Editorial

"You get out of life what you put into it."

A person needs to throw himself wholeheartedly into at least some of the activities in life if he is to experience any real satisfaction. There is little joy in a haphazard approach to any task that leaves one with the feeling that the job could have been done so much better. A job well done gives satisfaction and a feeling of fulfilment. A person can feel justifiably proud if he knows in his conscience that he has done all that he could reasonably be expected to do in the task involved, and even more.

If every boy when he left to go out into the world were to ask himself what benefit he had received from his schooldays I think many would have to think hard to find an answer. True, he would probably have received as good an academic education as is available anywhere, yet he could have gone right through his school life without learning anything of the qualities of leadership and humility. Not everyone can excel or lead in a field, but almost anyone can take part. Only one person can captain a sports side, but the rest can form part of the team. Team games teach one to co-operate with others.

These character-building influences are not generally found as much within the classroom as in out-of-school activities. For the less physically gifted there are the Chess Club, Debating Group, the Student Christian Movement, Cadets and Scouting. There has been a great increase in the popularity of these activities in the last couple of years, and many boys who previously had not taken a great interest in school events have joined these fraternities.

Along with increased interest in school activities come better school spirit and a sense of belonging. If a boy takes part in his school's life he feels part of it. It takes on a fuller meaning for him. When he leaves school, he should look back with mixed feelings. In one sense he is glad to leave; he has his career and complete freedom before him. But in another he should be sorry, for he is leaving a way of life and, if he has taken part in it as he should, it has been an extremely rewarding and happy way of life.

The final decision rests on a boy's shoulders alone. No one can force him to take part in school affairs. The rewards are there for his asking, and he can take them or leave them. If he does leave them he will never know what he has missed, but if he takes them he will gain immeasurably. He will gain in knowledge, in knowledge of people and ideas and values. His confidence in facing life is greater; he has taken part in a wide range of activities and feels confident to take his place in the adult world.

School Notes

Under the terms of the Act of Incorporation of the College, the President of the Methodist Conference is the President of the College. We congratulate Rev. V. R. Secombe upon his election as President of the Conference, and we trust that he will enjoy his year as President of Prince Alfred College. We welcome Rev. R. S. Brown to the College Council, and regret that Rev. C. J. Davis, Rev. M. G. Wilmshurst and Mr. Joseph Crompton found it necessary to resign. All had served the College well, but the others will forgive us if we pay special tribute for the work done for so many years by Mr. Crompton.

The number on the School Roll in the first term is 897 (Senior School 642, Preparatory 255). There are 143 boarding in the Senior School, and 21 (of whom 9 are fourth-form boys) in the Preparatory School.

For the first time for very many years, the teaching staff in the Senior School remains the same as it was in 1964. In the Preparatory School, we welcome an old boy, Mr. R. W. Smith who takes the place of Mr. Wolstenholme who is now headmaster of St. Andrew's Day School, Walkerville.

We welcome Rev. W. B. Kelley, the new minister at Kent Town, as our assistant chaplain. Like his predecessor, Rev. R. G. Davis, he is with us on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday mornings each week. We wish Mr. Davis well in his work in the Glenelg Circuit, and we pay tribute to what he did for us during his four years at Kent Town.

O. F. Davis, who went to the U.S.A. last July as a Field Service Scholar writes interesting letters telling of his experiences. We expect him back in July. In the same month, R. L. Close and G. S. Martin leave for their year abroad as 1965 Field Service Scholars.

The intercollegate cricket match in December ended in a draw after a very even struggle. S.P.S.C. held the upper hand in the first innings, our team showing much the better form in the second innings. In March, our tennis team had a comfortable win, showing, as a team, much more determination than in the last two years.

The School swimming sports were most successful, and the large number of races held in the one afternoon showed the excellence of the organization.

Mrs. Harris resigned at the end of 1964. For many years, she had carried out the duties of housekeeper capably and conscientiously. We are deeply indebted to her for all she did for the School. We extend a welcome to her successor, Mrs. Symonds, and to Mrs. Woodcock, who is assistant to the housekeeper.

Towards the end of last year, the College Council was able to purchase 18 and 20 Pirie Street. This means that we secured five properties on the Preparatory School side of Pirie Street in about 12 months.

The election of Mr. R. W. Piper as President of the Old Collegians Association is of particular significance as he thus follows in the footsteps of his father (1942), grandfather (1896) and uncle (1927).

The roofs of both wings of the main building were replaced during the long vacation, and the exterior of the main building and the kitchen block painted during January and February.

We acknowledge with gratitude the gift of a binnacle and a ship's telegraph by the Adelaide Steamship Company and a pelorus by Ritch and Smith Ltd. of Port Adelaide. These now grace the Sea Scout Depot at Goolwa, and they increase its already highly nautical appearance.

An anonymous gift of £500 to the College is gratefully acknowledged. As a result we shall be able to add to the book stock of the library and especially to our provision of recordings for use in English literature and language studies.

The 1964 scholarships at Leaving Honours were awarded as follows: Sir Thomas Elder, R. G. Jarrett; E. B. Colton, A. F. Wilson; Old Collegians, P. T. Wickham; John Colton, M. S. Howland; Longbottom, G. G. Hopkirk; Malpas, R. S. Freeman.

When the 1963 General Honours List at Leaving Honours was published in the daily press in January 1964, there were only 16 names on the list. However, when the P.E.B. Manual, part III became available in January 1965, we found that the list was a longer one and included G. J. Searle, our 1964 Captain of the School, in nineteenth place.

Full details of 1964 Public Examination results are printed elsewhere. Mention must be made here of the excellence of the results, a particularly pleasing feature being the good results from the lower streams and the fine general results gained by boarders.

At Leaving Honours, five boys, all doing honours for the first time, were among the 26 placed on the General Honours list. Woodville High School gained four places and no other school had more than two. Dux of the School, R. G. Jarrett, who was third on the list, won the B.H.P. Prize awarded to the candidate with the highest aggregate in Mathematics I and II, Physics and Chemistry, and also the Shell Scholarship awarded at the Leaving Honours stage.

At Leaving, J. H. Loxton gained first place in the State and won the Thomas Price Scholarship and "The Advertiser" Prize, D. F. Cooper was awarded a Leaving Bursary and 36 boys gained Commonwealth One-Year Secondary Scholarships. Ninety-eight boys out of 124 gained certificates, and 92 "A" passes were gained by 44 boys.

At the Intermediate, 36 boys gained Commonwealth Two-Year Secondary Scholarships and 9 gained exhibitions. Fifty-two boys gained 166 "A" passes. The "A" form averaged 7.8 subject passes per boy and the "C" form 5.8.

We congratulate D. K. Barrie and B. V. Hocking upon the award of Gowrie Scholarships, and Barrie and G. W. Stephens of J. J. and Lydia Eden Scholarships. The latter are awarded for the highest aggregate in 7 subjects, provided History or Social Studies is one of the subjects. In both cases, only two scholarships were awarded to students who sat for the 1964 Intermediate Examination.

We regret that the following 1963 Leaving results were omitted in the April 1964 Chronicle. D. L. Haynes, Eg (C); Mh (C); Gg (D); Ec (D); M2 (D); and T. A. Hester, Eg (B); Gg (C). M1 (B); M2 (C); Pc (D); Ch (C), gained certificates R. N. Wicks, Ec (D); M1 (C); M2 (C) and I. J. Winter, Gg (C); M1 (D); M2 (D); Pc (sup.) passed in three or more subjects.

Passes in subjects at the supplementary not known to us at the time account for the following omissions—G. M. Chrisp, Eg (C) gained the Leaving Certificate, and J. A. Bedford, M1 (C); J. C. Evans Pc (D); C. W. Harvey, Gg (C) passed in these additional subjects.

We congratulate Mr. Peter Dalwood on his election as President of the Parents and Friends' Association. This is the first occasion on which a son has succeeded his father in this position, Mr. A. L. Dalwood having been President in 1941.

Annual School Service

As we have come to expect, Kent Town Church was packed for the Annual School Service which was conducted by the Chaplain, the Rev. R. K. Waters, B.A., on December 13. A pleasing feature was the very fine organ recital given beforehand by T. J. Norman, one of the boys of the School.

The School Choir, directed by Mr. Rolland May, Mus.Bac., and accompanied by the church organist, Mr. Mark Symons, B.E., sang very beautifully as introit "O Holy Spirit, Lord of Grace" (Tye), and for the anthem, "Commit Thy Way Unto the Lord" (Liebhold). The Captain of the School, Garry J. Searle, read the Lesson, St. Matthew, V : 1-16, and the address, delivered by the Headmaster of the School, was based upon this reading.

THE HEADMASTER'S ADDRESS

I hope that your son is both happy and successful at P.A.C. This is often the concluding sentence in my letters to parents of boys about to enter the school, or again:
I hope he is both happy and successful in his future career as a boy is leaving school.

This evening I shall speak not on what makes for success but rather on some of the factors that make for happiness.

Of course a person may be both happy and successful, he may be successful in the eyes of the world but not happy, he may be a failure in the eyes of the world but still happy, and he may be neither successful nor happy.

Earlier in this service the Captain of the School read to you the opening verses of the Sermon on the Mount and included were those verses commonly known as the Beatitudes. Some modern translations replace the word blessed by happy. Various shades of meaning can be given to both blessed and happy, and I suggest the meaning of what our Lord taught can be well expressed by happy in mind.

The Beatitudes do not represent a code of behaviour such as was given to Moses in the Ten Commandments. Later in his teaching in the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus does deal with the relation of the new laws of the Kingdom of God to the old Mosaic Law.

The Beatitudes give us rather an indication of the character which is well pleasing to God. In them Christ requires us not to do such and such things, but to be such and such people. Jesus here makes it clear that the most important thing about a man is not his wealth or lack of it, not so much his good works or otherwise, not his birth whether noble or plebeian, but his character, what he is and what he is capable of becoming. Earlier in Nazareth he had proclaimed the programme for his Kingdom. Here in the Beatitudes he describes the men who can bring it to pass.

He sets forth the Beatitudes as the only standard by which life could really be lived. Does not Jesus tell us that the most blessed people are those whom we ourselves think worthy of all praise? If we really analyse our inmost thoughts his conception of good people is as a matter of fact our own. Christianity challenges us to be what at our best moments we really desire to be—and don't we all have those best moments. It asks us merely to be true to our own best ideals.

It is a striking thing, is it not, that Jesus began His teaching about the Kingdom of God with the idea of happiness.

But the general attitude to the Beatitudes has always been that they are too unworldly for this world, and this has probably never been more so than today; that in 1964, with its changed conditions, the ideals are completely out of date—all right in theory but hopeless in practice. Of course, the critics of Christianity and the cynics will make out a good case for this. Those of you here tonight who are going to the University next year will meet the vocal ones—calling themselves atheists and agnostics and free thinkers—some very immature, others far more mature, who will try to shake your faith. My advice to you, if you need help in your thinking, is to seek guidance from one of the chaplains at the University or from your own minister. Do not be deluded into thinking that it is smart, that it is the thing to do, to deny the existence of God.

Let us then think for a while on what can bring happiness and serenity of mind not for a day, not for a year, but for a lifetime. I trust that you will all agree for a start that being happy in this world is no light-hearted affair of seeking pleasure. Do not get me wrong. I am not condemning light-hearted recreation, parties within reason as far as the conduct and the number attended are concerned; in fact, I commend them. But the thought and the attitude that life is dull, and there is no happiness in it, unless it consists of parties and pleasure seeking in every leisure moment is disastrous. Twice in my life I have been in the Casino at Monte Carlo. My main memory of both visits, and one was well nigh forty years ago, is a sad, a depressing—I almost said a painful one. It has nothing to do with the rights or wrongs of gambling. It is the memory that so many of the faces round the gaming table were grim and unhappy. Yet these people were deluding themselves with the thought that they could thus achieve happiness. Most of them would be, by the world's standards, well off and wealthy, envied by many—and here we have one of the problems of an affluent and prosperous society: wealth and worldly comfort without happiness.

At this year's annual meeting of the Parents and Friends' Association, some of you will remember I said that to me the great problems facing modern youth—who as a group are overall every bit as good, if not better, than their predecessors—are brought about by money and mobility. Pound notes in plenty and motor cars are fine things when wisely used, and among their uses they can be wisely used for fun and pleasure, but they are the cause of many of the tragedies in the lives of modern youth, and of the sad hearts of many parents. Many of my colleagues here in Adelaide and I would be glad to see the driving licence age raised, and our reasons for so thinking is not on the basis of the actual driving of 16-year-olds—others are in a better position to judge this—but on the score of what we do know something about, and that is the behaviour problems, moral and otherwise, that thus face immature youth.

You know we all, whether we be young or old, tend to envy other people, and think how happy we would be if we could change places with them—perhaps in much the same way as an animal thinks the grass over the fence is better than that in its paddock.

At school I had a Latin master whom we regarded with so much respect—respect sounds better than fear—that I still remember a few of the extracts we translated. In one of these, Horace speaks of the joys of country life. The first word in the poem is beatus—from which beatitude is derived—and that is why this poem came to mind. Translated, the poem says: Happy in mind is he who far from business ploughs his own land as was done by the ancient race of men. Thus the poet of two thousand years ago envied the lot of the farmer.

If people today were to put their thoughts on paper, even if not in verse, would we not get many running thus: Happy is he who has won the Sydney Opera House lottery. Happy is he who can afford a luxury car or a luxury yacht. Happy is he who reaches the top in his profession, in his business, in sport and so on.

A boy may well say: Happy is that boy in my class whose father gives him so much pocket money and allows him so much freedom.

Now there is nothing wrong at all with owning a luxury car or with being at the top in your chosen career, but the point I am making is that happiness does not necessarily follow.

Nobody will ever become a happy and contented person by wishing he could change places with another. If he keeps on doing this, he will merely add to his discontent.

Children from a very early age have their heroes, whom they worship. As they grow older their heroes change and they will have ideals that they strive after. And as the years go by they grow up, but wherever they go and whatever they do they will still have ideals. There is something inside a man which refuses to be contented with things as they are. But I say to you boys, as you go out from school life into the world, that everything depends upon you having the right kind of ideal, the right kind of person as a hero. You must find the right kind of pattern and follow it.

The story is told of an Englishman in Colombo ordering a pair of trousers from a Cingalese tailor. He took with him an old pair to be a pattern. In a few days back came a perfect copy, replete with hole in seat, patch on knees, frayed at cuffs. A perfect copy, yes, but not a good pair of trousers.

Do not many of us who call ourselves Christians make the same mistake. We follow a poor pattern instead of the only perfect pattern this world has known, Jesus Christ.

So let us briefly consider a few of the Beatitudes and their implications.

Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth. A translation puts it thus: Happy are those who claim nothing, for the whole earth will belong to them. The meek are those who are not for ever standing on their dignity or asserting themselves unduly; those who are prepared to get on with the job, careless as to who gets the credit. If you can look on life in this way, you will be happy in mind, you will sleep comfortably at night. Are not too many of us like the small boy who owns the bat and ball and says when he is not elected captain, "I won't play," and walks off with his bat and ball, or when he grows older he must open the bowling, or he must play at centre, and as he grows older still, he will not play for the club at bowls unless he is a skip. So many in this world become unhappy if they cannot have their own way. They are miserable if what they have done does not receive favourable notice. They are quite pleased to perform good and charitable deeds as long as the world, or at least their friends, will know all about them. This attitude, if persisted with, will only bring further discontent and will not bring the satisfaction that would have been their lot if they had carried on unheralded and unsung.

Blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy; or in the translation: Happy are the kind-hearted, for they shall have kindness shown to them. We all know how we admire those who are ever ready to help others, those of whom we say there is no spite in them. Think how much more contented they must be than those who are ever ready to take offence, those who are always on the watch for a chance to take revenge for some real or imaginary slight or injustice done them. Recently I either read or heard something like this: What a happier place this world would be if, before speaking, everyone would work out whether what he intended saying was really true, and even if it was, whether it was going to achieve any good purpose. If not it should be left unsaid. There is every bit as much need for mercy and kindness in the spoken word as in the deed performed. The tongue can be the cruellest member.

Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God. Today we read and hear much of the decline in moral standards in our civilised world. You boys going out into the world have to withstand pressures unknown to earlier generations. Tempted you will be. All I have time to pass on to you this evening is what I remember saying some years ago at one of these services as a guide to conduct. Always remember to show the same respect to any woman or girl, no matter what her station in life, that you would expect other young men to show to your mother or your sister. And secondly, if you find yourself at a party which you would not care to tell your father about, then get away from it.

If you make Christ your pattern you must link yourself up with your Church, to whatever denomination you may belong. A greater danger to our Christian way of life than either Communism or the threat of the developing races—and thank God they are developing, but pray God they develop aright—is the apathy of we so called Christians. I have spoken on this at length in previous years. Tonight I shall close with a quotation from an address once given on "the lesser Beatitudes," and I quote:

"Don't you think it is true that far too much of your religion is made to depend upon your mood? You come to church when you feel in the mood—and you pray, or you read, or you think seriously 'when you are in the mood.' But you don't act that way in work of the world, do you? What would happen to your business if you went to the office only when you were in the mood, or opened your shop only when you were in the mood? Or what sort of a home would you have if your wife or your mother prepared the meals only when she happened to feel in the mood.

"Well, is it any more sensible to treat God that way and still expect all to be well with life?"

I confess that as I read this I thought how true it was of me, and I fear also of many other church members.

So, to the boys leaving, I say as I began: "I hope you are both happy and successful in the years to come. And may your happiness be of the kind I tried to outline tonight."

STUDENT CHRISTIAN MOVEMENT

The final S.C.M. meeting of last year will not be forgotten by boys or staff at P.A.C. for some years. A vigorous publicity drive for the Rev. Ian Tanner attracted almost the entire school. His excellent address was acknowledged by many "first-timers", and hence with good reason we are optimistically looking forward to good attendances at this year's meeting.

Our first speaker was the Rev. Alan Gray, Secretary of the World Council of Churches in Adelaide, who spoke on the Ecumenical Movement. Many reasons for church union and obstacles preventing it were brought forward. Unfortunately, there was not sufficient time for all the questions on this controversial topic to be voiced or answered, but all those present left with a better knowledge of the problems and difficulties of church union.

The Rev. W. B. Kelley, our new assistant chaplain, addressed our second meeting. He gave a very interesting speech on the miracle of Easter Day and some of the non-Christian attempts to explain it in terms of comprehensible occurrences.

In the next few weeks the speakers planned are the Rev. H. A. Witt from Elizabeth and the Rev. White from Parkside (Epworth Methodist). In addition, a discussion with Black Friars is planned for one coming Friday evening. We hope these meetings will be as successful as, or even more successful than the two we have had already, thanks to the efforts of Mr. Mattingley who has been of great assistance to the committee.

Speech Day

This year, Speech Day fell on December 18. Rev. V. R. Secombe, President of the Conference, presided over the function and after the School Chaplain, Rev. R. K. Waters, B.A., had opened the proceedings with prayer, the President addressed the gathering and called on the Captain of the School, G. J. Searle, to read the Games Report. Following this, the Headmaster presented his report for the year and invited the guest of honour, the Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor, Mr. J. C. Irwin, O.B.E., E.D., F.R.A.I.A., to speak to the assembly and to present the prizes.

In his address, the Lord Mayor, after congratulating the school on its ability to produce leaders in the community, spoke of his love for Adelaide, and recommended travel as a means by which future leaders might see a wonderful combination of natural and man-made beauty and come back with fresh ideas to assist Adelaide to become what it was not yet — the most beautiful environment in the world. He spoke of the many ventures now being attempted in our community, and of the need to resist technocracy and to watch carefully the effects of technical advances on people. Having urged the wisdom of young men participating in local government, he expressed his hope that those who were leaving would find a life of happy fulfilment. He then distributed the prizes.

After Mr. R. W. Piper had voiced the thanks of the company to the Guest of Honour, the proceedings were brought to a close.

THE HEADMASTER'S REPORT

Mr. President, the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen.

I have the honour to present the ninety-sixth annual report on the work of the College.

It gives me great pleasure to extend on behalf of the staff and boys a very warm welcome to the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor and Mrs. Irwin, and to thank Mr. Irwin for his kindness in agreeing so readily to be our guest of honour today. We do this, sir, most sincerely despite the fact that we all know quite well that you do not customarily wear a red tie and that you have not been supporting our eleven in the match played this week on our oval. We know that by the end of this function we shall leave this hall enriched by words of wisdom emanating from your long connection with St. Peter's College. Yet may I express the hope that you yourself will find that a brief sojourn in the enemy camp has been of some benefit. In all seriousness, sir, may I say what personal pleasure it gives me to have you with us this morning.

The number on the school roll at the beginning of the year was 879 of whom 256 were in the Preparatory School. We then had more than 100 boys in our Leaving Honours Form.

Mr. B. Basedow, Mr. A. S. Holmes, and Mr. B. R. Baker joined the Senior School staff in February, and Mr. C. D. Crouch transferred from the Preparatory School. Mr. G. Hewlett replaced Mr. Crouch in the Preparatory School. In the middle of the year, Mr. Ian H. Gray, an old boy, replaced Mr. F. C. Jones who returned to his home town of Melbourne to join the staff of Wesley College.

I am very happy to report that, as far as I know at present, there will be no change in the Senior School staff in 1965. Mr. Wolstenholme leaves from the Preparatory School to become headmaster of St. Andrew's Day School and I have appointed Mr. Smith, an old boy, to replace him.

We had extremely good results in the Intermediate Examination in 1962, and we therefore expected to do well in Leaving in 1963. We were not disappointed, as our boys won five of the thirty bursaries awarded to city schools, and gained thirty-five Commonwealth Scholarships. This is a number out of all proportion to our size, and says much for the ability of the present Leaving Honours boys and for the excellence of the teaching they received.

At the Intermediate stage, six boys won Intermediate Exhibitions and ten continuation exhibitions. As in 1962, a very pleasing feature was the number of good passes in the lower graded forms. For example, in V UB, there were four A, twenty-five B and six C passes with no D passes or failures in Mathematics, and there were nineteen A passes in Geography.

The Captain of the School has read to you the report on games. To me, the most pleasing feature has been the large number of boys playing for school teams each Saturday.

Other interests have flourished. The cadets had a most successful year with an excellent attendance at camp. They finished the year well with a fine ceremonial parade, and then in shooting we won the Earl Roberts Trophy and gained second place in the Jake Rudall Trophy.

The scouts continued to go from strength to strength. Later in my report, I shall mention the Goolwa Sea Scout Depot. In the last two years, nine boys have become Queen's Scouts. A large contingent go to the Melbourne jamboree at the end of this month.

This year, Mr. May with his choir, and Mr. Coombes with his dramatic group, joined forces to produce "The Pirates of Penzance" instead of the usual choir items in the concert and the full-length play. The result was a great success, and emphasized, as did the School Concert and the Preparatory School Concerts, the excellence of this hall. The one disappointing feature was that the attendance was not as large as it should have been.

In life-saving, we were placed first in both the contest for the Advertiser Shield which is awarded on average points per boy basis, and also the aggregate points contest. We thus beat our last year record when we gained second and first place in these two competitions. This result says much for Mr. Woollard and his many helpers, as we are not handily placed to a swimming pool.

The various hobby clubs continue their work with many, but not all, boys deriving much benefit from them. Today I would make special mention of the lively interest taken in the Art Club by its members under the inspiration of Mr. Malcolm Gray. The Art Club Exhibition in the foyer of this hall earlier this week was much admired, as was the Preparatory School Art Exhibition the week before. Almost every boy in the Preparatory School had at least one picture hung, and only those who saw it can appreciate its excellence, and may I say its variety—from Tintara on the Rocks and Peter Paul and Hairy, to many landscape and marine scenes. A word must be said also about the success of the rejuvenated Chess Club under Mr. Ashenden's direction.

I feel confident that in years to come, 1963 and 1964 will rank in the history of this school as two years of great physical development. In these two years we have spent £265,000 on new buildings and the purchase of property adjoining the school, and this without an appeal to Old Boys or parents.

Last year I spoke of the Assembly Hall. I can now add that, with the experience covering a full year of school functions, we are finding it is surpassing our fondest hopes for it. It was used by the Adelaide Festival of Arts for two weeks, by the S.A. Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Antony Hopkins for the production of several telecasts and for the public meeting in connection with the annual Methodist Conference, and all connected with these praised the hall most highly. I spoke also of the Basedow property next to the Preparatory School. This has been converted to a playground area and has proved a great boon to the smaller boys.

In April this year, the new Science Building, comprising excellent facilities for senior physics and senior chemistry, was opened by Mr. L. C. Robson who had devoted so much of his time since his retirement from the headmastership of Sydney Church of England Grammar School to the foundation and establishment of the Industrial Fund for the Advancement of Scientific Education in Independent Schools. This fund contributed £15,000 towards the cost of the building. His address on this occasion was a remarkably fine one, and it is printed in full in the Chronicle. It was with the greatest sorrow that we learnt a few weeks ago of his death. He was a great headmaster and a great man. He gave great service to his school during his thirty-six years as headmaster, but I venture to say that his greatest contribution to education came after he retired, for the success of the Industrial Fund must surely have influenced the Commonwealth Government in their decision to give aid to both state and independent schools for science buildings and equipment.

The other major building project this year has been the Bill Taylor Memorial Sea Scout Depot at Goolwa. This will prove of tremendous value to our scouts. The College is greatly indebted to the members of the Scouts Parents and Friends' Association, and in particular to Mr. Pete Smith and Mr. Reg Whitham for all the work they did in connection with the building. I must not forget the scoutmaster, Mr. Whitworth, who normally gives so much of his time to the scouts, and this year carried an even heavier load with all that he did in connection with the new building.

New property purchased in the last twelve months included two homes in each of Pirie, Young and Capper Streets.

In a large school these days, there are so many activities that time does not permit me to pay due credit to all who do so much so willingly and so well. I have mentioned some masters and so has the Captain of the School. At the Preparatory School we have Mr. and Mrs. Leak and the devoted members of the staff, including Sister Rowe; in the Boarding House, Mr. and Mrs. Prest and the resident masters, the nursing and domestic staff; the members of the teaching staff in the Senior School, the second master Mr. Smith, and then we have the Bursar and the office staff; the head groundsman and his staff; and last, but certainly not least our Chaplain, Rev. R. K. Waters and the part-time Assistant-Chaplain, Rev. R. G. Davis.

With regret we say farewell today to Mr. Davis who, as Methodist ministers do, moves from Kent Town to another circuit. We are grateful to him for all that he has done for us during his four years with us. We look forward to having the new minister at Kent Town, Rev. Brian Kelley, with us next year.

We are all very sorry that the housekeeper, Mrs. Harris, is leaving us on account of ill health. For the past six years she has carried out her duties in this onerous position faithfully and efficiently. She was ever ready to help in every way possible, and we are indeed grateful to her for all that she has done for the welfare of the school.

Time does not allow me to speak at length on any general matters concerned with education. I shall mention two very briefly.

This is the second year in which public examinations have been held in the schools. Though it means much more work for the masters, I know they will agree with me that the change is an unqualified success.

The other point is this. I am glad to see that in both Queensland and New South Wales headmasters have been deploring the ever-increasing custom of employers and others requesting boys to produce their school reports when they are applying for a position. I spoke on this at Parents and Friends' meetings last year and again this year, and gave my reasons for considering that a boy's report should be a private document between the school and the parents.

The school suffered a great loss in the death of Mr. L. B. Shuttleworth. His great work as secretary of the Old Collegians' Association for almost forty years is well known to all connected with this school. Not so well known, but very much appreciated, was the assistance he gave the school in many ways, and particularly in advice on the purchase of property. We acknowledge with gratitude his bequest of £250.

The newly elected President of the Old Collegians Association is Mr. R. W. Piper. His grandfather was president in 1896, his uncle in 1927 and his father in 1942. We do congratulate him on his appointment, and we hope that Master Piper, now one year old, will in turn follow in his father's footsteps.

