Editorial

Much interest has been added to Australian affairs this year by the visit of His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester, third son of their Majesties the King and Queen. Wherever His Royal Highness has gone, Australians have been prompt to express their loyalty to him and to his family. Perhaps no other monarch of today commands so much respect and devotion as King George V., and the loyalty of his subjects is not so much an admirable trait of the British character as a proof of the fine qualities of our King. And though in the modern world dictators appear in the ascendant and monarchs a dwindling band, there are very few Britishers who wish to abolish the institution of monarchy. For in recent years of stress, and in great crises, they have never found their rule wanting.

George V. has never been called George the Great, but students of a later date may read of George the Beloved; for he is probably the best-loved of all English monarchs since Alfred.

English history has limited the political authority of the English monarch, but with our present King this has not curtailed his activities, for his influence has achieved as much as the authority of former kings. Great statesmen have gone to King George for advice, and have always found that advice good. During his reign was fought the most terrible war in the history of mankind, but throughout the long struggle he encouraged and inspired his subjects by precept and example, and filled them with new hope for a brighter future for mankind.

Since the war, in its terrible aftermath, when disabled soldiers have had to eke out a "weary, stale, flat and unprofitable" existence, when broken-hearted widows and their children have had to fight a losing fight against poverty and distress, when men and women throughout the world have suffered from the maladjustments and dislocation of industry and economic conditions, the faith and sympathy and tireless energy of our King have not been least amongst the factors that have kept the British spirit from sagging. King George has well been called "the People's King," a true democrat whose one ruling desire is to serve his people. Without ever forcing himself upon his ministers, he has again and again offered advice which they have found to be of great value, and most of his time is spent in studying the actual conditions of the people, so that he may be fully qualified to advise on the problems which arise concerning them.

The love of their ruler has ever been inculcated into the hearts and minds of young people in Australia. The members of the Royal Family, for their part, have always shown themselves to be interested in all educational institutions. We have, indeed, a special connection with royalty, in that the Duke of Edinburgh laid the foundation stone of our school, which was named after him. And not only have the members of the Royal Family shown a great interest in our schools, but so have their representatives, the Governors of the various States. We must count ourselves fortunate in the sort of men who are appointed from time to time to have authority over us.

The year 1935 will mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of His Majesty's accession. This is to be celebrated at the heart of the Empire with joy and thanksgiving. May we, as members of this far-flung family called the British Empire, express gratitude for the example and the inspiration of such a monarch during these twenty-five years.

G. W. B.

Third term is always a time of mingled emotions. So many interesting things happen, and yet for some it is the time for the breaking of old associations as they leave school. Good luck to all who leave, and may they be as happy in the "big world" as they have been in the "little world" of school.

Congratulations to Holmes, Bunday and Bloomfield on gaining places on the Leaving Honours General Honours List, and also to all those who passed so creditably.

The gymnastic contest gave some very interesting work this year. M. K. Smith deserved his fine win, and J. W. Stain was a very good and very close second.

The school standard of boxing, as shown by the annual contest, is improving. Congratulations to P. A. McBride on the school championship. The winners in other events will be heard of again next year.

We had three very interesting lectures this term, all illustrated with moving pictures: Mr. Don Turnbull on his Davis Cup Tennis Trip, Mr. E. B. Thomas on Papua, and Mr. Hurtle Morphett and Mr. Qurban on rowing. We are all very grateful to these gentlemen for their help, and hope they enjoyed their visits as much as we did.

Among old boys who have visited the school recently J. H. Seeligson, of Perth, is one who had been away from his old school for a long time. Mr. Seeligson left school in 1904 and had not visited P.A.C. since that time. He, like so many others of his day, was very delighted with the changes and additions that had been made in the school since his time.

Dr. Heaslip, from Papua, an old boy, called to see the school and the few masters he remembers. Dr. Heaslip is on furlough, and will be returning to his mission medical work very soon.

Dr. C. T. Madigan, Chief Commissioner for Boy Scouts in S.A., came to his old school a short time ago, and accepted the invitation to attend prayers and speak to the boys. We hope he will do it again.

The assembly on the last morning of the year was made memorable by a visit from the president and committee of the Old Scholars' Association. Mr. P. R. Claridge, the president, spoke very feelingly to the boys on the school and the association. He was ably supported by Mr. A. G. Collison, who has been the treasurer of the association for over 30 years. Other members of the committee who attended were Dr. H. G. Prest (vice-president), Dr. D. L. Barlow, Mr. Mervyn Evans, Mr. Len Clarkson, Mr. L. S. Walsh, and Mr. L. B. Shuttleworth, the secretary. This is the first time such a visit has been paid. We hope it will be another annual link between the association and the school.

We were all very sad when the news of Martin Sharp's death was received. It is so short a time since he was at school among us, and he had so recently made a start in his course of study that it was like losing one right out of our ranks. He was a good comrade to many boys still at school, and all had very kindly memories of him and his ways. Our sincerest sympathy goes out to his mother and father.

On the last day of term the Headmaster and staff assembled in the masters' common room to make a small presentation to Mr. S. Williams, who is to be married during the vacation. All joined in wishing him every happiness in his new home.

A Visit to Roseworthy College

Next year, 1935, Roseworthy will celebrate its jubilee; it was the first institution of its kind to be established in Australia, having been opened in 1885. Two of its former principals have been old P.A.C. boys. The position is now held by Dr. A. R. Callaghan, a brilliant and capable young man, whose enthusiasm for his task knows no bounds. He is young enough too, to remember what a boy really is, and his sympathetic treatment of these embryo agriculturalists has been eminently successful. After hearing an address which Dr. Callaghan delivered to the masters of the Adelaide colleges, we accepted an invitation from him to see the college at work, and on December 20 a party of some twenty masters visited Roseworthy, where we were most hospitably received by the Principal and staff.

The weather was perfect, and the whole outing delightful. We were driven over the experimental plots, and were enabled to realize what a valuable contribution Roseworthy makes to the wheat industry of South Australia in the provision of pure seed and the evolution and testing of new varieties.

The wine cellars proved exceptionally interesting; this is the only institution which teaches Oenology (wine-making) in Australia, and a strong demand exists for the services of those who take up this optional subject in their final year.

We were then initiated into the mysteries of ensilage making. Surely this is the most valuable lesson a South Australian farmer can learn, to follow the interpretation of the Pharaoh's dream and make the fat years provide for the lean years.

We pass over the interesting inspection of the prolific poultry, the incredibly fat pigs (and marvellously clean, too!), the fine Jersey cows being milked by both hand and machine, and the wonderful horses.

The boys spend their days alternately in the classes and in the fields. Marks are given both for school work and for outside tasks. The two go hand in hand.

Recreation is controlled by a General Sports Union, which includes football, cricket, tennis, swimming, rifle-shooting, athletics and golf. Besides this, there is an Entertainment Committee, which organises many functions of a social nature. A special Magazine Committee is responsible for the issue of the College magazine, "The Student." There is a wonderful swimming pool, and there are excellent lawn tennis courts. A maximum of freedom is allowed to students, and happiness and contentment seemed to prevail among them. This impression was supported by every enquiry we made.

The names of many old P.A.C. boys adorn the walls of the dining-hall, where we were entertained at lunch.

A freezing apparatus, electric light, hot and cold water laid on, an excellent library well kept—these few of many amenities will show that the students are well cared for.

Enquiries show that any boy who is capable of doing the Intermediate may expect to be able to cope with the work. The total cost, including board, is only fifty pounds per annum.

Speech Night

The Adelaide Town Hall was full on Wednesday evening, December 19th. Parents, relatives, old scholars and friends had mustered in force to witness our final school function for the year. His Excellency the Governor, Sir Winston Dugan, had kindly consented to attend and distribute prizes, and flanking him on the dais were to be seen Mr. David Waterhouse and members of the School Council, the committee and secretary of the Old Scholars' Association, Hon. S. W. Jeffries and Sir Edward Lucas. The President of the Methodist Conference (Rev. J. C. Hughes) presided.

Before the Headmaster presented his annual report, the Preparatory School sang, G. S. Johnston gave a recitation—"Requiem," by Cecil Roberts—and the Captain of the School (G. W. Bunday) read the results of the sports contests for the year. Following the Head's report the whole school sang "Jerusalem" (Parry) and a Christmas carol. This innovation was well received, and the music master, Mr. Norman Chinner, may be congratulated on his initial effort at our annual gathering. Before handing to the successful boys their awards and prizes, His Excellency congratulated the school on its excellent record.

"By doing your duty and giving a helping hand wherever possible," said His Excellency, "you will bring credit on your country and Empire, and come through life with flying colours, for you will have become great men and great Britishers. The best prize of all is the possession of consciences which tell you that you have done a job well and are satisfied."

It was not always the "much boosted man" who was the most valuable to his country, continued the Governor. The quiet fellow in the outback who was doing his job, quietly leading an honest life, was just as important as the man whose name was constantly featured in the newspapers.

Sir Winston Dugan told an amusing story of his first experience of speaking before a microphone. "I was speaking at the London Mansion House, in the presence of the Lord Mayor, and had to reply to the toast of the Imperial Forces," he said. "About half way through the speech, which I thought was pretty good, a man at the back of the hall interrupted me by saying, 'I can't hear a word you say, General.' Immediately a man in the front row rose to his feet and said very politely, 'I can hear perfectly. I would be delighted to change places with the gentleman at the back.'"

In conclusion, a vote of thanks to His Excellency was proposed by Hon. S. W. Jeffries (Minister of Education and Vice-President of the Old Collegians' Association), and the school spontaneously gave him three resounding cheers.

HEADMASTER'S REPORT

"My first word on these occasions is always of the public examinations of the previous year, the results of which do not appear in the Press until after the school holidays have started. In these tests at the end of 1933 our candidates did quite well. Ten boys gained the full certificate in the Leaving Honours, six were placed on the General Honours list, and one, H. J. Edelman, secured a Government bursary. In the Leaving Examination some very good passes were secured, and 26 boys gained or completed the certificate. In the Intermediate 39 of our candidates gained or completed the certificate, and three boys, A. G. Rowe, F. L. Bowen and B. L. Schedlich, were awarded Intermediate Exhibitions.

"This year, for the first time, all the boarders have been definitely under the care and supervision of the school medical officer, Dr. L. L. Davey. It has been a great relief to the matron and to me to feel that we could call on Dr. Davey for his help at any time of need.

ADDITIONS TO STAFF

"At the beginning of the year there were some additions to the school staff. Mr. H. M. Searle, B.A., came to take some work in the Intermediate classes. Mr. A. H. Dennis took his place in the work of the Fourth Forms, and Mr. R.

S. Forsyth, an old boy of the school, joined the staff of the Preparatory, while Mr. Norman Chinner, L.A.B., also an old boy, took charge of the music. All these gentlemen have given of their best in the service of the school, and have readily fallen into that habit of unselfish devotion and loyalty which has always been found among the P.A.C. staff. In the course of a long and close connection with this school reaching back to the days of my boyhood, I have seen many fine things in its life, but none has impressed me more than this splendid devotion to their work for the school always displayed by the masters, and never has this spirit been stronger than at present. Unfortunately, Mr. Searle is unable to stay with us for more than this year. We wish him good-bye today with genuine regret.

"It is inevitable that a school report must seem to lay great stress on successes gained in the work of the classroom, but I should be sorry if anyone felt that the boys who do not pass examinations and do not stand well in their forms are in any way lost sight of. Our own examinations which test the work of the whole school reveal on the whole a very good standard of work and show very few boys who have not made an honest effort to succeed. This is a very important matter, as good work in the upper school can only be built on a sound foundation in the junior and middle school. Thus it is quite true to say that the school must stand or fall by the work of the middle school—many of whom never even sit for examinations.

CADET CORPS

"Of successes gained by the school outside the sphere of the classrooms, the most outstanding is that of the Cadet Corps in winning the Earl Roberts Imperial Cadet Trophy. This competition is open to cadet corps all over the British Empire, and a great many teams compete. Our team first won the right to represent South Australia, and then in September shot for the trophy. Sergeant Bloomfield was in charge of the team, which consisted of Sergeant-Major H. B. Holmes, Corporal A. C. Trott, and Cadets B. Holmes and C. L. Gilbert. The two Holmes brothers each scored 78 out of a possible 80. Trott's score was 75, and Gilbert's 72. This gave us the fine total score of 303 out of a possible 320. A few weeks ago the State Commandant (Brigadier Hardie) came to the college to congratulate the team on securing the best score in Australia, and very soon after that visit came the news that our team had won the trophy against teams from all over the Empire. We are very proud of this victory, and feel that in its way it is an honour not to the school only, but to the whole State. This success and a great deal of other good work is largely due to the splendid work of Lieutenant W. L. Davies with the cadets, and the fine backing he has had from the senior boys of the school. This year the Cadet Corps has had also the honour of being a very close second for the A.N.A. Rifle Shooting Shield. This is open to all cadets in Australia. Two years ago we won it; last year we were narrowly beaten by Guildford Grammar School in W.A.; and this year Scotch College, W.A., won by a very narrow margin.

WORK OF OLD BOYS

"Among the results gained by old boys at the University examinations, so many are good that it is rather invidious to make distinctions. But these stand out:—Drs. H. K. Fry and M. T. Cockburn have secured the degree of Doctor of Medicine. Noel Goss has gained the B.A. degree with first-class honours in history, and M. I. Iliffe the B.Sc. degree with first-class honours in physics. In the Law School G. R. James and M. N. Playford have gained Stow Prizes; and in the Arts School N. Goss has the Tinline Scholarship for history, G. R. James the Andrew Scott Prize for Latin, and W. H. Kleeman the Gartrell Prize for comparative philology; while in the Science School P. L. Hooper gained the David Murray Scholarship in science and W. D. Allen has top credit in mathematics III. (parts 1 and 2), inorganic and physical chemistry II.

"Our time is one full of change, and education is altering its aims and demands very rapidly. A great deal is being written and said in these days about education for leisure, the awakening of interest in the æsthetic side of life, and in the duties of citizenship, while increasing use is being made of modern scientific invention to improve our methods of instruction. During the year we have made some attempts to develop along these lines. The purchase of a cinematograph projector has made it possible for boys to see a great many films depicting life and conditions in other countries, the processes of many manufactures, and the detail of very intricate scientific experiments which would have been impossible without its aid. In the second term we had a series of lectures on international affairs from an old boy of the school, our good friend Mr. J. H. Vaughan. During this last term we have had a short weekly lesson in part singing for the whole school. Mr. Norman Chinner has been in charge, but I know he would like me to say how grateful we are to Mr. F. L. Gratton for the two or three visits he has paid us. No man, probably, in this State has had as much experience in handling big choirs for this kind of work, and we are deeply conscious of what we owe to his advice and help. I must not forget to link with Mr. Chinner the names of Mr. Mutton and Mr. Searle, who have been untiring accompanists for our singing work.

ENTRANCE SCHOLARSHIPS

"This year the council has re-arranged the entrance scholarships, and also the awards within the school. The result of the changes is to spread the benefits more generally over the various forms and so enable boys who have been in the school from the lowest grades to gain by their efforts in class some help towards their education. As will be seen from the programme, several new awards have been created, and are being given tonight for the first time. The council's intention is to give to these awards the names of some of the men who have served the school so well in the past, but unfortunately they have not had time to secure from the friends of the men they have chosen permission to use their names. Another new award which is to be given tonight for the first time is the scholarship of a year's tuition on the pipe organ, given by Mr. Norman Chinner, our music master. We are very grateful to Mr. Chinner for this very practical proof of his keen interest in the boys and their musical work.

"The year which closes today has been one of sound progress. Most people are still a little apprehensive as they face the future, but I think that their fears are less acute than they have been during the last two or three years. So far as the school roll is concerned, 1934 has been our best year since the depression began. We had at the beginning of the school year a considerable increase in the total number of our boys and a substantial addition to the number in the boarding school. These increases, together with the fact that we have had the pleasure of seeing a much larger number of boys go from school to positions in various business organisations, have made me feel that conditions generally are somewhat better than they have been since the end of 1930. These years of bad times have undoubtedly made us all examine most carefully our ideals and our demands on life. It has been a time of heart searching for many, and things have had to prove their value in our lives or be discarded. The support still given to our schools proves definitely the value which they have in the eyes of the people of this State. And our people are right. Whatever the future may bring into the lives of our boys, sound education and character are the two factors that are going to do most to help them through, and it is these that we hope our boys are gaining."

GAMES REPORT

The captain of the school (G. W. Bunday) then read the Games Report:—

Your Excellency, Mr. President, Mr. Ward, members of the committee, ladies and gentlemen,

"It is very pleasing to report another successful year in our sports. Much as we regret that we have failed to maintain our last year's record of winning all five intercollegiate contests, we feel that for all that the results are very satisfactory.

"We commenced the year well by a record win in the tennis, scoring 15 rubbers to nil. Nicholas captained the team capably and played well. Newcombe, our first player, was in great form, and Holman created a new record by losing only 8 games in 4 rubbers. But it is hardly fair to single out players in a team which performed so brilliantly, creating a record which is likely to stand for many years, perhaps for all time. Great credit is due to Mr. Luke, who devoted so much of his time to coaching the team and raising it to its high standard.

"In the rowing we were less successful. Our crews performed well, making excellent times, at practice, and the school went to the river hopeful of a fine victory. But we were doomed to disappointment, for from the start our opponents forged ahead, and in the head of the river race Saints succeeded in wresting from us the Blackmore and Gosse Shields. We are not ashamed that our eight went down to such a fine crew, which broke the record for the course. We congratulate St. Peters on their great victory. Mr. McLean again gave up a great deal of time and energy to coaching the crews, and he was ably assisted by Mr. Grayson, Mr. Potts and Mr. Forrestal. King made a successful captain, and Hamilton did well as stroke.

"After a close and exciting tussle, in which the issue was uncertain till the very last race, Saints won the athletics contest by 68 points to 62. Gaining an early lead they soon appeared to be in a comfortable position, but our representatives gradually gained on them and made the end exciting. Our team, captained by Delaporte, was unlucky to lose the shield by so narrow a margin, but we heartily congratulate our opponents. For Princes, Craven was perhaps the outstanding performer, though several others did well. Mr. Wadham devoted much time to training our representatives, and the school greatly appreciated his services.

