Editorial

In these times of busy commercialism, of political and international wranglings, when petty wars can drag on under the very noses of those who say that the recent frightening developments in atomic warfare ensure long and lasting peace, there are many dangers to be overcome. These dangers, physical, mental and spiritual, not only face those involved in world relationships, in political controversy, in business, but they also face the average schoolboy. There are for him the dangers of confining his life to an endless succession of work, sport and social activities with little time or inclination for such mind-broadening things as reading and thinking.

So next time you find yourself alone and in the mood, try a little serious thinking. Think about your religion, and don't be alarmed if it changes a little. A static religion is as good as a dead one. It must change to meet your changing demands. Think about Communism. Don't just condemn it because everyone else is doing so, but try and work out your own views. This latest problem posed by the hydrogen bomb, the future of the Earth—think about that. In short, think about anything important to every individual who hopes to be a decent citizen, fit for the heritage left him and the opportunities given him. The habit of thought breeds a desire for learning and knowledge, which in turn stimulates further thought. And for the time being don't specialize your thoughts too much. Time enough to cramp your mind with a limited outlook later.

Do this in the realization that at some future date you will be top man in commerce, you will be managing the economics of your country, you will play some vital part in the building up of a modern civilization which will resist all threats to its destruction and live on to make man at last worthy of the proud place he holds as Master of the Earth.

School Notes

The great event of the term has been, of course, the visit of Her Majesty the Queen and His Royal Highness, the Duke of Edinburgh to our State. Members of the School were well placed to see and greet them on the day of the Royal Progress and again at the great schools' demonstration at Wayville Showgrounds, where a group of boys from the Preparatory School took part in one of the items. Members of the School Cadet Unit had the additional privilege of lining the processional route on two occasions. With all Her Majesty's faithful subjects we have counted it an honour to be able to express to our Queen in person our loyalty and devotion.

At the beginning of the year we welcomed Mr. N. E. Peard, B.A., Mr. J. M. Tregenza, B.A., and Mr. P. M. C. Turnbull to the staff in the Big School, and Mr. D. Parrington and Mrs. C. T. Symons in the Preparatory School. Mr. Peard had been on the staff from 1945 until 1949, while Mr. Tregenza is an Old Boy.

The erection of a sliding partition in the detached wooden class-room has enabled us to separate Forms I B and I C, and therefore to accept an additional sixteen boys in the Preparatory School. This largely accounts for the increase in our roll number to 706, the largest in the School's history.

There are 489 boys in the Big School and 217 in the Preparatory School. The total number of boarders is 140. It is interesting to note that the numbers in the School Register have now passed 10,000; this number has fallen to R. L. Close, second son of Mr. M. D. Close, Master-in-charge of the Preparatory School and grandson of the late Rev. F. W. Close, who was also an Old Boy of the School.

Mr. Colin Hassell is now preparing detailed plans for a Class Room Block which will form the main part of the College War Memorial. It is hoped that tenders will soon be called and that the building will be completed by Old Boys' Week, 1955.

Two Intercollegiate contests, Cricket and Tennis, have been played since the last Chronicle was issued, and both have been won by S.P.S.C. The cricket was very even for two days, but on the third afternoon a large eighth-wicket partnership paved the way for a Saints' victory.

Friends and Old Boys of the School will be glad to know that our results in the 1953 Public Examinations were very good. Sixty boys gained the Leaving Certificate and seventy-two the Intermediate. The previous largest number of Leaving passes was forty-five and the average number for the last ten years was thirty-nine. The corresponding Intermediate figures are sixty-four and fifty-three.

Partial passes completed or passes gained at Supplementary examinations are not included in the figures. In addition the average number of passes per boy for all who sat was our best for many years in both Leaving and Intermediate. In the leaving the average was over half a subject per boy better than in any previous year. It was felt advisable to give these facts in view of the press publicity given this year to examination results.

The President, Mr. R. W. M. Johnson, and members of the committee of the Old Scholars' Association were visitors to a morning Assembly during Third Term. The President addressed the boys and after telling them something of the work of the Association, urged all boys leaving at the end of the year not only to join the Association but to take an active interest in its work.

Members of the Conference visited us at Assembly on Thursday, 4th March. Congratulations were extended to Rev. G. S. Wellington (a ministerial student at Prince Alfred College in 1916) upon his election as President. Mr. Wellington then addressed the school and was thanked by Mr. David Waterhouse, Secretary of the College Council.

The annual meeting of the Parents' and Friends' Association held on Friday, 26th March, was attended by a large number of parents. The retiring President in his report told of the help given to the School by the Association and this help was later gratefully acknowledged by the Headmaster in the course of his address. Officers for 1954 were elected as follows:

President: Mr. H. C. Williams.

Vice-Presidents: Mr. J. C. Piper and Mr. J. P. Motteram.

Hon. Treasurer: Mr. E. C. Perriam.

Hon. Secretary: Mr. A. L. Gniel.

Hon. Auditor: Mr. H. E. H. Mutton.

We acknowledge with gratitude the gift of more than fifty books from the library of the late Mr. Bernard S. Berry by his widow. Mr. Berry who lived in New South Wales for many years was always very interested in his Old School.

Student Christian Movement

The activities of the Student Christian Movement began this year with the formation of a committee consisting of B. V. Mickan, W. Rush, L. T. Schneider, M. E. B. Smyth, P. R. Stewart, F. J. W. Symons, G. D. Symons, D. J. Watson and R. H. Wicks.

The first speaker for the year was the Rev. F. Silwood, L.Th., who gave us an interesting and informative summary of the Bible, showing us the truths we can learn from the great book.

Our second speaker was the Rev. V. R.

Secombe who gave us an interesting address entitled "The Queen of Hearts."

At our third meeting, Rev. S. K. Wiseman of the Croydon Circuit was our speaker. The title of his address was "Who Are You?" Mr. Wiseman, after first analysing us as material beings, went on to show us our true worth and position in the world as the children of God.

We should like to thank the speakers who have given up their valuable time to speak to us. We assure them that their talks have not been in vain.

Speech Day

Speech Day was held at the School on Friday morning, December 18. The President of the Conference, Rev. W. Glen Clarke, addressed the gathering, and after G. C. Hall, the Captain of the School, had presented the Games Report, Mr. J. A. Dunning, M.A., M.Sc., the Headmaster, gave his report for the year.

This year, prizes were presented by His Excellency the Governor, Air Vice-Marshal Sir Robert George, K.B.E., C.B., M.C. In his speech, which he shortened because of the heat, His Excellency said that "the story of the School is one of courage and good leadership," and reminded us that school friendships are the longest and school ideals the best. He expressed his delight in being able to present the prizes, and emphasised something which the impending visit of Her Majesty inspired—that we should always set loyalty before us.

The President of the Old Boys' Association, Mr. F. H. Chapman proposed a vote of thanks to His Excellency.

HEADMASTER'S REPORT

Your Excellency, Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen.

I have the honour of presenting to you the report on the work of Prince Alfred College for 1953.

I would commence by extending a very warm welcome to Your Excellency. We, as loyal subjects welcome you as the representative in this State of Her Majesty whose visit next year will mean so much to us all. I rejoice that once again in South Australia we have in you, a Governor who comes to us from Britain, direct as it were from Her Majesty. I feel sure that this does much to preserve the bond that links us so closely to our Monarch and the Motherland. May I quote words spoken by a former Headmaster to one of your predecessors. "You, sir, represent much to us. You are one of the links that really do bind. You are a focus at which our loyalty to the throne can concentrate." We trust, sir, that your stay in South Australia will be a happy one, and we hope that you may be able to find time to visit us and see us at work.

The first part of my report deals with a matter dear to many of our hearts. During the year, the Council appointed Mr. Colin Hassell architect for the War Memorial Buildings. Sketch plans for a class room block for the senior school were prepared by Mr. Hassell, and these have been considered at several meetings of the Council. I am happy to be able to announce that last week approval of the general form of the sketch plans was given, and Mr. Hassell was instructed to prepare detailed plans and specifications for submission to the Council.

The block will stand between the present Memorial Building and Capper Street. It will consist of a two storey wing of ten classrooms, made up of eight form rooms, an art room, and a geography room. The new rooms are planned with generous dimensions to provide optimum conditions of comfort, seating, natural lighting and ventilation.

With the provision of these rooms it will be possible to use for other purposes some older classrooms which fall short of modern standards. In particular the three fourth form classrooms in the old main building will be converted into a School Library.

The number of secondary boys will not be greatly increased when the new rooms are available. I am certain that a secondary school of from 500 to 525 boys is large enough, and the Council agrees with this view. Our present secondary roll is about 480.

The War Memorial Fund now stands at about £27,000. When the appeal was launched, the sum of £25,000 was aimed at, and with this it was hoped to build not only the classroom block but also a library at the Preparatory School. Building costs have increased to such an extent that a much larger sum will now be required. There has been no active appeal for donations since the big fete over five years ago. I therefore feel confident that old boys, parents and friends will respond generously to the appeal that will be made now that there is every prospect of the building being commenced in the near future.

As usual, my review of the year's work starts with the 1952 Public Examinations results. In the Leaving Honours we had thirteen certificates, and places on the General Honours List were gained by P. S. Hambly, W. H. Taylor, D. W. Evans and B. W. Smith. Hambly was the only candidate in the State to gain credits in all five subjects. Forty-seven boys gained or completed their Leaving Certificate and seventy-six their Intermediate Certificate. Two boys, M. E. B. Smyth and M. G. Symons, gained Leaving Bursaries, fifteen qualified for Commonwealth Scholarships and three, G. D. Symons, R. N. Lithgow and D. A. T. Luke, gained Intermediate Exhibitions. D. A. T. Luke won the John Lewis Medal and Prize for Geography. The boys in the A form sat for a total of 254 Intermediate subjects and passed in 253 of them.

This year a good standard of work has been maintained in the examination forms. I. W. Hocking is Dux of the School and well deserves the honour. He has also played a leading part in the sport and general life of the school. The Leaving and Intermediate groups have many very good boys who will secure good passes, but, as usual, they have their share of boys who are not up to standard even though they have worked well. In quite a few cases, similar industry in their earlier secondary years would have done much to make them better candidates this year. I hope that the younger boys will take note of this for future reference.

Next year we shall have an additional teacher in the Preparatory School.

A folding partition has been built in the large detached classroom. This will enable us to have separate classes for Form IB (Grade 2) and Form IC (Grade 1). We shall continue our practice of having small classes at this stage as there will be only twenty and sixteen boys in these classes.

The excellent standard of work set in previous years in the Preparatory School has been well maintained. As usual, an inspector from the Department visited us in connection with the award of Progress Certificates. He concluded his report with the following general remarks. "I am very impressed by the standard of the work in this school. With the assistance of his loyal and able staff, Mr. Close is amply providing for the fullest educational needs of the boys under his care. I have enjoyed my visit." It is interesting to note that the first prize winners in all the secondary A forms except Leaving Honours are boys who came up from our Preparatory School.

Mr. W. A. Tregenza and Mr. G. T. Connell joined the staff of the big school in February. Both had been on the staff before and we were glad to welcome them back. Mr. Tregenza, Mr. Allison and Mr. Medwell are leaving us. Mr. Tregenza returns to his home in England, Mr. Allison plans to travel abroad, and Mr. Medwell intends to continue his studies at the University. In the Preparatory School Mr. Choate, who came to us in February is leaving. Their places have been filled and I am happy to report that Mr. N. E. Peard returns to the staff after four years in West Australia. Acting on medical advice, Mrs. Henderson, who has been the Housekeeper for over three years, has resigned. The school is grateful to all who are leaving, for their faithful service.

Dr. Cyril T. Piper resigned from the position of School Medical Officer at the end of the second term. We are deeply grateful to Dr. Piper for all that he has done for the school and particularly for the boarders during his eight years as medical officer. We were fortunate in securing Dr. Douglas G. McKay to replace Dr. Piper. Dr. McKay is an Old Boy and a former Captain of the School. We kept Dr. McKay and his partner Dr. Rischbeith quite busy during the first few weeks with a large number of cases of influenza. This was fortunately the only serious interruption to school work during the year, as we kept clear of the common infectious complaints that can do so much to disorganize school work.

At the beginning of the year, the number on the school roll was 682. Of these 482 were in the Secondary School. There were 118 Senior School boarders and 22 Preparatory School boarders. Once again we have not been able to accept many who wish to enter next February. The position is particularly acute in the Preparatory School and I must stress once more the necessity for making early application for enrolment.

The fees, both boarding and tuition, have not changed since the beginning of 1952. There will be no change for the first term in 1954, and the Council hopes that no increase will be necessary for the succeeding terms.

Last Speech Day I told you that the school kitchen was to be remodelled and furnished throughout with new equipment. That work was completed during the long vacation in time for the commencement of school. The cost was almost £10,000, but we now have a kitchen of which we can well be proud. Another carpenter was added to the full time outside staff earlier in the year. As a painter had been appointed to a permanent position a few months earlier, much progress has been made with general maintenance work.

Interest in the many and varied extra curricular activities has been well maintained. The Captain of the School, has read you the report on games. Our cadet corps, the largest in the State, has had a most successful year and did particularly well at the Coronation Day Parade and at the Final Ceremonial Parade, when they were inspected by an Old Boy, Brigadier J. G. McKinna. The shooting team won the Earl Roberts Trophy for S.A. units.

The Scouts have had one of their busiest years. A new boat has just been built for the Sea Scouts, while the shack at Mylor has been repaired at a considerable cost. The troop is indebted to all who helped in various ways to raise the large sum of money required for these undertakings.

The school concerts, both Preparatory and Senior School were very successful, while the Dramatic Society increased its reputation by its production of "The Happiest Days of Our Life" at the Norwood Town Hall. The War Memorial Fund benefited to the extent of £300 from the proceeds of the Plays and the Senior Concert. The choir has continued its good work while the work in the hobby groups has been well maintained.

I must pay tribute to the help given by Old Boys in the various activities of the School. Time does not permit me to mention them all by name but the others will forgive me if I record here the excellent service of Mr. Bruce Hockney, who coached the first football team. Mr. M. Q. Dunn found time to give valuable help in the work of the cadets, and similar assistance from other Old Boys would be appreciated.

The Old Collegians' Association, under the Presidency of Mr. R. W. M. Johnson, had a most active year, with Old Boys' Week an outstanding success. We congratulate Mr. F. H. Chapman on his election as President for the ensuing year.

We are proud of the fact that since last Speech Day Her Majesty has bestowed the honour of knighthood upon three Old Boys—Sir Philip McBride, Sir Shirley Jeffries and Sir Geoffrey Reed. Sir Geoffrey presented the prizes at our 1951 Speech Day. Sir Philip acted in a similar capacity in 1952, while Sir Shirley has for many years been a member of the College Council. Two other Old Boy members of the Council have had honours bestowed upon them. Mr. Frank Piper has been appointed a Queen's Counsel and Mr. J. Crompton a Chevalier in the Order of Merit Commercial.

It is a pleasure to tell you of the great help consistently given to the School by the Parents and Friends' Association, by the Preparatory Mothers' Club and the Scout Parents' Group.

We gratefully acknowledge the bequest made by the late Mrs. Adelaide Mary Bowman in her will of the sum of £700 for a scholarship. This will be awarded to a boy who is not attending or enrolled for Prince Alfred College. A boy whose circumstances, character and ability, in the sole opinion of the governing body of the College, warrant the award, will be selected.

The scholarship will entitle the holder to free board and tuition for three years. The sum available for this award has been supplemented by the gift of £150 by Mrs. Bowman's sister, Miss R. A. M. Shannon. Miss Shannon's generosity means that the increased fees now in operation will be covered, and the College expresses its gratitude to her.

The winner of this Scholarship will be announced within a few days.

For many years the VIB form prize was donated by the late Mr. P. E. Johnstone. We acknowledge gratefully a bequest by him to endow this prize.

We thank Mrs. Wilson for the gift of a prize in memory of her late husband, Mr. H. M. Wilson, who was a former captain of the school. It will be known as the Max Wilson Memorial Prize, and will be awarded to the most worthy boy in Leaving Honours who has passed through the Secondary School from the IVth forms, but has not previously received a prize at Speech Day.

It is now five years since I came to Prince Alfred College. Boys who entered the secondary school on my first day have completed their course. I can say that I have enjoyed my work in this school and I have grown to love your City and State. The staff and the boys have been largely responsible for this attitude of mind. This school is indeed fortunate in its staff, and I hope that it may long be served by such a band of men and women.

The boys may feel at times that the lot of a schoolmaster would be a happier one if boys did not exist. I can assure them that this is not so, and that most masters have a real affection, not always apparent, for those whom they teach. I myself owe much to the boys of this school.

To the boys who are leaving I would say that you are going out into life at a very interesting and challenging time. This year I have been much impressed again and again by the added interest youth is taking in the Church and its work. Many of you, but not all, are sharing in that added interest. What a fine thing it would be for you and for your country if you all shared in this added interest! In our own Church, the Mission to the Nation continues. The Church throws out a challenge to you all. May you face up to it, and may you all prosper in the work that lies ahead of you.

GAMES REPORT

Your Excellency, Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen,

It is my privilege and pleasure to present to you the Games Report for 1953.

This year has been one of our least successful in the realm of sport for some time, for of the four completed Intercollegiate contests with the "Blues" we were unsuccessful in all, in particular losing for the first time since 1944 the possession of the Tennis Cup. In the cricket match now in progress we have rather an uphill battle in front of us, but nevertheless, we are still hoping to score the necessary runs this afternoon.

The lack of success on our part is mainly due to the fact that very few of our representatives in last year's Intercollegiate teams returned to School. The result was that we were lacking in Seniors, and the younger members of our teams were hardly on even terms with their opponents. But for all this, enthusiasm has not been wanting.

Our first encounter with Saints was the tennis, played at the Memorial Drive, but unfortunately our run of victories came to an end. Congratulations to Saints on their fine win. They held the upper hand from the start, and although in the doubles matches we broke even with Saints, the singles proved to be another story. Congratulation to Baker, the only Princes boy to win his single, for a magnificent game. The Junior tennis teams have had a successful season, and in this sphere I would thank Messrs Luke, Dennis and Glancey for their help and guidance throughout the year.

In the House tennis held during the first term, Bayly and Cotton won their first round matches rather easily, and met in the final, the strong Cotton side running out comfortable winners. The Junior tennis resulted in a win for School House from Waterhouse and Cotton.

The School Championship was also held in the first term, and the two finalists, Sumner and Baker, contested a hard fought match. Our congratulations go to our Tennis Captain, Barry Sumner, who finally won 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

During the Christmas holidays the Eight commenced their training at Mannum in preparation for the Public Schools' Regatta. By winning the Metropolitan Regatta a fortnight before, the crew had high hopes of defeating Saints. After we had defeated Adelaide High School in the first heat by one and a quarter lengths, Saints and Scotch dead-heated in the second heat, and in the re-row later in the afternoon, they again dead-heated. This caused the second re-row and the final to be held on the following Tuesday. Saints defeated Scotch by two feet and then won the Gosse and Blackmore Shields by defeating a determined Princes crew by one-third of a length.

However, although we did not win the main race, it was a good day for P.A.C., for we won the Under 15 and Under 16 Tub Slides and the Clinker Fours. I would like to thank the coaches who gave up their time to help with the rowing this year, and especially Mr. Frolich who worked unsparingly with the Eight. I feel that I should not let this opportunity pass without saying a sincere "Thank You" to our rowing Master, Mr. Potts, who has done a great deal for the welfare of rowing at P.A.C.

The House Rowing held this term resulted in a win for Waterhouse House with School and Bayly tying for second place.

The Annual School Sports were held on Saturday, 11th April. The Parade of Athletes was again of a high standard, and Waterhouse House must be mentioned for their fine effort. School House won the House Competition, defeating Waterhouse by 128 points to 117. The Senior Cup was won by Dyke with 20 points from Hocking. Crawford won the Under 16

Cup and Kitto the Under 15. Thanks are due to all those who officiated on the day, and to those people who helped with donations for the Prize Fund.

The result of the Intercollegiate Athletics was in doubt until the final two events, where Saints, showing their superiority in the long distance events, finally defeated us with a total of 91 points to 77. Our Under 16 and Junior groups did very well, but Saints' Seniors proved superior to our competitors. Congratulations to Wicks and Kitto for their fine performances, and also to the Under 16 and Under 15 relay teams who broke both the existing records. The School is indebted to the coach, Mr. Connell, and to others who helped in the training of this team, and also Michael Smyth, our captain, who did much for the welfare of the team.

The Football Team did not have a very successful season in the Students' Association this year, but nevertheless when the day of the Intercoll. arrived, we had a well-balanced but young team waiting to take the field. The game was a thrilling spectacle from start to finish, and at three-quarter time the "Blues" were two points in front. The last quarter provided some of the best football of the day, and when the final siren sounded, we were just one point behind, the final scores being S.P.S.C. 9 goals 9 behinds; P.A.C. 9 goals 8 behinds. Once again congratulations to Saints on their narrow victory, and also to Wundke, Ashby, Lathlean and Rogers for their outstanding play in this match. Mr. Bruce Hockney did a wonderful job in his first year as coach of the First XVIII, and the team as a whole wish to thank him for his excellent advice and guidance. To Messrs. Leak, Provis, Scott, Keeves, Laurie and Connell, I would like to add our thanks for their help with the Junior teams, and especially to Mr. Kurtz, our football Master, for his valuable assistance throughout the season.