Two prizes are presented for the first time this morning. Lady McBride has given a prize in memory of her son, the late K. M. McBride. It will be awarded to the boarder who has, in the opinion of the senior boarders, exerted the best influence in the boarding house, the Captain of the House not being eligible. The award this year goes to Fred Chung, from Hong Kong, who has been such a well-known figure in the school for the past six years.

The other has been given by Mrs. Perrott and her son Mr. Dene Perrott in memory of the late Mr. M. F. Perrott, who was a prominent athlete in his school days and later took a very lively interest in amateur athletics. It will be given to the boy with the outstanding athletic performance based on the decathlon points basis.

I must now express my personal thanks to all who have helped me during the year—members of the Council, Old Boys, Parents, teaching, office, domestic and ground staff, prefects and boys, and to all I wish the compliments of the season.

THE WARD LIBRARY

This year has begun well in our senior library, and we have had some good poster displays. One was on Ancient Greece, and created much interest, another on Michelangelo, and last year we had a particularly good display for the Olympic Games, which included some wonderful posters.

The boys in the fourth forms who have regular library periods have been instructed in the use of the library, and have been given short practical tests on using the catalogue and the reference section. They showed interest and were keen to learn, and they are now using the library regularly.

Our main worry is the illicit borrowing and consequent non-return of books. All books borrowed in the regular way are stamped with the return date, and this should be a guide to parents for their co-operation in avoiding loss. We take this opportunity to appeal to all boys who have borrowed books without using the recording system to return them.

We have purchased many new books, with particular emphasis on our Ancient History section.

Some recent acquisitions include: "History of Ancient Civilization", Trever; "Plutarch's Lives"; "Indonesia, Face to Face", Southall, I.; "Menagerie Manor", Durrell, G.; "Dear and Glorious Physician", Caldwell T.; "Nineteen Eighty-four", Orwell, G.; "Slasher Opens Up", Mackay, K.; and the B.S.C.S. text books on Biological Science.

Our grateful thanks to the Old Boys of Sydney who presented us with "Tutankhamen".

Also many thanks to our committee who help so willingly, especially during the lunch hour, when the library is very busy and packed with boys.

Committee: Mr. Duff (Master-in-charge), G. Swift, P. Drew, D. Hawke, N. Martin, P. Hunkin, N. Lawson, M. Reid.

Parents and Friends Association

The annual meeting of the Association held in the Assembly Hall on Friday 9th April, was well attended. The President, Mr. E. C. Stephens, in his report told of a successful year. The usual grants had been made to the Preparatory School Mothers' Club and to the scout funds, and the usual school prizes had been provided. The Association had purchased a new projector at a cost of almost £300 for the Assembly Hall, additional money being available as no major project had been sponsored in the previous year.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mr. P. A. Dalwood; Immediate Past President, Mr. E. C. Stephens; Vice-Presidents, Mr. J. C. Freeman and Mr. C. T. Bennett; Honorary Secretary, Mr. K. G. Tuckwell; Honorary Treasurer, Mr. J. E. C. Stephens; Members of Committee, Mrs. C. Boucaut, Mrs. D. Gray, Mrs. L. C. Holland, Mr. K. A. Cooper, Mr. A. W. G. Dawkins, Mr. M. Brinsley, Mr. J. R. Tregoning. Dr. B. S. Hetzel; Auditor, Mr. R. C. Perkins.

At the conclusion of the business portion of the meeting, the Headmaster spoke on various aspects of school life.

The speaker at the third term meeting in 1964, was Mr. A. W. Jones of the Education Department who had much of interest to tell of Malaysia where he had recently spent three months as the holder of a Unesco fellowship.

MR. J. A. DUNNING, O.B.E., M.A.(Oxon.), M.Sc., M.A.C.E.

When the Honours List for the New Year was published, the School and all its old scholars and friends were delighted to learn that Her Majesty the Queen had been pleased to confer on the Headmaster the Order of the British Empire in recognition of his distinguished service to the cause of education and the community.

Mr. Dunning came to Prince Alfred College at the beginning of 1949, after ten years as Headmaster of The Scots College, Warwick, Queensland. He is now, therefore, in his seventeenth year at the School.

During those years he has given conspicuous service to the cause of education. He has been, since his arrival, a member of the Public Examinations Board, and since 1960, a member of the Council of the University of Adelaide. He is also a member of the Australian Council of Education and of the Standing Committee of the Headmasters' Conference of the Independent Schools of Australia.

Evidence of his wider interests and activities in the life of the community are the positions he has held from 1958-60 as President of the South Australian Branch of the Royal Commonwealth Society and at present as a member of the Ground and Finance Committee of the South Australian Cricket Association and a trustee of Kent Town Methodist Church.

A glance at these varied public activities and interests makes it clear how well the honour was deserved.

House Notes

WATERHOUSE HOUSE

Last year the house finished with several pleasing successes in the Third Term. In the senior house cricket we finished second, while we managed to win both the debating and chess competitions.

This year Waterhouse is fortunate in having seven prefects, these seven making up the house committee. B. Richardson was elected as House Captain, the other prefects being A. Woodcock, M. Gray, R. Close, D. Cooper, R. Boer and C. J. C. Bennett. Our house masters this year are Messrs. Harvey, Woollard, Glancey, Gray, Basedow and Campbell. Mr. Harvey, as master-in-charge, has taken a great interest in the organising of the house.

The annual school swimming sports this year were a little disappointing, Waterhouse finishing third after leading in the early stages. We congratulate A. Brown on his fine effort in being the outstanding competitor at the sports. Our relay teams did not really do us credit, with the exception of the open team, which is to be commended for winning its event.

Our only representative in the successful intercollegiate tennis team was R. Bickmore who, as No. 2, won his singles and won against the Saints' first doubles combination in a good display. Captain of the first XI this year is Woodcock, who has done well as a batsman, including a very good century. Also to be congratulated on his selection in the team is M. Gray.

In an attempt to foster a greater interest in athletics this term, there have been several compulsory training sessions under the capable guidance of Mr. Woollard. Since then, in most age groups, there has been keen interest in the relay teams for Sports Day, especially in the senior age groups.

Most prominent in the cadets this year from Waterhouse are Under-Officers B. Richardson and D. Cooper. Robert Close, whom we congratulate on being chosen as a field scholar to go to the United States later this year, is Troop Leader of the sea scouts.

Our representation in the rowing crews this year is very strong. Richardson is Captain of Boats and is stroke in the first eight. Hounslow is cox, while J. Mayne and R. Cooper are also in the first eight. Besides this, five members of the second eight are from Waterhouse.

A. Woodcock, B. Richardson and M. Gray are the Waterhouse representatives on the Sports Committee.

After a satisfactory beginning this term, we should, with continued interest being shown in the activities of the house, gain at least our share of success this year.

We have also entered a strong team in the house tennis competition. At the present stage it appears that Bayly will win easily. This, along with the athletics and swimming results, has put us into a strong position for the House Cup this year.

From Bayly, five were selected as school prefects. They are Simon Tregoning (School Captain), Andy Compton, David Horner, John Loxton, and Dick Noble. Tregoning was re-appointed House Captain.

Bayly boys chosen for the inter-collegiate tennis team were Chris Green (captain), Mike Craven, Jonathan Cook and Colin Dunsford (reserve).

Alf Bowen is the unluckiest boy in the House. He had to have an operation only ten days before the Head-of-the-River. He would have been our only representative in the first VIII.

BAYLY HOUSE

Third Term, 1964

The Third Term of 1964 brought an end to a fairly successful year for Bayly House.

We were slightly disappointed with the results of the house cricket competition. Our strong, but unlucky team came an unexpected third.

Congratulations to Andy Compton, Ian Ide, Des Speakman, Greg Chappell (who starred), John McIntosh and Simon Tregoning on their selection in the intercollegiate cricket team.

Bayly has settled down well this term, and it is easily seen that strong spirit and a marked degree of enthusiasm are present.

Bayly had a very convincing win in the swimming sports, finishing twenty points clear of the next house. Every boy who swam is to be congratulated on the good all-round effort for the house. This is the third time Bayly have won these sports.

The great drive to increase the interest in athletics this year was a marked success, judging by the number of entries. This was true for all houses, but the Bayly committee was particularly pleased with our effort.

On Sports Day, Bayly came a good second, behind the ever-strong School House.

SCHOOL HOUSE

Third Term, 1964

The first house competition in the Third Term was the house debating, in which School House were placed second. In the senior house cricket, however, we were not so fortunate and, after a valiant effort, finished fourth. The junior team had a very convincing win over Cotton House.

The senior tennis team came second to Bayly, and the junior team were second to Cotton House. As we had only one boy in the inter-collegiate tennis team, the performance of the senior team was exceptionally good.

For the remainder of the term, more attention was paid to schoolwork, with some notable results in the Public Examinations. Scholarships were obtained by Barrie, Sandow, Parish, Fletcher and Schmidt at Intermediate level and Williams and Day at Leaving level. Donald Barrie is to be congratulated on winning a Gowrie Scholarship and on topping the state in the aggregate of seven subjects.

For the first time in many years, School House was successful in the house competition, and as a result obtained the House Cup for 1964.

First Term, 1965

The beginning of 1965 saw several changes in staff in the Boarding House. Mr. Crouch took the position of Assistant House Master, and Mr. Chung replaced Mr. Ananda as a resident house master. Unfortunately, Mr. Chung returned to Hong Kong in April. The position of Housekeeper was taken by Mrs. Symons.

The following boys are to be congratulated on being appointed as prefects for 1965: Peter De Garis (Captain of the Boarding House), Williams and Day (School Prefects and House Prefects), Anderson, Angel, Barrie, Butcher, W. De Garis, Kealy, Milner, Mitchell, Reichstein, Smart, Tregoning and Uppill.

Early in the term, the swimming sports were held. As a result of a fine effort by the relay teams, particularly in the Under 14 and Under 15 age groups, School House managed to be placed second. Winners of championship events were Ashley, Overton and McBain.. The latter two are to be congratulated on breaking records in their respective events.

This year School House has three representatives in the first XI. Mitchell, Mueller and Hugo are to be congratulated on this achievement. There are also three members of School House in the first VIII this year in P. De Garis (his second year) and Uppill and Pfeifer.

We were also well represented in the Intercollegiate tennis this year. Russel Nicholls, who played as number five single, won both doubles and his single. Richard Beviss, who was number eight single, won both his doubles, and Donald Barrie was selected as first reserve.

With Sports Day and the house tennis competition drawing near, we are looking forward to a good effort from all members of the house.

COTTON HOUSE

The year 1964 proved very disappointing for Cotton House, which gained third position in the House Competition. This was mainly due to the boys' lack of enthusiasm and interest during the first and second terms. However, in the last term, Cotton gained high positions in the competitions: first in the senior house cricket, junior house tennis and schoolwork, second in the junior house cricket, and third in the senior house tennis. Our congratulations to G. Stephens and S. Rhodes on their selection in intercollegiate cricket, and also to A. Wilson on gaining eleventh position in the P.E.B. Leaving Honours Examinations.

This year, Cotton House has two school prefects, M. Talbot and B. Wheatley, and at the first house meeting of the year, M. Talbot was elected house captain, and B. Wheatley, G. Taplin, D. Brown, R. Heywood-Smith, G. Stephens, C. Hamilton, and B. LeCornu were elected to the House Committee.

Mr. R. Jones is the master-in-charge, and we appreciate the great interest he has shown in Cotton House. We welcome the support and enthusiasm of our new house masters, Mr. Ashenden, Mr. Baker, Mr. Claver and Mr. Fowler. This year we regret the retirement of Mr. J. Duff, who has been a Cotton House master since 1951, and master-in-charge during 1961 to 1963.

In the swimming sports, the first sporting function of the year, our house gained third position. Swimming is probably our weakest sport, only the juniors showing talent.

Interest in athletics this term has been rather forced by several compulsory training sessions. From these we can see that every boy can gain at least two standards, and it is very pleasing to note the great interest which has been shown, especially from the juniors.

Our representatives in this year's inter-collegiate tennis were D. Brown, who won against first doubles, and M. Talbot, who won seventh singles, and against third and fourth doubles. In the first XI, we are represented by G. Stephens, C. Hamilton, S. Rhodes and B. Hocking. The only Cotton member of the Sports Committee is G. Stephens, and B. Wheatley is our only representative in the first eight, to row bow in the Head-of-the-River Regatta.

In the Cadet Unit, our representative officers are C.U.O. Bloomfield, W.O. I Ridyard, and W.O. I Wheatley. In Scouts we are ably represented by G. Martin, a cadet scouter in the fifth troop, and also by P. Warhurst and R. Johnson, who are quartermasters. We also congratulate G. Martin on gaining a Field Scholarship, and wish him all good when he leaves for the United States later in the year.

Boys are reminded that school work has always been our strongest field, and that everybody can help the house by gaining his highest possible percentage. Cotton has started the year reasonably well, and we should gain high placings in the coming sporting events, especially in the school sports. Thus with the continued help of the house masters and committee, and also the co-operation of the boys in Cotton House, we are looking forward to a very successful year.

Club Activities

JUNIOR DEBATING

This year we started quickly and efficiently under the excellent guidance of Mr. Harvey. We are looking forward to a very successful year of achievements in debates, talks and impromptu speaking.

The opening debate, "Should Cadets be compulsory at P.A.C." made an interesting discussion. However, the motion was defeated.

We welcome boys to join and assure them of variety and a really enjoyable sixth period in VUG room on Friday afternoons.

LIFE SAVING

We have again had a successful season, and the record number of awards gained last year appears likely to be broken. The awards gained by the club so far this season are:

Water Safety Certificate, 245; Resuscitation, 245; Elementary, 112; Safe Swimmer, 176; Proficiency, 110; Intermediate Star, 101; Bar to Intermediate Star, 55; Bronze Medallion, 52; Bar to Bronze Medallion, 11; Bronze Cross, 17; Bar to Bronze Cross, 3; Survival, 9; Award of Merit, 2; Instructor's Certificate, 11—making a total of 1,144 awards.

This gives the club a total of 2,489 points so far this year. A squad from our life saving club was the first in the State to take part in the Survival Certificate Test.

For the third time the club entered a team in the State Life Saving Championships. This year we were successful in winning first position in the Secondary Schools Division. The members of the team were S. Tregoning, P. Rowe, A. Uppill, G. B. Richardson and R. E. W. Hancock.

We congratulate R. E. W. Hancock, A. Uppill and A. Dibden who gained the Award of Merit and also David Finnegan who received his Examiner's Certificate.

Congratulations are also due to R. E. W. Hancock who gained a place in the State Men's Life Saving Team Final Squad.

Boys who gained Bronze Crosses this year were A. Brown, J. Makin, D. Toop, H. Ashby, A. Dibden, A. Uppill, A. Dowie, R. Frolich, R. Lellman, D. Provis, R. Scragg, D. Townsend, P. Walkom, J. Bidstrup, J. Ashby, A. Smith, P. Wise.

We are very pleased that swimming colours have now been introduced to the school, and that life saving qualifications play a major part in consideration for colours. Last season the following boys were awarded full colours for swimming.

A. R. A. Dibden
R. E. W. Hancock
S. L. Tregoning
R. Viner-Smith
D. J. Finnegan

Half colours to M. V. Thompson.

GEOLOGY

The Geology Club began its 14th year with a most pleasing increase in membership. We now have sufficient members to undertake our most ambitious project for some time, which will entail the amalgamation of several rock and mineral collections now in our possession. Various small groups have inspected several Adelaide mineral collections using slightly different classification systems, while others have begun the identification of the two hundred or so unnamed specimens. All concerned would like to thank Mr. Crawford for his help in the varied activities we have so far enjoyed.

MODEL RAILWAYS

Last year, the club completed the wiring of the rail layout and nearly completed the shaping and plastering of the scenery. The progress made was such that working room has been reduced, and it has been found necessary to reduce the numbers in the club.

We hope that before very long the whole project will be completed, and it will be possible to start operating. Towards the end of this year we intend to construct another layout in an adjoining room. The two layouts will be then connected by a double line link passing through a hole cut in the wall.

RADIO CLUB

This year the club's members, with one exception, are first and second-year boys with little or no experience in radio. The programme for the year is one of practical experiments and projects, starting with elementary concepts of electricity.

The year started well, keen interest and industry being shown by all seventeen boys. The initial experiments required simple apparatus and could be made cheaply, and the resources of the physics laboratory have been used, particularly with regard to measuring instruments. There will be, however, need for carbon microphones, earphones, air capacitors and capacitors in general, and resistors in the near future. Some parents may have old radios which are of no further use that the club could strip down for their parts. Any donation of such apparatus would be very welcome.

Some more experienced boys in the Senior part of the School have had a chance to join an adult evening class in Applied Electricity at Croydon Boys' Technical High School under the expert tuition of Mr. R. Leigh. Here the boys have the use of a special room costing about £3,000 to equip, and are able to undertake advanced projects besides consolidating their knowledge of the basic principles of applied electricity. Such a room would be an asset to any school in which the sciences are taught.

CHEMISTRY CLUB REPORT

Although the aim of the Chemistry Club is to increase the knowledge and interest in chemistry by private experiments outside of the school curriculum, much work has been done by the twelve boys in the group in making and assembling equipment for the junior laboratories.

We wish to thank Mr. Provis for the support and interest he has shown in the smooth running of the club.

BAND

This year the band has been highly successful, because of the enthusiasm of each member. The first display was in the Winston Churchill Memorial March through Adelaide, in which a creditable job was done by the new cadets. The next event was the Sports Day March.

For the high degree of efficiency we have attained, credit belongs to Mr. Baker, who has this year shown a tremendous amount of interest in band activities. The boys who attended the January Camp at Woodside, three buglers and a drummer, are doing a fine job in training the newer members.

It is hoped that we shall continue to improve, and by the time of the ceremonial parade the band should be highly efficient.

CURRENT AFFAIRS GROUP

In the three sessions held so far this year, members of the Current Affairs Club have heard an excellent talk on the River Murray and its future in South Australia by J. B. Anderson, and comprehensive campaign speeches on behalf of the L.C.L. and the A.L.P. for the state elections by J. A. Bedford and C. J. C. Bennett respectively.

Mr. Mattingley, as usual, guides the club through the various discussions and assists with information.

SENIOR DEBATING

During the third term, 1964, the House Debates were held, resulting in a win to Waterhouse. They won from School on the subject "That tradition hampers progress". In the losers' final, Cotton defeated Bayly on the subject "Compulsory military training should be introduced into Australia".

At the first meeting for 1965, the following officers were elected: President, R. A. Evans; Vice-President, D. F. Cooper; Minute Secretary, R. E. Day; Organising Secretary, R. L. Close; Committeeman, W. F. Heddle.

As usual, the club provides a rendezvous for the school's amateur politicians, philosophers, satirists and comedians. The meetings have taken a varied form, including the ever-popular hot seat, impromptu speeches, conversations between well-known figures, and a formal debate ("That the White Australia Policy does more harm than good"), which was won by the con side. More inter-school debates are planned this year, including one with P.G.C. This is an innovation that has met little opposition.

To Mr. Dennis, our Master, the thanks of all members are due for his stoic endurance of the club's sense of humour and for his help and guidance.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

This year, the Photography Club has increased enormously in number to over seventy members. This high membership has made it difficult to programme an active list of events for 1965, but it emphasises the high enthusiasm of the members and the popularity of photography as a hobby in this school.

Once every three weeks, we shall be visited by Mr. Pill (Kodak Pty. Ltd.), who will deliver lectures on the basic techniques of photography. So far this term, the club has already made a rewarding visit to Port Adelaide. It is anticipated that there will be many more excursions, on which members may practise the things that they have learnt.

It is hoped that many boys will take advantage of the excellent facilities provided by the school darkroom, which has all of the equipment necessary for the developing and enlarging of photographs. All in all, this year promises to be extremely active and rewarding.

CHESS CLUB

This year, again, the Chess Club is fortunate to be under the supervision of Mr. Ashenden and Mr. Campbell.

The interest in chess in the school has continued to grow, and this year four teams have been entered in the inter-school competitions. These are in grades "B", "C", "D" and "E", and play on Friday nights beginning in April.

At the present time, a Round Robin Tournament is being played to determine the strength of our players and give them match practice.

LEATHERWORK CLUB

This year the Leatherwork Club has been very successful under the management of Mr. Steele and Mr. Duff. Instruction was given in the use of equipment, how to plan models, the art of thonging, and the type of leather to be used. Models made consisted of bookmarks, covers for hymn books and bibles, luggage labels, wallets and comb cases.

The committee consisted of R. Evans, R. Beviss, A. Smart and A. Butler.

MUSIC APPRECIATION

The Music Appreciation Club, under the guidance of Mr. Holmes, started the year well with about twenty-five members. Our first tasks were to form a programme plan and to obtain members who would provide a particular programme each week. This, so far, has run smoothly, the fields of music ranging from Rhythm and Blues, to Negro Spirituals. Our aim has been not only to play examples of music in these fields, but also to discuss and to learn about the origins and history of each.

Our thanks to Mr. Holmes for getting us under way and for his advice and suggestions.

WOODWORK CLUB

This year the Woodwork Club has twenty keen and enthusiastic members under the supervision of Mr. Welby. Once again we had to turn away many boys who wished to join because of limited bench room. Each boy has chosen a special project, and some of these are already nearing completion.

There is a wide range of models under construction, including coffee tables (the most popular), a desk, cupboards, a chest of drawers and book cases. We wish to express our thanks to Mr. Welby for his personal and valuable assistance during the term.

MODEL AIRCRAFT CLUB

Third Term, 1964, finished on a somewhat dismal note, only one or two models being seen each week, and having about thirty onlookers per plane, and so plans were made to change this somewhat drastically for 1965.

This year was started by having as members only those who were prepared to bring planes. The club this year has a smaller membership of thirty-eight, and from these a committee of six was elected. The committee consists of Robert West and Trevor Craig who are in charge of competitions, Ben Adamson and Peter Hunkin, in charge of models; Ian Johnston, Treasurer; and John Webber, President and Secretary. Mr. Claver remains the Master in Charge.

This year for the first time a subscription was charged, but was kept to a minimum, because of the cost of running a model plane. This money will be used for prizes, and to help repair members' models that crash while at school. On the 25th March we obtained three rooms in one of the cottages in Capper Street. They aren't perfect, but with the work being put into them, they should soon be very good.

We are averaging eight models a week at present, and two weeks there have been a record of fourteen; so it would appear that this year will be a most successful one.

TUMBLING CLUB

Under the watchful leadership of Mr. Allen and Mr. Nicholson, the Tumbling Club got away to a good start this term. The new members are quickly becoming accustomed to the springboard, while the older members are gaining more experience each Friday. The members of the club thank Mr. Allen and Mr. Nicholson for their expert guidance.

STAMP CLUB

This year's Stamp Club opened with the election of a committee of five. Those elected were D. Henstridge as secretary, A. Letcher as treasurer, and three committee members, namely I. May, D. Green and A. Tregilgas. This term's activities include general swapping, a competition and an auction. All boys seem keen and enthusiastic, and we look forward to an enjoyable year.

THE CHOIR

This year the choir has begun what promises to be a very interesting time for all members. Following the success of the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera, "The Pirates of Penzance", the bass and tenor section of the choir is much stronger than it has been in the past. We must offer our very sincere thanks to Mr. Coombes for his great assistance in the production of the school's first full operatic work. A very good year was finished at the End of Year Service when the choir sang "Holy Spirit, Truth and Grace" by Tye, and "Commit Thy Way Unto the Lord" by Liebhold.

The choir's first work this year will be to sing at the wedding of Mr. Dunning's daughter. Our most sincere thanks go out to Mr. May for his work in bringing the choir to the high standard reached each year.

THE CAGE

This year several important steps have been taken in increasing the efficiency of the cage. Particular mention must be made of Mr. McFarlane's efforts in this sphere. He has done much invaluable work, included in which was the purchasing of several pieces of furniture which are now used for locking up the sporting equipment of the various teams. Mr. Bennett, with the assistance of several of the boys, has also worked hard at increasing efficiency and buying new and better sporting materials.

SCOUT WORK PARTY

Throughout the whole of the year fourteen very keen scouts have worked at Hazeldene on gear, tents, boats, records and files, besides keeping the grounds of Hazeldene tidy and, the building in good repair. Each of them has earned the Handyman's Badge for they have acquired considerable skill in painting and using tools of all kinds and should now be able to perform many useful jobs around their own homes and gardens.

WORKSHOP GROUP

This year it has been decided to divide this group into two sections—one to work under the supervision of Mr. Perkins producing apparatus for use in the Junior Physics Laboratory, and the other under Mr. Smith making apparatus for the Senior Physics Laboratory. The first group is working in the old workshop, and the second group in the new workshop.

Projects that have been started recently include the production of A.C.-D.C. power supply units, boards for triangle of forces experiments, spring balances, and light sources for optical experiments.

THE DRAMA GROUP

This is an exceptionally small one this year, and, as in past years, one has to look around for hidden and outside talent which stands, and very often lies lurking under the shade of the Moreton Bay fig trees.

Conversations are overheard, mannerisms are closely studied, and unconscious, yet natural antics suitable to the stage are often necessary for an accurate cast of characters.

The present members of the group are keen and enthusiastic to get going on the production for this year, but, as yet, the play has not been decided upon.

For the past fifteen years, this juvenile dramatic group has pleased with unqualified success, and the year 1965 is going to be no exception. Once started, and remembering that the play is the thing, the members of the group pledge themselves to make their production a long-remembered and enjoyable entertainment for all.

We need your support and encouragement. We have had this in the past but not always to the extent that might be expected from a school of this size. Each boy has only to buy a ticket for himself and one for each of his parents (to say nothing of his friends) to fill our Assembly Hall to its fullest capacity for two nights. And what an encouragement this would be to our budding actors and "actresses", to urge them to greater heights while they are still with us, or when they go out to wider spheres in the theatrical world. Many who have started here on a small scale have done well in carrying on a love for dramatic art, the foundation of which was laid here quite unconsciously. We look to all the boys, parents and well wishers of the College to further this one and only aim of the Drama Group.

ART CLUB

The 1965 Art Club has twenty-eight members. The committee has met regularly and is in the process of formulating an interesting programme for 1965, the highlights of which will be sketch-hikes, visits to local galleries, commercial art studios, advertising agencies, potteries, painting demonstrations, and an art camp in the September holidays.

The boys themselves will be able to work in watercolours, oils and clay throughout the year, and much interesting work will be shown at our end-of-year exhibition. The club's art exhibition held at the end of last year, was most successful, members' work being of a very high standard.

Club members would like to congratulate J. Metcalfe on his success in winning last year's Art Club Prize.

A.C., VUA

The Rural Youth Club

The officers for 1965 were elected in the Third Term of 1964. These were: President, John Williams; Vice President, John Mitchell; Secretary, Bill De Garis; Treasurer, Peter De Garis; News Reporter, Kym Mueller.

At the first meeting for 1965, the new members were inducted. The remainder of the meeting consisted of impromptu speeches which were enjoyed by all. The second meeting took the form of a social with the P.G.C. Rural Youth Club. Two of their members spoke and showed slides on their properties, and Ric Beviss showed slides on Dookie Agricultural College. The evening was a great success, and it was enjoyed by all.

The club would like to thank the Chaplain, Mr. Waters for the keen interest he has shown in our activities. We hope that this year may prove to be successful and enjoyable for all members.

PREFECTS' PALAVER

The prefects for 1965 represent a wide variety of school activities. Simon Tregoning, the Captain of the school, is doing a fine job, and is to be congratulated on gaining his merit badge. Mark Talbot is also to be congratulated on his fine part in the winning of the intercollegiate tennis match.

