for the purpose. When the prisoners become too numerous, they were transferred to the next prize they captured. This boat would then have to run to the nearest open port and rid herself of the uncomfortable burden. The stores seized were always acceptable to the Emden, which having no port to run for was continually running out of provisions. Soap was a precious article, and could not be obtained in any large quantities. Perhaps the most important of all commodities desired on such a cruise was good coal. Invariably, great festivities accompanied any catch of coal, especially when it was anthracite.

After negotiating the Mollucan Straits successfully, the Emden passed along the southern coast of Java, and the west coast of Sumatra, destroying any enemy ships she happened upon. When Kapitan von Müller wished to rest his crew he merely avoided the chief shipping routes and lay to. Upon studying the maze of courses followed by the German skipper we cannot suppress our admiration for the ingenuity displayed by him, in avoiding the numerous squadrons which were bent on his destruction. When news was received in any vicinity that the Emden was near, shipping became paralyzed immediately, so great was the reputation held by the light German cruiser.

When the Emden had completed her destructive work in the Chacos and Maldive Islands, south of the Indian Peninsula, she turned her nose into the course by which she had come.

On October 28, 1914, bold plans were completed for the raid of the harbour of Penang, Straits Settlements. The Germans destroyed a Russian gun boat lying in harbour together with some merchantmen, returned to sea, and immediately destroyed a French destroyer which had given chase.

With all the excitement over, the Emden retraced her course along the west coast of Sumatra. It was while in this vicinity that the ever alert Kapitan von Müller conceived the idea of ransacking the wireless station on Direction Island, which was a most important link, being a relay station of the two cables, Australia—India, and Australia—Zanzibar—Africa. While a landing party was carrying this out, our Australian cruiser H.M.A.S. Sydney hove into view, having received news of the Emden's whereabouts. No time could be lost waiting for the landing party—the ship was cleared for instant action. She proved no match however, for the Sydney's longer range guns and superior marksmanship, and in a very short time was a charnel house of twisted, red hot steel. The Emden finally ran aground on the extreme southern coast of the coral island of North-Keeling. Kapitan von Müller, with some other officers, was interned at Malta, as a prisoner of war, for 5 years.

THE BARROWS OF WILTSHIRE.

These Barrows are large mounds of earth and chalk, being found chiefly near Stonehenge, Wilts., and on the heaths of Wessex. They stand out clearly against their level surroundings, sometimes singly, sometimes in groups. They are burial mounds, and the Rev. William Gilpin wrote in 1798 that "all the Plain (Salisbury Plain), at least that part of it near Stonehenge, is one vast cemetery." At one time they were thought to be memorials erected to those slain in battles, but, though in some circles this belief has lingered, it is very improbable that an army would tarry to build these skilfully designed monuments.

These Barrows may be divided roughly into two main classes, the Long Barrows and the Round Barrows. The Long Barrows are about three hundred feet long, forty feet wide, and from three to twelve feet high. The earth was taken from two trenches dug along the sides of the mound, but not continuing round the ends. They usually ran east and west, the eastern end being the higher, and containing the bodies. In many Long Barrows second interments are found, dating from the Bronze Age, whereas the first interments belong to the Neolithic Age. That this is so is shown by the articles found in them. Delicately chipped flint arrow-heads are often met with, and sometimes rough pottery, but no metal of any kind is found with the first interments.

The body was usually laid in a shallow excavation about two feet deep. The builders were herdsmen, long headed and dark (dolichocephalic), about 5 feet 6 inches high, and were followed by a race of pastoralists, three inches taller, round headed and fair (brachycephalic), who built the Round Barrows. The shape of their heads and the Barrows have no connection. The Long Barrows are much older than the Round Barrows, which were probably built about 1700 B.C.

The Round Barrows, which are much more numerous than the Long Barrows (about 25 to 1), may be subdivided into three groups, the Bowl, the Bell, and the Disc-shaped Barrows. The diameter of the Bowl-shaped Barrow varies from twenty to sixty feet, and the height from three to five feet. The Bell and Disc-shaped Barrows have diameters of a hundred feet or more, the former rising to a graceful cone about ten feet high, the second being a circular horizontal area, about level with the surrounding plain. In the centre lies the sepulchral deposit, under a mound not more than a foot high. These Barrows, although the most common, are often not noticed.

There are over three hundred Round Barrows near Stonehenge, compared with but two Long Barrows in the same area. This is explained by the fact that just as we find graveyards surrounding churches to-day, the inhabitants of the plains regarded Stonehenge as sacred ground, and therefore wished their remains to be buried near it. The body was usually buried with the head north, never west, as in Christian burial.

In the later Barrows the body is found in a crouching position, in a fairly deep grave covered with blocks of Sarsen for protection of the body. This is the case in the Disc-shaped Barrows, while in the Bowl and Bell Barrows three out of every four bodies have been cremated and the ashes placed in an inverted urn sealed with clay or flints. Generally drink and food vessels, incense cups, weapons and ornaments are found in the Disc Barrows. The pottery is crude, the only designs being done with a sharp stick, and circular designs and animals being entirely absent. Axes and metal arrow-heads are found, while in seven Barrows golden ornaments have been unearthed.

In his novels, Hardy tells of Barrows on the heaths of Wessex, and these are very similar to the Long Barrows near Stonehenge. Apparently these were built by the same people, the herdsmen of the Neolithic Age.

Early last century the villagers on the heaths, used the large Barrows as places for dancing, and for lighting fires on festival days.

BURIAL IN NORTHERN AUSTRALIA.

In some tribes in Australia, the natives eat their dead to ensure reincarnation among kinsmen, but the tribes of the Northern Territory have more elaborate burial rites.

Perhaps the most extraordinary feature is that the lamentation—consisting of piercing wails and howls, accompanied by gashes, self-inflicted, across the thighs, so deep in some cases that the mourner, with his muscles nearly severed, is unable to stand—takes place while the patient is still alive.

Much the same scene is enacted when death has supervened; men and women rush about with pointed sticks and clubs, cutting themselves and each other, no one attempting to ward off blows. This continues for an hour or more, till the corpse is carried off to a tree some distance away and laid on a platform of boughs. After this, the camp is moved.

