Editorial

For many people the coronation of Queen Elizabeth which is to take place next June is no more than a passing thought. Others would probably admit that the procession and coronation service must make an impressive sight, full of spectacular and colourful pageantry.

Yet these impressions are the least important. The coronation of Elizabeth II should create a feeling of "goodwill towards men" wherever they may be. It is a solemnity of vital importance to every Christian because he shares in the common belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Lordship of Christ. A nation accepts a new ruler in accordance with the promise to rule according to accustomed law, and in the fear of God.

This school has a link with royalty through Prince Alfred, Duke of Edinburgh, after whom it was named, and it is therefore our special duty, one and all, to meet the call of our Queen and Country for high standards of personal life, doing a good day's work, and generally giving our best to the life of the nation. This loyalty to the Throne has already been shown by our Old Boys who fought and died for their country in time of war.

Thus when the act of taking authority and power before Him who is omnipotent is carried out, it is fitting that religious people everywhere should unite in prayer that God may grant our Queen a long life, full of devotion and service to her people.

We should do well to follow the advice of the Apostle Paul in his first epistle to Timothy :—

"I exhort therefore that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty."

G. C. H.

School Notes

This Chronicle appears at the end of the first term instead of at the beginning as in former years. Notice of the change was given in the last issue, where it was indicated that Chronicles will now be issued about the end of April and in October. For the information of Old Boys, this Chronicle includes an outline of activities in Old Boys week, while the next one will include the notice of the Annual General Meeting of the Old Collegians' Association.

Visitors to Assembly during the Third Term, 1952, included the President, Mr. L. P. A. Lawrence and members of the Committee of the Old Collegians' Association, Rev. H. Palmer Phillips from Melbourne, who was guest preacher at the Kent Town Methodist Church anniversary services, and Rev. "Tubby" Clayton, foundation padre of Toc H.

Two intercollegiate events have been held since the last issue of the Chronicle. We won the cricket after a very keen struggle. This was Fuller's sixth intercollegiate game and his third as captain. Saints won the tennis by ten rubbers to five and so gained their third victory since our run of wins commenced in 1929. Our other losses were in 1938 and 1944.

During the Christmas vacation, the school kitchen was remodelled and furnished throughout with new equipment at a total cost approaching £10,000.

In February we welcomed Mr. G. F. Connell, M.A. and Mr. W. A. Tregenza, M.A. as masters in the Big School and Mr. M. P. Choate, B.A. in the Preparatory School. Mr. Connell had been on the staff in 1944-1945 and Mr. Tregenza in 1951 and they take the place of Mr. Fuller and Mr. Goodenough who accepted appointments in other States.

During January, two parties of P.A.C. boys went on interstate trips. Mr. Fuller accompanied a party of boarders to Perth where they were almost overwhelmed by the hospitality and generosity of the W.A. Old Boys, while Mr. Laurie took a party of junior boys on a tour of Tasmania, similar to the one undertaken by senior boys last August.

We were pleased to have so many members of the Conference with us at Assembly on Thursday, 5th March. Congratulations upon his election as President were extended to Rev. W. Glen Clarke, who attended P.A.C. from 1901-1904, and later as a ministerial student in 1910.

P.A.C. is very interested in the progress of Lincoln College, the youngest of Adelaide's University Residential Colleges, and congratulates it upon its rapid yet sound growth. There are twelve "Old Reds" among the fifty-six students in residence at Lincoln this year. They are J. W. Burchmore (who left P.A.C. in 1945), T. B. Berry and A. M. Duguid (1948), D. H. Prest (1949), G. A. Fricker and W. H. Harvey (1950), D. L. Clarnette, D. W. Evans, F. S. Hambly, P. S. Hambly, J. L. Menadue and P. L. Millhouse (1952). Duguid is President of the Students' Club.

Speech Day

The Annual Speech Day was again held at the School, but this time in the morning on Friday, 19th December. The President of the Conference, Rev. W. R. Steadman, who presided, addressed the gathering and, after the presentation of the Games Report by David Evans, Captain of the School, the Headmaster, Mr. J. A. Dunning M.A., M.Sc., gave his report for the year.

The prizes were presented by the Honourable P. A. McBride, Minister for Defence who spoke tellingly to the boys of the value of University education in producing fully qualified men to take advantage of the fine opportunities in the Civil Service, rural industries, politics and many other vocations which the present rapid development of the Australian community affords. He emphasized the importance of our keeping abreast of other parts of the world and our responsibility to other nations.

Mr. R. W. M. Johnson, the President of the Old Collegians' Association proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. McBride.

HEADMASTER'S REPORT

Mr. President, Mr. Minister, Ladies and Gentlemen.

I have the honour of presenting to you the report on the work of Prince Alfred College for the year 1952. First of all I would extend a welcome to our honoured visitor—the Hon. P. A. McBride. We welcome you, sir, most heartily because we appreciate the distinguished service you are rendering the Commonwealth as Minister of Defence, and we are proud that you have found time to honour your Old School by your presence.

As has long been the custom, I shall first report on the results of the public examinations at the end of last year. Our boys again did very well. Eleven boys gained Leaving Honours certificates, with four boys placed on the General Honours list and two others awarded Bursaries. In the Leaving fifty certificates were gained or completed, and four boys were awarded Leaving bursaries while thirty-two were awarded Commonwealth Scholarships. B. W. Smith with seven credits, and W. H. Taylor with six, had outstanding passes, while P. S. Hambly gained top credit in Chemistry, 2nd credit in Latin and 3rd credit in French. Sixty-seven boys gained or completed the Intermediate certificate and four won Exhibitions. A pleasing feature of both Leaving and Intermediate was the better standard of the results of boys not in the A forms.

This year we have about the same number of candidates as last year at each stage. D. W. Evans is Dux of the School with a very high percentage throughout the year, while P. S.

Hambly, W. H. Taylor, and B. W. Smith have done very well in their first year of Leaving Honours work. In the Leaving and Intermediate classes much good work has been done, but many of the candidates in the lower forms have found the work difficult. The same may be said of the first and second year classes in the upper school.

An indication of the good work being done in the Preparatory School is the fact that four of the five top boys in the A division of the fourth form are boys who came up from the Preparatory School at the beginning of the year. The upper Prep. classes were visited by an inspector from the Department, and as a result, all boys doing Grade VII work were awarded progress certificates. I quote the closing sentences of the inspector's report. "This is a very fine School. Under Mr. Close's able direction, the work is in good heart and the fullest educational needs of the boys are being met."

During the year, the Chaplain, Rev. C. J. Perry, and Mr. Mutton were on leave of absence for some months while they visited Britain and Europe. We were fortunate to have Rev. H. Alvey as Chaplain during Mr. Perry's absence. Mr. Glancey, Mr. Wellby and Mr. Medwell joined the staff of the big school in February. Mr. Hart, who had given valued service for some seven years, left at the end of second term to return to missionary work in Kenya. At the same time Mr. J. P. Keeves returned after a most valuable three years on leave in England. He spent two of these on the staff of Radley College, and one studying for the Diploma of Education at Oxford University. We welcome him back and P.A.C. is most fortunate in his return.

In the Preparatory School, Mr. Laycock resigned at the end of 1951 to gain experience abroad. He had given good service both within and without the class room. Mr. Houston, Mr. Crouch and Mr. Savage came at the beginning of the year. Mr. Savage resigned in August and his place was taken by Mr. Fuller from the Big School.

We say goodbye today to Mr. Fuller and Mr. Goodenough. For four years Mr. Fuller has done an excellent job as a resident master and I am deeply grateful to him for the way in which he has looked after the interests of the boarders. As coach of Athletics for these years, he can look back on a narrow defeat and two victories in Inter-collegiate Athletics. Mr. Goodenough has taught mainly English and French effectively and well, but he will be remembered most for his exceptional work with the Scouts.

Another change in staff has been in the Tuck Shop, where Mrs. Thomas for health reasons had to retire and has been succeeded by Mrs. Russell. We are grateful to Mrs. Thomas for her fine work and wish her well in her retirement.

The Captain of the School, D. W. Evans, has given you a report on games. I should like to add my appreciation of the work done by the Masters in coaching and organising sport, and of the help given by Old Boys. The Cadets and Scouts have had a very active year. D. W. Evans was awarded the 1951 General Rowell Efficiency Prize open to all Cadets in Central Command, while B. W. Smith was awarded the Queen's Scout badge. Our Cadet unit is the largest in S.A.

The School Concert and the Prep. School Concert were both most successful, while the Dramatic Society repeated its 1951 success by this time presenting "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Such a play is an ambitious undertaking, and the producer, Mr. Coombes, deserves great praise. Much of the credit for the financial success of the School Concert and the School Play is due to the efficiency of our Business Manager, Mr. J. S. Steele.

I gratefully acknowledge the gift from Mrs. J. Brown of a prize in memory of her son, who was an Old Boy and who lost his life in an aeroplane accident in England. It was to be known as the Barrie Brown Memorial Prize and will be awarded as the VIC Scripture Prize.

The School is indebted to the Parents and Friends Association, the Preparatory School Mothers Club, and the Scouts Parents Group for the work they are doing and the help they are giving the School.

The Old Boys' War Memorial Fund now stands at over £25,000 and the College Council has appointed a sub-committee to explore the possibility of making an early start with the buildings. I am happy to report that, during the coming vacation, the kitchen will be completely remodelled and furnished throughout with new equipment. The cost will be substantial—not much less than £10,000—but the Council felt that the work had to be carried out. A painter has been appointed permanently, and I hope that by this time next year the results of his work will be apparent.

The Old Collegians' Association has had another very good year. Old Boys' week was as busy and successful as ever. Reunions have been held in London, Sydney, Melbourne, Perth, Broken Hill, Penola and Port Lincoln. The School congratulates Mr. R. W. M. Johnson upon his election as President for the ensuing year.

Old Boys of all ages continue to play an important part in the life of the community. This is to be expected, but it is particularly pleasing to see that so many are taking so active a part in public affairs and voluntary organisations. Time does not permit me to enumerate the successes of Old Boys. Two instances of what younger Old Boys are doing must suffice. Five of the 21 credits awarded in final year Medicine went to Old Boys. Three years ago the Inter-collegiate Cricket was played here at P.A.C. Of our players then, Trowse is now in the State side, while Ducker, Lill and Tiddy are doing well in A Grade Cricket. Trowse and Tiddy left in 1949, Lill in 1950 and Ducker only last year.

Costs and fees are of considerable interest and concern to School and parents alike. In this connection, I must express appreciation of the Commonwealth Government in granting Schools exemption from sales tax, and in granting parents £50 of fees paid per child as a concessional allowance for income tax purposes. For many years, the Headmasters Conference of Australia has appealed to the Government of the day on these matters, and I should like the Honourable Minister to know that we do appreciate the action of his Government. At the same time, the State Government has earned our gratitude by abolishing land tax for schools and by reducing succession duties on gifts for charitable purposes, including schools.

The costs of running the School have been much higher this year than in 1951, but during the last few months there does seem to have been a levelling out in the boarding-house costs. I am happy to report that there will be no increase in the fees, either boarding or tuition, at the beginning of the year. The Council hopes that an increase later in the year will not be necessary, but this will depend upon whether the levelling out of costs continues and becomes more general.

I have been surprised at the small number of cancellations of applications for enrolment that I have received. The demand for places is still an embarrassment, with the position in the Preparatory School particularly acute.

Looking at the past year from a general point of view, I should say that it has been a good one. Two changes are perhaps worthy of note. Geology has been reintroduced as a Leaving subject. Of more general interest, homework is no longer set at the week-end for boys below the intermediate classes. I am sure that this has been a wise move and most parents agree with me—particularly those who used to be worried late on Sunday evening by requests to do the homework set for the Monday. I may say that no falling off in the standard of work has been apparent.

At times, I become perturbed at the full life that some of our boys live. There seems to be so little time available for good reading and I hope that the lessening of the burden at weekends may enable some boys to give more time to their reading. I am glad that other headmasters have raised the question of television. This must affect homework and reading. Whether we deem it wise or not, we must all admit that television will come to Australia. It is an urgent necessity that we profit from the experience of other countries. Therefore I appeal to all who have the welfare of our children and our children's children at heart to be up and doing and support the move to have a thorough investigation of the position made before any action is taken.

In conclusion, I would express thanks to all—and they are many—who have helped the School and helped me personally during the year. To the boys who are leaving I would say "May your school days stand you in good stead in the years to come," to those who are returning, "May you enjoy your holidays and may you return to do honour to yourself and your School in 1953."

SPORTS REPORT

Mr. President, The Honourable Mr. McBride, ladies and gentlemen, I have the honour to present to you the Games Report for 1952.

As usual the year's sporting activities commenced with the Intercoll. Tennis which resulted in an excellent win for our team. Sumner (captain) and the members of his team are to be congratulated for their play on the day. Special mention should be made of Sumner and Johnson who played superb tennis to annihilate Saints first double 6-1, 6-0, and also of Millhouse and Vandepoor who did not lose a set. The School owes much to Mr. Alan Morris and to Mr. Luke for the training of the team, and the score of 12 rubbers to 3 indicates the quality of their coaching.

The house tennis was held in the first term, Cotton and Bayly running out victors from School and Waterhouse. In the final, Cotton and Bayly drew 2 sets 28 games each. The preliminary rounds for the School Championship were played in the first term, with Johnson and Sumner reaching the final, which was played during the 3rd term. Our congratulations go to Johnson who finally won 7-5, 6-2. The junior house tennis played towards the end of the third term resulted in a win for School.

As has been the custom for a number of years the eight commenced training for the Public Schools' Regatta at Murray Bridge during the Christmas holidays. On the day, however, the more experienced Saints team proved a little too strong for ours and we again conceded the Gosse and Blackmore Shields to our friends across the way. Our eight was by no means disgraced, and it was pleasing to see them fighting on until the gun was fired. Although we did not win the main race, it was Princes' day, for we won four out of the other five events, including the Old Boys Race. The thanks of the School are extended to the conscientious coaches and in particular to Mr. Frolich and Mr. Potts for their constant help in the Rowing.

The next event in the sporting year was the School sports and the results augured well for the Intercoll. Athletics. A much greater interest in standards was shown this year than in previous years, and the result was that the House Competition was very interesting. The higher standard of the house marching competition was a notable feature, and credit must be given to all the boys for their enthusiasm. The Senior Cup was won by Perrott with 21 points, followed by McIntosh with 16. The under 16 cup went to Lathlean and the under 15 to Wicks.

Towards the end of the 1st term the Athletics was held and the score of 104 to 64 in our favour speaks for itself. On the day Princes men broke 5 records and equalled one. Congratulations to Perrott, the captain, for the fine example he gave to his team by breaking his records in both the 120 and 220 hurdles—a remarkable effort. A word of commendation must also go to McIntosh for his excellent long distance running, particularly in the 880 in which he broke the record. Special mention must also be made of Harbard's effort in winning the shot put. He is the first Red to do this since 1945. Although the under 16 were not particularly strong, the juniors performed extremely well, Wicks being outstanding. The thanks of the team are extended to Mr. Fuller for his excellent work in training the Athletics team, and also to Mr. McLeod for his help with the shot put.

The activities in the second term were mainly confined to the football field, and under the expert coaching of Doug. Sanders the first XVIII improved in every game. As the Intercoll. approached the teamwork displayed gave us high hopes for the big match. Unfortunately Saints were too strong in too many departments. Until half way through the second quarter we held Saints, but when McFarlane started his prolific scoring and McIntosh was moved to cover him, the half back line, weakened by his absence, was unable to stop the barrage of attacks made by Saints' half forwards. Although we were soundly beaten, it is of interest to note that the scoring was equal in the last term, this in itself being a tribute to Mr. Sanders's coaching. Congratulations to McIntosh on a fine game, and to Perrott for his captaincy throughout the season. The thanks of the team go to Mr. Sanders for his help, for under his guidance we experienced real team spirit, which will long remain in our memories. The trip to Wesley of the tennis and football teams resulted in a walk-over in the tennis and a loss in the football. Although we do not by any means offer this as an excuse for our loss in the football, we would record that the Wesley hosts initiated us into the art of ice-skating the night before the match. We should like to thank Mr. Provis for looking after us on the tour and also Mr. Kurtz for his valuable assistance as football master.