Ashley Woodcock is Captain of the First XI, and has some fine innings to his credit. He was ably supported by Andrew Compton and Mike Gray, who have been very useful members of the team. The win against Saint Peter's was the highlight for the cricket, and prospects look very bright for the "intercoll" match in the third term. John Williams as captain, Dick Noble and Rob Close were members of the Second XI.

Several prefects are training hard for athletics, namely Simon Tregoning, "Perce" Day, Mike Gray, Rob Boer and Dale Cooper. We have several Under-Officers leading the Cadets, Simon Tregoning, Brian Richardson, Dale Cooper and "Jack" Horner, while John Loxton, Chris Bennett and Rob Close are leaders in Scouting.

We have three members of the First VIII amongst our number, these being Brian Richardson the Captain of Boats, "Tass" DeGaris and Brian Wheatley. We wish these boys luck in the Head-of-the-River.

John Loxton is to be congratulated on coming top in the State for the Leaving Examinations, and Dale Cooper deserves a great deal of credit for gaining a Leaving Bursary and for coming second to Loxton in the Leaving Physics Examination. Chris Bennett has done a great deal of work as editor of this chronicle, and John Loxton has been selected as editor of the Science Journal.

The prefects this year are a motley gang,
And I hope they'll forgive my clumsy harangue.
Simon Tregoning is captain this year;
His fame as a sportsman has spread far and near.
Plays cricket and footy and putting the shot,
Hurdles and swimming the whole blooming lot.
Chris Bennett, the editor, is next on the roll.
And ably indeed fills this difficult role.
Rob Boer is next, no mean swimmer he,
And with us as well are strong rowers three—
The Captain of Boats—Big "Richie" is first,
The second is "Tass", by no means the worst,
The third Brian Wheatley—a singer of note.
How can we lose with these three in the boat?
Andy Compton plays cricket—spin bowler of guile,
Been playing St. Peter's for quite a long while.
Dale Cooper is next, a scientist clever,
His motto could be, "The Army Forever".
"Perce" Day is an athlete, he's fast you'll agree,
On Adelaide Oval or at M.L.C.
Mike Gray is a batsman of style and fire,
Though he's watching me write this, I'm really no liar.
"Jack" Horner you'll find belongs in this rhyme,
But he's bound for Duntroon for quite a long time.
John Loxton you know, came top of the State,
The teachers he teaches; all think that he's great.
A sportsman and scholar is noble Dick Nob,
Winning basketball matches is his special job.
Johnny G. Williams makes lessons a riot,
You'll know he's not there if the classroom is quiet.
Ash Woodcock leads out the cricketing side;
He's a batsman of style, all bowlers defied.
Extremely well known is our Mark the "Bot",
In winning the tennis he helped us a lot.
And now to the editor this I must send,
But wait, there's one more, 'tis I, Close.

The End.

2nd P.A.C.: T.L., R. Close; P.Ls., C. J. Bennett, C. K. Bennett, W. Heddle, R. Gerrard, K. Glancey, J. Loxton.

3rd P.A.C.: T.L., E. Martin; P.Ls., D. Chapman, R. Hetzel, I. Hone, F. Hopkirk, R. Monckton, J. Waters.

4th P.A.C.: T.L., D. Provis; P.Ls., B. Adamson, L. Kerr, G. Playford, L. Rowe, M. Waters.

Scouters: D. Cant, P. Chapman, O. Crompton, M. Elliot, A. Jeffery, W. Riceman, D. Trim, P. Shaughnessy, J. Williams, J. Willoughby.

Cadet Scouters: R. Blake, D. Finnegan, R. Jarrett, J. Leak, G. D. Martin, G. S. Martin, I. Shaw.

We feel that 1964 was a most remarkable year for scouting here at the school. Before we record, however, our thanks and appreciation to all those who help us, we must put first the important fact that 1964 saw an increase in good scouting both in spirit and in practice in all the four troops. Excellent camps, good hikes, brave adventures and spirited participation in the Wednesday and Friday parades all give evidence of this. Many badges were gained, Second and First Class awards, and quite a goodly number of Venturer and Helmsman Badges were won. At the peak of all this, we have five Queen's Scouts, and we offer our congratulations to D. Chapman, R. Hetzel, F. and G. Hopkirk and E. Martin. They have achieved the highest honour a scout can gain.

And now to mention other highlights: the Goolwa Sea Scout Depot, the Bill Taylor Memorial Camp site was completed and opened by the Headmaster and dedicated by the Chaplain in October. As recorded by the Sea Scout troops, this wonderful boating and sailing centre is in almost constant use, and is proving of great value in training our scouts in seamanship.

We extend our sincere thanks once again to all who have made this possible—and our thanks are also extended to the ladies who ran the successful Jumble Sale in October, who assisted at the Christmas Party and who served teas at the intercol. cricket. There are so many, and the "team spirit" is so evident among them that we feel it would be invidious to mention them by name. Our thanks, however, are all the more sincere. We wish again to thank the many old Scouts who give of their time and talents week by week with our various activities. Once again we refrain from mentioning names (actually their names may be seen at the head of this report) for they all make great contributions to the advancement of the boys here at the school in the field of scouting.

There are two who should be mentioned by name—Mr. R. L. Whitham, our Chairman, and Mr. E. McEwin our Hon. Secretary. Both these gentlemen have put us in their debt through their constant work on our behalf—meetings, working bees, work parties at Goolwa, help and advice freely available at all times. We ask them to accept our grateful thanks and we ask them to pass on our gratitude to their most vigorous association of the Parents and Friends.

We have a most welcome addition to our "staff"—Mr. Ian Gray, an Old Boy of the school and now on our teaching staff, has volunteered to help us and has already shown his worth and enthusiasm. His help will be of great value, especially with the younger scouts in the 4th troop.

Here are the troop reports from the four Troop Leaders responsible for each of the troops:

John Rogers writes:

In the 1st P.A.C. we have completed a good term's scouting with the Christmas Party. This was enjoyed by all, and we thank all the mothers who made it a success. The Abotomey Cup was won by the Penguin Patrol of the 4th troop (under the leadership of R. Krantz)—we congratulate them.

Saints and Princes combined and sent forty-nine boys to the Seventh Australian Jamboree which was held in Dandenong, Victoria. It involved much preparation and planning, but we all enjoyed every moment and the effort was really worthwhile.

On 12th March, the Eastern District Swimming Sports were held at Norwood Pool, and our contestants did very well. We won both the Senior and Junior relays. The following day the newly elected P.L.s camped at the Mylor Hut for a training week end. We combined with the 4ths for the Investiture of the new recruits, and this was followed by the A.G.M. and then some films on the Jamboree. From 27-28th March, the Seconds of each patrol spent a worthwhile time at the Eastern District P.L.'s camp at Woodhouse.

Finally, preparations are now going ahead for our camp at Kuitpo Colony at Easter—tent pitching, lashings and kit packing. We should like to thank all those who help us with our Scouting—we hope they enjoy it as much as we do.

Robert Close writes:

The Goolwa Sea Scout Depot, which was opened during Third Term of 1964, has already proved a great blessing to the Senior Sea Scout Troop (2nd P.A.C.). Many Scouts from this troop have already been down there, and several more week-end patrol camps are at present being organised. All return full of enthusiasm, thus fulfilling the ideas of those who planned the depot and camping ground and provided the necessary work and organisation. We wish to thank them all for this major step forward in sea scouting at P.A.C.

Other activities have included sailing "Little Trump" at week-ends at Outer Harbour in the R.S.A.Y.S. junior section races, and we have gained a great deal of pleasure and experience if nothing else! Some of our members are taking part in the Helmsman Badge course run by State H.Q., and we wish all nine of them luck in the examinations. We are looking forward with great pleasure to our first annual camp at Goolwa Depot in May.

Eric Martin writes:

After a thoroughly enjoyable Jamboree which many of our Scouts and Seniors attended, we settled down quickly to our usual Wednesday programmes. As happened last year, they alternate between parades in the gym., which are largely devoted to instruction on all aspects of badge work, and "Stunts" based at Hazeldene. This year, some of the well-proven stunts have again been included, but there are several new ones, including a revised form of the Despatch Rider Badge which many have gained. Through this instruction and these stunts, and those at the end of last year, much progress has been made towards the coveted Queen's Scout Award. As is mentioned elsewhere, five gained this distinction, and we hope that many others will be following in this way before too long.

Some time has already been spent on preparation for Easter Camp, which will again be held on our own site at Kuipto Colony. The P.L.s selected their sites on Sunday, 28th March, and a wide bridge was built. This year the camping area has been extended further downstream where a large area is suitable for more patrol sites.

On Friday, 26th February, a highly successful Initiation Hike was held, starting from Burnside and hiking via Mt. Lofty to Woodhouse. We congratulate all those made Seniors, and commend all the troop on the wonderful spirit shown during the hike and in events which followed. This augurs well for the future of the troop.

Our two Q.M.'s, P. Warhurst and R. Johnson have been doing a fine job on camping equipment, it is all now in good order and we are hoping for a really good camp.

David Provis writes:

With the closing of the Third Term, the first year of the 4th troop came to an eventful end. We can look back with much satisfaction—almost all the boys having reached second class, and many of us going to the Jamboree in Dandenong. The Christmas Party was enjoyed by us all, and in January we had a wonderful Sailing Camp at the new Goolwa Depot. For about five days, twenty-two sea scouts and some H.Q.—including some ladies who did the cooking—had perfect weather, which enabled us to have plenty of sailing, swimming and life saving.

So we started our second year, and with a good bunch of patrol leaders, we are making good progress towards our First Class and Oarsman and Helmsman Badges. We welcome Mr. I. Gray as our Scoutmaster. He has already shown much enthusiasm—we hope he will be happy with us. We should like to thank him and the many others who have helped us with our sea scouting.

Cadet Notes

During the Third Term, the unit entered teams in The Earl Roberts and the Jake Rudall Rifle Competitions. The Earl Roberts team, captained by Sgt. D. Bloomfield, won the Central Command Trophy; the Jake Rudall team finished second.

On 21st October, the Ceremonial Parade was held. Brigadier T. F. Cape, G.O.C. Central Command, took the salute and presented the awards: Under-Officer W. S. Baynes won The Sword of Honour; Sgt. D. M. Horner was awarded the Most Efficient Cadet Prize; Under-Officer T. F. Young was presented the Marksman's Trophy; School House won the Cadet House Competition Shield. Sgt. Horner thanked Brigadier Cape on behalf of the unit, and presented him with a copy of the unit's history. This was compiled recently by Sgt. Horner, and records the progress of the unit from its inception in 1898 up to 1964.

In January, fifty cadets attended courses of instruction at Woodside. Excellent results were obtained by the unit, notably in the specialist courses. Sgt. B. P. Wheatley topped the A. & Q. Course, and Cadet D. Pascoe was first on the Signals Course. Corporal R. K. Sullivan was fourth on the Senior N.C.O. Course. As a result of promotions following these courses, the unit now has seven under-officers, five Warrant-Officers, seventeen sergeants, and twenty-eight corporals. The total strength of the unit is 269.

This year the unit is organized into eight platoons, and the band. There are two specialist platoons, one Assault-Pioneer, and the other Medical-Signals, and also two second-year platoons, doing advanced infantry training, and four first-year platoons learning basic infantry training.

On 26th February, fifty members of the unit, led by Under-Officer S. L. Tregoning with the School flag, marched through Adelaide with Regular, C.M.F., and Cadet units of the three services as a prelude to the launching of the Sir Winston Churchill Memorial Appeal. Our cadets, chosen from amongst the officers and N.C.O.s, marched in company with cadets from King's College. The band, led by Drum-Major Kealy, gave an excellent display.

The annual camp this year will once more be held at El Alamein for first-year cadets, and in the Cuttana Area for second year and specialists. The camp will be held from August 20 to 27, and a good attendance is expected.

During the first week-end of the May holidays, thirty cadets are attending an adventure training bivouac to be held at the Murray Bridge training area.

Swimming

Swimming Sports

The school swimming sports were held on Friday, 5th March. As expected, they were a great success and our thanks go to Mr. Woollard and the Masters involved.

This year a great increase was seen in the number of entries. This is particularly pleasing, and we are sure that similar interest will be taken in other sports this year.

Most successful individual effort was from A. Brown, who broke four records and won five events.

Relays were contested in all age groups this year. This caused added excitement to the day, for the outcome of the House competition depended on the relay results. Bayly House won the House competition convincingly, 20 points ahead of School. This is the third year in succession Bayly have won.

Once again the weather was fine, and the sports overall were very pleasant.

Rowing

Third Term 1964

Rowing got off to quite a good start with the new young members showing keen enthusiasm under the guidance of Mr. Provis. The Under 14's rowed extremely well with the "A" crew being undefeated.

Twelve senior boys trained during the Third term and raced in several regattas as an eight and open four. Mr. Mattingley coached the eight while Mr. Bacciarelli took charge of the four. Though no cups were won, the experience was invaluable. It is becoming, year by year, more and more important that boys start training as early as possible in the Third term.

Rowing Camp 1965

For the first time for many years the senior boys of the Club had a Rowing Camp on the Murray. This year a team of twelve senior oarsmen and two coxswains, under the care of Messrs. Mattingley and Provis, went down to the School Sea Scout Depot at Goolwa. The camp lasted from 1st February to the 5th, and was a complete success.

The boys improved their strength through weight training, and sandhill running improved their endurance. The morale of the boys through living together was raised considerably, and many boys improved greatly as oarsmen. We went into camp as individuals and came out with a true crew's spirit.

We would like to thank Mr. Whitworth for allowing us to use the Sea Scout Depot.

It was unfortunate that it was not possible to organise a junior camp on the Torrens this year.

First Term 1965

The following boys were selected for the Public Schools Regatta on 10th April, 1965.

First VIII for Head-of-the-River—B. P. Wheatley (Bow), A. D. Crompton (2), A. R. Uppill (3), M. J. Pfeiler (4), R. B. Cooper (5), T. A. W. Mayne (6), P. T. Delgaris (7), B. J. Richardson (Stroke), R. Hounslow (Cox).

It is unfortunate that W. A. Bowen who was originally chosen to row in the two seat became ill with appendicitis less than two weeks before the Head-of-the-River race. This crew was improving rapidly and had had two good victories over Sacred Heart College and Railways Senior Men's crew. The bad luck which has struck this crew did not stop them, for after only three training nights with a substitute, they came up and beat Scotch College. This in itself should prove they are a crew to be reckoned with.

The crew would like to thank those responsible for our new boat and oars, for they have helped us considerably.

This crew is very fortunate in having Mr. Mattingley with his experience and ability behind us as coach.

Second VIII—I. H. Kirkman (Bow), R. I. Lellman (2), D. M. Runge (3), D. J. Browning (4), R. R. Lewis (5), J. P. Woodruff (6), P. R. Brebner (7), E. H. Martin (Stroke), P. P. Bacciarelli (Cox).

After some trouble with sickness and a major change in the crew, they have settled down to hard training. The Second VIII has a very good chance to make the finals on 10th April in the Second VIII division of the Head-of-the-River. This crew is indebted to the vigorous coaching of Mr. Bacciarelli.

Open IV—A. B. Barnet (Bow), M. P. Ockenden (2), C. J. Acott (3), K. A. McEwin (Stroke), G. J. Stewart (Cox).

Though this crew is a very inexperienced one, it is improving rapidly under the guidance of Mr. P. E. Runge, a member of last year's First VIII. The members of this crew are finding the new regulation four helpful to their rowing. The crew would like to thank the School for providing the new boat.

Under 16 IV—M. H. Lloyd (Bow), R. J. Hall (2), G. E. Brown (3), P. A. Heywood-Smith (Stroke), S. V. Trainor (Cox).

For a group of boys who are experiencing their first season in rowing, this crew and their coach (Mr. N. C. Howard) are to be complimented on the improvement in so short a time.

Under 15 IV—C. M. Bailey (Bow), M. L. Fisher (2), R. E. Hudson (3), D. G. Provis (Stroke), N. C. Rowe (Cox).

This crew has an excellent record. They were undefeated last year as the Under 14 "A" crew, and have been defeated only once this year as the Under 15 "A" crew. This crew owes much to the keen coaching of Mr. Provis.

Every boy in these crews has but one objective in mind, to give the best he has for his school. We wish them luck and good conditions for the Head-of-the-River Regatta on 10th April.

Cricket

The 1964-5 cricket season has been blessed with fine weather in the main and much enjoyable cricket has been played. P.A.C. has fielded five senior and ten junior teams regularly, and some 200 boys have represented the School in matches.

The First XI have this season played in the Students' Association with rather mixed fortunes. With John Leak as captain and Ashley Woodcock as vice-captain, the team took some little time to settle down to the tempo of school matches after some years in District "B" Grade and won only one of its first four matches.

Sacred Heart College, playing with determination and skill, won a tightly contested match on a rain-affected wicket; Concordia College batted doggedly to lead on the first innings, and King's College took advantage of an indifferent wicket to do the same.

A consistent batting performance and much-improved out cricket gave us a win over P.G.S., and a much-needed boost to morale for the Intercollegiate Match against St. Peter's. The Intercollegiate game was played under ideal conditions on an excellent wicket and followed the pattern of recent games in that fortunes fluctuated from day to day with both sides entering the last day with about an even chance of victory. Set 201 runs to make in just under even time, our stocks rose with a fine opening partnership of 85 runs in 93 minutes between Woodcock and Chappell, their second 80 odd partnership for the match, but a slump after tea left us with little chance of winning in the time available. Speakman, with a sound 40 not out gave stability to the middle of the batting order and the match simmered to a draw with P.A.C., with four wickets in hand, still 27 runs in arrears.

In 1965 we had the worst of a first innings duel with A.B.H.S. on a difficult wicket, although on the second Saturday, P.A.C. looked the better team.

Against S.P.S.C., our bowlers were on top to dismiss the opposition for 91, to which our reply of 9 wickets declared for 210 was marked by a splendid 120 not out by Greg Chappell and a century partnership between Chappell and Michael Gray.

In the last game against Scotch College, our side began to realise its power. Under damp conditions, Chappell and Woodcock climaxed a splendid series of partnerships by adding 215 runs for the first wicket. Chappell scored 118, his second century in eight days, and Woodcock carried on to 126 not out at stumps, also his second century for the season.

Woodcock and Chappell must rank as one of the finest opening pairs the School has had in recent years. Both are talented batsmen, sound in defence and very correct in stroke play.

Their understanding in running between wickets has been quite a feature of their recent partnerships, and their approach to their task has been quite an object lesson to less experienced members of the side.

Apart from these two, the batting was rather inconsistent. John Leak batted well without making any big scores and Sandy Rhodes, Des Speakman, Ian Ide and Simon Tregoning played good innings, as did Michael Gray, John Mitchell and Gary Hugo in the new term.

The bowling has shown steady improvement with Chappell developing into a slow bowler of class, Grant Stephens growing in accuracy and hostility and able to bowl in long spells, Andrew Compton, off-spinner, and Simon Tregoning and Chris Hamilton taking valuable wickets with their medium-paced deliveries.

The Seconds have turned in some good performances, both with bat and ball. Ian Haines and Christ Hamilton scored centuries, and Simon Tregoning, Geoffrey Martin, Graham Sweeney and Richard Noble batted well on occasions.

In the under 16's, Barry Henwood, Greg Stanford and Phil Speakman have performed well, while among the junior teams, Tony Smith, Richard Lower, David Bartlett, Kim Herriott, Mark Schwartz and David Hetzel show promise.

The thanks of cricketers in the School are due to those who give of their time and knowledge in coaching and managing teams: Messrs. Bennett, Brown, Allen, Crouch, McFarlane, Prest, Claver, Harvey, Campbell, Waters, Gray, Jones and Baker, and to Andrew Compton, Chris Hamilton and Chris Bennett for their work with Under 13 teams; to Mr. Sylvester Fuchs and his staff for the enduring excellence of the wickets and grounds; to Matron McDonald, Miss Woodcock, Mrs. Leak, Mrs. Woodcock and the mothers of the First XI for providing the afternoon teas; to Mr. McFarlane for his work in reorganising the equipment to a stage of efficiency unheard of in the past; and to Mr. Bennett for his work as senior coach, organiser and sportsmaster.

Intercollegiate Cricket

Conditions on the first morning of the match were ideal, and the stage was set for a good game.

Saints captain, Macklin, won the toss and elected to bat on an easy-paced wicket. Paterson and Betts opened for Saints and, after a nervous start put on 57 for the first wicket. Betts was the first batsman to go (l.b.w. to Searle) and his place was taken by Lane. Against the steady Princes attack, which was given no assistance from the pitch, Paterson and Lane added 76. However, with the score at one for 133, Lane lost his wicket to Tregoning, and seven runs later Paterson was also dismissed by Tregoning. From this point wickets fell regularly until the total reached seven for 202. Then a fighting, unbeaten partnership of 43 between Wells and Smith carried the score to seven for 245 at stumps.

The next morning Saints lost their last three wickets for 10 runs. Bowling honours for Princes were shared evenly with four bowlers, each taking two wickets.

The Princes opening pair, Woodcock and Chappell, gave the side a fine start with a first wicket partnership of 87 in 127 minutes. Then Princes slumped badly, and five wickets fell for the addition of only 35 runs. Woodcock was first to go, caught behind off Lane for 34. Then with the score at one for 104, Chappell was l.b.w. to Macklin for 50. Three more wickets, those of Rhodes, Leak and Speakman fell quickly, and the score had slumped to 5 for 122. Then Tregoning and Ide added 29 for the sixth wicket, before Tregoning was caught and bowled by Cherry for a fighting 22. Another wicket fell, and then Searle and Ide added 31 runs for the eighth wicket. Thus at stumps Princes had fought back to be seven for 197.

On the third morning, Princes lost their last three wickets for nine runs in 41 minutes. Ide remained not out 40 in a determined innings. Saints therefore had a lead of 49 in the first innings.

When Saints batted again, Princes gained the ascendancy early in the innings and kept it. Saints lost Betts (l.bw. to McIntosh) with the score at only 7. A partnership of 40 between Paterson and Lane somewhat redeemed Saints position. However, when Tregoning chipped in with two quick wickets, those of Paterson and Jay, Princes were on top again. Then Chappell struck, and with a fine display of controlled spin bowling, dismissed five batsmen at a personal cost of 36 runs. Princes were well and truly on top with Saints reeling at 8 wickets for 142 when stumps were drawn. Of the early batsmen, Lane scored a slow but valuable 44 in 165 minutes.

The next morning, Chappell and Stephens dismissed the remaining two batsmen in ten minutes. Saints were all out for 151.

The stage was set for an exciting finish with Princes requiring 201 runs in 173 minutes. Once again Woodcock and Chappell got Princes away to an excellent start with a partnership of 85 in 93 minutes. The hundred came up in 107 minutes, and at that stage Princes looked likely to win. But then Betts bowled Chappell for 59, and seven runs later, slow bowler Jay took the wickets of Leak and Ide in the same over. The game swung Saints way when Lane had Compton caught behind six runs later. The score at this stage was 5 for 114, after being none for 85. However, a fighting sixth wicket partnership of 33 between Speakman and Tregoning restored the position somewhat for Princes. When Tregoning was dismissed, Rhodes joined Speakman and they had an unbeaten partnership of 27 in 18 minutes. At stumps Princes were 6 for 174, just 27 runs short of victory. Speakman remained not out with a solid 40, made in 79 minutes.

Chappell is to be congratulated on winning both the batting and bowling trophies, and Ide the fielding trophy for the Intercollegiate match. Also congratulations to Woodcock and Stephens for winning the season's batting and bowling trophies respectively.

Cricket Critique: First XI

J. D. Leak (captain)—A fine wicketkeeper and a talented batsman, he is a cricketer of considerable promise. His captaincy has been capable, enthusiastic and aggressive.

A. J. Woodcock (vice-captain)—A talented opener with a classic style, he has batted with remarkable consistency. His captaincy in the new term has been excellent.

G. S. Chappell—He is rapidly developing into an all-rounder of class. As opening bat, leg-spin bowler and gully fieldsman his performances have been outstanding.

A. B. Compton—His off-spin bowling has commanded respect, but he has had a disappointing season with the bat. Always alert and keen in the field.

G. W. Stephens—A tall, medium-fast left-hander, he has bowled economically and at times with hostility. His batting has been rather disappointing.

D. L. Speakman—A useful all-rounder, able to score quickly and take valuable wickets with his lively medium-paced bowling.

G. J. Searle—A steady leg-spin bowler, a useful bat and a fine slip field.

S. H. Rhodes—A solid right-hand bat with a useful range of shots, he lacks confidence early in his innings.

I. D. Ide—A solid left hander, particularly strong on the on-side. A useful bowler, and a good field.

J. C. McIntosh—A fastish left-handed opening bowler who moves the new ball away quite sharply.

S. L. Tregoning—A hard-hitting batsman and a very useful medium-paced bowler, his best performances have been under pressure.

J. B. Hassell—A steady medium-paced left-hander and a solid batsman.

M. L. Gray—A promising batsman with a wide range of strokes and a sound temperament. A fine field.

C. J. Hamilton—A promising all-rounder, he has bowled well, but has not yet found batting form.

G. V. Hugo—A newcomer with considerable batting potential.

I. C. Haines—Particularly strong off the back foot, he shows promise as a punishing bat.

J. W. Mitchell—A sound, correct batsman and a useful leg spin bowler.

K. A. Mueller—Has kept wickets very well this term. Very neat and quick in his movements, he has taken several fine catches.

B. V. Hocking—A tall medium-pacer, he has good control and moves the new ball well.

THIRD TERM, 1964

Under 13 "A"

Captain: M. Page

The U13 "A" played four games, winning one, losing two and having the remaining one washed out. The first match against S.H.C. was abandoned because of rain. In the second match the side defeated A.B.H.S. by 14 runs on the first innings. The remaining two games against S.P.S.C. and S.I.C. resulted in losses. Best players for the season were Herriot and Bartlett.

Results—

P.A.C. 70 (Bartlett 30) v. S.H.C. 0/10. Match abandoned.

P.A.C. 110 (Martin 20) defeated A.B.H.S. 96 (Herriot 6/20).

P.A.C. 89 (Bartlett 22) lost to S.P.S.C. 100 (Herriot 7/35).

P.A.C. 70 (Bartlett 28) lost to S.I.C. 82 (Pascoe 3/20).

Captain: A. Clements

Although the team played well, they lacked the necessary spirit and lost every match.

The first match against St. Michaels resulted in a defeat by 58 runs on the first innings. The second match resulted in a convincing win to S.P.S.C. on the first innings. In the final match, S.H.C. won comfortably.

Best players for the season were Manuel, Sullivan, Whittam and Clements.

The team would like to thank Mr. Claver for his help at practice and matches.

Scores—

P.A.C. 52 (Manuel 17) lost to St. Michael's 110 (Manuel 3 wkts.).

P.A.C. 30 lost to S.P.S.C. 3/124 (Manuel 2 wkts.).

P.A.C. lost to S.H.C. (Sullivan 5 wkts.)

Captain: R. Lower

The U14 "A" had a poor season, winning only one of our four matches. We lost our first match to S.P.S.C. by two wickets after having made 142. In reply, Saints were 8/146 at stumps. Our next game was against St. Ignatius. We batted first and could manage only 123 after having an opening stand of 76. St. Ignatius, however, were dismissed for 46. Again A.B.H.S. we were defeated outright. In the return match against Saints we were again defeated on the first innings.

Best players for the season were Smith, Brown, Solomon and Beck.

We would like to thank Mr. Macfarlane for his helpful advice at practices and matches.

Results—

P.A.C. 142 (Smith 46, French 41, Lower 29 n.o.) lost to S.P.S.C. 8/146.

P.A.C. 123 (Brown 40, West 33) defeated St. Ignatius 46 (Beck 7/17).

P.A.C. 23 and 62 lost to A.B.H.S. 8/115 dec. (Solomon 6/28).