Bayly House was successful in the senior House Football final, defeating Cotton by 2 points, and in the Junior competition, School defeated Waterhouse.

The visit of the Wesley College Football and Tennis teams at the end of the second term proved a great success, and although we narrowly won the tennis, we lost the football to a much stronger side, in spite of our fruitless efforts to tire our friends out during the days preceding the match. I would like to thank Mr. Leak for the splendid work which he did in the organisation of this trip.

The House cricket, held this term, was won by Bayly House from Cotton with School and Waterhouse filling third and fourth positions respectively. The Junior House final was won by Cotton from School House.

The House Competition this year has been very keen, and the rivalry between the houses has been more apparent. After a close tussle, Cotton House won the House Cup from Bayly House who were ahead until the latter part of the term.

In the Intercollegiate cricket match, we finished one run ahead on the first innings, but Saints scored 344 in their second innings, leaving us 282 runs behind with six wickets in hand. The team as a whole has played quite well, and in particular, mention must be made of Lyon and Willoughby for their fine stand in the first innings, when we badly needed runs. The bowlers have performed well, Corbet, Lyon and Walker taking their share of the wickets.

This year only one Merit Badge has been awarded. Congratulations to Murray Ducker who has represented the School in athletics, football and cricket while still under the age of sixteen.

I should like to thank Mr. Leak for his enthusiastic coaching of the cricket team, and the excellent work which he has done as Sports-master. To our groundsman, I would say how much we have appreciated his good work on the playing fields this year. In conclusion I would sincerely thank all Old Boys and friends of the School for their whole-hearted support of our sporting activities for 1953.

Annual School Service

Kent Town Church was again crowded for the Twenty-first Annual School Service which was held on the evening of Sunday, 13th December. During the service which was conducted by the School Chaplain, Rev. C. J. Perry, the School Choir under the direction of Mr. Rolland May, Mus. Bac., sang the anthem "Praise the Lord" (Elvey) and a group of carols. The organist, Mr. G. M. Bowen, was assisted at the organ by M. G. Symons. The lesson from Hebrew II, verses 32-40 and IZ, verses 1 and 2 was read by G. C. Hall, the Captain of the School.

In his address the Headmaster, taking as his text words from Psalm 121, "I will lift up Mine eyes unto the hills," spoke of the remarkable coincidence during 1953 of two outstanding events, the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II, and the conquest of Mt. Everest, the one a dedication to a task beyond unaided human strength, the other an achievement made possible by the efforts and resolve of man alone. Both were events to lift the hearts of us all.

Having pointed out that there is for each of us a Coronation with its dedication and an Everest to conquer, he spoke of the importance to us all of lifting our eyes above the level of everyday concerns to the higher purposes of life and gave striking illustrations from the experience of Dr. Keller and C. F. Andrews of the way in which high mountains open men's eyes to the full beauty of the divine creation.

Addressing himself particularly to those who were about to leave school the Headmaster urged them to go at least in spirit to the mountain top so that there might come to them the vision and desire to "live dangerously" in carrying out their normal appointed tasks and to be willing—as many today are not willing—to accept appointments which carry heavy responsibility. To this end he suggested two things would be helpful. They should not let the heroes of boyhood vanish from their sight—heroes of the Bible Missionary enterprise and exploration—Joshua, Caleb, Gideon and St. Paul, Schweitzer, Grenfell and Scott. Secondly they should have other interests besides their daily work, interests in the work of the Church and the public life of the community.

His address closed with the following appeal: "So as 1953 ends and as we look forward to 1954—to a year that promises so much to us in Australia—a year when for the first time our ruling monarch will visit us—we have faith in you who are leaving school that you will play your part worthily in 1954 and the years ahead. Your responsibility is great. Not all your fathers or your masters had the privilege that has been yours of attending Prince Alfred College or a similar school—a school that takes its stand on the Christian faith as the key factor in successful education—a school most fortunate in its chaplain whose influence upon you, you will only appreciate fully in the days to come.

"Now with this I close and I think it is tremendously important. It is easy this evening under the emotional stress of the end of a phase in your life and under the influence of this crowded service in this most beautiful church to say to yourself and to be absolutely honest in saying it 'I dedicate or perhaps re-dedicate myself to the service of God and my fellows—I shall follow Christ and by doing so live a nobler and a better life—I shall take an active interest in my church.' But tomorrow your surroundings will have changed. You will face the world and temptation, and to overcome the wiles of the Devil you will have to live dangerously. May God give not only you but us all strength to fulfil the vows we are making this evening, just as we are confident He is giving our Queen strength to fulfil her coronation vows.

Remember then from time to time to lift your eyes unto the hills, and do when the chance occurs, get away to a mountain summit."

Library Notes

During the past few months, the following books have been added to the library:

A.B.C. of Plain Words (Gowers).
Tudor England (Bindoff) and England in 19th Century (Thompson) Pelican Series.
English Literature of the 20th Century (Collins).
Elements of Geography (Finch and Tre-wartha).

A Geography of Man (Preston E. James and Kline).

Economic Geography (Jones and Darkenwald).

As each book is added more interest is being taken by the boys, and we are all gaining great benefit from the Memorial Library.

House Notes

1953. Firstly, we shall admit that we came bottom in the House Competition, and we congratulate Cotton. But we are not disappointed, for the boarding-house has other things to do but win House Competitions, and it is in these other aspects that our year has been most successful. For we have been able to maintain the happy relationships within the house which make it such a pleasant place in which to live.

Of the competitions held since last issue, the rowing was the most successful for us. Our senior team was beaten into third place, but our juniors, Phil Jenkin, Crawford, David Haeusler and Reg. Chapman won well. Overall, we finished equal second.

In the first of the House Cricket matches we went under, though not without a struggle, to the speedy attack of Cotton, while missed chances cost us dear. However we easily beat Waterhouse for third. Congratulations to Peter Whittam, our star bowler, and Paterson and Smyth, who made useful scores. Our juniors came second after being narrowly defeated in the final by Cotton. Congratulations to David Oaten for his good all-round play. We also offer congratulations to Paterson for his selection in the Intercoll. team.

Cadets once again pulled us down, and we came an easy last, despite the serious efforts of Under Officer Forrest and Cadet-Lt. Chapman. We could likewise manage only bottom in school-work, in spite of the presence of Rowland, D. Copley, Twelftree and Weber, who topped their forms for the year.

The newly inaugurated Chess Competition found us third, but in no way disgraced. The table-tennis tournament within the house resulted in wins for Max Williams (senior) and Dene Rundle from Darnley Taylor and John Copley, while the junior party proved to be the usual brilliant success, enjoyed by juniors, permanent and temporary.

The tennis competition was a great success. It was well handicapped, and we extend our thanks to Phil Jenkin and Darnley Taylor for organizing it. Paterson won the singles from Trowbridge, while Davidson and Rowland won the doubles from Crompton and Longmire. The billiards ladder, conducted over a long period, resulted in ultimate victory for Fred Perkins.

We offer our thanks to the Masters-on-duty who have kindly shown us films on Saturday nights, and to Dr. Kendrew, who gave us a talk illustrated by films on his trip through England and Europe.

The picnic was once again a great success. This is always one of the high spots of the year, and this time a tug-of-war proved both enjoyable and exhausting.

During the year Mr. Tregenza left us and his place was taken by Mr. Shinkfield. He immediately showed his worth by organizing an end-of-term concert at very short notice. This was a free show, put on at less than a week's notice, but it was a terrific success. After this, several of the senior lads threw a farewell supper in the reading-room for their friends. This was not only a good opportunity for a free feed but a splendid way of saying good-bye to the boarding-house, and those present thoroughly appreciated the food and the thought behind it.

However, School House 1954, it is up to you to avenge the position of 1953. Let us hope that having read this your hearts will be fired with an unquenchable enthusiasm which will over-ride all opposition and bring you to ultimate victory.

1954. We welcome all new boys and trust that by now they are accustomed to a more disciplined yet enjoyable way of life in the boarding-house. We extend a warm welcome to Mr. Cleland and hope that he will have an enjoyable time with us as a resident master.

Our congratulations go to the prefects on their appointment with special congratulations to Michael Smyth who was appointed Captain of the School and Head of the Boarding-house and to Robin Greenslade on his appointment as a School Prefect.

Twice this term, most of the Boarding-House were awakened by a rising bell at 6.15 a.m., as the cadets and scouts were required to line the streets of the Royal Progress Route. We were also allowed time off from night-school to inspect the lights and decorations of the city. This we appreciate very much, and we all agree that liberties of this kind should be granted more often.

The earthquake here caused considerable concern. A certain prefect in the juniors swears that he was thrown out of bed, but somehow we think that this story is a little hard to swallow.

BAYLY

1953. Despite a successful third term, we were not able to overhaul Cotton in the House Competition. As a result we came a close second.

We did moderately well in the House Rowing to row second in the senior events, and fourth in the junior.

We won the House Cricket by beating Cotton in the final. Ducker batted well in both matches. Congratulations to Hall (Captain), Lyon (Vice-Captain), Ducker and Pearlman for their selection in the Intercollegiate Cricket team.

Ian Hocking must be congratulated on being Dux of the School.

Special thanks go to Mr. Smith and Mr. Provis for their help and able support throughout the year.

1954. Early in the first term our house committee was selected; Wundke as Captain of the House, Pearlman as Vice-Captain, with Shearer, Symons, Glastonbury, Ducker, Watson and Humble comprising the committee. We congratulate Pearlman, Shearer, Symons and Wundke on being appointed School Prefects, and know that these boys will uphold the Bayly tradition. Our congratulations also go to Cameron, Giffen, Walsh and Wundke on receiving their promotion as Under-Officers. Watch out Cotton! We're out to win the guard this year!

We had two players representing Bayly in the Intercoll. Tennis, and Shearer and Symons are to be congratulated on their fine efforts.

COTTON

Fulfilling the prediction made at the beginning of the year Cotton House won the House Competition for 1953. Congratulations everyone particularly our House Masters and captain, Peter Willoughby.

In the third term we maintained and finally increased our lead over Bayly. The competition was so keen, however, that it was not until we triumphed in school-work for this term that the House Cup was ours.

The first contest this term was the challenge in Debating for second place between Waterhouse and Cotton. Our side, exercising its right to challenge from the previous term, defeated Waterhouse and thus gained 5 extra points for the house. Well done Potter, Rogers, J. and Willoughby (capt.)!

We won the newly inaugurated House Chess Contest by 10 boards to nil. Congratulations to all who took part. The next event (in which all cadets took part) was the House Drill and Dress Competition. Under the watchful eye of W.O. Malc. Dunn and the keen leadership of Under Officers Rogers and Willoughby (C.O.), Cotton turned on a first-class effort to win this event. Unfortunately we could not quite make up the deficit to enable us to beat Bayly for the Cadet Shield.

In the House Cricket, Cotton won the junior section and were second in the senior. The junior team accounted for Bayly fairly easily and went on to beat School in an exciting final by three runs. Congratulations to North and his side for their fine effort.

Our senior team comfortably beat School in the first round but lost to a better all-round side in Bayly. Wicks and Willoughby contributed most of the runs in both games and Corbet and Lathlean were the star bowlers, Corbet taking seven wickets against School.

Cotton had five representatives in the Intercoll. Cricket, Corbet, Lathlean, J. N. Rogers, Wicks and Willoughby. Congratulations to these players on their inclusion and also on gaining their Colours.

Special mention must be made of Willoughby who won the trophy for the highest score in the Intercoll. with a fine 55 in the first innings.

Now that the House Cup has come to Cotton again, let us thank our House Masters Messrs. Duff, Laurie and Mutton for their help and interest and hope that this success will be repeated in 1954.

1954. On the first day of the 1954 school year fourteen prefects were selected from among the senior boys of the School. Cotton House is very well represented in this respect by Butcher, Lathlean, Luke, McKay, Southwood and Wicks.

The House Committee is rather larger than usual, but this provides for a greater representation of the various aspects of school life. Butcher, Corbet, Lathlean, Luke, McKay, Southwood, Treloar and Wicks comprise the committee, and once again we have the able services of Mr. Mutton and Mr. Laurie as Housemasters.

The first of the Intercolls. for this year was the tennis. Cotton was well represented by Dean Southwood (Captain), Brian Cox and Rod. Wicks. It is interesting to note that a Cotton House boy took part in each of the five rubbers that we won. Brian Cox deserves special mention in that he was the only player to win his single for P.A.C.

The House Tennis, which is to be played shortly, promises to culminate in a battle between Cotton and Bayly. The Cotton House team however, Southwood, Wicks, Cox and Clive James, who was unfortunate to miss the Intercoll. team, appears to be a little too strong for the opposition.

Cotton won the House Cup last year and, if the members of the House can be induced to take a greater interest in the competition, our chances are again very bright.

WATERHOUSE

A mediocre third term crippled Waterhouse House's chances in the House Competition. However we were not disgraced in coming third and we are proud to note that the majority of our points were won by keenness rather than superiority in the various phases of the school life. We should like to thank Mr. Kurtz and Mr. Coombes for their guidance and encouragement throughout the year.

Walker was the only member of our house to play in the Intercoll. Cricket and we congratulate him on his inclusion and on his performances throughout the term. Our house was unsuccessful in both the Senior and Junior Cricket Competitions but both teams kept their sporting spirit, although their opposition was strong.

Waterhouse, with three members of the eight and a strong set of juniors, dominated in the House Regatta. The senior crew had comfortable wins to gain first place, while the juniors were narrowly beaten into second position.

Our house did quite well in school work where the difference between the first two houses was quite small. In conclusion we should like to congratulate all those who did well this year, especially our four duces, Stobie, V Ua Perrian, V La, Bishop, V Ld, and Wainwright, IV b.

1954. After new boys had been allotted to their respective houses, a house meeting was held, and the following were elected to the committee: Chase, Stewart, Lemon, Richardson and Walker, with Crawford as House Captain.

The Queen's visit somewhat upset the standard sports competition, but we feel more could have been done for the house in this way. We congratulate Lemon on his inclusion in the tennis team and for his fine play in the doubles.

We also extend our congratulations to Clark, Lemon and Crawford upon becoming Cadet Under-Officers, and we look forward to a bright future in this sphere, as we also have numerous N.C.Os.

Although we are weak in the senior and under 16 divisions, we have strong juniors and are depending on them a good deal this year.

School Play

"The Happiest Days of Your Life"

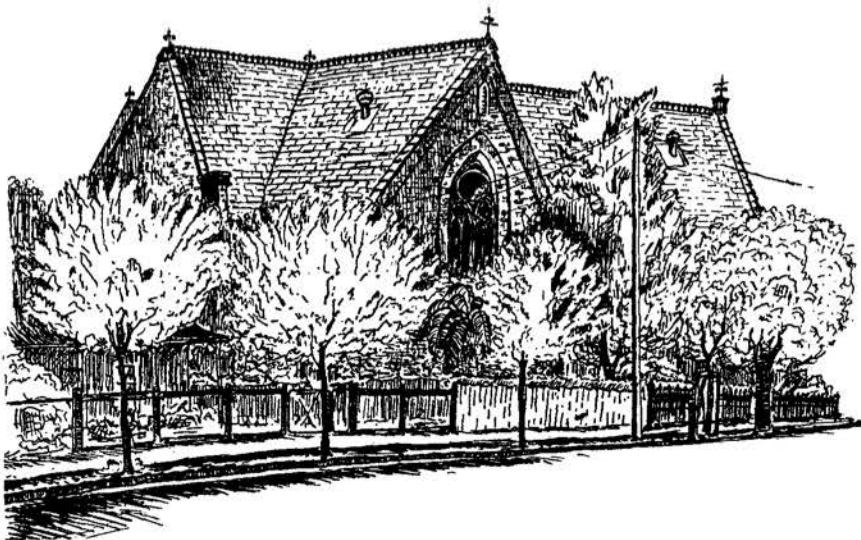

Our school play last year was outstandingly successful, even surpassing the high standard of comic entertainment set by "The Housemaster." The play, a classic English farce, tells of a mistake by the Ministry of Devacuation leading to a girls' school being sent to a boys' school for a temporary refuge. With the arrival of these unexpected visitors, the state of affairs in Hilary Hall, the boys' school, becomes as ludicrous as complicated. As the situation becomes more and more awkward, the play is rendered a gem of comedy and the laughter does not subside until the final curtain.

Congratulations to Malcolm Bennett on winning the Recitation Prize for his excellent performance in the leading role of headmaster of Hilary Hall. He was ably supported by John Nosworthy, James McKenzie, Jim Young and John Hannaford.

The success of the play is largely due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Coombes, our producer. Mrs. J. A. Dunning and Mrs. G. Anderson also rendered valuable assistance with the wardrobe and make-up. Mr. Steele was a tower of strength as Business Manager, while Mr. Glancey, the Stage Manager, worked untiringly behind the scenes and Mr. Luke in organizing the ushers.

Cadet Notes

Towards the end of the third term our annual Ceremonial Parade was held, the salute being taken by Brig. J. K. McKinna, D.S.O., 9 Int. Bde., C.M.F., an Old Boy of the School. After complimenting the Unit on its turn-out and fine marching, he spoke about the difficulties which confront the youth of Australia, and the opportunities which lie ahead. He then presented the Central Command Cup for the Earl Roberts Shoot to our victorious team which consisted of Cdt. R. A. Lyon (Capt.), U/O R. Bamford, Sgt. C. Dunn, Sgt. J. Simpson, Cpl S. Catford and Cpl. J. McKenzie. Despite adverse conditions on the day of the shoot, they carried off the cup, bringing great honour to their unit, and much credit to themselves.

The House Shield for 1953 went to Bayly, to whom we extend congratulations for their win, which was largely achieved by dint of their keenness and determination. They were pressed hard by the runners-up, Cotton, followed by Waterhouse and School.

The January camp at Warradale was attended by many of our cadets who studied N.C.O., Specialist and Potential Officers courses, the latter of which resulted in promotion to the rank of Under Officer for Brook, Cameron, Clark, Crawford, Evans, Giffen, Lemon, Walsh and Wundke. To these boys we offer our congratulations. Thanks must be given to the A.R.A. instructors who run these courses so efficiently and well.

As well as Captain Johnston, who was in charge of the S.A. Cadet Contingent, P.A.C. had two representatives on the Canberra trip for Her Majesty the Queen's review of her Australian Forces, in the persons of Sgt Lemon and Sgt. Walsh.

The major event for our unit this term has been the Royal Visit. With other cadet units we had the privilege of lining the route for the Royal Progress. After an intensive cleaning and polishing programme, the unit assembled in Hurtle Square at 0800 hours on 19th March, and then proceeded in half companies to Angas Street. When it was all over the boys were unanimous in their opinion that the long wait had been more than worthwhile. The dress, discipline and patience of the unit were a credit to the School.

We received a request from the Army to line the route once more on Her Majesty's departure for Parafield, an unexpected opportunity of which we were only too eager to take advantage.

Our unit this year has been formed into a single company under the command of Capt. A. S. Johnston, assisted by Capt. A. R. Laurie. To these gentlemen we give our sincere thanks for without their enthusiasm and untiring efforts the unit could not function in its present efficient manner.

We look forward to this year, knowing that the cadets will strive to make 1954 a progressive year for the unit, and gain much benefit and interest from its activities.

CHOIR NOTES, 1953-54

At the beginning of the third term, 1953, we began in earnest to learn the anthem and carols for the end-of-term service at Kent Town Church. The anthem, "Praise the Lord," by Elvey, was rather difficult, and at first rather tedious during practices. As the service drew near however, the anthem began to take shape, and it went over very well at the church. We all felt our efforts were well rewarded, and we look forward to our anthem again this year. A small group of selected boys sang a quartette during the anthem and this sounded beautiful with the organ accompaniment. Our congratulations go to M. G. Symons, a member of the choir, who accompanied the choir on the organ for the anthem and carols. He did a wonderful job, and we point out that this is the first time a boy of the college has accompanied the choir during the School Service.

The carols sung by the choir included "The Vessel-Cup Carol," "The Rocking Carol," "Now the Holly Bears a Berry," and "Unto Us a Boy is Born."

At the beginning of this year, the Headmaster's plea to the boys resulted in a choir numbering about seventy. Although we lack any strong tenors this year, the choir on the whole is well balanced, and during the first few practices most of the boys seemed very keen, and with a little work, a good choir should result.

We have started with three bright songs which immediately aroused the boys' interest. These were "Waltzing Matilda," "Hail! Smiling Morn," and "Simple Simon." The last is a comic song along the lines of "Old Mother Hubbard," a song which brought so much fun to both members of the choir and the audience at the last school concert. No doubt "Simple Simon" will bring just as much fun at this year's concert.

Once again we extend our hearty thanks to Mr. May for his unfailing interest and patience in leading the choir which is so necessary a part of the life of any school. R. A. W.