"In the football match this year Princes attacked from the start, and after a period of inaccurate kicking settled down to fine football, holding a 30-point lead at half-time. In the second half Princes scored 12.9 to 2.10, and eventually won the match by 20 goals 16 behinds to 6 goals 11 behinds, a record win. Tregoning and Bond, the captain, were perhaps the outstanding players, but there were no passengers, every member of the team ably fulfilling his part. Much of the credit for the victory must go to Mr. Ackland, whose coaching ability was exceeded only by his character and personality.

Mr. Williams, too, rendered great assistance in the coaching work.

"In the recent cricket match our men shaped excellently and won the game by an innings and 325 runs. Mr. C. R. Davies devoted a great deal of time to coaching the team, and must have been gratified with the splendid result.

"A large crowd was present to see the annual school sports. The main interest centred round the contest for the cup, which was won by J. W. Stain, who defeated H. L. Newman by a small margin. Stain also won the college 100 yards championship, while the junior championship was won by Craven, and the under 16 championship by Hill. At the conclusion of the sports, Hon. S. W. Jeffries presented the prizes. We are very grateful to Mr. Jeffries, who was exceedingly busy with official duties. The parents who contributed so liberally to the prize fund have the school's sincerest thanks.

"A fairly large number of boys have taken up tennis this year and several teams have been playing regularly on Saturdays. Most of the veterans are leaving at the end of this year, so we are looking to new talent for future matches.

"It has been gratifying to see so many of the younger boys taking up rowing this year. We hope that this will continue to be so in future, so that all the crews may be composed of experienced oarsmen.

"The football team went through the season without loss, coming top of its association. Holman won the association's medal for the best and fairest player in the present scholar's division. At the end of the season the team journeyed to Melbourne, where, after a good first half they were easily defeated by Wesley College. The junior teams, while not equalling their performances of recent years, performed well enough to give us confidence in the first eighteen of the next two or three years.

"The first eleven have had an excellent season so far, having won every match, and are holding top position on the premiership table. It is a great team of all-rounders. The under-age teams have done very well, and many young players are showing great promise.

"I have already referred to the coaches of the senior teams. A word remains to be said in appreciation of the services of Messrs. G. M. Potts, W. L. Davies, M. D. Close, H. E. H. Mutton and R. S. Forsyth in coaching the junior teams.

"The following boys have this year won merit badges for representing the school in three different intercollegiate matches:—A. K. Trott, P. A. McBride, K. M. McBride, R. M. Stanford, M. B. Wellington, J. Tregoning and F. C. Bennett.

"At the end of the year the gymnastic and boxing contests were held. The former, after an exciting tussle, resulted in a 2-point victory for Smith with 157 points against 155 scored by Stain. We saw some very fine gymnastics. Smith thoroughly deserved to win the championship medal presented by Mr. Bennett, who has for so many years been our capable instructor.

"On the following day we witnessed some skilful and much energetic boxing. P. McBride won the school boxing championship, while other divisions were won by Roberts and Jackson. We are very grateful to Messrs. Schlank, Nicholls and Williams for acting as referee and judges. The high standard of the boxing reflected great credit upon Mr. Price, the boxing instructor.

"A team of expert marksmen chosen from our cadets won the Earl Roberts trophy for 1934. The Earl Roberts trophy is open to competition from detachments all over the Empire, and the school is very proud of the achievement of the rifle team.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CRICKET MATCH

Again the Adelaide Oval was not available, and the match was played this year at P.A.C. The buildings of the rival schools seem to make a fitting setting for this annual intercollegiate contest.

Conditions were rather unpleasant in the morning, as the weather was very humid. This tired both fieldsmen and bowlers, and no bowler had a long spell at the creases. Later in the day, when a cool breeze came up, it was more pleasant for cricket. The specially prepared wicket was fast and true and favoured the batsmen. An amplifier in the pavilion was used to supplement the score-board in keeping later arrivals acquainted with the state of the game. This was an innovation, and we hope it was appreciated.

Nitschke and Bond, the rival captains, tossed in the centre of the ground after inspecting the wicket, and fortune favoured Saints. The collapse of the later batsmen in Saints' team, after a good start, the fine bowling of Marshall, the clean fielding of both teams, and bright batting by Catt and Holman towards the end of the day, were the outstanding features of the day's play. The umpires were Messrs. F. Aistrope and V. Hele.

Marshall opened the bowling from the Dequetteville Terrace end, and Nitschke took strike. Both batsmen opened confidently. The rate of scoring was slow, and bowling changes were frequent. The first four of the day came when Holthouse swung a bumper from Tregoning behind square-leg. Tregoning, at silly-point, dropped a hot chance from Holthouse off Parham. This less experienced batsman was troubled by Holman's "wrong-un," and was less confident than Nitschke. The latter was the first to go, with the score at 40. He was given out caught behind wicket. A doubtful decision. Marshall was the bowler. Stokes kept his wicket intact until lunch, when the score was 1 for 45. Holthouse was 21, and Stokes 2.

After lunch Stokes narrowly escaped being run out, due to a misunderstanding with his partner. Then Marshall, in his next over, clean bowled Holthouse for 25. Wellington and Stanford at this juncture were applauded for good fielding and throwing-in. Stokes, trying to force the pace, skied one to mid-off, where Marshall held a nicely-judged catch. Gibson thus obtained his first wicket. Richmond batted brightly, one straight drive being a gem. He was too impetuous and hit a full-toss from Holman to deep mid-on, where Catt took a neat catch. The applause for the first century had hardly died away when Fryar was bowled by Holman. He batted well for his runs. Napier did not appear safe, and, after he had made several uppish shots, had his off-stump knocked back by Marshall. A brief stand was made by Britten-Jones and Madden, which ended when Bond smartly stumped the former off Allen. Elix came in next, but was bowled first ball. Gibson, with the first ball of his next over, claimed Madden, l.b.w., and the innings closed for 126. The last three wickets had not added a single run. Saints did not succeed in mastering our attack.

Holman and Catt opened for Princes, Richmond being the bowler. Catt, dropped by the wicket-keeper before he had scored, went on to play his finest innings. He batted very freely, scoring much faster than his partner.

There was a temporary hold-up in the play, while Elix left the field and Nitschke took his place behind the stumps. The rate of scoring quickened, and Catt hit very freely on the leg side. At stumps the score was 0 wickets for 55, with Catt 33 and Holman 20.

SECOND DAY

The day's play was very satisfactory for our cricketers. The batting of the team was sound in all departments, and while Bond and Stanford were associated in a long partnership of 141 for the fourth wicket, runs came freely from the tired bowling.

The feature of the day's play was the sound century by Fred Catt. He compiled his runs in exactly 200 minutes, then mis-hit a full-toss. With Holman he added 119 for the first wicket, and with Allen 56 for the second. While at the wickets he dominated the game, brought up the school's first 100 with a pretty square-cut to the fence.

Stokes was given a turn with the ball, and he broke the long partnership. Holman hit a full-toss high to deep mid-on, where Britten-Jones held a neat catch.

Allen came in, but was content to play himself in, leaving most of the scoring to his partner. At lunch, Catt was 81, Allen 6, and the score 140. Catt was batting very soundly, his cutting and stroke play on the leg side being very pretty to watch.

Catt, after lunch, reached his century (which included thirteen boundaries) and was out immediately afterwards.

Stokes was brought back at the opposite end, and had his second success excelling in forcing play on the leg side. Bond's half-century was a neat, workman-like innings, but his effort was surpassed by that of Stanford. His was the classic innings of the day. He scored freely with powerful drives and square-cuts. With his century just in sight, he hit a short ball from Stokes high into the outfield, where Britten-Jones held a good catch.

At noon Holman and Catt resumed play, with Richmond and Stewart bowling. The batting was sound rather than enterprising, but anything loose was punished by Catt, while Holman seemed unnecessarily subdued. Catt reached his half-century with a snick down to third man. Tidswell and Napier came on to bowl, but made no impression. Catt when Allen played forward and hit a simple catch straight back to the bowler.

Bond and Stanford were now together, and, although neither had been in long, they immediately went for the bowling. They were definitely on top after a few overs, and treated all bowlers severely. Stanford used his feet well, and drove strongly on both sides of the wicket. Bond was over-shadowed by his forceful partner, but punished anything loose very severely. His favourite hook shot was much in evidence. At afternoon tea the score stood at 231 for 3 wickets.

After tea runs came very freely. Bond hit a nice boundary to give him his half-century, but after he had scored another four he was beaten and bowled by a ball from Stewart which kept very low.

The pitch was very hard and wearing well, but even the fast bowlers could not make the ball lift to any great extent.

Parham joined Stanford, who was rapidly approaching his century. After staying on 98 for some time, he tried to force a short ball from Stokes in front of square-leg. Britten-Jones took an excellent catch, running backwards. Stanford gave a brilliant display.

With the departure of Stanford, the rate of scoring slowed considerably. Tregoning and Parham were content to play themselves in. They could not afford to attack rashly. Anything loose was dealt with severely, but the batting lacked the enterprise of that earlier in the afternoon. At stumps the score was 362 for 5 wickets, with Parham 14 and Tregoning 11.

THIRD DAY

A dense pall of dust hung over the city for the greater part of the day. The light was not good in the early afternoon, but later the dust cleared away and conditions were more pleasant. These steamy conditions sapped the energy of the bowlers, and in the circumstances they stuck to their job well. The fielding was very ragged, and many runs were given away by misfielding and wild throwing-in.

The features of the day's play were Parham's success in his first intercollegiate game, the partnership of 139 for the ninth wicket between Parham and Bennett, and a burst of fine bowling by Richmond. Parham hit only few boundaries, but many shots which seemed certain to reach the boundary stopped just short. The outfield was slower, and this helped the fielding side.

Parham and Tregoning resumed to the bowling of Richmond and Stewart. Owing to the trying conditions changes in the bowling were frequent, but the score mounted steadily until the fourth hundred was hoisted. Neither batsman took any risks, but each ball was played on its merits. Tregoning, before any addition to the score was made, went down the wicket to drive Tidswell. The ball was a short one, and he sent it back to the bowler, who held an easy catch.

The score was 6 for 400 when Wellington came in. He settled down quickly, and scored with several neat cover drives and shots forward of square-leg. Richmond was making the ball swing disconcertingly in the heavy atmosphere. Wellington played over a ball which swung a long way, and was bowled. He had made 19 runs while Parham added 4. Parham was moving along steadily. His thrust through the covers gave him many runs. Gibson was uncomfortable for the first few balls, and then settled down to give a neat display. Stokes was bowling from the southern end when Gibson went down the wicket to a very slow ball which dropped short. He played a simple catch straight back to the bowler.

Bennett was the next batsman, and settled down quickly. He excelled in wristy shots on the leg side, and penetrated the field with strong cover drives. Throughout the innings the lack of variation in the attack was most noticeable, the lack of a left-arm bowler being one of the most conspicuous features. Parham was content to reach his century by singles, instead of hitting out. He became less cautious afterwards, and the pair took toll of the tired bowling. Runs came very freely for an hour or so, until Parham was dismissed. He hit out at a short ball from Richmond, and Britten-Jones, at second slip, took a good catch above his head—his third catch. Parham had taken nearly a day for his century, as only 5 fours were included in his total of 145.

Marshall was out first ball. He played over a fast yorker from Richmond, and the innings closed for 618. This score has been passed only twice before in these games, both times by P.A.C.

Nitschke and Holthouse began Saints' second innings to the bowling of Allen and Marshall. Runs came freely, but neither batsman appeared very safe.

Gibson, bowling from the southern end, puzzled Holthouse during two or three excellent overs, when the batsman snicked three balls between his legs and the wicket. At stumps the score was 44, with all wickets intact.

FOURTH DAY

The collapse of the tail against accurate slow bowling was the main source of Saints' overwhelming defeat.

Richmond batted nicely for 45 runs, but after the opening pair, he was the only batsman to make a stand.

Holthouse was mistiming Marshall, and it was not very long before he played over a delivery which kept low and hit his stumps. Holman was now brought on, and dismissed Nitschke with his first ball. He tried to hook a "wrong-un," which hit his heel and struck the leg stump. He had made 33 in nice style. Stokes batted neatly, scoring very quickly, and Richmond drove strongly. Bennett bowled for the first time, and soon afterwards Stokes put his leg in front of a straight one. Fryar batted neatly, but was puzzled by the slow bowlers. Finally, he tried to hit Holman to the leg fence, and Marshall took an easy catch at square-leg. Tidswell kept his end up for some time after lunch, but tried to sweep a short one from Holman forward of square-leg. Stanford ran around and took a good catch.

Richmond was batting well, and hitting anything loose very hard.

Parham bowled from the southern end, and was fighting very cleverly. Britten-Jones stepped out and hit a ball straight back to the bowler.

Napier was uncertain throughout his brief innings. He finally jumped out in desperation to drive Holman, and was clean bowled.

Richmond, after a good display, was next to go. He stepped out to Parham and was out leg-before-wicket, while Elix was beaten by Parham's faster ball. Madden and Stewart did not last long, and the innings closed for 167.

CRITIQUE OF THE TEAM

(By the Captain)

Holman, A. G.—An excellent all-rounder who has rendered grand service. A consistent opening batsman and always to be relied upon His bowling lacks the accuracy of previous years, but he is still to be reckoned with. A very alert and safe fieldsman.

Allen, W. E. J.—A very sound and reliable batsman. He swings the ball disconcertingly both ways and maintains a good length. His fielding is particularly clean, and he returns the ball accurately.

Stanford, R. M.—He has performed most consistently this season, and is to be congratulated on his last three performances with the bat. His strokes are vigorous and crisp, and his fielding is brilliant.

Gibson, V. R.—A left-arm bowler, and left-hand bat. He has been our most consistent bowler this season. As a batsman he has shown a very marked improvement, and his strokes are neat and crisp. A nippy slips fieldsman.

Marshall, F. I.—He has opened the attack as a fast bowler during the season, and has bowled extremely well. His batting is a little uncertain but has distinctly improved.

Parham, J. A.—A very fine all-rounder. His batting is sound and orthodox, while his slow off-break length bowling always demands respect. A very alert, clean and reliable fieldsman.

Tregoning, J.—Another cricketer with all-round ability. His stroke play is very correct, and he hits the loose ball with great power. He is a very promising bowler, but should guard against too many short deliveries.

Wellington, M. B.—A right-hand batsman who hits the ball very hard at all times. He showed marked improvement in form towards the end of the season and batted very well. Should endeavour to develop a correct lift and so aid his defence.

Catt, A. F.—An opening batsman who has batted very well throughout. He must be congratulated on his fine Intercollegiate century. His defence is very good, while he has a wide range of shots. Excellent in the field.

Bennett, F. C.—A good bat and a useful change bowler. Very reliable when fielding close in on the wicket. He picks up cleanly, and repeatedly throws the wicket down.

Bond, R. W. T. (Captain), by "Onlooker"—Has captained the side well. Inclined to use too many bowlers to dismiss opposing side. Clean and smart as wicket-keeper, occasionally having an off day. In batting very strong on the on-side.

CRICKET RECORDS

While our boys were piling up the excellent score of 618 in the recent intercollegiate cricket match, cricket fans began to sit up and take notice, and even small boys began to ask urgently, "Is it a record?" This passion for records, by the way, seems to be a matter of superlative importance in the modern world, and the time is fast approaching when the unlucky wight who has failed to break some record or other will be accounted a dud. This is unfortunate, because it is the game that counts, not the record. To satisfy the curious, however, we may note that in 1893 the Prince Alfred Eleven scored 621, of which Clem Hill contributed 360 retired and R. Homburg 100. In 1904 the side compiled 700 runs, C. E. Dolling making 311 and R. J. B. Townsend 171. And to assist those worshippers of records in remembering something they might easily overlook—we also hold the record for the lowest total. In 1878 the side was all out for 37, and for 35 in 1880.

Cricket Notes

We have experienced more wet Saturdays than for many seasons past. Wickets, more often than not, have been on the slow side, but playing under such conditions is part of the game, and this term we have gained valuable experience. Six players from last year's first eleven formed a strong nucleus round which to build up a good side and by the end of the term the Firsts were strong in every department of the game. With an unbeaten record we are leading in the Adelaide Turf Cricket Association, and our cricketers are to be congratulated.

Further down the school, the under fifteen and under fourteen elevens have won similar distinction. Each played ten matches and won ten. The under thirteen "A" and "B" sides, under the supervision of Mr. M. D. Close, have both performed excellently, having had their colours lowered on very rare occasions.

The second and third elevens steadily improved their standard of play as the term went on, and more than held their own against opposition.

This year the game against St. Peter's College was held on our oval, and much fore-thought and preparation were necessary to ensure its smooth progress. An important fixture—even though it is only a game—doesn't work successfully of its own accord. All sorts of details have to be arranged and contingencies provided for. Those who were in charge, and their assistants, are to be congratulated on the thoroughness and completeness with which they did their job.

To return to the subject of cricket in the school, the older players desire to express their thanks to the coach, Mr. C. R. Davies, for his untiring interest in their endeavours and for his valuable help.

In addition to association games two practice matches were played, one early in the season against a side from the Sturt club, led by Mr. V. Y. Richardson, and the other against a team of Old Boys, led by Mr. C. S. Catt. We tender our thanks to these gentlemen for sparing time to come and play us. The first game was drawn, while we won by a comfortable margin against the Old Boys.

FIRST ELEVEN GAMES

P.A.C. v. PROSPECT COLTS

(October 6 and 13)

This was our first association match for the season, and the weather was ideal for cricket. Prospect Colts won the toss and decided to bat. Our bowling was opened by Marshall and Gibson, the latter soon striking a length and puzzling the batsmen with swerve and flight variation. He finished the day with 5 for 21. Eight of our opponents were caught out.

Holman and Catt opened the batting for the College, but the latter was, unfortunately, run out early. Gibson did not remain very long but batted attractively while at the creases. Stanford and Holman appeared set for a big partnership, but the former snicked one at 30 and was caught.

P.A.C. v. P.A.C. OLD COLLEGIANS

(October 20 and 27)

Humid conditions prevailed and thunder worked up early in the afternoon, but later ideal weather favoured the players. Overnight rain had made the wicket soft, but occasional low balls sped through. Mr. Walter Evans kindly sent out two cases of drinks, and these were very much in demand by the batting side during the afternoon. Many may not be aware of the fact that it is to Mr. Evans to whom we are indebted for our sight-boards, which we find so indispensable today.