The Senior house football was won by Bayly from Cotton, the favourites, with School and Waterhouse 3rd and 4th. The tables were turned in the junior contests, Cotton defeating Bayly in the final.

The house cricket was held this term, Cotton winning from Bayly house, followed by Waterhouse and School. The junior house cricket resulted in a win for School from Bayly. The house rowing competition, also held this term, was won by Waterhouse, with the other three houses equal second.

After a lean season in B grade it was particularly pleasing to note the batting performances of the first XI gradually improving as the Intercoll. approached. For the first time in 5 years

P.A.C. won the toss and batted well to score 328 on the first day. In Saints' first innings the score looked rather sad for P.A.C. supporters for at one stage it was 3 for 210. But excellent bowling by Fuller, McIntosh, Lyons and Hall soon had the Saints batsmen out at 279. Special mention must be made of a magnificent catch by Wicks to dismiss Newcombe from the bowling of Fuller—I know it was a spectacle that I shall long remember. After a bad start in the second innings excellent batting pulled us out of the fire and we are now in a favourable position. Congratulations to Menadue, Craig, Waters, in fact to the whole team for excellent batting performances.

The introduction of junior house competitions this year has done much to create interest among the younger members of the school, and in years to come this should be an integral part of school life.

This year has been a most enjoyable one on the playing fields, and no less than five merit badges have been awarded. Menadue, Wicks, Perrott, and Evans have represented the school in cricket, football and athletics, whilst Harbard has taken part in football, athletics and rowing. Special mention must be made of Wicks—a merit badge at Intermediate and Harbard, who gained his three colours in the one year.

This year marks the close of a number of eras. Among those leaving is Myles Fuller, who has played for six years in Intercoll. cricket including three as captain—a remarkable record and one that deserves the highest praise. Dene Perrott is also leaving and his feats upon the field of sport are well known; on behalf of what will soon be his old school I wish him luck in the Australian Athletics Championships in Perth early next year. John Menadue and Bill McIntosh, whose faces are well known on the sports field, are also leaving.

In closing I should like to thank all those who have given aid behind the scenes and in particular Mr. Leak, the sportsmaster. Whether it be organizing an Intercoll. or umpiring a junior house match he has always shown himself willing to minister to the needs of sport at P.A.C.

Parents and Friends Association

There was a very large attendance at the Annual Meeting of the Association held in the Assembly Hall on Friday, 20th March. The retiring President, Mr. A. E. Sampson, reported a most successful year. Meetings had been well attended and the Association had made donations towards the cost of building lockers in the Boat House and of providing tools for the Prep. School Boarders' woodwork hobby group. As usual prizes had been provided in both the Big and the Preparatory Schools while grants had been made to the Prep. Mothers Club and the Scouts.

The election of officers for 1953 resulted as follows:—President; Mr. A. G. Alexander, Vice-Presidents; Mr. H. C. Williams and Mr. J. C. Piper, Hon Treasurer; Mr. E. Perriam, Hon. Secretary; Mr. A. L. Gniel, Hon. Auditor; Mr. H. E. H. Mutton

Annual School Service

The Twentieth Annual School Service was held in Kent Town Church on Sunday evening, 14th December. The Church was packed, and chairs had to be placed in the aisles for those who arrived just before the service commenced.

Rev. C. J. Perry, the School Chaplain, conducted the service. The School Choir under the direction of Mr. Rolland May, Mus. Bac., led the singing of hymns and sang two Australian carols, "The Silver Star" and "The Three Drovers," and the Anthem "The Heavens are Telling." The organist was Mr. G. M. Bowen, a member of the School staff, who is organist at Kent Town. The Captain of the School, D. W. Evans, read the lesson from Romans, Chapter 12.

HEADMASTER'S ADDRESS

In the passage read by the Captain of the School, Paul deals with the practical application of the spirit of Christ to the rough and tumble of everyday life. He first gives rules for the Christian's own life, then rules about the Christian's relations with others. The whole of the chapter can profitably be studied as the working out of Christianity in everyday life. This working out was as Paul saw it almost 2,000 years ago.

But just over one year ago, we in Australia were challenged by leaders of Church and Judiciary in "The Call." Few will deny that the hour was ripe for the call. The challenge was expressed in simple words, as were our beliefs. What we were called to do was essentially practical. But so also are the words in Romans, Chapter 12, and the need for the call would not have arisen, had we as a people paid more heed to these words of Paul, and applied his teaching to our lives.

During the year, the committee of the Call prepared a questionnaire—some 22 questions for every Australian. Time fails me to speak on all these questions, but I would direct your thoughts to 3 or 4 of them this evening. Now these are the questions I have chosen from the twenty two.

- (1) Can I be justly proud of the work I do and of how I do it?
- (2) Am I alive to the good work done by our voluntary organisations?
- (3) Do I uphold the law at all times or do I evade it to suit my selfish interests?
- (4) If I am a Church member, do I join in my Church's work and worship?

(The Headmaster here examined each of these questions and its practical implications for Christian people).

So as another fateful year draws to its close, let us think on these things and dedicate ourselves anew to the service of our God and of our country. Early in the year we mourned the passing of a beloved monarch—a man whose devotion to his God and his people was an example to and won the admiration of us all. The story of his life is an inspiration particularly to any who may feel disheartened by what they feel at times to be overwhelming handicaps—physical or otherwise. I am sure that every boarder will long remember last Sunday evening's service. The Chaplain, instead of giving his usual address, read an article published recently in the South Australian Methodist. It was the romantic story of the distinguished service rendered King George by an old P.A.C. boy—Lionel Logue—at school in 1896—a story of the patience, courage and faith of our late King with the help of Logue overcoming the burden of an acute speech defect which in earlier years had made speechmaking impossible and conversation a torture. Listen to this to see how serious was the disability. They are our Queen's own words. "I remember when I was a child in my cot my father coming to say "Goodnight" to me, but he could not utter a word." As Mr. Perry read, I was proud to think of the fortitude and faith of King George VI and of the part a P.A.C. man had played in overcoming his difficulties. As the story unfolded, I felt tempted to discard what I had planned to say to you tonight, and merely read to you that article.

On the day of King George's coronation, the British Prime Minister in a broadcast said, "Let us dedicate ourselves—let us dedicate ourselves afresh if need be—to the service of our fellows, a service in widening circles, service to the home and service to our neighbourhood, to our country, our Empire and to the world—no mere service of our lips—service of our lives as we know will be the service of our King and Queen. God bless them."

These thoughts of dedication were repeated with our Queen's own pledge when, as Princess Elizabeth, on her 21st birthday she said.

"I declare before you all that my whole life—whether it be long or short—shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great imperial family to which we all belong. But I shall not have strength to carry out this resolution alone, unless you join in with me, as I now invite you to do."

And now her coronation approaches. In his broadcast to the nation on the Sunday preceding Remembrance Day—the first anniversary of the Call, Sir Edmund Herring reminded us that, though we are inclined to think of the Coronation as being no more than a great pageant, yet it is really much more than this. It is essentially a service of deep religious and spiritual significance.

It was my privilege and good fortune to be in London at the time of the coronation of King George VI. I was impressed by the magnificence of the spectacle—indescribable, beyond my wildest dreams—but I was moved by the fact that this was no mere display. It was something far deeper. It made one feel that it was good to be a subject of the British monarch—a man who dedicated his life to his people. So I would wish the impossible—that every Australian could be in London next June at the time of the coronation to sense the atmosphere. So doing he would come away a better man, more than ever convinced of his duty to God, Queen and country, ready to combat the enemies who would convince us there is nothing of good in our God, our Royalty or our Empire. So I would close with the words—and give them to you as a challenge—words which Sir Edmund Herring spoke in his broadcast. "At the coronation our Queen will dedicate herself under God to the service of her people, and that means you and me. So the coronation should be for us, as for our Queen, a time for dedication and an outward sign of the devotion and duty we owe to God and to mankind."

Students' Christian Movement

1952 This term's meetings, addressed by visiting speakers, were held on alternate Thursdays. A pleasing feature of the meetings was the considerable increase in attendance, especially from the top form in the school.

Our first speaker was the Rev. Frank Hamby, M.A., B.D., the Master of Lincoln College, the recently established Methodist University College. He told us of the work of University colleges in general, and especially of the one with which he is associated.

A fortnight later the Rev. A. E. Vogt visited us. He is the Superintendent of the Adelaide Central Mission, and he spoke about the origin, history and work of this great mission centre.

Our next speaker was Principal Kiek, M.A., B.D., of Parkin College. His subject was "the Utmost for the Highest." He told us that we should do everything to the best of our ability and not look for the easy way out.

The final speaker was the Rev. C. T. Symons M.A., B.D., of the Young People's Department of the Methodist Church. He chose from the Bible three figures, whose outlooks on life were good, band and indifferent respectively. He told us how we should mould our lives on the best examples and avoid the faults of the others.

1953 The activities of the Student Christian Movement began this year with the formation of a committee consisting of:—G. C. Hall (President), M. G. Bennett, I. W. Hocking, J. F. Nosworthy, J. F. Rogers, M. E. B. Smyth, and F. J. W. Symons.

The first speaker for the year was Rev. S. Forsyth, O.B.E., who told us of the activities, past and present, of Kuitpo Colony. This colony is doing fine work in rehabilitating many needy men. He also spoke of the work that is being done at the Methodist Old Folks' Home.

Our second speaker was Rev. J. H. Allen, B.Sc., who gave us an interesting talk concerning his impressions of church services in England. In particular he described the chapel of New College, Oxford University, and Westminster Hall.

At our third meeting we were addressed by Rev. E. N. Broomhead, M.A., B.D., who painted a very vivid picture of the city where Christ was crucified.

We should like to thank the speakers who have given up their valuable time to speak to us. We assure them that their talks have not been in vain.

The Debating Society

This year was the third since the formation of the society and we all feel that we have achieved at least as much as has been done in the two previous years. Our group is one which can boast of enjoyment for its members as well as playing a vital part in education. The officers, under the guidance of Mr. Dennis, ably planned the programmes for this most successful year, and as usual the meetings ran smoothly. Officers for third term were:—President, M. G. Bennett; Vice-President, P. S. Hambly; Organising Secretary, C. L. Watson; Minute Secretary, T. J. Nettlebeck; Committee-man, P. Willoughby.

Impromptu speeches were again popular and they appeared frequently on the agenda..

Topical discussions were successful, one of the most enjoyable being "Whether dancing should be held in church halls." At one meeting, which was rather unusual, Bennett and Nettlebeck, dressed in the style of typical reporters, asked us our views on two embarrassing subjects.

The final of the house debates, held early in the term, was won by Cotton House. Millhouse (School) and Willoughby (Cotton) confidently captained their teams on the subject "That ignorance is bliss."

Scout Notes

In the third term of last year all troops were busy preparing gear and passing tests for the Jamboree. The Jamboree party finished off its test passing with an enjoyable Field Day at the shack at Mylor, during which all cooked exotic dishes for the midday meal.

We were sorry to lose Mr. Ron Silk at the end of the year, and we are grateful for the valuable sailing experience the sea scouts gained through him.

We also lost Mr. Goodenough to a young lady, who led him off to enjoy a happy married life at The Friends School, Hobart. During his three busy years at P.A.C. he has worked with exuberance and enthusiasm for the Scout Group. He has extended its activities to vigorous and adventurous hiking, to sailing and rowing, and to really good concert and camp-fire work. His policies have radically changed the whole organisation and programme of scouting in the school, and it is with great regret that we say good-bye to him. There are many in the troop who owe to him more than they could ever express, and we wish him every success with the Scout Troop he will inevitably found in Hobart.

He was farewelled at the Scout Party, a glittering affair, held in the Assembly Hall at the end of the term. The decorations were exceptional, the supper delicious, the band really superb and everyone, down to the smallest tenderfoot enjoyed the games and dancing. Our thanks go to the mothers and all those who helped in the preparation of the hall.

The Parents and Friends Committee have again been very active by raising large sums of money through another successful jumble sale, and through serving afternoon tea at the Intercoll. Cricket. This money has been spent on gear for the Jamboree and on materials for repairing the shack. A few weeks ago they held a busy-bee, in which a large tree was grubbed out, a new floor laid, and the whole of the wood-work structure treated against white ants. After they had finished, the carpenter went in, and he has nearly finished the repair work which was so badly needed.

The Senior Scouts started the year with an Investiture meeting on top of Mount Lofty at 6 o'clock one Saturday morning. They hiked there at night, spent the night in a nearby hostel and arose very early next morning. Subsequent meetings have been original and instructive.

The Land Scouts have held good meetings. At the end of last year most of their efforts were directed towards preparing for the Jamboree. The Abotomey Cup was won by the Kookaburra Patrol, and we congratulate P.L.

John Merry and his patrol. During the first term of this year, there have been week-end hikes, patrol camps and a large camp on the flat at Cox's Creek. The camp was a great success, in spite of very heavy rain during the first day.

The Wednesday mornings have been utilized and much work has been done by the older members of the troop. We now look forward to a very good year of enthusiastic and adventurous scouting.

Sea Scouts

Last year ended in preparations for the Jamboree, which was enjoyed by all who went, especially the boat trip to the Sydney Harbour Heads. The Weigall Cup, which is awarded for patrol competition was won by the Bulldog Patrol with G. A. Lockyer as patrol-leader.

This year the troop has been limited to two patrols, the Penguins and the Petrels, all new members of the troop must have at least their Second Class Badge. We wish to thank Geoff. Bridge for his invaluable help in running the troop during the first term.

On 15th March, this year, two crews competed in the Annual Sea Scout Regatta which was held at Granite Island, Victor Harbour. Although the senior crew was unsuccessful, the junior crew defeated the Victor Harbour crew, winners for the past four years, to gain the Wongala Shield.

Seven sea scouts attended a camp at the Outer Harbour over Easter. John Hoepner was in charge, and under his able guidance many tests were passed. Later this year we hope to go sailing at the Harbour.

The Jamboree

For all who went to the Jamboree it was a great adventure. There we met scouts from all over the world, compared ideas with them, and learnt a great deal about the life and problems of other lands.

The camp-site was at Greystones, about twenty miles east of Sydney. The long journey over and back by train, in spite of the inevitable sausages and mash and the overcrowded compartments, was most interesting and enjoyable.

We look back with pleasant memories on the large camp-fires, displays, the excellent meals, the hectic swapping and the many yarns to scouts from other lands. Mr. Goodenough led the troop on the stage at the two large camp-fires to represent South Australia in songs, yells, and stunts. The one big lesson learnt by all was that, despite all the disputes between the nations of the world, scouts can unite in friendship to form one great peaceful community.

House Notes

SCHOOL

1952 Although we were not very successful in the House Competition this year, we may look back on a period of good companionship, house spirit, and a friendly atmosphere in the house that must surely be unequalled. At the beginning of the third term, two new house prefects were appointed—Don Brown and Lincoln Davidson.

While we came last in the cricket, our young and inexperienced team, and especially G. Ashby and Davidson, must be congratulated on a good showing.

Perhaps our weakest point is our school work. While eight boys—Angel, J. Greenslade, Paterson, G. Chapman, R. Chapman, M. Haeusler, Johns, and M. Smyth topped their forms, a better all-round effort is required from Boarders next year, if we want to win the House Cup.

Christie's Beach again took its toll of sun-burned boys, but considered all-round, it was the best picnic yet, and we heartily thank Mr. Fuller and all those concerned in the organisation and running of such a successful outing.

It is with sad hearts that we say goodbye to our Housemaster, Mr. Fuller. Anyone who has been connected with the Boarding House during the last few years must realise how much he has done for us. Under his influence a very friendly atmosphere and a true house spirit have been maintained. He was presented with an attache case by the boarders. We wish him luck in his new school, Sydney Grammar, and feel sure he will do as much for them, as he did for us. Mr. Goodenough also leaves us, going to The Friends School in Hobart. We congratulate him on his marriage, and wish him well.

Mr. David Prest who has been in residence during the past year has been appointed a resident tutor at Lincoln College. We thank him for the interest he has shown in the life of the Boarding House.

1953 This year Michael Smyth and Philip Jenkin were appointed captain and vice-captain respectively of the house. We welcome Mr. R. Prest and Mr. Connell to the resident staff, and all new boys to the Boarding House.