THE STAMP CLUB, 1954

This year the club has been reduced to twenty members, a much more convenient number than last year's. Much more enthusiasm is being shown this year. The main event so far has been the purchase of some stamps of the current Nauru issue. These are on sale at the G.P.O. Each member was allowed stamps to the value of 1/3. I should like to thank Mr. C. L. MacDonald for a gift of four books, including the 1953 Australian Commonwealth Specialists' Catalogue. Finally, on behalf of the club, I should like to thank Mr. Glancy for his help and the committee for their co-operation in the management of the club.

M. J. E.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

1954. We should like to thank Mr. White of Kodak for his interesting lectures on Friday afternoons. He demonstrated most of the essentials of good photography with slide films. He stressed the necessity for focussing correctly. This is the main point and should always be done first. Mr. White also pointed out to us that the main subject should occupy only one-third of the picture area. The foreground and background should not attract the eye, but should give the subject stability. Shadows are also very important and should give the subject added stability, and change the background pattern. The subject should always be doing something natural with his hands and a good plan is to give him a book to read. He should not stand stiffly with his hands at his sides, looking straight at the camera.

W. F. G.

ARTS AND CRAFTS, 1954

The Arts and Crafts Club has re-opened this year under the leadership of Mr. Peard and Mr. Tregenza. The seniors are instructed by Mr. Peard, and the Juniors by Mr. Tregenza. The subscription is half a crown, and we are pleased to say that most members have paid, and this has enabled us to purchase the necessary equipment to make our first models.

THE SCHOOL PLAY, 1954

This year the School Play is to be "The Fourth Wall"—a detective drama in three acts by A. A. Milne.

The story tells of Arthur Ludgrove, a delightful English gentleman, who, on a bright sunny day in Sussex, is killed by two of his guests. The murder takes place in full view of the audience. In consequence of the carefully prepared alibi that each of the assassins is able to establish, the official examination into the cause of Ludgrove's death establishes a clear case of suicide. But in the house is a charming young sleuth in the person of Susan Cunningham, who has beguiled the time between house parties with mystery stories. Susan becomes suspicious, and sets out to find the murderer. The discovery that the blotting-paper has been removed from the pad and an infinitesimal flaw in the timing of the alibi finally incriminates the two men.

Once again Mr. H. E. Coombes is producing the play and this alone is enough to ensure that it will be an outstanding success. Although many of the old stalwarts have left, a carefully chosen caste is on the job and the parents, friends and well-wishers of the College are again assured of a good evening's entertainment.

SENIOR DEBATING GROUP, 1953-54

1953. For the third successive term the club has had a good membership. This term, there have not been many meetings but those held were full of variety. For two meetings there was a Mock Parliament. After the opening by the Rt. Hon. Dr. A. Scott Fortescue Dennis, the House launched into the Address-in-Reply debate which produced some remarkable statements: Some of them—

"The wearing of pink shirts by schoolboys should be referred to Malenkov," spoken by a Left wing member.

A Government member said "I (oi) only gotta a grade four" to which an Opposition member replied, "Beacha, I make grade five."

These meetings could have been more successful if there had been more preparation by the members. For one meeting some prominent members gave speeches on current topics, and then the matters were made open to the house for discussion. It was a most successful form of meeting.

In conclusion, my thanks go to the committee and I should like to express the thanks of the club for the splendid help of Mr. Dennis, the Master-in-charge.

J. F. N.

1954. This year the club has made a most successful start with a membership of nearly forty, quite a large increase on last year. Owing to the increased interest taken in debating this year the committee has been able to expand the activities of the club and some very interesting meetings have been held.

According to custom the first meeting was devoted to the election of officers and the following were appointed:

President, G. J. Crawford; Vice-President, M. E. B. Smyth; Secretary, J. F. Young; Minute Secretary, D. J. Watson; Committee Member, F. J. W. Symons.

The voting was not over enthusiastic and once more the secretary was elected unanimously—now quite a feature of the club.

The following meeting was devoted to a series of prepared speeches, some of which caused much controversy in the club. "The Wastage of the Royal Tour," one of the subjects discussed was debated in a serious manner by a large number of the members.

The succeeding meetings, which included a debate, a discussion on subjects of general interest, a meeting of impromptu speeches and a Mock Court were very successful. The committee was pleased to notice that some of the younger members, after a quiet beginning, took an active part in all the meetings, to the benefit of themselves and the club.

Looking back over the club activities this term we can well be proud of the progress we have made.

We are indeed grateful for the interest Mr. Dennis takes in our club activities.

J. F. Y.

JUNIOR DEBATING, 1953-54

1953. This term we had two debates in which the participants delivered their speeches with tremendous force and hotly attacked the opposition. The subjects of the debates were:

(1) Newspapers devote too much space to sport, and (2) The "Sunday Advertiser" is an improvement on the "Mail," the latter being the more strongly contested.

At last we have attained an extremely high standard of delivering our prepared speeches, because we have rid ourselves of the habit of staring out of the door. We have also learned that gestures play a prominent part in the delivery.

In spite of uninteresting subjects, the impromptu speeches were good.

Mr. Potts is to be thanked for his advice during the term and for quelling the boisterous arguments which arose among the listening members. Usually the chairman had control, but some of the arguments got too far out of control.

G. W. B.

1954. Many boys from last year again returned to help swell our numbers. On several occasions we had prepared speeches which were very interesting and dealt with a wide variety of subjects, including impressions of the Queen's visit to Australia. A discussion which aroused great enthusiasm among all members of the society, especially amongst the cricketers, was whether "bumpers" should be allowed in cricket.

We should all like to thank Mr. Potts who has helped our speaking immensely with his valuable hints and advice. I am sure all new boys to the society are indebted to him for his assistance. The committee, comprising Carr, Thomson and Rogers, have ably performed their duties.

P. L. R.

THE ART CLUB, 1953-54

1953. The Art Club has concluded an enjoyable and successful year and members wish to thank Mr. Laurie for his interest and help. The painting of silk scarves was continued this term and those completed made acceptable Christmas gifts. Sketching became popular and some very good scenes in black and white were completed.

Our club is hoping for an increase in the number of members next year, as it has only fourteen members at present.

D. A. W.

1954. The Art Club has had an enjoyable term, brightened by a visit from Mr. Kenriek, a Czechoslovakian artist, who gave us an interesting talk about his paintings.

Gray has taken over from the teaching point of view and has helped many of us, and at his suggestion we made a few trips into the open to sketch from real life. On the whole the Art Club has had a very enjoyable term under the supervision of Mr. Laurie and Gray.

P. G. C.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY, 1954

1954. One of the plays in this year's School Concert is "The Invisible Duke," a very clever and amusing farce by F. Sladen-Smith. As indicated by the title, the play (which is only a one-act play) is concerned with the antics of a medieval astrologer, who is commanded by a duke to turn him invisible, because he suspects that his betrothed is unfaithful and he wishes to spy on her. The situations that arise when the Duke is actually made invisible are, to say the least, amusing.

There will be two casts performing the play, the first cast appearing on two of the three nights and the second cast on one. Members of the casts are: First Cast, Dignum, Treloar, Hallett, Rowe, McKeown and Shepherd. Second Cast, Walsh, Adams, Michelmore, Elliott, Hanam and Page. Rehearsals are now under way and, with members of both casts enthusiastic and working hard under Mr. Turnbull's guidance there appears to be no reason why the play should not be a success.

CHESS CLUB, 1953-54

1953. This year has been a most successful one for our club. In the inter-school chess competition all of our three teams reached the finals. Congratulations to the B team who won the premiership by a convincing 5-0 defeat of N.H.S. in the final! McKenzie who was undefeated for the season was the outstanding player for this team. The A team must also be commended upon their showing this year. They played splendidly to reach the final where handicapped by the loss of Sved and the collapse of the "old firm" of Gibbs and Southwood, they unfortunately fell foul of a stacked N.H.S. team. Southwood is to be congratulated on another undefeated season!

Finally we are indebted to Dr. Ellis for the keenness and enthusiasm he has shown in our club and to Mr. Bert Kohn of the S.A.C.A. for several interesting lectures.

G. B. G.

1954. The Chess Club has been somewhat depleted this year by the loss of many senior members, and consequently our membership is smaller than in past years. Dr. Ellis is again coaching the more experienced members, and Mr. Kurtz, the beginners, upon whom we shall have to rely for the nucleus of next year's club and inter-school teams.

In Dr. Ellis's division, Dean Southwood has been unanimously elected President and R. M. Gibbs, Secretary. Two teams have been entered in the inter-school chess competition, which will commence on April 9. These teams will be below our usual standard, but it is hoped that our players will gain valuable experience from these matches.

Once again our thanks go to Dr. Ellis and Mr. Kurtz for their valuable help and advice.

R. M. G.

JUNIOR CHESS CLUB, 1953-54

1953. Those in our club are new to the game of chess, but under the supervision of Mr. Kurtz, who has explained and demonstrated many key moves during the year, some of us have greatly improved.

Two elimination tournaments have been held this year. Dyke defeated Earle in the final of the first, and in the semi-final of the second, Earle beat Dyke. Earle then went on to defeat McKittrick.

1954. It was decided at the beginning of the year to save the unnecessary expense of buying chess sets out of funds collected from the boys. Instead, those who possess sets have agreed to bring them, and pair with someone who does not possess one.

Mr. Kurtz, with his usual thoroughness, has shown us not only how to avoid awkward places, but also various ways in which to be caught in them and—sometimes—escape again.

I think the boys will agree with me that we have been given a good basis on which to work, and next term hope to begin tournament play.

J. L. W.

LEATHERWORK CLUB, 1953-54

We have completed another good year of club activity. At this stage we should again like to express our thanks to Mr. Steele and to Mr. Duff for their advice and assistance throughout the year. Many useful and decorative articles have been made, and the members of the club have found leatherwork an interesting and useful hobby.

The committee for 1954: Secretary and Treasurer, J. H. Steward; F. D. Crawford; B. K. Fuss, R. A. Hall.

J. W. P.

RADIO CLUB

Although this is only a small club, its keen members have built many fine pieces of basic radio equipment under the guidance of Mr. Bowen, who, himself a keen amateur radio enthusiast, so ably performs the task.

A large portion of the club devote their time to physics apparatus for the laboratories keeping the equipment in excellent trim. Mr. Smith is to be thanked for his help in this regard.

It is hoped to arrange excursions later this year to the ABC and other such organizations using radio equipment, so that the boys may see some practical application of their hobby.

M. P. McB.

MODELLING CLUB

1954. We started the year with a very large membership of thirty-six, the members coming from nearly every form in the school. It is pleasing to note that there is much less idleness and that a better spirit exists in the club. Many models have been flown at school and some modellers have been busy building model boats. The facilities at school are not very good and we could do with a room in which to keep our models and other equipment. We should like to thank Mr. Mutton for his ready help.

RIFLE CLUB NOTES, 1953-54

It was a busy last term in 1953. Two club competitions were held and the standard of shooting was high. We congratulate B. Butler on winning the Championship and P. Martin on winning the Handicap. The club would like to thank Mr. L. A. Waterman very sincerely for donating the trophies.

Towards the end of the term M. J. Catford, last year's secretary, who did an excellent job, organized some novel shoots, discarding the conventional target for some relating to war and real-life conditions. They proved harder, more interesting, and improved the sport of the club.

The year ended on a very successful note with a team from the club thoroughly trouncing the Masters in the "Masters versus Boys" shoot.

This term there was a record number of applicants for the club, but unfortunately the capacity is only fourteen. We extend to all new members a hearty welcome and wish them "good shooting." The committee for this year has been increased to four members: I. Waterman, Captain; A. Gibson, Secretary; with P. Martin and B. Williams, committeemen.

Finally we should like to thank Mr. A. S. Johnston, Master-in-charge of the club, who has run it so well in past years, and, we feel sure, will make another sure success of it this year.

Science Journal

The Science Journal is a magazine compiled, edited and managed entirely by a committee chosen from science students of the Leaving Honours form. The boys of Leaving and Leaving Honours forms contribute essays on interesting and topical scientific matters. One task of the committee is to choose the best of these for publication.

One of the main objects of the journal is to promote among the boys of the school an ever increasing enthusiasm for the study of science, and so give them a better appreciation of the world in which they live.

By encouraging boys to read scientific periodicals and popular books on science in order to find information to help them in their task of compiling articles for the journal, and then to make this information available in simple and readable form to others, it is hoped that their appetites will be whetted and that the boys will come to regard science as worthy of life-long study, and not just something to be learned while at school and thereafter forgotten.

The size of the journal this year will probably be increased to sixty-eight pages. We hope and expect that the high standard of previous issues will be upheld this year. It should be, as we have very many good science students in Leaving and Leaving Honours this year. The subjects will undoubtedly be of a wide variety and many articles will be included because of their general interest not only to those with a fair knowledge of science, but also to those whose knowledge of scientific matters is small.

The journal will be on sale near the end of the second term. The price, although not finally agreed on will probably be the same as last year—2/6. Copies will be on sale at school and may be charged to school accounts. Copies may also be ordered by mail. Those who desire posted copies may remit three shillings to the Editor.

F. J. W. S.

Scout Notes

The Group continues to grow in numbers and in members with experience. This year we have completed the reorganization of the Group into three separate troops—the 1st P.A.C. Troop consisting mainly of boys under 14 years of age and meeting on Friday nights; the 2nd P.A.C. Troop—Senior Sea Scouts, and the 3rd P.A.C. Troop—Senior Land Scouts. Even with this rearrangement there are far more boys wanting to join the 1st P.A.C. Troop than we can possibly take and it is with considerable regret that we must refuse admission to so many who wish to join.

We welcome Mr. John Tregenza as an A.S.M. to the 3rd P.A.C. Troop and Bill Taylor as an A.S.M. of 1st P.A.C., and we are continually grateful to all those who give so generously of their spare time to help with the running of the group.

Andrew Jeffrey is to be congratulated on gaining his Queen's Scout Badge in time for the Royal Visit.

The whole group is to be congratulated on their very smart turn-out for the different Royal-Visit functions.

The teams representing the different troops in the Swimming Carnival swam well but were unsuccessful.

SENIORS

During last year it was decided to reduce the number of Friday night meetings and this plan was carried out successfully during the third term. The results of the Wednesday morning stunts were very satisfactory. The term was uneventful, save for the wind-up party on 12th December.

We commenced this year with twenty-two seniors, of whom most were second-class, with a few of first-class standard. These were divided into four patrols, the "Burke and Wills," the "Colonel Light," the "Joseph Banks," and the "Edward John Eyre."

It was decided at the beginning of the term to alternate Wednesday morning troop meetings with patrol stunts. These stunts, including pioneering, signalling, exploring, swimming and reporting, have been completed (?) successfully. So far this term we have had no Friday evening meetings, but we propose to visit Osborne on April 30.

Work has been started on the Venturer's badge, particularly the patrol hike which was organized on Friday, March 26. We are aiming to have most of the troop with their first-class by the end of the second term.

The seniors were very fortunate during the Royal Visit as they took part in the lining of the route for the Royal Progress, as well as being invited to help at the Music Festival. Patrol Leaders and Seconds helped form the guard of honour at Government House on the afternoon of the Royal Garden Party.

The main event for the term will be the Easter hike. It will be from Mt. Pleasant to Angaston, covering forty miles of stiff country. However, this will only be a preparation for the proposed Flinders hike in the September holidays, the main event in an eventful year.

SEA SCOUTS

During last year it was decided to limit the number of Friday-night meetings, and more work was done on Wednesday mornings. The patrol stunts carried out on these Wednesday mornings were successful and quite a lot of useful scouting work was done. This year the Sea Scouts began with three patrols, the "Sir Francis Drakes," "Sir Walter Raleighs," and the "Robert Falcon Scotts." The patrol leaders for these patrols are respectively M. C. R. Cane, C. P. Humphrey and R. N. Todd. There has been one meeting on Friday night so far, where the sails of the new boat were discussed.

The annual regatta for sea scouts was held earlier in the term. We entered a junior and senior crew, who both did well, despite the fact that neither won. The junior reached the final, but were unsuccessful. The over-night camp on Torrens Island was good scouting experience.

The new boat has been completed and will be rigged before Easter. Different groups have been down to the Outer Harbour to work on the boat over week-ends, and also some sailing and boat work have been done. We look forward to the official launching of the boat which will be the big event for the next season.

The Troop will be going on a hike at Easter which will be from Mt. Pleasant to Angaston. It will be a preliminary hike to the Flinders hike in the September holidays, which will be one of the biggest events for the year.

Congratulations to John Hoepner on gaining the Charge Certificate and very many thanks to him for giving up most of his spare time to help us and for the interest he has shown in our activities.

We now look forward to the Sea Scouts having a successful year, even more than in previous years.

LAND SCOUTS

During the last five months the Troop has had busy and active times at its Friday night scout meetings. A highlight of the end of the year was the Field Day, which took the form of a bicycle hike to the Outer Harbour with a series of tests on the way and at the Harbour. The Christmas Camp, attended by twenty, was held at "Woodvale," the property of Mr. Guy Bonython, at Yankalilla. It was a good camp which we all thoroughly enjoyed.

The Scout Party was again a wonderful show and even the more bashful thoroughly enjoyed it. Our thanks go to the Headmaster, our parents who provided the supper, to John Hoepner the M.C. and all who helped to make the occasion successful. But above all we were pleased and grateful to have the P.G.C. Guides with us again to support those whose courage had failed them.

Congratulations to the Kookaburra Patrol on winning the Abotomy Cup. The competition for the cup was keen throughout the year, and two patrols were only a few marks behind the winners.

This year we have been embarrassed by the recruits who wish to join and we regret that there is no room for them. The Raven Patrol have changed their name to the Magpies, and we wonder whether they aim at success through sentimental memories of the S.M. Continuity in patrols is worthwhile, since the Eagles have a recruit whose father was P.L. of the Eagles many years ago.

The District Commissioner, Mr. S. A. Gerner, visited us for our Investiture Ceremony and played the records of the "B-P Story" to us. We thank him for helping us to learn more about our founder.

We all eagerly await Easter Camp, at Mount Crawford and with record numbers and a glorious camp site, the camp is assured of success. F. B. T.

Prefects' Palaver

The prefects finished 1953 in a blaze of glory. Not only did they fill the top three positions of VI U, but the Dux of the School, Ian Hocking, gained eleventh place on the General Honours List. Between them, the prefects gained seven Leaving Honours credits.

The eleven, though beaten, owed much of its performance to the three prefects in the team. Geoff. Hall was an inspiring captain, and Ray Lyon, his able deputy, gave himself a reputation as a fieldsman which he will find hard to live down. Pete Willoughby's great knock deserves the congratulations of all.

The Red and White was the usual great social success, and upheld the reputation it has gained as one of the best school dances in Adelaide. The prefects acknowledge with grateful thanks the help given by the Mothers' Committee. They also thank Mrs. Hocking, Mrs. Siegele and Mrs. Bennett for the excellent buffet tea they gave us before the dance.

Early in 1954 the prefects' room was invaded by fourteen prefects who, despite the introduction of the unusual innovation of a rubbish-bin, have upheld with distinction the reputation of former generations for untidiness. Their first taste of blood came when, as usual, a large number of new boys failed to say their school songs.

The Intercollegiate Tennis was the first sporting event of the year, and the prefects began well with four playing representatives. Congratulations to Dean Southwood (captain), Bob Shearer, Fred Symons and Rod Wicks (representing the School in his fourth sport) and to Mick Wundke, who just failed to gain his place.

Mick, however, is now an under-officer, and with Graham Crawford, has created a favorable impression on the parade ground.

Despite the fact that someone tried to make off with Crawford's trousers, the prefects' room seems to be in for a year of brilliant successes, sporting, scholastic and social. And by the way, some of last year's boys may be able to answer the following questions:

Whose history credit was unclassified and why?

Who is entering the banana business?

Who knew the way to Willunga?

Unidentification Card 101

by I. W. Hocking

[Winning entry in the Kenneth Harley Memorial Prize]

"Say, chaps, we've all drunk the same amount. Do you see what I see?" Weaving an uneven course to the gutter, the drunken sailor pointed an uncertain finger towards a body lying face-downwards by the kerb-side. One of his companions, a comparative youngster who had yet to leave his native country on active service, fainted into his arms and the pair collapsed unto the roadway. The third of the trio, whose system was more accustomed to absorbing quantities of liquor took three bold steps forward and touched the body. It was still quite warm but obviously dead—a very recent job.

With sirens wailing the ambulance arrived in less than ten minutes. Pushing his way through the crowd, the driver, accompanied by his attendant, examined the body. Strangulation, it seemed—a piece of pyjama cord still hung around the poor man's neck. The driver, entering him as "Dead on Arrival" in his notebook, drove the body to the Central Morgue. The clock over the main gate showed 7.30 p.m. There the morgue assistant searched fruitlessly for means of identification. The body had been professionally stripped—all the pockets had been emptied, all the clothing tags removed. Taking a card marked "unidentified," and numbered 101, from a pile on the filing cabinet, the assistant listed the following details: Sex, Male; Age, Approx. 30; Cause of Death, Strangulation by person or persons unknown. Turning around to strip the body, the assistant suddenly gasped with fear, his eyeballs nearly starting from their sockets, and felt his hair starting to prickle at the back of his scalp. Card 101 dropped to the ground from nerveless fingers. Rising to his feet and trying painfully to speak was the newly-arrived corpse.

