Editorial

Academic knowledge is the most obvious product of any school career, so much so that it can easily be associated with one's entire idea of 'school', and even occupy one's concept of 'education'. Although a valuable and necessary tool in itself, classroom knowledge should never be, or need to be, such a vital part of a boy's education that it leaves him with little or no leisure time. Indeed, rare is the boy who has any intention of allowing such a state of affairs to exist.

There are varied reasons held by boys in their own minds for attending school. Most want to pass the examinations necessary for entrance into a promising career. Some seek knowledge for its own sake; almost without exception they want a good time at school, and seek companionship with their fellows. There are, however, two other important qualities in life which a school education should bring out. It should train boys to accept the responsibility of fitting into society and becoming worthwhile members of it. Also, however, it should teach young people to be individual in their thoughts and actions, and to make decisions about their beliefs and ideals for themselves.

Let me elaborate a little on this idea of individualism. In such a vast society as ours, where everyone—schoolboy or adult—comes into contact with many people, and is frequently tossed this way and that by the changing patterns of fashion and current ideas, it is very easy to lose one's sense of being an individual, and of having a right to act and think as one pleases. It is important to society, as well as to oneself, that such a loss should not occur, for our community receives its vitality from the fact that every member is free to think what he likes, and say what he likes. This is the fundamental concept of freedom of speech. Hence it is important that we do not lose our individual ideas in our efforts to keep up with the person next door.

To be an individual in the true sense of the word, it is necessary that we be capable of independent thought, belief and, more particularly, independent action. Whether our actions are in line with those of society, or not, may be entirely beside the point. One does not have to be radical, or different from society, to be an individual, but one does have to resist the temptation to follow the crowd without thinking.

The second quality which a school education should bring out is the ability to be a worthwhile part of society; the school should show its pupils their best means of bringing this about. Each member of our community, though he be an individual, has a responsibility to play his part in society. To become an active and worthwhile part of a community is one of the hardest tasks we face in life: it involves not only remaining on good terms with one's daily associates—and this is hard enough—but also making full use of one's gifts in the community.

In a school such as Prince Alfred College, we are fortunate in having many facilities to encourage boys to become responsible citizens. The large number of extra-curricular activities, from which boys may virtually make a choice, ensures that every boy can take part in several activities outside his school course. Participation in scouts or cadets, for example, is a particularly valuable way of training oneself to accept the responsibilities involved in leading or following, as one is required. All forms of inter-school competition enable a boy to give of his best when it is required of him, and to show loyalty to his fellows.

It is interesting to note that all the above examples are normally termed 'by-products' of school life. In this way, however, they can become part of the training which ultimately leads to the ideal product of a school career, a boy who, recognizing that he is an individual, is capable of accepting the responsibilities involved in becoming a part of the community.

School Notes

Under the terms of the Act of Incorporation of the College, the President of the Methodist Conference is the President of the College. We congratulate Rev. P. N. Potter upon his election as President of the Conference, and we trust that he will enjoy his year as President of Prince Alfred College. We welcome Rev. M. C. Trenorden and Rev. K. Smith to the College Council, and regret that Rev. G. T. Inglis and Rev. V. R. Secombe found it necessary to resign. We thank Mr Inglis and Mr Secombe for all that they did for the College.

The number on the school roll in the first term is 918 with 662 in the Senior School and 256 in the Preparatory. There are 146 boarders in School House and 22 in the Preparatory School. Eight of those living at the Preparatory School are fourth form boys.

At the end of the year, we said farewell to Miss Whysall of the Senior School staff and Mrs Symons and Mr Hewlett of the Preparatory School staff. Earlier in the year, Mr Crawford had left on extended leave to gain experience overseas. Mr Steele has retired from full-time teaching, but will assist us in a part-time capacity.

New members of the staff this year are Mr J. M. Mills whom we welcome back to P.A.C. and who has recently been teaching in Northern Nigeria, Mr B. W. Bryant, for many years senior chemistry master at Neath Grammar School, Wales, and Mr D. Stratford from the State Education Department in the Senior School, and Mr D. Wilkinson and Mrs Ludbrook in the Preparatory School.

Examination results are dealt with in another part of this issue. Results were again generally of a high standard, but it is not possible to compare them with those of recent years owing to the change in the award of certificates at both intermediate and leaving standard, and the change from leaving honours to matriculation. We congratulate R. E. W. Hancock and D. K. Barrie on gaining places on the matriculation General Honours List.

Commonwealth Secondary Scholarships are no longer awarded on the marks gained in the intermediate examination but on the results of an examination held in July and conducted by the Australian Council of Educational Research. Thirty boys were awarded these scholarships in 1966.

We are very proud of our new swimming pool, which was completed early in the first term and is said to be one of the most modern and best school pools in Australia. It was completed at a cost of almost $50,000 and already it has proved its value not only in the increased efficiency of our work in lifesaving and swimming but also in the pleasure it has given the boys. All are most indebted to Mr Woollard for his great interest and assistance while the pool was being built and for his instruction of the boys now that it has been completed.

The President-General of the Methodist Conference of Australasia, Rev. C. F. Gribble, addressed the school at morning assembly on Monday, 6 March.

Many old boys and friends of the school heard with great sorrow of the death of Mrs Mitchell, widow of the late Mr Norman Mitchell, master in charge of the Preparatory school from 1936 until his death in 1948. During this period, she had shown a tremendous interest in the welfare of the Preparatory school boys, and many fathers of present boys are extremely grateful to Mrs Mitchell for the way in which she helped them.

We heard with regret of the death in March of Dr Phoebe Chapple. She was a member of the very distinguished family of P.A.C.'s headmaster for thirty-nine years from 1876 to 1914, Mr F. J. Chapple and Mrs Chapple, and was the last surviving member of the family.

A very welcome and honoured visitor to the school on 5 April was Sir Edmund Hillary who was accompanied by Lady Hillary. They kept the school from form I C to upper sixth enthralled with their story of their experiences with the Sherpas and their work to help these people.