So far this year, the only major sporting event has been the Intercoll. tennis, and we congratulate Darnley Taylor on his inclusion. The congratulations of the house go also to Austen Gibson, who is going to England with "The Advertiser" Coronation Youth Contingent.

Our thanks go to Mr. Ray Smith for giving up his time to show us pictures on a Saturday night recently. His kindness is very much appreciated.

In conclusion we ask for a concerted effort from the beginning by all members of the house, and warn the other houses that we intend getting that cup this year, so look out!

WATERHOUSE

1952 This year Waterhouse House gave many fine exhibitions of sportsmanship, but because of inconsistency we were finally placed second to Bayly House. In the first and second terms we established a lead over the other houses, but in the third term we secured only a few points, allowing Bayly to defeat us narrowly.

The general standard of the Juniors of every house has been only moderate, but they have always been exceptionally keen, making competition very interesting. Our junior cricketers finished last, and they were quite convincingly defeated in each match. Our junior tennis team was not disgraced, although it also finished last. They played some very fine tennis and fourth position does not reflect the quality of their play.

In the senior cricket Bayly defeated us by three runs in a very exciting finish of the first round. Cotton defeated Bayly in the final, and we defeated School to gain third place.

Our Cadets performed very well to take first prize, but because our Juniors failed, a deficit was created which we found very hard to overcome.

Previously our strong point was the school work, but this term there has been a general slackening off, with the result that we came second, conceding 20 points to Bayly House.

The House would like to thank Mr. Kurtz and Mr. Coombes for their excellent work throughout the year—it has inspired us to some great heights and we are only sorry that we could not reward them by defeating the other houses.

1953 At the beginning of the first term our Committee, namely R. C. Gill (Capt.), B. G. Burfield, D. R. Sheppard, J. C. McKenzie and G. J. Crawford were elected. We congratulate Gill on being made a school prefect and also on his selection as Captain of Boats. Our house lacked a representative in the Intercoll. Tennis, but we hope to have a number of representatives in the Rowing and Athletics.

Our thanks go to Mr. Kurtz and Mr. Coombes for their help in training us for the House March on Sports Day. Under their supervision we hope to do well this year.

COTTON

1952 The most important competition this term was the cricket, which we won most convincingly. In the first round we defeated School and went on to win the final well from Bayly.

Cotton had six representatives in the triumphant Intercoll. Cricket, over half of the side! Our congratulations to Menadue, Lathlean, Perrott, Wicks, Waters and Willoughby (12th). Special mention must be made of the run-getting efforts of Menadue and Waters in the Intercol. match.

The dominance of Cotton House members was further shown when Menadue, Perrott and Wicks were awarded their merit badges. All had gained Colours in Athletics, Football, and Cricket and fully deserved their reward.

We say "Thank-you" to our House Captain, Perrott for all he has done both for the school and the house. Our thanks are due also to Messrs. Duff, Mutton, and Laurie for their interest and unflinching support during the year.

1953 The House Committee was elected early this term and comprises Willoughby, (captain), Lathlean (vice-captain), Butcher, Conigrave, Gibbs, Rogers J. F., Sumner, Siegele and Wicks.

We congratulate Gibbs, Rogers, Siegele and Willoughby on being appointed School Prefects and know that the Cotton House tradition will be upheld by these boys.

Cotton had four representatives in the Intercol. Tennis, Sumner (captain), Conigrave, Southwood, and Willoughby (reserve), and our congratulations go to these players.

We look forward to having a very successful year and winning the House Cup.

Look-out Bayly—Cotton are on the war-path!

BAYLY

1952 The third term was a most successful one for Bayly House. In the House Rowing, our inexperienced crews rowed well to gain third place.

Under the efficient guidance of Cdt.-Lts. McIntosh and Schofield and WO2 Thomas, the House won the Cadet Competition in a keen contest with Waterhouse House. Congratulations to McIntosh and Schofield on receiving their "pips" at the ceremonial parade.

In the House Cricket we easily accounted for Waterhouse in the first round, but the strong Cotton House team proved a little too good for us in the final.

Congratulations to Craig, Hall, Lyon, and McIntosh on their selection in the victorious Intercol. team. Well done fellows!

Through consistency rather than brilliance, we won the House Cup this year, defeating Waterhouse by a narrow margin, and we wish to thank our two popular House-masters, Messrs. Smith and Provis, for their keen interest and able support throughout the year.

1953 Early in the first term our House Committee was selected, Lyon as Captain of the House, with Baker, Bennett, Hall, Hocking, Humble, Pearlman, and Pope comprising the committee. With the help of these boys, we expect the House Cup to return again to Bayly House.

Our congratulations must go to our former House Captain, Geoff. Hall, on being appointed Captain of the School, and to Bennett, Hocking, Lyon and Pope on their selection as School Prefects. We know that these boys will continue to uphold the honour of the House, and we wish them luck in their new offices.

We had two players, Baker and Shearer representing the House in the Intercol. Tennis, and they are to be congratulated on their efforts in this match. Baker's effort, in particular, must be mentioned, as he was the only P.A.C. player to win his single.

Cadet Notes

The annual Ceremonial Parade was held at the School during the third term, when the G.O.C., Maj-Gen. R. King, D.S.O., C.B.E., took the salute. The Unit, parading as two companies, made an impressive display. Maj-Gen. King complimented the Unit on its drill and, after speaking on the Army as a career, he presented badges of rank to Cdt. Lts. R. J. Chapman, D. W. Evans, W. C. A. McIntosh, T. J. Nettelbeck, and S. W. Schofield. Cdt.-Lt. Evans also received the General Rowell Efficiency Prize, a prize for which all cadets in the State are eligible.

In January many of our cadets attended the N.C.O., Specialists and Potential Officers courses at Warradale. These courses were run very efficiently and the boys derived considerable benefit under the careful supervision of A.R.A. instructors and Officers of Cadets. Congratulations to Sgts. Hocking and Rogers on gaining their commissions, and to L./Cpl. Greenslade on qualifying for his M.G. Wreath badge.

This year there are two platoons of specialists who comprise a Band section in addition to the normal MMG, A/Tk, I, and Sigs. sections. The band has already made considerable progress, and by calling the parades each morning, has lent a real military atmosphere to the training.

Capt. A. S. Johnston and Capt. A. R. Laurie have been appointed as A and B Coy. Commanders respectively. We have been very fortunate in securing the services of Sgt. M. Q. Dunn of A.U.R. Sgt. Dunn, a former Cdt.-Lieutenant of this school, will act as 2IC of A Coy., and thus will relieve Capt. Johnston of much routine work, enabling him to give more individual attention to each section.

With the Orderly Room and Q. Store functioning smoothly owing to the untiring efforts of S/Sgts. Gibbs and Slee, we are looking forward to another successful year.

Finally we should like to thank our A.R.A. instructor, Sgt. Whittington, for his guidance and for the keen interest he has taken in the Unit.

Club Activities

SENIOR DEBATING CLUB, 1953

The Club made a fine start this year with our membership totalling thirty. In previous years the membership was smaller and the club did not have a wide range of activities. However, assured by this increased interest in the club, the committee has been able to widen its activities. As usual, the officers of the club were elected at the first meeting of the year. The elections were not strongly contested and those elected were: President, M. G. Bennett; Vice-President, P. Willoughby; Secretary, J. F. Nosworthy; Minute Secretary, J. F. Rogers; Committeeman, M. E. B. Smyth.

The first meeting of the year consisted of a series of impromptu speeches. These, however did not prove as popular as they were last year. The following week the committee decided to have a discussion. Firstly the club discussed whether "Geoff. Noblet should have gone to England." After a few uncertain speeches by the new members the chairman then changed the subject to a discussion on the Coronation. On this, many members gave interesting views.

In the following weeks the club had a debate, a series of prepared speeches and a very good Mock Parliament.

In all, the efforts of the committee and the club members have made the meetings so far very interesting.

The club would not have been as successful as it has but for the invaluable assistance of Mr. Dennis, who takes a great interest in the school's debating.

J. F. N.

JUNIOR DEBATING, 1953

A great deal of talent was found this term among the boys from the fourths, the result being some excellent speeches and two good debates which were well contested. It was only when it came to impromptu speeches that the club lost its high standard of oratory. Of course, it must be realised that very few of us had ever delivered a speech before without any preparation.

Both debates were excellent, and we especially liked the first. In this debate we must admit that we became boisterous, but that only added to the interest which the boys showed as the debate progressed. The subject debated was whether Sedgman and McGregor should have turned professional.

We should like to thank Mr. Potts for his help and advice which he has given us throughout the term, and we feel that we will benefit more during the remainder of the year. The committee, comprising Pearlman, Carr and Corbet performed their small duties well.

A. J. S. C.

STAMP CLUB, 1952

The Stamp Club this year has not been exceptionally active, but some good business in exchange of stamps has been done. A gift from Mr. Shuttleworth, an old scholar, of several hundred stamps was divided among the members of the club, and of the five pounds gained by the club in fees, most has been spent on stamps bought in Adelaide and given to the stamp members. Several of the club members have given interesting talks during the year, and the other members have greatly appreciated them. A kind gift from Jory of several stamp monthlies has greatly increased the number of books we have for the stamp club, and these keep the boys who have not brought their stamp albums to school occupied during the free period.

Mr. Allison, the president of the club, has kept good order during the meetings. The zeal he enthused into the members by his auction sales has been surprising, even if the members have considered it only as a means of getting rich quickly.

G. H. S.

STAMP CLUB, 1953

This year Mr. Glancey was elected president; R. J. Clarke, vice-president; M. E. Ducker, secretary; and P. Butcher, treasurer. Later on this term we hope to have some talks from well known philatelists, which will be of great assistance to the younger boys. We have written to Stanley Gibbons in order to obtain some approval sheets which should arrive soon. With a very interested group of boys, 1953 should be a very successful year for the stamp club.

R. J. C.

THE MODEL AEROPLANE CLUB, 1952

The model club has had a successful year under the capable guidance of an experienced modeller. Several good models have been made and flown and very few mishaps have occurred. Chase and Dunn helped the younger members in the building of some small gliders which have been successful. We should like to thank Mr. Mutton for helping in the running of the club.

THE MODEL AEROPLANE CLUB, 1953

We have started this year with a large club of very keen modellers. There have been some cars at school which have run very well. O'Donnel and other senior boys have brought models along to school and also helped the younger boys. We hope to see some more planes flying at school next term.

M. C. C.

RIFLE CLUB

Although the practices have been well attended on Friday afternoons, the club has found it difficult to get a full team for the competition shoots at Keswick. Once again the most consistent shots have been Pauley, Treliving and N. Thomas.

A handicap shoot was held at the end of the third term and was won by Waterman.

Pauley registered the highest score.

The Rifle Club plans to erect a firing shelter on our practice range.

THE GEOLOGY CLUB

The Geology Club ended its first year successfully, having classified most of the large collection of specimens on hand. This collection has been greatly augmented by gifts from such sources as the University.

Once again we must express our appreciation to Mr. Provis for his assistance in our work.

D. R. S. and A. G. J.

CHESS CLUB NOTES

This year the Chess Club, with a membership of over fifty, again split into two groups, Mr. Kurtz coaching the beginners and Dr. Ellis the more successful players.

In the latter group the following officers were appointed: President, G. Gibbs; Secretary, D. Southwood. A highlight of the first term was the inaugural Intercollegiate Chess Match with St. Peters. Unperturbed by several early upsets, our team rose to the occasion and finally won the match  $8\frac{1}{2}$  points to  $6\frac{1}{2}$ .

This year two tournaments are being conducted, the first prize in each being a cup, presented by an Old Boy of the school, Dr. H. M. Southwood. Taylor and Sved are leading in the A grade tournament and Aitken and Barker in the B grade.

G. B. G.

LEATHERWORK CLUB, 1953

This year the Leatherwork Club, as before, has been divided into two groups. The boys who have previously done leatherwork are under the guidance of Mr. Steele and the new boys are with Mr. Duff.

A committee has been elected to care for equipment and J. Baldock and J. W. Pearson have been appointed treasurers of Mr. Duff's and Mr. Steele's classes respectively.

Various models have been completed and the boys are taking great interest in their work.

J. W. P.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB, 1953

We are very grateful to Mr. White from Kodak's for giving us a series of interesting lectures during the past eight weeks. With a club of over forty members, Mr. White has had his hands full to keep us all interested. However, his lectures with lantern and slides have been a source of interest and enjoyment to us all. We give our thanks to Kodak's for lending us cameras and other apparatus which have been a great help in the lectures which Mr. White has given.

M. R. W.

BIRD WATCHING SOCIETY, 1953

The society has had a most successful and interesting start to its year's activities. We were pleased to welcome back Mr. Tregenza, our President, after a year's absence in England.

We have sixteen members, including many new ones. Some of the new members have added a great deal to the interest of the society.

We have made good use of the time provided by both indoor and outdoor studies. The indoor studies have been chiefly discussions and talks prepared by members. We have concentrated mainly on the outdoor studies to enable members to become familiar with the local birds. The walks we have had include a successful trip through the Botanical Gardens to the River, as well as several walks through the school grounds and nearby parklands.

I believe that the year will prove so interesting that the numbers in our society will continue to increase.

F. R. H. C.

WEAVING, 1953

Progress this year has been steady but slow owing to the inexperience of some members of the club. Dennis, Smart and Ashby are going along steadily with their scarf, while Haeusler and Smith have gone ahead with some woollen mats. In the second term we hope to have both looms in action; this term we have been using only one.

G. E. A.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY, 1953

Mr. Coombes and the cast have made a good start on the play, "The Happiest Days of Your Life," which is to be staged in the Norwood Town Hall during the second term. In the other part of the society Mr. Allison is producing "The Dear Departed," and another smaller play, "Augustus in Search of a Father." He hopes to stage both plays at the annual school concert.

A. B. D.

CHOIR, 1952 and 1953

At the beginning of third term the members of the choir began to work hard learning the Anthem "The Heavens are Telling," from Haydn's "Creation." Besides the anthem, Mr. May patiently taught us some Australian carols. This work was in preparation for the school service which was held on the last Sunday of the school year at Kent Town Church. At this service we sang the anthem, in which Sudholz, Evans and Millhouse sang the solo parts, and two carols. This year we have begun well, already having learnt six negro spirituals and the nursery rhyme "Old Mother Hubbard"! We thank Mr. May for the help he is now giving us and also for our past achievements.

M. G. S.

ART CLUB

In addition to last year's Hobbies Groups, the Art Club has been added, with Mr. Laurie in charge. During the first meeting the nineteen members elected five boys to attend to the interests of the club. It was decided to pay a subscription of 2/6 to cover the expenses of drawing equipment, etc. We had an enjoyable time when the class went along to the Botanical Gardens, armed with pencil and paper to sketch from Nature.

We hope to have more of these outings as the year goes on.

"No Job for Jim"

Winning entry in the Kenneth Harley Memorial Prize

by M. E. B. Smyth

With a wave of his hand he was gone. The head stockman leaned his broad back against the post, a worried look on his face.

"Frankly, I don't like the idea," he said to his horse. "He should have had more sense."

But the wrinkles on his brow eased when he thought of the high spirits and obvious bush-manship of the young man riding away. He was looking for work on the stations, but in these times of drought, the station-owners were unwilling to engage new labour, and he had had no luck. Now he was off on a dash to Nanjunippa Homestead, a hundred miles away over some of the worst country imaginable. For the first twenty miles, the country consisted of nothing but flat blue-bush plains, their leafless stumps sticking out between the clumps of spinifex. Further on, the sandhills began, and for nearly sixty miles they ran in an East-West direction, seemingly interminable, death-traps for the unwary.

Young Jim Felhurst was not afraid of them. A young but experienced station-bred lad, he made a graceful picture as he rode easily, his sturdy horse galloping smoothly under him. A broadish nose and dark features proclaimed part-aboriginal ancestry, and he retained some of their uncanny bush-manship.

The day had been very hot, the leaves of the few mulgas hung listlessly in the shade, and the mirages surrounded the horizon with a shimmering lake of pure-blue water. But now evening was approaching, and Jim intended to cover much ground tonight, to rest by a tank, and then continue the next night. He rode out into the wilderness . . . .