P.A.C. 87 lost to S.P.S.C. 6/124.

(Captain: N. A. Read)

In the third term the Under 15 White team was very successful winning all three matches. The first game against A.B.H.S. Under 15 "A", resulted in a convincing win for us. The next match was against the P.A.C. Under 15 Red, and this resulted in a win by four runs to us on the first innings.

Best players for the season were Parsons, Hocking and McEwin.

The team would like to thank Mr. Brown for his help at practices and matches.

Results—

P.A.C. Under 15 White 110 (Parsons 27, McEwin 23, Read 21) and 5/30, defeated A.B.H.S. Under 15 "A" 45 (Hocking 6/15) and 95.

P.A.C. Under 15 White 110 (Finnegan 31, Parsons 20, McEwin 19 n.o.) defeated P.A.C. Under 15 Red (McEwin 3/8, Hocking 2/16).

Second XI

Captain: J. A. Alexander

As the third term is only short and we missed two Saturdays of play, we unfortunately played only three matches. In these matches we showed ourselves as a very accomplished Second XI.

The first match against Adelaide High proved an easy win, due mainly to an all-round team effort which was perhaps slightly dominated by John Hassell who took four wickets and made forty-three runs.

P.A.C. 217 defeated A.B.H.S. 62 and 8/130.

The second match against Scotch College realised another high score, due mainly to the brilliant batting of Chris Hamilton (100 n.o.) and Simon Tregoning 86. They produced a polished partnership of over 150 runs. Unfortunately we were unable to dismiss the Scotch side who were fighting desperately at the close of play with their score at 9/174 in reply to our 6/227 dec. Milner was the most successful bowler taking 3 wkts. and Tregoning also took 3.

P.A.C. 6/227 dec. drew with Scotch 9/174.

The third and final match was against S.P.S.C., and we played them with a greatly weakened side, dut to unavailability of several players. However, I feel we took the merits of the game and were beaten by time. Once again Hassell was a dominant force with the ball, taking seven wickets.

S.P.S.C. 98 defeated P.A.C. 6/92 (one-day game).

The stars of the season proved to be Simon Tregoning, John Hassell, Chris Hamilton, and for his determined effort with the ball I must also mention the great effort put forward by Dick Milner.

FIRST TERM, 1965

Under 13 "A"
Captain: G. M. Schwartz

The team started encouragingly with a win over Pulteney. In the second game we lost outright to Kings after leading on the first innings. The final game against Rostrevor resulted in a good win to us.

Best players for the season were Schwartz, Hetzel, Brooks and Dawkins.

The team would like to thank Chris Hamilton for his coaching and attendance at our matches.

Results—

P.A.C. 9/81 (Schwartz 18 ret.) defeated P.G.S. 32 (Hetzel 3/11).

P.A.C. 77 (Rees 16) and 42 (Potter 16 n.o.) lost to Kings 72 (Brooks and Dawkins each 3 wickets) and 8/48 (Hetzel 3/5, Schwartz 3/8).

P.A.C. 5/78 (Hetzel 29 ret.) defeated Rostrevor 3/74 (Hawkes 2/16).

Captain: W. Morrow

The team had a reasonable season winning two out of the four games played.

The team started well by defeating A.B.H.S. on the first innings. In the second game against P.G.S., we lost an exciting game by three runs. The next game resulted in a good win to us over S.H.C. In the last game against S.P.S.C., we lost on the first innings.

The best players for the term were Ferris, Nicholls, Crompton and Coombs.

The team would like to thank Mr. Claver for his help and encouragement throughout the season.

Results—

P.A.C. 43 lost to A.B.H.S. 109.

P.A.C. 78 defeated S.H.C. 52 (Ferris 5/8, including the hat trick).

P.A.C. 5/69 lost to S.P.S.C. 2/100.

Captain: P. W. Rundle

The team had a good season winning two out of the three matches played. The first match against Scotch Under 13 "B" resulted in a win to us by two runs on the first innings. In the match against Westminster we won quite comfortably.

Best players for the season were Watt-Beattie, Dimond and Stenhouse.

The team would like to thank Andy Compton for his encouragement and advice throughout the term.

Results—

P.A.C. 66 (Beattie 30, Dimond 20) defeated Scotch 64 (Beattie 5/20, Dimond 2/12, Hull 2/14).

P.A.C. 114 (Beattie 22, Stenhouse 31) defeated Westminster (Stenhouse 4/5, Rees 2/10).

Captain: M. Page

Of the three matches played, we won one and lost the remaining two. In the first game against St. Ignatius we won convincingly on the first innings. The second match against S.P.S.C. was a close game which we lost by five runs. The final game resulted in a win on the first innings to Rostrevor.

Best players for the season were Bartlett, Karmel, Herriot and Pascoe.

The team would like to thank Mr. Macfarlane for his helpful advice at practices and matches.

Results—

P.A.C. 9/110 (Bartlett 22, Martin 20) defeated St. Ignatius 34.

P.A.C. 103 (Karmel 26, Herriot 19) lost to S.P.S.C. 108 (Bartlett 3/15 including the hat trick).

P.A.C. 63 (Richardson 21) lost to Rostrevor 77 (Pascoe 6 wickets).

Captain: L. W. Smith

The Under 14 "C" team had a very unsuccessful season, losing all games. However, everyone was keen and willing to improve. Our best performance was against Kings when we scored 4/47 before rain washed out play.

Best players for the season were Smith, Sullivan, Whittam, Bowman and Walsh.

The team would like to thank Mr. Harvey for his coaching at practices and matches.

Captain: R. Lower

The Under 15 Red team had a fair season, winning one out of three matches. Our first game was against St. Peters, and resulted in our first defeat. In the second match we were more successful, and defeated St. Ignatius convincingly. The final game resulted in a first innings win to Rostrevor.

The best players for the season were Smith, Lower and Sweeney.

Results—

P.A.C. 53 lost to S.P.S.C. 98.

P.A.C. 78 and 5/99 dec. (Smith 52 n.o.) defeated St. Ignatius 47 (Lower 6/24) and 7/98 (Smith 5/40).

P.A.C. 128 (Sweeney 65) lost to Rostrevor 8/145 dec.

Captain: B. R. Henwood

Of the three games the Under 16 "A" played, we defeated Kings seconds outright, but lost on the first innings to Adelaide High Under 16 "A" and to Adelaide High seconds. In the latter game we lost narrowly on the first innings, but were in a fairly good position for an outright win.

The most successful batsmen were Speakman and Henwood, with Stanford, Hocking and Tregoning making useful scores. The most successful bowlers were Stanford, Hocking and Henwood. The team would like to take the opportunity to thank Mr. Bennett for his assistance to us throughout the season.

P.A.C. 211 (Henwood 69 n.o., Speakman 31, Hocking 22, Stanford 21, Hiatt 19) defeated Kings seconds 109 (Henwood 3/14 and 47 (Hocking 6-19, Stanford 4-28) outright.

P.A.C. 108 (Finnegan 29, Read 25) and 5-72 were defeated by A.B.H.S. Under 16 "A" 157 (Henwood 5/22) and 63 (Stanford 7/23).

P.A.C. 120 (Tregoning 31, Speakman 27) and 3/45 were defeated by A.B.H.S. Seconds 132 and 87 (Henwood 5/41, Stanford 4/29).

Second XI

Captain: J. G. Williams

The First Term of 1965 was one of mixed fortune for the P.A.C. Second XI. We were defeated outright by S.P.S.C. Under 16 "A", but had good wins over S.P.S.C. Second XI and S.H.C. Second XI.

The most outstanding batting performance came from Ian Haines who compiled a fine 116 against S.P.S.C. Second XI. Individual batsmen were inconsistent, but several players made notable scores.

By far the outstanding bowler was Richard Milner who took 14 wickets.

Results—

P.A.C. 2 for 231 (Haines 116, Martin 47) defeated S.P.S.C. Second XI 170 (Milner 5 for 31).

P.A.C. 94 (Noble 21) and 7 for 58 declared, lost to S.P.S.C. Under 16 "A" 110 (Milner 5 wickets) and 5 for 44.

P.A.C. 148 (Sweeney 48, Williams 26) and 8 for 130 (Close 32) defeated S.H.C. Second XI 125 (Green 3 wickets, Milner 3 wickets).

Third XI

Captain: C. J. C. Bennett

The team had rather mixed fortunes this term, narrowly winning against C.B.C. Seconds, being beaten by P.G.S, Seconds, and being annihilated by Saints Thirds. The first match was played against Saints and resulted in a convincing win for them. Batting all afternoon they reached the mammoth score of 199, sharing the honours fairly evenly. Green was by far the most outstanding bowler for us, and was ably supported by Howe. We could manage only 87 with no one making a reasonable total.

S.P.S.C. Thirds 199 defeated P.A.C. Thirds 87 (Howe 17, Green 17, Green 3/35, Howe 2/24).

The second match was very exciting and disagreeing scorebooks held the match in some doubt. It was finally worked out that we had won by one run, 109 to 108 by C.B.C. There were two outstanding performances in the match—57 by Stone, who carried his bat almost through the whole innings, and was given dogged support by the tailenders; and a total of 8 wickets in the match for Howe, who took three in the first over of C.B.Cs. second innings.

P.A.C. Thirds, 109, defeated C.B.C. Seconds 108 and 5/50 (Stone 57, Howe 4/17 and 4/9, Warhurst 4/12).

The last match played against Pulteney ended in a disappointing loss for us after having a good start. Heywood-Smith made a dour 23 and Brinsley a powerfully hit 29.

P.A.C. Thirds, 100, defeated by P.G.S. Seconds, 123 (Brinsley 29, Heywood-Smith 23, Bennett, Butcher, Johnson, Brinsley each 2 wickets).

Fourth XI

Captains: W. De Garis and I. Hone

The Fourths had a moderately successful First Term, winning one game, losing one game, and drawing one game. We defeated Saint's Fourths outright, 169 to 99 and 38. C.B.C. Thirds defeated us by three runs, 91 to 88.) The last match against St. Ignatius possibly was the best, St. Ignatius making 169, and P.A.C. all out for 120, and 4 for 84.

Most successful batsmen were De Garis, Tregoning, Wilkinson and Brinsley; and with the ball were Sullivan, Hetzel and De Garis.

COLOURS, 1964

Cricket: Full Colours—J. D. Leak, A. J. Woodcock, G. S. Chappell, A. B. Compton, I. D. Ide, D. L. Speakman, G. W. Stephens, J. C. McIntosh, S. L. Tregoning, G. J. Searle, S. H. Rhodes.

Half Colours—C. J. Hamilton, J. B. Hassell, M. L. Gray.

Merit Badge—S. L. Tregoning (Colours in Football, Cricket and Swimming).

Tennis

Intercollegiate Tennis

The annual intercollegiate tennis match was played at the Memorial Drive courts on Saturday 27th March, under perfect conditions for tennis.

The teams were (in singles order):

P.A.C.—C. Green, R. Bickmore, D. Brown, J. Cook, M. Craven, R. Nicholls, M. Talbot, R. Beviss, D. Barrie (res.), C. Dunsford (res.).

S.P.S.C.—I. White, P. Detmold, R. Irving, G. Roberts, K. Weir, C. Redwood, T. George, J. Lawrence, D. Teague (res.).

Play commenced at 10.15 a.m. with the first round of doubles. Our first pair, Green and Brown, found too much opposition in Saints' second pair, Irving and Roberts, to lose in straight sets, 0-6, 4-6, but only after a splendid recovery from 0-4 in the second set.

Bickmore and Cook played well to defeat White and Detmold, 6-5, 6-2, after a very close first set. Craven and Nicholls, our third pair, playing a classic game of consistency, defeated Saints' fourth pair in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2.

Talbot and Beviss increased our lead to 3 rubbers to one after a splendid fighting recovery. The Saints' pair, Redwood and Weir, played well in the first set to win 6-3. Playing more careful and determined tennis in the second set, our pair won 6-5. After being 4-1 down in the third and final set, Talbot and Beviss fought back to win 7-5 due to Talbot's powerful serving and Beviss' crisp net shots.

The second round, consisting of fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh singles was most successful for P.A.C.

Cook was defeated by the very consistent Roberts, 1-6, 3-6. Craven played very well with brilliant lobbing to win 6-4, 6-2 against Weir.

Nicholls, following in his partner's footsteps won convincingly 6-4, 6-2, using his double backhand with brilliant control. Talbot, after a close first set, played well and defeated George 6-5- 6-2. Thus the scores at lunch were:

P.A.C. - - - - - - - 6 rubbers, 12 sets
S.P.S.C. - - - - - - - 2 rubbers, 5 sets

At 1.45 p.m., the players returned to contest two doubles and the eighth singles. The first pairs of both teams were matched on the centre court. After a shaky first set, which we lost 4-6, Green and Brown combined well to defeat White and Detmold 6-3, 6-2 in the remaining two sets.

Bickmore and Cook lost to Saints' fine second doubles 2-6, 5-6, but only after a fighting finish in the second set.

Beviss started well against Laurence, serving very forcefully and hitting some powerful smashes, to win the first set 6-2. However, Laurence recovered, and playing very steady tennis, won the remaining sets 5-6, 3-6.

The fourth round began with P.A.C. needing only two rubbers for a win. The most important match of the day, the first singles, was played on the main court. The match was marked by fluctuating fortunes. White began brilliantly to lead 5-2, but Green played purposeful tennis to win 6-5. The second set was all White's. His ground strokes were too good and he won 2-6. However, Green, playing a model captain's game, lifted P.A.C.'s hopes of its first intercollegiate tennis victory for four years when he won the third set 6-4.

Bickmore clinched our victory, playing ground strokes brilliantly to win 6-2, 6-5 against Detmold. Brown, stroking the ball well, won his first set well, 6-1, against Irving. However, Saints' third single player played well to defeat him 6-1, 4-6, 2-6.

Round five began with Craven and Nicholls playing excellent relaxed tennis to beat Weir and Redwood 6-1, 6-1. Talbot and Beviss increased our lead with a fine win over George and Lawrence, 6-5, 6-1, due to Beviss' powerful serving.

The final scores were:

P.A.C. - - - - - - - 11 rubbers, 24 sets
S.P.S.C. - - - - - - 5 rubbers, 13 sets

Craven and Nicholls are to be congratulated on winning all four rubbers, both losing only 12 games.

The team would like to thank Mr. Gabb for the many long hours he has spent coaching us. We should also like to thank Mr. Woollard and Mr. Fowler for their help on Wednesday and Thursday nights when Mr. Gabb was training the top players at the Drive.

Other First Tennis Matches

This season has been a very successful one for the Drive team in that we have won seven out of the eight matches contested. This great success has been due to the consistent play of all members of the team.

The scores for this first term were:

13th February: P.A.C. won on forfeit from N.H.S.
20th February: P.A.C. defeated W.H.S., 7-2.
27th February: P.A.C. defeated U.H.S., 7-2.
6th March: P.A.C. defeated B.H.S., 8-1.
19th March: P.A.C. defeated P.G.S., 6-3.
20th March: P.A.C. defeated by A.B.H.S., 2-7.
3rd April: P.A.C. defeated K.C., 7-2.
10th April: P.A.C. defeated S.H.C., 7-2.

The members of the first tennis squad would like to thank our coach Mr. Gabb for his continued support, coaching and interest throughout the year.

Under 15 and 16 "A" Tennis

The 1964-65 season has proved to be very successful with Princes winning most of the matches played. Thanks must go to Mr. Gabb and Mr. Fowler, especially for their valuable assistance in the coaching of the teams. The best and most consistent players this year were for the Under 15 Mundy, Andary and Jarrett, and for the Under 16 Wicks, Stephens and Wilson.

Open "A" and "B" Tennis

Princes, once again, have won most of their matches. Westminster College, however, beat the "As" twice, the last time being very close, 5 sets to 4. Mr. Gabb and Mr. Woollard are gratefully thanked for their many hours spent with the teams in coaching and helping them. Best players for the "As" have been Talbot and Beviss (when not playing for the Drive team) and Barrie and Dunsford. Others to show out were May, Taplin and Schmidt, however, all tried hard.

Under 14 Tennis

The Under 14 "A" tennis team had a very successful season, remaining undefeated throughout. We had convincing wins over Concordia, King's and Immanuel Colleges, and just managed to hold off a fighting Saint's team to beat them 5-4. Nicholls won the Tennis Cup by defeating M. Trengove 9-5 in a close match.

The "B" team had a reasonably successful season, winning more matches than it lost. The aim with this team has been to give as many boys as possible a game, and the standard has been quite good throughout.

The team would like to thank Mr. Basedow for the help and personal interest he has given this season.

Under 13 Tennis

The Under 13 "A" and "B" tennis teams started off very well this year. The "As" played six matches and lost against King's College and S.P.S.C. The "Bs" played seven matches and won all of them. I. C. Dixon was elected captain, and Fleet was elected vice-captain.

TENNIS CRITIQUE, 1965

C. G. GREEN—His strokes are powerful and direct, but he lacks consistency in serving. He has had a successful season.

R. L. BICKMORE—Played well in the Intercollegiate match. He has a very strong forehand and all of his other shots are consistent. Winner of School championship.

D. C. BROWN—A good solid player with consistent all-round strokes.

J. A. COOK—A much improved player this year; he has performed well, particularly in the doubles.

M. B. CRAVEN — A steady and consistent player, who has only lost one singles match this year—he won all of his inter-college matches this year.

R. M. NICHOLLS—A very reliable player, both singles and doubles. He has an unorthodox but very good double-handed backhand; he also won all of his inter-college matches this year.

M. J. TALBOT—A much improved player this year, with a strong forehand—he was runner-up in the School championship.

R. J. BEVISS—His first year in the side—a strong and forecful player; he has had a good year.

D. K. BARRIE—Very sure of his strokes; next year he should force his way into the inter-college eight.

C. W. DUNSFORD—A capable reserve, who improved greatly during the season.

UNCOMFORTABLE MOMENTS

Why is it that certain souls on this planet are cursed with the knack of being in uneasy circumstances? If there is the merest chance of a faux pas there are those of us who, it seems, just cannot resist taking it.

Ever since I have had some understanding of the subtleties of life, I have managed to be the centre of embarrassing and unwanted attention, as on my first day at school—when having downed my home-made lunch, I was confronted by some ogreish fellow demanding to know why my lunch was uneaten. Sure enough, alongside of me some malicious little brat had left an assortment of virtual inedibles. What could I do but attempt to eat them with two hundred accusing eyes piercing me like gimlets? If only I had taken this as a portent for the future, I might have avoided some of my gross ill-luck.

It is a totally unfair quirk of the human brain that it remembers so vividly and so painfully one's brushes with convention. How unfortunately well I remember every detail of my futile efforts at every sport I attempted—the heartless, yet deserved laughter which greeted me when my first kick of a football projected it twenty yards behind me, and my first bowl of a cricket ball landed at the square-leg umpire's feet. With poignant clarity I see myself being hauled from a three-foot-deep pool by a rescuer whose aid I enlisted after bellowing to him that I should drown (even though the water barely reached my waist!).

No matter where I go, I am constantly dogged by a peculiar and unavoidable jinx. Not long ago the family took an interstate trip and, as we crossed the border, a routine check of the car was made, to ensure there was no transmission of disease in the fruit we were carrying. I am not sure, but I think this hoo-doo of mine has given me a guilt-laden face, for the inspecting officer requested that my bag be opened. To the officer's obvious displeasure and my abject surprise, six rotten peaches were discovered. Then I remembered that I had packed them three days earlier in case we became hungry miles from civilisation. Unhappily, I could not explain this to the officer, who accused me of trying to undermine the fruit industry of his fair state. After hours of humble apologies and lengthy explanations, I convinced my persecutor of my worthy intentions, and returned to my trip harassed by yet another uneasiness.

In most people's lives there is usually one crowning incident when the doer reaches the peak of his particular field of accomplishment. I was sure I had reached mine the day I was asked to deliver my first formal speech. In grim preparation for this momentous occasion, I realised that I was certain to make some glaring error during my speech. After an eternity, the day arrived. Just my luck! I was running late! Hurriedly I ascended the stairs and burst through the door in time to hear the announcement that a speech was to be made. Without hesitation I rushed through my lines amid a hushed (and, I thought, admiring audience). Not until I had completed my Ciceronian delivery did a sudden, dark realisation pass through my mind — I had delivered my address in the wrong meeting! Once more was I a victim of my incurable misfortune.

What can I do? Even if I join the Foreign Legion, to be sure someone in it will greet me with "Hey, I know you. You're the guy everyone looked at when you . . . "

A TRIP THROUGH THE PANAMA CANAL

Not long after sunrise I went on deck and saw the ship slowly moving in towards the entrance of the canal. On the shore was very lush vegetation.

About half an hour before breakfast, we entered the Gatun locks. These are a series of three locks which raise the ship to about ninety feet above sea-level.

When we were just about to enter the first lock, cables were taken across from the ship to "mules". These mules are forty-seven ton electric engines which tow the ship into the locks. In order to get enough traction, they work on a rack and pinion drive. These mules have been in use since the canal was first used, about fifty years ago. We had six mules on our ship.

When the lock gates had closed, water was let in, and one could actually see the ship rising. When we had reached the height of the next lock, the gates in front of us opened and the mules towed us in.

In the last lock there is a double gate to ensure that the waters of the Gatun lake cannot escape into the sea. If all the water ran out, it would take about ten years to refill. All through the journey we had a guide on board the ship who gave us a running commentary.

After passing through the Gatun lake, we came to the Gaillard Cut. Here we had two tugs. At the moment ships cannot pass in the Cut, but it is being widened.

At the end of the Cut, we came to a lock which lowered us into the Miraflores Lake, which, although it is not as big as the Gatun Lake, is still a feat of engineering. The lakes were originally valleys, but have now been dammed. They are fed by a river which makes up for the loss of water due to ships going through the locks.

At the end of the Miraflores Lake were two more locks.

After going through these we were once again at sea level, this time on the Pacific end at Balboa.

Because of the greater tides in the Pacific, the locks at this end are deeper.

We spent a most enjoyable day in the Canal, entering at about seven in the morning and finishing at about three in the afternoon.

SMUGGLERS

Sergeant Ben Saunders of the Scotland Yard C.I.D. was summoned to the office of Chief Inspector Lockhart.

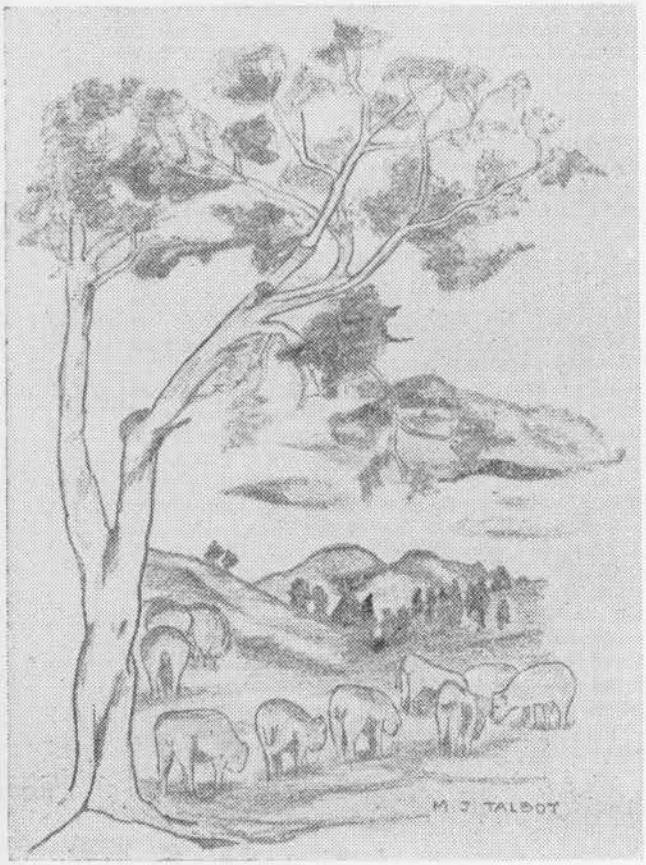
"Ben," said Lockhart, "I have assigned you to a case which will be difficult to crack."

"What is it?" questioned Ben.

"There is a smuggling ring working in the neighbourhood of Studland on the South Coast. We have received a report that someone has been bringing transistors and watches into the country. I should like you to take another man and try to break through as soon as possible," replied Chief Inspector Lockhart.

"I should like to take Detective-Sergeant Billy Harris with me, Sir," murmured Ben.

So Ben and Billy packed some gear and changed, and within an hour of notification they were on their way toward the township of Studland. When they arrived at Studland they ripped small parts of their clothing to distract attention. They walked around town for a while and then stepped into the local hotel for a drink and information. They walked up to the bar to order a drink. When the barman had the drinks ready, Billy murmured, "Eh, does you know where I can pick up a cheap tranny?"



"Sure," whispered the barman, "in the next street there's a shop that sells everything. Bert Murphie owns the joint, and by the way, tell him Bob sent you."

So Ben and Billy finished their drinks and then sauntered off to the next street. They decided to keep the shop under close vigil both day and night. Luckily for them there was a spare room on the second storey of the house opposite the untidy dilapidated little shop and they were able to rent it.

They watched the little shop for a week, but saw no suspicious character entering. On the eighth night of watching the dilapidated little shop, they saw a person wearing an overcoat and hat entering and they found it was hard to make a description. A little later two figures emerged from the shop carrying skindiving gear. Luckily, as Studland was a seaside town, skin-diving gear was part of Ben's and Billy's equipment. Quickly they raced downstairs and into their car. By this time the suspected figures had made off out of town in a car travelling in a south-westerly direction. They found the car abandoned on the sea shore some miles south-west of Studland. They were changing into their skin-diving gear when they heard the motor of a boat in the distance.

Into the icy-cold water they plunged. As they were swimming out to sea Ben said, "Better hurry, Bill, or we'll miss 'em." Silently they swam up to the cabin cruiser which had just anchored. They could just make out the three figures aboard. Over the side they clambered, catching the smugglers by surprise.

"Uph; Uph; Uph!" Splash! Billy had managed to get a few punches home and one of the smugglers was floating peacefully on the water nearby.

By this time Ben had overpowered the captain of the boat. Splash! The third crook had dived overboard. Billy had little trouble overtaking him. They splashed desperately in the water for a while, and then Billy was scratched down the face and found he was dealing with a woman. He soon overpowered her and pulled her on board as Ben was dragging in the other crook who had just been revived by the cold water. Ben started the motor and headed toward Southport. At Southport the boat was searched and a waterproof bag containing four dozen small transistor radios and six dozen watches was seized.

Back at Scotland Yard, Chief Inspector Lockhart gave them both two days' rest for a job well done.

On his two days' rest Ben thought, "The old boy said it was going to be tough. Huh, it's the easiest I've had yet." Ben would probably remember it as his easiest, but Billy had a slightly different way of remembering, for a little while anyway.

THE UNWANTED MAN

It was a freezing cold November night, typical of the climate which France experiences, and Paris, snugged away on the River Seine, was blanketed by a thick covering of snow which was only darkened here and there by the black river and the well-used pathways. It was late that night and the little city was enveloped in a murky darkness which would only retreat after many hours to come. All the decent people had long since "hit the sack" but one light was dimly visible in the direction of a district graveyard. The light came from a rather small house which faced a terrace and showed its back to a grim graveyard.

But this house was full of "two-timers" There were the blacksmith, the local lawyer, the stable boy and the mayor, who added a bit of respectability to the bunch, all gambling feverishly, as well as a host of other men. All eyes were on one, though, because the stakes were high. A man, Coeur de Blanc, who was tall in stature and solidly built had his house at stake in this game. The game was coming to a close and the liquor-affected men were called upon to show their "hands". Coeur de Blanc showed his cards, but, to his bitter disappointment, he lost convincingly. At once there was a cheer. Coeur de Blanc, although obviously affected by alcohol, controlled his emotions as he rose from the table, slowly put on his coat and opened the door to leave. The cold wind made him shiver and the gleam of the snow was so great that he looked back into the room to free him from the glare.