At the assistant's hoarse cry of, "Doctor, quickly!" a burly, white-coated man rushed into the room, and, with the more sceptical outlook brought about by long experience with the dead, the doctor caught hold of the supposed corpse as he tottered from slab to slab, croaking, "How did I get here?" and half carried him to a chair. The doctor uttered a snort of disgust. "What a shocking mistake. The poor chap's far from dead—only suffering from amnesia due to the strangulation. Get a bed ready for him in Ward 14." Following the assistant to the corridor, the doctor called loudly for a nurse. Receiving no answer he walked further down the corridor and repeated his request. On the arrival of a nurse, the doctor returned to the room to find it empty but for the silent, shrouded corpses on the slabs, with the curtains waving to and fro in the breeze blowing through the open window.

Something white on the floor caught the doctor's eye. Stooping to pick it up, he recognized the large heading "unidentified," and read quickly the assistant's inscription on the card. "I guess that description won't fit the next case that comes in," said the doctor slowly, tossing the card carelessly into the top drawer of his desk, used exclusively for odds and ends.

On a bench in a park several blocks away, Corpse 101 sat down to consider his next move. His pockets were absolutely empty; he was for the time being penniless. He, like the morgue assistant, was unable to discover who he was; he had no idea where he was going or what he was going to do when he got there. One thought alone coursed through his brain. Somebody had tried to kill him, and he was going to find that person. His aching throat felt very parched and dry, and it was during the feverish search for money in order to slake this thirst that he discovered the slit in the lining of his suit, and the dry-cleaner's ticket. Here at least was a definite link with his past—the drink would have to wait. By asking directions from several people, including a policeman, who looked with uncomfortable interest at the ugly red mark around his throat, he eventually found the dry-cleaning shop, a neat little place, with the living-quarters situated above the shop itself, in the up-town area of the city, with large neon lights above the door announcing "Bassett's Dry-Cleaning Service."

He rang the bell and waited. A small, dapper young man opened the door, and asked in an annoyed, enquiring tone what the matter was. Suddenly recognition dawned. "Good evening, Mr. Johnson. If you've come for that blue suit, I'm afraid it hasn't been done yet." Corpse 101 looked over his shoulder, and then realized with a start that the young man was addressing him. His name was apparently Johnson, and he glowed inwardly at his early success. "I'd like to see the record of this piece of dry-cleaning," said Johnson, holding out the ticket. The young man looked puzzled, almost suspiciously annoyed, but he withdrew inside the shop and beckoned for his caller to follow. He drew a large book from beneath the counter and, after flipping over a few pages, turned it about for Johnson to see. With gleaming eyes Johnson studied his name and address—Arthur Johnson, The Twin Pines Hotel. Then, with a brusque word of thanks, he hurried out.

The Twin Pines was certainly one of the city's better-class hotels, in fact it was particularly elegant. The room-clerk greeted Johnson cordially, and when he had received his room-key and was making his way towards the elevator across a thickly carpeted, beautifully ornamented foyer, he realized that he must be a man of no little means. At the sixteenth floor the lift-operator opened the door for him, and he walked along the deeply carpeted corridor until he found his room. He fitted the key into the lock, and turned the knob. As the door swung open, there was a quick scramble, and a man, with shoulders hunched and head bent downwards, charged through the doorway colliding with Johnson, and butting him heavily in the stomach. Johnson was winded, but as he fell, he brought his forearm, with fist clenched, down upon the back of the man's neck in a tremendous rabbit-killer, which had behind it all the fiery wrath stirred up by the knowledge that this man in his room was probably his would-be killer. Johnson lay on the floor for a while to regain his breath, and then dragged his unconscious assailant into the room and shut the door.

Looking around, he saw an obviously luxurious apartment in complete chaos. The desk under the window had been ransacked, and the contents strewn all over the floor. The contents of a wardrobe had been flung into a heap during the commendably thorough search, and Johnson whistled as he saw that he owned nearly a dozen expensive suits. Bending over his assailant, a rather slightly-built man, he found two wallets in the inner breast pocket of the man's suit. One belonged to James Graften, "Apparently the handle to the mug on the floor," breathed Johnson. The other had the gold initials A.J. on the outside, and inside contained money and a small note-book. The note-book contained a number of names and addresses of people living in several different states. Putting both wallets in his pocket, Johnson walked into the bath-room and filled a jug with water. He returned, and throwing the contents over the slowly-stirring figure on the floor, stood nearby, fingering the jug meditatively.

Graften turned his head sideways, and allowed his eyes to travel from the shoes slowly up the figure standing at his side. The eyes grew wide with fear when they came to rest on Johnson's face—"Johnson," he gasped, trembling from head to foot. Johnson reached downwards, and grasping him by the lapels, dragged him to his feet. "You tried to kill me tonight, Graften. Why?" A stubborn, mulish expression greeted this question, and no answer was forthcoming. Johnson raked his adversary several times across the cheek-bone with the jug, producing burning red weals. "Why . . . Why?" Still no answer. Again the jug was raised, but this time Graften decided to talk. "You know why I tried to kill you, why I searched for that cursed book of yours. You drained me dry with your blood-sucking blackmail, and I was paid highly to get rid of you by someone else on your list. What more incentive would I want?" "But how did you get the opportunity to murder me, how did you do it? That's what I want to know." Suddenly, through the agony of fear, realization dawned on Graften as he beheld the intense eagerness on Johnson's face.

"Good heavens, you don't remember, Johnson, do you?"

There is a saying that truth hurts, and at this instant it cut both ways—Johnson winced at this revelation, and hit Graften hard and squarely on the jaw, crashing him into the door. "You're wrong, Graften, I remember everything clearly." The blow affected Graften less than Johnson expected, and he suddenly spun around, threw himself out of the door, slamming it behind him, and sprinted down the stair-case. At the next floor down, he caught the lift just as it had discharged passengers, closed the door, and pushed the button for ground level before the operator knew what had entered, leaving Johnson the option of running down fifteen storeys of stairs or giving up the chase. Johnson walked back to his room.

After tidying his room, he went downstairs for a drink, so that he might ease the ache in his throat. In the cabaret-room on the ground floor, he took a stool at the bar and, over a warming drink, watched the couples dancing in the small square in the middle of the tables. A singer came through the curtains for the next number, and Johnson decided that she made the drink taste quite a deal better. She was petite and blonde, and had the prettiest of blue eyes. Johnson saw a couple leaving a ringside table, so he moved forward quickly for a better view. She sang "Blue Moon" ever so sweetly, but he had the uncomfortable feeling that she was watching him. The song was completed amid thunderous applause, and she continued with a bracket of "blues" which made Johnson's heart give a few unnecessary flips. The orchestra had struck up a dance number, and the couples had circled the floor several times, when Johnson smelt perfume near at hand. Turning around, he was startled to see the blonde singer at his elbow, smiling. "Hello Arthur, aren't you going to ask me to sit down?" Johnson started, "Sure, sure, take a seat," and he pulled a chair from the table. "I'll have the usual," said the blonde, and Johnson ordered two of the usual from the waiter poised nearby, wondering whether they were eating or drinking. He looked at his watch—10.30 p.m.—rather late for any sort of a meal.

She had a pleasant, husky voice, and they talked about her songs, her reception from the crowd, and her gown—Johnson steered clear of bringing himself into the conversation. The waiter returned with two stiff "Green-eyed Dragons," and they looked at each other as they sipped in silence. As soon as they had finished their drinks, she rose and said, "Let's go some place else where there's not such a crowd." Johnson offered to call a taxi, but she said she'd take him in her car. Johnson walked out to the front to wait for her to drive around and pick him up.

It was a warm night, and he could hear the electric fans working inside as he stood contemplating the rapid series of events that had happened during the evening. He thought to himself that he was going to enjoy this second life. The head-waiter had called her Myra. Myra—that's a pretty name, thought Johnson. A big, black Buick saloon swung around the corner and pulled up in front of him. The front door opened, and he slid into the front seat next to her, settling back comfortably. She drove expertly, and soon the city was left behind and they were out in the suburbs. With closed eyelids, Johnson said "I've always felt very happy when I'm with you, do you feel the same way?" Myra, watching the road ahead, said softly, "I'd feel happier if I knew you weren't going to use that little black book again." Johnson's thoughts raced. What did she know about the book of names. "I wouldn't worry about that if I were you," he said. "Anyway that's my business, I guess."

"You seem to forget, Arthur," she said smilingly, "that my name is in that book too." Before he knew what was happening, he felt something tightening around his throat, and James Graften in the back seat pulled the pyjama cord tighter and tighter. Before he lost consciousness, Johnson realized how it had happened the first time. . . .

The ambulance driver entered "Dead on Arrival" in his note-book, and took the body to the Central Morgue. The clock over the main gate showed 11.30 p.m. There the morgue assistant searched fruitlessly for means of identification. The body had been professionally stripped. The doctor behind the desk glanced up, and jumped to his feet in horror. "The same chap." Shaking his head, he muttered, "When a guy collects it twice in the same night, in exactly the same way, he must have been asking for it," and reaching into the top drawer used exclusively for odds and ends, he drew out card 101.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CRICKET, 1953

Hopes ran high among Princes supporters at the Adelaide Oval on December 15 for the Annual Intercollegiate Cricket Match as we were several places above Saints on the "B" Grade premiership table.

Saints won the toss and Robertson and Irwin went out to open the innings in warm sunny weather. Corbet took the ball from the Cathedral end; all was quiet as he ran in and bowled a short bumper. Robertson, nervous and surprised, made a half-hearted poke at it as it whizzed by and deflected a simple catch to Lathlean in the gully. Princes had begun sensationally.

Perhaps it was nervousness, but both Lathlean and Corbet were bowling a little short, and the batsmen were not comfortable against them. Then, in Corbet's next over, McLachlan, after showing promise of a good innings attempted to hook another of Corbet's bouncers, mistimed badly and Rogers, moving across from first slip to short fine leg, took an easy catch. Corbet's figures were now 2 for 11 and the score was 2 for 13, Irwin 3 not out. Lathlean was unlucky when he had both Irwin and Ketley dropped off his bowling.

The opening bowlers gave way to Lyon and Hall, and Irwin pulling a shorter one from Hall high and hard to mid-wicket, gave Rogers his second catch for the match. Lahey made only 7 when we was out, leg before to Lyon, and just before lunch Ketley, playing forward, did not quite get over the ball and Lyon took a nice catch lowdown off his own bowling. So at lunch our position was commanding — Saints were 5 for 88.

Strickland and Terrell carried the score along until at 111, Strickland was hit on the hand by a bouncer from Corbet and the easy catch was taken by Willoughby at slip. Terrell and Brimage were cautious but after being dropped in slip, the latter was bowled by Hall. Helier did not last long and was well caught and bowled by Walker, the new bowler. The score was now 8 for 138.

Terrell and Swift added runs with ease. At last, at 163, Terrell was bowled when he played over a good ball from Lyon. He had batted well and it was mainly due to him that Saints first innings reached anything like the proportions it did. Swift was then bowled by Hall, and Saints innings closed at 171.

With the clock showing nearly four o'clock Ducker and Rogers opened our innings. Irwin was bowling well, and while many of his deliveries were wide of the stumps he kept a good length and commanded respect. When the score was 12, Rogers, playing forward to one which swung a little late was well caught lowdown by Lahey at slip. Then in his next over Irwin bowled Ducker with an unexpected inswinger. The spinners took over, but despite the way in which McLachlan was spinning the ball, Hall and Paterson looked comfortable. However, Paterson was out l.b.w. to Stevens, and Hall, losing concentration, cut a shorter one from the same bowler straight into the hands of Strickland at point. Four for 51. Pearlman and Wicks now concentrated on playing out the afternoon and the cricket became distinctly dull. The day's play ended with Princes 4 for 72 and much of their apparent ascendancy gone.

Second Day

For a start our batsmen seemed crease-bound and Wicks soon went, bowled by McLachlan. Willoughby quickly enlivened the game with nice footwork and good running, but Pearlman did not quite get to the pitch of McLachlan and Irwin at silly mid-on took a nice low catch. Walker was soon run out when a foolish run was attempted and the score, at 8 for 87, looked bad. However our lanky vice-captain is known for his straight bat, and he and Willoughby set out to retrieve the situation. Willoughby had a stroke of luck when McLachlan dropped him off his own bowling, but he was driving beautifully, and the running between the wickets was a pleasure to watch. Lyon was quiet, waiting for the right ball to hit and then hitting it hard. The fielding of Terrell had been under notice for the whole innings, and he often won applause for fine stops and throws from the boundary. Saints were getting worried and juggled the bowling but it was not until well after lunch that Lyon, trying to drive McLachlan, hit an easy catch to him which this time he accepted. His had been a good innings when most needed and he added 25 of a valuable 75 partnership. Willoughby soon followed in similar fashion. His innings was one of the highlights of the match. Now Lathlean and Corbet were together with 5 runs to obtain the first innings lead. Corbet imperturbable as ever, lofted the first ball safely to short fine leg and then a missed stumping, two byes and a leg-bye gave us our lead. Irwin then bowled Corbet next ball and we led by 1 run.

Corbet, opened again, this time from the river end, but the batsmen had learned their lesson and left his shorter ones alone. This time it was Lathlean who did the initial damage by bowling Irwin and Robertson with beautiful inswingers. Hall took the ball and Ketley, trying to swing a shorter ball to leg, missed and was out l.b.w. for a meagre 11. Then Terrell nicked one onto his pads, it bounced softly to Willoughby at slip, and Saints were in a bad position—4 for 43. Hall 2 for 3, Lathlean 2 for 11. But now McLachlan and Lahey made runs. McLachlan batted attractively and Lahey showed us what should have been done more often—he lofted the ball hard, high and often over the infield. Then Lahey was out, well stumped by Ducker off Hall, whose figures were now 3 for 7. Ducker and Willoughby both dropped reasonably easy catches and at the end of the day's play, Saints had recovered and were 5 for 135—McLachlan 68 and Strickland 13 not out.

Third Day

Today Saints were on top. We began well when, on the second ball for the day, Walker bowled McLachlan and two overs later got Strickland l.b.w. Saints were now 7 for 148 and we were on top. On a pitch responsive to spin, Lyon could not find a length and was over-pitching many deliveries. Geoff. Hall noticeably limping, was replaced in the field by Whittam. Then Swift nicked an easy catch to Willoughby, who, in his anxiousness to make amends for past lapses snatched at the ball and dropped it. The batsmen, rattled, tried a quick single, but Willoughby quickly picked up the ball and Brimage was run out with the score 8 for 181. This was perhaps the turning point of the match, as Swift and Helier began a concentrated attack on the bowling which at no stage worried them, taking 12 off each of two successive overs from Lyon. They were going for their shots, and despite a little luck when lofted mis-hits dropped safely, and when Lyon just failed to hold a sizzling catch at square leg, they were batting well. Rogers was brought to the bowling crease in an attempt to dislodge them but the 300 came up in 303 minutes. At last Swift, at 90, played across a ball from Lyon and was bowled. His knock had been invaluable to Saints and a pleasure to watch, some of his cover drives especially being beauties. He took full toll of the below-standard bowling and must be congratulated. Helier soon followed when he skied Rogers to Lathlean at mid-off. Much the same can be said for Helier's 72 as for Swift's 90, and their 143 partnership in 130 minutes gave us the large score of 344 to chase.

Ducker and Rogers went out with our hopes on their shoulders. Neither batsmen was worried by Irwin or Strickland but when McLachlan came on, Ducker, all at sea, gave silly mid-on an easy catch. One for 21.

The scoring was slow against accurate bowling and Rogers, playing a characteristic innings fresh and attractive, was unfortunate to be out l.b.w. to Stevens for 25 when a ball kept low. Willoughby and Paterson looked safe until Willoughby came out to the wrong ball and was stumped. Seven balls later Wicks cut a shorter one straight into the hands of gully. Lyon and Paterson then concentrated on playing out the remainder of the day.

Fourth Day

With the score at 4 for 62 and Rogers' dismissal giving an unpleasant premonition of the state of the wicket, we were rather worried. But optimism was still high, as Lyon and Paterson could stay together and with Hall, Pearlman and Walker to follow, we could at least hope for a draw. However the pitch was faster and the ball was keeping lower, and after Lyon was out l.b.w. early, Paterson disappointed us all when he was run out trying a foolish single. With the score at 6 for 72, Hall limped out with Wicks as his runner. He had torn some of the fibres of a tendon in his heel, and had to have injections to deaden the pain. Pearlman was bowled by Strickland when one kept a little low and Hall followed later in the same over when he nicked one low to Swift. At this stage four wickets had fallen for 11 in the last day's play. Lathlean and Walker then put on 31 for the inevitable 9th wicket partnership. Lathlean after being dropped twice by McLachlan off his own bowling, was eventually bowled by Stevens when one kept low. However, he had showed unexpectedly good batting prowess. Corbet seemed intent on playing out the rest of the afternoon as McLachlan's tempting slows met a straight, unyielding bat. But a better ball bowled him, leaving Walker not out 17, and our total 107.

Several things may be learned from this match. It was noticeable in our batting that some of our boys lacked confidence and determination; many were afraid to use their feet to the slow bowlers, while the best innings in our total were mainly built upon these two characteristics:

It is always noticeable in an Intercoll. that boys well down the list are almost as capable of making runs as those further up. Just about every batsman can bowl reasonably well and most bowlers are capable of making runs. This was especially apparent in this match, with ninth-wicket partnerships of 143 and 31 and an eight-wicket partnership of 75. Bowlers and fieldsmen cannot afford to relax until the whole side is out.

Critique

By the Captain

R. A. Lyon (Vice-Captain)—A very good leg-spin bowler who possesses an excellent wrong 'un. At times is inclined to bowl too fast. A safe bat and a good field.

R. H. Wicks—A very promising bat who possesses shots all round the wicket. Must learn to jab down on the yorker more quickly. A good field.

B. G. Walker—A very promising leg-spin bowler who is not afraid to toss the ball well up. Bowled well throughout the year. A safe field and a good bat, especially when the going is not easy.

W. B. Lathlean—A fast-medium bowler who has developed since last year. At times a little inaccurate. A fair bat and a safe field.

P. Willoughby—A forceful batsman who is not afraid to drive slow bowling. Inclined to lift his bat too high when playing fast bowling. Must be congratulated on his score in the Intercol. match. A keen field.

R. G. Pearlman—Has had quite a good year with his batting. At times a little uncertain with his running between wickets. A change bowler and a good field.

M. E. Ducker—An opening bat who should show a big improvement next year. Has kept wickets well and has shown steady advancement.

C. D. Paterson—Came into the side late in the first term and has been improving ever since. Waits for the right ball to hit, and is not afraid to "have a go." A safe field with a good throw.

J. N. Rogers—A solid opening bat who is keen to improve all the time. Must sharpen up his running between the wickets. A safe field, and a useful off-spin bowler.

R. H. Corbet—A fast-medium opening bowler who has improved throughout the year. At times is inclined to bowl too short. A useful bat and a fair field.

P. Whittam (12th man)—Should be a big help to the side next year. A promising bat and an accurate off-spin bowler. A safe field.

G. C. Hall (Captain)—By the Coach. A very good all-round player who has made an excellent captain this year. Played some very good innings and thoroughly deserved to win the batting trophy for the year. A persistent off-spin bowler with good control of variation.

FIRST XI (Third Term 1953)October 12.—P.A.C. v. Port Adelaide "B"

This was an all-day match and was our first game for the season. We batted first on a good wicket, but could only manage 97 runs. Port Adelaide replied with a total of 133, thus winning the match on the first innings. In our second innings, Wicks batted well for his 41 not out.

Port Adelaide 133 (Lyon 3 for 36).
P.A.C. 97 and 4 for 78 (Wicks 41 n.o.)

October 17 and 24—P.A.C. v. Junior Colts

Junior Colts won the toss and were dismissed for 204 runs. The second day proved to be very exciting. At one stage we were 6 for 120, but Walker and Hall stayed together until we had gained a first innings win.

This match was our only victory for the term.

P.A.C. 9 for 219 (Hall 113 retired, Walker 44 n.o.).
Junior Colts 204 (Hall 5 for 46, Lyon 3 for 72).

October 31 and November 7—P.A.C. v. West Torrens "B"

Hall won the toss and elected to bat on a good wicket, but our batsmen could not stand up to the pace attack, and were dismissed for 129 runs.

The following Saturday's wicket was wet, and at first we had the opposition struggling for runs, but they finally passed our score. We batted again and were dismissed cheaply, but West Torrens did not have enough time to obtain an outright win.

West Torrens 155 (Hall 4 for 51, Corbet 4 for 70) and 3 for 37.
P.A.C. 129 (Pearlman 50, Paterson 37) and 90

November 14 and 21—P.A.C. v. Adelaide "B"

In this match our bowlers could not subdue the hard-hitting batsmen from Adelaide, and they finally declared their innings closed at 7 for 339.

Paterson and Pearlman batted extremely well, and it was mainly through them that we managed to draw the match, our score being 8 for 228 at "stumps."

Adelaide 7 for 339 (declared).
P.A.C. 9 for 228 (Paterson 86, Pearlman 71 n.o.).