The track was scarcely defined, and he had difficulty in keeping his way, but his good horse steadily covered the ground, surefootedly picking his way along the track. By midnight he had reached the sandhills, and he had to be careful. But he was confident of himself and his horse, and at five o'clock he reached the tank. A few gallons of mucky water was all that remained, and many tracks and a few rotting carcasses stuck in the mud showed that what little life remained here was relying on these precious few gallons. He frightened three kangaroos and a wild cow, but none ran, for they were too weak. Jim tied his horse under a tree, lay down and slept.

It was hot! Mirages distorted everything, and nothing seemed real. Jim patiently waited. The day dragged by on feet of molten lead. But eventually evening came, and Jim, watering his horse, set out again.

The sandhills were on either side of him now, confining his view, and hemming him in. Jim rode along, quietly humming to himself. Suddenly his horse slackened pace and pricked up his ears. Jim stopped him and listened. Quick! a mob of brumbies was heading his way! Jim wheeled his horse, and tried to climb him up a sandhill. He tried to lead him up. And still the brumbies approached, and his horse was slipping and foundering at the bottom. Suddenly the mob sensed his presence. They stopped, snorting and panting. Jim shouted. They wheeled, and fled for a distance. Jim tried again to lead his horse to the top of the sandhill, and this time they made it. But here came the stallion. The challenge of the presence of another of his sex was upon him. With tail and mane aloft, he trotted up, and climbed the sandhill easily.

Jim took out his knife and waited. The stallion was blocked for an instant by the presence of Jim, but he was not to be deterred. Jim advanced. The stallion retreated.

Suddenly, Jim shouted, jumped in the air, and ran towards the stallion, which turned and scrambled off. But Jim, intent on the stallion, lost his footing in the soft sand and fell, rolling down the steep lee-ward side. He desperately tried to get back, but he could not. The stallion advanced. Jim's horse floundered down the other side and fled, the stallion following. Their hoof-beats faded in the distance. . . . .

Jim sat down. He was too well versed in bush-craft to lose his head. He thought. The tank was twenty miles away now, and he would not make it before dawn. He would have to spend a day out in the blistering heat of the desert. But he must make that tank. They would send out a search party if he did not reach Nanjunippa in a week. He set out walking at a fast pace, and keeping an eye open for a place where he might be able to cross the sandhill. He covered ten miles before dawn, and had managed to scramble over that barrier of sand between him and the tank.

The day dawned with a gusty, fitful wind. Deep down within him his stomach was tightening. He had seen days like this turn into raging, howling dust-storms, and he feared this might happen now. The wind became stronger. Coming down from the North, it blew sand into his eyes. From the top of the sandhills came little puffs of dust. A dust-storm was being born.

He broke into a run. He must reach that tank before the storm enveloped him. He did not have far to go now, but the sand was thick. It got into his eyes, his nose, his mouth. He breathed it into his lungs, panting. He could not see ten yards. The wind howled. The dust hit him with stinging force. He tripped on a stump. Fell. He got up, and ran desperately. Suddenly he checked himself.

"I must not panic" he thought. He turned his back to the wind and sand, and crouched down. The wind howled, and swirling sand enveloped him. . . .

Next day we see a staggering, weakened man, standing by the tank. It was choked with sand. He had survived the terrors of the storm, only to face a worse terror—thirst. He sat down. He had to cover forty miles, and he was desperately thirsty even now. He was weakened by the storm, and his lips were already cracked and bleeding. He began to walk.

He walked all that day, but his hope was dwindling. He was panting in the scorching heat, his tongue was already beginning to swell. He staggered on.

He rested a little that night, but kept walking most of the time. But it was only a strength born of despair that kept him going. He wandered on. He lost the track, and unknown to him was gradually turning a large circle. Two crows followed him. The black scavengers of the inland realised that only a little patience would be rewarded with a meal.

He watched those crows with terror and hate, then with fierce desire. He found a stone, and lay still. The crows advanced. Suddenly he threw the stone. . . .

Two crows flapped noisily away with mocking caws, and he was left, shocked with his feebleness. His lips were bleeding, his eyes swollen and bloodshot. He staggered on. The crows followed. Suddenly, hope stirred anew. Was that water, or was it a mirage? "Don't be fooled," he thought. It is probably a mirage. And yet it seemed so real. He ran. He knelt down beside the cool heavenly water lying there between the sandhills, and gulped a mouthful—of sand. He broke down and cried. The crows moved closer. Now his reason deserted him. He laughed and talked with the crows and sang them songs. Suddenly he felt very tired. He lay down. The crows glided down to the ground. . . .

Three years later a boundary rider saw something white among the yellow of the daisies of a good season, and discovered the bones of Jim Felhurst. Scooping a shallow grave in the sand, he put the bones in, and covered them. He thought what a tragedy it was that a man could die of thirst here. He looked around. Greens, yellows, whites and purples of grasses and flowers met his eyes. "This is a cruel country," he thought, one minute hard, dry and cruel, the next, a land of plenty.

He took off his hat, and with bowed head, repeated the Lord's Prayer. And two crows cawed a smug "Amen."

Prefects' Palaver

This year's prefects, ably led by Geoff. Hall, and sporting the unusually high number of six aspirants to second year Honours fame, were duly installed in the redecorated den at the beginning of the term. Since then they have shown themselves more than equal to a wide-spread crime-wave of throwing berries and talking in assembly which, so the more scientifically-minded members have told us, has shown a distinct relationship to the phases of the moon. There is, of course, the ever-present dastardly sin of new boys not saying their school songs.

Although, unfortunately, we were not represented in the Tennis Intercoll., we expect to dominate in the forthcoming School Sports, Head-of-the-River Regatta, and Intercoll. Athletics. Our congratulations to Bob Gill on his selection as Captain of the Boats, and to Trevor Siegele on his inclusion in the Eight. As usual we have a number of worthy representatives in the First Eleven—Hall (Captain), Lyon and Willoughby upholding the prefects' prestige.

Two parade-ground identities from within our fold, Ian Hocking and Jeff Rogers, became the two new under-officers in our Cadet Unit. In the newly inaugurated Chess Intercoll., "Goob" Gibbs led our team to a comfortable victory.

We are indebted to one who will remain an anonymous member of our ranks for the boosting of the social side of a prefect's self-sacrificing assiduous life by throwing us what was a bumper dance on his verandah and lawns!

In conclusion we put the following posers to you:—

1. Whose boater was blown off on its maiden voyage?
2. Who searched for an ear-ring in his car, and whose was it?
3. Who takes "Milo" to keep his strength up?

Cricket

INTERCOLLEGIATE MATCH

The annual game against S.P.S.C. began on Tuesday, December 16, on the P.A.C. oval. At short notice it was decided to play the match on our ground, as the heavy programme of first-class matches had badly worn the turf on the Adelaide Oval. Although the pitch on the opening day was hard and well-grassed, the fact that the previous week had been very wet led many to fear that the wicket would not last. By the fourth day these fears proved to be well-grounded.

We were fortunate to have an experienced skipper in Myles Fuller, who was playing his sixth intercol., being for the third time captain of the First XI.

First Day

The opening day was fine and hot. Before the game started, the two teams were introduced to His Excellency, the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Mellis Napier. Saints were unfortunate to lose McFarlane, a player of previous intercol. experience, who was indisposed. He was replaced by J. Alpers and Hanson became twelfth man.

Fuller won the toss and at 11.30 took Waters with him to the wicket. They opened very confidently to the bowling of Rogers and Strickland, and continued to bat well when the fast bowlers were replaced by Taylor and McLachlan. With the score at 49, Fuller who had played a vigorous innings was well caught close in on the leg side by Newcombe. As the Saints bowlers were frequently overpitching the ball, Evans and Waters had many opportunities to score, and the hundred was posted in 84 minutes. Just before lunch Waters was dismissed, after a solid innings, and the score at the interval was 2 for 131.

Hall and Evans resumed after lunch, Hall scoring freely until he was given out l.b.w. after a confident appeal. When the score reached 200, Taylor immediately took the new ball, with the result that Evans and Wicks were dismissed in quick succession by the fast bowlers. Evans, who was out to a good leg-side catch, deserves mention for his bright innings, which earned him the batting prize for the second year in succession.

After tea, Menadue and Craig carried the score past 250. Menadue was caught behind and Lyon was bowled next ball. In the next over, Perrott fell to McLachlan and our 'tail' was collapsing. Craig, who was still batting well, partnered by Lathlean carried the score past 300. Lathlean was caught at long-on near the players' marquee, and McIntosh came in. He was out after an amusing and lucky stay at the crease, Craig remaining unconquered.

Saints' fielding was quite good. Ketley and Terrell on the boundary and Taylor were particularly conspicuous.

At ten minutes to six, Newcombe and Tuckwell opened for Saints, and were still together at stumps.

Second Day

With the score at 0 for 5 play was resumed. As soon as Lyon relieved Lathlean, he trapped Tuckwell l.b.w. McLachlan, who came in next, had an early 'life' when a difficult chance was dropped. He scored with fluent strokes to the off, until he was dismissed by Lyon, who took the simplest of catches off his own bowling. After drinks had been taken, Willoughby, twelfth man for Princes, replaced Menadue in the field, the latter being troubled by the recurrence of a back injury. Muecke joined Newcombe who was batting dourly. They were together at lunch with the score 2 for 87. The Princes fielding was particularly keen, and this kept scoring to a minimum.

Muecke did not last long after lunch, and soon after Ketley joined him Newcombe reached his half-century. These two batsmen began to score with ease, and the fielding lost some of the zest that had marked the pre-lunch session. About fifteen minutes before tea, Ketley had the misfortune to tread on his wicket and was out. A partnership of over 90 had placed Saints in a fairly good position, when Taylor joined Newcombe.

After tea, Fuller took the new ball, and, in a devastating burst of good bowling, had Newcombe (93) brilliantly caught in the slips by Wicks, and Taylor out l.b.w. Lathlean, bowling at the other end, had Alpers snapped up by Fuller. Terrell and Strickland seemed to be settling down, but McIntosh, who relieved Fuller, dismissed them both. Hall, brought on in place of Lathlean, soon accounted for Rogers.

The quick success after tea inspired the Princes men, whose fielding improved, with the result that the last five wickets fell for the addition of only 51 runs. Lyon deserves special mention for his marathon bowling performance. Late in the afternoon, he had to leave the field with cramp. Fuller (cramp) and Hall (ankle injury) also suffered as the result of the day's play.

Princes were 59 ahead on the first innings, and at stumps Fuller and Waters had added ten more runs without loss.

Third Day

The two openers again batted confidently. Fuller who had most of the strike was out trying to force a ball through the off-field. Early in the morning's play, Strickland was spinning the ball viciously from the off, a sign that the pitch was of assistance to the bowlers. He bowled unchanged until five minutes to one, and was responsible for the collapse of the early Princes batsmen. At lunch, Craig and Menadue were together and the score had advanced to 4 for 108.

After lunch, these two batsmen, with shots all round the wicket, soon made the score look more comfortable. Just as Princes supporters were about to applaud the hundred partnership, Menadue was stumped. He must be congratulated on his fine knock, which was more meritorious as his back made batting difficult for him. During this period, Saints tried to curb the scoring rate by adopting defensive tactics. Newcombe bowled outside the off stump to a very strong off-side field. Wicks, who replaced Menadue, was still with Craig at tea, with the score 5 for 219.

Immediately after tea, Craig was dismissed with the new ball. He had played a very fine innings. Lyon came in, and with Wicks, increased the scoring rate, until the latter was bowled by Rogers. The tired bowlers' deliveries lacked length and direction, and were 'carted' by Perrott and Lyon, until Fuller closed the innings. Saints required 343 for an outright win, and had 265 minutes batting time.

Newcombe and Tuckwell again opened for Saints. In Lathlean's first over Newcombe turned a ball to Fuller at short square-leg, and the catch was jubilantly accepted. The graceful McLachlan came in, and he and Tuckwell were still together at stumps with the score 1 for 21.

Fourth Day

As in other years, play on the final day did not start until two o'clock. Hall and Lyon opened the bowling for Princes on a wicket which was expected to help the spinners. Tuckwell was the first batsman to be dismissed, and Muecke went soon afterwards. Hall was bowling very well at this time, though Lyon was inclined to overpitch the ball. Lyon was replaced by Fuller, who resorted to off-spinners. Ketley, who joined McLachlan, was scoring particularly briskly, and, in the forties, caught his steady partner. Both reached their half-centuries, but a little later, McLachlan skied a full toss and was well caught by Wicks. Downer was soon bowled, and Taylor came in shortly before tea, when the score was 5 for 148.

In the third over after tea, Lyon dismissed Ketley, and captain Taylor, who was expected to play the role of sheet-anchor to the team, hit out and was caught in the outfield by Waters, from the bowling of Craig who had just come to the crease. Alpers and Strickland were associated but could not withstand the potent combination of inspired bowling and keen fielding. Alpers was out to a brilliant catch by Evans and Strickland was cleverly stumped on the leg-side. This meant that P.A.C. had three-quarters of an hour in which to dismiss the last batsmen. After Rogers had closed his eyes and opened his shoulders to several balls, he was out, giving Princes victory by 119 runs.

It was fitting that the match-winning wicket should be taken by Myles Fuller who has such a fine record at cricket for Princes. He richly deserved the fielding prize. Congratulations to Mr. Leak, Fuller and the team on a splendid victory.

Critique

Fuller, M. G. (Captain)—A very good all-rounder who has not however made all the progress that was expected of him. Has steadied both the batting and bowling of the team, and his keenness has set an excellent example to the team. Tends to be over-anxious both in batting and in his captaincy.

Hall, G. C. (Vice-Captain)—A very reliable all-rounder who has performed well on important occasions. Should anticipate more keenly from his own bowling. Must overcome a tendency to drop the ball short when tiring.

Menadue, J. L.—Had a very lean season until the Intercollegiate match, when he proved his mettle by two very good scores made under difficulties. A very good front-of-the wicket player and an excellent slip field.

Evans, D. W.—A brilliant batsman and fieldsman who is rapidly overcoming a tendency to over-anxiety in both spheres. Is to be congratulated upon a fine "double" in Intercollegiate cricket, as he won the batting prize again this year.

Lyon, R. A.—A Most promising leg-spin bowler who works very hard to improve. Must learn to watch batsmen and pick weaknesses, and must overcome a tendency to bowl too fast. A very reliable field, and a promising bat who as yet lacks full coordination.

Waters, R. W.—An excellent opening batsman who is still showing marked improvement. Must resist a tendency, only rarely shown, to chase the ball going away. A fair field who has tried very hard.

Perrott, M. D.—Wicket-keeper; has performed very well in this position, particularly in the Intercollegiate match. A fair batsman, but not free enough in the shoulders.

Craig, J.—A very correct batsman who is content to wait for the right ball to hit. Was dogged by misfortune early, but overcame his run of bad luck to play very well in the Intercol. A useful change bowler, and a very good field.

Wicks, R. H.—A most promising young player, who should derive great benefit from being in this Intercol. Must avoid a tendency to "look for" shots, especially the pull. Sound field.

Lathlean, W. B.—A fast-medium bowler who has learned much in his first year in the team, and if he improves as much next year he should be a really fine bowler. A useful bat who must work hard to overcome weaknesses. Fair field.

McIntosh, W. C. A.—A really good trier whom sheer determination brought into the team. A useful change bowler and fair bat, but keenness made him more than useful. A fair field.

CRICKET NOTES (3rd term, 1952)

We have once again enjoyed quite a good year of cricket. The First XI, with a sound nucleus from last year's side on which to build, became quite a strong combination, and besides winning the Intercollegiate match, performed quite creditably in "B" Grade.

We are still pursuing the policy of encouraging all boys to play cricket, by ensuring that anyone who goes out to practice will sooner or later get a game. The effect of this arrangement is that the "B" teams of each group are often weakened, and results are affected.

The School is indeed fortunate in having masters who are prepared to give up so much of their time to coaching our teams, and in addition, such very willing helpers as the boys who keep the scoring-board in action.

A pleasing feature of the year's cricket has been the appearance of more parents at our school matches. This is most encouraging to the boys taking part in the games.

We are again indebted to the ground-staff for the sterling work they are doing in preparing our wickets and playing areas so well.