The aborigines do not understand natural death. Death is considered murder by magic. The Warramunga men examine the tree grave, three days after the death, hoping to find some trace of visiting bird or beast. This would indicate the totem of the killer, and further rites would show the person on whom vengeance should be violently executed. If no totem marks are found, the body is left for a year in the tree. The kinsmen return and rake the skeleton to the ground, after asking permission of the dead man's spirit. The youngest man smashes the skull with a stone axe and the other bones, except one arm-bone, are disposed of by knocking the top off a white ant's mound, sliding the bones down the centre, and replacing the top.

The arm-bone is then wrapped in paper-bark and tied with opossum fur string by the oldest tribesman, who also decorates one end with feathers. The burial party then hunt in the scrub for funeral meats.

The burial men on the following day arrive in camp with the arm-bone and the meats. The arm-bone, wrapped in bark, is handed to the father of the dead, who gives it to a tribal sister to keep for the final ceremony, while, at the same time, the women of the tribe sit down and start to wail. The final rites consist of a totem ceremony to ensure reincarnation, and then the brother of the dead snatches the bone from the old woman, holds it out to an old man, who, with a stone axe, smashes it at a blow. It is at once thrust into a hole in the ground and buried.

WRITTEN IN BED.

At sunrise when the rooster starts to crow,
I rouse me, and a brick at him I throw
And cry "Avaunt!" and back to bed I go;
But at night when I am lying in my bed,
I think of all the things I should have said.

When I am asked a question in the class,
I just stand up and make a bally farce,
And masters say I am a silly ass;
But at night when I am lying in my bed,
I think of all the things I should have said,

When someone asks me where's a certain street,

I'm always knocked completely off my feet,
And give an answer that is near a bleat;
But at night when I am lying in my bed,
I think of all the things I should have said,

When I am speaking to a pretty girl,
My head, confused, at once begins to whirl,
And I forget to mention she's a perfect pearl!
But at night when I am lying in my bed,
I think of all the things I should have said.

At evening when I bid the folks adieu,
I go to bed and think what I've been through,
And what a simple nincompoop should do;
And then while I am lying in my bed
I dream of all the things I should have said.

The New Outlook.

People are beginning to talk of a "new outlook" as once they spoke of a "depression." It is the outcome of habit. None of them knows accurately what the "outlook" is or wherein lies its novelty, but they dimly recognise a change that requires a name for easier reference. So they name it, vaguely, as an astronomer might name a star.

It was thus with the depression. It was christened early and its name eventually wore thin with service. Yet, after four years' experience, no one is very much wiser about it. No one, for instance, knows how far it was economic and how far psychological, and no one ever will. All that is certain is that the psychological factor was important and that the psychological factor, analysed, meant ourselves.

All the evidence points that way. Back in 1931, there was a barbarous ditty that finished:

"I have had a good day, to-day."

The songsters realised that the depression existed partly in ourselves, so they did their best to help banish it by promising us that the good times we so badly needed were really on the way. And they told us so not once, but many times. You heard it on the street, at the pictures, over the air, until you whistled it yourself and almost believed it to be true. Then they knew that they had triumphed and that as much of the depression as was in us, had, for the time, been driven out.

The process was a simple one based on sound psychological principles. But the task was too arduous. With faint, but heroic exhortations to "pat yourself on the back," the songsters gave up the ghost and took to writing blues. And then the politicians stepped in. Their psychological approach was just the same only they phrased it differently. In the civilised part of the world, the Governments said, "Recovery is just round the corner," without naturally specifying which corner. The opposition insisted that recovery was within easy reach; but obtainable only by their methods; that amounted to the same thing, only their methods were not clear.

The important fact was that recovery, so they all said, was somewhere close at hand and as we were out after that recovery hotfoot, it encouraged us to be told we were not so far behind. That, in fact, sums up the service of the songsters and the politicians. They encouraged us by telling us what we wanted to believe, and their success was measured by the rise and fall of that mysterious quantity Confidence, Confidence in the country, Confidence in the Government, Confidence . . . or to reduce it to its simplest terms, our Confidence in ourselves.

So the depression was partly psychological, and the "new outlook" can be brought into focus by the same principles that the songsters and the politicians adopted. In fact, many have adapted them in writing of the depression entirely in the past tense. They say: "It was, and is now no more." Briefly, that is the "new outlook." The depression IS past history, a mumbling dirge of the elders, fit to raise on the lips of warriors nought but contemptuous smiles. Master that, and the future is as fresh, untrammelled, and as full of adventure as the ocean is at dawn.

As old boys, our thoughts turn to the School. It has had its share of the hard times. How does it fare now, in this new radiance that shows above the hills to which tradition bids us lift our eyes? The signs are reassuring. There are more boys, more confidence . . . the stars in their courses seem to be fighting for us again. And we who have borne with the School her trouble, hear the New Outlook translated in that ageless cry: "Go in, Princes!"

Old Boys' Week.

The year has slipped by rapidly and once again the work necessary to carry out our big "Reunion Week" has to be taken in hand. It is a big task to successfully organise ten events following closely one after another and the work makes a heavy demand on the Executive of our Association. Members can, however, by exercising a little thought, greatly lighten the task, and this opportunity is taken to make a special appeal to them with that end in view. On another page will be found the full programme for the week, but, for the guidance of all a few details about each function is given herein.

Golf Match.—This was played last year on the Wednesday, but it clashed with two other functions that day and greatly increased the Secretaries' work. It has therefore been fixed as the opening event of the week.

Bridge Evening.—Few of those who were present last year will wish to miss this function. It was a most delightful evening, and we look forward to a still larger attendance on this occasion. Either Auction or Contract can be played by arrangement with your opponents as only wins and losses are taken into consideration in the Final Count. Therefore, if you play Bridge, arrange a partner and send in your names promptly.

Football Matches.—The support given to these games by the country players was rather disappointing last year. Several country players sent in their names but failed to put in an appearance, thus upsetting the pleasure of Old Boys' Day and the organising work of the Secretaries. At least 27 players are required from the country and if these are not forthcoming then the Committee will be forced to consider deleting one of the games from the programme.