November 28 and December 5—P.A.C. v. East Torrens

Princes batted first but could only manage the moderate total of 167, Willoughby being the only batsman to offer any resistance with a solid 74.

Walker bowled particularly well in this match and thoroughly deserved his 5 for 34. East Torrens declared late on the second day, and we played out time.

East Torrens 8 for 223 (dec.) (Walker 5 for 34).
P.A.C. 167 (Willoughby 74) and 4 for 72.

CRICKET NOTES (Third Term 1953)

As far as the First XI is concerned, the year 1953 ended unfortunately, as we were convincingly defeated by our traditional rivals in the Intercollegiate match. However, we feel that they would agree that it was an excellent game, played in a very good spirit, and that for two and a half days it was closely fought. In its other B Grade fixtures the team performed quite creditably, showing a steadiness that was most pleasing. It was very capably led by Geoff. Hall, who showed a maturity beyond his years in his intelligent captaincy.

The School is indeed fortunate to have boys of the calibre of Smyth and Dennis to lead the Second and Third XI's respectively. Very little of the glory that attaches to the Intercollegiate team comes their way, but they showed a keenness and pertinacity in the handling of their teams which was most commendable.

The under age teams generally performed very well, and if they can maintain their form and enthusiasm the future of cricket in the School should be bright.

We are once again indebted to those Masters who give so freely of their time to coach our teams. We hope and trust that they will continue to help us in the coming year. To all those who have now left us we wish every success in their future careers in the game, except perhaps when they return in opposition to us!

(First Term, 1954)

The First XI this year had more than its share of "teething troubles," and as a result has not fared very well at the hands of its more mature opponents. There were, however, several encouraging signs towards the end of the season, and it is felt that the players will certainly acquit themselves better in the third term. The team elected Rod. Wicks as their captain and Bill Lathlean vice-captain for the ensuing year, and both have shown themselves quite capable of handling their responsibilities. Distinctions between players are invidious, but mention must be made of the great improvement shown by Dick Corbet, whom only bad fielding has deprived of really good bowling figures, and Paul Stewart, who recovered his place in the team late in the term and went a long way towards consolidating it with an excellent 51 against Prospect.

The Second XI which looks very strong on paper, has not yet revealed its true potential, but should develop into a very formidable team later in the year.

Once again the policy of choosing all boys who wish to play in the under age B teams, providing they practice regularly, has been pursued.

The Front Oval has for some years now been attacked by the Paspalum weed, but a very vigorous counter-attack is now being waged by all hands and the menace should soon be under control. The surface of the oval has not been improved by some of the more violent methods adopted, but this too should soon be rectified.

Once again we should like to express our thanks to the ground staff for their most unselfish efforts on our behalf.

Second XI

Although weakened by the reinstatement of an Under 16 team, the Second XI won two of the three matches played.

Our most reliable batsman was Simpson who made 86 and 75 in two valuable innings, but all of the team went for their shots well and gained a great deal of experience.

We had a strong, fast and fast medium attack this term, which took most of the wickets, Ashby being the most successful with 11 wickets at 6.6 runs each. Also Giffen, who came up from the Third XI, bowled well, taking 4 for 16 in the last match.

We extend our thanks to Mr. Davies for his advice and coaching during the term.

Results:

P.A.C. 6 for 198 (dec.) (Simpson 86, Watson 46, Wundke 33), lost to C.B.C. First XI 229 (Ashby 4/10, Simpson 2/4).

P.A.C. 150 and 9 for 114 (Simpson 75), defeated Rostrevor College Second XI (Ashby 5/28).

P.A.C. 86 (Cameron 24), defeated S.P.S.C. U. 16 XI 83 (Giffen 4/16).

Third XI

Though only short, this season has been quite a successful one. Of the two matches which were played, we won the first outright against S.C., but were defeated by a decidedly stronger team, C.B.C., in the second match. Both matches were played at home.

Scores:

P.A.C. 113 (Barkham 23) and 105 (Richmond 24), def. Scotch Second XI 20 (Giffen 9/5) and 99 (Kelly and J. D. Smyth each 2 wkts.).
 P.A.C. 72 and 124 (Silver 34) lost to C.B.C. 146 (Jeffery 4/26) and 7 for 55 (Glastonbury 5/12).

Under 16

Unfortunately we lacked a regular 'keeper this term but those who tackled the job did fairly well. We usually gained a good start from Harris who with Whittam played some valuable knocks. Whittam, our only spinner and Harris bowled well although the latter often lacked fire. Tippet was a bright spot in a weak fielding side and Denton was most regular at practice. Early in the term a back injury robbed us of Kitto's bowling services, which was unfortunate.

We also thank Mr. Coombes for his efforts as Master-in-charge.

P.A.C. 9 for 101 (Harris 30), lost to Saints II 7 for 133 (Kitto 2/31).

P.A.C. 101 (Harris 50 and 5 for 81 (Mickan 32 n.o.), defeated P.G.S. 58 and 56 (Mickan 5/24 and 6/29, Greenslade 3/10, Harris 4/13).

P.A.C. 105 (Alexander 48, Whittam 40), lost to S.H.C. 9 for 135 (Whittam 3/39).

P.A.C. 136 (Whittam 65, Clarkson 27), lost to P.G.S. 7 for 168 (Branson 2/18, Harris 2/28).

Under 15

The School entered two teams in the Under 15 competition. The Red Team consisted mainly of boarders; the White Team was composed entirely of day boys.

Reds: The Red Team played three matches and won all three, being successful against S.P.S.C. (a), P.G.S. and also against A.B.H.S.

Hurn has been the most successful batsman and is to be congratulated on a fine score of 177 in the match against P.G.S. Inglis and Heaslip have also done well with the bat, and good bowling performances have been given by Hurn, Heaslip and Koch.

Heaslip has proved himself a keen and capable skipper.

Whites: The Whites have not met with as much success as usual and have won only one of the three matches played.

Pearlman has captained the team well and has met with some success with bat and ball. Doley has batted well on occasion and gives promise of becoming an excellent leg spin bowler. Others who have met with varying degrees of success are Mitchell, Shuttleworth and North.

We should like to thank Mr. R. Smith who coached us throughout the term.

Under 14

The A team had a successful season, losing one match to C.B.C., and defeating Sacred Heart, Unley High, Scotch, Woodville High, and Rostrevor.

The most successful batsmen were Todd and Oaten, and of the bowlers, Rogers, Oaten, Simmons and Blight gained most of the wickets.

Unfortunately Hopkins, the captain, injured his leg early in the season and played only one match.

Towards the end of the season, a P.A.C. junior XI played matches against the visiting schoolboy teams from N.S.W. and Q. Several under 14 boys gained valuable experience from these matches.

The B team, captained by Chapman, gave all who were keen an opportunity of representing the school.

We should like to thank Mr. Provis for the interest he has taken in the group, and for the help he has so freely given.

Under 13 A

A very successful season, in which we won five matches out of six, began with the appointment of Hill as captain of the team. The most successful bowlers were Paul and Dinnison, with Hill and Trowse best with the bat. Our results were best against C.B.C. when we scored 171 (Hill 51 ret., Trowse 54 ret.) to our opponents' 60 (Dinnison 5 for 8, Hill 2 for 0).

We also defeated Sacred Heart, Scotch, Rostrevor and Unley High School, but lost to a strong Woodville High team.

The team has played well through the season, and we should like to thank Mr. Keeves who took a great interest in every match and practice.

Under 13 B

The team has had a successful and enjoyable season, playing with keenness and enthusiasm. Best players have been Gogler (Captain), Cole and Herbert with the bat, and R. Evans and Saint with the ball. To prefect Bill Lathlean we all extend our sincere thanks for the help he has given and the interest he has taken in our games.

GENTLEMEN v. PLAYERS

Under doubtful skies and amidst stentorian cheers, the Gentlemen took the field, closely followed by that well-proved opening combination—Murray Ducker and "Shorty" Rogers. On an atrocious wicket and against accurate bowling they batted steadily, though not without occasional discomfort when an occasional ball "popped," until the skies opened and deposited all their accumulated wrath on the foolish mortals who dared to challenge the First Eleven. Amidst great cheering, Mr. Davies magnanimously allowed everyone else to precede him from the field.

However, the rain did not last long, and Rogers and Ducker continued against the accurate attack. The cricket was distinctly slow for a picnic match, and it was not until the advent of Mr. Keeves and Mr. Bowen to the bowling crease that it brightened. Then one of the Gentlemen actually got a wicket! Not that the attack had not been varied and at times brilliant. (Messrs. Dunning, Coombes, Smith and Leak had proved that though the passage of time and lack of practice may have dimmed their former brilliance, they were still bowlers of ability) but the younger brigade had managed to run up an impressive list of retirements. Then after a brilliant catch by Mr. Coombes at deep fine leg from a rather peculiar shot by Lyon and Mr. Close's ultimate success in stumping Corbet, the innings closed for 193.

Mr. Close and Mr. Provis opened confidently, and despite a couple of nasty knocks, Mr. Close set about punishing anything loose. Mr. Provis, however, was caught behind when he played a cross-bat outside the off stump, and Mr. Coombes not long after lofted Lyon to mid-on. A nice catch by Lyon ended Mr. Smith's innings, but this was hardly fair, as when one hooks to square leg one does not expect a pair of lanky arms surmounted by large hands to stretch out and catch the ball. Meantime Mr. Leak and Mr. Dunning added valuable runs until after hitting the six he had been trying for Mr. Leak retired. The Gentlemen's stocks were slumping but a dashing innings in characteristic vein from Mr. Davies and the stout defence of Mr. Keeves added more runs. Despite the ringing of the tea bell, the boarders could not tear themselves away from their idol, and Mr. Keeves' every stroke was cheered. After the retirement of Mr. Davies, Mr. Dennis strode out to the cheers of V1A, who had long been awaiting this moment. A powerful two was followed by a deadly rattle and V1A voiced its jubilation. Mr. Lawrie showed unexpected aggression, but amidst light rain the match ended as Willoughby bowled him. So for another year the Masters must be content to forego the willow and swish other instruments of more inglorious character.

INTERCOLLEGIATE MATCH

With the weather ideal and both teams confident, we looked forward to a fine day's tennis. The opening doubles matches were: Southwood—Shearer (P.A.C.) v. Swift—Crozier (S.P.S.C.), Wicks—Lemon (P.A.C.) v. Hyde—Lahey (S.P.S.C.), and Cox—Symons (P.A.C.) v. Wilson—Kerr (S.P.S.C.).

All players began nervously and there were many service breaks, but the standard of play soon improved. Southwood—Shearer dominated their first match with a fast, serve-volley game and outpointed their less experienced rivals 6—2, 6—4. Wicks—Lemon also proved a strong pair and with a mixture of strong driving by Wicks and net-rushing by Lemon they defeated their opponents in an even battle, 6—5 6—4. However Cox—Symons were out-classed by the Saints' first pair Kerr—Wilson, losing 1—6, 3—6. Nevertheless not for one moment did they give up the fight.

Thus, at the end of the first round, the scores were P.A.C. 2 rubbers 4 sets, S.P.S.C. 1 rubber 2 sets.

The morning's singles proved disastrous for us, as we lost all three. Symons went down 6—2, 5—6, 2—6 to Lahey, after leading 6—2, 5—2; Lemon was out-driven by Crozier 3—6, 4—6, and Wicks, forgetting to rush the net, was beaten 3—6, 1—6 by Hyde.

At lunch the scoreboard read: P.A.C. 2 rubbers 5 sets; S.P.S.C. 4 rubbers 8 sets.

In the afternoon a fairly strong westerly wind arose making conditions rather dusty and unpleasant for a while. In these circumstances the second round of the doubles began in which we saw the meeting of the first doubles pair of each school. Our pair found their volleying somewhat upset by Kerr's low returns from the baseline, and lost the first set 2—6. In the second, they adapted themselves to the game, but their opponents were now very confident, and took the set 6—4 and the rubber 6—1, 6—4. Lemon and Wicks again won, defeating Swift—Crozier 6—3, 4—6, 7—5 in a tense, exciting match, but Symons—Cox were defeated by Hyde and Lahey 4—6, 4—6.

P.A.C., 3 rubbers 7 sets; S.P.S.C., 6 rubber 13 sets.

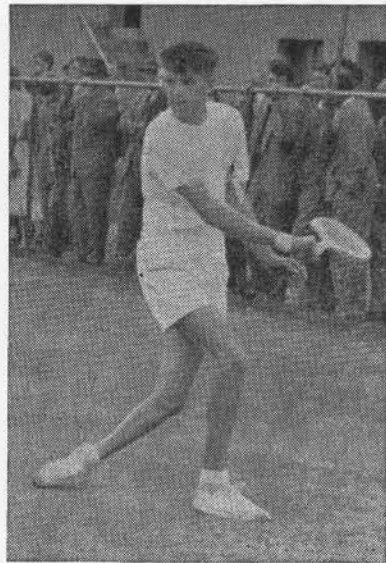

Kerr, who was faster around the court, defeated Southwood in the main match of the day 6—3, 6—0, and a weary Shearer went down to Wilson 6—3, 3—6, 4—6, the latter volleying the better. Cox provided our only singles victory when he defeated Swift 6—2, 1—6, 6—4.

P.A.C., 4 rubbers 10 sets; S.P.S.C., 8 rubbers 18 sets.

Now that St. Peters had won, the crowd began to disperse and the stands were about empty when Swift—Crozier d. Cox—Symons 6—0, 6—1, Southwood—Shearer d. Lahey—Hyde 6—5, 5—6, 6—1, and Wilson—Kerr d. Wicks—Lemon 6—3, 4—6, 6—4 in which our pair put up a great fight.

Thus we saw the cup go to Saints, who had to fight all the way and well deserved their victory.

Winner of School Championship

SCHOOL TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

1954

In the quarter-finals Lemon played well to press Southwood who won 9—7 while Wicks defeated Symons 9—6. James extended Cox who just won 9—8 and Shearer played consistently to defeat Wundke 9—6. In the semi-finals Southwood defeated Wicks 5—6, 6—1, 6—2 and after a very even contest Shearer won against Cox 6—2, 2—6, 7—5. This left Southwood to play Shearer in the final. In the first set Southwood failed to settle down and Shearer won 6—0. The second set produced much better tennis and went to Southwood 6—4. In the third set Shearer led 5—1 but Southwood steadily overhauled his opponent by winning the next five games. Shearer then gained the mastery, winning the set 7—5 and thus secured the School Championship.

Critique

Southwood, D. M. (Capt.)—Reliable sliced backhand and serve. Exaggerated topspin forehand and toss could be used more often. Intercepts well in doubles and smashing has improved greatly. Tends to lack concentration on return of service.

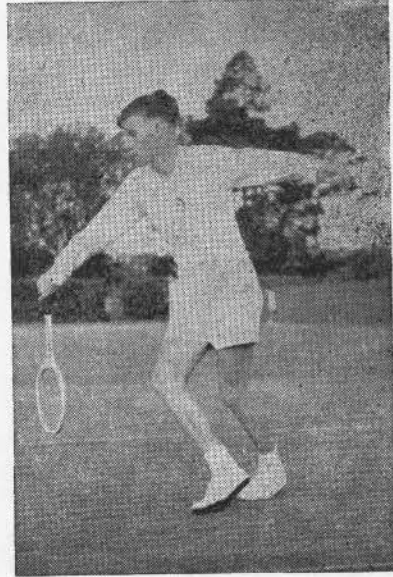

Shearer, R. C.—This player has improved much during the last year especially on backhand side and second serve. Has a well controlled forehand but smashing needs improvement. Unorthodox volleying has handicapped his net play.

Cox, B. B.—An excellent singles player with well controlled shots from both sides. Service is accurate but lacks power and variation. Smashing is often vulnerable and needs to move faster in doubles.

Symons, F. J. W.—A player of much ability and plenty of strong shots. However lapses in concentration have caused erratic form. Thrives on a fast game and is sometimes upset by a slow cautious game.

Wicks, R. H.—This player has been consistent throughout the year but service and smashing lack determination. Net play has been hindered by faulty positional play. Good topspin forehand but backhand could be strengthened.

Lemon, M. J.—Has improved greatly. Good first serve and well placed second. Good doubles ability may be attributed to well placed service return and good tossing. Lacks confidence in smashing.

SOFT RAIN

Sultry days
Hot and uncomfortable.
The sky darkens to grey-blue expanse of cloud.
A cool, refreshing, new smell,
A gentle pattering,
Soft rain.

The noises of it,
Smacking into puddles on the glistening roads,
Plopping to the ground from ledges,
Like peaches falling ripe from the tree,
A dull, continuous drumming
Of myriad fingers
Fumbling and tapping on the roofs,
Like a faraway roll of drums;
The noises of the soft rain.

It washes away the dirt and grime
Of the city.
Leaves the houses and the roads in the suburbs
Clean and sparkling in the sun,
To dry.
The taste of Earth vanishes,
In its place an invigorating freshness,
A newness,
Some indefinable sense
Of the cleansing, soft rain.

How alive the garden looks through the window!
Like a creature tasting anew a pleasure—forgotten,
But longed for blindly,
And finding it still as sweet as before,
As the memory comes flooding back with the first taste,
The memory of the sweet, soft rain.

A cool, refreshing sensation,
A gentle pattering,
Ending thirst,
Bringing life,
Soft rain, soft rain, soft rain.

WINTER EVENING

He strode outraged into the night. His mind
Was turbulent with bitterness toward His fellow men. In his despair he raised
His clouded eyes and turned them heavenward.
The winter sky was covered o'er with clouds,
Fantastic shapes, to more fantastic being
Quickened by every breath of wind, and swiftly
Past hidden moon and stars obscurely fleeing.
The silent fugitives of Night were softly Swept on their way. They left the wind to mould

Their fickle forms, which passing by the moon
Revealed their beauty in a light of gold.
He was amazed by loveliness like this.
The cruel revenge on which his mind was bent
Was swept away, and in its place was left
A joyousness, and in his soul content.

JIM

Often when the close of the day is drawing near,
And the setting sun is glowing brilliant red,
Sitting there alone, my thoughts come swift and clear,
Of the wild and fiery life that I have led.

I was working on a station when first I met
Black Jim;
He was tall and strong and evil, wild as fire;
But something in his make-up attracted me to him—
He appealed to my adventurous desire.

Six years we worked together—six years, and it seemed
That those six years had gone as quick as one
When Jim got in a fight—of course, he never dreamed
That the seedy-looking stockman had a gun!

(Written after having read Edward Fitzgerald's translation of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam)

O brother, tarry not along the way
Your time is dear and precious, far too short
To waste in vain endeavour e'en a day,
Which at the cost of striving has been bought.

Our life is one with all things animate—
It dies, but time eternal is, as space.
As all things living quickly meet their fate,
O make the most of life in this dull place.

THE OPTIMISTS

The three men sat on the fallen log
One ate a plum which was ripe,
Another just sucked at a piece of straw,
And the other one puffed at his pipe.
"I think," said the first in a sorrowful voice,
"That the rain up to date has been good,
But we need a lot more, and I doubt if we'll get
The proper amount that we should."
The man who was sucking the piece of straw,
Turn'd to his comrades and gloomily said
"If we don't get a drought by the end of next month

I'll be eatin' the hat off my head."
The third man gave his trousers a hitch,
Then his views to the others were given—
"Tis my guess," said he "that before very long
There won't be a bloomin' thing livin'."
The next day the rain fell, and heavy it was,
And the three watched the water run;
Then they looked at the clouds, and shaking their heads

They spoke of the flood which would come.

FEDERAL PARLIAMENT HOUSE

While spending a few days in Canberra, we visited the white, outstanding Parliament House. We inspected a small museum beneath the buildings, in which were many historic petitions and agreements. Among the books, I noticed a volume that Captain Scott took to Antarctica aboard his ship "Discovery I" in his earlier expedition (1901-1904). As my great-grandfather attended the first Parliament, all this was especially interesting to me.

Then a guide took us on a descriptive tour of Parliament House. Firstly, he showed us the House of Representatives. He said that an interesting point was the difference in colour schemes between the two houses. In the House of Representatives a pattern of wattle and gum leaves was hand woven into the carpet. The carpet weighs over half a ton and was woven in Scotland. Its colouring is of dark green, as also are the curtains and furniture, and this dark green is the traditional colour of the House of Commons in London. In the Senate however everything is wine red, corresponding to the House of Lords.

At the back of the Lower House are special compartments where the ambassadors sit. The Speaker's chair is an exact copy of the original chair in England and is made of English oak, taken from a beam in Westminster Hall. The arm-rests are made of wood which came from Nelson's "Victory." During the last war, the House of Commons in England was badly bombed, and the original chair destroyed, and so men came from England and took a copy of the chair in the House of Representatives to replace the original in London.

When the House is in session, a valuable gold mace is placed on the table, symbolizing the Speaker's authority. On the right of the Speaker sit the members of the Government, led by the Prime Minister, and on the left are the Opposition.

After passing from the House of Representatives we entered King's Hall where are portrayed many famous personalities.