FIRST XI GAMES

October 4 and 11—P.A.C. v. Adelaide "B"

Fuller lost the toss and Adelaide batted on a very good wicket. However, Lathlean bowled very well and the opposition were all out for 181. That afternoon we lost two quick wickets but on the following Saturday fighting knocks by Hall, Wicks, and Evans carried our score to 120. In their second innings Adelaide were 6 for 65 at stumps.

SCORES—Adelaide "B" 181 (Lathlean 5 for 18) and 5 wickets for 65 (Hall, 2 for 6), defeated P.A.C. 120 (Hall 46 N.O., Evans 27, Wicks 26).

October 13 (full day)—P.A.C. v. Woodville "B"

Fuller again lost the toss and Woodville batted solidly before declaring at 8 for 257.

Our batsmen failed on a quite good wicket in the face of very strong Woodville bowlers. In our second innings we were 2 for 27 at stumps.

SCORES—Woodville "B" 181 (Lathlean 5 for 29, Hall 2 for 5, Walker 2 for 48), defeated P.A.C. 71 and 2 wickets for 27.

October 18 and 25—P.A.C. v. Glenelg "B"

For the first time this year Fuller won the toss and we batted on an only moderate wicket. All but Geoff. Hall were outclassed and our batsmen formed a procession.

However, our bowlers showed Glenelg that they were not the only team who had bowlers with ability because their score of 9 for 199 declared was not particularly good for the top "B" grade team.

In our second innings two juniors Craig and Wicks were the only two to offer any resistance.

SCORES—P.A.C. 51 (Hall 29 n.o.) and 82 (Craig 23 n.o., Wicks 20), lost outright to Glenelg "B" 9 for 199 declared (Hall 4 for 84, Lyon 2 for 26, Fuller 2 for 30).

November 1 and 8—P.A.C. v. Prospect "B"

Prospect won the toss and sent us in to bat on a fair wicket. After an opening partnership of 103 runs our batsmen slumped and we were all out for 194. The following Saturday our bowlers dismissed the opposition for 118 thus giving us our first win for the season.

SCORES—P.A.C. 194 (Fuller 80, Evans 42) and 1 for 13, defeated Prospect "B" 118 (Lyon 5 for 35, Fuller 3 for 23).

November 22—P.A.C. v. Sturt "B"

Sturt won the toss and sent us in to bat. The wicket was perfect and we batted well against this strong side to score 140. Our bowlers also performed well keeping the strong batsmen scoring at a comparatively slow rate. Sturt won on the first innings.

SCORES—P.A.C. 140 (Fuller 39, Willoughby 30 n.o.), lost to Sturt "B" 4 for 236 (Hall 3 for 83).

November 29 and December 6—P.A.C. v. University "B"

Winning the toss Fuller sent University in to bat on an apparently bad wicket for University were soon dismissed for 89. However, the credit should go to the bowlers as they bowled extremely well. Our batsmen played quite well against a strong attack scoring 139. University batted again scoring 119 before declaring. This left us 70 runs to score in thirty minutes for an outright win. Although Waters was out in the first over Fuller and Evans scored 55 in 23 minutes before Fuller was out. Menadue joined Evans and the score was reached in the last over.

SCORES—P.A.C. 139 (Fuller 35, Craig 27) and 2 for 70 (Fuller 40, Evans 23 n.o.), defeated University "B" 89 and 5 for 119 declared (Hall 3 for 20, Fuller 2 for 14, McIntosh 2 for 17, Lyon 2 for 47).

Second XI Games Third Term, 1952

This term we had high hopes of continuing our unbeaten run of the first term, especially when we beat Sacred Heart Second XI in a one-day game, Willoughby contributing a fine 91 not out. But alas! It was not to be, for our next encounter, with S.P.S.C. II, resulted in a win for them by 24 runs. However, we went on to beat their U16 and Immanuel College First XI, and thus we lost only one game out of seven this year.

RESULTS

P.A.C. 147 for 7 (Willoughby 91 n.o.), defeated S.H.C. Second Eleven 7 for 87.

P.A.C. 128 (Wundke 26, Smyth 26 n.o.), lost to S.P.S.C. Second Eleven (F. Hamby 3 for 26).

P.A.C. 157 (Willoughby 73, Wundke 25) and 9 for 149, (Wundke 92 n.o.), defeated S.P.S.C. U16 III (Corbet 5 for 55, Smyth 5 for 50).

P.A.C. 115 (McIntosh 42), defeated I.C. Firsts 38 and 5 for 20 (McIntosh 6 for 14 and 3 for 12, Corbet 4 for 23).

In conclusion we should like to thank Mr. Davies for the interest he has taken in us and for his valuable coaching.

Under 14

It is very pleasing to be able to report on the very healthy conditions of Under 14 cricket at P.A.C. this year.

Those who have played in the "A" team have been keen and enthusiastic, and have developed a good team spirit. On the field they have certainly looked and played like cricketers.

Whittam has given the team an excellent lead as captain, and has proved a very successful slow bowler and a most promising batsman. In a year or two he will undoubtedly prove a power to be reckoned with in Intercollegiate cricket. Other promising Intercollegiate cricketers of the future include Ducker (following closely in his brother's footsteps as a wicket-keeper), Jenkin (left arm bowler and batsman), Walker (batsman and slow bowler), and Rogers (who has successfully opened both the batting and the bowling).

The team has been successful in winning most of the matches played during the season.

The "B" team has also had a successful and enjoyable season. Nicholls has done an excellent job as captain, and has set his team a fine example on the field and off. Mickan and Denton have made plenty of runs, and Mickan has also been very successful with the ball, Ayers and Chapman have also done well.

The group has been coached by Mr. R. T. Smith to whom we are much indebted.

Under 13 "A"

We had a moderately successful term, winning three out of the six games played. Pearlman, Doley and North were our most capable bowlers and Doley was best with the bat.

RESULTS

P.A.C. 4 for 63, defeated Marist Brothers Tech. 6 for 56.

P.A.C. 26, lost to U.H.S. 2 for 32.

P.A.C. 8 for 40, lost to S.P.S.C. Prep. 68.

P.A.C. 7 for 59, lost to S.P.S.C. U13A 4 for 69.

P.A.C. 110, defeated King's 33.

P.A.C. 6 for 134, defeated Scotch 74.

FIRST XI (First term, 1953)*February 7 and 14—P.A.C. v. Port Adelaide "B"

Winning the toss Port Adelaide batted on a well-grassed wicket. Our bowling was accurate, our fielding steady and we dismissed the opposition for 202.

In the first innings our batsmen failed dismally, but in the second innings we did much better to score 5 for 128 at "stumps".

Port Adelaide 202 (Hall 4 for 38).
P.A.C. 68 (Stewart 20) and 5 for 128 (Hall 76 n.o.).

February 21 and 28—P.A.C. v. West Torrens "B"

Hall won the toss and elected to bat on a good wicket, but the West Torrens' pace attack proved a little too strong for us.

After West Torrens had declared their innings closed on the second day, we again batted and lost the match outright in the last few minutes of play.

West Torrens 8 for 228 declared (Lyon 4 for 54).
P.A.C. 117 (Willoughby 31) and 104 (Hall 42, Pearlman 25).

March 7 and 14—P.A.C. v. Woodville "B"

Winning the toss Woodville put us in to bat on a good wicket, but we were dismissed cheaply.

Our steady bowling finally ended Woodville's innings after they had compiled a score of 262.

In our second innings we again failed, and lost the match outright.

Woodville 262 (Walker 4 for 66, Hall 4 for 86).
P.A.C. 85 (Pearlman 38) and 116 (Pearlman 35, Hall 30).

March 21 and 28—P.A.C. v. Kensington "B"

Kensington won the toss and sent us in to bat on a wet wicket, and our batsmen did well to total 126 runs.

Lyon bowled brilliantly in this match to secure 6 for 88, and Kensington were dismissed for 182.

The second innings proved our best for the term and our total reached 172.

Kensington 182 (Lyon 6 for 88).
P.A.C. 126 (Wicks 31, Lyon 28) and 172 (Hall 43, Willoughby 32).

Second Eleven*First Term, 1953

Captain: Michael Smyth.

This term we were only moderately successful, as after narrowly winning a practice game against P.G.S. I we lost two and won one of our remaining games. Best with the bat were Ashby, Simpson and Glastonbury, while the most successful bowlers were Smyth, Watson, and Forrest, who between them took nearly all the wickets.

RESULTS

- P.A.C. II 77 (Ashby 29), defeated P.G.S. I 56 (Forrest 5 for 12).
P.A.C. II 30 and 98 (Glastonbury 25, Ashby 22), lost to S.H.C. II 79 and 2 for 21 (Watson 4 for 27, Forrest 3 for 11 and 2 for 10, Smyth 3 for 15).
P.A.C. II 107 (Simpson 22, Rogers 17), lost to C.B.C. I 219 (Smyth 7 for 59).
P.A.C. II 121 and 4 for 28 (Simpson 34), defeated S.P.S.C. II 54 (Watson 4 for 17, Forrest 3 for 11) and 100 (Smyth 4 for 32).

Third XI

Captain: Dennis, P. M.

The Thirds did not have a very successful season, only winning one match out of the three they played. We also tried to give every one who attended practice regularly a game during the term.

RESULTS

- P.A.C. 197, defeated King's College II 76 and 92 (Crawford 44, Leggoe 32) (Giffen 4 for 9, Dennis 3 for 12).
P.A.C. 76, lost to Scotch College II, 129 (Giffen 29).
P.A.C. 132, lost to Concordia II 183 (Crawford 65, Dennis 3 for 25).

We would like to thank Mr. Coombes for his very valuable coaching throughout the term.

Under 15 White

This team comprised the day-boys of the U 15 group, and we were successful in winning two of the three games played, our loss being to S.P.S.C. U 15 "A".

Three of our members, Ducker, Rogers and Walker gained selection in the First XI, and to them we extend our congratulations. However, they often played in our morning matches and with excellent performances they helped us towards our victories. Others to do well were Mickan and Dignum.

We sincerely thank Mr. Smith for his untiring help at our practices which assisted us greatly to improve our cricket.

Under 15 Reds

This team comprises the boarders except for exeat weekends when dayboys are required to fill the vacant positions. Of the three matches played we won only one. We express our thanks to Mr. Smith for his most able coaching throughout the term.

RESULTS

P.A.C. 75 (Paterson 15) and 213 for 9 (Kitto 104 retired, Ayres 25, Chapman 23), lost on first innings to P.G.S. 80 (Hocking 4 for 12, Ayres 3 for 15).
P.A.C. 74 (Greenslade 25), lost to A.B.H.S. 81 (Whittam 5 for 11, Kitto 4 for 44).

 5 for 170.

Mitchell has the biggest batting average viz. 82, and North has taken most wickets viz. 35.

Under 13 "A"

Captained by Hopkins, with Oaten as Vice, the Under 13 "A" team had a very successful term's cricket winning four out of the five matches played.

The best results were against Unley High and St. Peter's College. The former scored only 29 runs to our 163, Hopkins and Rogers retiring at 54 and 31 respectively. Hopkins took 5 for 2 and Oaten 3 for 13. We also defeated Brighton High and Marist Brothers' College. We lost the last match of the season to Sacred Heart who played very well to defeat us.

The team was greatly assisted by the coaching of Mr. Keeves to whom we extend our thanks.

GENTLEMEN v. PLAYERS

With the advent of such phraseology as "writing fluid" and "meat purveyors," who are we to stand alone staid and trite in calling our match between the Masters and First XI by its plain denomination? On the afternoon of Wednesday, 12th November, was played the match, "Gentlemen v. The Players."

With each team thirteen strong, the Players were first to bat with Fuller and Waters opening the innings. Opening bowlers for the Gentlemen were the Head and Mr. Houston from the Prep., and over all was the atmosphere of dignity incurred by the presence of the umpires Messrs. Davies and Laurie. All went well for the Players until Mr. Coombes, the first change bowler, cunningly brought a low ball back from the off, to dismiss Waters who had compiled 11. Mr. Coombes soon added another scalp to his belt when the Head dived headlong at silly leg to catch Evans. The most interesting feature of the play was the surprising agility of some of the Gentlemen—Mr. Bowen showed his worth in many speedy returns to the wicket, and Mr. Provis and Mr. Goodenough did some earnest sprinting in the outfield.

The shine now off the ball, we found Mr. Ray Smith putting the players on the defensive with his spinners, and he soon had Hall stumped by Mr. Close. Mr. Goodenough then came on with some furious bumpers, from which Wicks hit two lofty fours, and a dainty over from Mr. Hieser followed. Willoughby now awakened the game from its lethargy by making the most of Mr. Bowen's well-meant deliveries, especially when he had to walk several yards towards point to connect with one of the looser balls.

But now Mr. Leak's bowling cramped the batsmen's style and matters grew worse when Mr. Crouch caught and bowled Willoughby in the next over. The innings was ended by the dismissal of McIntosh, who was stumped off one of the Head's off-spinners.

After refreshments, the first two Gentlemen went coolly to meet the accumulated wrath of their opponents. McIntosh opened with a fast, determined attack against Mr. Hieser, and Mr. Provis stroked very soundly off a fiery onslaught from Lathlean. The first knell was struck when Mr. Provis was clean-bowled by a chance ball that happened to be on the wicket. Mr. Coombes came out unperturbed and also was bowled for three, so that Mr. Leak, the next arrival, was cautious at first.

The climax of a furious attack from Uncle Myles was the dismissal of Mr. Hieser; however, with his 25 runs he proved a valuable asset to his team. After Mr. Close had been dismissed for seven, and Mr. Leak had retired with 41, Mr. Smith made his presence felt with several timely fours, and Mr. Dunning stole a few cheeky singles. Then the wily Waters sent up a juicy ball which Mr. Smith tried to square cut, but which he cut in halves instead, because it was an orange. With a good-humoured smile Mr. Smith calmly hit another four, and was then caught by Willoughby after making 40. Mr. Dunning soon followed him with four runs to his credit, and likewise Mr. Crouch tenderly stroking his duck.

Half an hour before six o'clock Mr. Leak took over the job of umpiring from Mr. Laurie. The remaining batsmen did not last long and the Gentlemen were exterminated.

INTERCOLLEGIATE TENNIS

The annual Intercollegiate tennis match was played on the Memorial Drive Courts, on Wednesday, March 25. Although the weather was fine, a cold gusty breeze made conditions unpleasant for both players and spectators alike.

The first round saw Sumner-Baker playing Saints' third pair, Wilson-Bishop. In the first set Saints' drew level at 5 all, but Princes won the deciding game, and took the next set easily to win 6-5, 6-1. The second pair, Conigrave-Southwood, lacked confidence in serving, smashing and volleying against Kerr-Wells and lost the first set 3-6. Conigrave-Southwood improved their overhead play, but still lost the second set 4-6. Shearer and Taylor were pitted against Saints' first pair and Shearer played excellently to hold three of his services. Bowman-Fox however, were too strong and won 6-2, 6-1.

In the second round, the 4th, 5th and 6th singles were played. Southwood began uncertainly against Wilson and lost the first set 3-6. He gained confidence in the second set, which he took 6-4, with well-placed shots. Wilson was too steady in the third set, and ran out winner 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. Taylor kept level with Wells until 5 all, and then dropped his serve to lose the set 5-6. Wells proved too strong in the second set which he won 6-2. Against Bishop, Shearer served well to win the first set. In the second he ran to a 3-0 lead, but by hitting hard and retrieving many difficult shots, Bishop won the next six games. Bishop's tactics tired Shearer, and he lost the rubber 6-4, 3-6, 4-6. At the end of the second round, Saints led 5 rubbers to 1.

After lunch, an excellent match was seen between Sumner-Baker and Bowman-Fox. Our pair seemed too cautious in the early games, and with Bowman serving accurately, Saints took the set 6-2. However, with Baker volleying well and Sumner serving beautifully, the Princes pair won the second set 6-2. In the final set, Bowman-Fox combined very well and won 6-2. Conigrave-Southwood outplayed Wilson-Bishop in the first set, but Saints recovered to win the second set. Our second pair regained confidence in the final set and won 6-3, 2-6, 5-7. In the rounds so far played, it was noticed that two of the first year Intercollegiate players in particular, were affected by nervousness and lack of confidence, and their play consequently suffered.