Annual Dinner.—Last year a particularly happy note was struck at this function with the result that those present expressed their appreciation for some days after. Our speeches on that occasion were of a high standard—a standard that we aim to maintain. On this occasion the Chair will be occupied by the Hon. S. W. Jeffries, the Attorney General. Efforts are being made to exchange greetings by wireless with the Old Boys at the Sydney Dinner.

Annual Dance.—This will again be held at the Palais. Each year the attendance has shown an increase on the previous year and over 900 were present on the last occasion, thus showing how popular the function has become. The Committee is particularly jealous of the standard of our Dance.

Old Scholars' Service.—Last year the Assembly Room was filled to the doors and it is hoped to again secure a record attendance. The proceedings will be broadcast and for the benefit of our country and interstate visitors, we ask all who possibly can attend, to do so, in order that a satisfactory presentation may go forth over the air.

In conclusion our members are assured that the Committee will spare no effort to make the week a success. They cannot do this without the support of our members. We are now over 2,000 strong and our Re-union Week is the largest and most comprehensive in the Commonwealth. Our final appeal is therefore for your whole hearted support.

No. 21—Mr Arthur Hill.

Mr. Arthur H. Hill, the subject of this pen sketch by Mr. R. W. Blundell, is at present enjoying a holiday in England. He attended College from July, 1880 to December, 1883 (School Register No. 855).

For many years he has been associated with the well-known company of Jas. Hill & Son, Ltd.

He was elected President of this Association in 1898 and has always been one of our most enthusiastic Old Boys. He is a Past Master of the P.A. Old Collegians' Masonic Lodge, and Past First Principal of the United Collegians Royal Arch Chapter.

In his younger days he was a keen rifle shot, lacrosse player and cricketer. He is now a golf enthusiast and has represented this Association in the Annual Match with St. Peter's Old Boys.

He is a Life Member (No. 47) of this Association.

Prince Alfred College Committee.

At the last Annual Conference, L. S. Clarkson was appointed to the School General Committee and at the Annual Meeting held in March last was elected to the School Executive Committee.

At the same meeting, P. R. Claridge was elected to the School Council.

In addition to the above, all Association representatives were re-elected.

Back Numbers of Chronicle.

Members are advised that spare copies of previous issues of the Chronicle are obtainable upon application to the Association Secretaries.

Fifty Years Ago.

The writer entered the School in 1882 as a boarder and left at Christmas, 1884, 3 glorious years in a boy's life. His first thoughts and impressions were; (1) what a great School—the northern wing of the main building was then being built and was first occupied in 1883. (2) What a fine lot of masters and boys—Masters: Mr. Chapple (Head), Mr. Churchward, Mr. Sunter, Mr. Wainwright, Mr. Short (still going strong), and others. Boys: Frank Colton (Dux), Captain of the Football Club, Vice-Captain Cricket Club, and Champion Athlete of the School (what a great record); Laurie Evan, Captain of the Cricket Club; Hy Jackson (Stonewall), a great footballer and athlete; Harry, Alf, and Arthur (Paddy) Shakes; A. Melrose (Sandy); Geo. and Billy Upton, and Tom Price, from Wentworth; R. T. Robinson; Moore, and Alf Lowe from W.A.; Charley Baeyertz, who edited and published the first College paper, "The Chronicle," a great literary and financial success. It was eagerly bought up by the boarders and Charley got a new pair of pants out of the venture. There was only one issue; later Charley became editor of a leading paper in New Zealand; Frank Counter and Alf Lowe, Joint Secretaries of the Sports Club; H. W. Crompton (Crommie) and many other delightful school pals.

Jim Iliffe came after the midwinter holidays in 1882, and remained in the School for 50 years as scholar and Master, a record likely to stand for many years. Bill Bayly was also at School in 1882 and afterwards became Head Master, another splendid achievement. The great pillow fight occurred in 1882 when the Senior Dormitory invaded the Sub-Seniors. What a great scrap! Knotted towels, pillows, slippers, etc., flying in all directions. And what a wreck! It took the Subs some time to clean up after the fight, and of course the usual severe lecture from the Head Master followed in the morning. But it was worth it!

The College Cricket match in 1884 caused a mild rivalry between the Fifth Class and the rest of the School. When the team was finally selected there were five members from the noted Fifth Class and six from the rest of the School. The team selected their captain in those days, and the School voted solidly for J. Rowley (6 votes), and the Fifth for W. Hoath (5 votes). Rowley was elected Captain and Hoath, Vice-Captain. The Fifth then challenged the rest of the School to play a cricket match for the School Championship, a challenge they promptly accepted. The Fifth won easily, defeating the School by 6 wickets.

College Team, 1884.

School—J. Rowley, Captain, Arthur Hill, Rowley Hill, Pam Heath, Joe Darling, Banji Cook. Fifth Class—W. Hoath, Vice-Captain, C. A. Cleland, Jim Cowling, Billy Miller, Hugo Leschen, A. J. Boase, 12th man.

Billy Miller had only one hand, his left arm was taken off at the elbow. He made 14 not out in the first innings and 32 not out in the second, altogether a unique performance.

Saints won the match on the first innings, 2 days only being allowed for the match in those days. C. Hayward (Captain Saints) made top score, 126, which stood as a Saints record for a long time.

Joe Darling made his big score of 250 in 1885; afterwards he became Captain of the Australian Eleven, and retained the position for some years.

Up to 1884 the Princes won every football match against Saints, and the Saints the cricket matches. It is great to look back over the Old School days of so long ago and count up the school pals and wonder where they all are. Some have passed into the great beyond.

Many look forward to the Old Boys' Week, that one glorious week in the year when we become boys again although the thatch on top may have become thin or disappeared altogether.

J.H.C.

P.A.C. Building Endowment Fund.

Your Committee still has the matter under consideration and a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. L. D. Waterhouse, A. G. Collison, T. C. Craven, F. L. Collison and the Joint Secretaries has been appointed to further the scheme.

Already several donations have been received and promises of other amounts have been made. It is hoped that further particulars will be available at an early date.

Success of Old Boys.

Raymond H. James (Life Member, No. 662), who entered the College in 1921 has passed the final examination in accountancy. He is now an Associate of the Federal Institute of Accountants. We offer him our congratulations.