WHEN THE PIPES BURST

Chaos reigned in the house when young Bobby scraped the flimsy rust off the pipes, causing them to burst with a terrific gushing and squirting. Mother rushed to the laundry, only to be immediately soaked to the skin by the playful stream of liberated water, for it sprayed directly, and almost purposely at the entrance to the laundry. Mother, choking down her rage, stepped past the stream of water and called sweetly to her youngest son. Grabbing him by the ear she dragged him through the water and out into the adjoining verandah. There she promptly sent him to bed with the promise of a hiding, or perhaps worse, a severe lecture.

Braving the waters, she again dashed into the laundry and peered through the fine spray to see what size hole had been made in the pipe. Guessing the approximate size of the hole she searched for a large enough piece of rag to fit it. Having found this, she pushed it with all her force into the hole. The water squirted in all direction now with increased velocity, seemingly angered and obviously determined not to let this mortal stop its frolicking. Mother blinked her eyes furiously and opened and shut her mouth like a goldfish in a bowl, as she tossed her head from side to side in her attempts to escape from the blinding spray.

Finally, succeeding in her efforts, she turned away to ring up the plumber. Behind her the stifled water dribbled, defeated and dejected, from the resisting piece of rag. After dialling the number, she waited for the reply of the plumber. As she sat, a loud "plop" was heard from the laundry—the pressure of the water had overcome the resisting piece of rag. Calmly Mother sat there—it was useless to attempt another attack on the water, and so, when the plumber answered, she asked for his assistance quite civilly.

After replacing the 'phone on its stand, she returned to her normal duties of cleaning up the house. She started by sweeping the kitchen floor. From out in the laundry came the joyful sounds of rushing water, mocking at her futile efforts to curb its flow. This she could not bear; so she determinedly marched toward the laundry and the geyser of water. Deciding that the rag was useless, she found a large cake of soap and pressed it, with one quick, squirtless jab, into the gaping hole. The waters surrendered to this move, and so Mother turned away triumphantly, only to be confronted by the plumber.

He explained to Mother that as she had plunged the soap into the hole in the pipe, he had switched off the water-meter, this being the reason why the soap had easily stopped up the hole. Mother nearly collapsed with rage. She had forgotten all about the meter!

BACK-SEAT DRIVERS

Back-seat driving is an art that takes one years of practice to acquire fully. All the best back-seat drivers are artists, and, like all artists, they must be born with a certain amount of natural genius. We find that most of the really good back-seat drivers belong to the female sex, and are of that species who, from the cradle up, are able to talk loudly and long on the matters about which they know nothing. This, coupled with the ability to say the right word at the wrong time, is all that one needs in order to start a career of driving from the back seat.

These two characteristics which I have mentioned above are, however, only the foundations upon which the art is built. One can have both these characteristics and still be only a mediocre back-seat driver. The woman's privilege of changing her mind is an essential quality, as well as the ability, much harder to obtain, to monopolise, without appearing to, any conversation in a car, and so to attack the eardrums of the car's occupants that they are all reduced to the condition of nervous wrecks with aching heads and fuddled brains.

This gift of being able to change a car-driver into a moron, by the simple power of the human voice, is the ambition of all aspirants to fame in that great and noble art. Few, however, ever reach the standard of eloquence and sibilance necessary to achieve what is in their minds this very desirable thing.

A back-seat driver who does attain this standard of excellence is often the cause of many accidents when, having completely bopped her husband's brains (ninety-nine per cent. of all back-seat drivers are married women), she suddenly changes her mind in the middle of a crowded road, and orders her husband to turn left instead of right, and, just as he is about to do so, orders him to turn right again, causing him to sway all over the road and usually finish wrapped around the nearest lamp-post. She, the back-seat driver, then jumps out of the car (she always escapes unhurt) and tells the crowd of sympathetic females surrounding her that she told her husband to turn right and he would turn left, that no husband can drive, and that all men are imbeciles! The timely arrival of the police or an ambulance is usually the only thing that prevents the poor unfortunate husband from being lynched.

With the coming of the automobile, the back-seat driver has been publicised more and more. Comedians derided her, but comedienues retaliated with pictures of cowed men washing up for all-conquering wives.

A man can't win. If the comedians had only looked up their history books in the first place, they would have realized this. Charioteers at Rome refused to race because of the back-seat drivers, and thus the Colosseum lost one of its star attractions. Captain Cook might never have been wrecked on the Great Barrier Reef if it had not been for a back-seat driver. Even space-ships of the future will probably have back-seat drivers, although that never-dying race would be far less dangerous roaming through outer space and bumping into a few meteors now and then, than if they were in helicopters, clumsy things and liable to go in any direction, or driving in atom-powered cars at a thousand miles an hour.

One can only regard the decorations and illuminations in Adelaide with extremely mixed feelings, for some were simply atrocious, while others created a magnificent impression. Flags, bunting and banners were what the city firms chose mainly for the decoration of their buildings. The majority of the buildings along the Royal Progress route had long drapes in red, white and blue, stretched loosely from top to bottom or from side to side, while others had long strings of small, multicoloured flags. A Union Jack or an Australian Flag fluttered gaily or drooped forlornly as the case may be, at every mast-head in the city. The banners borrowed from Sydney and Melbourne, and placed on the telegraph poles along the streets, were without doubt wonderfully successful. To see those banners billowing out in the breeze, showing off their gloriously rich colours was, indeed, a stirring sight.

Torrens Lake was "decorated" with two large swans, one black and the other white, and a number of pink and white lilies. These monstrosities made very insignificant the natural beauty of our lake and of the black swans which grace those waters. The artificial swans about the size of one hundred large swans put together, looked unnatural and not at all elegant or dignified. However Torrens Lake was decorated, not by the swans or lilies, artificial to the backbone, but by the magnificent fountain that was placed near the King William Road Bridge. The lake is a shapeless dark mass by night, but the delightful fountain, with the help of the bright lights seen through the trees in Elder Park, which threw reflections on the water, completely transfigured it into a splash of light.

King William Street was a lovely sight by night. It was beautiful because it was not exaggerated. All along the road among the trees were lines of lighted globes of hundreds of different colours, throwing a brilliant splash of colour on the dark background of the leaves. Farther up, in the city, could be seen the maze of tiny globes which lit up the intersections.

J. P. M., V L A

Thus Adelaide was decked out in her gayest garb, taking the good with the bad. The city was bright and gay all the time and gave international tourists a good impression.

STANDING IN THE ROYAL PROGRESS CROWD

Excitement was rapidly mounting. "She" had left Government House. "She" had laid the wreath at the Memorial, "She" had turned into Rundle Street, and "She" would soon pass the position where I was standing, or rather, where I was pinned. The moment was rapidly approaching when my long hours of waiting would reach their climax. Early that morning I had risen, rugged myself up well, and had caught the bus to the city. Soon afterwards I had taken up my position along the barricade.

On arriving at my position I had been able to spread myself out and stand quite comfortably. I thought to myself then, "This is not too bad!" How disillusioned I was! A quarter of an hour after my arrival, folk began arriving. The first to come was a family of six. As there was not enough room on either side of me for the family to stand together, I was jostled along until I was confronted by a barricade post, which conveniently got in my way. With one leg on each side of the post, I began to read the book I had brought with me. The crowd was steadily arriving now. Behind me, an old gentleman and his wife were proceeding to get their morning cup of tea. The gentleman was attempting to pour the tea, holding a cigarette in his hand. During this process I received a stain of tea on my overcoat, and the back of my neck was burnt with the man's cigarette.

The crowd behind me was now five deep. I was pinned up against the barricade, camera in hand. The Queen was not far off. Our public address system was cut off and I began focusing my camera. My camera was all poised and I, ready to take a snap, when a woman near me said, "Go on, Johnny, the little boy will let you get to the front." I was obliged to let Johnny through, who was armed with two Union Jacks. The Royal Car was now in sight. I prepared to take a photo of the Royal Couple. The car was now level with me and I clicked the shutter. Everyone was cheering and flags were being waved frantically. Even "Johnny" in front of me was waving his Union Jack.

The moment was now over and I slowly made my way home again. That afternoon I developed my film to find a lovely portrait of—A Union Jack.

A WALK IN THE BLUE BUSH SCRUB

Whenever I think of walking, I think of the great mallee flats of the River Murray, which winds for over a thousand miles through south-eastern Australia. For it is on such flats in South Australia that I have spent a great deal of time in studying natural history.

Well do I remember my last visit to the mallee flats near Sutherlands several weeks ago. Together with three other boys, I was engaged in an extensive search of a bluebush scrub for one of Australia's most elusive birds, the red-throat. For three hours we tramped over the reddish, sandy earth, but there was no sign of our quarry.

What a dismal picture is a bluebush scrub, and how peaceful it seems! This is always the first thought I have on seeing such a scrub, and it was the same this day. All was quiet except for the monotonous whine of the wind overhead. You can always hear the wind in these scrubs. Never is it absent, and I think that it contributes greatly to the loneliness of the surroundings. Yet the low, stunted bluebushes and the stunted growths of mallee, sparsely dotted over the plain, did not move. Before us was one shimmering haze of blue; above the deep blue of the sky.

Slowly we trudged along, always keeping within sight of the only sign of civilization for many miles—a fence. Here and there was heard the feeble whistle of a quail-thrush, a bird of such shy habits that I could think of no place better suited to it. After a time I came upon a dried-up watercourse, which, I am sure, had not contained water for several months. My appearance startled a somewhat lean kangaroo, which was feeding nearby. Away he went, the drumming of his feet sounding like the roar of a battle on the plain.

I soon felt as if every bush were watching me, an unwelcome visitor amongst them. I grew sick of the withered bluebushes, which, when the rains came, though I doubt very much whether it does rain on the Murray flats, would regain the colour that has earned them their name. And so it was with satisfaction that I found several saltbush plants near a patch of red mallee, but apart from the two species, there was no other plant visible.

Suddenly from a small mallee shoot came a peevish, rippling call, which slowly grew in volume. A small bird flitted to the top of the shoot, and then poured forth its beautiful song, like water flowing from a golden jar. This drably-coloured bird with the glorious call was the red-throat, the object of our search. We all wondered that such a glorious song could be heard in so barren a spot.

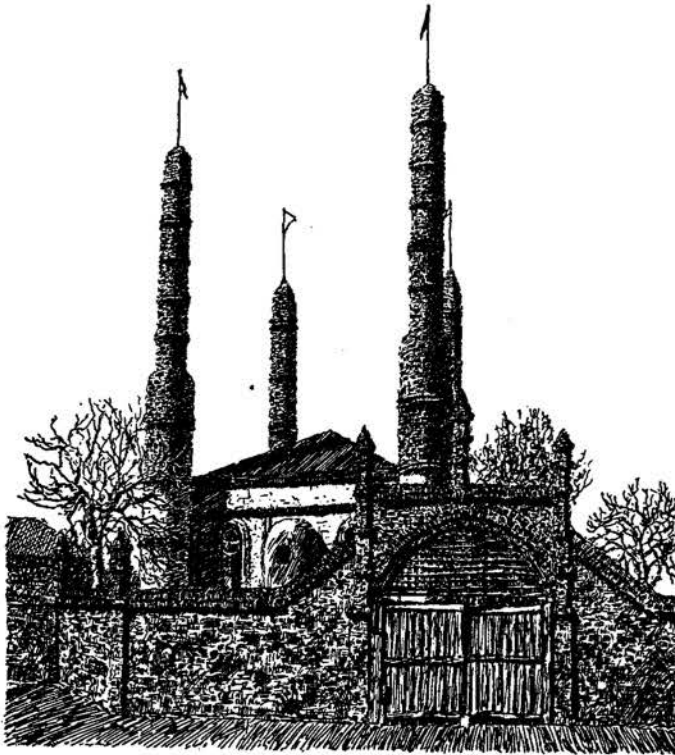

This, however, was the zenith of the beauty of this humid scrub. Soon the wind drowned the beautiful song of the bird, as we steadily drew away from it. The same eerie quiet hung around us, and, as a scrub-fly wheeled past, I thought that the famous lines of Gray's elegy well described the scene as evening approached:

"Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight,
And all the air a solemn stillness holds,
Save where the beetle wheels his droning flight."

There is nothing so solitary as a walk in this bush. As we made our way slowly back to our car, an owlet-nightjar mocked us with its lonely cry. Again I thought of Gray:

"The moping owl does to the moon complain
Of such as, wandering near her secret bower,
Molest her ancient solitary reign."

A VISIT TO A PINEAPPLE CANNERY IN QUEENSLAND

Situated on the outskirts of Brisbane is the home of the Golden Circle Products, over which the group of boys who went on the Brisbane-Heron Island Tour were shown. The party, with two guides, started at the noisy can-producing machine, which is capable of making 320 cans of 16, 20, 24 or 30 oz. sizes per minute. Then we passed through a doorway into a huge section where crates of ripe pineapples from Rockhampton and Mackay were piled. Men threw aside the badly bruised pineapples and fed the rest into the line of six "Ginaca" machines which remove the skin, ends, and cores of the fruit. The shells and cores are conveyed to presses for the extraction of juice, the crushed residue being dehydrated in a rotary boiler and sold as Pineapple Bran, an excellent livestock fodder.

The fruit from the "Ginaca" machines is carefully inspected, and any particle of remaining skin is removed by the trimmers. Automatic slicers cut the juicy fruit into approximately four inch rings. At the packing tables we were served with a sample of the factory's productions, trays of pineapple slices and glasses of pineapple juice.

Filled cans are hand-trucked to automatic syrupers where each can receives a uniform amount of syrup and passes to the seaming machine where tops are double seamed at a rate of more than one hundred per minute. Then to the cooker! Here the contents of the sealed cans are heat treated in continuous agitating sterilizers, at a predetermined temperature, for a period of fifteen to twenty minutes. Cans pass directly through coolers to prevent any over-processing of the fruit. High-speed machines automatically label the cans and then mechanically pack and seal them in fibre board cartons.

A single pineapple passes through the entire process in approximately thirty-one minutes.

In the modern laboratory, the heart of the processing area, samples are tested continuously to ensure the use of only the best fruit and other ingredients.

HINTS TO HOME BUILDERS

Over 8,000 homes are erected in South Australia each year, and I think it topical to offer the following hints to potential home builders:

1. Select your site preferably not in the middle of a creek, under a waterfall or on an allotment on which a house already exists.

2. Obtain a plan. An architect is employed, but excellent plans have been made by undertakers, watchmakers and post-hole diggers. (What's wrong with the Marshall Plan, and the Five-Year Plan?).

3. Set out the house on the site. Do this with a graduated measure such as a rule.

(Burettes and thermometers do not usually suit the purpose). Remember, if a ruler is not available, that the distance between the first and second joints of the right hand forefinger is one inch.

4. Although unusual, it is better to erect the roof in the first instance, as this provides protection against the elements for the construction of the remainder of the building.

5. An extra special method is offered by my friend in the next padded cell regarding house construction. His method is to obtain a Zeppelin over which concrete is poured. When the concrete has set, deflate the Zeppelin, withdraw the fabric and Hey Presto! your house.

6. In the planning stages, it is difficult to visualize the effect of door and window openings. It is therefore advisable that these must be broken through the walls to suit, after the furniture has been disposed in the various rooms.

7. Near the front door instal an eye-bolt to which a horse could be tied. Without this you would feel frightfully embarrassed if one of your friends arrived on horseback, and you had nowhere to secure the animal.

8. Excellent results can be obtained after the electrical, drainage and plumbing installations have been completed if they are connected to the mains.

After following these hints, if you find that the resulting house is not to your liking, do not be concerned, because neither would St. Paul's Cathedral, the Pyramid of Cheops, or the Taj Mahal.

A RARE BUSH MEETING

One afternoon during my short stay at Robe, I was walking in natural bush country when I had a very fortunate meeting with a rare little animal.

The scrub was dense and quiet, with ti-tree and native boobialah hedge reaching to the ground. It was while hunting through this undergrowth that I noticed a queer little animal waddling across a path before me. When I realized that I was face to face with an echidna or Australian spiny ant-eater, I quickly stopped it so that I might observe it at closer quarters. As soon as it saw me, it began burrowing into the sandy soil beneath it, and I was amazed at the speed at which it began to disappear. It used the roots of the bushes in the sand to aid its rapid subterranean departure, and it was a matter of seconds before only a few spines indicated the presence of my friend.

Indeed this is a queer animal; for it lays eggs and then suckles its young. I thought this a very interesting meeting and, as the echidna was almost out of sight, I decided to dig it up to get a look at it. After breaking innumerable solid sticks in the effort, I did manage to dislodge the little fellow, but he immediately rolled himself into a ball, head to tail.

I did notice a few of its features, however, and they were of great interest to me. The legs and feet were strong, the back feet shovel-like with long flat claws to aid in its excavation operations. The animal's head, back and stump-tail were covered with rigid, dark-brown spines, about two inches long and white-tipped. These spines were sharp and rigid but loosely attached to the skin and very sensitive. They were indeed very useful weapons of defence. Beneath these spines were a few coarse brown hairs. The belly was covered with coarse hair; the skin beneath was black. This queer animal had no neck and the snout seemed to come from its shoulders. This snout was used to overturn rocks under which live the echidna's food—white ants.

After this delay in the echidna's journey, I released it and it scuffled under the nearest bush and descended vertically into the sand where I left it to itself.

J. D. S., VIB

Slowly I approached the big pool, crouching low so that no cruising trout would see me.

A small brown trout was cruising near the surface picking small surface flies off it with a minimum of effort. Knotting a silver doctor wet fly on my cast, I commenced fishing for a bigger fish. The small trout circled my fly slowly and then shot off into the depths as a much bigger brother sailed up to my fly and surveyed it. As he drew in the fly, my attention was diverted by the return of the small fish, and consequently I struck too late.

After resting the water for a quarter of an hour, I resumed casting with a Jock Scott on my cast. Again my fly was scorned by the little chap and again his big friend sailed up to inspect it. This time I connected as he drew it in; at once he made a mighty leap from the water. After further leaps and much diving and lunging I thought he was ready for the net. Slowly I slid the net under him and in the twinkling of an eye had swept him up on to the bank where he lay glistening silver and yellow with his big red spots, truly a mighty trout.

NEAR GOVETT'S LEAP, IN THE BLUE MOUNTAINS

Fairest and pleasantest of summer's haunts
Are these strange mountains: from flowing draperies

Of crowded gums that clothe the long deep valley

Rise sheer the level-lined walls of rock,
Bright, naked cliffs, sand-coloured in the sun,
In places edged with softest, purest green.

And Nature's mighty hand had bodily hewn
One lofty cliff with rugged symmetry;

It seemed an ancient temple's massive wall,
That stood on a flat-topped mountain fearlessly.

I watched from height along the winding valley,

Sun-drenched and shadow-speared, crowned by the cliffs

That stood in crooked ranks for miles around,
And formed a broken and living sky-line;

The pleasant colours faded, softening,
And almost merging in hazy distance.

But oh! the blue was ne'er by artist found
That filled the velvet valley's sun and shadow!

Such azure, 'twas the dazzling sky on earth,
The spirit of the smiling heavens with us!

The valley was a lake of limpid blue
Where sloping shadows floated lazily;

A lake that rose soft-edged to rising cliffs,
And spread its splendour like a sunny sea.

Later I saw usurping shadows creep
Over the gums, and climb with constant stealth

The fiery rock, glowing in majesty!
And now 'twas crowned with sunset gold,
Now scarcely rimmed with ever-dying fire;

And, lastly, touched with soft, red afterglow.

L. T. S., VIU

The sunset's brilliance slowly dies away,
The twinkling stars peep out from fading blue,

The western sky assumes a sombre hue,
In quiet beauty dies another day.

The birds have all flown home. Their drowsy calls

Give way to peaceful silence. Now the night

Is filled with other sounds—all hid from sight,

A frog, the breeze and distant waterfalls.
But in the faded light there seems to be

A spell, for ugliness is dimmed, and yet
The beauty, softened now the sun is set,

And silent, still is beautiful to see.
And now the Goddess Moon begins to rise
And all is silvered o'er before my eyes.

M. E. B. S., VIU

THE BUSH

When tired and weary of the world, I rise
 And to the quiet, knowing scrub I fly.
 And all around the trees reach to the sky's Vast blueness. Here find I true peace, and high

My spirit soars, for here my troubles end.
 And I can hear the little birds, and see
 Them flying to and fro where branches bend
 And form such restful shapes. The busy bee,
 His golden legs with pollen laden full,
 Goes flying round the blossom of the gums
 And shares with honey-eating birds and all
 The other bees, the nectar for which he comes.

So here I find relief from all the rush
 And clash of world affairs. For here's the bush.

SONNET

Though I have known the city's many charms,
 Its warm sophisticated company,
 I also know its human rivalry,
 Its sordid slums, its noises, its alarms.
 And when I tear myself from all this maze
 Of soul-less men, and feast my weary eyes
 On brown and green of earth and blue of skies,

Then gone is all the clash of city days.
 I know not why, but once I felt within,
 When gazing on a scene with thoughtful brow,

That Nature in herself was incomplete;
 She seemed a little lonely then, but now
 I see in earth below and heaven above
 That missing something, our undying love.

The Preparatory School

The excitement produced by the recent visit of Her Majesty the Queen, and His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, has caused disruption in the more sober routine of school life. However, the boys of the Prep. School have been greatly uplifted by seeing Her Majesty and have stored away many precious memories of her visit which will colour their whole lives.