The Old Boys had first use of the soft wicket. Gibson was the most successful bowler, taking 3 for 15 in 11 overs. His in-swinging ball, mixed with occasional leg-breaks, had the batsmen in continual trouble. Allen swung the ball deceptively and took 2 for 16; while Holman, with 3 for 47, did not bowl up to usual standard. Allen's catch which dismissed Mr. Kirkwood was a spectacular piece of fielding.

Catt and Holman opened our batting and, although slow, played safe cricket till stumps, when the score was 82. Early the following Saturday Catt missed a full-toss and was bowled for 26. When Holman and Allen became associated, Allen's brisk batting increased the scoring rate till he was bowled for 60. Holman was now near his century, and this he gained with a drive for 3. He was out soon after. The Holman-Allen partnership realized 116. Three wickets were now down for 198, but they then fell in quick succession, and with the score at 7 for 246 stumps were drawn because of a heavy shower of rain.

P.A.C. v. S.P.S.C.O.C.

(November 3 and 10)

The afternoon was hot, with the wicket playing fast and low. Saints' Old Collegians' early batsmen presented some opposition, but Gibson again came to the rescue and bowled extremely well to capture 3 for 48. Holman, after a bad start, improved later and combined well with Bond to finish with 5 for 63. Saints' Old Boys were all out for 172.

Our opening batsmen fell quickly before very accurate bowling by Goldfinch, who soon had sent Holman, Catt and Stanford back to the pavilion. When Allen was caught the score stood at 4 for 20. Then, however, cautious batting by Bond and Parham took the score to 87, when stumps were drawn. Early the following Saturday Bond was caught for 52. Parham continued nicely and reached his half-century before he was out. Gurner opened briskly and quickly rattled up 26 before he was stumped. The finish was exciting. We needed 16 runs with two wickets in hand, but Bennett with a square-cut gained the necessary total. The remainder fell quickly, and we won by a narrow margin.

P.A.C. v. EAST TORRENS COLTS

(November 17 and 24)

Perfect conditions and a good fast wicket were all in favour of a day's good cricket. Marshall began well by capturing the first four wickets, clean bowling two with beautiful balls, and having two caught at the wicket. The remainder of the batsmen presented little opposition.

Catt and Allen were the opening batsmen for the College, but Catt touched one into slip's hands when he appeared set. Carmichael, a junior, playing his first match with the first eleven, gave a very promising display and did well to collect 18. With Allen out for 24, Stanford and Wellington played cautious but entertaining cricket for the remainder of the afternoon. The stumps scores were 3 for 110. Play was resumed the following Saturday, and Stanford, 29 not out, and Wellington, 21 not out, began in a drizzle of rain, which necessitated the use of sawdust on the ball. Stanford batted magnificently and was most unfortunate in missing his century by 2 runs. Our innings was then declared closed at 6 for 242.

East Torrens Colts narrowly averted an innings defeat when 8 wickets were down for 107, but time saved them.

P.A.C. v. PAYNEHAM

(December 1 and 8)

Continuous rain overnight had affected the wicket and made conditions difficult. The match commenced in a steady drizzle of rain, and it was soon apparent that the bowlers were finding it difficult to maintain a footing. Two very heavy showers sent the players from the field, but when the Payneham score stood at 3 for 170 the wicket dried out a little, and with good bowling on the part of Tregoning the whole of the Payneham side were out for 198. Bennett took a remarkable catch at deep mid-on, while Tregoning scooped up a fast, low shot in the same position. Tregoning was the most successful bowler, taking 5 for 29.

Gibson and Marshall opened. The light was bad, and Gibson was out for 3. Tregoning took his place and played out time. Stumps scores were 1 for 18 when play commenced the following week. Tregoning was unfortunate in missing a short one when 19. When Stanford and Holman became associated they completely mastered the attack and added 172 runs in about an hour. Congratulations to Stanford for his brilliant century, the first he has scored. The final scores were 7 wickets for 321—Stanford, 115 not out; Holman, 57 not out. Marshall's 52 was a spirited knock, but was marred by several chances.

Cadet Corps

Early in the term, H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester made a royal progress through the city. We were glad to be able to assist the militia units in lining the city streets. We were stationed in King William Street in an excellent position for viewing the royal car and its prancing escorts.

Owing to the Public Examinations, we have had rather a broken term for training. The weather, too, helped to keep us from drill on the oval, and this hindered the instructors.

The recruits, completing at last their year of training, showed themselves keen and eager for knowledge, particularly of the rifle and Lewis gun.

The first platoon concentrated on the Lewis guns this term, for we were to fire these during our musketry course, while rifle instruction was the main item for the second platoon. The miniature range was used freely during the term, as we were competing for H.M. the King's trophy, for which we entered last year. All boys who showed any promise fired in this contest, and L.-Cpl. Marlow shot very consistently to lead the aggregate with 96 out of 100. Several other scores were very near his effort.

The outstanding event of the term was the success of the Cadet Rifle Team in winning the Earl Roberts' Imperial Cadet Trophy.

The team which won the right to represent South Australia last August had to be modified slightly. Cadet E. L. Andrews left school during the second term holidays, as he had obtained employment. Although he was thus unable to shoot, the team has always had his good wishes, and wish to thank him for a telegram received before the final event. His experience and advice, for he was the most experienced member of the team, was of great help to the newcomers.

C. L. Gilbert was selected to fill the vacancy, and Gilbert exceeded our best hopes. He shot brilliantly in the practices immediately before the final, and only an error in elevation lost him a really excellent position in the final.

The keenness of the team and of the coach, Warrant Officer Friday, has been most marked. Mr. Friday went down to the ranges even when suffering from an attack of the 'flu. Even pouring rain could not deter the team from their practice. One Thursday spent at the ranges was so wet that "waterproof" sheets and overcoats were insufficient protection.

Colonel J. M. A. Durrant, of the Headquarters Staff, had charge of the final effort.

Conditions were good, as a strong wind blew straight from our rear. Occasional drifting clouds hindered visibility, but not for long. The first shoot was held at 500 yards. Here Gilbert and Trott scored possibles, while the others dropped only one point. Gilbert's effort at this range was the outstanding one of the day.

Next was the skirmishing practice, in which the team advanced to each range and fired one shot. Only one shot was not a bull, and this was a magpie. Thus we had an excellent start with 156/160. In the rapid firing—5 shots in 30 seconds at 200 yards—we dropped back slightly with 71 out of 80. H. B. Holmes registered the only possible in this practice. Gilbert's low score was due to an error of about four inches in elevation.

The snap shooting at 200 yards on 22-in. discs was an improvement. B. Holmes scored the only possible, but the team registered 76 out of 80. This gave a combined total of 303 out of 320 points, a tie with the score registered by the 43-48th Battalion team in 1930, and is, we believe, a record for the event.

Near the end of the term, news was received that the team would represent Australia in the Empire contest. The Base Commandant, Brig.-General Hardie, congratulated the team at a full parade of the corps. In particular he spoke to Bloomfield, who was recommended by Colonel Durrant for cool and calm handling of his team.

AT PORT ADELAIDE RANGES

Within a fortnight a cable was received by "The Advertiser," saying that Prince Alfred College had won the trophy for 1934. The winning margin was very decisive, as Hamilton College, Canada, was placed second with 285 points. Aus-cars, without which the necessary practice could not have been obtained.

On Speech Night trophies awarded to the team last August in the eliminating contest were presented by Sir Winston Dugan.

tralian teams have won this honour only twice since the inception of the contest in 1907, and both times South Australia has supplied the winning team.

The team wish to thank several persons for their success. It would have been impossible without the careful tuition and training of the coach, W. O. Friday. Colonel Durrant, by his tact and sympathetic handling of the team in the crucial final round, contributed in a large measure to our success. To Mr. Davies and the Headmaster for arranging practices we give our thanks, and last, but not least, to the parents of the boys in the team. Rev. C. B. Holmes, Dr. A. G. Trott and Mr. J. J. Bloomfield gladly lent

On Tuesday, December 11th, the corps visited the Port Ranges to fire the annual musketry course. Lewis gun practices were fired by the first platoon, and results were very satisfactory. With the rifle, B. Holmes scored 74 out of a possible 75, and F. I. Marshall was next with 73. Then followed M. K. Smith, 72; and P. A. McBride, 71. The results on the average were very good. So far as musketry is concerned, this is the best year we have had, as we ran second in the competition for the A.N.A. Shield, and won the Earl Roberts' Empire Trophy.

We offer congratulations to the cadets of Scotch College, Perth, on winning the A.N.A. Shield.

Inter-Collegiate Debate

The annual Intercollegiate Debate was held on the evening of September 29th in the Boarders' Library. Mr. Mutton acted as chairman, and Messrs. L. V. Pellew and K. H. Kirkman were the adjudicators.

Our team, Bunday, E. F. Johnston and Delaporte had very little time in which to prepare the topic, "That Democracy is Doomed," but they acquitted themselves admirably, gaining, for what is believed to be the first time, a victory in debate against S.P.S.C.

Crisp, of St. Peter's, opened the debate with a slashing attack on everyday life and modern political institutions generally, but seemed to have very little to substitute for them. He spoke confidently, and had a good hearing.

Bunday's armour seemed well-nigh impregnable, however, and Crisp's blows did no more than scratch the surface. Bunday put forward some excellent reasons why Democracy should remain.

Cowan ably supported his leader, and advanced some telling arguments.

Johnston, in the best speech of the evening, consolidated our defences, and showed that although Democracy certainly has weaknesses it is the most practical system yet formulated.

Swanson concluded the attack with some forceful arguments, but beat about the bush somewhat.

Delaporte, with characteristic deliberation, reviewed the points presented by the previous speakers, and acquitted himself quite well, but closed down rather prematurely.

Crisp and Bunday effectively summed up, and while the judges conferred the debate was thrown open for discussion. The adjudicators expressed surprise at the high standard of the work, both in matter and in presentation, and congratulated all the speakers.

Mr. Bunday proposed, and Mr. Johnston seconded, a vote of thanks to the judges, after which the visitors were entertained at supper.

The Annual School Service

The final service for the year was held in the Assembly Hall on Sunday evening, December 16. The weather was oppressively warm and trying, but nevertheless a good muster assembled to take part in what was to be for some of the senior boys their final school service. The service was conducted by the Headmaster, while the Captain of the School (G. W. Bunday) read the Scripture lessons—Joshua i. 1-9 and Ephesians vi. 10-17. Mr. Mutton, at the organ, led the singing of hymns. All stood to repeat prayers for King, for Country, for School, and for all conditions of men, and then all settled down to listen attentively to the Head's address, which was based on a verse in Joshua I: "Only be thou strong and very courageous that thou mayest observe to do according to all the law which Moses my servant commanded thee."

THE HEADMASTER'S ADDRESS

Most people, I am sure, admire strength and courage more than any other human characteristics. To be without physical strength, and so be unable to do what is demanded of us in life, is one of the greatest misfortunes a man can meet. But to be found wanting in courage in some crisis is more than a misfortune; it is a disgrace, and one of the worst we can imagine.

There are, of course, two kinds of strength and of courage. Physical, bodily strength is so easily seen, and so highly regarded. We are so proud of it in ourselves, and admire it so much in others. But more important far is that moral strength of character which enables us to keep to our purpose, to see what is right and to pursue that aim. Physical courage to face and dare great personal risks is, of course, a very fine thing, and without it many of the finest things in human life could not have been done. But still greater is that moral courage which enables a man or a boy to stand alone, and do the thing he knows to be right—do it because it is right, although many are calling it foolish or wrong. There is no courage needed to do the right, when the right is the popular side. We are all then wonderfully brave and strong! But are we so brave when we stand alone for the right? Or do we stand at all when we are alone?

Three times within a few verses Joshua is bidden to be strong and courageous. Was he then so weak and cowardly? Surely not! He was no untried youth, but a man of mature age and experience, probably at least 50 years old. He had lived the hard life of the desert tribes, a nomadic people struggling for existence with every man's hand against them. In this hard school of training Joshua had developed into a shrewd, clear-headed leader, with a strong arm, alert brain, and courage to face every emergency.

And Joshua had plenty of moral strength and courage too. Long before this, when he was quite a young man, Moses had sent out twelve spies to report on the land of Canaan—twelve men, one to represent each of the twelve tribes of Israel. It must have been a great honour to be chosen as one of those twelve. It meant that you were the best, strongest, most alert and courageous man the tribe could find. And Joshua had represented his tribe in this great adventure. They went to Canaan, these chosen twelve, and returned to Moses laden with the fruits of the land to show its wonderful fertility: and wonderful it must have seemed to men who had grown up in the desert. But they had found the inhabitants as remarkable as the fruits of the land: the cities were all vast with strong towers and walls; the soldiers had tough armour and keen weapons; in fact, the spies said that they felt like grasshoppers in the land beside these great Canaanitish giants. At least, this was the story told by ten out of the twelve when they made their report to Moses and the assembled tribes. "It is of no use for us to try to capture such a land," they said; and all the people wailed in agreement. Fear and despair of any success in Canaan were the accepted view of the whole position. But Caleb and Joshua were strong enough and brave enough to stand out against the ten and all the assembled tribes. They alone raised their voices on the other side. "All that they say is true: the cities are strong, and have mighty walls; the soldiers are well armed and well trained, and we are but crude desert tribes. But," said they, "if God is with us, we can do it."

To say that in the face of such opposition demanded courage, and great courage too.

It was a great adventure to which Joshua was being called; and we, too, all of us, have before us a great adventure, the great adventure of life. I should like everyone of you to keep on thinking of life in this way, not as something dull and monotonous, to be endured and finally ended with a feeling of relief, but as a great adventure to be enjoyed, something of which the best is always "yet to be."

I am thinking tonight specially of those who are leaving school this term, and so will soon be facing life in a new way. To them at this moment that feeling of adventure in life must be coming very strongly. Try to keep that impression fresh in your mind and soul, for if we are to get the best out of life we must live it in that way.

There are two things I want to say to you along these lines tonight. First of all, remember that, if life is to be worth while, there is no easy road through it for us. The very essence and condition of life is struggle. If you are to make your life really a great adventure, and succeed in it, you will have to fight, as Joshua fought, and as all men have fought whose lives have counted for something in the world.

You are facing life with great ideals: your sense of right and wrong is keen and sensitive. It will need strength to keep it so as the years pass by. Your ideals of conduct, and of purity in body, mind, and soul, and of cleanness in deed, in word, and in thought are so clear and lofty. It will take much courage to keep them high as time goes on. You will need all the strength and courage you can find, for there is always the easy path, the way of fear and weakness. It is always so easy, fatally easy, to join the many and say, "Why try to do the impossible? Everyone does these things; who am I to try to be so different?"

In the second place, notice that Joshua had a definite purpose facing him in life. He had to lead his people Israel into Canaan. And as we face our great adventure of life, what is our purpose? To find pleasure? Well, if that is it, you need not trouble much about courage and strength. You will usually go with the crowd when you chase pleasure. You will never quite catch her, but will always think that you will next time. But is it worth while? Does it give any lasting satisfaction? You will certainly find that it does not! Well, is happiness our aim? That is a great deal better; but it is not the true end or purpose of life. Jesus gave us the true aim in life. To love God and to love men: to strive to find God, and to make the world in some degree happier and better. Life lived with this aim will bring happiness, and will give a pleasure all its own, nor is it going to take you out of the world of men around you.

It is the great climax of Jesus' teaching that we have and can have God's help in our great venture. Even with God's help we shall often fail, but our failing can lead us to new strength, and however we fail, life with this purpose is always beckoning us on to something higher and nobler. There will be plenty of striving and conflict, for we shall be living a real life with a real purpose, and we shall so often feel that to lead us on to still greater things we need the warning that Joshua had, "Only be thou strong and very courageous!"

Boxing Competitions

The College Boxing Competitions were conducted in the gym. on Thursday, December 13. The competitors set a high standard, and reflected credit on Mr. Bennett's assistant, Mr. Price.

It was encouraging to see the keenness exhibited by the boys, and what they have learned will always stand them in good stead. Boxing is a good sport, and very valuable from the point of view of exercise. It develops in a boy self-reliance, quickness of brain, hand, foot and eye, and perhaps best of all, gets rid of the nerves of nervous boys, and for this alone is worth its weight in gold. Nervous boys are a worry to their parents, a nuisance to their masters, and classed as "sissies" amongst the other boys. If parents will see that these boys learn boxing, they will never regret it.

Mr. Bennett's three sons all learned boxing, and got nothing but good from their training in that respect. I feel sure all parents really wish their boys to be able to take their own part, and if they do, they should get their boys to join the boxing class.

It was very gratifying to see several parents at the competitions. We would gladly welcome many more of them. We were grateful to the Headmaster for allowing the whole school time off to see the competitions. We were glad to have the services of Messrs. Mutton, Frank Nicholls and Jack Williams as judges, and Mr. M. Schlank as referee, and our thanks are due to them. To the old scholars, Dr. M. Erichsen, and Messrs. P. A. McBride and M. Schlank, who donated silver cups for the winners, we are especially grateful.

The first bout was between P. A. McBride and C. L. Gilbert. These two boys are good athletes, and they gave a clever exhibition. Gilbert, at times, forced McBride to retire, but McBride was the cleverer, and used both hands to advantage. An extra round was desired before McBride got the decision.

Norman and Wickes, of the second division, were next. Norman was a live wire, and especially good on his feet.

Wickes was inclined to chop instead of using his reach. Norman was the winner.

Jackson and Beilby, of the third division were next. Jackson must surely be a fighting name, as we have all heard of the famous "Stonewall" and "Peter" of that ilk. The present Jackson is keeping the name up. He was very good, and no matter how Beilby tried, Jackson wasn't there when he hit; but when Jackson hit, Beilby was always there. Beilby can rest assured that it was no disgrace to be beaten by Jackson.

Wright and Tilbrook, of the first division, were next. Wright bored in, but Tilbrook used his left and stopped him. Wright, however, worried Tilbrook's body, and Tilbrook thought him a terrible nuisance. Tilbrook did well, but Wright was too good.

Roberts and Ockenden, of the second division, were next, and this bout was a treat to watch. The boys were very smart, and few hits landed, as both boys guarded and ducked well. Roberts' better physical condition won him the decision.

Simpson and Jarvis, of the third division were next. Jarvis started off like a whirlwind, and Simpson wondered whether he was fighting one or half a dozen. Simpson, however, remained cool, fought back well, and after a good go, won.