C. H. Allen, who will be remembered by his chums at College in 1895-6 as "Bunny," and who has for some years occupied a position in the Engineering and Water Supply Department of this State, has been awarded the Sir George Murray Essay Prize in the associates' section of the essay competitions arranged by the Institute of Public Administration. His essay was entitled "Psychology and Staff Relationship."

Colin Hassell, who served his articles as an architect with Mr. H. H. Cowell, has been awarded a Travelling Scholarship, and will shortly proceed to London to gain further experience in his profession.

Noel Goss has been awarded a bursary of the value of £20 by the Royal Society of St. George, in connection with his studies at the Adelaide University.

Arnold W. Lemon has been awarded the Eric Smith Scholarship, the gift of the Commercial Travellers' Association. This scholarship covers a Degree Course at the Adelaide University. He has already entered upon the Law Course and has passed his first year.

MR. MARSDEN DEMPSTER,

M.C.E., B.E., B.S.C.

A. Marsden G. Dempster, M.C.E., B.E., B.Sc. (England), and L.S., attended Prince Alfred College during 1907-1908. He is the son of W. E. Dempster (an old Red, 1884-1888). He completed his education at the Guildford Grammar School, W.A., where he won a Government Scholarship of £60 per annum for four years, and graduated in the above engineering degrees with five honors at the Perth and Melbourne Universities. At present he holds the position of Engineer of Bridges for the Victorian Country Roads Board, and has designed and supervised the erection of many fine bridges all over the State.

Out of the 12 designs for the Centennial Bridge at Port Melbourne, to cost £58,000, 1,000 feet in length, by 65 feet, this was finally selected by the Harbors Board as the soundest structurally, the most ornamental, architecturally, and the most economical, financially, and he was awarded the £600 offered. The bridge has several novel features, and already a good start has been made on it. It will probably be opened by the Duke of Gloucester in October next.

Purely Personal.

Dr. J. T. Mitchell, Messrs. Fred J. Beach, and John C. Hill, all of whom attended P.A.C. in 1869 attended the complimentary luncheon tendered to Mr. S. W. Jeffries, whilst on his recent trip to Sydney by Old Boys resident there. This meeting of three of our "Oldest Old Boys" outside of this State must surely be unique. (A full report appears under Branch News).

It is always interesting to record each year the Professions or Callings chosen by the various boys leaving College. Of those who left their Alma Mater last Christmas Don Dawkins, Howard Edelman, David Crompton, and Jack Hill have commenced the Medical Course at the 'Varsity, whilst G. R. James and Malcolm Playford are doing Law.

V. H. Dickson (Savings), L. C. Dadds (National), J. C. Stephens (Adelaide), have chosen Banking as their calling.

R. D. Johns was awarded a Scholarship at the Royal Naval College.

Clive Dundas has joined the staff of the Vacuum Oil Coy., whilst Cliff Bray has gone into Elder, Smith, & Co.

Dr. A. R. Southwood and Mr. T. C. Craven, members of our Committee, were entertained at luncheon by the Committee of this Association prior to their departure for England.

Other "Old Reds" who have also left Australia for the same destination are Dr. C. E. Dolling (one of the selectors for the Australian Eleven), Dr. F. J. Chapple, Messrs. Arthur H. Hill, A. A. L. Rowley, Len Bassett and J. S. Hall.

Don Magarey spent some time in Japan before proceeding to England via America.

Mr. W. R. Bayly has been re-elected President of the Royal Society of St. George. He has also been appointed Chairman of the Burnside Branch of the Y.O.C.

Norman Chinner, who was for some years in the office of Elder, Smith, & Co., has resigned in order to accept the appointment of Music Master at the College. He has had a brilliant career for he was "Elder Organ Scholar" of 1927. He will retain the post of Organist and Choirmaster at Kent Town Methodist Church.

Dr. Bruce Laurence has been appointed Hon. Surgical Registrar of the Prince of Wales general Hospital, London.

There were many entries for the "Advertiser" Flying Scholarship, and after all had been given a trial flight 14 entrants were selected for further tests. Amongst these were L. B. Dunn, M. W. Oliver, and J. E. Vardon.

A. M. (Jock) Bills has gone to Oxford to read for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Jim S. Hall has gone to London to gain further experience in his chosen profession, Architecture. He secured an appointment with a leading firm of Architects almost immediately upon his arrival.

MR. H. W. A. MILLER.

Members will regret to learn that Mr. Miller has recently undergone two operations and is still in hospital.

We all wish him a speedy recovery.

Tennis.

The Annual Old Scholars' Tennis Match was played at Prince Alfred College and resulted in an easy victory for Princes by 12 sets to 4.

Gar and Ron Hone had an even match against Don Turnbull and Black, both pairs hitting hard with service predominating, and this match was much appreciated by the spectators.

They, however, had little difficulty in defeating Alec Turnbull and J. L. Bonython. Freak and Lock were rather disappointing, being easily beaten by D. P. Turnbull and Black, and only breaking even with G. A. Turnbull and Bonython.

Colin Gurner and Norm. Dawkins were much too experienced for, and played entertaining tennis to defeat Bowen and Paterson, also Evans and Muecke both very easy victories.

Jim Allen and Ken Berriman also beat both these pairs in straight sets, but received unexpected opposition from Bowen and Paterson. Allen, who played very well against Evans and Muecke having a very bad patch against the other pair.

G. M. and R. B. Hone (P.A.C.) v. D. P. Turnbull and J. R. Black (S.P.S.C.), 4-6, 6-3; v. A. Turnbull and J. L. Bonython (S.P.S.C.), 6-4, 6-0.

E. Freak and R. Lock (P.A.C.) v. D. P. Turnbull and J. R. Black (S.P.S.C.), 1-6, 4-6; v. A. Turnbull and J. L. Bonython (S.P.S.C.), 6-4, 4-6.

K. Berriman and J. Allen (P.A.C.) v. L. A. R. Evans and J. Muecke (S.P.S.C.), 6-4, 6-1; v. T. Bowen and A. Paterson (S.P.S.C.), 7-5, 7-5.