The highlight of the fourth round was the match between the two captains, Sumner and Bowman. Both players were serving and volleying powerfully, and although Sumner aced Bowman twice in one game, the Saints' captain broke through Sumner's service and won the set 6-3. Sumner cleverly forced Bowman into errors by varying his length and pace, and looked like winning the second set when he broke the opposition's service. Bowman fought back, and by passing Sumner consistently, won 6-4. Baker played consistently against Fox to win the first set, but just lost the second set 5-6. With good placement and clever position play, Baker forced Fox into error, to win 6-2, 5-6, 9-7. In the third single, Conigrave played the diminutive Kerr, and surprisingly lost the first set 2-6. Conigrave was not volleying well, while Kerr succeeded in getting practically everything back, to win the second set 6-3.

Sumner-Baker, in the fifth and final round, defeated Saints second double 6-4, 6-4; while Conigrave-Southwood were not strong enough for the powerful Saint's, first double, Bowman-Fox who won 6-3, 6-1. Taylor-Shearer were unlucky not to take the second set against Wilson-Bishop, Saint's third pair, but won the match 6-5, 5-6, 6-3.

Saints, and in particular, Bowman, are to be congratulated in winning an excellent contest. For Princes, our captain, Sumner, deserves congratulations for his play and for the way he captained the side.

Thanks are also due to Mr. Luke and to Mr. Alan Morris from the team, for the interest they have taken and the useful advice they have imparted.

Final Scores—

S.P.S.C.	10 rubbers 24 sets
P.A.C.	5 rubbers 13 sets

Critique

Sumner, C. B.—A hard-hitting left-hander of great promise. Plays an excellent doubles game and has improved his singles play considerably. Sound serve and backhand, with excellent forehand. Congratulations on being captain for the second time.

Baker, K. J.—A steady player with a sound backhand and forehand. Service steady and well placed. A good singles player, but lacks power in shots in doubles play. Congratulation on Intercoll. singles performance.

Conigrave, M. C.—A steady player who lacks confidence. Good top-spin forehand. Must improve second service. Needs strenuous practice to produce his best form.

Southwood, D.M.—A forceful player with unorthodox, but good service. Lacks concentration in double play, and must improve his smashing. Reliable forehand and sliced backhand. Has worked earnestly and well in his preparation for Intercoll.

Taylor, D. H. G.—Sound forehand and service but is inconsistent in singles play. Did not show to advantage in Intercoll. owing to faulty volleying and smashing. Poor position play handicapped his attacks at net.

Shearer, R. C.—A reliable serve and forehand. Backhand needs improving. A good fighter but erratic in his play. Should now gain confidence and make all-round improvement.

SCHOOL TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP 1953

This year the School Championships were played with the usual keenness and good sportsmanship. Sumner, of course, was favourite and several close matches were played.

In the quarter finals, Southwood was extended by Taylor but won 9—8. Shearer unexpectedly defeated Conigrave 9—7, and Baker and Sumner both had easy wins.

Sumner won his semi-final in straight sets whilst Shearer lost to Baker in three sets. Thus the number one and two singles players of the school played off in the final.

By consistent play Baker won the first set 6—3.

Sumner retaliated by taking the second set 6—4.

The final set was well worth watching and Sumner was hard pressed to win 7—5. Congratulations to the Tennis captain.

HIALMAR'S HEART

Translated from Leconte de Lisle

The night is calm, the icy wind doth blow
O'er thousand heroes couched on bloody snow,
With sword yet held and wild eyes staring still.
Above a flight of black crows' cawing mill.

On distant earth the moon pale light doth shed.
Hialmar rises from the blood-bathed dead
On broken blade supported by both hands:
The crimson flood of combat streams from wounds.

Has any one from the glad fellows strong
Still left a mite of breath? This morn the throng
With lusty heartiness did laugh and sing
Like blackbirds on thick bushes in the spring.

"All now are dumb. My helm is broke, is split,
My armour, nails by axe were torn from it.
My eyes are bleeding, murmurs vast I hear
Like to the howl of wolves, or sea not near."

"Here, raven, eater brave of men you guide;
With iron beak my breast force open wide.
Tomorrow we shall not be as we are.
To Ylmer's daughter bear this heart afar.

"To Upsal where the warriors good ale drink
And sing, as jugs they dash with golden clink,
Away fly swiftly, prowler of the heath;
To my betrothed I my heart bequeath."

"A-top the tower haunted by the crows,
Tall she stands there: her long hair sable blows;
Two purest silver rings hang from her ears
Her eyes shine brighter than the clear night's stars.

"Tell her, dark messenger, my queen is she
And that this is my heart, and she will see
That it is red and true not pale and vile.
Go raven; at your gift my love will smile."

My body now doth die. My time is done,
My spirit through my wounds has almost run.
Drink my blood, wolves. Brave, gay, free, pure and young,
To sit with gods, I fly hence to the sun.

LAND SPEED RECORDS

The present world land speed record is held by John Cobb and it was made on the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah, U.S.A. As the name indicates, these flats are the bed of a dried-up salt lake, 4,400 feet above sea-level. They are 45 miles long and 10 miles wide and the depth of salt is 4 feet. (It is 98% pure). At night and in the early morning the flats are bone-dry, but in the heat of the sun they become damp and almost mushy. Thus the best times are at night (for sports cars fitted with lights) and early morning (for racing cars with no lights). The salt grains are crushed under the tyres instead of tearing as the sand grains do.

Cobb's car was a Napier-Railton weighing approximately seven tons. It had eight wheels, four of which were used to drive the car and four to help support it. Two Napier aero engines of 1,250 H.P. each were used, one drawing each pair of wheels. A three speed gear box without a clutch was fitted. A free wheel was used instead.

The car takes seven miles to reach its maximum speed, then it passes through the one mile timing trap and then has seven miles to stop.

Two-way runs must be made to counteract any effect wind may have on the maximum speed. The average of these is taken.

A truck pushed the car until it was travelling at 20 m.p.h. when first gear was engaged. At 140 m.p.h. second gear was engaged, and at 240 m.p.h.—third. The speed of the car was over 415 m.p.h. during the attempt, but the average lowered it to just about 400 m.p.h.

A great deal of time and expense goes into one of these attempts. Insurance has to be paid, as well as the flying ambulance which must be on hand. Ordinary transport would be too slow in case of an emergency. Much calculation has to be done as to the time of day to make the tests, the tuning of the engine and so on. The course had to be carefully hand-picked to remove anything, even a match stick. The tyres had to be very carefully balanced, for a little unbalancing force is greatly magnified at 400 m.p.h. The timing gear was very elaborate, losing only about one quarter of a second in 24 hours. P. R. Q., Vu A 1952

THIS YOUNGER GENERATION

One night when they had had their tea
Grandpa took Bob upon his knee.
Said Bob "Tell me a story sweet
Of buttercups and smoking peat
And fairies playing in the dell,
Hobgoblins, those who dance and yell,
With angry indignation."

"Pah! that is soppy stuff," said 'pa,
"Such fantasy is sillier, far,
Than even brave and handsome knights
Who looked, I think, most ghastly sights.
Now you take me when I was young
Alas! no tales of me are sung.
Alone, I fought a nation.

You modern boys are pampered pets
Your idols being high-power'd jets.
Now who would dare to climb Mt. Blanc?
Or lift a full-sized charabanc?
When I was young I slew a lion
Armed only with a piece of iron
And strong determination."

"Dear Grandpa, I have found a photo
Of you at four in a De Soto
In sailor suit you did look nice
And Oh! that face and look of ice!
I can't imagine such a softy
Climbing even low Mt. Lofty.
Vive, the younger generation!"

INSECT THERMOMETERS

Insects, like all cold-blooded animals, are very sensitive to temperature, and the variations in the noises made by some are almost as reliable as a thermometer. Some interesting studies made by an American observer and recorded in "Natural History" (1949, vol. 58) show that with one particular species of cricket the rate of chirping follows the rise or fall in temperature so accurately that it can be used as a thermometer.

The observer—Mr. Cleve Hallenbeck—reported that he was able to give the exact temperature after listening to the chirps of the crickets for a few seconds. He found that in the case of the Snowy Tree Cricket, also called the Temperature Cricket, the number of chirps it gave in fourteen seconds, added to forty two would give the exact temperature. Thus if it chirped forty times in fourteen seconds, the thermometer would read eighty two degrees. Another species of cricket, unidentified except by its voice, was such an accurate thermometer that in a two hour test in which the temperature fell from seventy seven to seventy one degrees, the difference between the thermometer recording and the temperature indicated by the cricket was never more than a quarter of a degree. With this insect, the temperature was obtained by adding forty-six to the number of times it chirped in fourteen seconds.

The Katydid, the green tree-dwelling relation of the cricket is another reliable thermometer. This winged insect is so named in imitation of its curious call. Mr. Hallenbeck found that, if the temperature is above seventy seven degrees, the Katydid eagerly cries "Kay-tee-did-it," stressing each syllable. Between 74 degrees and 75 degrees it drops the accent on the last syllable, and so contradicts its previous remark with "Kay-tee-didn't." About seventy degrees the call becomes "Kay-tee-did," about sixty-seven degrees "Kay-tee-didn't," about sixty-five degrees "Kate did," about sixty-one "Katy," about fifty-eight degrees "Kate" and below fifty-six degrees the Katydid says nothing at all.

Other insects are guides to temperature for those who know their habits, but few are as reliable as the crickets. Below fifty-seven degrees honeybees gather into a buzzing, compact mass to keep themselves warm. Below fifty degrees they are irritable and almost vicious, but above eighty-five degrees they are almost friendly. Mr. Hallenbeck reported that almost all noise-producing insects are mute below forty degrees (some even below sixty-five degrees) and above a hundred and six degrees. He also stated that, apart from the malaria-bearing mosquito, he has never seen an insect flying when the temp. was below fifty degrees.

It is necessary to mention here that Mr. Hallenbeck's observations were made in the U.S.A., and the figures quoted may not apply exactly to crickets in Australia. But readers who have a watch, a thermometer, and a flair for research could easily make their own investigations into the behaviour of our own insect thermometers.

AN AUTUMN DAY

It is one of those beautiful Autumn days—warm, calm and cloudless. It is one of those days which all nature enjoys. The peppermint gums are flowering in the hills; it is Easter.

On the plain the general impression is one of dullness. The drab browns and buffs have nothing to compensate for their lack of visible beauty. But as we push further into the scrub, there is a difference. True, the rough, dark trunks and grey-green foliage of the peppermints are not very beautiful, the rocky, almost bare ground is not as inviting as the smoother, softer soil of the plain. But there is a greater variety—the brighter greens of an occasional wattle, the striking blue-grey limbs and splendid stature of a blue-gum, and the brighter, bushier appearance of the peppermints, chopped down years ago and now regrown, afford welcome relief to the eye.

But there is another, subtler difference. Or is it so subtle? Here is a patch of dry grass under a tree. Let us lie down, and listen. Of course! It is the music—the low soothing, drowsing hum of thousands of bees, the varied and beautiful calls of the restless greenie, the more mundane, but none the less striking call of a tree-creeper as he planes from the top of one tree to spiral up the next, the high-pitched, monotonous call-note of the active little diamond bird are interspersed with the song of a thrush, a song so beautifully clear, so sweet and so mellow as to defy the imagination of any writer trying to reduce it to mere words. It is this music, finer than all the artificial music of man, which lends so ordinary a scene such magic that it will linger on and on in the memory as beautiful.

And now comes the greatest treat of all. A pair of whistlers alight in a tree close by us, and, repeatedly flying between it and another smaller, bushy tree, render such a concert as we never have heard before. Their song is not as mellow as the thrush's, it lacks that deeper feeling, but as the liquid stream of clear, varied and ranging melodies, with their musical whips-cracks, floods and fills the air, it is every bit as beautiful. And whereas the thrush sings only now and again, the delightful music of the whistlers is continuous, seemingly never-ending.

There is the artist himself, neat and impressive with his grey back, white throat, black band and rufous chest. He opens his beak, and that pure white throat heaves as a torrent of joyful music pours out, echoing through the scrub the joy, the beauty and the freedom of nature.

"GETTING ON IN THE WORLD"

George Perkins lived in one of those picturesque English villages which entice so many American tourists and their dollars to that country every year. He was a teller in a bank—J. W. Swithin's Bank to be precise, and disliked his position intensely. It was not that he did not like the work, or his surroundings but the cause of the trouble seemed to be J. W. Swithin himself. The entire wealth of the small but prosperous community was under the care of this notable man and he was acutely aware of his position and influence, so much aware, that he had successfully become Mayor, President of the Progress Society, Secretary of the Businessman's Club, and head of a dozen and one other institutions and societies of this nature. He regarded George as vastly inferior to himself, and greatly enjoyed the power he held over the unfortunate teller.

One morning early in May, J. W. Swithin swaggered into the teller's box and began his usual complaints about the untidiness of the ledger. George felt all his hatred for this pompous little man mount up inside him. Suddenly he raised his fist and J. W. Swithin sank senseless to the floor, his cold mocking eyes firmly closed.

Several years had passed. Walking down the main street of Bloomsbury Village was a dignified, middle-aged gentleman, who turned in at an establishment with "George Perkins & Co., —Bankers," printed in gold letters on the window.

He made his way to the Manager's Office where he sat down in a swivel chair, lit a cigar, and heaved a sigh of satisfaction. "Yes," he thought, "I conducted the Official Opening of the New Bloomsbury Hospital admirably." His gaze turned to the thick ledger which lay on his desk, and he viewed the blots and smudges with disgust. He rose from his seat and marched down the corridor to the new teller, Bob Greenway. "Greenway," he roared, "don't you know how to keep a ledger decently yet?" The young man turned at the sound of the familiar voice, and George immediately noticed the odd expression in his eyes. As a matter of fact it was the last thing he noticed for several hours to come. He eventually woke up in the Bloomsbury Hospital, which he had opened so splendidly earlier in the day.

THE TIGER

Silent footed, quiet as night,
Sharp of tooth and fleet as light,
Hunter roaming far and wide.
Dauntless still, the tiger.

Moving o'er the earth so brown,
Climbing up and climbing down,
Following his fearful prey,
Tireless is the tiger.

Lord of jungle, beast of might,
None can match him in fair fight.
Much respected held in awe,
Matchless yet, the tiger.

Carefully he stalks his prey,
Ever cautious night and day,
Till at last he ends the chase,
Pitiless the tiger.

AN HISTORICAL LANDMARK

Recently, while I was spending a holiday at Pt. Elliot I noticed an obelisk situated in a conspicuous position on the top of a nearby hill. In 1852 this obelisk, on Freeman's Nob, was erected. It brings to memory the days long since gone, when ships with wind-filled sails moved majestically across the ruffled sea.

In those days, when the sea was rough and it was dangerous for ships to enter the bay, a blue flag was hoisted on this structure, which was visible, on a clear day, for ten miles. Pt. Elliot has long since been abandoned as a port, because of the danger of surf and rocks encountered upon entering this bay. As many as six ship-wrecks have occurred here.

This land-mark has for over a century defied the elements, and still stands, for all to see, an example of good, solid workmanship.

BACK-YARD WARFARE

How strong was the old war-like spirit which used to overwhelm my poor, frail conscience when I was at that very young age associated with the craze of dirt fighting! What a thrill it was when with eager eyes, flushed, dirty face and ruffled hair I would stoop to pick up another clod of dirt and hurl my rude yet effective missile at the enemy.

Thus it was that, as soon as afternoon school was over, the boys, armed with toy pistols and tommy guns, would hasten to our back-yard and take up their positions on either side of the battle ground. Then each gang prepared itself by gathering together small lumps of dirt, strictly free of stones.

Someone would then shout "Charge" and promptly obey his own order by rushing at the opposing side, shouting war cries and deliberately throwing clods of dirt at the faces of his enemy. This onslaught would be met by a similar barrage of dirt-bombs from those of the enemy who were prepared, and a hail of pugnacious, sarcastic and plaintive remarks from the unprepared.