K. M. McBride and Charlick, of the first division, then appeared. Charlick attacked well, but McBride was very wily, and when Charlick left himself open, McBride did the right thing. McBride was the winner.

Lindo, of the second division, and Tuck, of the third division, then fought a bye. Lindo, of course, played the game, and was easy with Tuck; but Tuck wasn't a sport (?), and several times took advantage, and landed one on Lindo's face, much to Lindo's amusement. Wright and Gilbert then fought a bye, and we nearly went to bye bye. The lazy scamps took things much too easily.

Roberts and Lindo then engaged in a semi-final, and this was a most enjoyable bout. Both boys showed great skill. Roberts won, but Lindo might have caused him much more trouble had he put more weight behind his punches. He seemed a trifle too good-natured.

Jackson and Tuck then fought a semi-final. Tuck was there to do or die, and he went for his life. His energy made Jackson grin; in fact, they both thought it a great joke. Tuck's energy got away with him, and he began to swing, while Jackson, like an old campaigner, kept cool and avoided Tuck's rushes, and won.

The two McBride's fought a semi-final. They gave a good exhibition, and both were skilful, but P. A. was the winner. Norman and Wickes fought a bye, and nobody was hurt.

Simpson and Beilby also fought a bye, and there were no casualties.

P. A. McBride and Wright then decided the final of the first division. This was quite a good go, and Wright again put his energy into body work; but McBride knew too much for him, and won.

Roberts and Norman then met in the final of the second division. This was an excellent bout, and good to watch. Both boys were skilful and quick, and few hits were made; but Roberts managed to do enough to get the decision.

Jackson and Simpson then decided the final of the third division. Simpson, who has not been learning long, did very well; but really was no match for Jackson. Jackson saw this, and proved himself a thorough sport, and showed that, as I said before, boxing makes boys manly. He did not attempt to hit Simpson after he saw the position. Well done, Jackson, that is the spirit we want in Prince Alfred boys.

The Gymnasium Championship

The contest for the Gym. Championship took place in the college gym. on Wednesday, December 12.

The competition was most interesting, and was considerably better than that of 1933. There were eleven competitors, who had worked hard during the year, and their performances in the competition did them credit.

M. K. Smith was the winner, and he deserves hearty congratulations, as he has been enthusiastic, painstaking and persistent, and these are qualities which are bound to be rewarded by success.

J. W. Stain was a very close second, and he deserves congratulations for his work. Roberts and Bond were not far behind, and the other competitors, Keats, King, P. A. and K. M. McBride, Tilbrook, Muecke and Charlick, all showed that they had made much progress.

The gymnasium is a popular institution at the college, and is probably the finest school gym. in Australia. Every boy at the college, unless medically unfit, attends the gym., and no compulsion is needed. The work in the gym. is so arranged that, while the weaker boy is given every chance of improving himself, the stronger boy gets all the exercise he needs. There is no stunt work, and boys are warned against straining and dangerous exercises. There is no other system of exercise as interesting, and no other system shows boys so well how they are progressing. It is wonderful how it stimulates a boy's ambition, and the smile of triumph and glee on a boy's face as he accomplishes something he could not do before is well worth seeing. To become successful at gym. a boy needs not only strength. He must concentrate on his work, he must get control of himself, and he must persevere to overcome difficulties; in short, he must increase his will power.

New boys come along, and quite a few of them are frightened of themselves and everything else. They are given every encouragement, and very soon they show wonderful improvement and become as keen as the other boys. The boys then find that, as they increase their strength, will power and pluck, they find themselves vastly improved in the school games, and they become better boys in all ways. Hundreds of boys have started a successful sporting career in the gym. These facts have frequently been testified to by old scholars who have been athletes of the highest standard.

Christian Union

The first meeting for the term was addressed by Rev. Norman E. Lade, M.A. He said that it was a great thing "to ride the horse that throws us,"—to conquer faults in our characters before they conquer us. He cited the life of Peter as an outstanding example of this.

Unforeseen happenings prevented our holding the next two meetings on the programme.

Some of the meetings were held on the front oval, and the members of the Union welcomed the novelty of open-air gatherings.

The first open-air meeting was addressed by Rev. G. N. White. He stressed the necessity of religious rather than patriotic principles in maintaining the integrity of British freedom. To do this, Mr. White said the Church must appeal to us before it can guide and instruct. He pointed out that the Church might even have to change its outlook and enlist the aid of such modern instruments as the cinema, the theatre and wireless.

Rev. G. H. Pemberton addressed the third meeting. He chose for his subject the words, "Enoch walked with God." He showed us that this is not as strange as it seems. Many God-fearing men, Abraham Lincoln, for example, may be said to have "walked with God" in that their lives were spent in serving Him and their fellow-men.

The fourth meeting was addressed by Rev. T. P. Willason. He gave us a most interesting account of his travels and experiences as a sailor. He told us that all the wonders of Nature are manifestations of God. When we learnt to recognise God in Nature we would find an added pleasure in life.

Rev. A. C. Nelson, B.A., addressed the fifth meeting which, as the day was fine and bright, was held out of doors. He said that a true sense of values would be a great asset to us in our future lives as men. We, as college students, had the privilege of receiving a sound education, but a formal education was not the main thing. The preparation for life was far more important, and if we put into practice the principles of Christian faith we would live lives which would be useful and helpful to our fellow-men.

The last meeting for the term was addressed by Mr. W. R. Bayly, B.A., B.Sc., who spoke particularly to those who were leaving school. He told us that we had been living in realms of ideals, many of which would probably receive serious setbacks when we left school. He stressed the fact that we should endeavour, as far as possible, to preserve these ideals against the soiling effect of the world.

Once again we wish to express our sincere thanks to those who have helped the Union in any way during the year. Their efforts have been both instructive and helpful.

Tennis Notes

During the term the school was represented at the Memorial Drive by two teams playing in the Students' Association, and we also had a "C" and under fifteen team playing on hard courts each Saturday.

In order to give next year's players as much match practice as possible, our teams during this term only include players who are returning next year. Our results, even then, were very pleasing, and we have reason to be proud of some of our younger players.

The "A" and "B" teams have each lost only one match for the season. The younger players in the "C" and under fifteen teams have shown promise, for they have not yet been defeated.

Mr. Luke and his colleague, Mr. Searle, have given us the benefit of their knowledge and experience. All playing tennis have benefited from their advice, and we thank them for the keen interest they have shown.

We would like to congratulate Max Newcombe on his excellent results in District Tennis, and also on being selected to represent the State in the Linton Cup matches in Melbourne during the Christmas vacation. We wish him every success.

Mr. Len. Schwartz visited the school to demonstrate an effective backhand return shot. He is an expert on this backhand shot, and all those to whom he taught it have used it to advantage. We thank him for his keen interest in our tennis activities.

Ross Lock is keeping up his connection with the school. His experience, which he is ever ready to pass on to us, has been invaluable to members of the teams. We wish to congratulate him on his selection in the Linton Cup team.

Mr. D. P. Turnbull kindly gave us a lecture, in the Assembly Hall, on his tour with the Davis Cup team. The moving pictures of world champions in action were very interesting and instructive.

Rowing Notes

This term we have been busy instructing new members and laying a foundation for next year's Eight. We were greatly encouraged by the large number of boys who commenced rowing this term, and look forward to good work being done in 1935.

The Eight is taking definite shape, and we certainly have promising material in hand.

One evening during the term we were privileged to have a lecture by Mr. Hurtle Morphett, who was, a few years ago, President of the Oxford University Boat Club, and who was chosen, two years ago, as emergency for the English Olympic Eight. Mr. Morphett gave us a great deal of useful information in a very interesting fashion. The same evening, Mr. Qurban, of the Port Adelaide Club, brought several films of Interstate Eight Races, a film of the Melbourne Centenary Regatta, as well as a slow motion film of the London crew at work. These were most helpful. To both these gentlemen, who kindly offered to help us at some future time, we tender our sincere thanks.

The Forms Regatta in December was well contested, seventeen crews competing. Unfortunately, a stiff south westerly made starting difficult, but the regatta was quite a success. The same morning we put out four Clinker crews and two Eights, our best achievement to date.

On the last day of the term we assembled to bid farewell to several members of the club, and to express our thanks to those who had helped us. We have had a very happy year's rowing.

The third term is not the best term of the year for the Scouts. Preparation for examinations takes everybody's spare minutes, and Monday afternoon meetings are the only calls made on the boys' time.

Work has gone on apace. The boys have been divided into two classes under Mr. Forsyth and Mr. Dennis for instruction in signalling and ambulance work.

On December 13th several of the Scouts assisted Mr. McLean at a children's Christmas party at Pirie Street Methodist Church. They gave impromptu items, which were thoroughly enjoyed by the performers as well as by the audience.

No trips have been made to the shack at Mylor this term as very few boys have been able to find the time to take a Saturday off from their games and work. The camp that was to have been held at the shack from December 21 to December 24 had to be cancelled on account of the recent tragedy at Mylor. It was felt to be unwise to take boys up there at such a time.

In the competition for the Abotomey Cup, the Hawk Patrol, under P. B. Bidstrup, was easily first. The Hawks, although the youngest of the patrols, showed such keenness that they very quickly made up for their lack of experience.

On Saturday, December 8th, although the weather was a little unkind, a very enjoyable cricket match was played between the Scouts and the Parents.

The Parents, who batted first, declared their innings closed at 117 for 8 wickets.

Hedde and Brinsley opened the innings for the Scouts, and after Hedde and Lee had been dismissed, Brinsley and G. S. Johnston, in a dogged partnership, added 50 odd runs. E. F. Johnston, with a brisk 22, dispelled all hopes that the Parents had held, before he was bowled by a ball which dropped over his head on to the wicket.

The Scouts' tail showed no signs of wagging, and their innings was brought to a close by Mr. Holmes with the hat-trick.

The Parents are hoping that the time will come when they will win a match. This will presumably occur after Brinsley and G. S. Johnston leave.

A fine afternoon tea was prepared by the ladies of the Parents' Association in the Scout room. If any doubt had existed previously as to the superiority of boys over the Parents, it was speedily dispelled. Scores of the match were:—

Library Notes

The following have been added to the Memorial Library this term. We offer grateful thanks to those who have been kind enough to donate books; particularly do we thank Gilbert James, who forwarded £2 2s. for purchase of new works of reference.

"The Stone Implements of the Adelaide Tribe of Aborigines," by Professor Walter Howchin.—Presented by R. H. Cotton, Esq. This book, written and printed in Adelaide, is of particular interest to all South Australians. It gives the history of the aborigines who once lived on the Adelaide plains. The illustrations are beautifully executed.

"Pope" (English Men of Letters Series), by Leslie Stephens.—This entertaining biography of Pope contains some very useful criticism of his works.

"Johnson" (English Men of Letters Series), by Leslie Stephens.—This should be of great use to all students of Dr. Johnson's works.

"The Endless Quest," by F. W. Westaway.—This book traces the history of science for 3,000 years, and explains modern theories in simple language.

"The Cambridge Modern History," in 13 volumes, by Lord Acton.—As a history it presents a new aspect of the subject in that it connects the histories of all countries and describes how an important event in one may produce reactions in many others. A very valuable contribution to our library.

"In the Steps of the Master," by H. V. Morton.—Presented by the Prefects. To those who have read Mr. Morton's "In Search of England," this book, wherein the author describes his experiences and travels in Palestine, will be full of interest. The reader of the Gospels who has wondered what Bethlehem is like today, or how Nazareth, Jerusalem and the Lake of Galilee impress a modern observer, will find his questions answered.

"Outlines of English Economic History," by Dr. Derry, gives an economic background for the political history of England and correlates the economic and political branches of the subject. It should be especially valuable to students of VI C, because it gives them a point of view rather different from Warner's.

Swinburne's "Source Book of Australian History" consists of excerpts from explorers' diaries, contemporary letters, newspaper reports and official documents—the sort of thing that makes history live before our eyes and converts it from being a dry as dust subject into a pleasure and a delight.

The Mount Buffalo Trip

When our party of thirty boys from the School left by the Melbourne Express for Mount Buffalo, we felt sure that they would have a splendid holiday, and we were not disappointed.

After a very comfortable train journey we reached Melbourne at 9.15 a.m., and were met by a fleet of cars, in which we were taken to see the sights of the city. The streets were partly decorated in pre-massive proportions of the shrine had impressed us when a great distance off, but now we found that its beauty far exceeded our expectations. We moved reverently into the richly pillared hall, where lay the Stone of Memory, and then into the crypt beneath, where the dedication service was later to be held. We left the Shrine mindful of the sacrifices made for us.

paration for the Duke's visit, and gave a somewhat festive touch to the otherwise drab city that misty morning.

After about an hour the clouds began to scatter, and as we turned into Swanston Street we saw in the distance the Shrine of Remembrance, sunlit. It was a magnificent sight. In a few minutes the cars drew up near to it, and we climbed the steps to the portal. The

A visit to the Botanical Gardens and lunch at Spencer Street left us a couple of hours for exploring the city, and at 4 p.m. we were on our way to Porepunkah, which we reached at 11.15. We shall not easily forget the motor drive along the eighteen miles of mountain road by which we climbed 3,500 feet to the Chalet. Hot coffee was never more welcome, nor log fires such as we found there.

Saturday morning we spent in securing sports equipment, and walking to vantage points, and in the afternoon went by motor lorry to Point Le Souef, where most of us made our first acquaintance with the vagaries of skis. Our education had begun! If we did not learn to ski, we certainly discovered how to disentangle ourselves from the other fellow's skis and our own. Two hours' sport and a rough ride back to the Chalet made us more than ready for the hot baths and sumptuous dinner for which the Chalet is renowned.

Every day we went out on the snow or walked to notable points on the plateau. Even the shorter walks were delightful, for the view across the great valley to the snow-clad Australian Alps was ever changing, as we saw it in sunshine or shadow, through mist or driving snow.

Monday was our best day. Soon after breakfast we motored to the Horn, the highest peak on the plateau. When the motors reached the end of the track we started a steep climb to the lookout, from which we hoped to get a magnificent view. Imagine our disappointment when a cloud of mist rose from the valley, blotting out most of the horizon. But in two minutes it disappeared, and in the north-east we could see the fleecy top of Kosciusko across ninety miles of mountain ranges, while to the south we saw almost to Mount Macedon.

Back in the cars, we drove to a camp shelter, and while the drivers prepared lunch, spent half-an-hour in a first-class snow fight. There were no rules. It was "all-in." Then lunch, and afterwards, tobogganing on iron sheets; no upholstery. For the next two hours we skied at Le Souef's and adjacent fields, and left for the Chalet tired and hungry.

On Tuesday some of us were fortunate enough to go to Mount Hotham, a wonderful trip across fifty-four miles of mountain country. The drive from Porepunkah to the Chalet paled into insignificance when compared with that from Harrietville to the Mount St. Bernard Hospice—twenty-four miles of road along a narrow ledge hewn from the mountain-side—a climb which the big Cadillacs did almost entirely in second and bottom gears. At Hotham we skied on the snow-clad hills for two hours, and watched the displays given by the drivers of the cars, two of whom were remarkably skilful. The drive back was perfect, but we were quite ready for our late dinner and the comforts of the Chalet.

The evening entertainments were well arranged, and we were able to contribute largely to the programmes. The wrestling match we staged lacked neither in vigour nor in variety of grips. It was difficult to tell whether the temperamental contestants or the seconds came off the worse. Perhaps our best contribution was made on the night of the Fancy Dress Ball, when our boys carried off most of the prizes. The "monkey" and his "keeper," the "nurse" and her "twins," and the trim young "ladies" greatly amused the onlookers.

At sports we were equally successful, winning five of the six events.

But even this happy time had to come to an end, and in the very early hours of Thursday morning we left for Melbourne. Unfortunately, Mr. J. C. Dickson, of the Victorian Tourist Bureau, who had accompanied us on the trip, and whom we had come to regard as one of ourselves, was unable to return to Adelaide with us. We greatly appreciated all he did for us. At Ballarat we took the opportunity of expressing to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. McLean, who had been in charge of us, our appreciation of their company and the arrangements they had made for us.

Next morning we were home after a memorable holiday, everyone of us determined to return to Mt. Buffalo some day.

THE GARDEN OF CONTENT

Verily a pleasant name to give
To any tract of land so fair—
Nor is there fairer anywhere;
This is the place where I would live—
The Garden of Content.

The woods around are glad and gay,
The happy birds on yonder tree
Are ever singing merrily;
Oh! this will banish care away
And foster merriment.

Once I was glad to wander far
Enchanted with the solitude
Of hill and vale and plain and wood—
By day the sun, by night a star,
With these alone I went.

I shunned in fear the human race,
Far from the madding crowd around
I loved the silence so profound—
But now I seek a kindly face,
Good cheer and merriment.

Then give me friends to speak to me,
Companions dear to ease my pain,
Their cheerful words like summer rain
On thirsty flowers, will fill with glee
This Garden of Content.

And may I beg e'en one boon more:
A maiden lovely as the day,
And pure and sweet, yet blithe and gay,
Whom I may worship and adore
In this Garden of Content.

And I will pray full many a time
For blessings on thee, garden sweet,
If my true love and I may meet
Within thy bounds, thy parks sublime,
O Garden of Content.

MALVOLIO DREAMS IN THE DARK CELL

"Malvolio, Malvolio!" I hear milady cry
In accents of alarm. "Come hither, speed Swiftly to my aid; thy timely help I need."

I rise, resplendent, unabashed,—her eye
Forsooth will mark my yellow stockings gay,
And when I smile and smile, her fears will fade away.

Along the gilded corridor with seemly pace
I stalk; with lofty mien I may ignore
Maria's titter and Sir Toby's loud guffaw,
And then I knock discreetly 'pon milady's chamber door.

"M.O.A.I."—thus I proclaim and enter:
Alone she stands with horror-stricken face,
Her limbs transfixed with fear. Doth demon haunt the place?

With silken robes whisked clear from dainty feet

She trembling stands: stillness pervades the house—

While on its haunches, staring, sits a monstrous little mouse.

Girding up my branch-ed velvet gown, I raise
My staff, aim true, and scotch the daring foe,
And win my peerless bride with one heroic blow.