Totals:—P.A.C., 12 sets; S.P.S.C., 4 sets.

Old Collegians' Cricket and Bowls.

Owing to the difficulty of obtaining representative teams for the Old Scholars' Cricket match with St. Peter's Old Scholars it was deemed advisable to cancel the match for this year. The Interstate Bowls Carnival prevented our annual match being played at the usual time (early in March). The match was postponed until early in April, but owing to the lateness of the season our opponents were unable to obtain a representative side, and so the match was cancelled, but only for this year.

Playing Football at 65.

During the last few months we have received several interesting letters from T. A. Laurance, No. 1,196, on the College Roll, and who now resides at "Rickey," 123 Were Street, Brighton, Victoria.

The Old Collegians' Football Club is in need of players for its teams in the Amateur League and Students' Association, and Mr. Laurance's letter is somewhat a reproach to those eligible young stalwarts, who might assist their old School, and were he in this State, his enthusiasm might make him an aspirant for selection.

He writes:—"I was playing in the Veterans' Football Match on the Melbourne Cricket Ground recently, and as an old P.A.C. Boy now 65 years of age, and the second oldest man in the team, trying to uphold the wonderful record which the old school has always maintained in the realm of sport.

I live close here to C. A. Harder, an old Clare boy, and Mr. Martin, a former master at P.A.C., in whose class I was, lives in Hampton, about 1 mile from here. I met a man named Marchant at the Football Ground. His ancestors had a photo place in Rundle Street, and when my Dad took me to P.A.C. in December, 1882, I was taken there to have my picture taken.

I would like to get the "Chronicle" if it is still published, as I get very little information about the old school now, but still take a very keen interest.

The following appeared in the "Chronicle" during my term of residence at the College:—

"Lives there a boy with soul so dead
Who never to himself has said,
"I will the College Chronicle take Both for my own and the College sake?"
If such there be, let him repent,
And let the paper to him be lent,
He'll spend happy hours through summer and Winter,
And in advance he'll pay the printer."

Mr. Laurance has now joined the Association, and has been supplied with copies of the "Chronicle."

Later he writes:—"Is the Mr. Miller, your Joint Secretary, any relation to Bill Miller, a chap with one arm that went to P.A.C. in my time? (No—Editor). I should be well remembered at P.A.C., as I started a mumps epidemic in early December, 1883, and the following December I was the first patient in a measles epidemic, and about 20 fellows were affected altogether before they got it under. The measles caused a great scare, as the year before I went over to school, a W.A. boy (Geo. Lowe), son of Rev. W. Lowe, a Wesleyan Minister, of Perth, contracted measles and died.

My father met Mr. Chapple when he passed through Albany to take control of P.A.C., and shortly after this, my father came over himself to take charge of the Mt. Barker circuit as a Wesleyan parson.

My last visits to the old school were in 1905, when I met Mr. Chapple again, and in 1929, when I met Mr. Bayly, and was very cordially received."

At Home and Abroad.

The following are extracts from a letter received from Ken H. Thomas, who was at the School from 1918 to 1920.

"Wewak,"

Sepik District,

Territory of New Guinea.

After spending a few months as Patrol Officer in charge at Marienberg, on the Lower Sepik River, I was relieved just prior to the rainy season, when the mosquitoes began to really appear, to the misfortune of my successor. After a few weeks at Aitape on the Coast, which is the present head station of the Sepik District, I was given the position of Acting Assistant District Officer and posted at Wewak.

I am gradually acquiring films of patrolling duties and native life here. My great regret is that no film arrived in time to take with me on the last patrol, as I was in a new and rather interesting area. However, I gathered a few good snaps and if it can be arranged, I will be pleased to exhibit such films as I have, at the School. I hope to be home on furlough some time in May. These pictures should be of interest, especially as some are of the real bush folk, who have been very little affected by European contact, except in the use of iron implements in place of stone. I recently encountered an area where the throwing stick, which is made of bamboo, is used, and I trust that I do not encounter these sticks in actual operation against me. Demonstrations of their use lead me to think that they would be rather difficult to dodge.

The Scout notes in "The Chronicle" from time to time always interests me. After ten years as a Rover Scout I am still keen, particularly as I consider much of the patrol work here is simply Rover Scout work put into practice.

Obituary.

Arthur Churchill Thomas, aged 64 years, one of the State's foremost sportsmen, collapsed and died at the Unley Oval on Saturday afternoon, 28th April, while watching the Sturt-Port football match. He attended P.A. College from July, 1882 to December, 1883. (School Register No. 1,156).

Mr. Thomas, who was Crown Law Clerk, and attached to the office of the Crown-Solicitor, was to have retired from the service on Friday, 4th May, after 40 years with the Crown Law Department.

For many years he appeared for the Crown at preliminary enquiries into murder charges. He attended the Criminal Sessions to assist the Crown Prosecutor, and went on circuit with the judges when important cases had to be heard.

Ronald F. Pullin died at Adelaide on the 20th August, 1933, aged 25 years. He attended College during 1922-23 (School Register No. 5,857), and passed the Junior Public Examination in 1922.

Upon leaving school he entered the English, Scottish, and Australian Bank, and was still employed there at the time of his death.

He was a member of this Association.

Sidney Edwin Beach, the last of the original members of the Adelaide Stock Exchange, died at the Unley Private Hospital on 15th March, at the age of 74. He was born at Prospect, and attended College during 1874 and 1875 (School Register No. 368). After leaving school his first position was with John Colton & Co. After six years with that firm Colonel Beach visited England and arranged to represent a large number of commercial houses at the Adelaide Exhibition in 1887.

In 1888 he became a sharebroker, and was one of the first brokers to open an agency in London. In the early stages of Broken Hill he conducted an extensive correspondence with British newspapers respecting the potentialities of that field. He took an active interest in the opening up of the Western Australian goldfields, and also devoted a large amount of attention and capital to Queensland tin and other properties.

When he helped to form the Adelaide Stock Exchange in September 1887, he was only 27, and the original members numbered 50. He retired in February of last year, after a membership of 46 years. He was a member of the committee for one year—1898-99.