As I have said, the strongholds were situated on either side of the yard. One was between an orange tree and the fence. Bombs were thrown over and from either side of the orange tree. The clods of dirt thrown at and by the fighters of this garrison left the garden on one side of the orange tree a churned up bed of dried dirt and vegetable matter, and the plum tree on the other side a scraggy structure of partly leafless and broken twigs set on a most unattractive dirt-covered bole. Mention need not be made of the state of the grape vine along the fence and the orange tree itself after the battle.

The other fort had its place on a small mound of red clay. On the side of this mound is an apricot tree and this, while it supplied ideal ammunition, with the rest of the garden, received the same treatment as the plants on the other side of the yard. Strangely enough, three of the four panes in the window of the shed nearby still remain.

Long and fierce were the battles. Attacks were made from many directions by soldiers of both sides. Dirt exploded magnificently in the trees, sending up clouds of dust, while fruit, leaves and twigs fell confusedly but gloriously to the ground. It exploded on the garage and fence, leaving patches of dirt on the ground, so that comet-shaped masses of dirt told the direction in which the bombs had been thrown and gave evidence to the fierce way in which the battle was being waged.

There were scenes of gallantry, heroism and humour, while all taking part fought with great zeal until the end. Sometimes the end came abruptly when a familiar, small blue car might be seen making its way up the drive and the once undaunted soldiers would flee. Sometimes the battles just faded away as the numbers diminished. A brief argument concerning the result of the battle would ensue, after which those still remaining would depart, leaving the yard, once resembling a garden, a confused, down-trodden patch of mineral and vegetable matter, with a veil of dust trying vainly to conceal it.

MY FIRST AIR JOURNEY

A distant relation who was staying with us while in Adelaide was talking to me about his home town, Pt. Lincoln, when he enquired whether I should like to return home with him when he left the following week. I jumped at the chance, for not only had I neither travelled by air nor seen Pt. Lincoln before, but the Christmas holidays were being as dull as they usually are when one spends them at home. I immediately rang the airways office and booked, and the holiday plans were complete.

Then followed a week of somewhat nervous misgivings and intense excitement, brought to a climax by the feverish, last-minute packing which seems to have become a part of all holidays. At last the moment I had been awaiting came, and at 7.30 a.m. I arrived at the Airways Office and was weighed along with my luggage. A large bus then took us out to the airport. This part of the trip was, I think, the worst, for not only were there all the apprehensions of a new adventure but I also chose then of all times to remember a few things omitted in the packing.

By the time we reached the airport, had our tickets checked and boarded the plane, my stomach was in such a turmoil and I felt so weak that I was barely able to walk.

Finally it came. We taxied into position and after fastening our safety belts and being given barley sugar by a most comforting hostess, we seemed to float away and cars became ants, houses became stones and roads threads of neatly woven string. Adelaide became Toy-town and all seemed small and insignificant as we flew far from earth, high in the heavens.

We were soon over St. Vincent's Gulf, bounded on either side by white coastline; a wisp of cloud drifted by and it seemed we had surely left all ugliness behind. Suddenly "Thump." We sank down about five feet, I believe, but to me it seemed fifty. In a short time we passed over Yorke Peninsula dotted with farm-houses and white salt lakes. Again we floated over the deep blue of the sea, this time Spencer Gulf with more white-capped waves and white coastline on either side. We were now flying at a height of a little over seven thousand feet and travelling at about one hundred and fifty miles an hour.

Then, after fifty minutes' flying we came in sight of Pt. Lincoln with its most beautiful blue harbour; it was a splendid sight indeed. We gradually sank lower and lower until after more barley sugar we landed. After sighing deeply I looked restfully at the much-screwed paper in my hands, and wiped the drops of perspiration from my face. We were there. All my fears of flying had been groundless and I was about to begin a delightful holiday.

YAHL

About six miles east of Mt. Gambier by road, a traveller, if he is heading that way, will come upon Yahl. Sometimes it is pronounced as "Yarl," "Yal," or in numerous other weird ways but the correct pronunciation is "Yawl." This is an aboriginal name meaning 'water.' For not so far from the one and only general store is a spring, around which many native relics have been found.

Yahl is one of the three flourishing districts around Mt. Gambier, the others being Moorak and Milel. These districts flourish because their inhabitants keep dairy cattle on the wonderful volcanic soil, which ceases at about a four mile radius from the Mount itself.

The chief industry, as you will have guessed, is dairying, and a very profitable one too. Most farmers milk, on the average, sixty cows during the spring on their small farms of fifty to a hundred acres. During this period, the peak of the year, the Yahl Co-operative Cheese and Butter Factory handles approximately fifteen thousand gallons of milk a day from its one hundred and twenty local suppliers, who bring a variety of conveyances. In addition to this about one thousand gallons of milk are brought by trucks and semi-trailers from the neighbouring district—O. B. Flat.

All this milk is made into cheese and butter, which is sent to the town, and a semi-trailer load of cheese a week is sent to Portland for export. Another export sent from Yahl is meat. This comes from the adjoining factory, once owned by the Yahl Co-operative and now by Borthwicks. The factory, obtaining its beasts locally, supplies Mount Gambier's needs. Now all the town butchers have to have their animals slaughtered there.

Dairying is not the only industry. Perhaps you have heard of the new flax mill. At the present time there is a fifty acre block near the proposed site containing about seventy large stacks. These are from last season and the season before. The farmers grow flax as a sideline, quite a profitable sideline too—£14/15/0 to £19 a ton was paid this year. One paddock yielded a beautiful crop of a hundred tons of flax.

Outside of the volcanic region, the sand occurs, and that is where I live. Quite a lot can be grown on the sand, but drift, caused by the September winds when the paddocks are fallow for greenfeed, is the biggest drawback. Once the seed is established it flourishes well. The Government has bought a few thousand acres, and has begun its pine-planting scheme. About four miles from the store is the quite large Government settlement, and it will be much larger when the pines grow.

When you hear Mt. Gambier mentioned, think of the surrounding districts, which provide most of the wealth, which the Blue Lake is said to hold.

BOAT TRIP IN MIDDLE HARBOUR

The day was all that we could wish for. By half past eight we had left our camp and were assembled at South Australian contingent headquarters eagerly looking forward to the events of the day. Our names were checked and we met the New South Wales sea scout who was to guide us to our destination. I almost forgot to tell you the details. We were sixteen South Australian sea scouts who were invited by a Sydney sea scout troop on a boat trip in their boats.

To continue, we left the Jamboree camp-site at Greystones, Parramatta, with our guide and were soon on an electric train speeding towards Sydney. We left the train at Wynyard Station and boarded a nearby bus bound for Castlecrag. The bus whirled us along, over the great bridge and through the winding suburban streets. In what seemed no time at all, we were at Castlecrag where we disembarked from the bus.

We walked about half a mile, firstly along a bitumen road, then down a gently sloping metal road between very modern and neat houses and finally down a steep track through fairly dense scrub. We emerged alongside the boatshed. In front of us was Sailors' Bay. Many fine yachts were moored in the undisturbed waters of the bay. Around the steep sides were dotted modern two-storeyed homes with their rock-gardens and boatsheds. From amongst the dense foliage came the continual chirping of innumerable cicadas.

Our guide led us into the two storeyed boatshed where we met the troop's scoutmaster. We went upstairs and changed into togs more suited for sailing than our uniforms. Our hosts provided us with lunch, then we rigged the twenty-seven foot whale boats ready for sailing. When all was ready, we were divided into two groups as there were two boats. We left the boatshed but, as there was hardly any wind, we had to tack for about a quarter of a mile until we were out into Middle Harbour. Then the breeze caught our sails, the boat leaned over and surged forward. We passed Long Bay on our right and were soon coming up to the Spit. We sailed under the Spit bridge, after grazing one of the supports, and around towards the Middle Head.

By now it had grown more windy and the sea was rougher. Past the Middle Head our boat began rocking up and down very erratically as the swells caught it. The waves were breaking over the bow and soon drenched those who were there. A ferry bound for Manly passed astern of us, gently rolling in the heavy sea. We were getting farther away from land and ahead of us were the steep cliffs of the Heads and the open sea. It was great fun sailing in the boat. The sails were puffed out with the wind, the water surging over the bow and the swells making the boat buck like a wild horse.

But, alas, we could not go on forever. Just outside the Heads we turned and made an uneventful run back to the boatshed. When the boats' gear was safely stowed away, we went upstairs and changed into our uniforms. We had some cake and cordial and, after thanking the scoutmaster and the scouts for a very enjoyable day, we slowly made our way back to Castle-crag. We boarded a Sydney-bound bus and were well on our way back to our camp, tired, wind-burnt but happy, because we had gained another day's valuable scouting experience, and had seen new places.

EASTER ISLAND'S STONE MEN

The hundreds of huge stone men that dot the slopes of Easter Island in the South Pacific were carved centuries ago by an unknown human race. Archaeologists have little enough to go on in attempting to solve the mystery of these strange figures.

Easter Island is a lonely spot, two thousand miles west of northern Chile and eleven hundred miles east of Pitcairn. When Dutch Admiral Roggeveen discovered the eight by fifteen mile island in 1772 several thousand natives populated it. Today the island has less than two hundred inhabitants. Many of the statues have toppled over, their red hats knocked off and rolled away. Some stand buried to their necks in soil. And present islanders know virtually nothing about the civilisation that produced the stone men.

Research has shown that the figures were cut from the soft rock in the sides of the island's volcano. The red hats that some of the stone men wore were cut from another crater. The rock is easily worked, and even with primitive tools the islanders could have produced approximately four hundred statues in a few generations.

The statues are all of the same pattern—up-turned face with Mussolini mouth, long ears, and hands almost meeting in front of the torso though they vary in height from three to forty feet. One unfinished figure, still on its back in the niche from which it was being cut is sixty-feet long and would weigh fifty tons.

Some of the statues apparently were intended as monuments to be placed on stone burial-platforms, some two hundred and sixty of which line the island coast. The burial platforms range up to three hundred feet in length. On them the stone men were placed in a single row, facing inland. But many of the men stand on the slopes of Raro Raraku, all facing west toward Polynesia.

The problem is how did the lost people transport and erect their statues. Legends say it was done by hundreds of men hauling on ropes of native hemp, with pebbles or seaweed to skid the great weights. As for the population that disappeared, it is known that in 1862 raiders carried away more than a thousand Easter Islanders, but after violent protests, a hundred were finally sent back.

So little is known about the island's history because the only records available are symbolised on wooden tablets, and unless science learns to interpret these symbols, the stone men of Easter must remain forever mysterious.

A Procession

A centipede is crawling through the city
Illuminated by torches,
By fiery, flickering torches,
Torches being drawn to one single centre,
A procession being drawn to one single centre,
Souls to the one Gracious Soul,
Christians to God.
Christians marching while the city
Is quiet.
Bishops, priests, and choirboys
Converging with laymen
To worship,
To worship in the cathedral,
To pray.

Faces, lit by flickering torchlight,
Move to the goal—
While thousands stare,
Bare-headed.
The bishop passes by
And trammies lift their hats,
Entranced.
Faces lit by torchlight,
By their souls,
The torches that never go out,
Converging,
Drawn to a centre by the souls,
Souls reflected on their faces by the never ending torches,
Christians drawn to God.

The Preparatory School

The Preparatory School starts the year with all its classes full and a staff that has only one new member. At the end of last year it said goodbye to Mr. P. A. Fuller, who in the one term he spent in the Prep. endeared himself to the boys of III B. We wish him well in his new school, Sydney Church of England Grammar School.

We welcome to the Staff Mr. M. P. Choate, B.A., who has joined us as a resident master. He has been given charge of II A. We hope that he will be happy with us.

When the Prep. School concert was held last year it was decided the proceeds would be used to start a fund to purchase a talkie projector. To the £60 raised then was added a gift of £55 from the Mothers' Club, about £30 raised by a picture evening organized by Mr. Fuller and a Trading Table run by the Mothers' Club and about £50 amassed by Mr. Kesting with class concerts and picture shows. Over £200 of the £300 needed having been raised we took delivery of a fine Bell and Howell projector which, we hope, will prove a valuable aid to the teaching in the Prep. School.

Towards the end of the year, all the classes in the Prep. School arranged picnics in the hills and at the beaches. III A and III B visited Loftia Park and made full use of the sporting and bathing facilities provided. III D and II A spent the day at Brighton where Mr. Kesting put his bathing box and boat at their disposal. II B, I A, I B and I C journeyed to North Glenelg, where they used as their headquarters the beach shack kindly lent them by Mrs. Ramsay. The children and a number of parents who accompanied them thoroughly enjoyed the day.

The P.A.C. Prep. School Mothers' Club

The Club decided that another meeting was desirable in the third term; so one was arranged at which Mrs. Huxley gave its members a most interesting and stimulating talk entitled "Women and Politics."

At the end of the year the Club arranged its Christmas Tree for the younger boys which was held at the same time as the Fathers and Sons Cricket Match and a display of work. The combined afternoon was a complete success and the innovation of having the Christmas Tree out of doors proved very effective.

The Preparatory School would like to record its thanks to the Mothers' Club for its sustained interest in, and great generosity towards the Prep. School.

Cricket

The Under 13 "B" team had a very successful third term, winning all its competition games. D. R. Oaten is to be congratulated on a most successful year, winning the Cricket Cup presented by Mr. L. O. Fuller and making over 400 runs and taking 40 wickets.

Early in December the Prep. were once again the guests of St. Peter's Prep. at a cricket afternoon. Six cricket matches were played of which our two grade VII teams and our Grade V team won theirs. In the tennis matches played we were not as successful, winning very few sets.

In the Fathers and Sons Cricket Match, the sons were easily victorious.

Collections

Collections for charities taken up in the Prep. last year amounted to £108-15-9. For the first month of this year our collections, including a special one for the British Flood Relief, already total £30-6-9.

Leaders

The leaders appointed for 1953 are: W. R. Phillips, captain; T. J. Fowler; K. D. Gogler; G. R. Hill; I. R. McKay; R. E. Thomas; R. G. Todd; R. J. Treloar; J. C. Walter and P. W. H. Woodruff. We congratulate them and wish them a successful year.

House Competition

The A. W. Welch Cup was won by Chapple House which proved itself vastly superior in work and games.

Cricket (First Term, 1953)

The Under 13 "B" team has played seven matches but has won only two of them.

Under 13 "B" 7 for 143, defeated Rostrevor "B" 43.

LITTLE SILK WORM

Little wriggling silkworm
Eating all day long,
Feeding on the mulberry leaves,
Getting big and strong.

Little wriggling silkworm
At last is satisfied;
He couldn't eat another leaf
Not even if he tried.

Little wriggling silkworm
Begins to make a thread,
And as he moves from side to side,
He nods his funny head.

Little wriggling silkworm
Is now in his cocoon,
He has finished all his work,
And he will change quite soon.

Little wriggling silkworm
Has had his little day,
He's turned into a little moth
And soon will fly away.

THE END OF THE YEAR

The year's exams are over
Vacation's almost here,
Our projects are all finished
The end of work is near.
Our brains are most exhausted
We've finished for the year;
So let's all join together
And give a great big cheer.

EXAMS.

It is a silly thing to do
To swot and swot till we turn blue,
But if we don't we're sure to fail
And 'neath the master's eye to quail
Who says, "your work's revolting."

For four long days we worked and worked,
And from our books we never shirked:
But after that we cheered and cheered
And over master's shoulders peered
To see the marks resulting.

Our pleasures lasted not for long,
And no one sang a triumph song,
The marks we got were very poor
As often they had been before,
The masters' words, insulting!

PROTECTIVE MEASURES

When in this dreary classroom
I stop to have a snooze,
I rudely am awakened
And asked, "How, which and whose?"

Then if I cannot answer,
Which usually is the case,
The teacher takes his cane down
And makes a dreadful face.

"Now, touch your toes," he orders
And then up goes his cane,
My ear detects a whistle
And then my rear, a pain!

So that is why I've built here
Up in the almond tree,
A weird old hut to snooze in,
It's called "The Snoozery."

Messrs. C. J. Glover, N. S. Angel and L. B. Shuttleworth have been appointed trustees to administer this fund, under direction of the Association Committee.

At the present time 2 boys and 1 girl are in attendance and receiving benefits of this fund: arrangements are in hand for another boy and 4 girls to commence respectively at the school and the Methodist Ladies College (or other alternative schools) during 1954.