We record with gratitude gifts in memory of three boarders who lost their lives in an air crash on New Year's Day 1966. Mr and Mrs D. G. Radford have endowed a prize to be known as 'The David and Bill Radford Memorial Prize'. This will be awarded to the winner of the Scripture Prize in Form III LE. Mr and Mrs J. Daniel have made a substantial donation towards the cost of a new four which will be completed by October. It is to be known as 'Little Squeak', the nick-name by which their son Peter was affectionately known by the boarders and particularly by rowing boys who remember him as a very cheerful, perky and competent coxswain.

Unfortunately the photographs of the 1966 Head of the River crew and of the athletics team were omitted from the October issue of the Chronicle. These have been included in the present issue.

The 1966 intercollegiate cricket match ended in a draw for the third year in succession. The St Peter's College eleven was stronger in all departments, batting, bowling and fielding, but generally the batting of both sides lacked aggression for most of the game.

The first of the 1967 events was the tennis, where we had a narrow win by 8 rubbers 20 sets to 8 rubbers 18 sets, after having been down 6 rubbers to 8 at one stage.

The 1966 scholarships at matriculation (formerly leaving honours) standard were awarded as follows: John Dunn, R. E. W. Hancock; E. B. Colton, D. K. Barrie; Old Collegians, B. V. Hocking; John Colton, C. J. Hamilton; Longbottom, T. P. Finnegan; Malpas, R. J. Hall.

Our two 1966 American Field Service Scholars are now at schools in U.S.A., W. S. De Garis in Connecticut and P. A. Heywood Smith in Oklahoma. They plan to return to P.A.C. about the end of July. G. C. Fergusson, an upper sixth boy in 1966, has been awarded a scholarship and will go to America in July.

The report on the Ward Library tells of the great use that is now being made of it and of the ever-increasing number of books on its shelves. We thank the many friends of the school who help us from time to time with gifts to the Library. We are once more indebted to the New South Wales branch of the Old Collegians Association who forwarded us Colin Simpson's latest book, 'The Viking Circle'. This branch has now a firm policy of donating a book whenever they hold a social function.

The College recently purchased 18 Capper Street and now owns all the main block except two properties in Capper Street.

Annual School Service

Last year the Kent Town Methodist Church was again filled to capacity for the Annual School Service held on 11th December, 1966. Following an organ recital by M. A. Waters, the School Choir, under the direction of Mr. Rolland May, Mus.Bac., opened the service with an interesting version of the Lord's Prayer, set to a West Indian folk tune. Rev. R. K. Waters, BA., then conducted a service which differed markedly from those of previous years in that it was enhanced by a considerable number of responsive verses and prayers. The choir again treated the congregation to an excellent rendition of "Christmas Day" by Gustav Holst, after which the lesson, Luke 4: 1 - 15, was read by Michael Gray, the Captain of the School. Here follows the Headmaster's address, which was based on a portion of one of the services used daily by the School at Morning Assembly.

This year I am going to speak on our daily assembly services in general, and then on a portion of one of the orders of service in particular. For many years we used a small book with ten orders of service. The prayers and collects in them were mainly well-known ones from the Book of Common Prayer. It was our custom to have service number 1 on the first day of term and then to take them in order. Unless a holiday intervened, we would have service number 1 every second Tuesday and so on. Boys knew which service to expect and many would have their books open at the right place before the chaplain announced the number of the service.

There was perhaps no great harm in this, but I have an idea it was rather like meals in a boarding house, a boarding school or a residential college, losing some of their savour if there is a regular menu week by week—thus, for breakfast, sausages every Tuesday, baked beans every Wednesday, scrambled eggs every Thursday, fish cakes every Friday, and so on.

Many parts of the service were not in simple or modern English. How many boys in the past two decades have repeated at least sixty or seventy times the collect in service number 9 commencing 'Prevent us, O Lord, in all our doings with Thy most gracious favour . . .'. And have left school not knowing the meaning of 'prevent' in this context.

In all, it did seem there was room for improvement in the services in order to lessen the formality and monotony, and to make them more personal and more vital. This year our chaplain added ten new orders of service and so we now have twenty in all. The additional services have more responsive prayers than the original ones and they are expressed in simpler and more modern English. For some years we have used the Revised Standard Version of the Bible in preference to the Authorised Version and I know the simpler and more modern wording of the former has much to commend it as far as use in schools is concerned.

The new orders of service have a more direct application to the conditions and problems with which young people have to contend these days. They are not used in rotation nor in any set order —at least I have not yet been able to discover the system employed by Mr Waters in deciding on the service to be used on any one day. I do think that the change has added much to our morning devotions.

A few weeks ago we had service number 17. It struck me then that a portion of the service could well serve as the basis of my address this evening. It is part of the responsive prayer that is presented for use later in this service. It seems to me that it should have a special significance for the boys whose school days are coming to a close.

The chaplain will say to us, 'Let us think about Jesus and the lives we have to live'.

We shall respond, 'O God we live in a busy world where it is not always easy to remember Thee.'

I would ask you all, both old and young, to consider whether this reply does not reflect the attitude of many of us when we are confronted with some proposition in connection with the Church or the building up of the Kingdom of God.

Through the ages, I rather suspect that man has always thought that he was living in a busy world and that he was leading a very busy life. Early man was so busy hunting to obtain food for himself and his family that he left all the daily chores and the hard work to his wife who, too, thought she was busy. Certainly we, in these modern days, think we are very busy. 'The rat race', as it is called, is on in so many walks of life.

But I wonder if we are really as busy as we think we are. Auto-suggestion can play a big part in our thinking. It is so easy, if we really wish it, to convince ourselves that something is true. Listen to what Chaucer had to say almost 600 years ago of the Man of Law:

'No-wher so busy a man as he ther nas
And yet he seemed busier than he was.'

So before taking this line of leading so busy a life, first of all, let us examine ourselves carefully to see if we really are as busy as we think we are.

We hear much these days of the extra leisure time available to man now, and the even greater amount that will be available in the future. This is true, if we consider the terms of industrial awards, but I do not think that is the full story. In these days of great prosperity, with its attendant ready mobility, the supposedly leisure hours are often so fully employed, so hectic and rushed and so tiring that after the week-end, many return to their normal work on Monday less rested than when they knocked off work on the Friday afternoon. Let us face up to it squarely. Is not much of the extremely busy nature of our lives that prevents us serving our Lord, as is promised for us at our baptism and as we promised in our confirmation, really a self-inflicted wound? We are really doing what suits our selfish selves.