For many years Colonel Beach was connected with the South Australian military forces, his career with it dating from June, 1877, when he enrolled as a private. He was gazetted a lieutenant on December 27, 1877, and transferred to the North Adelaide company. In 1881 he volunteered for service in South Africa against the Zulus. He retired with the rank of colonel in 1905.

Colonel Beach was for many years a member of the committee of the Adelaide Racing Club and raced his own horses. Among those he owned were First Post, Sir Edwin, Sir Percival, Ambuscade, Counter Attack, Arnette, Duke Purple, Avery, and La Reveille.

Thirty years ago Colonel Beach married Miss Jessie Napier, a daughter of the late Dr. Napier, and a sister of Mr. Justice Napier, at Chalmers Church (now Scots). She survives him. Messrs. Sidney and Rodney Beach, of Millswood, are two sons, and Miss Elizabeth Beach the only daughter.

Prince Alfred Old Collegians' Cricket Club.

The Old Collegians' Cricket Club succeeded in winning the premiership of the Adelaide Turf Association, and have thus secured the Pryor Shield. During the season twelve matches were played, of which nine were won, two lost, and one drawn, the two games lost being the first and last. The Matches up to Xmas were described in the last Chronicle.

January 6th and 13th, v. St. Peter's Old Collegians at St. Peter's College.—This was probably the most enjoyable match of the whole season. On the first day S.P.O.C. were dismissed for 136 (H. N. Shepley 5/37, L. S. Clarkson 4/35) and P.A.O.C. collapsed very badly and were dismissed for 71, the last wicket falling right on time. On the second day St. Peter's batted again and as a result of some excellent bowling and fielding, were dismissed by 4 o'clock for 93. (L. S. Walsh secured 6 wickets for 19, L. S. Clarkson 2/3). Our fellows having already been defeated on the first innings, they set out after an outright win, 159 runs being required in exactly two hours. For the first hour, scoring was slow and wickets were falling at regular intervals. Evans and L. S. Clarkson then became associated and added 91. On Evans dismissal, 42 were still needed. By this time Clarkson was sighting them and proceeded to hit off the necessary runs and P.A.O.C. succeeded three minutes before time amid great excitement. (M. W. Evans 38, L. S. Clarkson 86 not out).

January 20th and 27th, v. Payneham at Prince Alfred College.—Payneham batted first and were dismissed for 146. (H. N. Shepley 4/25, D. A. Clarkson 2/19, L. S. Clarkson 3/26). P.A.O.C. put together 269 for 8 wickets. (R. A. Woods 71, L. S. Walsh 53, L. S. Clarkson, not out 62, H. G. Prest 20, A. C. Wilton 26, E. Male 25). The innings was then declared and an effort made to dislodge Payneham again. When time was called they had lost 9 wickets for 82, so that Princes just failed to secure an outright win. (H. N. Shepley, 2/20, H. Kirkwood 1/10, D. A. Clarkson 2/23, L. S. Clarkson, 1/5).

January 29th, v. Prospect at Prince Alfred College.—Prospect registered 183 (D. A. Clarkson 3/51, R. A. Woods 2/21) and their total was passed for the loss of only one wicket, our final score being 1 for 190. (M. W. Evans 109 not out, Woods 21, R. Johnson 48 not out).

February 3rd and 10th, v. St. Peter's Old Collegians at Prince Alfred College.—P.A.O.C. had first use of a good wicket and occupied the creases for the whole afternoon, putting up the respectable score of 270. (M. W. Evans 43, R. Johnson 42, H. G. Prest 47, L. S. Clarkson 14, H. P. Kirkwood 18, H. N. Shepley 71, E. Male not out 21). On the second day S.P.O.C. were got rid of for 137. (D. A. Clarkson 2/44, A. C. Wilton 5/25, H. N. Shepley 3/22). The Reds slumped very badly at their second attempt, losing 7 wickets for 55, but the match was already won on the first innings.

February 17th and 24th, v. Hawthorn at Hawthorn Oval.—This was really the Premiership Match. Hawthorns were putting up a strong bid for the leading honours, and on the first day after a shaky start, they recovered and put together 215 while at the close of play we had lost two good wickets for 13 runs (D. A. Clarkson 3/40, H. N. Shepley 2/26, H. Kirkwood 2/26). On the second day L. S. Clarkson and M. W. Evans were associated in a very sound partnership which added 80 to the score. Clarkson lost his wicket at 29 made in slow time, but Evans continued and, finding partners in Kirkwood (36) and Shepley (33), our opponent's score was headed, our last wicket falling with the score at 266. Evans carried his bat for 134. Incidentally, he registered this performance on three occasions during the season.

March 3rd and 10th, v. Prince Alfred College at Prince Alfred College.—P.A.O.C. started very badly, losing three wickets for 10. Kirkwood and Shepley then added 46 and subsequently L. S. Clarkson and A. C. Wilton put on 87 together, the tally reaching 233 (H. P. Kirkwood 58, H. N. Shepley 16, L. S. Clarkson 66, A. C. Wilton 35, Willmore not out 21). The College team was dismissed for 132 (H. N. Shepley 4/16, A. C. Wilton 1/16, R. Johnson 1/20, L. S. Clarkson 1/5).

March 17th and 24th, v. East Torrens Colts at Payneham.—The Premiership already won, the team entered lightheartedly into this game. East Torrens compiled 194. H. N. Shepley 3/33, H. P. Kirkwood 5/42, Walsh 2/34). Dr. Prest fell heavily during this innings and seriously injured his shoulder, being incapacitated for several weeks afterwards. The P.A.O.C. innings closed for 158. The total would have been less than 100 had not Kirkwood and Wilton added 51 for the eighth wicket. East Torrens won on the first innings.

The averages for the season, which speak for themselves, are given below. M. W. Evans and H. N. Shepley did exceptionally well in their respective spheres.

Old Boys in Sport.

TENNIS.

Gar Hone again represented South Australia against Victoria in March.

Eric Freak and Ross Lock represented S.A. in Linton Cup Competition in Sydney in January.

Eric Freak was runner-up in Australian Junior Singles Championship.

Ron Hone was a member of Kensington Team which won the Premiership in District Tennis.