AN UNUSUAL HOME

Whilst in Sydney I met a man whose dwelling-place was rather unusual, and, from a scenic point of view, almost unique. He was the caretaker of a large building, and for a home he had the whole of the thirteenth storey. I was only too pleased to accept his invitation to see through the building, and I was soon being whisked up to the top storey by a high-speed lift which left my stomach several floors behind.

His home was quite complete, with a large workshop and many spacious rooms. His back yard was the flat roof of the building, where he had a garden set out in pots and boxes, complete with an aviary and a cockatoo in a cage.
The view from this coign of vantage was uninterrupted for many miles, and we could see the whole of Sydney before us like a map. My head whirled when I gazed at the busy traffic one hundred and fifty feet below us, while the city itself seemed remote and unreal. Only the street immediately below us was visible, the magnificent buildings being replaced by an expanse of dirty iron roofs, pierced through at intervals by towers, domes and spires, while the Bridge could be seen spanning the sparkling blue expanse of the Harbour.

The humid heat of the streets was replaced by a cool sea breeze which muffled the incessant roar of the traffic to a distant rumble, and instead of jostling crowds we felt a sensation of solitude as we gazed at the Harbour with the open ocean beyond.

When we had inspected the whole building,
we stepped into the street with the sensation of waking from a dream.

LIQUID AIR

Air is liquefied by allowing cooled compressed air to escape through a small jet, and, as it expands, it cools. This cooled air is used to cool air before it is allowed to expand, and so by repeating this process a temperature is obtained low enough to cause air to become liquid.

Pure liquid air has a slight bluish tinge, due to liquid oxygen, but must be filtered to remove solid carbon dioxide, which makes it cloudy. This tinge is hardly noticeable, and, by cursory examination, liquid air cannot be distinguished from water.

But if we were given some of it instead of water one day, what a shock we would get! If a kettle placed on a block of ice suddenly began to boil, and a column of steam rose from the spout, we would doubt the evidence of our senses. An egg, placed in this liquid, would be as solid as a rock, and could not be broken even with a hammer.

Mercury can be frozen into any shape by pouring the liquid air around the mould. Thus you can drive a nail with a hammer made of mercury, and make a tuning-fork of any pitch. Indiarubber becomes brittle and can be broken like glass, when dipped into this liquid; while lead becomes elastic. Steel will burn in liquid air in an ice receptacle.

Substances like cotton, felt, charcoal, and others, when soaked in liquid air, become explosive, and some cartridges have been made with charcoal and this liquid. A large volume of air is suddenly released when the temperature is raised, and this forms the propelling force.

A possible use of the latent energy of liquid air is the propulsion of motor cars, and this is a field of research that may be exploited in the next few years.

YORKETOWN

Yorke town is a small township situated in the south of Yorke Peninsula. Surrounding the town are many salt lakes, of which very few are now worked. There are 203 within reasonable distance of the town, so when one goes up in an aeroplane the country seems dotted with lakes. There are 1,100 people in the town, most of whom are employed. I think Yorke town has less unemployed than most Peninsula towns. The town is becoming more modern every day—all the roads are of bitumen, and many old buildings are being destroyed and new ones put in their places. The Commercial Bank has only recently been built, and is now situated in the main street. Edithburgh, which is nine miles from Yorketown, is the chief port, although not the closest. The nearest is Coobowie, which is eight miles away. As one approaches the town by road from the city the town appears something like this: A salt lake on the right, and then houses and the police station on the left. Next, one would come to the Melville Hotel on the corner of the main street and the Minlaton road. The Post Office is situated on the corner of the Edithburgh and Port Marowie roads; while on the opposite side is the Yorke Hotel. The Memorial Park, which is also the Oval, is situated on the Stansbury road, and opposite it is the school. Adjoining the Town Hall is the Library. A very good place to view the township from is the Stansbury Hill, which is about three-quarters of a mile from the Post Office.

SEVEN O'CLOCK

Seven o'clock! 'Tis time to rise:
I stretch and yawn and rub my eyes.
What are this morning's lessons, pray?
Hurrah! there are none—it is Saturday.

F. D. B. (III)

Day is dying fast,
Night is drawing nigh,
Folk are hurrying past,
And motors whizzing by.

Gradually the sun
Sinks low behind the trees,
Schoolboys leave your fun
And hurry homewards, please!

THE VISION MAGNIFICENT

(Extract)

Chaos still reign'd and man was fighting man
As bitterly as when strife first began
On Earth, and he for love of self and gold
In frenzied battle wasted life's brief span.

O sorry world, where problems are unfaced,
Drift and desolation, wicked waste,
Where tasks are shirk'd or left unfinish'd: so
Man labours in his foolish, careless haste.

Welcome distress! and may thy presence stay
Till men and women cease to fool and play
In wanton idleness, regardless of
The burning, bitter questions of the day.

Until a race is born of nobler heart,
With ev'ry man prepared to play his part
In managing the scheme of things, mankind
Shall never from the way of woe depart.

Arise, a people unashamed and bold!
Proclaim your rights: refuse to be controll'd
By unconcern'd, self-seeking demagogues,
Paid for inflicting misery untold.

Rule well and wisely till mankind shall be
Blest with contentment and prosperity,
Till men shall all be neighbours, nations
friends,
And all the world one vast fraternity.

The Preparatory School

Don. Brebner was the only new boy admitted in September. Though quite a little chap he already cherishes, together with some of his classmates, a laudable ambition to qualify for the First XI.

Geoff. Chapman has not been well enough to attend school this term. All his friends at school hope that his extended stay in the country will restore him to complete health.

Max. Tuit left during the term, his family having removed to Sydney.

Scott Dolling has sent welcome messages from Harrogate, England, and several boys have written to him.

For one of our boys the past year has been a particularly sad and trying time, as his father has for many months been very seriously ill. Just as these notes go to the printer we learn with very deep regret of the passing of Mr. W. K. Harley. To Ken. Harley and his mother and sisters the whole school extends heartfelt sympathy.

Boys of the Prep. responded generously to an appeal from Toc H for toys and books, and a bulky package of acceptable gifts was soon available for distribution.

Many thanks to Mr. Meller for presenting to the School the film taken by him at the Junior and Prep. School sports.

Greetings to Mrs. J. R. Robertson and Mr. James Ashton, both of Brighton, who continue to show unflinching interest in the welfare of the Prep.

Having accepted an engagement at Broken Hill, Mr. Val. Anderson has had to relinquish his work at the Prep. His mother, Mrs. James Anderson, will take charge of the special class in elocution.

Miss N. Sims deserves thanks for her efficient service during the term, when she relieved Miss Birt of her afternoon duties with the youngest boys.

By courtesy of Messrs. Menz & Co., two parties of boys paid visits of inspection to the well-known biscuit and chocolate factory in Wakefield Street. Clem. Middleton wrote to the firm expressing thanks on behalf of the boys.

A small party from Senior "A" spent a most interesting and instructive evening at the "Advertiser" office, where they saw in detail the whole business of making a newspaper, the particular edition being the Christmas issue of the "Express and Journal." In a letter of appreciation to the Company, John Southwood stressed the educational value of such visits, at the same time indicating features of special interest to the school-boy mind.

Mrs. J. Dunn, Dr. C. Schafer and Mr. N. I. Gryst earned the warm thanks of the cricket team by kindly providing transport facilities for the match against Wykeham at Belair.

Junior and Preparatory School Sports

Delightful spring weather favoured the boys of the Junior and Preparatory Schools on the occasion of their 13th annual athletic sports meeting, which was held at the College on Saturday, November 10th.

A fine attendance of parents and friends lent quite a festive air to the proceedings, which were further enlivened by the good offices of Mr. J. E. Nobbs, who very kindly provided and operated a broadcaster.

There were 314 entries for the fourteen events on the programme, and close finishes were, as usual, the order of the day. Stuart Richardson again demonstrated his ability as a sprinter by winning both the under 13 championship and the 220 yards handicap, and being placed in the 100 yards handicap under 13. Ken. Harley won the Preparatory School championship fairly comfortably, and did well to secure first place in the high jump handicap. Of the younger runners, Len. Jessup and Tom Owen were outstanding in their performances.

Thanks to the splendid co-operation of fathers, masters, school prefects, and the members of the boys' committee headed by D. F. Provis, the meeting was generally voted the most successful to date.

Throughout the afternoon Mr. Gilbert Meller was exceptionally busy with his cine-Kodak, and a few days later the boys were delighted to see their activities depicted on the screen.

At the conclusion of the sports, cups and trophies were presented to successful competitors in the Assembly Hall by Mrs. Arthur G. Trott, who was warmly cheered by the boys.

The Launching of the "Queen Mary"

The following interesting extract is taken from a letter recently received from Mr. F. A. Gibbs, of York, England. After spending six years with us, Mr. Gibbs returned to England at the end of 1933.

"On Tuesday, September 25, at midnight, we left home to join a special excursion train carrying a party from Hull to Glasgow to see the launch of the 534 ("Queen Mary," 70,000 tons). The secretary of the Old Scholars' Association of the Hull Municipal Technical College had organised the trip splendidly, and we had a most enjoyable time despite the weather. The train stopped about seventeen miles south of Edinburgh, and breakfast was served at 7 a.m. on Wednesday. Rain was falling then, but people comforted themselves with the old saying, 'Rain before seven, fine before eleven.'

"At about 8.15 a.m. we reached Edinburgh, there to spend about two and a half hours sight-seeing. The wind was cold, but at any rate the rain had cleared away.

Buses were awaiting our arrival at Glasgow, and took us down to the stands—or as near as they could go—which had been erected on the land in the angle to the south-west of the junction of the Rivers Cart and Clyde. Immediately opposite our stand, on the other bank of the Clyde, lay the 534. When I first saw her as we approached from Glasgow I was rather disappointed, for she appeared very ordinary in size. But when we had taken our seats on the stand, only a quarter of a mile or less from her, we had some idea of her enormous bulk. She dwarfed everything of her surroundings; only the huge cranes stood higher, and they looked very tall and stately in contrast.

"Loud speakers had been fixed up opposite the stands, so we heard all that was said by the King and Queen before the actual launch. Then the ship moved down the slipway. All the details of measurements would no doubt be in your papers, but the thing that astounded me was that a ship 1,018 ft. long was to be launched down a slipway with only 1,800 ft. of water in line with it. However, with no flame, little smoke, and comparatively little noise, most of her length slipped into the water before the much greater noise caused by the unwinding of thousands of tons of drag chains, was heard.

"The drag chains stopped the vessel before she got anywhere near shallow water at the stern, and then the tugs went and took charge. As she passed before the stand, on her way downstream to the fitting-out basin, I tried to get a photo of her broadside, and failed to get the full length in, even at a distance of about three hundred yards. The tugs looked absurdly small beside their charge.

The Objects of the Association are: To keep Old Boys, wherever they may be, in touch with one another and with the boys at the School; also to foster and maintain their interest in the School.

"Old Boys' Week" is observed annually towards the end of July, during which a dinner and other social functions as well as sports contests are held. Also social gatherings are held whenever any occasion arises that makes them desirable.

The Association has donated the following Scholarships to the School:

- Old Collegians' Scholarship.
- J. A. Hartley Scholarship.
- Fredk. Chapple Scholarship.
- W. R. Bayly Scholarship.
- A. G. Collison Scholarship (gift of the Princes Club to the Association).

"The P.A.C. Chronicle," of which a large part is devoted to matters of special interest to Old Boys, is forwarded to each member of the Association.

The subscription is six shillings per annum. It is suggested that Country Members should remit sufficient to cover four years' subscription or become Life Members by payment of £5 5s. Any Old Boy wishing to become a member can do so by forwarding his name and address to the Head Master, or to any member of the Staff, or to one of the Secretaries.

THE SENSE OF VOCATION

We like to see people who continue to take a pride in their work. This is never easy, even in prosperous times, because we all find routine a deadening thing. Anyone can be enthusiastic to begin with; the real test comes later, when the daily round and common task begin to pall; we tend then to lose our sense of vocation and of our own usefulness—the zest of living goes and we become tired automatons. And then the storms come—all kinds of storms. Psychologists tell us that if we can analyse and objectify our fears and depressions we can overcome them. It depends. Analysis helps some, while for others it breeds introspection and self-pity, by which, of course, “dumps” are only aggravated.

If this is true of those whose occupation is of their own choosing it applies all the more to those who have had to accept the first job offering—to say nothing of the unfortunate people who have no occupation at all. Few, in these days, can choose for themselves the type of work that appeals to them most; the vast majority have to sell shirts, drive buses and run messages, or even chafe at lack of specific work, simply because there is no alternative. Can we expect a sense of vocation from people who can see before them nothing save the unchanging and uncongenial routine of a job of necessity, or from those whose enthusiasms have been checked and crushed by unemployment?

The question is: What is our “real” vocation? If our occupation is the culmination of years of youthful ambition and preparation, that occupation is in a sense our real vocation: we teach, heal, preach, administrate, for a purpose—the service of others. On the other hand, if, for lack of alternatives, we punch tickets or crack stones, it is harder then, perhaps, to expect a live sense of vocation, although even so it is by no means impossible. Under the latter conditions we can at least be expected to take a pride in our work. And of this we may be sure—that good work well done will not go unrewarded. Used opportunities multiply, inevitably.

But pride in one's work is not a sense of vocation. We may recall with profit the Hindu teaching that “All work is service owed to God and man.” Our occupation, as such, is only “part” of our true vocation. Our activity and interest are not confined to business hours, and our true vocation is just life in its entirety. And when our whole activity is imbued with the Hindu ideal of Karma, whether we sell shirts or shape minds, it comes to assume a purpose and direction that make it instinct with life. Give a man an objective, a loyalty, a cause, and you transform him. The War proved that.

Moreover, what applies to the individual applies also to modern society as a whole. Society today has no corporate convictions or ideals; hence its dislocation. This economic collapse we hear so much of is but the external expression of a deeper moral and spiritual maladjustment. Science and Nature provide all we need and more; and yet there is appalling poverty and want in our midst. The truth is that we, the Christian nations of the world, are too selfish, too afraid to share our material goods—individually or nationally. Fear and greed are the commonest motives of modern business; in social contracts the sense of property is the governing force. And it is the Have-nots, the working class generally, who are making modern history. They “burn” with an idea, a sense of injustice, and thus they form the progressive element in the world today—just as the middle class was the fighting, progressive element in the world two or three centuries ago. A sense of true purpose is the ground of all progress.

Amid all these movements and causes and concerns it is the spirit behind the effort that is the significant thing. What we do of course is important. Banditry and burglary, for instance, are not encouraged by the best people. But more important still is the spirit, the vision, the purpose that inspires effort. And the only purpose worth having—the only purpose that matters for life that “is” life—is that of creative self-giving for others.<sup>1</sup> To become introspective or egocentric is to destroy personal freedom; he that “loseth” shall save. We become truly free only when our interests are turned away from ourselves to persons and things outside ourselves.

All work is “service”—that is our true vocation. As we can kindle and keep alive this sense of vocation, and thus achieve true living for ourselves, so can we inspire life in others, saving them from selves that have grown listless through aimless living, and giving them a fresh confidence, a new pride, a stronger grip.

Collegé Endowment Fund

The objects of this fund are to improve, add to, or alter buildings at the College, or erect new buildings, and to enlarge or improve the grounds, or to acquire new grounds, as and when opportunities arise, and when funds are available, or to expend the fund in any way for the benefit of the College.

Progress in connection with this fund has, unfortunately, during the past year, been very slow. It had been hoped that Mr. H. W. A. Miller would provide the drive necessary to ensure the success of the fund, but it eventually became apparent that Mr. Miller would not be able to help as was expected.

In recent weeks the Committee has given the Endowment Fund their very earnest thought. A sub-committee was appointed to draw up a suggested plan of campaign, and after a very animated and lengthy discussion their recommendation was adopted, and results can be expected in the near future.

At each Committee Meeting a list of likely donors is submitted and discussed, and several prominent Old “Reds” and others have recently been approached.

As soon as a sufficiently imposing list of donations is available the Committee proposes to issue an attractive brochure. This brochure will be sent out to all members of the Old Collegians’ Association, all Old Scholars who are not members of the Association, and any other persons who are likely to be interested. It will contain a list of the subscriptions to date, and will set out the aims and objects of the Fund. The history of the College, more particularly with regard to the growth of its buildings and improvements to grounds, etc., will be described, and suitable photographs will be used as illustrations. After this brochure has been circularized, the Committee will consider means of following up, either by personal canvass or by letter.

It was felt that this brief outline of the Committee’s activities in connection with the fund would be of interest to all Old Collegians. The importance of this fund need hardly be stressed, and we feel sure that every Old “Red” with the well-being of the School at heart will respond when the time comes to the best of his ability.

Our President

MR. P. R. CLARIDGE

Mr. P. R. Claridge, the newly-elected president, is the son of the late Mr. P. H. Claridge, of Crystal Brook. He attended College from 1899 to 1902, School Register No. 3,262.

He took a prominent part in sports, and represented the School in inter-Collegiate football in 1900, and inter-Collegiate gymnastics for three years, 1900 to 1902.

After leaving College he was articled to the late Mr. E. Davies, and studied architecture at the School of Mines. Upon expiration of his articles he joined Mr. Davies in partnership in 1911, and commenced practice on his own account in 1917.

For many years in conjunction with Mr. H. H. Cowell he has carried out the architectural work at the College, including the Memorial Block. He has also designed and supervised the erection of many city buildings.

In open competition for a new Town Hall, Adelaide, he won second prize for design, and his design was one of the premiated designs for the Methodist Church Buildings in Canberra.

Mr. Claridge was Senior Vice-President of the Association. He has, for many years, taken a deep interest in the Association's work, and has served on the general committee for many years. He is also a member of the School Council. Mr. Claridge is deeply interested in his work, and is a very busy man.

He is President of the South Australian Institute of Architects (2nd term), Past President of the Royal Australian Institute of Architects, President of the South Australian Chamber of Building Industries, and a member of the Employment Promotion Council. He was elected a fellow of the Royal Institute of British Architects in 1931.

Dr. A. R. Southwood has been admitted as a Member of the Royal College of Physicians (London).

SIR RAPHAEL W. CILENTO

Sir Raphael West Cilento, upon whom was recently conferred the honour of Knight Bachelor, has had a brilliant career. Sir Raphael was born on the 2nd December, 1893, at Jamestown, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Cilento, who now reside at Walkerville. He entered P.A.C. in 1912, School Register No. 4,590.