I do hope that those who are leaving school will join up into one of the many excellent charitable or other worthy organizations which do much for the less fortunate members of society, whether it be locally or in under-developed lands overseas. I must add that I hope that you will do more than join up in a group; that you will work enthusiastically for it, displaying the same enthusiasm as you would if you were a devotee, say, of golf or of surfing, or of football, or of pop-music.

Dead wood among its members is one of the curses of many organizations, even as it is of many a Christian Church.

But let your enthusiasm be balanced. Do not be deluded into thinking that your work for this society or for that club or lodge is in any way a real substitute for an interest, an active and enthusiastic interest in your church. Think again, I say, of what so many of you promised as you were confirmed into church membership.

Let us, however, face the fact that there do come periods in our lives when we really are so busy that we do not know where to turn. At these times let us have as our example, Lord Astley, one of the Royalist leaders in the Battle of Edgehill. His prayer on the morning of the battle has been used and quoted so often:

'O Lord, Thou knowest how busy I must be this day. If I forget Thee, do not Thou forget me.'

To end this section let us think, too, of the story of Martha and Mary. Remember how Jesus replied to Martha, who had asked, 'Dost thou not care that Mary hath left me to serve alone? Bid her, therefore, that she help me.' Jesus answered, 'Martha, Martha, thou art careful and troubled about many things. But one thing is needful. Mary hath chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her.'

The next response is: 'We shall be tempted to believe that the power of evil is stronger than the power of good', and to this the chaplain replies, 'And so was Jesus'.

Tonight the Captain of the School has read to us the story of Jesus being tempted in the wilderness. This was at the commencement of Christ's ministry. He had gone in solitude to the wilderness to decide on the course he should take and the alternatives he must reject. The story presents this spiritual struggle most dramatically. He overcame the wiles of the devil and did not yield to the temptations. He had fought his way through the choices and he saw that even those things which had at first seemed good were really the whispers of evil.

Our Lord was not henceforth free from temptation. Right until his death on Calvary, he was tempted even as we are, but, unlike us, he was not a victim of human frailty.

Temptations come to all of us in a multitude of ways. At no time in life will they be as many and as varied and as insidious in their nature as they are in those first few years when the ties of home are relaxed and those of school ended, in the years when you boys grow to manhood, and girls to womanhood.

Those of you who go to the University will be told that God is a myth, that to be a Christian is old-fashioned. In all walks of life you will be told that chastity is out of date. You will be told that to be a man you must join the boys and partake frequently and freely of alcohol in one form or another. You will be told that it is not a sin to break many of the rules of life you have been brought up to observe, that it only becomes a sin when you are found out.

Bear well in mind the first lines of a couple of hymns that were so well known in evangelistic missions earlier this century, though they do not appear in our Methodist Hymn Book. First—

'Yield not to temptation, for yielding is sin,
Each victory will help you some others to win.'

How true it is that when you have vanquished a temptation once, it is not quite so difficult the next time.

The other—

'Dare to be a Daniel,
Dare to stand alone,
Dare to have a purpose firm,
Dare to make it known.'

When you dare to stand alone, you will not be looked upon as an oddity by any of your friends whose opinion is worth considering, rather will you go up in the estimation of those people.

Now to the third response:

'We shall walk in the midst of crowds who think that only material things are real.'

A Chinese writer twenty-five or more years ago made great sport of the Western standards that could not conceive of anyone being happy unless he owned a radio, unless he could sit in a collapsible and adjustable chair to get his hair cut, unless he could touch electric buttons and switches for almost everything. But you cannot measure a man's happiness or civilization by the number of mechanical buttons he presses each day. (What would this writer have thought of life in our Western countries today?) Though there is no need for me to tell you how great a store is placed on material wealth.

Year by year the various media of communication are exerting a greater and greater influence on the life of our community. We cannot estimate the power of what we read in the press, what we hear on the radio, what we hear and see on the TV, in moulding our way of life today. Much is thus done for the good of mankind, but I fear that, as far as the youth of this country is concerned, the evil in some cases outweighs the good. I warn the young people that never before have they been subjected to such subtle and insidious pressures as they are in many of the advertisements appearing in or on these media. They cannot but give the pliable mind an altogether false sense of values.

Many advertisements suggest that happiness can be bought by having only the best in motor cars, the best in pleasure boats, the best in clothing, the best in cigarettes, the best in wines, the best in hair spray, and so on ad infinitum. Attempts are being made, and often with success, to use modern industry, modern business and modern science to build up a civilization which would ruthlessly brush spiritual values aside. Many would have us believe that the only worth-while values in life are those that can be turned into cash. It is suggested that schools should train boys to accept these standards, as courses are planned to prepare boys for this material world, culture and religion being thrown more and more into the background.

But can we free our churches from criticism in this regard? Do not churches tend to measure their success or failure too much in terms of church attendance or too much in terms of the state of the finances of the church, or of the progress made in a stewardship appeal. As someone has expressed it in the spiritual life it is quality not quantity that counts.

And what of our schools? Is not too great a stress placed on academic and sporting successes and too little on what the school has done for character of the boys who leave the school? Mind you I am not saying that study and sport are not important, and very often success in them indicates that a school is doing a good job in producing young men of character.

We of the Christian faith must bear this in mind. Communism has no chance of getting great support in a country like ours with its prosperity, its high standard of living and its strength in the material things of life. Let us face the facts squarely that such an ideology must have an appeal to the undernourished, the underclothed, to those lacking what we consider the bare necessities of life. The counter to Communism is the Christian way of life, but what are we as a professedly Christian nation, what are we in the churches doing to show these people this way of life?

Remember the words of our Lord concerning material riches, 'Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, for where your treasure is there will your heart be also', or what we read in Proverbs: 'Better is little with the fear of the Lord than great treasure and trouble therewith.'

Time allows me to say only a few words on the fourth response.

'We may be disappointed by some in whom we put our trust.'

How disappointed Jesus must have been from time to time, and how he must have been grieved!