Eric Freak won the Junior Singles Championship of South Australia in March, also the Suburban Doubles and Mixed Doubles Championship at Kensington Gardens at Easter, with partners.

J. L. Allen again represented Adelaide University in Inter-Varsity Tennis.

T. G. Luke won the South Australian Hard Court Singles Championship of Mt. Gambier.

Ken Berriman was a member of the Glen Osmond Team which won the Premiership in "A" Grade.

Ernie Copping, from Lucindale, won the final of the Mens' Singles Championship at the Country Tennis Carnival held in Adelaide in March. He was also successful in the final of the Mixed Doubles Handicap.

W. Ross Trengove won the Boys' Singles Championship at the same carnival.

CRICKET.

A pleasing feature of the past cricket season was the inclusion of both Ron Parker and Bob Wright in the State side that played an eleven from Western Australia towards the end of summer. In the first of the two matches, Wright, with 77, was the highest scorer on the S.A. side, whilst Parker (46) headed the list in the second match; in the latter game Wright also made 37. As the result of these two matches Wright, with an average of 42, occupied third position in the State's batting list for the season.

Once again Gordon Harris was well to the fore in the batting aggregates in club fixtures, and his presence at the top of the Port Adelaide averages seems to be developing into a habit. Jock Palmer has also had an excellent season, and the fact that he headed the batting averages of the premiership team speaks volumes in itself.

Parker, Norm. Walsh, and Bradshaw have materially added to Sturt's batting strength, whilst Doug. McKay's all-round performances have been of great value to the Adelaides.

The following list of averages culled from the past season may be of interest:—

ROWING.

Less than five years have passed since the School took up rowing again, but it is gratifying to see some of the Old Boys, who rowed with us winning prominent positions in Senior Rowing.

W. G. Chapman, who rowed in two College Eights, was selected to fill the bow position in the 'Varsity Eight last year, and has held the seat again this year.

R. B. Ward, who rowed twice in our Eight, has been selected to row three in the 'Varsity Eight this year. Both these seats were won against the keenest competition.

J. C. Williams, who stroked two of our Eights, one of which was the first crew to win the Gosse Head-of-the-River Shield, has had outstanding success. Almost immediately after leaving the College, he went into an Adelaide Rowing Club Eight, and was soon made stroke of the boat. Since then he has been stroke of several Maiden and Junior Eights, and early this year stroked the Adelaide Club's boat in the State Junior Eights. Six weeks later he stroked their Senior Eight in the State Championship and brought his boat into second place. The selectors of the S.A. Rowing Association then chose him to stroke a Composite Eight to row Berri in a Test Race to decide South Australia's representation in the King's Cup Race. Though one of the youngest S.A. oarsmen ever invited to accept such a responsibility, he handled his crew with judgment and skill, and proved himself at least one of the best Strokes in the State.

C. E. Runge, who rowed seven behind Jack Williams in our Eight, has rowed with him frequently since in Association Regattas. This year, Colin was one of an Adelaide Crew, which won a Senior Fours event.

D. O. Crompton, who stroked our Head-of-the-River Eight last year, just missed inclusion in the 'Varsity Eight, but has stroked the Second Eight for most of the season.

In addition, two Old Boys, J. C. Walter and Frank Nicholls, who did not row at the College, have been prominent in Association Regattas. Jack has stroked Clinker Fours and Frank has figured in Slides Crews.

Ridings, another Old Boy, is the energetic Secretary of Mercantile Club, and has been rowing quite a bit this season.

To all these, we offer our hearty congratulations, and best wishes for further success.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

G. D. T. Cooper (Captain), H. N. Walter (Secretary), K. A. Cooper, and P. W. Hart have gone to Tasmania as members of the Adelaide University Rifle Team. The first three were members of the School Cadet Corps, and so had a good grounding.

Prince Alfred Old Collegians' Football Club.

The Club has been this season promoted to Grade A1, of the Amateur League, it is to be hoped that this will prove a whole-hearted success, and yet another step forward in progress.

Unfortunately after having numerous new Old Scholars in sight as prospective players it is found that a number of these are playing football for other clubs instead of continuing in their support of the Old School.

Consequently the Committee is finding extreme difficulty in securing sufficient players for its two teams.

This is to be sincerely regretted, as it would be thought that all Old Boys would desire further associations with old friends.

It is desired to impress upon all our members who play football to stand by the Club, and give whole-hearted support in what appears to be a very awkward and difficult season ahead of us. Although the first match of the season was lost to Underdale, the youthful and keen side showed that much can be expected of them, and many matches will be won even in this higher grade. Mr. Keith Jackson is again coaching the team, and in this respect we are fortunate in having such a respected and keen man to educate our younger players.

An invitation is extended here to any Old Scholar who desires to link up with the Club this season, and so show that he still has the School at heart.

Association Tokens.

Owing to increased cost of gold and manufactures sales tax, Association Tokens will be issued to members upon payment of 20/- (in lieu of 18/6 as formerly). These remain the property of the Association, and are returnable if the holder ceases to be a member. To the end of April last 1,086 tokens had been issued.

Association Blazers.

The Association Blazer is finding favour amongst members. Orders entitling members to secure a blazer are obtainable from the Secretary of the Association.

Lost Tokens.

Tokens remain the property of this Association, and are held by members on trust only. In the event of the loss of a token the member should immediately report this to the Secretaries of the Association.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