Upon leaving College he entered the Adelaide University, studying medicine, and gained his M.B., B.S. and M.D. Degrees. In 1915 he joined the A.I.F., but was demobilised in 1916 with the rank of Corporal, so that he might complete his medical course. He then rejoined on active service with the rank of Captain, and was transferred to the A.M. and M.E.F., New Guinea, for 1918-19.

SIR RAPHAEL W. CIMENTO

In 1922 he received the Duncan and Latcaca Medal (London) for research in tropical medicine, and was awarded the Diploma in Tropical Medicine and Hygiene.

He was then appointed Director of Australian Tropical Medicine, Townsend, Queensland, and later appointed Director for Public Health and Quarantine in the Mandated Territory of New Guinea, where he spent four years.

He is now Director of Tropical Hygiene, Commonwealth Department of Health, and Chief Quarantine Officer, North-Eastern Division, with headquarters at Brisbane.

He has contributed several publications, including those on "Malaria," "Filariasis," "Diagnosis on Bowel Diseases in Northern Australia," and "The White Man in the Tropics."

We offer him our heartiest congratulations upon the honour conferred upon him, and trust he will be spared for many years to carry on his successful work.

MR. WALTER ANGEL

Walter Angel, who was recently appointed manager of the Savings Bank of S.A., is a son of the late Alfred T. H. Angel, of Norwood. He was educated at Gawler and Norwood Public Schools, winning a Government Exhibition at the latter. He entered P.A.C. in 1886, School Register No. 1664, where he passed the Junior and Senior (until that year Matriculation) Exams. with credits in Mathematics in both, and won the Arithmetic Prize presented by the S.A. Cricketing Association.

In 1903 he passed the Accountancy Exam. of the Institute of Accountants in S.A., being placed equal for first place with Mr. J. Howard Burgess (another P.A. collegiate).

He commenced business in 1888 and served for nearly two years in the Treasury. In 1890 Mr. Angel joined the staff of The Savings Bank of S.A., and held various positions until 1906, when he was appointed Assistant Inspector of Agencies. He subsequently held the following positions: Inspector (12 years), Accountant in Branch and Agency

Department (6 years), Supervisor of Branches (4 years), Sub-Accountant, Accountant and Acting-Manager. Appointed Manager on 1st October 1934.

Mr. Angel represented the Savings Bank of S.A. at conferences of Savings Bank delegates from all States held in Melbourne in 1911, and in Sydney in 1924, and also attended the first International Thrift Conference at Philadelphia in 1926, at which he contributed a paper on School Savings Banks.

Mr. Angel is keenly interested in all plans for the promotion of thrift and educating people to make the best use of their earnings. He is one of a large family. Two brothers, Alfred (Chief of Victorian Hansard Staff) and Charles (of F. W. Bullock & Co.) were old P.A.C. boys. Other brothers are Jack (of Western Australia), Sidney, Manager of the Commercial Bank, Hobart), Frank (Accountant, W. D. & H. O. Wills), and Mervyn (Lands Department). Another brother, Roy, was killed in the Great War.

He married Melvyn, youngest daughter of the late Michael Kingsborough, of Norwood.

His only son, Keith, attended P.A.C. from 1917 to 1923, and is a life member of the Old Scholars' Association.

MR. ALEXANDER MELROSE, LL.B.

Alex. Melrose (at P.A.C. 1877-82, Reg. No. 573) has recently published a small volume of various verse entitled "Song and Slapstick." This collection includes many verses that originally appeared in the Sydney "Bulletin" and in South Australian journals, while some are here printed for the first time.

From bridge-playing and cricket to shearing and sun-downing, from Glenelg on the Twenty-eighth to Tantanoola in "South Australia's far south-east," his facile pen swings along breezily. As one might expect, most of his verse reflects a purely Australian point of view, for example, his lines on "Dust" and "You can't go wrong." "Nostalgia," a short lyric written in London, throbs with love of home; that is, his far-distant southern home. "The Nuances of Knees," a skit on the vagaries of fashion, is cleverly executed, and "The Song-and-Dance Sisters" seems to catch truly the spirit of the variety hall entertainment.

Much of his verse is written in a light, humorous vein, and his ironic thrusts are not venomous. The volume was printed in Adelaide by the Hassell Press, and a copy has been placed in the Memorial Library at the College.

Mr. Melrose has always taken a very deep interest in art, and his recent gift of £10,000 for building additions to the Art Gallery is further evidence of his generosity, which the people of South Australia deeply appreciate.

Mr. Melrose is a Life Member (No. 31) of this Association.

HON. A. LYELL McEWIN

HON. A. LYELL McEWIN

Some time ago, at one of our Annual Dinners, members were urged to take a greater interest in the affairs not only of the School but also of the Country, and it is pleasing to know that Prince Alfred Old Boys are doing their share.

We congratulate Mr. Alexander Lyell McEwin upon his election to the Legislative Council for the Northern District, and we feel sure that no efforts will be spared by him to give of his best.

Mr. McEwin is a Life Member, No. 569. He entered the School in 1910, School Register No. 4424, and at the present time is successfully carrying on farming at Calton Hill, Hart.

LIFE MEMBERS' CERTIFICATES

Life members who have not yet received their membership certificates are requested to communicate with the Secretaries.

The "Jim Throssell" Memorial Fund.

In the September, 1934, issue of the Chronicle an appeal was made to the personal friends of the late Jim Throssell for donations to enable his son Eric to be educated at Wesley College, South Perth.

It is estimated that the sum of approximately £200 will be required to carry out the Committee's intentions. Up to that time £116 10s. had been subscribed, and since then further donations totalling £26 4s. have been made, making a grand total of £142 14s. This still leaves about £50 to be subscribed.

As the Committee desire to complete the subscription list at an early date, those friends of the late Hugo Throssell who desire to forward a contribution are asked to do so as early as possible to either the Joint Secretaries of the Association here or to Mr. E. Witherage Cotton, 5 Melrose Crescent, North Perth (Secretary of the W.A. Branch), or Mr. R. J. B. Miller, Treasurer Throssell Memorial Fund, c/o Bank of Australasia, 237 Murray Street, Perth.

He started in the Norwood Branch in 1899, and from there went to Port Pirie. He was appointed manager of the Tarcoola Branch when the gold mines there were booming. In those days it used to take from four to five days to travel from Tarcoola to Port Augusta by trap, a distance of about 270 miles, with the gold from the mines. He was appointed Branch Inspector eleven years ago.

At a recent Empire broadcast Lindsay C. Dawkins, son of Dr. S. L. Dawkins, medical officer of the Railways Depart-

He received his musical education at the Conservatorium, and was for some time a member of Stow Church choir. Several years ago Mr. Dawkins went to London, where he is employed by a large engineering firm.

The 1934 report of the Executive Council of the Universities' Bureau of the British Empire states that the Council had approved of a grant to Professor J. R. Wilton, Professor in Mathematics at the University of Adelaide, to continue work concerned with the analytical theory of numbers, and to investigate the mathematical teaching in some of the more important schools, in so far as it is related to the syllabuses of the various examinations which correspond to public examinations in Australia. Because of unforeseen circumstances, Professor Wilton was unable to accept the grant.

Towards the close of the year the opportunity was taken by the Committee of the Association to congratulate Mr. Williams upon his approaching marriage, and to wish him and his future wife a long and happy future. Mr. P. R. He served with the Australian Field Artillery during the Great War, and after the cessation of hostilities spent six years in the service of the bank

Dr. Burnard, who has been music critic for "The Advertiser" for several years, is a son of Mr. R. T. Burnard, of Mount Lofty. He was born at Malvern in 1900. He was educated at Prince Alfred College and the Elder Conservatorium, obtaining his degree as Bachelor of Music in 1927, and Doctor of Music in 1932, being the youngest in Australia to gain the latter degree. He is well known in Adelaide as a composer and conductor.

Norman Todd was recently appointed secretary of the Stock Exchange of Adelaide. He is 25 years of age, and was educated at Prince Alfred College, and later attended lectures in commerce at the Adelaide University. On leaving college he was employed by John Darling & Son, Messrs. Hodge & Adamson, and Cresco Fertilizers. Later he entered the service of the Stock Exchange, and for the last four years has been the official caller to that institution. He became an Associate of the Federal Institute of Accountants in 1931, and an Associate of the Australasian Institute of Secretaries in March last. He has taken a prominent part in the affairs of the Adelaide University. He was a member of the finance committee of the University Sports Association in 1932, and the treasurer in 1933. He is a prominent baseballer, having been a member of the Adelaide team in the inter-University matches in 1930 and 1933, and was awarded his blue in 1932. Last season he was captain of the University team, and represented South Australia in the inter-State carnival held in Adelaide. Mr. Todd also played "A" Grade tennis for the University in the 1933-34 season.

Obituary

In paying tribute to our Old Scholars, there is a sense of pardonable pride. One feels the value of these men in life—the wealth in character, the generous heart, the strength, resource and courage. So many of our fellows have developed leadership and are a great asset amongst the men with whom they associated. It gives one a real sense of loss, and one feels these fine types are a distinct loss to the State. The School has produced many men whose passing is to be greatly regretted, but it is a great thought to remember these fine fellows were the product of our Alma Mater.

CLOSE.—On the 6th November, at Bellerive, Tasmania, James Ayrton, eldest son of Frances Close, Prescott Terrace, Rose Park, and the late John Close, Laura, aged 55.

He attended College 1892 to 1895 (School Reg. No. 2,451), and passed the Senior University Exam. in 1895.

DEANE.—On the 10th November, at Private Hospital, Melbourne, Charles Maslen Deane, of 55 Webster Street, Ballarat, eldest son of the late C. M. Deane, M.D., LL.D., and beloved husband of Edith Barbara. Aged 64 years. His remains were interred in the New Cemetery, following a service at the Cathedral Church. Deceased was well known in business and musical circles particularly, and the service was well attended. Apart from representatives of the auctioneers and estate agents and the Ballarat Choral Union, of which body deceased was secretary, St. George's Society, the Cathedral Church officers and sporting clubs were represented. There was a good muster of the Choral Union and the Cathedral Choir. Rev. Goodisson, who conducted the service, said it was fitting that they should pay to deceased a tribute of respect in the church where he worshipped so long and regularly, and where he was a faithful member of the choir. Of his integrity in business and in the ordinary relations of life he need not speak. That was well known. They also knew something of his activities in connection with the Choral Union and of his association with music. If it be true that a man's nature was revealed more in what he did in his leisure than in his working hours, it might truly be said Charles Deane dedicated his life to the service of the community. Music was one of those activities of the human spirit which raised us above the every-day affairs of life, and gave us a deeper insight into the meaning of life. Many would miss him because of what he did to further the interests of music. The mainspring of his life, however, was based on religion, which was deeply embedded in the centre of his life. He had been a member of the choir for many years, a faithful and regular attendant at the services, and a regular communicant. Also he gave his time as auditor for the Church, so that his religion was not reserved only for Sundays. It was the foundation of the activities of his life. Death was but the gateway to a larger and fuller life. We sorrowed at his passing, but he had passed into the higher service of his Master. At the close of the service the "Dead March" in "Saul" was played by the organist, Mr. Haydn West. The coffin-bearers were Messrs. J. Smith, F. Gale, W. Dunstan, G. Hay, J. Russell, and P. Spittle.

Mr. Deane entered College in 1885 (School Reg. No. 1,507). He was a member of this Association.

LITTLE.—On the 27th December, Henry Vipond, beloved husband of Ada Beatrice Little, of 30 Ormonde Grove, Toorak Gardens, and second surviving son of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Little, Woodville. Aged 52 years. Suddenly.

He attended College 1896 to 1897 (School Reg. No. 2,871).

Mr. Henry Moore received his education at the Gumeracha School and attended Prince Alfred College in 1873 (School Reg. No. 308). He came to Belalie with his brothers, John, Robert, Thomas, and Alfred, and worked with his brothers until 1874, when he took up land in the Hundred of Yangya, near Caltowie, now occupied by his son, Mr. R. G. Moore. He was married to Miss Mary Ann Williams, eldest daughter of the late Mr. Richard Williams, at "Glanville" farm, Belalie, on November 30, 1876. There were four sons and seven daughters. One son, Roy, was killed in the Great War. Mr. Henry Moore served as a councillor in the Gladstone District Council, and was a member and keen supporter of the Belalie Agricultural Society up to the time of his death. He was the first organist of the Methodist Church at Jamestown. He also assisted the Baptist and Presbyterian Churches as organist in the early days. He was also one of the early members of Victoria Masonic Lodge, and held office as organist for many years. He was an enthusiastic cricketer and a fine athlete. His wife died 13 years ago. Twelve years ago he went to reside at St. Peters, where he remained until his death. A family of two sons, H. K. (Jamestown) and R. G. Moore (Caltowie), and seven daughters, Mrs. Hosking (Riverton), Mrs. W. C. Glasson (Jamestown), Misses E., O., L., D. (Adelaide), and S. (Sydney). There are 13 grandchildren. The remains were interred in the Jamestown Cemetery.

MORGAN.—On 19th October, at his residence, Brougham Place, North Adelaide, Alexander Matheson Morgan, M.B.B.S., dearly beloved husband of Myrtle E. Morgan. He was a son of the Hon. W. Morgan, Mitcham, and attended College 1877-1879 (School Reg. No. 526). Dr. Morgan was one of the best known in his profession. He was also a noted ornithologist and recently presented a large collection of mounted birds' skins to the Adelaide Museum. He made several trips to various parts of this State and to the centre of the Continent collecting rare birds and specimens. At the time of his death he held the offices of Hon. Ornithologist to the Adelaide Museum, President Ornithological Society, President of Ophthalmic Section of British Medical Association, and Member of the Royal Society.

NOCK.—On the 17th November, at his residence, 37 Northgate Street, Unley Park, William James Nock, aged 78 years.

He was the second son of the late Mr. Daniel Nock, and was born at Adelaide in 1856. He completed his education at Prince Alfred College, 1869 to 1871 (School Reg. No. 59). He began commercial life with the firm of D. & J. Fowler, subsequently passing into the employ of Finlayson & Co. Later he became identified with Messrs. Robin & Birks (now Charles Birks & Co.), and finally joined his father in business at Kapunda. Upon the opening of the Morgan railway, Mr. Nock established and took charge of a branch at Eudunda, where he remained for 18 years. During this time he was closely associated with local public affairs, and took a prominent part in church and Sunday-school work. He was also an enthusiastic supporter of the cricket association of the district. In 1896 he came to Adelaide to take control of the head office. For several years he had lived in retirement. Throughout his career he was an ardent worker for the Methodist Church and an active member of the S.A. Alliance. Mr. Nock married a daughter of the late Rev. J. Ashton, a well-known Baptist minister of this State. His wife died several years ago. The surviving members of his family are Mr. D. H. Nock, Unley Park, and Mr. Ronald Nock, on the clerical staff of the Railways at Tailern Bend. Mrs. W. Taylor is the only surviving sister.

PUSTKUCHEN.—On the 4th January, at Narrogin, W.A., Theodor Ernst, third son of the late E. W. T. and Mrs. Pustkuchen, formerly of Lower Mitcham, South Australia. Aged 60 years.

He attended College from 1885 to 1889 (School Reg. No. 1,530).

RHODES.—On the 14th January, 1935, at a private hospital, Adelaide, Sydney M. Rhodes, of 85 Second Avenue, St. Peters, dearly beloved husband of Jessie Rhodes, and loving father of Dora, Muriel, Ron and Norine, aged 65 years.

He was a son of the late Thomas Rhodes, of Kent Town, and entered the College in 1881 (School Reg. No. 971). He was a member of this Association.

DR. LIONEL ROBERTSON, eldest son of the late Rev. Joseph Robertson, who for 14 years was minister of Stow Church, and several years of Clayton Church, died in Perth, W.A., on 3rd November, 1934, aged 58 years. He attended Prince Alfred College 1891 to 1894 (School Reg. No. 2,360). He passed the Junior Public Exam. in 1892, and the Senior in 1893. In 1894 he entered the University of Adelaide, where he took his B.A. degree and part of his medical course, finishing in Sydney. He was a runner, played cricket, lacrosse and tennis. At Woodville once he made 103 not out, and his partner 101 not out. He also played for Princes against St. Peter's when Clem Hill made his first record score (360 not out), batting with Clem Hill for part of the time. Dr. Robertson wanted to go to the war, but he fractured three ribs in a motor accident when going to see a patient. Three of his brothers enlisted, Major Beresford Robertson, Chaplain T. G. Robertson, and Mr. H. R. Robertson.

ROGERS.—On the 9th November (suddenly), Alfred William, the dearly loved husband of Marian Rogers, of 78 Hill Street, North Adelaide, aged 59 years. He attended College in 1889 (School Reg. No. 2,070).

RYMILL.—Mr. Arthur Graham Rymill died at his office in Pirie Chambers, Pirie Street, on 10th September, 1934. Mr. Rymill was presiding at a meeting of the Canowie Pastoral Co., of which he was chairman, when he had a heart seizure and collapsed in his chair.

Mr. Rymill was prominent in the business life of the State, and was associated with several companies and sporting bodies. He was chairman of directors of Bennett & Fisher, stock and station agents, and a director of the Bank of Adelaide, General Motors-Holden's, the Executor Trustee and Agency Co., Colton, Palmer & Preston, hardware merchants, and the Royal Insurance Co.

Born at East Terrace, Adelaide, 66 years ago, Mr. Rymill was a son of Mr. Henry Rymill, and a member of a family whose name has figured prominently in the pastoral history of South Australia. Mr. Rymill was a principal of the firm of H. and F. Rymill, of which his father was one of the founders. He was educated at Prince Alfred College 1876-1881 (School Reg.

No. 471), and Caterer's School, Glenelg, and subsequently entered the office of Messrs. H. and F. Rymill, gaining there an intimate knowledge of finance.

As the firm was interested in pastoral concerns, Mr. Rymill, in 1892, went to Curnamona, Baratta, and Winnie Stations, in the north-east of South Australia. For five years he studied the methods employed, and by practical experience gained valuable knowledge of pastoral matters, including the breeding of livestock, and station improvements and life. In 1910 he was appointed managing director of the Canowie Pastoral Company, one of the best-known breeders of stud sheep in Australia. He continued to supervise the successful operations of the company until 1925, when the flock was dispersed and the land cut up into small holdings. Mr. Rymill was also interested in the Olive Downs, Gnalta and Weinteriga pastoral properties in New South Wales. He was a member of the Stockowners' Association Council, and in 1926 was appointed a member of the Pastoral Commission.