You will be disappointed from time to time to a greater or less degree by friends in whom you have put your trust. Let me turn it from the passive to the active. Beware lest you disappoint your friends who have put their trust in you. As you go through life, do not cause pain, and anguish to your parents, and particularly your mother. Before yielding to temptation, do think and think again of the agony any foolish and sinful deeds of yours will cause your loved ones. Unfortunately it is only as a person grows older that he realizes the debt he owes to his mother and the pain he often caused her, and by the time this happens, it is often too late to do anything about it. Do not be deceived into thinking that nobody will be disappointed because no one will find out. Our Heavenly Father, who must suffer disappointment when any of his children fall, knows all about our sins, even if our loved ones do not.

I read recently (but I can't remember who said it), that what really matters in a sermon is not whether people think it is a good address that has kept them interested, but what is taken away as a result of it. May I in all modesty hope that by dealing with something occurring in one of our orders of service two things will happen. The first is that the boys returning to school may think more frequently of the meaning of what is said in our morning devotions and not repeat the words idly. The second is that all of us, and particularly those leaving school, will find time to think about Jesus and the lives we have to live, no matter if our lives be busy, if we be tempted to believe in the power of evil, or of material things, or if we are disappointed in our friends.

Speech Day

The school year 1966 was brought to a close by Speech Day at which His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir Edric Bastyan, K.C.M.G., K.C.V.O., K.B.E., C.B., Governor of South Australia, was with us to present the prizes. Proceedings began with prayer which was offered by the School Chaplain, Rev. R. K. Waters, B.A. The President of Conference, Rev. P. N. Potter, L.Th., then spoke briefly and introduced the Captain of the School, M. L. Gray, who gave his report on the year's sporting activities.

The Headmaster, Mr. J. A. Dunning, O.B.E., M.A., M.Sc., M.A.C.E., presented his report for the year on the work of the School and then invited His Excellency to speak.

Sir Edric told the School that he and Lady Bastyan wanted to help young people because they believed in them and that he hoped to leave something with the boys which would be of help to them as they grew old, something proved by his own experience to be good and sound. He therefore passed on a piece of advice given to him in his youth at a chance meeting, advice which urged him to cultivate sports that could be played with few others and to build up a store of personal interests to occupy the leisure of later days. He stressed the importance of three valuable things in life: work, sport and leisure, reminding us that work and sport are complementary in developing responsibility and discipline and that the man who, in his leisure time, had nothing to do was to be pitied but was dishonest with himself, as he had never bothered to interest himself or to establish special fields of activity for his relaxation and contentment when work and play were not involved.

After the prizes and scholarships had been distributed, Mr B. A. Fricker, President of the Old Collegians Association, proposed a vote of thanks to His Excellency and presented him with a volume of superb colour prints of paintings by Mr Ivor Hele, the artist responsible for the portrait of the Headmaster which the School Council had recently commissioned and which His Excellency did the School the honour of unveiling before he left the hall.

THE HEADMASTER'S REPORT

Mr President, Your Excellency, Ladies and Gentlemen.

I have the honour to present the ninety-eighth annual report on the work of the School.

I would first, on behalf of all at Prince Alfred College, extend a very warm welcome to Your Excellency and Lady Bastyan. We would assure you, the honoured representative of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II in this State, of our loyalty to her. We are honoured by your presence not only because you represent Her Majesty, but also because you and Lady Bastyan are rendering such signal service to South Australia. We are particularly mindful of your great interest in the young people of this State. If I may speak on a personal note, I should like you to know, Sir, how much I have appreciated the clear and straightforward messages that you give to your young listeners whenever you address them.

The number on the school roll at the beginning of the year was 884. Of these 637 were in the Senior and 247 in the Preparatory School. The number of boarders was 158.

Examination results at the end of last year were pleasing. At the leaving stage, no fewer than thirty-six boys gained Commonwealth University Scholarships with three, D. K. Barrie, B. V. Hocking and D. A. Sandow, gaining A passes in all six subjects. The intermediate group was not as strong as in some years though M. R. Raupach had A passes in nine, and N. G. Martin in eight subjects. Twenty boys were awarded Commonwealth Secondary Scholarships, intermediate exhibitions and continuation exhibitions. At Leaving Honours, J. H. Loxton gained second place, and D. F. Cooper seventh place on the General Honours List.

This year boys in the upper sixth forms have taken the new matriculation examination. I would prefer to wait until we have had further experience of the course before passing judgement on it. When a major change such as this is introduced, I think that there is nearly always need, in the first two or three years, for a certain amount of adjustment in the syllabus and in the type of paper set in at least some of the subjects. I feel confident that with co-operation between the Universities and the Schools these adjustments will be made.

The leaving examination no longer serves a very useful purpose for boys of reasonably good academic ability who are returning to school for the matriculation year. This year fifty of our boys from the A and B streams did not enter for the examination and these have made a start on their matriculation work during the last five or six weeks of the school year.

The big change for intermediate boys is that Commonwealth Secondary Two-Year Scholarships are no longer awarded on the results of the PEB examination, but largely, though not entirely, upon tests given in July by the Australian Council of Educational Research. The results have just been announced and our boys gained thirty scholarships, twenty-seven from the A and three from the B form. This is less than the 1964 but greater than the 1965 figure, and it seems that the new method has not had a great effect on the number we gain. However, we were disturbed by the fact that two very diligent and quite able students who were tenth and seventeenth in our A form in the final school examinations were not successful. On the other side of the story, there are boys who have so much innate ability that they were successful despite the fact that, if I am to believe what I read in their reports, their school record recently has been notable not for their industry but for their lack of it. I do hope that such boys are not encouraged to think that future examinations can be passed in a similar way.

Mr R. J. Jones, Mr R. D. Willcocks and Mr J. G. Bowden, all men with a wide experience of teaching, joined the staff at the commencement of the year. Mr G. J. Crawford left at the end of July on leave of absence and he will spend two years gaining further experience in England. We say farewell today to Miss Whysall from the Senior School and Mrs Symons and Mr Hewlett from the Preparatory School, and I would thank them for all that they have done for this school. To fill the vacancies in the Senior School, we shall welcome next year, Mr W. I. Bryant, a highly qualified chemistry master from Neath Grammar School in Wales, Mr J. M. Mills a former member of our staff who is returning from Nigeria and Mr D. Stratford from the State Department who had a fine all-round record when he was at the Teachers College. Mr Wilkinson from the staff of Scotch College and Mrs Ludbrook who helped us for a short time some years ago in a relieving capacity will come to the Preparatory School.