"Go on, get out! We got no use of you if we can't take your money, so go!" cried the mayor.

The man at the door shrugged his shoulders with contempt at the company, and then started out into the bitterly cold night. He was immediately taken up with the problem of finding lodgings for the night and, as he continued on, he cursed himself a thousand times for the luck which had deserted him. He soon found it necessary to knock on the doors of the houses in that area.

At the first door on which he knocked, he was greeted with a pail-full of water thrown from the upper window by an annoyed man who did not enjoy being woken up at one o'clock. He was drenched from head to toe and, as he stumbled on to the next door, he knew that, if he could not find a kind household soon, he would freeze to death in the pitiless night.

He knocked on the next door rather more boldly and this time, when he looked up at the upper window, he saw three little heads. The two little boys and girl would, none of them, have been more than six yet the boys spoke more like lads of sixteen.

When Coeur de Blanc asked them could he sleep with them they politely replied that their mother had taught them never to mix with strangers. He smiled to himself and made as if to walk away when, having pity on him, they recalled him and told him that he was welcome to spend the night there. One of the little boys ran downstairs and slipped the bolt on the door.

Over a bowl of porridge, which the little girl had prepared, he soon learnt that their mother had gone on a trip and was expected back the following night. All through dinner, he kept his eye on a money chest in the corner, but it was not long before they all began to feel tired and, after they had shown the man to a bed in the guest room, the light was put out for the second time.

But lying in someone else's bed made him feel uneasy, and Coeur de Blanc's mind kept wandering back to the chest in the kitchen. This made him do an evil thing. So that he could have a good night's sleep and be sure of securing the chest, he slipped a dagger from inside his cloak and, swiftly and silently, he murdered the innocent children in their sleep. Like a man possessed by the devil, he kicked the three bodies and then laughed as he closed the door behind him and went back to sleep.

STUCK ON THE MOUNTAIN PASS

"Oh, no, not again!" said my mother as the car boiled and stalled. It had happened twice before on our long trip, and this time it was just too much! There we were, all sitting in our green 1952 Plymouth with a caravan behind, stuck on a one-in-eight gradient, and nothing between us and the bottom of the mountain but the hand brake, the foot brake, and a couple of large stones behind each wheel. This is how it happened. We were on our way to Sydney, dragging a caravan about as heavy as the car, and were travelling on our last leg—already a bit behind schedule. As we neared the dreaded Mount Victoria Pass, we all took a deep breath, "fastened our seat belts", and started the long climb. We had been warned, but were also comforted by the fact that pessimistic friends at Orange had said, "It is pretty steep, but there is a tow truck at the top!" As it turned out, they were right about both things, but Father was quite happy to make his contribution to the two fellows who were making a fortune out of dragging people, who shared a similar fate to ours, over the top.

We were going quite well until we found ourselves behind a bus which was going about five miles per hour, and still had about two gears to change down to. We knew that if we kept behind it we should stall; so we had to pass it. So Father braced himself, whipped the gear up into second, and passed the bus. But, unfortunately, the effort was too much for our old car, and it boiled. I got out and immediately put stones behind the tyres.

We sent for help, the truck came, and Father paid his twenty-five shillings with a grateful grin.

After our adventure, we continued our eventful journey, with even the little boys comparatively quiet, pondering over that eventful hour.

A STORY

Sweat beaded the face of the man who crawled through the fens of the glen. He moved the heavy leather case from his shoulder and looked around. Nothing else in the glen moved. Once again he thought over the orders he had been given: "Shoot Professor Angus McCartney."

The professor lived nearby in this remote area. The man who had given the order to hunt him down had provided an accurately detailed description. The man who lay in the bush did not think about his assignment. He was only a small part of the whole affair. Besides, this was not the first time he had been sent on this sort of assignment. All he knew was that the professor was a brilliant scientist who was about to make a major break-through in the field of atomic power. If he succeeded, the discovery and the professor would be in front-page headlines all over the world. The man smiled and looked at his map and compass.

The professor's house was just across the river that flowed below. He slid down a steep bank, and, after making sure that he was not being watched, waded through the ice-cold water. He crawled into a belt of trees, thankful for the protection from the hot sun. From here he inspected the grounds in which the professor's house was situated. Near the house was a laboratory where the professor worked during the day. When the professor left the laboratory, he would strike.

The man opened his leather case and began to assemble his equipment. He fitted a telescopic lens because of the long distance he would have to aim. Just then the lab. door opened and the professor came out. The man took aim. The telescopic lens focussed on the scientist as he walked towards the house. The man squeezed the trigger. It was a perfect shot. He made his way back, hoping that his editor would give him a bonus for such an exclusive "shot" of the famous scientist.

OBSERVATIONS AT THE BUS STOP

There we were, sitting on the seat at the bus stop like a row of birds on a fence, each thinking his own thoughts with an occasional sidelong glance at his neighbour.

First of all, a description of the occupants of the seat . . . we shall begin with the writer: Boy, aged 13, commonly called skinny by his affectionate elder brother, neatly dressed in the correct school uniform with the despised red cap pulled well down (just in case a prefect should be passing).

Let us look at his immediate neighbour. Taking up a large portion of the seat is a plump lady whom we shall call Mrs. Briggs. Mrs. Briggs's large form is encased in a vivid floral creation, and she has added for extra decoration many large beads, glittering earrings and the very latest in eye make-up. On her lap she holds a basket, and is probably going to her job as a cleaner.

The gentleman next to her is a contrast, being long and slim. Hanging from his mouth is a cigarette which is being puffed at nervously. His finger-nails are black, while his greasy hair is pushed back rather untidily. His trousers are tapered and well-fitting, and his shoes pointed. He is reading the sports section of a crinkled newspaper and the fat lady peers over his shoulder every now and then.

Sitting on the edge of the cramped seat is a young woman, busy powdering her nose and looking at her appearance—which is by no means good—in a small mirror. No doubt she is dressed in the latest fashion and probably works behind a counter in the cosmetic department. She has long blonde hair which is meant to be called the "Sulky Look".

A rumble is heard in the distance, and all heads turn in the same direction. The bus halts with a screech of brakes, and the passengers scramble aboard.

SIR PERCY BERKENEY

Long after his death in a duel in '99, it became known that the celebrated wit, and Master of Inebriations at Bath, Beau Berk (beneath whose foppish exterior there lurked, as presently will be made plain, the heart of a British Lion), was in fact none other than the legendary "Scarlet Pimp"—daredevil scion of a noble house who risked all for the sake of his country. None could there have been who might hazard a guess that the drawling dandy of the gaming room, the cock-pit quipster and wag of the coffee house, was in fact that elusive adventurer whose anonymous exploits rang throughout the length of Europe.

In this scene from "All for Money", we catch a glimpse of Sir P. at his best:

Act VI: Scene II—Upon the foreshore at Tilbury, a wind blows. (DISCOVERED! Peggy Pseudonym, Mrs. Hate, Squire Vomit. Behind a breakwater, hiding from them, the grooms Queasy and Stench.)

Mrs. H.: La, Sire! I vow this gale will be the death o' me.

Vom.: My, a tasty dish of tay would go down plaguey fine . . .

Peggy Pseu.: Hist! One comes!

(Enter Sir Percy, alone.)

All: What! Beau Berk?

Berk.: The same. And 'sdeath, 'tis a plaguey chill blows off the sea anight. But, odd's life, why do we wait? Where is he? Where's the Bruiser? Do you Mrs. Hate, go find 'm and take the gel.

Mrs. H.: I will, Sire (exit with Peg. Pseud.).

Berk.: Egad, Vomit we must to work. The craft's in?

Vom.: All prepared m' lud. But, odds fish 'tis a small vessel. And me thinks 'twill be a tossy crossing.

Berk.: Zounds, man! No matter. So long as we get 'em there. And so long as nobody recognises me. M' secret's safe with you, eh? You nod, Vomit, you nod. I trust the nod's better than a gunner's nod, for if the nod's the kind that gunners use to convey the firing order when the battle's too loud for speech, then I'll have to stand edgeways to lessen the chance of a hit, for there's plenty waiting for the chance to shoot. Be off with you now, and tend to the boat.

(Exit Vomit.)

Berk. (sings):

They seek him near, they seek him far,
They search for him in every Bar.
But, drunk or sober, cold or tight,
They'll never find Sir Percy B.
(Mutters): What a feeble verse.

(Enter, suddenly, Monsieur Shovelin.)

Berk. (starts): 'Sdeath Shovel. You gave me a turn, Ecod!

Sho.: Ay, that I do Beau. 'Tis another cargo of hoorays, eh?

Berk.: Ay so, b' gad, another cargo, another load for the two wheeler, more food for Madame G. Well, it's heave ho, me hearties, and a fair wind for France!

The vessel bearing Berk, Shovelin, Vomit, Hate, Peggy Pseudonym runs for France, leaving the astounded Queasy and Stench.

Queasy: The Devil!

Sten.: Did you mark that! This means Sir P's the Scarlet Pimp."

Queasy: 'Tis true, i' faith. He rids the country o' the aristocracy. He ships 'em across the Channel and smuggles 'em into the Bastille. And, odds grief, they do say he has friends in France in there who can get 'em on the Tumbrils. Once there 'tis an easy thing to persuade the Citizen Revolutionaries to make space for another lover of Madame G.

Sten: Gad, we must pursue them, oui. O most provoking, etc.

TRAGEDY AT SEA

A watchful sailor stood on duty,
Scanning the sea with tireless eyes;
And from just below the quarter-deck
Came the faithful ping of sonar.
This much acclaimed invention,
A shield to many a war-time craft,
Had sounded from its restless lips
And belled the fate of many a ship,
Lurking, a danger beneath the seas,
For it found their ships with prowling ease.
Suddenly,
Upon the horizon!
A black, blurred shape!
The sailor started, raised his glasses,
Swept the wind-swept sea with sudden dread.
Slowly o'er the darkening blue
Rose prow and conning tower aft, as well,
Of a submarine caught unawares,
Which from its tubes at any time
Might shout all hell.
But now it had sighted the white ensign
And was plunging down like a hunted hare.
The destroyer changed course
As "Action Stations" rang,
Churning the water into spray,
And bore down on its hapless prey.
Depth charge after depth charge followed;
The ocean gushed in fountains.
With water cascading through every wound,
The "sub." staggered slowly from its ocean lair.
The wreck was towed back to the port.
As it was sighted through the heads,
The men on the beach cheered, joking and laughing.
Then they saw the sorry flag
Half-mast flying.
Their happy hearts sank like lead,
For on this dismal Friday morning
Their quickly stifled mirth was scorning
All those who had died;
Had dived to hide beneath the waves.
They were not the enemy;
They were young and ready to defend;
They were dauntless English men.

SWAPPING

One, day while I was at a recent Jamboree at Dandenong, I strolled down to the shopping centre which was also the main "badge-swapping" area.

All over the open area stood hundreds of small groups, each consisting of enthusiastic, young badge-swappers, all trying to make good swaps on their badges. Amongst these groups were always hurrying other boys not being too hasty, trying to pick out the boys with the best bargains.

You must not get the idea that badges were swapped one for one, even if they were of equal value. Why, some of the New Zealand boys and Western Australian boys asked for very high prices, and it came to the stage when they wanted five pounds for a single neckerchief. Crazy? They did not seem to think so.

By looking around I could see certain men who were old "cards" at this swapping game. Squatting down on the ground, they were usually rugged up in camp-fire blankets, absolutely covered with a great conglomeration of badges, from all parts of the world. Displayed in front of them in various boxes were their numerous badges. So cunning were some of these men that they could actually talk you into thinking that the badge that they were trying to swap with you was the only one at the Jamboree.

But on the whole I suppose I should like to be the one with those many hundreds of badges. Well, this is swapping for you!

THE CASE OF THE "FALSE COLOUR"

It was some time before my friend, Mr. Sherlock Holmes, granted me permission to publish one of his most unusual cases. However, after a heated discussion, he finally gave in, and I feel humble to reveal to the public yet another of his and my experiences.

One spring morning, in the year '89, Holmes cast aside the mood of black depression in which he had been sunk, and, starting to his feet, seized his violin and paced pensively back and forth across the room, sawing away at some obscure sarabande. I knew the signs and, pausing only to dispatch a telegram to a well-intentioned neighbour, asking him to keep an eye on my practice—I drew forth from a closet Holmes's treasures, the tobacco jar, his rack of chemicals, a packet of morphine and its hypodermic in the neat leather wallet, and his most recent volume of press cuttings, setting these out on the table, and then sitting back with a pipe to await events with the keenest anticipation.

And, to be sure, I had not long to wait. There came a knock on the street door of our lodgings, and before Mrs. Flaherty had time to negotiate the corridor, the visitor had burst in upon us. Holmes finished the bar upon which he was engaged, and fixed the intruder with a steely glare, a faint flush mantling his thin cheeks for the first time in many weeks.

"There is no need," said he softly, "to descend to theatricals. I perceive that you have travelled today by brougham from the country, that you are married, with three children of four, six and nine years, that you earn your living as a woodcutter and are in desperate trouble and need of help—and that you but partly consumed the brace of kippers with egg that made your early breakfast. No, No," he went on, as the astonished client stuttered and gasped, "Do not, I pray you, interrupt. That you are clad in some fancy dress or crude disguise (though not an entirely convincing one, I fear), is obvious from the gilded headdress you wear. Your livelihood I deduce from the axe you carry in your hand, your need and urgency from the fact that you are here, and out of breath. You are also wearing, my dear sir, a pair of stout boots, which yet are clean and still polished—proof enough that you come from the country, and that you had a private conveyance. Your private affairs I deduce from your anxious expression, and, so far as the gastronomic matter is concerned, from the singular appearance of these materials lodged within your beard. And now, Sir, pray tell me what is your trouble?"

"Why none, Guv," replied the other. "'Tis you who are in trouble. I'm just one of the firemen from the station across the road, come to tell you the upper storeys of your house are ablaze."

MY MOMENT OF GLORY

As I gained my seat on the early morning train to town, I reflected on the abject misery this summery Saturday was sure to have in store for me. This particular day was the one day in each year that I wished I could catch the plague, or fall down a manhole, or even die peacefully in my sleep: it was the day of the annual cricket fixture between the two arch-rivals, the towns of Red Hill and Burketown.

I had little time for reminiscing over my three previous efforts against Burketown (nought, nought, and one through slips and no chance of bowling) for soon the train rumbled laboriously into the bustling metropolis of Red Hill. It seemed that every one of the town's five hundred residents had turned out near the team's appointed meeting place outside "The Arms". By ten o'clock, all members of the team had been marshalled outside the building—two lads having taken it upon themselves to enjoy the refreshments within, were already less than one hundred per cent. fit.

To the strains of "Good luck to yer, master" and "Belt hell out of 'em, boys", we departed in reasonably high spirits. While we headed towards our destination, George Smith, our captain and local baker, carefully discussed tactics with the senior members. Just before we arrived, George informed me that I would be number eleven. "Y'know, we need some experience down the list and, anyhow, you haven't done that well in these games." What a master of the understatement George was!

The oval we were to play on was of excellent quality, considering that no rain had fallen for six months. Grass, it was true, did not abound luxuriously, but the pitch had been well-tended by an energetic groundsman who managed to water the pitch by carting bucketfuls of bore water from a nearby hole.

As was the custom, George lost the toss and we were sent in to field. There being only three recognised bowlers in the team, it often occurred that, in the first hour, four or five wickets would be got cheaply; but then the staunch slingers would tire and the later batsmen would score prolifically for the next two hours and declare at tea. Precisely that happened this time, the home side declaring at tea, scoring two hundred and twenty-nine for the loss of nine wickets. My one over, which I had so longed for, increased Burketown's score by thirty-one.

Following a welcome tea interval and many exhortations by the captain about not getting out, the Murcott twins, proceeded to open our innings. With gay abandon they smote the Burketown attack for sixty-one runs in thirty-five minutes before Ben, the younger of the twins by ten minutes, stepped clumsily on his wicket. Still it was a sound foundation. For the next two hours the score mounted steadily, but the wickets fell regularly until with ten minutes remaining, when we needed twenty to win, the ninth man was run out, trying to give George Smith, ninety-one not out, the strike.

With a very real uneasiness, I moved towards the middle, praying that George, who was in commanding form, would keep the strike for the remainder of the match. He thought he would, too, for his only show of recognition was a sickly, hopeful grin. However, as usual, Fate was still to play her last hand. Facing a very cunning legbreak bowler, who had already taken seven of our wickets at meagre cost, George took his life in his hands, and thrice lofted him powerfully over the pavilion.

Two to win! Only two balls remaining, for one of George's gigantic clouts resulted in a five minute hunt for the ball. The next ball George hit high in the air to the bowler. We crossed for one, and I turned just in time to see the unfortunate bowler collide vigorously with his over-enthusiastic mid-off and drop the ball. A tie! with one ball to go.

Straining every muscle just to move, I took guard, surveyed the field intelligently and tried to glare fiercely at the bowler. Great moments of history flashed before my eyes. Could I complete another coup de maître? The ball was in the air. Go forward, back, you fool, drive it, no! Glance it. Click! "YES," I heard a scream from George, and we breathlessly took a single to fine leg for the winning hit.

Never before had there been such a close game in the annals of Red Hill cricket! As I reflected, while being congratulated by the team, cricket is a good game after all. Still smiling to myself, I didn't think I would tell them that last shot was meant to be a cover drive.

THESE GENERATIONS

"What's this younger generation coming to?"
Our parents say, viewing the lengthy hair.
"They will lead our nation in a fast-approaching time,
And what will happen then?"
"Soon they will govern our land, and how will they act?"
"They will cause havoc to the world," say others,
"As nation fights nation and man fights man
In never-ending battles throughout the world."
"It is wrong to be unfriendly to that boy
Because of his ideas," they instruct their children,
"As races are looked down on and scorned
Because of the colour of their skin."

NIMBOSTRATUS ON THE BRAIN

(An ode to the scientific cloud)

Clouds,
Lonely leafy clouds,
Billowing spinnaker clouds,
A mackerel sea of cloud-puffs,
White sky-blossom drifting to the tune of the restless wind.
What are the clouds in the sky?
And so the strong voice of truth recites:
"A cloud—it's made of drops of water or ice
In visible masses, and of varying size,
Suspended in the air around the earth.
"A cloud is formed when water vapours, held
In rising streams of cooling air, condense.
A fog is almost the same, but divided
From cloud by law, because it touches the ground."
"A cloud is catalogued and stuck in books,
With vacant Latin tags, like cumulus.
In all ten kinds of clouds, for sure, occur;
Each with distinct appearance and origin.
"They may be listed under English names:
Clouds are high, or middling, or low; Clouds made
Of water, or ice, or both combined. But the way
They choose is Latin-like, exact, and longer."
There are battle-ships and gunboats in the sky,
Fleecy galleons sail over the mountains through a wavy line of foam,
Clouds of the line —
Visible conglomerations of mist drops!
The thunder-clouds roll in and the sunbeams retreat,
Rolling black claps slither, piling up, from the sea,
The wind howls, sky is full of soot,
Yellow lightning squirts.
The clouds snarl dully, rumble and whine,
Crawl on.
Huge red and grey balloons, swelling clouds of rain drops,
Like magic carpets they surge above the mountain tops,
The sun dips into a salvo of burnished stone—
Red and yellow, white and grey, flushed on that aery dome.
The Master Painter sweeps a last broad line of light
And the sullen earth revolves from glory into night,
With stars playing "peeping Tom" through the drifting mist wreathes;
Sparkling, winking fireflies amidst the heavenly heath.
And then a dawn, another day,
Huge and blue, or drab and grey,
Cotton-swabbed, or full of fleeting dreams:
A puffy dog without an ear,
A face with half a nose,
A string of beads,
An almost car, a painted rose,
A monkey in a palm tree, a billiard cue,
Wild patchwork fantasies in white and grey and blue.
So all day long the clouds roll on.
They float above, white snow-fields deep,
And through the snow-fields, pale blues peep,
And in the sky the dawdling cloud-banks creep,

VISION FROM A CAR WINDOW

Before us lay the only sign of man in this place;
A strip of asphalt and concrete stretching endlessly on.
A vivid, blue, cloudless sky broken only by a bronze-coloured sun,
Stretched from east to west and met the red, barren expanse of land on the horizon.
Outside, the hot, blustery wind advanced across the reddish brown waste.
And, I watched as a small, dead bush was picked up by the wind
And blown along
Like a man with no purpose in life
There was no sign of life in this God-forsaken land.
And as my eyes scanned this desolate landscape,
I thought of the day—how far distant?
When men could put faith in this wilderness, knowing that they would not lose all.

THE CRASH LANDING

The port engine did not even cough twice before it cut out. The pilot was not unduly worried, he switched off the fuel and ignition, and feathered the propeller. Cessna 310's had been known to fly 800 miles on one engine only. The nearest emergency field was 700 miles away, and the nearest land, not counting the numerous small islands, was 600 miles distant.

There were three people in the Cessna, the pilot, David Stringer; an aircraft designer, Frederick Towns; and an engineer, Joe Bellamy. They were flying over the South Pacific, bound for Port Moresby where they hoped to set up an aircraft-designing corporation. Stringer would fly the jungle runs to earn some money with which to start the business.

Not two hundred miles had passed before the starboard engine began to cough and splutter. A quick check showed that the main starboard tanks were empty. A further check showed that the drainage cocks on the tank were not properly closed. Stringer switched on to the starboard wing tip tank, and explained the position to Towns and Bellamy. They agreed that the only thing to do would be to search for an island before the tip tank gave out. A zig-zag flight pattern was adopted, making it easier to find an island.

The tank was a quarter full when they spotted the island, and Stringer immediately dipped the nose towards it. The only likely-looking place was about three hundred yards long and fifty to sixty yards wide. But Stringer could not afford to be choosey. He lowered the undercarriage and decreased speed. The 'plane descended slowly, and finally touched, bounced once, and settled into the semi-hard sand.

No one was hurt, and the plane was hardly damaged at all. Eight hours later, they had the port engine running smoothly and had repaired the nosewheel tyre which had blown out during landing.

Stringer took half the remaining fuel from the port tank and put it in the starboard. They lifted the tail and swung her round to face the "runway." The engines started sweetly, and Stringer gave them three minutes to warm up.

The plane moved slowly at first, but then she quickly picked up speed; by one hundred and fifty yards she was airborne and climbing steadily, heading for Port Moresby.

THE LAST LAP

Just 300 yards left, less than one lap.
Struggle on, struggle on, bridge that widening gap.
Three hundred yards of grass ne'er looked so cruel, so tiring,
My breath, my fading breath is slowly expiring.
My feet, my feet are bogged. Stuck. My legs—they're somewhere in the pain.
Not far, not far to go, and I must go on. Rain,
Rain, please come and cool this beetroot battler,
Quench this parched throat. Shall I stop?
How good it would be to sit down,
To stop, and end this effort.
But no, I must go on, and on, and on.
I must fight to the last yard, till the race is won.
The grass is fading before my blurred eyes, the defiant flags
Seem to retreat and mock as this weary runner lags, Shall I stop?
How good it would be to lie down
To stop, to rest
These aching, struggling lungs.
Two hundred yards less and I should be there
Finished, fatigued and gasping for air,
But now I must go on, I must not withdraw
Though throbbing, vague yet definite throbbing is my reward for This running. Why not stop?
'Tis pleasant to stop,
'Tis easy to stop, stretch out
And leave the others to drive on exhausted bodies,
But I will go on; I'm in the straight
And though all's numb, and it may seem ever so late
To make a run, I'll sprint. I will go on.
What happens next I cannot tell till 'tis done,
For halfway between this world and the next I see the line,
Beyond which all is fine, and sweet, o sweet rest is mine.
But there will always be an ounce of soul left on the track
Whether I come first, or more likely, near the back.

ROUSE PARADE

The camp slept. The hut was piled with sleeping bodies. Shirts, socks, boots, towels, sausage bags, chocolate papers and soft-drink cans covered the floor. Twenty-five unsleeping watches moved unfeelingly towards the fatal hour of six-thirty. Sleep filled the air with peace and contentment. At six-thirty the sublimely beautiful tones of an amateurishly blown "reveille" on a bugle, that king of musical instruments, crept over the dormant camp. No sooner had its unwelcome tones roused twenty-five once-inert forms into stretching and surveying the chaos that was their hut, than the red-faced sergeant bellowed, "Rouse Parade". Slowly twenty-five drowsy cadets pulled on a pair of khaki socks and an all-enveloping great-coat and shuffled towards the door in the half-light.

Outside the air was cold and crisp and clear, although a morning mist hung over the neighbouring farm-house, Grey clouds scudded across the sky, and in the east a faint pink glow signified that morning was not far off. The voice of the keen, enthusiastic sergeant cut through the air with a brisk "atten-HAUGH", and twenty-five cadets forgot their unbelievably sweet dreams of civilisation to stir themselves into a sleepy response of "Sir".

Then followed an hour in which to fold five blankets in the regulation army manner, stuff all miscellaneous gear into the neat sausage bag in the regulation army manner, sweep the floor, wash, dress, and have an anaemic breakfast before the daily ritual of inspection of the impracticably immaculate hut set a day of hard work in motion.

Preparatory School

We began 1965 with 255 boys enrolled in the School, and this has since been increased to 256, but at the end of the first term we say goodbye to Brandson Watt-Beattie, who goes to Melbourne with his family. We wish him happiness and success in his new school.

We were very pleased to welcome Mr. R. W. Smith on to the teaching staff this year. Mr. Smith is an Old Scholar, and already has shown that he has much to contribute towards the welfare of the School, both inside and outside the classroom.

At a very pleasant little ceremony in morning muster on 8th April, Mr. Seymour Toms, Assistant General Secretary of the Legacy Club of South Australia, presented a plaque to the four boys of the School who had raised £25 for Legacy last year. With enthusiasm re-charged, the boys are now setting about raising at least the same amount this year.

The enthusiasm aroused last year over chess is being well maintained, and this year we have entered a team in the schoolboy competitions, which has begun quite auspiciously with a win against older boys.

On Wednesday, 14th April, a party of our boys enjoyed the Children's Orchestral Concert presented by the Australian Broadcasting Commission in the Adelaide Town Hall.

This year the Preparatory School paper "P.O.P." was revived by an energetic committee, and we hope that, with the support of the rest of the School, it will flourish.

We should like to welcome Mr. W. B. Kelley to Kent Town Methodist Church, and to thank him for helping Mr. Waters with our Divinity lessons. We hope that his stay in the district and with us will be a happy one.

LEADERS

The following boys were elected leaders in the Preparatory School for 1965: Richard Gray (captain of the Prep.), James Cooper, Paul Cuthbertson, Simon Drew, Darcy Economos, Randall Harris, Alastair Hunter, Craig Moffat, Richard Moss, Graham Smith and Robin Temby. We congratulate them on having been chosen by staff and boys for their important offices, and wish them every success in carrying out their duties and upholding the School name.

MOTHERS' CLUB

In the Assembly Hall on 22nd October, Dr. Donald Dowie spoke of his experiences in the Antarctic and showed some interesting coloured slides.

Robert Freeman (Mabel) and John Leak (Frederick) sang duets from "The Pirates of Penzance" in a truly professional style. A film showing the Initial Teaching Alphabet was shown after the meeting.

In March the general election of officers took place. Mrs. Leak thanked the committee for all they had done during the past two years.

IB and IC boys sangs several songs, much to the delight of the audience.

Mr. Leak told the mothers of the activities and changes in the curriculum in the School. He also stressed the need for traffic care and referred to the correct School uniform. He thanked the mothers for the tape recorder, garden seats, records and books donated by the Club.