Mr. Rymill was elected as director of the Bank of Adelaide in 1926. His father had occupied a similar position for nearly 20 years previously.

Mr. Rymill was well known in sporting circles, particularly yachting and hydroplaning. For a number of years he was Commodore of the South Australian Royal Yacht Squadron, and missed few yachting events in the State for nearly 40 years. He was the owner of the hydroplanes Tortoise I. and Tortoise II., with which he won and held the Australian speed boat championship almost continuously for 18 years. Tortoise II. broke up and sank while defending the title at Outer Harbour last February.

He had taken an active interest in athletics, and was an enthusiastic motorist. In his younger days he participated in numerous bicycle road races, and it is thought that this was the cause of heart strain. He was a keen rifle shot, and liked pigeon shooting. He had made several trips abroad, where the Cowes regatta, hydroplane racing at Detroit, and pigeon shooting at Deauville and La Baule interested him.

Besides his widow, Mr. Rymill is survived by a son, Mr. A. C. Rymill, a city solicitor and member of the Adelaide City Council, and a daughter, Mrs. T. Giblin, of Hobart, Tasmania, formerly Miss Nancy Rymill. Messrs. H. E. and H. L. Rymill are brothers. Two other brothers, Messrs. E. and F. Rymill, predeceased him, and also two sisters.

SHARP.—Martin Germein Sharp, who died at the home of his parents at Marrayatville on November 7, was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. G. Sharp. He was born at Bordertown on April 15, 1915, and received his early education in various public schools of which his father was the head teacher. In 1929 he won an exhibition which admitted him to Prince Alfred College, where he remained for four years (School Reg. No. 6,705), and matriculated for a medical course at the Adelaide University. He entered the University as a medical student in 1933, and pursued his studies there until his death. He was fond of sport and participated in inter-collegiate contests in 1931 and 1932. He was a member of this Association.

TAYLOR.—One of the State's pre-war tennis champions and an international lacrosse player, A. Roy Taylor, died suddenly at his home on 28th October last.

Mr. Taylor won his first State championship in 1907, when he secured the doubles with A. Curtis. The following year he repeated his success with R. G. Bowen, and won the mixed doubles with Miss Mackie. He and Bowen were again doubles champions in 1909, and in 1910 he won the mixed with Miss Boyce. His first State singles championship was in 1912, and he held it the following year. He won again in 1919, when he also was successful in the doubles with A. Campbell, and the mixed with Miss K. LeMessurier, but since then he has played most of his tennis privately. He partnered H. M. Rice as doubles champion in 1912 and 1915.

Mr. Taylor represented the State at lacrosse several times, and was a member of the Australian team which met the visiting Canadian team about 30 years ago. He was also a fine cricketer, but his devotion to tennis prevented him from aspiring to State honours.

After leaving Prince Alfred College, Mr. Taylor spent two years at the University of Adelaide doing a science course, after which he joined the firm of James Marshall & Co., in which his father, the late Mr. William Taylor, was a partner. When the business was sold to the Myer Emporium, he, with Mr. James A. C. Marshall and Mr. F. W. Porter, went into partnership as stock and sharebrokers. Mr. Taylor, who was 51 years of age, retired about two years ago.

He entered College in 1891 (School Reg. No. 2,347), and was a Life Member of this Association.

WALTER (WOLTER).—W. H. L. Walter died at Mosman, Sydney, on 8th November last. He attended College 1895 to 1896 (School Reg. No. 2,747). He was the son of the late Captain Wolter, of Goolwa—who died some time back, aged 92. He altered the spelling of his name during the Great War from Wolter to Walter, for no other reason than what he thought was expediency. He has for many years been established as a Chartered Accountant and Auditor in Sydney. He leaves a widow, two girls and a boy. Mr. Walter was a very fine example of virile manhood, and was a member of the Australian Golf Club, besides having proficiency in tennis and swimming. Some years ago he was in the champion crew of the Albert Park Rowing Club, Melbourne. He was a personal friend of the late Frank Cowell, and Drs. Elliott Brummitt and R. Douglas Brummitt. A service was held at St. Peters Church (Anglican), Neutral Bay, where Archdeacon Martin addressed a very large gathering, who attended to express their tribute of respect. The tribute from the Archdeacon was most impressive. Mr. Walter had been a regular churchman, and very closely interested in every activity of his Church. The big street (Waters Road) held a very large number of motor cars, and the men and women who followed to the Northern Suburbs Crematorium must have numbered 200. Mr. Allan Lyon, President N.S.W. Branch of this Association, represented Mr. Ward, the Headmaster of the College, and the Old Collegians' Association. A letter has been sent to Mrs. Walter from the Old Boys in New South Wales. Mr. Walter was a magnificent fellow and very proud of his attendance at P.A.C.

WILLIAMS.—On the 23rd September at 55 Penzance Street, Glenelg, William, beloved husband of Gertrude Williams, and loving father of Mary and Patty, aged 46 years.

He entered College in 1894 (School Reg. No. 2,637). For many years he was in the employ of Elder, Smith & Co. Ltd., and afterwards with the National Mutual Life Assurance Company. He was a member of this Association.

Mr. Ward in acknowledging paid a tribute to the work of the Association and its value to the School.

A hearty vote of thanks to the auditors was passed.

On the motion of Mr. W. R. Bayly, seconded by Mr. A. G. Collison, it was resolved that this meeting place on record its grateful appreciation of Mr. Miller's long and devoted service to this Association. Members realize that its splendid progress and present position are largely due to his unflinching energy and enthusiasm, and they hope to maintain this development as a worthy memorial to his devoted service. They also expressed deep sympathy with him in continued ill-health, which compels him to relinquish office.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Dr. A. R. Southwood gave a very interesting address on his "Impressions of Europe and United States," which was both instructive and entertaining.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Dr. A. R. Southwood.

RETIRING COMMITTEEMAN

At the Annual Meeting Mr. Ralph Vardon retired from the General Committee. He was first elected to the Committee in 1918, and was elected President for the year 1930. He is a Life Member of this Association, No. 306. He entered the School in 1889, School Register No. 2003.

For a great number of years he has been a member of the P.A. Old Collegians Masonic Lodge, and is a Past Master. He is also a Principal Officer of the United Collegians' Chapter.

He has always taken a very great interest in the Old Collegians' Football and Cricket Teams.

His absence from Committee Meetings will be greatly missed, but Mr. Vardon felt that he should make way for a younger person. We know that he will always be interested in the Association, even though he is not actively connected with the Committee.

Dr. D. L. Barlow, who was elected at the last annual meeting, entered College in 1906, School Register No. 3910.

Upon leaving College he entered the Adelaide University and obtained his Degree in Medicine. He was appointed to the Adelaide Hospital Staff, then joined the A.I.F., and proceeded to England on duty. He was later attached as a medical officer to the 7th Battalion in France.

Upon his return to Adelaide he again joined the Adelaide Hospital, and later proceeded to England to follow a postgraduate course. Upon completion of this work Dr. Barlow returned to Adelaide, and was then attached to the Adelaide University for several years. He is now practising in Adelaide.

Dr. Barlow has always taken a deep interest in the School, and we feel sure his presence on the Committee will benefit both the School and Association.

Claridge, and members of the Association Committee attended morning assembly at Prince Alfred College on Tuesday, 18th December. Mr. Ward explained that the object of the visit was to bring the present senior boys at School and the Old Collegians' Association together. Mr. Claridge thanked Mr. Ward for the opportunity of addressing the School from the platform.

He reminded the boys that he had often been spoken to from the platform years ago, but on those occasions he was not quite so comfortable as he was on the present occasion.

Mr. Claridge enumerated the various good works done by the Association, and urged all boys upon leaving the School to join and continue their interest in the School.

Mr. A. G. Collison, treasurer of the Association, also spoke to the boys and mentioned that it was just 50 years ago since, as a schoolboy, he attended the last assembly in that room.

Mr. H. W. A. Miller

The retirement of Mr. H. W. A. Miller from the honorary secretaryship of the Old Collegians' Association, under the compulsion of the bodily weakness that he has combated so bravely for several years past, brings home to the minds of all who have been associated with him in the administration of its affairs the great debt all Old "Reds" owe to him for his devoted service. They especially realize the great work he has done; but there is not a member, however, detached by distance from the School who has not some realization of what "Mit" Miller has meant to the Association as a whole, and to him personally.

Probably the outstanding feature of public school life in Australia since the opening of this century has been the development and influence of Old Boys' Associations. Without in any way disparaging the enthusiasm or efforts of earlier years, it may fairly be said that such associations had a somewhat languid and ineffective existence; their aims had not gripped the imagination of the schools, past or present. On the appointment of Mr. Miller as secretary in 1905 our own Association was electrified into activities which, with steadily increasing vigour, have enlarged amazingly the outlook not only of its members, but of the School in every interpretation of the term. He brought to bear upon its affairs unbounded enthusiasm, tireless industry, keen business acumen, and a restless energy ever seeking fresh and original forms of expression—all with one aim, the betterment of Prince Alfred College as one of the noblest educational forces of the community.

In 1905, when Mr. Miller was appointed there were 365 members on the roll, and the credit balance in the bank (£41) represented the assets of the Association. In 1934, when he resigned, there were 2,029 members on the roll, £273 credit balance in the current account and £4,191 funded capital. Statistics should be used carefully in interpreting the influences at work behind them, but these figures, surely, may be taken as a very definite indication of Mr. Miller's powers!

He, least of all, would claim all the credit, but presidents and committeemen who have worked with him would, to a man, confess that he was the driving force all the time; that the one test of them and their value was their readiness to catch the inspiration of his keenness. Though never over assertive, he never failed to make those who were associated with him respond to his spirit, or, if not, to realize that they were out of place on the executive of the Association.

Every phase of the Association's activities has some monument to his powers. The very fine equipment for rowing placed at the service of the School through his shrewd scheme for using part of the funded capital without prejudice to the obligations of the Association toward its life members; the scholarship scheme which provides opportunities for worthy but needy boys to enter the School; the social and sporting engagements of Old Boys' Week; the reunion dinners among Old Boys in distant centres; the increasing interest of Old Boys in the Chronicle—these all bear eloquent testimony to him and his worth.

Old Collegians have on several occasions tried to express their appreciation of Mr. Miller in tangible form, and they will not allow him to retire without further expressions of gratitude for the past and good wishes for the future. But the gift that will give him greatest delight will be the maintenance of the Association, for which he has done so much in ever increasing strength and service to the School.

MILLER TESTIMONIAL FUND.

At the Annual Meeting it was decided to give members an opportunity of subscribing to a suitable testimonial to Mr. H. W. A. Miller in recognition of his long and valuable service to this Association. Your committee are pleased with the response from members, which amounts to £111 10s. 6d., including a donation of £25 from the College. Your committee have decided to make the presentation to Mr. Miller towards the end of February. In order to give those who have not yet subscribed an opportunity of doing so, they have extended the time for receiving donations to the 20th February. Members who desire to contribute to this testimonial, and who have not yet done so, are requested to forward their donations promptly to the Association secretaries.

Association Scholarships

The Association Scholarships are awarded on the Rhodes Scholar lines, and this year two scholarships became available. Advertisements calling for applications for these scholarships appeared in the press, and as a result 17 boys sat for the examination, which was held at the College. The Association is obliged to Mr. Ward for making the necessary arrangements for the examination at the School.

For these two scholarships the successful candidates were H. G. Bennett, of Lyndoch, and J. Tregoning, of Tranmere, both of whom we feel sure will be worthy representatives.

The following pleasing letter has been received from a former holder of an Old Collegians' Scholarship:—

“Now that the term of my scholarship has ended, I wish to express my sincerest thanks to your committee for affording me the opportunity of attending Prince Alfred College during the last three years. I feel that it is indeed a privilege for any boy to attend such a school, and I feel proud to think that I have been permitted to take part in the various activities of the School life from time to time. It is hard to realize that it is almost three years since I first attended the College as a scholar, and a hard fortnight followed while I settled down.

“However, the sporting masters and the splendid lot of boys with whom I was associated made it possible for me to feel at home.

“It is with feelings of great regret that I realize that the time has come for me to say good-bye to the School which I have learned to love so much. The masters have all made our work interesting, and have always helped and encouraged us in work and sport alike. I cannot help but feel sad at the thought of leaving all these things and starting out in a new sphere of life, but I can assure you that wherever I may be it will be my aim to live and act in such a way as to bring honour and credit to the School of which I feel so proud.

“I again thank you most sincerely for all you have done for me, and I trust that I may be of assistance to the School as an Old Scholar for many years to come.”

Old Boys in Sport

CRICKET

A permit was granted by the Cricket Committee of the S.A.C.A. to B. W. Hone, the former South Australian batsman, to play with Wiltshire County Club in England.

This branch of sport still continues to attract the attention of many Old Boys. It was pleasing to hear of Dr. Doug. McKay's election to the captaincy of the Adelaide side; a poisoned hand debarred him from playing in one or two of the earlier matches, but he is now "back in harness." His brother Lindsay has journeyed down from the North to assist Kensington's in one or two matches, and his performances with the ball on those occasions have been outstanding; in the first game of the season he secured the hat-trick.

Arthur Dawkins continues to fulfil his early promise. He plays strong, forceful cricket, and in these days of comparative drabness his breezy innings are all the more appreciated by players and spectators alike.

The well-seasoned Gordon Harris continues to assist Port, although his performances have not been up to his usual. The weather before Christmas was not in favour of the batsmen, and it is hoped that as the temperature rises and cricket conditions improve his scores will do so correspondingly.

Alan Clarkson has several very good performances to his credit, both with the bat and with the ball. He captained the winning Adelaide 'Varsity Eleven in the annual inter-'Varsity fixtures in December.

News comes from Ashbourne that Rob Meyer is having a particularly successful season: in five innings he has averaged over 100 runs. Another country player who is doing well is Wally Evans: twice this season he has recorded centuries, and on two other occasions has passed the 50 mark. He plays at Tanunda. News of this type is interesting to Old Boys, and your secretaries would welcome news of this nature from other country centres.

HOCKEY

TENNIS

Max. Newcombe is creating an excellent impression in Australian tennis circles. Critics praise his style, and if their predictions are fulfilled it won't be long before Max. will be found in the front rank of players. During the recent championships held at Unley he won the Junior Singles title, and with Ross Lock, another Old "Red," won the Junior Doubles. Both these boys represented South Australia in the Linton Cup matches and performed with credit.

Gar Hone has been playing better than ever. His performances in the recent Interstate Carnival seem to indicate that there is plenty of tennis in him yet. The championship doubles trophy of the Unley competitions goes to increase his ever-expanding array of successes.

Brothers Ray and Ron still play for their respective districts in the weekly matches. Ron won the special doubles in the championships, to which reference has just been made. Allen Edwards, who was a member of the Unley team that won the district competition two years ago, still plays with the southerners. It also has been noticed that Sid Torr played for East Torrens on one or two occasions.

E. P. T. Copping, of Lucindale, was very successful in the recent Tennis Tournament played at Mt. Gambier. In addition to winning the handicap singles, handicap doubles and handicap mixed doubles (all owe 40), he and T. G. Luke (another Old "Red") were runners-up for the championship doubles. His terrific hitting was a feature of many matches, and he was right on his game in the mixed final.

T. G. Luke also won the men's singles championship for the third time in succession, and therefore becomes the owner of the cup. He was also Copping's partner in the men's handicap doubles, which they won 6-2, 6-1.

Old Collegians' Cricket Club

The club, which last season won the premiership of the Adelaide Turf Association, was again formed, and from the outset of the season there have been a great number of players available, and the selectors have been compelled to stand down players occasionally to ensure that all received a game.

L. S. Walsh was appointed secretary in succession to E. Male, and L. S. Clarkson was re-elected captain of the team.

Before the Pennant season opened, a practice match was played on the Thebarton Oval against West Torrens "A" Grade. A pleasant afternoon was spent, Old Collegians being defeated by a very narrow margin.

October 6 and 13.—V. S.P.S.C. at St. Peter's College.

The season opened auspiciously with an outright win over Saint's. The first day was wet. Saint's won the toss and, somewhat surprisingly, went in first, and were dismissed for 53. (H. N. Shepley, 1/5; R. Johnstone, 1/12; D. A. Clarkson, 2/6; H. G. Prest, 1/16; H. Kirkwood, 1/11; L. S. Clarkson, 4/3.) The wicket was still bad when Old Collegians batted, and they were dismissed at stumps for 102. (Dodd, 26; Kirkwood, 21; L. S. Clarkson, 26.) On the second day, Saint's scored 153, of which Tidsworth made 31 and Stokes a magnificent 31. (D. Clarkson, 3/22; H. Shepley, 2/33; Kirkwood, 5/53.) P.A.O.C. were left with 105 to make in about 75 minutes. These runs were made with six minutes to spare, and some good hitting was witnessed. (Dodd, 19; L. S. Clarkson, 68; C. S. Catt, not out 12.)

October 20 and 27.—V. P.A.C. at Prince Alfred College.

The College boys proved to be too good for the Old Boys. On a somewhat unfavourable day, P.A.O.C. batter first, but were dismissed for 113. (M. Evans, 16; L. S. Walsh, 24; L. S. Clarkson, 39.) P.A.C. finished out the afternoon and batted for the whole of the next Saturday, scoring 243 for the loss of 8 wickets. (A. C. Wilton, 2/32; H. Kirkwood, 1/42; C. S. Catt, 1/8; C. Pitt, 3/28.) The batting of the boys was very solid, although not attractive. Holman showed inexhaustible patience in making a fine 103.

November 3 and 10.—V. Payneham at Payneham.

This was a disappointing match, and P.A.O.C. suffered defeat on the first innings by 92. The wicket was perfect on both Saturdays. Payneham batted first and scored 244. (D. A. Clarkson, 2/3; H. N. Shepley, 1/45; H. Kirkwood, 4/72; C. Pitt, 1/16; H. G. Prest, 2/6.) But the Reds in their attempt could only manage 152. (M. W. Evans, 22; R. Johnstone, 20; Dodd, 17; Kirkwood, 21; C. Robinson, 12; H. G. Prest, 28; H. N. Shepley, 14; Pitt not out 10.)