Mr J. S. Steele after forty-four years of service is retiring from full-time teaching but he has agreed to help us in a part-time capacity next year.

While speaking of the staff, I cannot let this occasion pass without a reference to Mr T. G. Luke. He attended this school in 1917 and 1918 and was appointed to the Staff as a junior master at the commencement of the next year. This means that today he is completing fifty years of continuous active connection with Prince Alfred College, two as a pupil and forty-eight as a master.

Early in the year, Mr M. J. A. Staggs, I.S.O., M.B.E., who had been bursar for eighteen years retired from the Staff. He had carried out his duties with the utmost courtesy, patience and efficiency. After his retirement Mr and Mrs Staggs left for a tour overseas, and I think they are now in Perth on their return journey. Our new Bursar, is Mr J. R. Stewart who joined our staff in October 1965 as assistant to Mr Staggs. Two other faithful and valued members of the staff, Mrs G. McDonald and Mrs Minke left at the end of second term. Mrs McDonald had given devoted service as sister in charge of the sick room for eleven years. Mrs Minke's ready help in the Bursar's office over two periods of service had won the appreciation of Staff and boys alike. We welcome Mrs. McKenzie as sister in charge of the sick room.

The outstanding event this year has been the Centenary Building Fund Appeal. After much preliminary work in 1965, the Appeal was launched in February. In June, at the close of the intensive phase $415,000 had been given or promised and the present total is $441,000. The centenary will be celebrated early in 1969, when it is planned to open a new class room block in the Senior School, another in the Preparatory School and a new Boarding House. The thanks of the College are extended to all old boys, parents and friends who have supported the Appeal and also to all those who worked so hard to ensure the success of the Appeal. When so many did so much, it is perhaps invidious to single out some for mention, but I am sure others will forgive me if I thank especially Mr Alan W. Crompton, the general Chairman of the Appeal Committee and Mr C. R. Kelly, the Chairman of the country districts and interstate committee, whom we congratulate on his well earned elevation to the position of Commonwealth Minister of Works.

A significant point in the opinion survey conducted prior to the launching of the Centenary Appeal was the number of replies indicating that so many parents and others considered one of our great needs was a modern swimming pool. This could not be included in the Centenary project as rather surprisingly, donations for such a purpose are not allowable deductions for income tax purposes. The College Council, therefore, decided to proceed immediately with plans for the construction of a pool. It is now being built on the Young Street frontage at a cost of $45,000 and is well on the way to completion.

In recent years we have done well in both swimming and lifesaving but arranging suitable facilities for training has been becoming more and more difficult. Mr Woollard and his helpers will certainly appreciate the altered conditions in 1967.

When school resumed in February, the old Chemistry Lecture Room and Junior Laboratory had been completely transformed and they are now very well suited for the modern approach to the teaching of science. We thank the Commonwealth Government for their gift of $10,000 towards the cost of the alterations and of $6,000 for scientific equipment.

I do not intend this year to depart from my usual custom of making my report mainly a record of what has happened in the school during the previous twelve months. However, it seems to me that more and more is happening each year in the life of the school and time does not permit me to give an account of all the activities or to pay tribute to all who keep the school machine running. You will find much of this information in the two issues of the Chronicle.

Prince Alfred College suffered a great loss in the death, on the Thursday of Old Boys' week, of Mr David Waterhouse, O.B.E. I have no hesitation in naming him as one of our greatest Old Boys, and from the time I came to know him well, I regarded him as one of the greatest men it has been my privilege to know. A past President of the Old Collegians' Association, he was Honorary Secretary of the College Council for twenty-one years from 1933 to 1954. His work was an invaluable contribution to the welfare of the School during first a period of difficulty and then of prosperity. Earlier this year, he honoured the School by becoming Patron of the Centenary Building Fund Appeal.

We record with gratitude a legacy left to the School by the late Mrs Cassie Sampson, whose only son, Kingsley Sampson, Captain of School House in 1938, lost his life while serving with the RAAF. The legacy left by her daughter, the late Miss Joyce Sampson, subject to a life interest of her mother, now becomes available. Another legacy, that left by the late Mr F. W. Patchell, also became available upon the death of his sister.

I have on many occasions paid tribute to the excellence of the teaching staff, and I make no apology for stressing once again how fortunate PAC is in the men and women who guide and instruct the boys. I think it may fairly be said that our scholastic record and our academic record are good, but what matters most is the way the boys are taught and the way they are coached, and that is where I think PAC boys are fortunate. As I move about in this City and in many parts of the State, I am delighted to hear from old boys glowing words of appreciation of those who have taught them, whether it be in the lower or upper grades, in the Preparatory School or in the Secondary. Young men making good at the University tell me how much they owe to the masters who gave them sound foundations on which to build, cricketers Ian and Greg Chappell, and footballers Robert Day and Peter Darley, tell of what they owe to the coaching received here, young men in all walks of life tell of the influence of our Chaplains, the late Rev. C. J. Perry and Rev. R. K. Waters, on their lives, and I could go on giving examples. I dare say that all headmasters have problems from time to time, but I have been indeed blessed in being headmaster of a school where the members of the teaching staff both in the Senior School and the Preparatory School have been so efficient, so loyal and so friendly. I do indeed thank them.

I must thank also all who have in any way helped the School, or helped me in 1966—clerical, ground and domestic staff, parents and boys, old scholars and friends of the school. This has been a very busy year for the College Council and particularly so for members of the finance sub-committee and the building and grounds committee, and I am extremely grateful to members of the Council for what they have done for the School and for me personally.

In conclusion, to the boys who are leaving, may I wish you well in the years to come, and may I wish you all a Merry Christmas and a good 1967.

The Centenary Building Fund Appeal

It will be remembered that the intensive phase of the appeal was conducted during the first half of 1966. At the conclusion of this phase, a follow-on committee was appointed and its members have been meeting regularly.

Further contributions and promises have brought the fund total to $440,795 and this total is increasing steadily. Those who have contributed will be kept informed of the progress of the Appeal and of developments in the building programme in Bulletins which will be issued from time to time.