CRICKET

In 1964 the Prep. XI enjoyed a very good season. Of the fourteen games played, only one was lost, that being a narrow defeat by Saints. Our congratulations go to Mark Schwartz, last year's captain, on winning the Cricket Cup, donated by Mr. L. O. Fuller.

This year, the Prep. School are fortunate in having two sides in the competition. The "A" team with Richard Gray as captain has played five games, three of which have been won. The "B" team with Peter Jackson as captain has played six games, winning three and losing three games.

Best performances for the term:

"A" Team

Batting	Ag.	Bowling	No. wkts.
R. Gray	85	R. Gray	7
P. Brinsley	78	R. Phillips	7
R. Phillips	59

CRICKET DAY AT S.P.S.C.

Once again we had an afternoon of cricket matches against our old rivals and friends, S.P.S.C. The games this year were played at Saints, and a most enjoyable day was had by everyone who took part. We had to concede victory to our opponents on the day, as they won more matches than we, but we had our moments of glory, and we certainly enjoyed the games. We are most grateful to the ladies who provided us with such a fine afternoon tea.

TENNIS

In the Third Term last year the Prep. interschool team played S.P.S.C. on several occasions. The honours were shared by both teams.

The House Tennis Competition was won by Robertson House, led by David Hetzel, who is to be congratulated on winning the Preparatory School Tennis Championship. This trophy was presented by Mr. J. E. C. Stephens.

FATHERS AND SONS' DAY

Once again we managed to induce the fathers to play cricket and tennis matches against their sons on 12th December, the last Saturday of the term. It was a most enjoyable day for all concerned, and especially for the boys' cricket team, because they managed to defeat the fathers in a keen struggle. The boys batted first, and might have made more than their 147 if it had not been for some fairly strong decisions by Mr. Leak, as umpire. With the benefit of some "You're retired" decisions, the fathers' bowlers managed to dispose of the toughest batsmen. When it came their turn to bat they had to withstand some very keen bowling from sons who wanted to get their fathers out. Boys who were successful in achieving this goal were Hetzel, Schwartz, Moss, Houston and Coombs. Top scorers for the fathers were Mr. Schwartz, Mr. Nobbs and Mr. Potter, while for the boys, Hetzel, Houston, Ferris and Coombs appeared to show the least respect!

In the tennis matches, father-and-son combinations played matches against each other. In view of what happened in the cricket match, this arrangement may have spared the older generation some red faces.

THE JUNIOR CONCERT

The 1964 combined Prep. Junior School Concert and Carol Evening was something of an innovation. Traditionally, these and the Christmas Tree have been held on separate dates. Last year it will be remembered the Prep. School experimented with a Combined Junior Concert-Carol Service-Christmas Tree! It was felt that the joyous chaos of the Christmas Tree merited quite separate consideration, hence the final formula—Junior Concert, plus Carol Service.

This year an attempt was made to give the audience opportunity for active participation, and, despite misgivings that this would probably result in the audience "bobbing up and down like yo-yo's", the evening proved quite successful. This success hinged largely on effective lighting, and, as usual, Mr. Warren Allen rose to the occasion magnificently.

Our thanks go to all who contributed to the enjoyment of the evening, especially Mrs. Hunter, who zealously attended rehearsals as well as the final performance to provide the musical backgrounds; Mr. Davies for his excellent direction and stage management, and the teachers of II B, I A, I B and I C for their patience and skill.

HOUSE COMPETITION

The competition between the houses became rather a one-sided affair towards the close of 1964, as Robertson House, which had established a useful lead by the end of the second term, proceeded almost to scoop the pool in the third term, and ran out clear winners for the year.

Points

	Robertson	Chapple	Mitchell
To end of Second Term	54	12	24
Cricket	4½	—	4½
Tennis	6	—	3
Class work	6	—	3
School marks	6	3	—
	76½	15	34½

This year the competition looks a little more even, but already Robertson have established a lead in school marks. However, the other houses look to be relatively stronger in games, so the competition should be more exciting.

CLASS PICNICS

On Monday, 7th December of last year, the School closed down for the day to enable us to enjoy our annual beach picnics. The scene outside the School that happy morning was a jumble of colour, activity and noise. Eventually all was sorted out, and car loads of children set out in happy anticipation. The junior boys went to North Henley, where Mrs. B. A. Tidswell very kindly made her beach home available as a depot, casualty station, comfort station, and general haven. The senior classes travelled to Brighton. It was a very pleasant day, and the boys all had wonderful fun both in the water and on the beach. We are most grateful to those parents who provided cars and drivers for us, and to the mothers who were so much help in seeing that everyone enjoyed the day.

CYCLING

Living on a hillside
is pleasure with a bike, Rolling down each morning,
but, walking up at night.

There's not much sense in riding unless your brakes are good,
For living on a hillside makes this clearly understood.

Off on exploration
when Saturday morning comes,
We often pedal miles before our journey's done.

Then home's our destination,
and, in a hungry mood,
We speed across the hillside to kitchen and to food.

MY BROTHER'S NEW BIKE

One bright Sunday morning when everybody was still asleep, I crept outside to see what mother and father had got my brother for his birthday. It was a beautiful red bike, with a shining light, a tool kit and a mirror.

I wanted to see how it worked. So I took it up to the top of a hill close by. It was quite steep and took a while to get there. Then I got on the bike and rode it down the hill very fast. Suddenly, I noticed a tall gum tree in front of me. I tried to stop the bike but I failed. I crashed into the tree with a bang. Luckily I was not hurt, but the bike was knocked about and scratched.

I walked home very slowly and very ashamed. When I got home I told mother and father what had happened, and they were very angry with me and gave me a smack. After that I taught myself a lesson—never to play with other people's property.

THE SHARK

It was a warm day at Glenelg and I was enjoying the sun. Swimming championships were being held and they provided entertainment for the whole family. A group of lifesavers also gave a demonstration of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

At half past twelve we decided to have lunch. I went up to the kiosk and got four pies for lunch. After lunch I made a sandcastle. Then I pulled it down and decided I would surf for a while.

Suddenly out of the midst of nowhere came a shark. It started circling my surfboard so I decided to lie low. I caught the next wave, but the shark followed. I started to get scared. The shark leapt at me, but missed. I turned the board away but it lunged and took a bite of about six square inches away. A lifesaver started to swim towards me. The shark bell rang and a boat owned by my friend frightened the shark away.

I was taken safely ashore by the lifesaver and treated for shock. Later I was taken home after the awesome experience of being chased by a shark.

HOLIDAY ADVENTURE

Last summer holidays my friend David and I decided to spend a week-end camping in the hills. After quite a lot of organizing and planning, we set off in the morning, very excited, with sleeping bags, a lot of food, and some spare clothes, and other necessary things.

We caught a train into the Adelaide Hills, and alighted at a tiny country station. Full of enthusiasm we trudged through the bush all the afternoon, and at about four o'clock we found a spot to sleep the night by an old house falling into ruin at the edge of a neglected orchard.

Just as we were climbing into our sleeping bags after we had finished tea, we felt the first drops of rain. Hurriedly we shifted all our things into the old house, which luckily had a roof. The few drops soon turned into a thunderstorm, but we did not get wet in a little room which led off from what must have once been the main room. After a while the storm eased and we both fell asleep.

About midnight we were awakened by men's voices and car doors being shut. We were terribly scared as we walked quietly to the window and peered cautiously out. There in the moonlight were three very rough-looking men taking out of the boot of their car a large box which they dragged into the large room.

Much arguing and bad language followed until, finally, they agreed upon hiding the box in the old wood stove. We realized there were stolen jewels in the box from what they said amongst themselves, and they were hiding them there from the police. They would come and collect the loot the next night at eleven o'clock, and take it to a safer place. Just as they were about to leave, a bit of the wall suddenly crumbled away and rattled to the floor. My heart missed a beat. The men were in immediately. They looked around the room, but did not see us crouching in the dark, black shadows. Still a bit suspicious, they left, thinking it was some small animal.

After the car had left we crept stealthily out, and could see the car a long way ahead, but it soon disappeared into the darkness. We decided to go to the nearest police station two miles away. About half an hour later we arrived panting and puffing. We told the policemen the story who said the men must have been the thieves who robbed a big city store. The police would capture the men when they returned to the house to collect the box.

The plan worked out well, and the men were sentenced to prison. The jeweller was very grateful to have his jewels back, and David and I both received a gold watch as a reward.

INTO THE FUTURE

The year was 2056. I don't know how we got there, or where we were. The huge old house loomed before us. I had several friends with me —Tom, Robert and Kevin.

Kevin said we should explore the house so we opened the back door, which creaked loudly, and set off down the passage. After walking for a few yards we heard a rumbling noise so we ducked into a nearby room. A funny animal passed down the passage. It was a turtle-like creature, with four large claws. We wondered what kind of an animal it was and what it was doing in an old house. We were so frightened we decided not to go any further so we quickly made our exit.

Outside we noticed several trees with flat branches. As it was getting late and we did not know where we were, we decided we had better stay the night. We climbed up a tree and sat on the branches where we soon fell asleep.

The night passed without mishap. In the morning, as we were just going to jump down from the tree, a man, if you could call him a man, appeared from the house. He had a green body, very red ears and was about four feet tall. He pressed a green button on the helmet he was wearing and, to our amazement, he started to float about in the air. Then out of the back door came one of the turtle-like creatures. When the green man saw it he pressed a red button on his helmet and immediately floated to the ground once more. He grabbed a branch which was lying close to him and hit the animal on the head. He then dragged it into the house. We were terrified. We had to get away from here somehow.

As I told you before, the year was 2056. One of my friends, Robert, was at this time inventing some mixture which when rubbed on anything, made it fly. Now as these people could fly they might have already invented this mixture.

So we decided to enter the house once more. I opened one of the doors in the passage. It led down another passage with many doors on both sides. I opened one of these.

Inside was a big desk, three chairs, a large number of books, a bench covered with scientific apparatus and on the desk a large bottle of red mixture. At that moment into the room came one of these turtle-like creatures with the large claws. I grabbed some of the books in the book-case and crashed them over its head. I called Kevin to come and help me drag the creature outside.

There we started making a raft from branches we had cut down with a saw I found in the passage. We had just finished it and had loaded the turtle-like creature on the raft when out of the back door came five of these creatures. We jumped aboard, spread the mixture over the raft and flew away.

At that moment I woke up. It had all been a dream.

EXPEDITION INTO THE LAND OF THE LITTLE PEOPLE

It was on the bright morning of 13th May that I was called to the Ministry.

On arrival I knocked on a door on my right and entered.

A small man in the corner reading "Tactics of War" looked up and said, "Ah! Johnson, it is you. Sit down will you?"

"Thank you," I replied.

He put the book down and began: "Well, to get straight down to business, I want you to go into 'The Land of the Little People'." He paused, looked very serious, then went on, "You have had experience in this sort of thing, and we need somebody to maintain law and order there, and very soon too, because they are getting more out of hand every day, and soon it will be almost impossible to gain control. Bates has just resigned, and our Head Representative has also threatened to do so. So I am afraid that it is up to you now. Are you going to take it or not?"

"Well, Colonel, I will have a go at it, but Bates was one of our best men, and if he has resigned, I doubt if I can carry on for long."

"You will take it then?" Colonel Frobisher asked.

"Yes sir," I replied.

"Well then is the 20th too early for you to depart?"

"No sir, I should be ready by then."

"Good. I will inform our Head Representative. Good-day."

We shook hands and I let myself out.

The 20th May arrived. I had packed my bags and installed armour-plate glass in my car. I set off at seven a.m., and estimated my time of arrival at three p.m., but, because of good traffic in the town, I arrived shortly after noon.

As I drove in, everything seemed quiet, but I knew that this would not last. I was quite right. In a few minutes the silence was broken by a bell-like sound and then by the hideous war cry of the little people. They came rushing out, but dispersed quickly in various directions.

As I approached the Head Representative's house all was peaceful again. I went inside and introduced myself. The Representative had a very cool, two-storied house painted white outside.

After we had got acquainted, he took me outside to meet the "Little People".

BOY LOST

I had been on a Scout hike, when I found a little boy crying. He had been on a picnic with his family and he had wandered away to look for a stream. Now he had lost his way. Suddenly the troop walked up and found him crying.

All the rest of the boys walked on, but I stopped and said to him, "What's the matter?" and he replied, "I have lost my family."

Suddenly I had a brilliant idea. I said, "I'll leave my pack here, and carry you, because there is only one way out of these hills. I think there is a hut with a megaphone in it, and I will call through that to catch your family's attention." So we did.

The family heard us, and came to find their lost child. Now there is a job that I shall have to carry out as quickly as possible. That is, to get my pack and catch up to the rest of the troop.

WHY I LIKE SUMMER

I love summer because there is always lots of swimming.

When I wake in the morning, I look across the river from my cave high up in the hills towards the blue mountains peaked with snow. Then I fling aside my bear skins and dive into the cool, clear water, and come home for a cold mammoth steak for breakfast.

After breakfast it is time for some fishing, so my brother Garth and I chase each other to the falls. When we get there we lay down our wooden spears with their flint tips, wade into the fash-rushing water and pull in the nets which we had set the night before. These are made out of reeds tied onto a wooden frame. In one there is a large glittering salmon, and in the others there is either a carp or a fat perch.

Then we sat on a ledge and waited for a fish to come along. Soon came the largest fish I have ever seen. I threw my spear and it went through its middle. My brother threw his, and it too went through its middle, but the cord broke. We had to tie the cord of my spear to a tree finally. After about two hours of fighting, the fish was dead.

As we did not see any more, we put a peeled stick through all the fish's gills, and took them back to the cave. There we found Mother busily butchering a mammoth, and our two sisters tanning the skin so that it could be made into clothes for the winter.

We went over to Father, who told us about his successful mammoth hunt. He also told us that the fish was a pike. We took it to Mother, and that night we had steaming hot pike for supper.

This is the sort of happy day that can only happen in summer. That is why I like summer best of all.

SCOUTS SAVE A TOWN

The smell of smoke came to our nostrils.

We were hiking in the dense Tasmanian bush. As we trudged on in the shimmering morning we met an old tramp. He hobbled towards us and managed to tell us, "Yonder, about five miles is a fire, fierce and scarlet."

There was no time to waste. It was a matter of life and death. In the distance we saw it—ferocious and destructive it stormed down the hill.

Suddenly we saw safety; nestling in a valley near the pounding sea—a town.

We rushed into the main street and warned the people of the danger. Fire engines raced everywhere to defend the town, and after a gallant struggle the fire was extinguished.

We had saved a town from disaster!

Fifty Years Ago

On Saturday evening 30th January, 1915, the Old Collegians' Association welcomed the new Headmaster, Mr. W. R. Bayly, at a smoke social in the College dining hall.

At morning Assembly on 3rd February the new Headmaster was welcomed and formally introduced by the College Committee. The President of the College, Rev. G. Hall, conducted the devotional exercises and then delivered his address of welcome.

Stanford Howard appointed Senior House Prefect at the College.

Mr. Will Ashton has achieved the rare distinction of having three pictures hung at the Royal Academy this year.

A farewell luncheon was tendered by Old Reds to the Hon. F. W. Young, LL.B., on his departure for England to be Agent-General of South Australia.

J. W. Blacket and G. C. Davies, members of the teaching staff, have enlisted for service in the World War. Mr. Blacket is Adjutant of the 27th Battalion and Mr. Davies is in the Army Medical Corps.

A.A.M.C.: Appointed Captains—Drs. L. W. Jeffries and J. Stanley Verco.

Bowls: His Excellency Sir Henry Galway and three others formed a rink that was beaten 26 to 38 by a rink in which J. H. Chinner played as number 3.

Hunt Club Cup at Morphettville won by Alfred J. Lord's Kappakoola.

South Australian Cricket Team for Melbourne and Sydney games included D. M. Steele, R. F. Middleton and H. B. Willsmore.

Admissions: The Chief Justice and two other judges were on the Supreme Court bench to approve of the admission to the Bar of Mr. L. D. Waterhouse (Old P.A.C.) and Mr. D. Bruce Ross (Old S.P.S.C.).

Australian Board of Cricket Control: B. V. Scrymgour and G. Mostyn Evans, elected delegates.

Institute of Architects: Elected a Fellow—Philip R. Claridge.

Dr. D. R. W. Cowan who was in England when war was declared, has received a commission in the R.A.M.C.

Methodist Synod: Eyre Peninsula District at Port Lincoln—Rev. A. B. Lloyd presided.

New Year Honours: C.M.G. for Mr. Frederic Chapple, Headmaster of Prince Alfred College for 39 years.

New Mayors: A. A. Simpson, Adelaide, and T. E. Yelland, Unley.

Adelaide Hospital Resident Medical Officers for 12 months: Drs. R. A. Haste, K. N. Steele, B. W. Wibberley.

Adelaide Rowing Club: Final of the annual pair oar races (without cox) was won by A. T. Matters and H. V. Menz.

OUR PRESIDENT

Mr. Robert William Piper, elder son of the late Mr. Justice F. E. Piper, attended the School from 1938-1947.

He played football and cricket and was also a long distance runner whilst at School. In his last year at School he was a member of the Second Eighteen.

On leaving School he entered the University of Adelaide and commenced a Law course. He was articled to his father in the Law firm of Piper, Bakewell & Piper and later became Associate to the then Mr. Justice D. Bruce Ross (now Sir Bruce Ross). He was admitted as a Barrister and Solicitor of the Supreme Court of South Australia in 1953. In 1954 he relinquished his position as Associate and returned to Piper, Bakewell & Piper where he entered partnership in 1955, thus following in the firm his grandfather the late Mr. Justice A. W. Piper, his late father, and the late H. B. Piper (who became Chief Justice of the Commonwealth Court of Arbitration), all of whom had held office as President of this Association and at one time or another were members of the College Council.

He has a number of interests outside the practice of Law among which is the South Australian Lawn Tennis Association of which he was appointed to the Council in 1957, and he is now Chairman of the Grounds Committee. He was a member of the Grounds Committee of the Davis Cup Challenge Rounds held in Adelaide in 1956 and 1962, and he plays non-competitive tennis regularly throughout the summer.

For several years he played squash for Adelaide Squash Club of which he was formerly a Committee member. He played football for several years with the Old Scholars after leaving school and later played hockey at the University. His main winter sport now is golf and he is a member of Royal Adelaide Golf Club.

Other interests include membership of the Australian American Association and the Committee which selects students to spend a year living in America under the American Field Service Scholarship, Stow Memorial Church, and Lodge St. Alban.

He is a member of the South Australian Cricket Association, the Commonwealth Club of Adelaide, the Stock Exchange Club, Y.M.C.A., the South Australian Division of the United Nations Association, and the Royal Geographical Society in South Australia. He is also a foundation member of the Public Schools' Club. He has been a member of this Association since he left school and for the last two years has been a Vice-President. During that time he has attended a number of the Association's country dinners.

Since 1959 he has been a member of the School Council and since 1963 a member of the Westminster School Council. He is the sixth member of the Piper family to have been a member of the College Council. His great-grandfather and great-uncle were not Old Scholars but both became President of the School Council by virtue of their holding the office of President of the Methodist Conference.

Married, with two sons, Mr. Piper lives at 8 Monaro Court, Walkerville.

Purely Personal

NEW YEAR HONOUR

In the February issue we offered congratulations to the Headmaster Mr. J. A. Dunning on being awarded the O.B.E. in the New Year Honours. In the School section of this Chronicle appears a more comprehensive article and tribute, and we can only add that as old scholars we are delighted both for the Headmaster himself and for the School to which he has given so much.

Following the successful Adelaide world premiere of his ballet "The Display" during last year's Adelaide Festival of Arts, Robert Helpmann scored another great triumph for himself and for this State when his Ballet "Yugen" was given its world premiere at Her Majesty's Theatre early this year. "The Advertiser" critic reported next morning that "It is indeed a refined expression of beauty, a work of art created through movement, music and colour". It is of interest to note that the music of this ballet was the first introduction to the Western Theatre of the music of the famous Japanese composer Juzo Toyama, while the story itself was adopted from a Japanese Noh play. Mr. Helpmann is hoping that his ballet "Electra" will be produced at the 1966 Adelaide Festival of Arts, and meantime is planning another ballet with an Australian theme.

Ex-Lord Mayor of Adelaide and now Alderman Jack Glover has been appointed the new chairman of the Adelaide Festival of Arts. Mr. Glover has been a member of the City Council for twenty-four years. His service on the Council was interrupted during the Second World War, when he was in the army and served with the 2/3 Machine Gun Battalion and later as a member of the War Crimes Tribunal at Moratai. He comes from an old Adelaide family — his paternal grandfather having arrived in the State in 1885 — was president of this Association in 1944, and recently appointed to the board of the Executor Trustee and Agency Co. Ltd.

Syd Gramp is one of the directors of Gramp and Sons, who together with other members of the firm has taken a leading part in staging the Barossa Valley Festival, which it is now hoped will be held in alternate years to the Adelaide Festival of Arts.

George Fisher, Chairman of Mount Isa Mines Ltd., has been elected president of the Australian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. In the latter part of last year he delivered the eleventh William Queale Memorial Lecture in the Bonython Hall. He suggested as a firm national target a population of fifty million by the year 2050. The rate of expansion needed to absorb this population was, he said, quite possible and he looked forward to the day when Australia's own resources would be sufficiently developed to ensure independence of overseas capital.

Dr. W. G. Elford, Senior Lecturer in physics at the Adelaide University, revealed late last year that a Laser beam generator was being imported from the United States to enable his department to intensify its study of Micro-meteorite activity sixty to eighty miles above the earth.

Don Selth, a graduate of Adelaide University and now Headmaster of Launceston Grammar School, recently gained a diploma in New South Wales (9 subjects, 7 credits). He has been given nine months leave to do a trip overseas during which time he hopes to enquire into various aspects of education in western countries.

Greg Bennett, who was previously in the division of Mathematical Statistics C.S.I.R.O., Adelaide, has been appointed Assistant Professor in the Department of Mathematics, University of Waterloo, Ontario, Canada.

H. F. (Bon) Gaetjens was recently elected vice-president of the Real Estate Institute of Australia. He is a past president of the Real Estate Institute of this State.

Dr. Sandy Skinner and family recently returned to Adelaide after three years overseas. He has taken up an appointment in the physiology department at the University of Adelaide. Whilst overseas he was engaged in medical research at the Cleveland Clinic, Ohio, United States, and St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, London.

Tom Holland, who is in the Department of External Affairs and who was First Secretary in Berlin, has returned to Canberra where he will probably remain for the next two years.

Jim Allen has been seconded by the Department of External Affairs and made Director of the Colombo Plan Administration. He is now situated at Colombo and will be there for at least another twelve months.

John Head is currently on study leave with his family in the United States. He was awarded a Fulbright Travel grant for a programme of lecturing and research at Colombia and Princeton Universities. A second son was born in New York last August.

Robin Hone, president of the Combined Saints and Princes branch in Canberra, is Military Secretary to the Secretary of the Military Board.

Ross Johnson recently obtained his Fellowship in medicine in the United Kingdom. He plans to stay overseas for a further twelve months.

Colonel W. C. N. Waite was one of those who attended the fiftieth anniversary reunion of the 3rd Field Artillery Brigade held late last year. The unit, commanded by (at that time) Captain Waite, sailed in the Medic on 20th October, 1914. In the same month fifteen years before, Cpl. Waite had left Outer Harbour in the same ship with the first South Australian Contingent for the Boer War.

W.O.2 Ian Hunter, formerly with 2 C.A.D., has now been posted to Headquarters 22 Cadet Btn., Armadale, Victoria.

Owen Price has been appointed a director of Woolworth Ltd. He was formerly a prominent Amateur League Footballer with the Old Scholars team and also played in the State side.

The Headmaster, Mr. J. A. Dunning, O.B.E., has been re-elected to the University Council.

Mr. Walter Angel, aged 92, recently published a book entitled "The Blind Who See". This is the third book he has published, and all money from the sale of this recent book will go to Townsend Home School for Deaf and Blind.

Mr. Glen Pearson, until recently Minister of Works, attended a meeting in Tasmania earlier this year of the Water Resources Council of Australia.

Mr. Ted Whitworth, a member of the School staff and well-known for his work in connection with the School scouts, is also a keen member of the Gilbert and Sullivan Society of South Australia. Previously a board member he has, in addition to being re-elected to the board, been elected a vice-president.

Peter Osborne, operations manager for the South Australian Brewing Co. Ltd., recently left for overseas to study developments in the brewing trade.

David Harvey, who has been in Holbrook, New South Wales, for the last two years as a farm management consultant, is returning to Adelaide to set up as a private farm management consultant. He is hoping to operate in the counties of Adelaide, Sturt, Eyre, Light, and Gawler.

Boyd Felstead, formerly branch secretary of the M.L.C. Asurance Co. Ltd. in Hobart, has been transferred to the Sydney office where he will be Assistant Branch Secretary.

Ken Badenoch who went overseas last year has recently spent some time in Germany.

Colin McDonald, who was formerly with the Department of Agriculture in Adelaide, is now living in Singapore, where he has taken up a position as production manager for the Malaysian Dairy Board.

Ron Hone is Deputy District Governor to district 201 J of Lions International and received the award of the Neville Jones Membership.

Peter Baghurst was one of the two successful South Australian candidates for an Australian Agricultural Scholarship awarded annually by the Department of Primary Industry.

Richard Jarrett won the 1965 Shell University Scholarship. He achieved the highest aggregate pass in the 1964 Leaving Honours Maths, Physics, and Chemistry.

Peter Jones was awarded one of the Roseworthy Agricultural College district scholarships.

Malcolm Joyner was re-elected president of the Royal Flying Doctor Service of Australia (South Australian Section).

Ivan Morris (representing the Rostrum Clubs) has been appointed to the committee of the recently formed South Australian Debating Association.

Wayne Anthoney, who has been closely associated with the University Revue for some years, was last year one of the joint producers.

Bevan Gardner from Maitland to Bullaring, Western Australia.

Brian Richardson from Uraidla to "Briella" Station, Bordertown.

Ben Jenkins from Snowtown to Yumali.

Dudley Cockington from Prospect to Burra.

Colin Jacka from Melbourne to St. Ives, Sydney.

Bill Stolz from Clapham to Jamestown.

Jim Bartlett from Launceston to Potts Point, Sydney.

Thomas Dillon from Adelaide to Bordertown.

William Guthrie from Moonah, Tasmania, to Adelaide.

Rupert Woods from Waikerie to Adelaide.

Wing Commander Paul Martin, formerly with the R.A.A.F. at Mallala, to Canberra.

Public Schools' Club

The Club continues to be well supported and particularly in relation to various Old Scholars' functions. This latter is most heartening and indeed was one of the reasons for founding the Club. Although arrangements have been made to repay debenture monies due to mature shortly, members concerned are being asked to extend their holding for a period of one to five years at their option. This will enable other projects to be taken in hand.

The final Ladies' Night last year was most successful and in fact was booked out well in advance. It is pleasing to report that a number of young Old Scholars continue to join and parents of boys at school are reminded that they can put their sons' names on the minors' waiting list at a cost of £3/3/0. This will not automatically ensure membership at the age of twenty-one, but it will provide some priority as compared with those who do not make application until twenty-one or later.

The current President is Dr. Alan Clarkson, a past president of P.A.O.C., and the chairman of Committee is David Haese, an Old Scholar of Sacred Heart. David was an original member of the committee, former chairman of the membership sub-committee, and club solicitor, and we offer our congratulations on his well merited appointment.