November 17 and 24.—V. Hawthorn at Hawthorn.

These two teams have always been keen rivals, and so far Hawthorn has been unable to defeat the Old Collegians' side. On this occasion P.A.O.C. secured an outright win. Old Collegians in their first innings secured 183. (Dodd, 12; R. Johnstone, 14; L. S. Walsh, 12; L. S. Clarkson, 21; H. G. Prest, 14; D. Stephens, 25; C. S. Catt, not out 41; D. A. Clarkson, 20.) Hawthorns were dismissed for 114. (D. A. Clarkson, 3/21; L. S. Walsh, 2/28; L. S. Clarkson, 1/21; H. Kirkwood, 2/27; E. Male, 2/2.) On the second day on a rain-affected wicket, P.A.O.C. hit up 97 for the loss of 9 wickets (D. A. Clarkson, 10; Male, 14; L. S. Clarkson, 40), leaving Hawthorn 166 to make. They were dismissed for 50 (D. A. Clarkson, 6/26; L. S. Walsh, 4/14). D. A. Clarkson and Walsh bowled splendidly, and Walsh distinguished himself by securing the hat-trick.

December 1 and 8.—V. St. Peter's Old Collegians at Prince Alfred College.

Considerable prominence was given to this match in the press. The players were asked to make the match as widely known as possible and bring their friends along, and on the second Saturday the Headmaster, Mr. J. F. Ward, kindly made the College dining hall available for afternoon tea for visitors, and about 150 persons sat down to afternoon tea. It is hoped that this function will be the forerunner of many similar ones. Since the two Old Collegians teams have been in the Turf Association, the annual match has been abandoned, and on this occasion an effort was made to revive the importance of the match. The weather was miserably cold on both days—not at all suitable for cricket—and some poor cricket was witnessed. Saint's Old Collegians batted first and were dismissed for 78 (H. N. Shepley, 1/28; A. C. Wilton, 4/15; L. S. Walsh, 2/11; C. S. Catt, 1/7; H. Kirkwood, 1/14; L. S. Clarkson, 1/5). In response to this, P.A.O.C. scored 109 (C. Robinson, 10; D. A. Clarkson, 22; L. S. Walsh, 20; L. S. Clarkson, 12; C. Catt, 14). At their second attempt, Saint's scored 91 for the loss of two wickets, when rain stopped play for the day. This was the fifth successive occasion on which we have beaten Saint's Old Collegians.

December 15 and 22.—V. Prospect at Prospect.

Prospect batted first on a fast wicket, and at one stage had lost three wickets for 20 runs. A very stubborn partnership then developed, favoured by a couple of missed catches, and the score was finally raised to 187 (D. A. Clarkson, 3/40; H. N. Shepley, 3/20; L. S. Walsh, 1/29; L. S. Clarkson, 1/22; H. G. Prest, 2/18). On the second day, P.A.O.C. had to bat under very oppressive conditions, and could manage only 140, thus suffering defeat by 4 runs (C. Robinson, 14; L. S. Walsh, 30; D. Stephens, 24; H. N. Shepley, 18; Male not out 13; Wilton, 11).

New Year's Day.

On New Year's Day the annual visit was paid to Ashbourne. This trip is looked forward to by Old Collegians and their wives, but on this day the elements were against the outing. Drizzling rain spoiled the cricket, and at the conclusion of the innings of P.A.O.C. the match was declared off, and players returned to the city. P.A.O.C. had scored 176 (R. Johnstone, 12; L. S. Walsh, retired 77; L. S. Clarkson, 26; C. Catt, 10; D. A. Clarkson, 16). This match is not an Association fixture.

At the time of the publication of this journal the Old Collegians' side is a close third on the premiership list.

At Home and Abroad

C. A. Harder, "Roskear," 78 Roslyn Street, Middle Brighton, Victoria, writes:

"I have the most pleasant memories of dear old Prince Alfred College, where I was a boarder for about two years and a half or more, and had some good staunch friends there, including the late Laurie Evan, Frank Colton, J. Crompton and others. Very many peculiar incidents happened there in my time, the most outstanding being the "Great Pillow Fight" in 1881, which I will never forget, and the instigator of it was young Fred. Chapple. I don't think anyone who was in it will forget it either; it was a real ding dong go, and no mistake about it. Of course, I was not in it. Oh, no! I know that I left some marks that night, as I had a good heavy belt, and I laid it about me all right, but got hardly touched myself, luckily. I think I could write a very good book on my sojourn at P.A.C.

"I have been in a very bad state of health the past two years (am 68 now), and if I recover well enough would like to attend your next Annual Dinner in Adelaide, but am afraid there is not much hope. With kindest remembrances to any old boys who remember me, and trusting the Association will still go ahead, and the best of luck to all."

Old Collegians' Dinners

MINLATON

On Tuesday, September 11, 1934, the Annual Combined Old Scholars' Dinner was held at Minlaton, at which about thirty Old Boys of both Schools were present. Mr. E. E. Lloyd, P.A.C., occupied the position of chairman.

Excellent toasts were given by the various speakers of both schools, and the responses by the visitors, Messrs. W. L. Davies, L. S. Clarkson (P.A.C.), A. J. G. Seddon, W. J. C. White and R. Cowhan (S.P.S.C.) were highly appreciated by all those present.

Community singing, with Mr. A. G. Carne (P.A.C.) as accompanist, helped to make the function a very homely and successful one.

Unfortunately the attendance was rather disappointing, and at this juncture the secretaries would take this opportunity of appealing to all Old Boys in the district to lend their whole-hearted support to a function of this nature.

We appreciate very much the support that has been given by the Associations of both Schools.

It was very pleasing to see our old friend and very staunch supporter, Mr. L. F. Hayward, S.P.S.C., again present, and as a mark of respect to this Old Boy, those present unanimously appointed him chairman for the next Dinner.

UPPER MURRAY

The Third Annual Dinner of the Old Collegians of St. Peter's and Prince Alfred Colleges was held at Barmera on Saturday, September 8th, and it was pleasing to note the increase in attendance upon previous years. The committee were very pleased to have delegates from Adelaide again, and it shows the interest taken by the parent Associations in country functions.

The Dinner was held at Barmera Hotel, and during the latter half of the evening various toasts were honoured amidst enthusiasm and interspersed by musical items, making the evening very enjoyable.

Dr. R. A. Baker proposed the toast of "The King," and the following toast,

"The Colleges," was in the hands of Mr. E. T. Pflaum, and responded to by Messrs. C. T. Moodie and J. F. Ward. "Our Associations" toast was proposed by Mr. E. H. Kernot, and replied to by Messrs. F. Lancelot Parsons (S.P.S.C.) and Hon. S. W. Jeffries (P.A.C.). "Kindred Associations" toast was proposed by Mr. J. H. M. Price, and replied to by Mr. G. A. Browne (Wesley College, Melbourne).

The local committee are to be congratulated upon the evening's success. Mr. Frank Fenwick (Berri) attended to the secretarial duties for the "Reds," and to him we are indebted for his continued interest in these happy functions.

MID-NORTH

The Third Annual Dinner of the combined S.P.S.C. and P.A.C. Old Scholars' Associations for the mid-north districts was held at the Clare Town Hall on Saturday evening, October 29th. It was a most successful function: 125 Old Scholars sat down to an excellent dinner, prepared by Messrs. Cooke & Wallis. The support given to the local committee by the Adelaide committees greatly encouraged it in its efforts.

Amongst those who made the trip from Adelaide were Hon. S. W. Jeffries (President), Messrs. J. F. Ward (Headmaster), Dr. H. G. Prest (Vice-President), L. B. Shuttleworth (Hon. Secretary), for the "Reds," whilst Rev. Guy Pentreath (Headmaster), Messrs. F. Lancelot Parsons (chairman), J. Angus Maitland, J. H. Hill and R. J. Rudall (Gawler) represented the "Blues." Mr. L. A. Davies, P.A.C. (Mayor of Clare), presided.

It was necessary for all present to attempt an Old Collegians' Examination of four courses, questions 1 to 3 to be attempted before starting seriously on question 4, Leaving Honour Beverages.

After the loyal toast had been honoured, at his call, Mr. Davies extended a hearty welcome to all scholars of other public schools who were present, and congratulated the ladies who had decorated the tables so admirably. By his bright address the chairman enabled everyone to settle down to a very jolly evening. Mr. Davies also referred to Mr. Jimmy Melrose, a St. Peter's boy, who had just broken a flying record to England. (Cheers!)

On behalf of S.P.S.C., the Rev. C. W. E. Swan proposed the toast of "The Old Schools," and Dr. D. M. Steele did likewise on behalf of P.A.C. The Headmasters responded. Mr. Ward said he was glad to meet the old boys and felt they were part of the School, and he thought they could take a more encouraging part than when they were at school. In these reunions they should look forward as well as back, and do what they could to assist their own colleges. The Rev. Guy Pentreath said that he was glad to visit the district. The greatest honour that could be given him was the Headmastership of S.P.S.C., an institution that was associated with the life of the State, and he was fortunate in being offered the position. The staff were all stout fellows, and he liked them all. The toast of "The Associations" was proposed by Mr. R. J. Rudall (S.P.S.C.) and Mr. J. Victorson (P.A.C.). The Hon. S. W. Jeffries responded for P.A.C., saying that he was proud of the Association and the Secretaries, Mr. Miller and Mr. Shuttleworth. He advised fathers to send their sons to the Colleges in which they themselves had been educated. Tradition centred around their Colleges, and he urged them to do all they could to support them. On behalf of S.P.S.C. Mr. F. Lancelot Parsons referred to the activities of the Association. He paid tribute to the Headmasters of both Schools.

As each speaker rose a specially-selected choir (but not for their singing) sang verses composed for each one, the remainder joining in the chorus. When this procedure became known, speakers obligingly waited if all the choir did not get off the mark together.

Musical items were provided during the evening, and Mr. E. S. Chapman entertained members with a whistling episode.

A most enjoyable evening of good-fellowship closed with "Auld Lang Syne."

E. Stirling Chapman and R. J. Allen ably carried out the duties of hon. joint secretaries, and are to be congratulated upon the success of the evening.

Others who signed the visitors' book besides those already mentioned, were:

P.A.C.—W. B. Sanders, A. O. Dolling, B. Trengove, W. M. Trengove, R. S. Trengove, E. L. Cole, M. G. Combe, E. H. Crouch, M. D. Weston, E. McDonald, E. R. McWaters, Ron. B. Cullen, W. J. Millen, D. ### CRICKET

The Annual Cricket Match between members of St. Peter's Old Collegians and P.A. Old Collegians was last year abandoned, as the Committees of both Associations deemed this contest unnecessary.

Both Associations are now represented in the Adelaide Turf Association, and meet twice each season. The full report of the contest recently played is included under the heading of P.A. Old Collegians' Cricket Club.

BOWLS

The annual match between old "Blues" and old "Reds" will be played on the South Park Bowling Club Rinks on Wednesday, the 27th February. It is hoped to arrange for ten rinks (including the Executive rink). Refreshments will be provided, and it is hoped that a pleasant evening will eventuate. Those Old Boys desiring to take part in the match are requested to immediately forward their names to the secretaries.

TENNIS

The annual match between old "Blues" and old "Reds" will be played about the beginning of March, but arrangements are not yet finalized. This match will probably be played on St. Peter's College grounds. Players who are interested are requested to communicate with the secretaries.

ANNUAL DINNER

The Annual Dinner and Reunion was held at Perth R.S.L. Rooms on Tuesday, 2nd October, 1934, at 8 p.m. Owing to the expected arrival of H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester, grand-nephew of Prince Alfred, after whom the College was named, on the Thursday of Royal Show week, the day of the week for holding the Dinner was advanced; this with other details in regard to the Royal visit must be given as the reason for the rather small attendance of 24 sitters. It can be said, however, that all present enjoyed themselves and were very pleased to welcome Mr. Ralph Eaton, of Latham, who had not been able to be present at any previous reunion. The telegram of the Adelaide President, Mr. S. W. Jeffries, wishing us a successful reunion on behalf of the committee and members of his Association was much appreciated. There were also telegrams and letters of apology and best wishes from fifteen others. The toasts were:—

"The King," by the President, Dr. J. L. Rossiter.

"The Old School," by Messrs. R. J. Dumas and R. Eaton, youngest O.S. present; responded to by Messrs. A. H. Henning and F. C. Waldeck.

"The P.A.O.C. Association," by Mr. H. Boas; responded to by Rev. H. H. Fennell.

"Our Guest," proposed by Mr. W. E. Dempster; responded to by Mr. J. Marychurch Jenkins himself.

"Kindred Societies," proposed by Mr. A. G. Lee, D.C.M., and responded to by Mr. W. R. Rogers.

"Absent Friends," by Mr. E. W. Cotton; responded to by Mr. G. M. Wilson.

"The Hon. Secretary," suitably proposed; briefly responded to, with thanks, by Mr. Cotton.

The speeches, all very entertaining though brief, were marked with interesting reminiscences, some of which were very amusing, particularly so was Mr. Lee's. He referred to the "Saints" as they appeared to him when he was a lad, then went on to mention how he accidentally came across an "Old Saint" in England during war time, found him most friendly, even though he knew Mr. Lee was an "Old Red," and actually a "Jolly Good Fellow," and now he really is filled with admiration for any "Old Blue." He then enjoined all present to drink to the toast with musical honours.

To the accompaniment of a three instrument orchestra community singing was freely indulged in, all on leaving hoping to meet each again in twelve months time at a similar function.

PERSONAL

Russell J. Dumas, who attended P.A.C. 1901-1903, School Register No. 3,309, is Chief Constructing Engineer for the Canning Weir, which is now in course of construction in connection with the Perth water supply. He is a member of the W.A. Branch. We congratulate Mr. Dumas upon his appointment.

Dr. F. E. Gallasch, of Kellerberrin, W.A., who entered P.A.C. in 1919 (School Register No. 5,368), recently underwent an operation. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Several sons of Old Reds have been prominent at Wesley College, Perth, of which Dr. J. L. Rossiter, M.A., an Old Red, is Head Master, and whose son, Roger, has just been selected as the Rhodes Scholar for W.A. G. N. Lowe's son has won the Hardey Scholarship presented by H. L. R. Hardey, another old Red; and B. K. Collins, son of Dr. W. K. Collins, won the P.A. Old Collegians' Cup under 14 years. We are pleased to record these successes.

He attended College from 1912 to 1913. School Reg. No., 4,604

The Branch Secretary is Mr. E. Witherage Cotton, 5 Melrose Crescent, North Perth, W.A.

ANNUAL MEETING

The fifth annual meeting of the W.A. Branch was held at the Wattle Tea Rooms, St. George's Terrace, Perth, on Thursday, November 29, during the luncheon hour, 1 to 2 p.m., when the annual report and financial statements were adopted.

During the year five new members were added, and the branch membership now totals 73. The loss during the year of Jim Throssell, who died on November 18, 1933, was a great grief and loss to the branch.

Monthly luncheons are held at the Wattle Tea Rooms, St. George's Terrace, on the second Thursday in each month, and all Old Reds, whether members of the association or not, are invited to attend. During the year Dr. Fred Chapple, Dr. A. R. Southwood, and Dr. C. E. Dolling were amongst those entertained.

The financial statement shows a surplus of £2 12s. 0d. for the year.

Trophies for the annual sports at Wesley College were again offered for competition.

Old Scholars' Sports.—The cricket match against Old Blues was played at the Wesley College grounds, and won by St. Peter's. It has been decided to play this match on the last Saturday in February (Country Week) each year at Wesley College grounds, when it is hoped to have fairly representative teams.

Jim Throssell Memorial.—The response to this appeal has been very gratifying, and with the aid of the Wesley College Council, who are providing free tuition, it has been arranged for Ric to enter the College in the first term of 1935.

Members expressed deep regret to learn of the continued illness of Mr. H. W. A. Miller, who had done so much for the Association.

The new officers elected were as follows:—Patron, Sir Thomas M. Coombe, K.B.; president, Mr. E. H. Stirling; vice-presidents, Messrs. S. M. Wreford, S. J. Dimond; committee, Messrs. S. S. Glyde, H. H. Wheatley, G. M. Wilson, F. C. Waldeck, W. C. Fawcett, Dr. J. L. Rossiter; hon. sports secretary, Mr. E. T. Armstrong; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. E. W. Cotton; hon. auditors, Messrs. A. A. Strickland and W. R. Rogers.

It was unanimously decided to enrol Messrs. J. Marychurch Jenkins and G. C. Brown, both old masters of P.A.C., as hon. members of the local branch.

Hearty votes of thanks were passed to the retiring President, Dr. J. L. Rossiter, and the Branch Secretary, Mr. E. Witherage Cotton.

L. Randerson, 18 Glyndon Avenue, Middle Brighton, S5.

Mr. T. A. Laurance, "Richey," 123 Were Street, Brighton, S5, writes:—"I was over seeing Mr. J. E. F. Martin, who was one of my form masters. The old gentleman is getting very feeble now, but still takes great interest in the 'Chronicle,' which I take to him when I call."

We regret to record the death of S. Fiddian (son of a former Headmaster), which occurred in Melbourne on September 20, 1934. Although the deceased gentleman did not attend P.A. College, he sent his three sons there. His loss will be keenly felt, and we offer our deepest sympathy to the family.

What are we Doing for Our Young Old Boys?

Each year another batch of "Young Old Boys" is produced, and during the past several years the question of how they can find suitable employment has not been easy to answer.

Another year has passed, and a number of boys are now keenly looking for employment.

The Association Executive is always ready to help, and appeals to the members of this Association to assist also.

- (1) If you know of an "Old Boy" not placed, give any member of the Executive particulars.
- (2) If you know of a suitable vacancy, give one of our boys the opportunity of filling it.
- (3) If you can possibly make a position, even at some sacrifice, do so, and DO IT NOW, and thus bridge for our boys the chasm of uncertainty and unemployment.

"There followeth after me today
 A Youth, whose feet must pass this way;
 This chasm, that has been as nought to me,
 To that fair-haired youth may a pit-fall be.
 He, too, must cross in the twilight dim—
 Good friend, I have built this bridge for him."

Princes' Club

Members are reminded that subscriptions are now due, and should be forwarded to Mr. A. G. Collison, Treasurer, Eagle Chambers, King William Street, Adelaide. Upon the return of Mr. T. C. Craven from England, a meeting of members will be called at an early date.