Dr. F. J. Chapple, who was en route to England in the R.M.S. Mooltan, was entertained at Perth at luncheon on 19th March, by a large number of Old P.A.C.'s., who were delighted to renew acquaintance with him. Amongst those present were—Dr. J. L. Rossiter, Messrs. J. Marychurch, Jenkins, R. H. Miley, L. M. Cullen, Ern Sharland, C. L. von Bibra, F. C. Waldeck, J. W. Herriott, G. M. Wilson, W. C. Fawcett, J. W. Langsford, H. Boas, W. E. Southwood, A. A. Strickland, W. R. Rogers, A. Waddy, G. N. Lowe, E. H. Stirling, H. H. Wheatley, A. L. Tilly, S. J. Dimond, E. H. Carlin, and E. W. Cotton with Dr. L. Robertson, Dr. W. K. Collins and Rev. H. H. Fennell, all of whom autographed a sheet of note paper for Dr. Chapple to take away with him. Dr. Randell, who studied with Dr. Chapple at Melbourne and was a frequent visitor at P.A.C. in his young days also came along by invitation. Apologies were received from Messrs. W. E. Dempster, S. S. Glyde, G. C. Brown, M. M. Moss, G. L. Burgoyne, R. J. B. Miller, A. H. Henning, W. J. McRostie. Dr. Rossiter, President of the local branch of the Old Scholars' Association, spoke a few words welcoming Dr. Chapple, and was supported by Messrs. Cullen, Jenkins, Langsford, Stirling, Wheatley and Tilly. Dr. Chapple suitably responded, expressing much pleasure that so many spared time to turn up to meet him and felt sure, that the welcome was additionally warm because of his being a son of his late father. Mrs. Chapple lunched with Mrs. and Miss Cotton at their home at Mt. Lawley, and all three were motored via King's Park to Fremantle, together with Mr. F. C. Waldeck, in time to catch the boat leaving at 6 p.m.

Dr. C. E. Dolling when in Perth en route to England with the Australian Eleven was entertained at the Palace Hotel by "Old Reds."

The notice was so short that only a few of the many with such admiration for his school cricket performances were able to meet him. During the happy hour reminiscences were indulged in. The Dr. mentioning how pleased he was to be able to speak with the Rev. A. S. J. Fry, whom he had always known as "the third" in his own mind, though he had never met him before, the other two were Joe Darling and Clem Hill. Those present were—Drs. J. L. Rossiter and F. M. Wilkinson, Rev. A. S. J. Fry, Messrs. S. M. Wreford, H. G. Eaton, Herbert H. Wheatley, Geoff Burgoyne, W. R. Rogers, S. J. Dimond, Henry E. Carey, W. E. Southwood, A. A. Strickland, J. W. Herriot, E. H. Stirling and W. Harwood. Mr. E. W. Cotton, the Hon. Secretary, sent an apology, as he was unable to attend owing to illness.

In November last, Eric Armstrong created a new record for the Adelaide-Perth journey, 3 days, 14 hours, 12 minutes, which is a tribute to his Triumph Ten. The actual distances covered each day were: 503 miles on the first day out, 400 miles on the second day, and 864 miles in the remaining 38 hours, with no stops except for fuel and a bite of food.

We regret that space does not permit us to print a full detailed account of his very interesting trip.

On Saturday, 24th February, at Wesley College grounds, South Perth, Old P.A.C.'s. met Old Saints at cricket, and in perfect weather, as would appear from the scores herewith, got a good beating. However, we don't mind the beating, for we once again saw the good feeling that exists between the Old Boys of the two Colleges when they meet on the common ground of life. Lunch was catered for in the College dining room. After the meal the captains of both teams expressed their thanks to the Head Master of Wesley, Dr. J. L.

Rossiter, for placing the grounds and the dining room at the visitors' disposal and they were supported with acclamation by all. Afternoon tea at which many ladies were present was also held in the same room. After the game was concluded Mr. and Mrs. Eric T. Armstrong invited any who could come to their home at South Perth, and regaled them with light refreshments, while music and singing helped to pass a very pleasant hour. It was decided to make the match a yearly fixture at Wesley Grounds, to be played on the last Saturday in February (Country Week), so that more players for both sides would be available for a selection.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

A very happy function was held at Farmers' Cafe, Sydney, on 2nd May, when the Old Scholars resident in Sydney entertained at luncheon, the President of the Prince Alfred Old Collegians' Association—South Australia—(Hon. S. W. Jeffries—Attorney General and Minister of Education). Allan Lyon presided over a gathering between thirty and forty, and the enthusiasm and interest were unanimous and well maintained. Many of those present knew Mr. Jeffries at School, and friendships were renewed. Dr. F. W. Wheatley, C.B.E. proposed the Toast of "The President" in happy vein and recounted associations which were very dear to all those who knew the late Rev. William Jeffries. Dr. Wheatley paid a tribute to the President, as an outstanding figure amongst the Old Boys of the College, and in lighter vein indulged in some distinctly personal expressions of opinion on certain matters in general. The Doctor was warmly applauded.

The President made a most happy and dignified acknowledgment and earned the warm-hearted applause of everybody present. We felt gratified to hear his summary, and to have this opportunity afforded us in an after luncheon chat with him. Mr. Jeffries has established a very treasured spot in our remembrance.

Bernard S. Berry submitted the Toast of "NUMBER ONE OLD SCHOLAR, Dr. J. T. Mitchell, M.D. (Aber.), M.R.C.S. (Eng.);" during which he held the rapt attention of his listeners, in particular when he suggested the intense interest which Dr. Mitchell had found in his career, and the marvellous progress made in the history of medicine. Mr. Berry detailed particular features introduced by Medical Science, and the mighty men who had courageously sponsored these gifts to mankind. It was a splendid speech, full of interest, and included mention of our pleasure at the presence in our gathering of Rev. J. C. Hill and Mr. F. I. Beach, contemporary with Dr. Mitchell at the College in 1869.

Dr. Mitchell in reply followed the trend of thought expressed by Mr. Berry and delighted us by giving details of some of the remarkable features which had absorbed his interest in Medical Science since the days of his graduation. Very modestly and characteristically he took us into phases of his career, which showed a life fully lived in the service of others.

The President was asked to convey greetings to the Headmaster, Mr. Ward, and Mrs. Ward, and the Masters of the College, and to Mrs. and Mr. W. R. Bayly.

The following is a list of those present:—B. S. Berry, A. C. Lyon, C. S. Bray, L. Cohen, A. Godden, Dr. J. T. Mitchell, J. M. Solomon, A. H. Dale, H. D. Angwin, Dr. F. W. Wheatley, C.B.E., H. A. Hack, N. R. Gellert, Pro-

Apologies were received from—Clem Lord, F. Thomas, W. F. Barton, Hon. H. K. Nock, M.H.R., X. Seppelt, W. G. Millard.

Rev. N. C. Goss, Minister of Croydon Congregational Church, New South Wales, a very popular Cleric has been indisposed for some little time, and is recuperating at present in the country.