Annual "Get Together"

This social evening is held each year at the School for boys who left in recent years and in particular for those who have left the previous year. This year it was again held in the New Assembly Hall on Friday evening, 19th February, with Mr. Geoff Hall (Convener) occupying the chair. After welcoming those present, he introduced some of the Association officials and committeemen who were present. He then asked the Association President, Mr. Bob Piper, to speak. Mr. Piper reminded the boys that this was the beginning of a new era—their first Old Scholar function and, therefore, something they would always remember. He then outlined the objects of the Association and gave details of the various Association offices, starting with that of Patron who was always the Headmaster. Numerous other matters were referred to, including country dinners, interstate and overseas branches, sporting clubs, monthly luncheons, Old Scholars' Week, close events, matches against Saints, and later on for those interested, the Lodge and the Public Schools' Club.

The President made particular reference to taking an interest in the running of some of the clubs, which he said was good training in learning to administer affairs and to conduct meetings. He also pointed out that over the years many members of the Association committee had gravitated from these club committees. Mr. Piper concluded by welcoming them all as members or prospective members of the Association. The Chairman then called on Mr. Andrew Jeffery to speak to the boys about the sporting clubs. These were taken in turn (athletics, basketball, cricket, football, squash) and a comprehensive review included some details and history, the present strength and number of teams, and hopes for the future. The Chairman then announced that through the good offices of Mr. Bill Johnson (Captain of the South Australian Tennis Team and committee member of the Association) and Phillip Morris it had been possible to secure the film "The History of Tennis" and he wished to thank both parties. This excellent film was enjoyed by everyone present, and at the conclusion Mr. Hall announced the end of the meeting. A good evening concluded with the serving of supper and the telling of a few School stories.

This evening has in the past always been well supported, and it was disappointing to see a falling off in numbers this year. Boys who will be leaving school this year, and who will receive a notice next year, are urged to attend as it provides an excellent opportunity to learn about the Association and to meet some of the officials. On the suggestion of the Headmaster it will probably be held a fortnight later next year, which should be a more convenient time.

In February the members were privileged to hear an excellent lecture by Wpl. Bro. E. N. Broomhead, W.M. of Mypolonga Lodge. His lecture "The Masonic Perambulation" was of great interest to all the Brethren present.

The Lodge was sorry to lose two of its esteemed Brethren—Wpl. Bro. Charles Dunn who died in England on 14th October, 1964, and Wpl. Bro. R. P. Goode who died 11th January, 1965. Wpl. Bro. Goode was well-known to all the Brethren (and indeed in Masonic circles generally) having been through all the offices of the Lodge including seven years as Director of Ceremonies and twenty years as Secretary. He had been honoured by Grand Lodge when it conferred on him the rank of Past Grand Deacon (Senior), and in November last year his own Lodge elected him an honorary member. Wpl. Bro. Charles Dunn also gave great service to this Lodge prior to his transfer to England, and was also a prominent Methodist layman.

All Old Scholars who are Freemasons are reminded of the practice of the Lodge of changing its August meeting to the last Saturday in July to coincide with Old Boys' Week. A cordial invitation is extended to all Brethren to visit Prince Alfred Collegians' Lodge that night.

On Wednesday evening, 17th March, the Annual Social Evening and Bowls match for the Rose Bowl trophy was played at Glenunga between Harmony, Erindale, Torrensville, St. Peter's Collegiate, and Pulteney Grammar Lodges together with ourselves. It is pleasing to report that we were successful, and indeed over the years we seem to have had perhaps more than our share of victories.

Wpl. Bro. Brook of Harmony Lodge, who originally donated this handsome trophy and who was present on this occasion, handed it over to Wpl. Bro. Murray Horner (in the absence of the Wpl. Master, Wpl. Bro. Ron Brittain who was interstate) for safe keeping for twelve months. The Headmaster Bro. J. A. Dunning also received a trophy for the "most efficient skipper".

Annual General Meeting

The Eighty-sixth Annual General Meeting of the Association was held at the School on Thursday evening, 19th November, last year. Like most meetings of this nature in these days it was not well attended and we can only add that this seems a pity. Over the years the Association has been extraordinarily well-supported and in fact is still; and though this is primarily a business meeting it is still a pleasant and interesting evening, to which the Committee does appeal for more Old Boys to attend. In some ways the Association is passing through difficult times, and it would probably be a good thing if new members were aware of this.

The election of officers followed the usual pattern with Mr. Bob Piper previously senior Vice-President coming up to President. As can be read elsewhere in this issue, the service which this family has rendered to the School and the Association over a long period of time has been tremendous, and Mr. Piper was warmly applauded on his election.

Mr. Robert Craven moved up from Junior to Senior Vice-President and Mr. Brian Fricker became the new Junior Vice-President.

Mr. Jack Gerard, after an excellent year in office as President, automatically became the Immediate Past President.

Other officers were all re-elected, and for the first time in many years there was no election for the Committee. Retiring members only were all nominated and, therefore, automatically re-elected.

The new President proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Gerard, and Mr. Gerard in responding said it had been a great honour and privilege both for his wife and himself, and they had done their best. Mr. Craven, in proposing a vote of thanks to the Headmaster Mr. J. A. Dunning and Mrs. Dunning, said their co-operation, interest and help over an extended period of time had been outstanding. The Headmaster, after thanking Mr. Craven and members for their kind remarks in relation to his wife and himself, took the opportunity of referring to recent developments at the School, the magnificent Harold Lord Bequest, and the Centenary Appeal. Votes of thanks were also extended to the Secretary and Treasurer.

After the President had closed the meeting supper was served and members were then treated to a delightful and humorous talk by Mr. G. M. Potts, entitled "Down the Years at P.A.C." We are indeed grateful to Mr. Potts not only on this occasion, but over many years for the work he has done and is doing for this Association, for the standards he has set, and indeed just for knowing him.

Committee Visit to School

The following excellent address was given by Mr. Jack Gerard when he addressed the School at Morning Assembly on 10th November last year.

Mr. Headmaster, Members of the Staff, and Boys.

This is a privilege for us to be here this morning, and I thank the Headmaster on behalf of the Committee for his kind invitation, and also for those kind personal remarks.

This is my last opportunity to say a few words as President of the Association and, although the last, I feel it is the most important.

You all know a little of the Old Scholars' Association; most of you have heard about it before and, of course, you can read all about it in the Chronicle. It occurs to me to ask whether many of you boys read the Old Scholars' Section in the Chronicle. Hands up the boys who have never read a paragraph in the Old Scholars' Section. Well, candidly, I thought there would be more, but I can see that the majority are the First Year boys. Some of you might say "Our Chronicle . . . why do the Old Boys want to be trespassing in our own magazine?" Well, in your Section, everyday events, the activities and happenings at the School are recorded, and history is being written. Likewise is our Section. We record the activities of Old Boys and this is the only permanent record we have. Did you know that we post nearly 4,000 copies every issue?

We are not only interested in the activities of the Association and the doings of other Old Boys, but love to read all about the happenings of boys at the School. This fulfils two of the objects of the Association in that the Committee organises functions and Dinners where the members can gather together to fraternise, whilst at the same time it helps us to maintain our interest in the School. Once you have entered Prince Alfred College a part of it always remains with you.

The Old Boys do a lot for the School; likewise the School does a lot for Old Boys—even when you have left it, its doors are always open. The Headmaster's study is open to all Old Boys who have a problem they would like to discuss. The Sports Grounds and changerooms and all the School's facilities are available. This is greatly appreciated by the Association and particularly the young Old Boys who join the various sporting clubs.

Therefore, I suggest to those leaving — join the Association; it costs only one pound per year.

Some, no doubt, will be going on the land, others to the University, whilst others will be taking their first job. At the moment, life upon leaving School seems nearly all pleasure: parties, extra money to spend, girls—yes, they'll crop up from time to time. This is not so, although you may see some young men who appear to be interested in nothing else. Life, however, is not like that—it's exciting—it's tough—and the next few years after leaving are important.

This State of ours, with very few natural resources, and one of the driest in the Commonwealth, presents a great challenge to commerce and industry to compete with our wealthy neighbours. This city is no longer a small country town in the eyes of our eastern friends. Some of you have seen or heard of the television programme, "The Concrete Jungle"—every modern city is one, and Adelaide is no exception. Leaders are continually looking for youth with drive, ability, steadfastness of purpose and determination, and they look to schools like P.A.C. to find them.

Some of you will be saying, "I've no ability—I'm no brain—the top boys will get the jobs." You're wrong. There is a place for everyone, just as each one of you here this morning is a boy at P.A.C.. There is a place for you here, and likewise there is a future for you. You must find it. You don't have to have you names on the Honour Boards, but aren't we proud of them? The names of some truly great Australians are recorded on the Honour Boards of P.A.C. Weren't you proud when it was announced that the 1964 Rhodes Scholar was an Old Red? I'm sure that everyone, young and old, held his head a little higher that day.

But remember, commerce and industry are looking for young men who can measure up to the four "C's", often known as the key to success: Character, Courtesy, Courage, Capacity — and everyone here can be a successful applicant under those stipulations.

To get anywhere, whether at School or in your life to come, you must try—and do the best you can. If you remember nothing else this morning, I want each of you to ask himself each week, certainly at the end of every month, and most decidedly at the end of every term, "Have I tried? Have I done the best I can?" You must be honest with yourself when you ask this question; do not fool yourself. You may even think that you can kid to your parents on occasions, but very rarely, and you may think that you can fool your schoolmasters, but this never happens, and certainly do not kid to yourself. If men and women would only ask themselves that question, even occasionally, Australia could rise to greater heights. On too many occasions one hears "That's near enough", but "near enough is not good enough"; and another phrase heard in factories, workshops, and offices is "Couldn't care less"—a phrase which should be wiped from the English language. Anyone heard using it should be penalized.

So I say to the boys who are leaving this year that, if you can end your school days and say, truly, "I have tried—I have done the best I can", then you will have a tremendous feeling of satisfaction, pride and achievement, whatever the results in terms of subjects and credits.

Now in a few days the finals of every form will be here, and whether you are sitting for the Intermediate, Leaving or Leaving Honours examination, I want to express to each of you, on behalf not only of the Committee, but of every Old Boy, our very best wishes for your success; and I hope that each of you, when the exams are over, can truly say, "I have tried—I have done the best I can."

Good luck, and God bless you all.

Broken Hill Visit

A party of ten left Adelaide by plane on Friday evening, 5th March, for the biennial visit to Broken Hill. Those in the party were Mr. R. T. Smith (representing the School), and Mrs. Smith; Mr. Bob Piper (Association President); Mr. Jack Gerard (immediate past President) and Mrs. Gerard; Mr. Robert Craven (Senior Vice-President) and Mrs. Craven; Malcolm McLachlan; Ross Johnston (Association Secretary) and Mrs. Johnston. Arriving at Broken Hill airport we were met by Mr. Bill Harbison (Branch President) and Mrs. Harbison, John Beck (Branch Secretary, Rev. Gordon Young, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Prider, Mr. and Mrs. Alwyn Edelman, Reg Glasson (Branch Treasurer), Mr. and Mrs. Bill White, Les Nicholls, Mr. and Mrs. Michael McBride, Eric Minchin and Marshall Smith.

It was good to renew old acquaintances after a lapse of two years and a large happy party had a pleasant evening at the Royal Exchange Hotel. On one matter only did there seem to be a difference of opinion. Right early Malcolm McLachlan insisted that he was counting on covering his expenses by collecting the bets he made two years ago that he would not be married by the time the next visit came around. Furthermore, he had a little black book with all details; but most of those whose names appeared in the book hotly denied having anything to do with this or any other sort of betting. Whether as a result of these "unexpected" bad debts the wedding will have to be further postponed is not known at this stage; but the Broken Hill people, if there should be any acute embarrassment, are prepared to "take the hat around" and collect sufficient to pay the parson!

On Saturday morning Les Nicholls (underground manager) took those male members of the party who were free on a tour of the Zinc Corporation Mine. Those who went greatly enjoyed the outing.

In the afternoon the visitors were taken on a tour around parts of the city, which included some of the old historic buildings, the North Mine, several of the ovals, and some modern swimming pools and recreation parks. Messrs. Bill Harbison, Alwyn Edelman, Jack Prider and Bill White kindly provided the transport, and again it was a pleasant party at afternoon tea in the lovely setting of the gardens, lawns and artificial lake at the Zinc Corporation. The wives of the members mentioned above and also Mrs. Nicholls and Mrs. McBride really treated us well.

Just prior to the evening meal some of the male members of the Adelaide party paid a visit to the excellent Broken Hill Club where they were made most welcome. The Golf Club provided an ideal setting for the dance, and though the day had been warm the evening was quite pleasant.

Branch President, Bill Harbison, and Mrs. Harbison received the guests; and Mrs. Harbison and her committee are to be thanked for the splendid job they did with the decorations and the supper arrangements. The evening went along very pleasantly, and during supper Bill Harbison officially welcomed all those present, including Mr. and Mrs. Jim Copley representing Saints. He also apologized for the absence of some stalwarts in Roy and Alton Bennett and their families who were in Adelaide for a wedding, and Ron and Don Crossing who two days before had a serious fire at their woolshed. Mr. Harbison then asked Mr. Ray Smith (Second Master at the School) to respond.

Mr. Smith said he brought greetings from the Headmaster, Mr. J. A. Dunning, and other members of the staff. His reference to the Headmaster being awarded the O.B.E. in the New Year Honours was received with acclamation. In an interesting address Mr. Smith made reference to new buildings erected and new properties acquired by the School in the last two years, the excellent public examination results, and sporting results.

Mr. Bob Piper, Association President, then responded and thanked the local Branch for inviting us up there once again and apologized for his wife not being able to make the trip. He stressed the fact that Branch activities were most important and said, "Your efforts here are very much appreciated and particularly those of some of you who have been stalwarts for many years". Mr. Piper made reference to many activities of the Association, the sporting clubs, and the recently formed Saints-Princes branch at Canberra.

Perhaps it was unfair but it really had to happen that Bill White received a tie for being the oldest Old Scholar present. As somebody said, "Well, he is so much older than any other Old Scholar present(15 years I think) that he just couldn't be passed over," Bill of course, strenuously denies this, particularly the bit about the 15 years.

Quite undeterred by the late night a good party set out for the Menindie Lakes on Sunday. This vast storage scheme is not only a wonderful sight to see but an education. Prior to lunch we called at the Menindie Lake sailing area; then we went into Menindie proper and along the road upstream to have lunch under some shady gum trees near the Main Weir on the banks of the very placid River Darling. The wives of local members had again done an excellent job. Just prior to leaving, Mrs. Gerard, on behalf of the Adelaide party, thanked local members and particularly the wives for the splendid way in which everyone had been looked after.

Hollow, with its amazing display of speed boats and water skiing.

Our arrival back at Broken Hill left just enough time to change and pack, and then the visitors entertained the local committee and their wives at tea. This again was a very pleasant occasion which had to be pushed along at the end to enable Adelaide members to catch the plane. There was quite a crowd to see us off and indeed I think most of us, though tired, were sorry to part again for another two years.

The trip to Adelaide on Sunday was a very quiet affair. Malcolm McLachlan gave up his window seat like a real gentleman without a word of protest; whereas coming up on the Friday evening he caused some embarrassment to the same lady by insisting on his rights to the window seat.

Country Dinners

EYRE PENINSULA DINNER

This annual function was again held at the Hotel Boston on Friday evening, 30th October. Lloyd Clarkson very capably took over as Chairman at the last minute as Glen Walkom was unable to attend on account of illness. The grace was given by the Rev. Reg. Pengilly, Circuit Superintendent Port Lincoln and Chairman Eyre Peninsula District, whom we were very pleased to welcome and have as our guest. The Chairman welcomed all present and introduced the Headmaster, Mr. J. A. Dunning, O.B.E.; the Association President, Mr. Jack Gerard; the Junior Vice-President, Mr. Robert Craven; committee members, and former Presidents, Dr. Alan Clarkson and Mr. Alan Crompton. After the apologies had been read members stood in turn and gave their name and the year they left School.

Jack Gerard, as always, was to the fore in leading the community singing which included the School Song and the Football Song. Jack was ably supported by Ralph Farrant at the piano. The Chairman, in introducing Dr. David Wibberley from Tumby Bay to propose the toast to the School, reminded members of the wonderful service his father, Dr. Brian Wibberley, had given to the West Coast over many years. Dr. Wibberley said he was both proud and pleased to be asked to propose the toast, and he was sure all local members present were very pleased to welcome the visitors from Adelaide, particularly the Headmaster, "of whom we hear nothing but good". In a very thoughtful submission the speaker referred to the essential difference between the State education system and the private in the Church School system. Academic standards and facilities were good at both and so the question was "Why do we send our sons to P.A.C?" The answer, though difficult to define, was that there was still much to be gained from the Church School with its traditions and standards based on those of the English Public School system. He then went on to define the five essential ingredients of this tradition, namely discipline, religion, culture, athletics and service.

The Headmaster was given a fine reception when he rose to reply. He thanked the Chairman for his words of welcome and members for the way in which they had honoured the toast. Mr. Dunning said he was pleased to count Dr. Wibberley among his "old boys", the latter being in his last year at P.A.C. when he became Headmaster in 1949. The new Assembly Hall opened by the Governor just over twelve months ago, and the new science laboratories erected with the aid of a grant from the Industrial Fund, had been wonderful additions to the School.

Mr. Dunning said one of the essential differences between the State school system and the private school system was the continuity of staff at the latter. This had tremendous advantages; and he then went on to give details of the wonderful service given by many members of the staff. Reference was then made to the Centenary Fund Appeal and the objects which the Council had in mind. One of these would appeal to country boys as it envisaged a new boarding house. School public examination results continued to be excellent, and in extra-curricula activities it was interesting to note that the life saving club had won both School awards, whilst the cadets had won the Earl Roberts trophy and finished second in the Rudall Cup. He concluded by thanking local members for the invitation and saying, "I hope you all have a good season".

Following some further community singing and the War Cry Mr. Ralph Farrant was suitably introduced to propose the toast to "The Old Collegians' Association". The speaker after referring to the founding of the Association, outlined its objects and various activities. Country members, he said, could not help very much in directly running its affairs, but they could lend their support and all be members.

The President, Mr. Jack Gerard, in responding, thanked the proposer for his remarks and the local committee for arranging the dinner, and said he was sorry Mr. Walkom could not be present. He was fortunate enough this year to attend functions at Perth, Sydney and Melbourne branches, and also the inaugural meeting in Canberra of a combined Saints and Princes branch. This was his fifth country dinner. Referring to the activities of members at all levels of public life, he said that it was very good to note that five old boys had been honoured by the Queen this year, whilst another had been selected as the Rhodes Scholar. One of the outstanding events of Old Scholars Week had been the service—the first to be held in the new Assembly Hall — when there had been a good attendance and a fine address by the President-General, Rev. Dr. Frank Hambly. He then presented three Association ties to the following: firstly to the oldest Old Scholar, and this year it was decided that Hubert Mellor should be selected, secondly to the youngest Old Scholar

Philip Sheedy, and finally to Michael Wainwright of Minnipa who had travelled the furthest distance. The Chairman brought the evening to a close by thanking all for their attendance and asking them to make an early note of the last Friday in October for next year. He said they would like to see as many as possible present at the service on Sunday evening.

This report would not be complete without thanking Messrs. Lloyd Clarkson, Glen Walkom, Hubert Mellor and their wives for the week-end arrangements and hospitality which always make this trip so enjoyable and for which they have been responsible for so many years. From the point of view, both of the organizers and the Association generally, it is to be regretted that the attendance in this area usually falls far short of that in areas with a comparable membership.

The Association Committee would, therefore, endorse the remarks of your chairman this year, and ask all old scholars in the area to make a note of the last Friday in October for next year. On Sunday evening the visitors attended the local Methodist church and the two lessons were read by the Headmaster, Mr. Dunning, and the President Mr. Gerard, respectively.

SOUTH - EAST DINNER

This year the dinner was held at Kalangadoo on Saturday, 20th March, with mine host Fred Basheer in the chair. Fred, who did an excellent job, kept things moving, and got through the programme in good time. Also to Fred and his treasurer Doug Moyses must go the credit for organizing the dinner, which was well attended.

In welcoming the party from Adelaide the chairman said it was pleasing to have such a good representation. In addition to Mr. Dennis, representing the School and the Headmaster, they included Mr. Brian Fricker (junior vice-president representing the President Mr. Bob Piper), Messrs. Don Davies, Andrew Jeffrey, Eric Cox, Dr. David Riceman, Norman Todd and Ern Hunwick (treasurer). The chairman then read the apologies, and as is usual at these functions asked each member in turn to stand, give his name and the year he left School. Andrew Reeves then compered some community singing.

In introducing Mr. Colin Davis to propose the toast to "The School" the chairman referred to the wonderful job which Colin had done for years in connection with the Coronation Ball at Mt. Gambier and the amount of money which had been raised for charity. Colin's was one of four excellent addresses, and in posing the question of what the School means to each of us, he suggested that though opinions would differ they would centre around personalities and events. The speaker said that Mr. Ward's book on the history of the School conveyed a sense of achievement and purpose on every page. This of course required a properly disciplined, constant effort which must be carried on from generation to generation by both present and past scholars. He urged all present in drinking this toast to remember that it is always better to give than to receive and to tackle the future with positive thinking and constructive action. In asking members to rise and drink the toast he said he wished to submit it "To the future of the School". Members then sang "Our School Colours".

Mr. Dennis was well introduced by the chairman, and those who were looking forward to a first class response were in no way disappointed. There were some interesting comments by Mr. Dennis on his preconceived ideas about P.A.C. just prior to joining the staff, and what in actual fact he found to be the position.

Masters and boys turned out to be friendly ordinary people and this he suggested was the essential genius of the place. Mr. Dennis said the school never had attempted to turn out a well defined type—rather does the school try to build on to each of these different types. The School has, therefore, remained in the liberal tradition and for this we should be thankful. As a master, Mr. Dennis said it was most gratifying to meet Old Boys in later years and to recognize many of their talents at school since developed and enriched. The liberal tradition has been respected and preserved, but has never been allowed to prevent the School from adopting a progressive and expansive policy. The speaker then gave details of property acquisitions, Sea Scout depot, Science Block, and Assembly Hall, and made reference to the staff both past and present, and the excellent public exam results. He also conveyed greetings and best wishes from the Headmaster, and said that no doubt they were all very thrilled to learn that Mr. Dunning had been awarded the O.B.E. in the New Year Honours. Don Davies then led off with some community singing which really went well in spite of his voice.

Dr. John Hill was then asked to propose the toast "To the Association". In introducing him the chairman referred to his fine sporting record at the School and in particular, to the fact that he had rowed in two P.A.C. crews which won the Head of the River. Dr. Hill said he had been reading a book on speech making and one of the things a speaker must not do is to apologize to his listeners for his shortcomings and he intended to stick to that policy. The School and the Association were very closely allied and he urged every Old Boy to support them both. They were all pleased to know that the School was doing so well and that the Association had a very effective committee. The speaker made several important comments—one relating to the Association having one tie only; secondly, a school chapel, and thirdly the importance of country dinners. He thanked the visitors from Adelaide and said that country members all looked forward to these functions.

Mr. Fricker in responding thanked Dr. Hill for his excellent toast and members for their loyalty. He said Mr. Piper regretted that he could not be present and had sent his best wishes. The Piper family had given great service to the School and the Association over a long period and it was interesting to note that the President was the fourth member of his family to occupy that position.

The speaker thanked Mr. Basheer for the splendid job he had done, and Doug Moyses for his help. In conclusion he presented three Association ties to the following members: Doug Chapple from Naracoorte for being the oldest Old Scholar present (this was not counting Mr. Bill Clifford who had received it on previous occasions and who appeared to be as fit and well as ever), Andrew Hopgood from Mount Gambier for being the youngest Old Scholar present, and Peter Bowman from Lameroo for having travelled the furthest distance. It was agreed that the dinner next year would be held at Keith on Saturday, 19th March, with Cyril Cook as convener. Bob DeGaris, after detailing the history of "The Duck" (and anybody who doesn't know should ask Dr. Alan Clarkson) handed it over to Fred Basheer for safe keeping for twelve months.

Once again the Adelaide party wish to express their thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Cook and their daughter Mrs. Chapman for their splendid hospitality at lunch time on Sunday. It is always a great pleasure to go to their home.

Branch Reports

LONDON

The annual dinner this year will be held as usual at the Oxford and Cambridge Club on Friday, 9th July. The Branch Secretary is Dr. Stanford Howard, whose address is 148 Harley Street, London, W1. U.K., and who is most anxious to hear from any Old Scholars who are visiting the U.K. Those who do travel overseas are urged to try to fit this date into their itinerary as members resident in the U.K. always appreciate meeting those from "the home town". A recent letter was received from Mr. F. A. Gibbs, who was a master at the School in the late 'twenties and early 'thirties and who has always retained his membership of the Association. He wished to be remembered to the Old Boys who were students in his day, and they likewise will be interested to know that Mr. Gibbs is still teaching though he hopes to continue in a part-time capacity only in the future.

[Mr. Howard who recently entered into retirement has been our London Branch Secretary for more years than most of us can remember. To many Old Boys who read the Chronicle he would be nothing more than a name—one of those who do a steady job for this Association year after year. It seemed appropriate to publish the following article which appeared in the Burnley Express and News last February. It will be of interest to many of his contemporaries, and younger Old Scholars will know something of our distinguished London Secretary.—Editor.]

"He Gave 'Tremendous Service' to Hospitals' Group."

"The hope that in medicine and surgery there might be a flow back in thought to the more clinical side of diagnosis was expressed by Stanford Howard on Wednesday in thanking consultants, administrators and matrons from the Burnley group of hospitals for their good wishes on his retirement.

Mr. Howard was the recipient of a cheque handed over by Dr. Winston Turner, chairman of the Medical Advisory Committee, which Mr. Howard said he hoped would be used to acquire a piece of Georgian Silver to mark the occasion.

Mr. Howard said that he hoped consultants would not become "Little scientists", who could not diagnose things unless they had a whole series of investigations.

We are given hands and eyes to look at patients as a whole, as entities, and not just as parts of bodies," he said, "and I hope we will not depend entirely on all these ancillary devices introduced in the last twenty years: to avoid that would make for beter doctoring and better service—our forefathers were no fools and they did some mighty fine surgery."

Mr. Howard expressed his appreciation to all those with whom he had worked in Burnley since he came—"on a most inauspicious day, 1st April, 1950."

"I came to Burnley not knowing what I was going to be up against or what type of people Lancastrians were," he said.

"During the years I have been here I have learned to like them very much indeed and respect them. They have been loyal and in most cases my patients have carried out my instructions (laughter) and I have formed a firm bond of friendship with numerous families which will remain for the rest of my life."

He was responding to good wishes expressed on behalf of his colleagues by Dr. Turner, who recalled that Mr. Howard was one of a very select band of Rhodes Scholars, who had come from Australia and given tremendous service. It was pleasing to know that Mr. Howard would continue to act as honorary surgeon to the group.

The appreciation of the Burnley and District Hospital Management Committee was expressed by its chairman, Dr. D. C. Lamont, who said Mr. Howard had made a very great name for himself in the Burnley area, which owed him a great deal. "He has always taken a back seat so far as publicity is concerned but nevertheless he is very highly regarded," said Dr. Lamont.

NEW SOUTH WALES

Retiring President: Max Pontifex
President-Elect: Carl Stange,
3 Birubi Avenue, Pymble. Phone 44 4897
Secretary: Don Spry,
128 Mona Vale Road, St. Ives. Phone 44 6543
Committee: Don Turner, Finance; Noel Johnston, Broadcasts; Peter Dunn, Dene Yelland, Alan Jacobs, Functions; Brian Monfries, Chronicle reports.

Max Pontifex—We regret the transfer to the Commonwealth Trading Bank, Wagga, of our President, Max Pontifex, after a short but very effective term. He devoted much personal energy to the position and played an effective part in the success of all functions conducted during his term. He is keen to meet any Old Reds in the Wagga District.