The Prep. was fortunate in having a group of thirty boys taking part in the Schools' Demonstration and all members of this group with Messrs Kesting and Crouch who trained them, are to be congratulated on the very creditable way in which the intricate demonstration routine was performed. We shall all miss our daily dose of "Lena" and "Cuckoo" after hearing these tunes for almost two terms.

House Competition

We have to congratulate Robertson House on winning the A. W. Welch Cup in the House Competition of 1953. Since the House Competition was introduced in 1937 Robertson has won the Cup ten times and Chapple seven.

This year a third House has been created. It has been named Mitchell House to honour the memory of Mr. Norman (Henderson) Mitchell, who was Master-in-charge of the Preparatory School from 1937 till his death in November, 1948. To him is due much of the present organization of the Preparatory School and most of the reputation that the Preparatory School has for sound scholarship and gentlemanly conduct. Every boy who passed through Mr. Mitchell's hands and most parents who met him were profoundly influenced by him, who by personal example instilled the qualities of kindness, courtesy and diligence.

Mitchell House has started its career well by winning all four of its House cricket matches and by leading, as we go to the publisher, in Class Work points.

Staff

In December we said goodbye to Mr. M. P. Choate, B.A., who had spent a year with us in charge of IIA.

We welcome to our staff Mr. Douglas Partridge, and Mrs. C. T. Symons, who has taken charge of IB, and we trust that they will have many happy years with us. Mr. A. Shinkfield has joined our Resident Staff.

Until this year IB and IC (Grades II and I) were in the charge of Miss Angwin but as so many parents have sought to start their children in our lowest class, we decided to make two separate groups to permit increased enrolments at the Grade I level. To accommodate this additional group, we have divided the Infant Room by folding doors which can be thrown open when used for the Junior Assembly.

The setting up of Grades I and II as separate classes with increased numbers has altered the places where we can accept the bulk of our new boys. Previously we accepted about eight new boys in Grade I, six in Grade II, ten in Grade III, four in Grade IV, five in Grade V, ten in Grade VI, and ten in Grade VII. Now we can take sixteen in Grade I, four in Grade II and four in Grade III, the other classes remaining as they were.

Leaders

The following were chosen as leaders for 1954: C. J. Wicks (Captain of the Preparatory School), R. G. Angel, W. R. Giles, J. D. Hains, I. R. Hall, W. D. Hall, R. A. Panter, R. B. Smith, R. H. Smith and R. W. Thomson. A. A. Bennett was appointed a special leader in the Boarding House.

Class Picnics

On Monday, Dec. 14, all classes held class picnics. IIB, IA and IBc visited North Glenelg and IIA Brighton to enjoy bathing and beach games, IIIA and IIIB motored to Loftia Park where they played tennis and swam in the pool, and IIID journeyed to Morphet Vale where they played a cricket match before continuing to Port Noarlunga for a bathe. We should like to thank all parents who helped with transport and who assisted in the supervision of the various groups.

The Boarders spent a most enjoyable day on Saturday, 5th December. First they travelled by car to Sister Rowe's Cottage near Aldgate where they helped subdue the exuberant weed growth, then to Loftia Park for bathing, tennis and a chop picnic.

Mothers' Club

A very successful meeting was held in Senior School Assembly Room on 29th October. The speaker, Mrs. W. R. Chettle, spoke very knowledgeably and feelingly on "The Influence of Television in the Home." To this meeting the mothers of 1954 new boys were invited and quite a number attended.

On 12th December a very successful Christmas Party and a Fathers' and Sons' Cricket Match were held. The cricket match ended sensationally in a legitimate draw. Dr. Pearlman, who had been a member of the Fathers' team for six years, and who was making his last appearance, was caught on the boundary making a last minute bid for victory.

The first Mothers' Club meeting for 1954 was held on 11th March. The principal business was the election of officers and the welcome to the mothers of new boys. As over 140 mothers indicated their intention of attending, the meeting was held in the Assembly Room.

Cricket

Records of the third term matches have fortunately been mislaid. In the first term of this year the Under 13 team played seven matches and won four of them. It defeated Sacred Heart B, Unley High B, C.B.C. B and Rostrevor B (outright), and lost to Woodville High A and B and Brighton High School B. Angel with 281 runs in all matches at an average of 31.2 has been our most successful batsman and Ellis, who has taken 28 wickets at an average of 6 runs a wicket, our most successful bowler.

Our Under 12 team played two matches against King's College and was successful in both encounters.

In House Cricket Mitchell defeated Chapple and Robertson in both Senior and Junior grades and Chapple defeated Robertson also in both grades.

House points from cricket: Mitchell 6, Chapple 3, Robertson 0.

Athletics

It has been rather difficult to fit in our Standards this year, but those boys who are keen have managed to accommodate themselves to our rather disjointed schedule. Those not keen have found plenty of opportunity to avoid coming out.

On Tuesday, 13th April a team from the Prep. is going to St. Peters to compete in an Inter-Prep. Athletics contest. The contest consists of the hundred yards flat, 75 yards hurdles, high and long jumps for under 10, under 11 and open groups, and throwing the cricket ball for the open group.

Our own Prep. sports will be held on 1st May.

Printing Machine

We have recently acquired a small Adana printing press. With it we hope to give boys an additional craft or hobby to interest them.

Collections

Collections for 1953 reached the very pleasing total of £184-4-0. So far this term the sum of £38-4-4 has been given to various selected charities.

Lines written in the early days of Practice for the Schools Demonstration, during which were used the tunes "Cuckoo" and "Lena."

In springtime when the seeds awoke
Green were the thorn and artichoke,
And many buds were greener.
Then "Cuckoo" burst upon the sky
And screeched its melody on high
And pounded out its metre.
This place—no other was serener—
Was lashed repeatedly by "Lena."
Its peace was smashed—I bet a deenah.
No chaos was completer.

The ground resounded to the thud
(The asphaltting was turned to mud),
Of sixty feet off-beat together.
Not once the sun looked down upon
A movement made in unison,
Not once was perfect timing.
Revolving like a goat on tether
Or a clipper—shy rebellious wether,
We danced the dance of regions nether
—To Hades with this rhyming.

P.S.—Although our early efforts caused derision,
We finally achieved clock-work precision.

The Objects of the Association are: To keep Old Boys, wherever they may be, in touch with one another and with the boys at the School; also to foster and maintain their interest in the School.

"Old Boys' Week" is observed annually towards the end of July, during which a dinner and other social functions as well as sports contests are held. Also social gatherings are held whenever occasions arise that make them desirable.

"The P.A.C. Chronicle," of which a large part is devoted to matters of special interest to Old Boys, is forwarded to each member of the Association.

The subscription is ten shillings per annum. It is suggested that Country Members should remit sufficient to cover four years' subscription or become Life Members by payment of £10/10/-. Any Old Boy wishing to become a member can do so by forwarding his name and address to the Head Master, or to any member of the Staff, or to the Secretaries.

The Association has donated the following Scholarships to the School:

H. W. A. Miller (Old Collegians') Scholarship
 J. A. Hartley Scholarship
 Fredk. Chapple Scholarship
 W. R. Bayly Scholarship
 A. G. Collison Scholarship

Correction

We deeply regret, and are pleased to correct, an error that appeared in the Chronicle, No. 222, October 1953, page 443, announcing the death of Mr. Jack Thurston.

Mr. Jack Albert T. Thurston is now residing at No. 12 Wentworth Road, Vaucluse, Sydney, New South Wales, and we hope he will take an active part in the activities of the Sydney Branch.

He was formerly, before the war, trading in the Territory of New Guinea, and the last record of his membership was in 1942—the information concerning his death was apparently incorrect.

COMMITTEE VISITS SCHOOL

On the 25th November, members of your Committee were invited by the Headmaster (Mr. J. A. Dunning) to attend morning assembly at the School.

The assembly was conducted by the School Chaplain (Rev. C. J. Perry), and at the conclusion of the service, the Headmaster welcomed committee members and referred to the great help given to the school by the Association over a long number of years. He then asked the President (Mr. Ron Johnson) to address the boys. Mr. Johnson thanked the Headmaster for his ready help and co-operation during the past year, referred to the close liaison between the school and the Association and urged the boys leaving school this year to join the Association and maintain their friendships and interests in the School. He referred to the various contests held with the Saints Old Scholars during the year and the sporting clubs connected with the Association. In conclusion, he wished the boys every success in their examinations, congratulated those who had been selected in the Intercollegiate Cricket Team, thanked the Headmaster for the invitation and the opportunity to address the boys. The Headmaster thanked Mr. Johnson for his address to the school.

OLD SCHOLARS' OVAL

Our various Old Collegians' Sporting Clubs have an urgent need for an oval. The increasing numbers at the school are adding to the difficulty of using the school ovals and it has been found impracticable to solve the problem by acquiring an oval in the near vicinity of the school.

The sub-committee appointed to investigate the matter would be very interested to hear from any member who is aware of a suitable area in the outer suburbs for our purposes.

Mr. F. H. Chapman (President) is Chairman of the Oval Sub-Committee.

Old Collegians' President

Mr. Frank Hewett Chapman, of Coromandel Parade, Blackwood, was elected President of the Association at the Annual Meeting held in November last. He was first elected to the Association Committee in 1940 and, apart from three years leave of absence for war service, has served continuously on the Committee since that date.

He attended the School from 1922-25. All the male members of his family, with only one exception, born since the commencement of the School have attended the School; his father's eldest brother having commenced at the School in the year 1874.

After leaving the School, Mr. Chapman studied Law at the University of Adelaide, taking his LL.B. degree in the year 1930. He served his articles of clerkship with the late Mr. P. E. Johnstone, a Past President of the Association. Since completing his course at the University, Mr. Chapman has practised his profession in Adelaide; before the last war as a partner in the firm of Messrs Norman Waterhouse, Chapman and Johnstone, and since the war on his own account.

In 1934 Mr. Chapman married Miss Nancy Richards, and they have one son and two daughters. His only son, who completed his education at the School last year, is now a life member of the Association.

Annual General Meeting

The Seventy-fifth Annual Meeting and Smoke Social was held at Prince Alfred College on 12th November, 1953, at 7.45 p.m., when the Report and Statement of Accounts were presented.

The attendance was disappointing to your committee. Mr. Frank H. Chapman was elected President and Messrs. N. A. Walsh, R. C. Hall and R. W. M. Johnson as Vice-Presidents.

Mr. N. S. Angel was again re-elected as Hon. Treasurer and Messrs. Harold Shuttleworth and Ross Johnston as Joint Secretaries.

A ballot was conducted for the Committee and Messrs. D. A. Clark, Colin F. Hassell, H. C. Williams, J. F. W. Dunn, N. T. Todd, L. B. Shuttleworth and M. G. R. Perry were elected.

The following members of the Committee are not due to retire until 1954: Messrs. P. E. Clark, J. B. Craven, A. W. Crompton, Dr. M. W. Evans, Messrs. L. P. A. Lawrence, R. W. Pearson and F. E. Piper.

The Hon. Auditors, Messrs. C. W. L. Muecke and E. F. Hunwick were re-appointed.

Mr. Joseph Crompton did not seek re-election and a vote of appreciation and thanks was expressed to Mr. Crompton for his long and valuable services to the School and Association.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Dunning for their co-operation and assistance and for the excellent arrangements at the School during the year and especially during Old Boys' Week.

Appreciation was also expressed to the School for the facilities afforded the Association Cricket, Football, Athletic and Rugby Clubs for training and match purposes.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Wing Commander Rechner, D.F.C. (Leader of the R.A.A.F. Aircraft for the Coronation) gave a very comprehensive and interesting address on "Impressions of a Representative of the R.A.A.F. at the Coronation." Supper was served in the Dining Hall.

NEW AND RETIRING COMMITTEEMEN

Mr. Joseph Crompton who retired from the Committee did not seek re-election.

He was first elected to the Association Committee in 1932 and therefore completed twenty-one years service to the Association. During that time, he has been a most active member of the Committee and was always prepared to do more than his share in all Association efforts.

He was elected President of the Association in 1938 and was later appointed to the School Council.

Joseph Crompton represents the second generation of Mr. Crompton's family, and upon his retirement he may justly be proud of his record of work and of having well maintained the interests of the Crompton family at the School. His son, Alan, was elected to the Committee in 1953 and promises to follow in his father's footsteps.

Michael G. R. Perry, who was elected to the Committee at the last General Meeting represents the second generation of the Perry family. He is a son of Mr. A. W. Perry, of Hazelwood Park, and will greatly assist the Association's work amongst the younger generation and in organizing sporting and social activities. He entered the School in 1939.

NEW YEAR HONOURS

We congratulate Dr. Reginald Murray Dunstone, of 175 Macquarie Street, Sydney, for the honour conferred upon him as Officer of the Order of the British Empire by Her Majesty the Queen at an Investiture held at Government House, Sydney, on 6th February, 1954, for his many years service of honorary medical officer of the Sydney City Mission and Honorary Doctor for Sydney City Home for Old Age Pensioners.

Dr. Dunstone entered the School in 1908.

We also congratulate Mr. James Stewart McEwin, of Blyth, for the honour conferred upon him of Officer of the Order of the British Empire by Her Majesty the Queen at an Investiture at Government House, Adelaide, during the Royal Visit, for his service as Chairman of the District Council of Blyth.

He has been Chairman of the District Council of Blyth for more than thirty-one years and has taken a keen interest in all matters pertaining to local government.

He has also given valuable public service in connection with the Northern District Fire-fighting Association, the Blyth Public and District Hospital, Agricultural Bureau and the Blyth School Committee.

Mr. McEwin has also been prominent in rifle club activities.

Mr. McEwin attended the School 1904 to 1908.

MONTHLY LUNCHEONS

These luncheons continue to be well attended and are now held at the Epworth Tea Rooms, Basement, Epworth Building, Pirie Street, Adelaide. They are held on the second Thursday of each month, and Interstate and Country Members are specially invited to attend when in Adelaide.

The following speakers have given members very interesting addresses:

Mr. C. W. Branson, "Productivity—the Key to Plenty"; Rev. Frank Hambly, "Lincoln College"; Professor D. G. Catcheside, "Genetics and Our Life"; Brig. J. G. McKinna, "The Army Today"; Dr. M. W. Evans, "Experiences Abroad"; Mr. Colin Kerr Grant, "Earthquakes."

EDUCATION FUND

This fund has been raised for the purpose of educating the children (boys and girls) of Old Boys who lost their lives on Active Service.

Messrs. C. J. Glover, N. S. Angel, and L. B. Shuttleworth have been appointed trustees to administer this fund, under direction of the Association Committee.

Several children are now receiving the benefits of this Fund and making satisfactory progress. Arrangements are in hand for others to attend in the near future at Prince Alfred College or Methodist Ladies College or other approved school.

All enquiries should be addressed to the Association Secretaries, 50 Grenfell Street, Adelaide.

Sports

PERSONAL

Grant Berriman has continued his successes in the Chess Championships, including a tie for third in the strong interstate tournaments, where he was the youngest player.

Alan Hickinbothom, former S.A. Interstate player has been appointed playing coach of South Adelaide.

Fred Catt has been prominent in night baseball this season, gaining an Advertiser fielding trophy. He formerly played for South Australia for a number of years.

Matt Tiddy has been selected in the King's Cup crew to row in Hobart on 1st May.

We are reminded that Ern. Dawkins, now a prominent bowler, was formerly a leading batsman in the Gawler Association. It is on record that he figured in a partnership of 91 runs in 30 minutes some years ago.

Gordon Abbott has been meeting with some success fishing at Normanville.

Dr. Dick Bennett gained his football blue at the University last year.

Dean Trowse was a regular member of the State Cricket Team this season.

John Lill, who was selected in the S.A.C.A. team to play against a team from H.M.S. Gothic, finished fourth in the district cricket batting averages.

Bill Johnson represented the S.A.L.T.A. in Linton Cup and Interstate matches and was also nominated for the Australian Championships in Sydney.

L. C. Martin, of Balhannah, won the singles in the Country Tennis Tournaments. This is the fourth occasion he has won this event.

Doug. Young and partner were successful in winning the doubles in the Country Tennis Tournament.

Bob Skinner won the high jump in the State Amateur Athletic Championships.

Peter Dalwood was selected in the Adelaide Turf Cricket Association team to play against the S.A.C.A. "B" Grade team.

Brian Dyke, who holds the Australian Discus Junior record, won the Junior Shot Putt at the South Australia State Championships.

Another prominent Old Scholar is D. Perrott who finished second in the 440 Senior Hurdles.

Dr. Keith Le Page was made a life member of the Norwood Football Club.

Dick Gibson, a former South Australian player and later coach of the Glenelg Cricket Club, is now residing in Victoria.

Tom Watt made a successful debut in the District Cricket, taking 5 for 98.

Don Candy continues to be a prominent competitor in Australian and Overseas Tennis Championships.

Colin Hockney and Colin Webb both played for Sturt in the District Cricket final.

Phil. Hutchens, a prominent official of the Port Adelaide Cricket Club, is also Deputy Chairman of the S.A. Cricket Committee, and a member of the ground and finance committee.

Bob Griggs, now studying for his Master of Economics degree, is secretary of University Cricket Club. He is the youngest secretary in the S.A.C.A.

Ron Fewings was a regular member of the Grange Bowling team which won the Championship in the first division. He was also selected to represent South Australia in the Interstate matches.

The Annual School Sports were held at the College on Saturday, 3rd April, when two Old Scholars' events were contested. In the 100 yards, T. Siegele was the winner, with L. Chaplin and B. May filling second and third places respectively. In the 120 yards hurdles, place-getters were J. Charnock, first; I Smallacombe, second; K. Scott, third.

OLD SCHOLARS' CRICKET Season 1953-1954

The team did not have a very successful season. Ten matches were played of which only two were won. This lack of success was mainly due to inability to field a consistent team, having only a small regular nucleus around which to build a side.

The Secretary, Lloyd Letcher, who again did a great job getting a side together, would be glad to welcome more players for the 1954-55 season.

OLD SCHOLARS' BOWLS MATCH

The Annual Bowls contest between members of the Association was held at the Toorak rinks on the evening of Wednesday, 3rd February. Under the convenship of Norman Walsh, a record number of members attended and prizes were presented to Alan Crompton, John Lavis, Rex Harris, and P. E. Sullivan, members of the rink which won by the greatest margin.

The Spider competition was won by Gordon Taylor, with Norman Todd runner-up. At the conclusion of the evening, President Frank Chapman thanked the Toorak Bowling Club for the use of their greens and club-house, and Mr. A. H. Virgint (President of the Club, and himself an old scholar) suitably responded.

Our thanks are due to the ladies' committee for arranging the flowers and officiating at supper.

This match, which is becoming increasingly popular, is not restricted to regular bowlers, and the number of young members taking part is very pleasing.

FOOTBALL CLUB

In the coming season, the club will again be fielding teams in Grades A1 and A4 of the Amateur League. Last season the A's finished fifth and the B's sixth and it is hoped that this year both teams will be able to reach the finals. To do this, more new players are needed, so if any Old Scholar is at all interested in playing football, it is hoped that he will come and practise on Tuesdays and Thursdays on the School Oval.

Any further information concerning the club can be obtained from the Secretary, Dick Collison, 45 West Terrace, Kensington Gardens (F 4993).

ATHLETIC CLUB NOTES

The Club this season has made satisfactory progress and, in fact, is the most improved club taking part in the Saturday afternoon Interclub competitions.

It was decided at the beginning of the season for this club to combine with Brighton and compete as a unit in all competitions. This was a satisfactory arrangement and both clubs benefited, but it was definitely the Old Collegians' Club that gained most points and enabled the combination to come fifth in the premiership table, and to win the B grade pennant.

Brian Dyke must be congratulated for his fine performances during the season; he broke the Australian Junior Discus record, won a number of State titles, and was indispensable in the interclub competitions.

Trevor Siegele also must be congratulated for the mighty job he has done for the club; he organised the school boys who competed, and also gained many points in the Saturday meetings.

The Committee express appreciation to Mr. Dunning for allowing the use of the school oval and dressing sheds, and also Mr. Connell, the School Athletics coach, for his interest and help.

Dr. B. M. Jolly is the President of the Club and the Secretary is Brian Skinner.

Any Old Reds who wish to join the Club in the 1954-1955 season should contact Bob Skinner at W 2041.

RUGBY

The 1954 season is almost under way, and from general appearances at the moment, it looks as if this may be the best year the Rugby Club has had for a number of years. Attendance at practice has been promising, and it may be possible to field two teams.

There have been several new faces at practice this year, including a few who left school last year. Practice is held on the P.A.C. "back" oval on Tuesdays and Thursdays between 5 p.m. and 6.30 p.m., and any intending players are cordially invited to attend these practices.

Activities planned for 1954 include a match to be held in Melbourne against our opposite number in Victoria, and another to be held in the country against a Woodville team.

The first match will be held on Saturday, 24th April, so intending players are asked, either to attend practice or contact Brian King at LA 2146 or X 5000 as soon as possible.

SPORTING CLUB BALL

Members of the Old Scholars' Football, Cricket, Athletics and Rugby Clubs combined to hold a Ball at the Palais on Friday, the 2nd April.