At present, the building sub-committee of the College Council with Dr M. W. Evans as chairman is meeting regularly and frequently with the architect, Mr Colin Hassell of Hassell, McConnell and Partners, and the Headmaster, to discuss preliminary plans for the projected senior school classrooms and administration building, the new house for boarders and the Preparatory classroom block. Present plans are for these buildings to be completed by the end of next year.

Mr Don Davies is the chairman of the follow-on committee, and he expresses the hope that any friend of the School who has not been approached and who wishes to make a contribution, be it small or large, to the appeal will get in touch with him or with a member of his committee or with the Appeal Office which is at the School, telephone 63 2315 or 63 2316.

The Ward Library

It is very interesting to note the use being made by the students of the reference section of the Ward Library this year. We have purchased many new and valuable text books in every subject, but the waiting lists never seem to grow less. Borrowers are very meticulous in returning overnight books promptly, and in recording their loans faithfully. Our system is working well, as not one of these text books disappeared from the shelves last year.

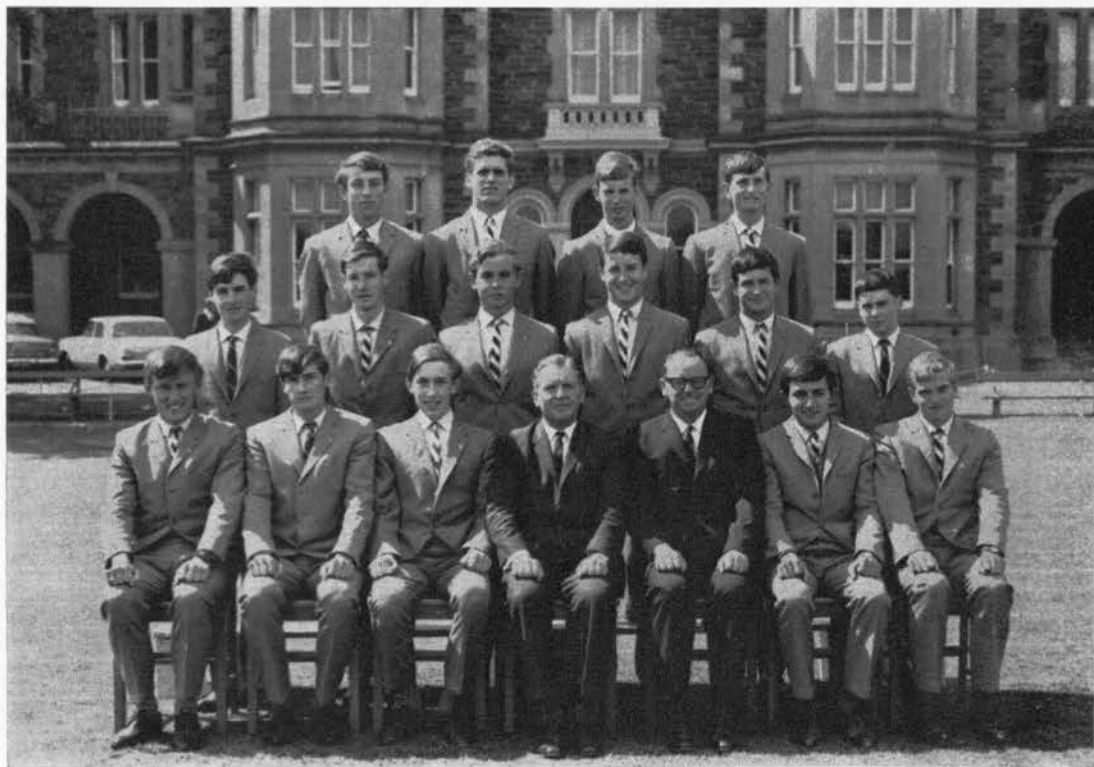

The four fourth forms have been instructed in the use of the library, and enjoyed the questionnaire and searching for books for themselves, investigating the card index and reasoning out the Dewey system.

Last year we discarded 170 books, all of which were worn out or obsolete. This continual weeding out keeps down our total, but we now have 5,293 volumes, and 84 magazine subscriptions. Nearly 6,000 books were borrowed in 1966 and although this is quite good, it could be much better, as we have a wonderful library, and the opportunities to use it should not be lost.

Some new books added recently include—'The Bayeux Tapestry', Denny; 'Australia's Pearl Harbour', Lockwood; 'Ayer's Rock', Mountford; 'My Brother Jack', Johnston; 'The Art of Hans Heysen', Dridan; 'South Australia Year Book', 'Profile of Australia', McGregor; 'Going to Meet The Man', Baldwin; and 'We built our own Computers', Bolt. We wish to extend our thanks for all book donations, including a wonderful gift from J. M. Higgins, Esq. 'The Voyage to Terra Australis', by Matthew Flinders.

Thanks to Mr J. Duff, our master-in-charge, and the library monitors—M. Reid, P. Drew, D. Hawke, A. Lynden, N. Lawson and A. Martin.

House Notes

COTTON

Third Term 1966

During the third term of 1966 the house cricket was played. In the first match against School House, Cotton made approximately 250 (Hamilton 65, Green 51 not out, and Stanford 43). School replied with approximately 200 in the allotted time and so we went into the final against Bayly, who had previously defeated Waterhouse.

Bayly had us all out for a very low 60 runs (Stanford 24) and, although we fought hard, Bayly passed our score for the loss of 6 wickets.

House members Hamilton, Stanford, Green and G. Martin are to be congratulated on gaining selection in the intercollegiate cricket team.