Pre-Christmas Function—A successful barbecue and garden party was held at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Gurn Parker, Wahroonga, which was enjoyed by a large number of Old Boys and their wives.

It was pleasing to see Harold and Con Woodman, Dr. Don and Mrs. Dawkins after a lapse of some years.

Senior Chefs Alan Jacobs and Peter Dunn provided luscious steaks which were all the more enjoyable in the glorious garden setting provided.

During the evening a volume for presentation to the School library was autographed by all present.

Death of Dr. H. L. Brose, M.A., D.Phil., D.Sc., F.Inst.P.—Old Boys will be sorry to learn of the death on 24th February of Dr. Henry Brose. One of our most distinguished Old Boys, Henry has been a loyal supporter of this branch for many years. Our sincere sympathy to his widow and son, John.

Sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Honey—The sympathy of all members of the Branch is extended to Bob and Roma Honey on the tragic and untimely death of their 21-year-old son Robert, who lost his life while surf-board riding at Palm Beach on 7th March.

Personal—George Love is at present overseas but expects to be back in Sydney in time for the Dinner in July.

A. B. Payne has been transformed from Adelaide to the A.M.P. Society, Sydney Cove.

CANBERRA

The President is Major Robin Hone, 49 Gilbert Street, Hackett, Canberra, A.C.T., and the Secretary is Alan Crawford, 37 Rosenthall Street, Campbell, A.C.T. This combined Saints and Princes Branch had its inaugural meeting in August last year. On 4th December a Christmas Sundowner was held at the Rugby Union Club, Blackall Street, Barton, and though not as well attended as one might have hoped it went off very well. More recently another Sundowner was held on 5th March, and it is hoped to organize a dinner in July to coincide with Old Scholars Week in Adelaide. A recent list has been received of P.A.C. Old Scholars now living in Canberra (as per the Association records), but it would be appreciated if any Saints or Princes Old Scholars who are not currently on the mailing list would make sure that their names and addresses are handed on to either the President or the Secretary. It is hoped that the first of what we expect will be an Annual Dinner will be well supported. The number of Old Scholars of both schools living in Canberra should be sufficient to ensure a very good attendance.

QUEENSLAND

S. A. Schools' Association

The Secretary is Phil Coles, C/- National Mutual Building, 293 Queen Street, Brisbane, who would be pleased to hear from any Old Scholar visiting at the time of the monthly luncheon or taking up residence in that State. The monthly luncheon is held on the first Thursday of each month at the Carlton Hotel, 103 Queen Street, Brisbane, at 1 p.m.

Our best wishes are extended to Phil (who is an Old Scholar) and his wife and family for a happy trip overseas and a safe return. Phil for many years has done a splendid job in keeping the flag flying in the Northern State.

BROKEN HILL

Office bearers for this year are as follows—
President: W. A. Harbison
Town Vice-President: A. D. Edelman
Country Vice-President: A. Bartholomaeus
Secretary: J. J. Beck
Assistant Secretary: J. E. Minchin
Committee Members:
J. W. Prider, W. R. B. White, M. McBride, A. Eglinton, L. T. Nicholls, J. C. Crace.

A full report of the successful week-end when we entertained Association officials from Adelaide appears elsewhere in this issue.

Earlier in the year the annual cricket match against Saints Old Scholars was played at Quondong and resulted in a victory for Old Reds, the scores being 106 to 73.

MONTHLY LUNCHEONS

These are held regularly at Balfour's Cafe, King William Street, on the third Tuesday in each month (with the exception of December) at 1 p.m., and country members are especially invited to attend when visiting the city.

Also any old scholar who would be able to attend reasonably regularly can contact the Association office and have his name put on the mailing list.

Since the last report interesting addresses have been given by the following guest speakers:

Mr. Ron Wagstaff (Natural Gas and the Gas Industry); Mr. Don Candy (Tennis — a Private Tour Overseas); Mr. Kevin Moore (Fluoridation); Mr. W. R. Watson (India and Pakistan); Mr. F. L. Harvey (The continuing need for Legacy).

Tennis v. Saints Old Scholars

This long-standing annual match was played at the Sturt Club Courts on Wednesday, 17th March, and it was very pleasing to have a number of spectators including the ladies and in some cases their children.

After the first round (the matches are all doubles) Princes had a handy lead 4 rubbers 7 sets to 2 rubbers 6 sets. However, it had been hard work with three of the matches going to the third set. Saints came back hard in the second round with several good wins and the turning point came when Little and Davies went down after a good fight 8—6 in the third set. At this stage Cranston and Dennis were having a mammoth struggle against Bowman and Wilson, and though they finally won 14—12 in the third set after a great recovery from 5—2 down, the loss of the second set gave Saints the odd set by which they won, the final scores being Saints 6 rubbers 15 sets to Princes 6 rubbers 14 sets.

During afternoon tea which was served in the club house Keith Sims (Chairman of Saints) welcomed players and spectators and thanked Mesdames Jane Macdonald and Dawn Wallace for looking after everyone so capably.

Detailed scores were as follows (Princes names first)—

First Round:

Johnson and Gabb defeated Potter and Bills, 4—6, 6—3, 6—2.

Davies and Little defeated Kerr and Forster, 2—6, 6—3, 6—2.

Baker and Jeffery defeated Davidson and Allen, 6—5, 6—5.

Tasker and Williamson lost to Brookman and Astley, 2—6, 3—6.

Cranston and Dennis lost to Hawkes and Barker, 6—3, 3—6, 2—6.

Trott and Lyle defeated Bowman and Wilson 6—4, 6—3.

Second Round:

Davis and Little lost to Potter and Bills, 2—6, 6—4, 6—8.

Johnson and Gabb defeated Kerr and Forster, 6—2, 6—2.

Tasker and Williamson lost to Davidson and Allen, 1—6, 3—6.

Baker and Jeffery lost to Brookman and Astley, 2—6, 5—6.

Trott and Lyle lost to Hawkes and Barker, 4—6, 3—6.

Cranston and Dennis defeated Bowman and Wilson, 6—3, 2—6, 14—12.

In the evening the dinner was held at the Public Schools' Club, when there was an excellent attendance of players and Association officials. Chairman, Canon W. R. Ray, President of Saints, was in good form, and kept the programme moving along.

After the loyal toast the chairman introduced special guests who included Mr. Dick Potter (representing St. Peters College), Mr. Glen Luke (representing Prince Alfred College), Dr. Alan Clarkson (President Public Schools' Club), Mr. Bob Piper (President P.A.O.C.) and Mr. Keith Sims (Chairman S.P.C.A.).

President Bob Piper proposed the toast of "Our two Schools", which he said was a difficult assignment as he had been taught from the time he was a small boy to say a lot about one school and little or nothing about the other! However, there was no doubt that these two schools had played a very prominent part in the life and history of the State and were continuing to do so. The qualities of tradition, discipline, and good citizenship, inculcated at school, were very evident in many walks of life. Mr. Glen Luke in responding for Princes recalled that the first early matches in the twenties were played under lights at Unley Park and were very much of a social gathering. He was glad to learn that this social side was coming back. He thanked members for the invitation and said the Headmaster sent his apologies.

The chairman in announcing the scores requested that the E. T. Rowe cup be filled "with the best" and passed around to all members. The chairman then handed the cup over to Graham Brookman, Captain of Saints. Graham referred to his "honorous" duties as captain and thanked the organizers. Dean Davies, Captain of Princes, in offering congratulations to Saints raised a laugh by saying, "The result was very unexpected and there is no doubt that we will do better next year". The chairman thanked Mr. Clark and his staff for the excellent dinner and the conveners Don Forster (Saints) and Bill Johnson (Princes). Mr. Brian Fricker, a former chairman of the Club, said it was always a great pleasure for the Club to cater for their functions and "we hope you will continue to come here and to enjoy yourselves."

PAST ISSUES SCHOOL CHRONICLE

Your Association has not over the years kept complete records of previous issues. This, however, would be a proper and worthwhile thing to do, and in fact two or three sets could well be used by the Association itself.

As previously reported, our old friend, Mr. Vernon Smith, made a number of past issues available to the Association, and more recently Doug Chapple from Naracoorte gave two excellent bound sets of early editions. The School now has one set and your Association the other set.

More recently Dr. Don Anderson provided some further numbers. To these gentlemen we are much indebted and it is to be hoped that others will follow their lead. The Headmaster, Mr. J. A. Dunning, is also anxious to build up further complete sets at the School, so that at the moment back numbers are much in demand. If transport should be a problem this can be arranged by telephoning the Association office.

Members are also requested to notify the Secretary of any change of address. It is also important that deaths be properly recorded both in the Chronicle and the Association records. Other members and next-of-kin can be particularly helpful in this regard.

Sports

PERSONAL

Cricket

As previously reported Ian Chappell was selected to play for Australia in the Test Match against Pakistan. Do we have to go back to the days of Clem Hill before we find another Old Scholar who has been selected in a first class Australian side? Ian was also invited to play in a festival match at Wellington, New Zealand, in October last year. After his recent good season we look forward to the time when he will be a regular Test player, and can only add that he really must have been unlucky to miss selection in both the team for England and then the West Indies.

At the beginning of last season John Lill announced his retirement from first class cricket. John has been an outstanding State player having scored 4,075 runs at an average of 38.44. He was also a prominent league footballer and holds a Ph.D degree.

Early in the year the Sturt Cricket Club unveiled an "Honour Board" at the Unley Oval. Colin Webb has the highest batting aggregate with 738 runs in 1952-53, whilst the bowling honours are shared between his brother Ken (1946-7) and the late Bruce Townsend (1921-22) each with 54 wickets.

In addition to Ian Chappell who scored several centuries in Shield games, Brian Hurn was a regular member of the State side, his best score being 77 against Queensland in Adelaide. John Causby who was selected in the latter part of the season had a good match in Perth when he scored 71 and 41 not out.

Col Patterson from Bute was selected in a combined Yorke Peninsula side which played a S.A.C.A. team in Maitland in February.

Graham Chapman and David McWaters were selected in the combined country team which gave a good account of itself against a S.A.C.A. XI in a match following the Country Carnival.

Other names noted among those playing in the Country Carnival were O. Chapman, D. French, G. Fuller, G. Coombs, R. Faehse, and Lou Curtis.

Robert Smith was the only century-maker for the Old Scholars Club last season when he made 100 not out in the first match against Postal Institute.

John Leak and Peter Willoughby were two additions noted playing district cricket to the list which appeared in the February Chronicle.

Craig McIntosh top-scored with 65 for the clerks in their annual cricket against Stock Exchange members.

Editorial cricket teams from "The Advertiser" and "The News" almost staged a tied test in their annual match. Bowling for "The Advertiser" team David Johnston took 5 for 41.

Tennis

Noted playing district tennis last season were Ken Baker, Bill Tasker, Graham Gabb, Dean Lock (Kensington); Wayne Jackson and Bill Johnson (West Torrens); Ted Little and Rob McNeil (Woodville); Dean Davies (University), and John Jeffrey (Glenelg).

In addition to being State captain Bill Johnson had a good season winning both his singles and doubles in Melbourne and narrowly losing a marathon doubles match in Perth against opponents who had previously reached the quarter finals of the Australian Championships. Bill also had the distinction of inflicting the first district defeat on Barry Phillips-Moore which the latter had experienced in nine years.

Noted playing in the Country Carnival were Les Martin (who reached the quarter finals of the singles), Doug Young (quarter finals singles and doubles), John Jenkins, Darnley Taylor, John Griffiths (quarter finals of singles) and Ron Tucker. The first two named players have built up wonderfully successful records over a long period of years at these carnivals.

Athletics

Congratulations to the following members of the Old Scholars Athletic Club who won State titles this year—Senior: Phil Day (440 yards hurdles), Mark Skinner (high jump, and broke the State record on a number of occasions), Rob Hannaford (long jump), Brian Dyke (hammer throw); Junior: L. Cleland (mile) and Peter Dalwood junior (high jump). Phil Day and Mark Skinner were amongst those selected to represent South Australia in the Australian Championships held in Hobart.

Golf

The following were noted as winners or prominent in summer competitions—Lindsay Mills, Clem Middleton, Eric Saunders, Ern Rowe, Don Davies, John Linn, Dick Fletcher, Leighton Williams, Ian Forbes, Norm Jolly, Ian Day, Gerald Cox, Gordon Rinder, Crawford Hill, Don McKenzie, Graham Williams, John Pearlman, Robert Day, Lawrie Johnston, Eric Luxton, Peter Sanderson, Paul Dalwood, Brian Faehse, Jim Hodge, Gary Gray, and Don Moseley.

Football

Peter Rogers (1963 Rhodes Scholar) was the organizer for the Annual Oxford versus Cambridge Australian Rules game played last December. The match was watched by 200-300 spectators and a dinner followed in the evening. Oxford won 15—8 to 6—3.

Tony Clarkson won the trophy for the best ruckman for Sturt last season.

Alan Hickinbotham a former State and South player has been elected president and chairman of his old club. He is interested in a new subdivision in connection with his business which is in the Norwood area and has obtained council permission for such names as Kerley Crescent, Kantilla Drive, Christie Court, Shaw Street, etc. This surely proves his loyalty beyond doubt.

At the annual meeting of the South Australian Amateur Football League the following were all re-elected—Clarrie Tideman (Treasurer and executive), Alan Statton (Secretary and executive), Max Basheer (Hon. Solicitor), Duncan Hendry (Chairman, umpire and permit committee).

Graham Coombe, appointed captain-coach of Crystal Brook last season at the age of 21, went on to take his team premiers. In addition he won "The Sunday Mail" medal for the best and fairest player in the Northern Areas' Association polling 33 votes out of a possible 45 (seven firsts and six seconds in 15 matches). Also at a Carnival held over a long week-end Graham tied for best player in the Carnival, and won the trophy for the best player in the Saturday game—altogether a very outstanding performance.

Miscellaneous

T. A. Walton (old scholar) and R. E. Hancock (present scholar) were members of the State team which competed in the Australian Life Saving Championships.

Herman Menz, who with his wife is on an extended trip overseas, and who has taken a lifelong interest in rowing both as a participant and administrator, has been re-elected president of the South Australian Rowing Association.

Peter Freeman continues to maintain top ranking in water skiing. He holds the State title and was third in the Australian Championships.

Members of the Walter family are very prominent in yachting circles in Victoria. John and his son Jock belong to the Brighton Club, Bob was at one time Rear-Commodore Somerton Yachting Club, Ray (known as Wally) has held the same flag at Royal Geelong Yachting Club and is currently Vice-Commodore. He extends a warm welcome to any Old Boy visiting Geelong to visit the Club.

Mr. K. W. R. Quinn has been elected President of the Adelaide Oval Bowling Club.

ATHLETIC CLUB

The main events contested during the past months were the Decathlon and State titles. John Tilbrook represented our club most ably by winning the Junior Decathlon and being placed fifth in the Senior.

In the State titles, seniors, P. Day, M. Skinner, B. Dyke and R. Hannaford won titles. Juniors, L. Cleland and P. Dalwood also won junior titles. The biggest upset was Rob Hannaford's win over Olympian G. Boase in the long jump. P.A.O.C. finished second, second, and fifth in the senior, junior and sub-junior titles respectively. Robin Day won the sub-junior long and triple jump titles. The above results are a remarkable effort for a club of our size.

On 27th March and 3rd April our teams enter the finals and it is hoped all who are interested in athletics will come and support them.

At the time of writing, the senior team has to win its sectional final to stay in "A" grade, whilst the junior team looks set not only for the minor premiership, but also for the title.

The new track at Kensington has given athletics a real face-lift and this club is rightly proud of the monetary contribution which it was able to make. A successful barbecue evening was held at Graham Evans' home in February and the Annual Dinner is to be held on 31st March.

NOTICE

THE SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

OF

PRINCE ALFRED OLD COLLEGIANS ATHLETICS CLUB

will be held at the home of Mr. R. B. Craven, 3 Eringa Avenue, Glenunga on MONDAY, JUNE 21, 1965, AT 7.45 P.M.

BUSINESS

1. To Receive the Annual Report and Financial Statement for Year 1964-65.
2. To elect Officers for the ensuing year.
3. Any other business that may arise.

By Order of the Committee.
GRAHAM D. EVANS, Secretary.

CRICKET CLUB

This season the Old Collegians' teams played in grades A1, A5 and A7 of the Adelaide Turf Cricket Association. The A1 and the A5 side each finished in seventh position, and the new A7 team fifth, on the premiership table. Colin Forrest, who was elected captain of the A7 side, did a magnificent job in leading this team in its first year. The club has also been fortunate in gaining many new players. In all, seventy-two players represented the club in matches during the season.

Although the A1 side did not do as well as in 1962-63 when it reached the semi-finals, it improved on last year's result when it finished tenth. Myles Fuller, the vice-captain of the side, had a good season in scoring 514 runs at an average of 34.3, and Phil Brown scored 331 runs at the good average of 47.1. Other batsmen to do well were Craig MacIntosh with an aggregate of 238, and Richard Blake with 177. Bob Shaughnessy again bowled well in taking 42 wickets, while Peter Barrett was most useful with 23. Bob Shaughnessy is to be congratulated on taking a hat trick in the first match.

The A5 team did not finish quite as high on the premiership table as last year, when it was fifth. This was partly due to losses by small margins. However, many good scores were made, including one total of over 300, and there were eight players in the team with a batting aggregate of over 100 runs, as against only 4 players last season. David Hassell had the best aggregate in the team with 333, while Craig MacIntosh also batted well with 254 runs at an average of 50.8, before he was promoted to the A1 side. The captain, Bill Alexander, with 252 runs was most consistent, and Mark Saddler, David Haynes, John Thredgold and Gavin Rundell were the other run-getters. Des Windebank was the chief wicket taker with forty victims, and he was well supported by David Compton with 25 wickets.

The A7 side did very well in its first year with 4 outright wins and 2 first innings wins to its credit. After Christmas many new players joined the club and revitalized this team, which won 5 of its last 6 matches and missed the four by only 4 points. Colin Forrest, with an aggregate of 277 runs and 36 wickets at an average of 6.0, had much to do with the success of this team. Others to do well with the bat were Des Speakman and Garry Searle, and Robert Smith with 100 not out in the first match. The bowling was the main strongpoint of this team. After Colin Forrest, Tom Moore was most successful with 29 wickets at an average of 7.9, and David Johnston, Garry Searle and Des Speakman also did well in a strong attack.

The Annual Dinner was again held at the Public Schools' Club on March 24 and was well attended by players and members. The association President, Mr. Bob Piper, was present, with Mr. Don Davies in the chair. Life membership certificates were presented to Dr. M. W. Evans, Messrs. C. Cosgrove, R. T. Smith, A. E. Norman, M. J. Doley, M. M. Wellington, L. Letcher and Peter Dalwood. Trophies were presented to Myles Fuller, Bob Shaughnessy, Phil Brown, David Hassell, Des Windebank, David Compton, Colin Forrest and David Smith.

Miles Fuller won the Grade A I aggregate with the very good total of 514.

The club would like to express its appreciation to the Headmaster and the School for their assistance and for the use of the School ovals and facilities, and also to all those who helped in many ways during the season. The Secretary of the Club is David Smith, 51 0301 (business), 3 3619 (private), who would be pleased to hear from any intending players for next season.

SQUASH CLUB

The Association Summer Competition major round has commenced and both E and I grade teams have entered the finals.

The club membership is ever increasing and the enthusiasm shown and support given by the younger players is most encouraging. A well-attended annual meeting was held at Peter Dalwood's home on 9th March last, when a satisfactory annual report and financial statement were tabled.

Once considered an expensive item the squash club is able to offer full playing membership including competition fees for a subscription of £3/10/0 to an old scholar under twenty-one years and studying. For those who are interested our home courts are at the Public Schools' Club, on the corner of East Terrace and Carrington Street, Adelaide, and the centre is available exclusively to P.A.O.C. Squash Club members from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday mornings. We extend a cordial invitation to anyone interested in joining.

We are entering six teams in the Winter Pennant Competition and several new players have indicated that they will form a team. Further information is available either from Mal Barton at 71 8058 or Peter Dalwood at 31 2497.

BASKETBALL CLUB

The Annual General Meeting was held at the home of Mr. Jim Lang on Monday, 1st March, and we would like to express our thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Lang for their hospitality. All offices of the club were filled and the fact that a ballot was necessary on several occasions augurs well for the future. We were pleased to welcome Mr. Bob Piper, President of the Association, who spoke to us briefly.

The Club has been successful in entering two teams in the winter competition and they will both play on Friday nights at the Bowden Stadium in B and F grades. Obviously more players are needed, and now that the game is firmly established at the School there should be a regular flow of recruits. A little support from the "Grandstand" on Friday evenings would be appreciated and would considerably boost morale.

Through the good offices of Mr. Geoff Woollard we have been able to arrange for regular practices to be held at the School on Thursday evenings at 6.30 p.m. commencing on 6th May.

At the time of writing this report the team playing in the summer competition (B grade series) has done quite well and still has a chance of making the four. In this connection Bob Frazer has strengthened the team enormously, and his height has often been a telling factor.

This year a social committee has been formed which it is hoped will be able to arrange functions. A welcome invitation is extended to any interested old scholar and further enquiries should be directed to either Mr. Geoff Woollard (71 8376) or Secretary Ian Shaw (49 6889).

FOOTBALL CLUB

The club's annual general meeting for 1965 was held at the Public Schools' Club on Wednesday, 10th February, and training under our new coach Doug Standley commenced the following Tuesday.

With fixture matches commencing on 24th April this year, two practice matches have been arranged—one against Payneham on 3rd April and one against our old rivals "The Blues" on 10th April.

Attendance at the early trainings (Park Lands School Oval) and the subsequent build-up in numbers as training progressed have been encouraging pointers to the success of the 1965 season—particularly as training commenced earlier this year than is usual.

Past experience with early season unfitness has brought about this early training schedule.

It is encouraging also to see the number of new Old Scholars on the track and it augurs well for the future of the club. Numbers are important as we will be fielding three teams in the Amateur League again.

The social committee was active early and a bucks' fishing day, organized on Sunday, 28th March, when a ketch load left Port Adelaide for a full day, was a great success.

Office bearers for the 1965 season are:

Patron, Mr. J. A. Dunning, O.B.E.; President, Mr. R. W. Piper; Chairman, Mr. N. A. Harris; Secretary, Leith Yelland (phone 7 5942); Treasurer, David Lloyd; Solicitor, Mr. R. W. Piper; Auditor, Mr. J. H. Stephens; Deputy Chairman of the Executive, Bill Johnson; Assistant Secretary, Peter Freburg; Coach, Doug Standley.

TOKENS

The Association now issues two official badges. The larger size which has a chain and bar attached costs 22/6, and the smaller size which has a pin attached is 12/6. Members are reminded that these tokens remain the property of the Association and are held by the member only for so long as he remains a member of the Association.

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL

Old scholars are reminded that copies of Mr. Ward's most interesting and valuable book of the first eighty years, 1867-1948, of Prince Alfred College are still available. No old scholar can afford to be without a copy of this excellent record. Copies bound in red cloth at £1/1/0 plus postage are available from the School bursar or the Association secretary.

ASSOCIATION TIES

Members are reminded that these are available from the Association office, 185 Melbourne Street, North Adelaide or J. Craven and Co. Ltd., Rundle Street, Adelaide. Prices are as follows—

Red woollen tie (with white stripes)	12/6
Navy Blue woollen tie with badge motif	27/6
Navy Blue silk tie with badge motif	27/6

CLOSE GOLF

This event will be played at the Grange Golf Club on Thursday, 10th June. Notices will be sent out to those members who have played previously. Any other interested member should forward his name to the Association office or to the convener Mr. Eric Cox, 58 Brandreth Street, Tusmore. (Telephones: Business 51 6861, Private 31 2380).

Close Bowls

The match was played at Toorak on Wednesday evening, 10th March, and followed last year's innovation with the Headmaster's team playing against the President's team. The attendance was excellent and the weather very kind. At the close of play the scores showed that the President's team had again been successful by 11 rinks to 7. (It probably should be recorded that the Headmaster set his side a good example by winning a close match 17 to 15.) Supper, as usual, was served in the Club House, and the President, Mr. Bob Piper, thanked Toorak for allowing the match to be played there. He said this was a very popular event and had now been played at Toorak for many years. Mr. Piper also thanked the ladies (convened by his wife) for the excellent supper arrangements, and the organizers of the evening, Messrs. Jack Gerard and Robert Craven. Toorak President Mr. Herman Hoffman, who was a member of the Headmaster's rink, in responding said it was always a pleasure to have the match played there, and the club looked forward to having us there again next year. Very appropriately and kindly he also took the opportunity of congratulating Mr. Dunning on being awarded the O.B.E. in the New Year Honours, which he said had been well merited and gave pleasure to members both of this Association and his Club. He said the Club had always had a good number of Old Scholar members, and in fact he thought that consideration might be given to reserving the south-east corner of the dining room for them. (For those who know the building, this had a significant meaning) The President then presented four Association ties to the rink which had won by the greatest margin. They were Lance Burton, Sam Ford, David Rowe, Ken Babidge, and their winning margin was 21, scores being 31-10. As is traditional, they were "ordered" by the President to report for kitchen duties immediately, and it should be recorded that they did a very good job. David Rowe fortunately managed to catch all cups, saucers, and plates "thrown" to him or at him, for stacking away in the cupboard. It would seem, however, that there must be a safer way of transferring crockery from one side of the kitchen to the other. At the start of the evening a number of changes had to be made because some members, after having notified their intentions of playing, just failed to turn up. Whilst it is realized that there would no doubt be good reasons in most cases, some effort should be made either to notify the organizers or better still to provide a substitute.

Bowls v. Saints

This match was played at South Park on Wednesday evening, 3rd February, when the weather, though a little cold, was quite pleasant, and the greens as good as ever. Supper was served in the Club House for the ladies prior to the finish of the match, and it should be noted that they are very welcome at this event. As the first scores came in Saints took a handy lead, but a good win by Len Clarkson's rink retrieved the position, and from then on we ran to a handy lead and eventually won 277 points to 226. (Rink wins were eight to Princes, three to Saints, and one drawn.) In addition the usual two committee rinks were played with each side winning a game. Supper was served on the verandah, and during this time Mr. Keith Sims (Chairman of Saints) presented the Lucy Shield to Mr. Bob Piper, President of Princes. In congratulating Princes on their victory he referred to their "shaky" start, and said Saints would certainly be challenging next year. He also mentioned an apology from Mr. Bill Richards, the Club President, and thanked Messrs. Keith Gibbs (Club Secretary), and Andy Mitchell (Club Treasurer for their help during the evening. He also thanked South Park for having us once again, their staff for helping towards the success of the evening, and the conveners Mr. Maurice Brown (Saints) and Dr. Mervyn Evans (Princes), and called for three cheers for Princes. Mr. Piper, in responding, said Princes were very pleased to have retained the Shield and to have won the first of the 1965 Old Scholars "intercolls". He endorsed the various votes of thanks offered by Mr. Sims and said he hoped to see everyone there again next year. Princes then gave three cheers for Saints.

ASSOCIATION BLAZERS

Blazers are obtainable by members of this Association, but a certificate of membership must be obtained from the Association Secretary.

NOTICE — WESTERN AUSTRALIAN MEMBERS

We are most anxious to know the name and address of the person who recently sent an obituary notice, plus a letter addressed to "The Editor, Prince Alfred College Chronicle". It would seem that the same member has sent previous correspondence. His letters have been interesting and helpful, but unfortunately on all occasions he has not signed his letters nor stated his address—Secretary.

SCHOOL ETCHING

After persistent enquiries from members for some years, the Association has at last been able to purchase a limited number of excellent prints. The original by Mr. John Goodchild shows the historical centre building and the first two wings. The old pavilion is also sighted and so the whole drawing is of considerable historical value. The cost to members is £5/5/0 and copies may be obtained from the Association office.