All enquiries should be addressed to the Association Secretaries, 50 Grenfell Street, Adelaide.

RETIRING AND NEW COMMITTEEMEN

Dr. Cyril T. Piper who has retired from the Committee has been a very keen supporter of the school and association. He was the first President of the Old Scholars Athletic Club and did much towards its establishment. A vote of thanks to Dr. Piper for his services was recorded at the Annual Meeting.

Alan Crompton who was elected at the last Annual Meeting represents the third generation of that family and will be in closer contact with the younger members of this Association; we feel sure Alan can be relied upon to continue the excellent family record of service to the School and Association.

SCHOOL ENROLMENTS

Members are reminded of the urgent need to enrol intending scholars at the earliest possible date. Enrolments have already been made up to 1962. Don't delay; but make enquiries from the Headmaster now.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

Subscriptions for the year ending 30th September 1953, are now due, and members are requested to remit promptly to facilitate the work of the Association.

The work of the Association has increased considerably, and your co-operation by prompt payment of subscriptions (10/-) is requested.

PERSONAL

Congratulations to Frank Piper (President), Dr. D. R. W. Cowan (Vice-President) and to the following who assisted on various committees, namely R. B. Hone, Dr. C. Gurner, E. F. Hunwick, Dr. F. R. Hone and G. R. Battye—all Old Reds—on the outstanding success of the Davis Cup challenge round.

Gordon Schwartz (Port Pirie) retained his Country Tennis title defeating another Old Red in the final, Doug. Young from Wilkawatt.

Gordon Abbott, a former member of the Collegians Rugby Club was recently re-elected a vice-president of the S.A. Rugby Union.

The School Chaplain, Rev. C. J. Perry, is now a vice-president of the S.A. National Football League.

Dean Trowse and John Ducker played a prominent part in South Australia's first shield win in Sydney since the war. At a critical stage and after rain had fallen, they added over 100 runs. Trowse was eventually run out for 102 and Ducker was out l.b.w. for 54.

Clem Blanch was a member of the State team which played in the Australian Water Polo Carnival in Adelaide this year.

John Ducker who played in four cricket Intercol. made a sensational entry into Shield cricket. As wicket-keeper he had a hand in six dismissals in Queensland's first innings in the Adelaide match.

Colin Webb, a former State opening batsman, topped the aggregate in district cricket last season. His fine total of 738 runs has not been exceeded since the 1935-36 season, when ex-international C. L. Badcock scored 845.

Bill Johnson, a member of last year's Inter-collegiate tennis team, was selected as the junior member of State team which played in Perth recently.

Len Clarkson played in his first district cricket match a few weeks after leaving school. He took a wicket with his first ball, bowling H. B. Wilsmore, well known as a senior master at Scotch College.

Brian Pittman (Kensington) and John Lill (University) were both well up on the averages and aggregates in district cricket last season. They should be strong contenders for a place in the State team next season.

Jack Hill, a former master, has been selected in South Australia's King Cup crew. This will be the fourth occasion on which he has rowed in this race.

Harry Shepley of Clifton Street, Goodwood, recently celebrated his 85th birthday, but still enjoys his game of pennant bowls at Millswood.

Fred Catt has been playing Baseball since 1939 and was a member of the State team in the recent Interstate night games against New South Wales.

Doug. Verco and Bob Kemp were two old boys who turned out early on the morning of the 22nd February, with the Royal S.A. Yacht Squadron, to welcome the new Governor, as the P. and O. liner Strathmore was berthing at Outer Harbour.

Dean Trowse (66) and Brian Pittman (73) figured in a fourth wicket partnership of 110 runs for Kensington in the cricket final against Sturt. This was a very material factor in Kensington's five-run victory.

John Stephens, a former Hone medalist and Amateur Interstate player, has recently been elected one of the Amateur League selectors for the carnival to be held in Adelaide this year.

Peter Dalwood, captain of the Old Collegians Cricket team was selected in the combined Turf Association team, which played against a combined "B" grade side.

In the recent State Bowls Championships, Ron Fewings was a member of a Grange rink, which achieved the rare feat of scoring eight in one end.

TENNIS MATCH v. SAINTS

The game was played on Wednesday, 26th March at St. Peter's College. This Association was very ably represented by M. Newcombe, G. R. Battye, D. Rowe, H. Welch, A. Morris, D. Babidge, R. Hill and P. Millhouse. The match, consisting of eight doubles rubbers, proved to be very exciting, as two odd sets, finally decided the issue. Battye and Newcombe in their second double, lost the third set 5-6 as also did two young players in Hill and Millhouse, both pairs putting up a great fight. The final scores were P.A.O.C. 4 rubbers 10 sets, S.P.O.C. 4 rubbers 8 sets.

BOWLS MATCH v. SAINTS

The Annual Match against St. Peter's Old Collegians was played on Wednesday, 4th March at South Park. The weather was perfect and the greens in excellent order.

The presence of more spectators than usual added to the success of the evening. Ten rubbers were played: Princes winning on 6 rinks, Saints on 2 rinks, whilst 2 rinks finished 21 all. The final scores finished 248 to 202 in favour of Princes.

At the conclusion of the game, supper was provided for players and spectators. During supper, Mr. Maurice Brown for Saints, congratulated Princes on their win, and the Association President (Mr. R. W. M. Johnson) suitably responded. We should like to record our appreciation and thanks to the South Park Bowling Club for once again allowing us to have the match played there.

FOOTBALL CLUB

This year, the Football Club is again fielding two teams in Amateur League in Grades A1 and A4. Practices are being held at the School Oval on Tuesdays and Thursdays and any new players will be warmly welcomed.

This season's prospects look promising and the teams will be pleased to see more Old Red barrackers along at their matches.

Further information may be obtained from the Club Secretary, Bob Griggs (UX 2081), Allinga Avenue, Glenside.

RUGBY CLUB

The Old Collegians Club fields a side in the S.A. Rugby Unions First Grade competition, and is endeavouring, wherever possible to encourage the younger men to take their places in the team. Young footballers can benefit a great deal by playing in the Old Collegians Club, and they will really enjoy the vigorous sport and pleasant social life.

Geoff. Hone, an Old Boy of Prince's and Cranbrook (N.S.W.) is this year's captain, and the Club has prospects of at least two or three of its players being included in the State side.

All Old Boys—it doesn't matter if you haven't played before—who like the spirit of Rugby football are invited to attend practice on the back oval at Princes on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 5.30 or ring the Secretary, David Rogers (UA 1126), 25 Tutt Avenue, Kingswood.

BOWLS SOCIAL EVENING

This was to have been played on Wednesday, 4th February at the Toorak Club Rinks. A heavy downpour of rain between 5.30 and 6.30 p.m. unfortunately caused the match to be abandoned. The Committee regret that it was not possible at that late stage to notify members, nor to arrange another suitable evening, as the annual match against Saints (reported elsewhere) was due to be played in a few weeks time. The Toorak Club very kindly made its Club Rooms available for the evening and those who came along were able to play billiards and cards. The ladies committee (Mesdames R. W. M. Johnson, R. C. Hall, N. A. Walsh, D. A. Clarkson, R. J. Coombe and Harold Shuttleworth) deserve our special thanks for the fine floral decorations and the excellent supper. After supper, the President of the Association (Mr. R. W. M. Johnson) proposed a vote of thanks to the Toorak Bowling Club and Mr. R. J. Coombe (an Old Red) President of the Club responded. Mr. Coombe said he hoped to see everyone there next year, that the weather would be more satisfactory and that we were always welcome to use the club green for this function.

CRICKET CLUB

The Old Scholars cricket team was again a participant in the Adelaide Turf Cricket Association which has just recently concluded, finishing seventh on the premiership list.

At the commencement of the season, Peter Dalwood was re-elected captain and finished top of the batting averages. The Secretary is Lloyd Letcher (LA 0201 business, or U 3307 private) who would be pleased to hear from any intending players for next season.

The following are the main batting and bowling averages:

ATHLETICS CLUB

The Club this season has made satisfactory progress. Though limited in numbers its members were successful at the Saturday afternoon inter-club competitions, and finished in fifth position in "B" Grade.

In the State competitions the Club recorded a number of wins, and also some very good placings.

There are at present about ten members, and as we have some of the best equipment and facilities in the State the club would welcome any interested athletes who would be willing to take part or compete with the club.

As one of the main functions of the club is to foster athletics at the school, the secretary would be pleased to hear from any present scholars who would be interested in competing with the team in the third term or after they leave school.

The President is Doctor B. M. Jolly, and all inquiries should be made to Bob Skinner, phones LA 3381 (business) or F2164 (private).

Re-union Dinners

PORT LINCOLN

A most successful Dinner was organised by the West Coast Branch, and was held last November at the "Pier Hotel," Port Lincoln.

Glen Walkom and Walter Rankine are to be congratulated on their organisation in getting together a record gathering of over 50.

Mr. Dunning attended representing the School. The President, Mr. Lawrence, and the Treasurer, Mr. N. S. Angel represented the Association, whilst Messrs. Pearson, Clarkson, Ryder and Hassell also made the trip over from Adelaide in an unofficial capacity.

An excellent dinner was served, and the usual toasts proposed and seconded with considerable humour.

A close friend of the Association, Gordon Beer, showed pictures during the evening of Lincoln and its surroundings. A fishing excursion was arranged for the visitors from Adelaide at Coffins Bay on the Sunday. West Coast members look forward with pleasure to a similar successful function this year.

SOUTH EASTERN

It was intended to hold this function at Bordertown this year, but as it has been found impracticable to do so, the Dinner will be held a date and at a place to be advised. Members desirous of attending are asked to communicate with Dr. H. R. Oaten of Mount Gambier.

The Annual Report discloses a very active and successful year, with a total of 59 financial members.

The untiring Secretary, Ray Miller has had a very busy year with numerous successful functions, and the financial statement shows a credit balance of £25 7 9.

Wesley College Boat and Boat Shed Fund

During the year Wesley College was admitted to the Public Schools association of W.A. and old Reds undertook to assist in raising funds for the above purpose. Their efforts were most successful. The total amount from donations and proceeds of a stall at the Wesley College Fete conducted by Old Collegians was £80 17 0—a very fine effort.

Annual Cricket Match v. Saints

A Joint Sundowner was held on 30th January, the day preceding the match and there was a splendid attendance of 50, (27 Saints, 23 Princes) and was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

The match was played on Christ Church Grammar School Oval, Claremont on Saturday 31st January and resulted in a win for Princes on the 1st innings (the 2nd inings resolved itself into more of a picnic match when Saints batted out time for 157).

A comprehensive and enjoyable series of entertainments and trips was arranged by Mr. R. J. B. Miller (Branch Secretary) and his untiring efforts in connection with the interesting programme were greatly appreciated.

The following Old Boys from South Australia were entertained at a "Sundowner" during Show week on 10th October; Tom and Eric Ashby, Hall, Ernest and Laurie Dawkins, Leo Lang and A. C. Trestrail.

On the 8th January a most enjoyable Sundowner was held at the Plaza Hotel, Perth, at which 18 Old Scholars were present. On this occasion one of the Association Joint Secretaries, Mr. Harold Shuttleworth who was in the West at the time, was entertained by the W.A. Branch. Mr. Peter Fuller who was also in Perth in charge of a party of boys from the School, and Mr. L. S. Walsh, who was holidaying in Perth, were also guests on this occasion.

VICTORIA

President : Mr. A. N. Dawkins, c/o Town Hall, Melbourne, Tel. JM 1511.

Secretary : Mr. John N. Bennett, Selborne Chambers, Chancery Lane, Melbourne, Tel. MU 7644.

Our "Intercolls"

In October last at Croydon Golf Links we defeated Saint's at golf in the first of the Intercolls. for the Victorian Old Boy's Shield. While the weather was not at its best, a very happy day was had by all. The second of the series was the Bowls held at the Victorian Bowling Club Links on the 1st April, 1953. Old Collegians assembled for dinner at the club at 6 p.m. and a festive air prevailed throughout the evening. Princes won, making us two up in 1953 and the cricket to play, Saints are organizing the cricket which it is expected will be held early in May.

Christmas Function

At the home of Mr. and Mrs Howard Manuel just before Christmas our Old Boys were once again given a very happy Christmas evening. It had been hoped to discuss plans for the proposed cricket match against Saints, but these discussions had to be postponed until Saints had obtained an oval. Members again appreciated the kind hospitality of their hosts and there is no doubt whatsoever of the fact that the evening was a very happy one. We thank Mr. and Mrs. Manuel very much indeed for their continued active interest in our welfare. Those present were George Cox, John Gilbert, Ken Gifford, John Bennett, Howard Manuel, Ern Dawkins, Norman Dawkins, Charles Crompton, Jack Williams, Gunney Parker, Dolly Gray and Graham Williams. Many others sent apologies because their children's school break-up night conflicted.

Luncheon for Adelaide Visitors

On Thursday the 26th March eight Old Collegians tendered to Messrs. L. B. and Claude Shuttleworth a luncheon at Menzies Hotel on the occasion of their trip to Melbourne. It had been hoped that the Intercoll. bowls would have been held during their stay, but at the last moment it had to be postponed for a week. The luncheon was attended by Harold Brennan, Norman Dawkins, Charles Crompton, Howard Manuel, W. W. ("Boss") Cooper, Roy Jackett, Harry Southwell and John Bennett. We were all very glad to have the opportunity of entertaining our respected visitors and the conversation seldom left topics concerning the Old School.

Personal

Neil Effick has graduated as Bachelor of Commerce of Melbourne University. A regular supporter of our association, Neil receives our hearty congratulations. As one of our younger Old Boys he was nevertheless keen to take part in the bowls contest a sport he has now added to the many others in which he has become proficient. His address is now 1 Turner Street, East Malvern.

Ray Buttery has been transferred to Perth as manager of Norwich Union. He was at our last annual dinner and members are delighted to hear of his promotion.

Once again Fred and Howard Jackett achieved the distinction unknown before, except when they did it last year, of two brothers representing Victoria at bowls in the same year.

Charles Crompton gives great assistance to this association. The committee and members appreciate his ready help and his sparkling personality. He is also first with news of all Adelaide Intercolls.

Dr. Ted Rosanove has returned from a trip to England and the continent. We hope he will recount some of his interesting experiences to us later.

We are grateful to our Adelaide President, Mr. Johnson, for his regular telegrams on cricket Intercoll. progress. On the final Saturday at 12:10 p.m. Melbourne Radio Station 3AW featured the results and gave them an excellent build up. Would all Victorian Old Boys please note that at this some time and station on the Saturday after an Intercoll. the scores will be featured if they are to hand. If we don't know them we can't tell you.

Frank Ellis has been nominated for a job in Egypt and is awaiting approval from the Egyptian Government before going to Geneva and thence to Cairo. After leaving School he went to North Queensland and later to Tasmania, before receiving his appointment in Melbourne.

NEW SOUTH WALES

The branch President is Mr. Jack T. Hiatt, Beatty Avenue, Balgowlah, N.S.W.

The Branch Secretary is Mr. E. A. Kesting, "Yanawa," 24 Loorana Street, East Roseville.

Christmas Cocktail Party and Farewell to Rex Dawe

On 10th December 1952, about 40 Old Boys attended a cocktail party at Cahill's Restaurant which provided an opportunity for members to meet before Christmas and at the same time to say farewell to Rex Dawe who left for England at the end of January. Rex plans to be away for about two years, during which time he will study all aspects of television, particularly in relationship to its eventual advent in Australia.

We called on Jack Hiatt, our President, and Ken Brown, our Vice-President, to express our good wishes to Rex, whose response was most entertaining and interesting. The evening was a pleasant and enjoyable one and proved a timely occasion for the exchange of Christmas Greetings.

Mr. Berry was a Chemist who started business in New South Wales in 1926 after having served his apprenticeship under the late J.B. Burden of Adelaide and gaining experience in hospitals and pharmacies in South Australia and later in New Zealand, South Africa and India.

He was very well and favourably known throughout the Pharmaceutical Profession in New South Wales. He was a Past President of the Pharmacy Board and also a member of the Federated Pharmaceutical Service Guild Committee.

Bernard Berry took a leading part in raising the status of the profession. He did outstanding work as a member of the Pharmaceutical Publicity Committee and an examiner of the Pharmacy Board.