First Term 1967

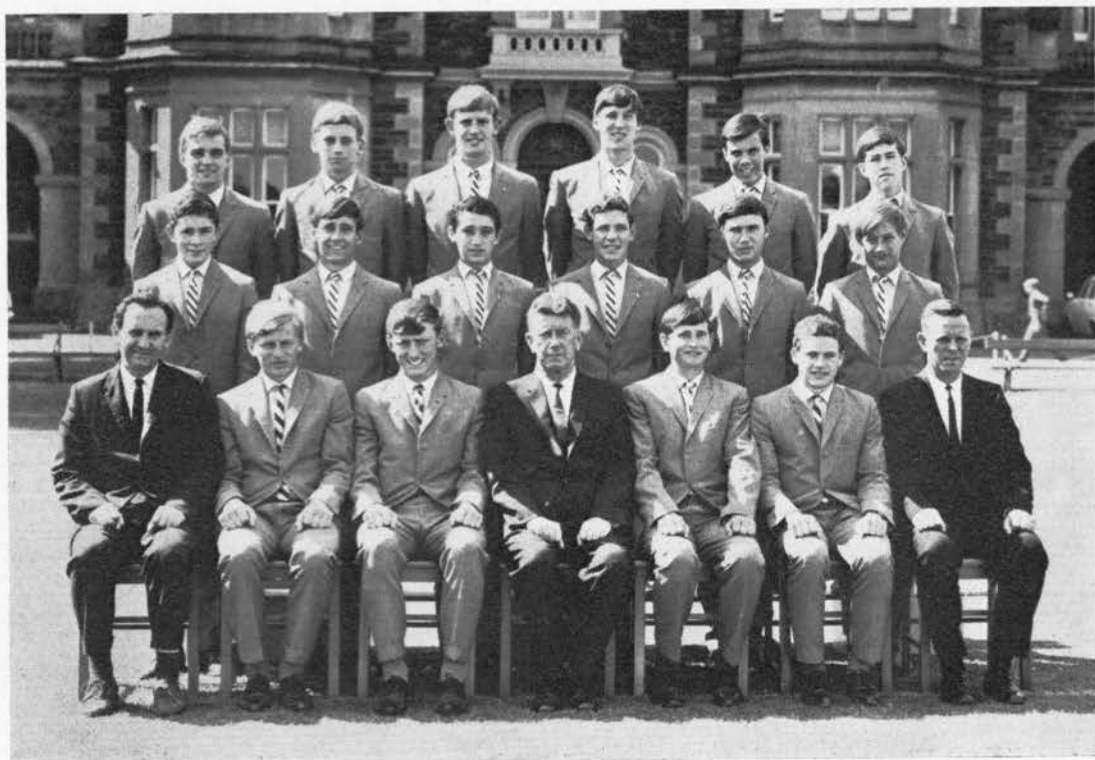

At the first house meeting of the year, P. D. Nehmy was elected House Captain and G. Stanford, R. Bond, D. Provis, A. Crompton, N. G. Martin, school prefects, I. Pascoe, A. Smith and J. Jackson were chosen to represent the various sports and school activities on the committee.

Mr Woollard has, as master in charge, again shown a great deal of interest in the house organization and together with the committee, is largely responsible for the revival of house spirit which has been so evident this year.

Quite apart from this, Cotton House and the rest of the School are greatly indebted to Mr Woollard for his tireless efforts in assisting in the construction of the School's new twenty-five metre, eight-lane swimming pool. Other house masters assisting are Messrs Baker, Claver, Fowler, Ashenden and Willcocks.

There are three members of the First XI in Cotton House, these being Stanford, Bartlett and A. Martin.

Smith, R. Andary and Jackson form Cotton's representation in the tennis squad from which the intercollegiate tennis team will be chosen. We congratulate these boys on their achievement as the standard of tennis is very high. Provis (his second year) and Crompton (his third year) are our representatives in the First VIII this year and both are very capable and experienced rowers.

HOUSE PREFECTS

Back Row—J. E. Ashby, P. W. Walkom, P. J. Riggs, M. G. Page, R. K. R. Scragg, C. Sheedy.
 Second Row—R. A. Riggs, C. M. Bailey, R. J. Venning, C. E. Jarrett, R. K. Lewis, R. K. Kelly.
 Front Row—Mr. C. D. Crouch, R. J. French, M. J. Pfeiler (Head of the House),
 Mr J. A. Dunning (The Hcadmaster), G. E. Brown, I. G. Campbell, Mr R. H. Prest.

House members Bond, Nehmy, S. Whitham, M. Winter and D. Rees all competed regularly at Olympic Sports Field, Kensington, during the summer athletic season and were instrumental in a combined P.A.C.-Westminster team winning the sub-junior shield by a large margin. Bond is to be congratulated on many excellent performances and his appointment as captain of athletics.

In cadets this year, D. M. Thomas upholds Cotton's excellent record in this sphere of school life. As drum major of the School's cadet band, he has already acquired a standard which has resulted in the band's success in its first competition for the year.

The benefit of the School's new pool was obvious at the Swimming Sports which was the first house sporting fixture of this year. Although not a house with large numbers of outstanding swimmers, Cotton was still able to perform very well, because of a general house effort.

Although not every member of our house who qualified for finals can be mentioned, they are all to be congratulated, as the standard of swimming was very high.

After several finals had been decided, the house competition promised to be a close and exciting affair. Spirited efforts by McGregor, May and Dorsch in the under 13 freestyle final were followed by strong exhibitions by Pemberton in the under 14 section and McPhee in the under 15 section. In quick succession another under 15, Germer, swam well to gain a second placing in the open butterfly final, and another second place went to Weeks in the under 16 backstroke.

With this spate of success, Cotton jumped to within two points of Waterhouse House, which in turn was only one point behind School House.

In the last few events before the relays, we saw Clements add a victory in the under 16 breast-stroke to his list of placings, and J. Denton gain a second place and Weeks a third place in the under 16 freestyle final.

Perhaps the best individual performance from Cotton for the afternoon came from A. Smith in the open backstroke. He was the only boy of the afternoon visibly to extend the irrepressible Waterhouse stalwart Alf Brown, who gained first place in the event by only a touch.

Undoubtedly, the most exciting events of the afternoon were the relays, in which the house spirit of Cotton emerged as second to none. Our under 13s, Lewis, Dorsch, Williamson and McGregor displayed great courage in emerging as Cotton's only successful relay team.

Cotton finished third in a very close competition, in which only eight points separated the first three houses. Our congratulations go to School House for their win.

With this fine start to the year, 1967 promises to be a prosperous one for Cotton House, providing we continue to get support from every house member.