The official party included the Headmaster, Mr. J. A. Dunning, and Mrs. Dunning, and the President of the Association, Mr. Frank Chapman and Mrs. Chapman. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman very kindly entertained their guests at a pre-dance party.

Around the walls were School shields, and sprays of ivy with red and with bows. Caricatures of sporting identities in large red frames attracted a lot of interest, as did geraniums in bright red pots placed across the front of the stage. During the evening, lucky number caps, masks and streamers had a ready sale, and a midget bicycle race provided plenty of thrills at supper time.

A skit on "St. George and the Dragon," by Messrs. B. Fricker, P. Hodges, R. Skinner, B. Burrows, R. Griggs and R. Collison was a popular, spooky floor show, whilst red and white balloons released from high up in the hall, provided plenty of fun later in the evening.

We would particularly like to thank Mrs. Harry Williams for her invaluable help in the organizing before hand, and the decorations at the Palais, and to all the other ladies who offered their help in numerous ways, and for the making of caps and masks. It is hoped that this function has been but the first of yet another annual Old Scholars' event, and it is the wish of the Committee that in future many new and young Old Boys and their friends will make this a regular event year by year.

TENNIS MATCH v. SAINTS

The annual match against S.P.O.C. was played at St. Peter's College on 31st March in ideal conditions. This Association was represented by W. Johnson, G. Battye, A. Morris, D. Rowe, J. Wohlers, B. Sumner, D. Babidge, and M. Newcombe. The tennis was of a high standard, both sides having a number of prominent players. At the conclusion of the first round of matches Saints lead 3 rubbers 7 sets to 1 rubber 5 sets. In the second round, though Rowe and Morris struggled hard against B. Bowman and Potter, they eventually went down 6-5, 6-5, and so Saints led 4 rubbers to 1. However, our third and fourth doubles pairs won fairly easily and then Johnson and Battye, after dropping the first set won the next two 6-1, 6-4, and thus enabled Princes to win by the odd set. The final scores were: P.A.O.C. 4 rubbers 11 sets; S.P.O.C., 4 rubbers 10 sets. In the evening a dinner was held at the Southern Cross, when a cup donated by Mr. E. T. Rowe, an Old Scholar and former State Champion, was presented to David Rowe (Captain of Princes) by the Association President, Mr. Frank Chapman.

Other guests at the dinner included Mr. Henry Rymill (President S.P.O.C.), and Mr. Frank Piper (a Committee Member, former President of the Association, and now President of the S.A.L.T.A.). We would like to express our thanks to Mr. Rowe for his generosity in donating a handsome cup, which is for annual competition.

BOWLS MATCH v. SAINTS

Played at South Park on Wednesday, 10th March, 1954. The rinks were in splendid condition and this together with a mild evening and a good attendance of visitors, combined to make a very pleasant function. Ten rinks were played and both teams counted a number of prominent bowlers in their ranks. The final scores were: P.A.O.C., 213; S.P.O.C., 181—a margin of 32 in favour of Princes. At the conclusion of play supper was served in the Club-house.

Port Lincoln Dinner

A successful re-union dinner was held at the Pier Hotel on 31st October with Lloyd Clarkson as Chairman, who welcomed the visitors. A telegram from the Headmaster was read, regretting his inability to be there and sending best wishes for that occasion.

Mr. Glen Pearson, M.P., proposed the toast of the "The School and the Headmaster," and in a very witty and able speech, mentioned a number of old Masters, the fine job the School was doing, and particularly welcomed Mr. Maynard Close, Master-in-charge of the Preparatory School, who was deputizing for the Headmaster and concluded with the following words of his own composition:

"Seek good in all,
For good in all resides . . .

Who, little known, may oft appear uncouth
On better knowledge hath some hidden gems
Of virtue, and good fellowship.

And that we see in others we may not desire
Maybe, in part, a mirror we ourselves inspire.

So, moving round, in circles wide or small
Engender Peace on Earth, and great Goodwill to all."

He was well supported by David Dickson. Mr. Close responded and gave members an interesting account of the doings at School, the War Memorial buildings and fund, and sporting activities.

Don. Reddin then proposed the toast of "The Old Collegians' Association." He mentioned the support which the Association had been able to give to the School over the years and the probable drive for funds for the War Memorial Buildings. He was supported by Dr. Brian Thomas, who referred to the varied activities of the Association and the sporting bodies connected with it.

The President of the Association, Mr. R. W. M. Johnson, responded. He congratulated local members on the successful organization of this function.

The President presented ties to Keith McFarlane (the oldest Old Boy present) and to three members who had travelled the longest distances, namely Hubert Mellor and Keith Puckridge from Lock and Reg. Veitch from Whyalla. He also presented a tie to the Chairman, Mr. Lloyd Clarkson.

Ross Johnston, Joint Secretary, then addressed a few words to members and Mr. David Clarkson, a member of the School Council, told members something of the proposed new buildings and asked for their support in this matter when the time arrived. He also referred to the work which Mr. Colin Hassell (the Architect for this project) had done and the excellent plans which were now before the Council.

The Chairman then proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Glen Walkom, the local Secretary, for organizing the dinner and to Mr. Wally Rankine (an Old Boy and manager of the Pier Hotel) and Mrs. Rankine.

Dr. Alan Clarkson then entertained members with some coloured film pictures he had taken in London this year. Both the pictures and commentary were extremely interesting. In a brief address beforehand, Dr. Clarkson told members of the London Branch Dinner he had attended with his brother Lloyd and some of the Old Boys he had met in England who had reached "the top" in their various professions and vocations.

During the evening, several songs were sung with Mr. Glen Pearson, and a very successful function concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

COLLEGE ENDOWMENT FUND

Your Committee has decided that no special effort to augment this fund should be made. This fund is still open and receiving contributions from time to time.

ASSOCIATION BLAZERS

Blazers are now obtainable by members of this Association, but a certificate of membership must be obtained from the Association Secretaries.

Annual Christmas Party

It was decided to hold the gathering this year at the C.T.A. Club, on Wednesday, 16th December, and to send an invitation to any Old Blues who cared to join us. With such a good forerunner to our gathering it was obvious we were in for a very happy night.

Over thirty turned up and it was very pleasing to welcome some dozen Blues, especially as next Saturday the cricket match was to take place and it was imperative that we dampen their morale before winning back Ye Old Boys' Shield, which had been taken from us in the golf match. It was very appropriate therefore to have invited Mr. Ian Johnson, the international cricketer and Captain of Victoria, to be amongst us and give a rambling informal talk on cricket. He was extremely interesting and while he gave a few hints as to how Princes could win on Saturday, his references to people he had met, countries he had visited, and incidents which had occurred were much appreciated.

Several took the opportunity to give us an insight to their oratory powers, the most prominent being our old faithful Paul Fiddian and the evergreen Digby Giles from Saints, and all agreed that the festive season had been got away to a fine start.

Cricket Match v. Saints

This match was held on Saturday, 19th December, on the Melbourne Grammar Preparatory School Oval, at Grimwade House. Owing to the State Bowls Championships, President Fred Jackett was unable to participate. The day was perfect and a really good attendance of wives and friends gave the picnic spirit.

Saints won the toss and batted on a perfect wicket, and despite good bowling by Williams and Schedlick, got away to a good start. However, after Schedlick had got rid of Ray, and R. J. Laing had retired, the only ones to offer any opposition were Craig, who top-scored with a well-made 34, Clayfield and Goodes. Brian Hone bowled well for 3 wickets, while John Bennett missed the hat trick only because there were no more batsmen. The star bowling effort was Neil Effick's two overs. With rare skill he managed to combine the games of bowls and tennis without bowling a no ball or hitting anyone on the head. It was very gratifying to see the keenness adopted on the field and that only Norm. Dawkins and Harry Effick (who was rung in to make up the numbers) found age catching up with them and suffered minor leg injuries.

The big moment had come. Saints, after batting for two hours could only manage 145, and with our very powerful line up, we were confident of victory. Harold Schedlick and Max Pontifex opened in a very bright manner, thus setting an example which was followed by all batsmen. Graham Williams thought it was too hot for running and all but six of his 58 were from boundaries. One mighty six landed on the roof of a two-storey building and bounced back on to the oval. Charlie Crompton was unlucky not to join the feast of run-getting but otherwise all the old intercoll. chaps showed evidence of their prowess. Max Pontifex and Brian Hone never looked like getting out and Norm. Dawkins showed that golf has not interfered with his stroke play. John Bennett's luck was out again. When he went in, John Gilbert, who looked as if he could emulate the earlier batsmen with a few fours and sixes was facing the bowling. The runs were not to come and he was stumped, leaving John 0 not out, without having faced up to a ball. Needless to say we passed Saints score easily, scoring 201 in about 110 minutes.

We are indebted to Brian Hone for making the ground available and supplying the gear. Our success was in no small measure due to the fine captaincy of Colin Alexander.

Golf Match v. Saints

The annual golf match against the Old Blues in Melbourne was held on the 18th October, at the Riversdale Golf Club. It was a sparkling day, bright and sunny with practically no wind and the course with its emerald green fairways, colourful flower gardens and shrubs, was in perfect condition.

Eleven players lined up on each side. The Presidents had a private battle of their own and the remainder engaged in a 4-ball, best ball contest. Play started at 11 a.m. for 9 holes before lunch and 9 afterwards. Saints got away to a good start and although we fought back very hard, we were unable to prevent our opponents from scoring their first win for Ye Olde Boys' Shield. Congratulations Saints but hold on to it tight because there is the cricket and bowls match to follow.

Bowls Match v. Saints

This match was favored with a cool cloudless night at the Victoria Bowling Club's green, Carlton, on Wednesday, 10th February.

The evening commenced at 6 p.m. with dinner at the club. The muster of players was enough to field three rinks for each team, and at 7.30 p.m. with out hopes high because our team included Fred Jackett, our worthy President, an interstate player, the match began. The rinks skippered by Colin Jackett and Harry Southwell had very interesting tussles, but on our third rink, under the charge of Bruce Berry, no matter how hard they tried to give the shot away, they seemed to add a few more to their own tally. The whole match was played in a very festive mood and the numerous trips to the clubhouse helped to keep the spirits up and the nippiness of the night out.

The most successful night ended with an excellent supper. It was unfortunate that Howard Jackett, to whom we are indebted for obtaining the use of the green and arranging the dinner and supper, was unable to be present, but the splendid arrangements were much appreciated by all.

Paul Fiddian will leave shortly for overseas for the purpose of visiting English and Scottish Universities—he hopes to attend any gatherings of Old Boys in London.

Obituary

We regret to record the deaths of Sir Herbert Gepp, who was an outstanding Australian Industrialist and Agricultural and Development expert. After leaving the School, he proceeded to the Melbourne University, and joined the Explosives and Chemical Co. as a Cadet in 1893. After some years in Scotland as a junior chemist, he returned to Melbourne as manager in 1902. In 1950, he was Chairman of the Australian Chemical Institute. He was awarded the Gold Medal of the Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, London.

Sir Herbert was the author of a number of books including "Democracy's Danger," and "When Peace Comes."

He was appointed Chairman of the Commonwealth Development and Migration Commission in 1926.

Also Errol Raffael Henry Darwin, of Jeffrey Street, Leongatha. After leaving the School he gained his Degree of Science and was engaged in many important public works. He was resident engineer of the first lock and weir on the River Murray at Blanchetown. In 1924 he was appointed Senior Lecturer in Surveying at the Melbourne University and during the war he served as Captain in the Army Survey Corp.

BROKEN HILL

The Branch President is Mr. Ron Crossing, of Burta Station, via Cockburn.

The Secretary is Mr. Jack Prider, C/- 2BH, Broken Hill.

Annual Dinner

Arrangements are in hand for the Annual Dinner to be held during Old Boys' Week, and it is expected that the usual Interstate telephone link-up will again be made between Adelaide, Sydney, Melbourne and Broken Hill.

BROKEN HILL OLD SCHOLARS' BALL

Last November, the Broken Hill Branch of the Association held its second Red and White Ball in the New Masonic Hall. Guests of honour were the President of the Association, Mr. Ron Johnson, his wife, and also the Secretary, Mr. Ross Johnston and his wife, who had made the trip from Adelaide by car especially to be present at the Ball.

The hall was superbly decorated with red and white flowers, streamers and balloons, and during the evening a really delightful supper was prepared and served by the wives of the Committee members.

Mr. Ron Crossing, President of the local branch, with Mrs. Crossing, received the guests which included Mr. and Mrs. Ron Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Les Nicholls, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Prider, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Glasson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harbison, Mr. and Mrs. Ken. Price, Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" White, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bartholomaeus and other members with partners, included Fred Warren, Peter Conroy, John Beck and Marshall Smith.

Saints Old Scholars' invited guests included Mr. and Mrs. Les. Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. John Cotton, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Black, while Mr. Ian Crossing represented Scotch Old Boys.

A local popular orchestra supplied music and the Ball was described by all present as a most happy show.

The night after the Ball, a Cocktail Party was held at the Royal Exchange Hotel and visitors were made to feel quite at home and appeared to really enjoy meeting a number of Old Boys and wives and friends under such friendly conditions.

It is visits like these that help to stimulate the efforts of branches such as those as far removed from headquarters as Broken Hill.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA

The Branch President is Mr. Rex Morgan, C/- Taxation Department, Valuing Branch, Barrack Street, Perth.

The Branch Secretary is Mr. R. J. B. Miller, of 167 Vincent Street, North Perth.

Personal

Dr. J. E. Dunn, formerly of Kensington, South Australia, is now residing at No. 2 Solomon Street, Fremantle, Western Australia.

John Livingstone has returned from England. His address is No. 10a Bindaring Parade, Cottesloe, Western Australia.

Ray Miller has been advised from Adelaide that he has been made an Honorary Life Member for his services to the W.A. Branch.

Mr. Russell Dumas, O.B.E., retired from the civil service as Director of Works on 17th January, but he continued as Co-ordinator at the Government's request to complete planning for the Kwinana development.

Mr. Dumas played a big role in bringing the oil refinery to Western Australia and in starting the vast industrial development now taking shape at Kwinana.

He has since taken a leading part in the planning of Government works involved in this development.

In paying a tribute to his work, the Public Service Commissioner, Mr. S. A. Taylor said that Mr. Dumas was the outstanding public servant of our generation.

The Under-Treasurer, Mr. A. J. Reid, said that Mr. Dumas had upheld the highest traditions of the public service.

The Chief Commissioner of Railways, Mr. A. G. Hall, said that the vision and speed with which Mr. Dumas had accomplished things was remarkable.

The Director of Agriculture, Mr. G. K. Baron Hay, said that Mr. Dumas had always been able to see the possible impact of his decisions on other professions and regarded everything in a practical manner.

Sundowner Meeting

"Sundowners" are held on the last Friday of each alternative month.

On Friday, 29th January, a Joint Sundowner was held with St. Peters' Old Collegians at the Palace Hotel, with a total attendance of fifty-six, and a very enjoyable time was spent by all present.

The following is the future programme: Friday, 28th May, Sundowner at Palace Hotel, 5 p.m.; Friday, 30th July, Sundowner at Palace Hotel, 5 p.m.; Friday, 8th October, Joint Sundowner with St. Peters' Old Scholars at Palace Hotel, 5 p.m.; Friday, 26th November, Sundowner (also Annual Meeting) at Palace Hotel, 5 p.m.—Members are requested to keep those dates in mind.

Annual Cricket Match

The Annual Cricket Match against St. Peters Old Collegians was played on the Christ Church Grammar School Oval, Claremont on 30th January, 1954.

Play commenced at 11 a.m. and resulted in another win for Princes by a margin of 17 runs, as per scores below. It will be noted that E. Wainwright of St. Peters, secured the "Hat Trick" and also took 4 wickets off 5 balls in one over (a very good effort).

The weather was fairly warm but in the afternoon a nice sea breeze made things much more pleasant for all in attendance. At the luncheon there was an attendance of thirty-six, and at afternoon tea the attendance was a record—72. (This included wives and lady friends of Old Boys.)

At the buffet tea, which was held for members and their wives, in the evening (after the conclusion of the cricket match) at the residence of Mr. F. C. Waldeck, the attendance was thirty-two. The function was a great success and everyone present spent a very enjoyable evening, thanks again to both Mr. and Mrs. Waldeck for making their residence available for the function.

QUEENSLAND

The Branch Secretary is Mr. P. D. Coles, Room 12, Fourth Floor, National Mutual Building, 293 Queen Street, Brisbane, Telephone B 8017.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Coles are at present enjoying an extended holiday in New Zealand.

A conference of Headmasters from all States in Australia will be held in Brisbane in the last week in May, and the combined New South Wales, Victoria and South Australian Associations propose to entertain the Headmasters at a luncheon on Friday, 28th May.

Annual Meeting

The Annual Meeting was held in conjunction with the monthly luncheon on Thursday, 28th January, and the following executive committee was elected: President, E. A. Winner; Vice-President, M. L. Staer; Committee, A. Reckner, E. L. Walpole, D. J. Snowball, A. D. Turner, R. H. Wainwright, A. J. Osborne, A. F. Duffield; Secretary, P. D. Coles.

A most successful Christmas party was held at Wanganui Gardens on Tuesday, 15th December, with an attendance of thirty-eight. Dr. and Mrs. Bennett, representing the New South Wales Greater Public Schools Association in Queensland, were guests, and everybody was agreed that this was the most successful function that this Association had had.

Monthly luncheons are continuing with a regular attendance of from twenty to twenty-five. The monthly luncheon is held at Hotel Cecil, 51 George Street, Brisbane, on the last Thursday of each month at 1 p.m.

NEW SOUTH WALES

The Branch President is Mr. Ken. Brown, C/- Lever Bros. Pty., Ltd., Box 1590, G.P.O., Sydney, New South Wales.

The Branch Secretary is Mr. E. A. Kesting, "Yanawa," 24 Loorana Street, East Roseville, New South Wales.

Personal

We congratulate Dr. Reg. M. Dunstone, O.B.E., upon the Honor, personally conferred upon him by Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II at an Investiture at Government House, Sydney, on 6th February last.

Roy C. Williamson left for a tour abroad with Mrs. Williamson after Christmas, and plans to be away for about a year.

Will Ashton. The judge for the New South Wales entries in the 1954 Dunlop Art Contest, conducted by Dunlop Rubber (Aust.) Ltd., will be Mr. Will Ashton, O.B.E.

J. L. B. Cowan. Jim Cowan had the honour to be appointed the Navigator of the Quantas Constellation plane in which Her Majesty the Queen travelled for six long journeys during her stay in Australia. He nearly missed this honour by the need to have his appendix removed two weeks before the flights commenced.

On completion of these trips he travelled by plane to the U.S.A. to be the Navigator of the crew which flew back to Australia the first of the new Super Constellations which Quantas are buying for their various services.

H. Noal Walter has returned to New South Wales after spending nearly a year in America obtaining experience with the United States Bureau of Reclamation, to assist him in his work with the Snowy River Hydro Electric Commission.

Obituary

We regret to record the death of S. T. O. Pentelow, who was Deputy Chief Librarian of the Mitchell Library in Sydney. Also J. K. Brandwood, who was with the B.H.P. Ltd., at Newcastle. He was Captain of the School in his day.

Annual Dinner

Arrangements are in hand for the Annual Dinner during Old Boys Week with the usual Interstate telephone link-up with Melbourne and Adelaide and Broken Hill.

LONDON BRANCH

Dr. Stanford Howard, of 49 Wimpole Street, London, W.1, is desirous of meeting all Old Boys who may be visiting London.

Personal

David A. Clarkson, a former President, and his wife, recently left Adelaide for England and hopes to be in London to attend the next Re-union Dinner.

Paul Fiddian, of Melbourne, is shortly leaving for England and Scotland, and no doubt both of these Old Boys will be able to entertain the London Branch members with a description of the recent Royal Visit.

ETCHING OF THE SCHOOL

A limited number of very good etchings of the School (6 $\frac{3}{4}$ " x 10 $\frac{3}{8}$ ") are available to members of the Association at £2/2/0 each.

LOST TOKENS

Tokens remain the property of this Association, and are held by members on trust only. In the event of the loss of a token, the member should immediately report this to the Secretaries of the Association.

LIFE MEMBERS' CERTIFICATES

Life Members' Certificates are available upon payment of 2/6 to cover cost of printing and postage.

SCHOOL ENROLMENTS

Members are reminded of the urgent need to enrol intending scholars at the earliest possible date. Enrolments have already been made up to 1962. Don't delay; but make enquiries from the Headmaster now.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

Subscriptions for the year ending 30th September, 1954, are now due, and members are requested to remit promptly to facilitate the work of the Association.

The work of the Association has increased considerably, and your co-operation by prompt payment of subscriptions (10/-) is requested.

THE HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

Old Scholars are reminded that copies of Mr. Ward's most interesting and valuable book of the first 80 years, 1867-1948, of Prince Alfred College are still available. No Old Scholar can afford to be without a copy of this valuable record. Copies are available bound in red cloth at £1/1/0, plus 6d. postage. Order forms are available from the Association Secretaries, 50 Grenfell Street, Adelaide, to whom remittances may be sent.

TOKENS AND TIES

Supplies are available for Association members. Tokens are available at £1, and the new Association ties are 5/-.