WATERHOUSE Third Term 1966

The third term brought to a close what was a disappointing year for Waterhouse House. After a good start, early in the year, when we lost the Swimming Sports to Bayly by only two points, the house faded badly in the remaining activities of the year, and finished last in the house competition. Cricket was the only competitive inter-house sporting activity in the third term. In our first match we were unlucky to lose to Bayly, the eventual winners, by only twenty runs, whereas in the second game we were untroubled in defeating School House by a comfortable margin. We were more successful in the junior house cricket in which we were able to win both our games, R. Gray turning in some outstanding performances with the ball.

Our representatives in the intercollegiate cricket team were M. Gray (captain), T. Finnegan (twelfth man), G. Hugo and R. Lower. The latter two are to be congratulated on winning the First XI batting and bowling trophies respectively. M. Gray also won the award for the outstanding fielder in the intercollegiate match.

Finally, it was pleasing to see the number of boys in the house winning prizes on Speech Day. T. P. Finnegan is to be congratulated on winning the Reverend Charles Perry Memorial Prize for all-round development in the final year at school, as well as prizes for mathematics, physics and chemistry.

First Term 1967

At the first house meeting of the year, R. Lower was elected house captain and C. L. Brown vice-captain. A. Bennett and M. Raupach are the other two school prefects in the house while Hunt, A. Brown, Fleming, Lowe and Schwartz comprised the remaining members of the house committee.

Mr Harvey is once again the master in charge, and we congratulate him on his appointment as senior athletics coach, in place of Mr Crawford. Messrs Basedow, Bowden, Glancey, I. Gray and McFarlane are our house masters for this year and we hope to see them take a keen interest in the activities and results achieved by the house.

The newest asset to the School is the swimming pool, in which the Swimming Sports were held for the first time. In another exciting finish, the house lost to School House by only one point. The high standard of swimming in the School was shown by the fact that only eight points separated the first three houses. School House are to be congratulated on their fine victory. Although we lost the sports, we won nine championship events, five more than any other house, and came second in two relays—the under 13 and the open. In the under 13 age group, T. Phillips and Condon are to be congratulated on winning the freestyle and breast-stroke events respectively while in the under 14 age group R. Campbell was successful in both the freestyle and backstroke championships. Toop gained second place in the under 14 breast-stroke; so the house just missed making a clean sweep of the championship events in this age group. The outstanding competitor in the sports was undoubtedly A. Brown who recently won the Australian junior 100 metres freestyle in Sydney and is considered by many to be South Australia's best swimmer. In the sports he won the open freestyle, backstroke, breast-stroke and butterfly championships, and then combined with T. Phillips to win the open hipcarry final.

The house is well represented in tennis, Hugo, J. Bickmore, I. Bickmore, J. Hetzel, D. Hetzel and Hunt all fighting for places in the final ten, from which the best eight will be chosen for the inter-collegiate tennis. We are not quite so well represented in rowing, having no members in the First VIII and only one in the Second VIII. Our representatives in the First XI this year are R. Lower, M. Schwartz and C. L. Brown and we are equally well represented in the Second XI. Some of the juniors have turned in outstanding performances during the term and we look forward to the future eagerly.

In cadets, Raggatt, Jones and Hawke are all C.U.O.s while in the scouts, Rogers, D. Martin, and P. Martin are patrol leaders.

It needs only an all-round effort by the house to follow up our good start in the Swimming Sports and we look forward to the athletics, knowing that, with our renewed strength in the juniors, we shall have better success than in recent years.

SCHOOL

Third Term 1966

The third term once again saw School House excel in chess and debating but fall down in both the senior and junior cricket. In chess Parish, G. Brown, Inglis, R. Scragg, and C. Hansen recorded good wins over all the other house teams. Similarly in debating the opposition collapsed against strong, convincing debating by D. Barrie, J. Nicholls and R. Day. In cricket, although we had Parsons, Faehse, Agars and Herriot in the first practice squad, we were a considerably younger and less experienced team than those of other houses. The same applied to the junior house cricket, in which we were again decisively beaten by much stronger sides.

As the third term is chiefly devoted to study, the Boarding House then settled down with a conscious effort to reach the previous year's standard. Some of the more notable results in Intermediate came from Bartholomaeus with seven one gradings and a two grading, and also from Hansen, Rowe, Cox, Harris, Sandow and Trengove. In Leaving this year over fifty per cent of the boys did not sit for the examination and so results cannot be compared with previous ones. The best, however, came from Inglis and D. Hansen. In the matriculation examination Donald Barrie did very well and David Sandow and Jim Nicholls were also awarded Open Commonwealth Scholarships.

We once again won the house competition only by a small margin; this we hope to increase in the future.

First Term 1967

This year the boarding house has had something of a radical change. Now that we have outside catering, the main hot meal is in the evening and we are even given steak and chicken now and then.

There are four school prefects this year in the Boarding House: Pfeiler, Brown, French and Campbell. Two of our resident masters have also been replaced. Mr Hickman takes Mr Collin's place, while Mr Alexander comes in place of Mr Easther.

The only sporting activity completed so far this term is the Swimming Sports which we won by a close margin. It was held in the new College pool and all the boys trained particularly hard and deserved their win. The best performances came in the relays, Hoad, McWaters, Bailey and Ashby putting up particularly valiant efforts. Jim Ashby being appointed captain of swimming helped considerably to spur the house on.

In cadets we have C.U.O. Pfeiler, Sgts Bailey and G. Chapman, Cpls McWaters and Bahnish, L.Cpls D. Daniel and J. Bowman. The drive team has three boarder representatives: A. R. Nicholls, Trengove and French. Rowing is once again strong in the house. Pfeiler is captain of boats and stroke of the First Eight while Bailey, Lewis, Brown and Cock are also in the first crew. There are eight other members in the Head-of-the-River crews.

One of our past weaknesses, in cricket, has been somewhat remedied, for we now have Faehse, Herriot, Agars, Johnston and Johnson in the XI.

W. M. B. Carr, a Queen's Scout, is Troop Leader of the Third Troop, while Jarrett is a patrol leader in this troop.

The boarding house is, as usual, playing an important role in every sphere of activity and, competition amongst the houses being very strong this year, boys are reminded that the house competition depends on every boy doing his absolute best.

BAYLY

Third Term 1966

To complete a quite successful year for Bayly, we convincingly defeated Waterhouse and Cotton to take out the House Cricket. Chappell was the star player, taking 9 wickets in the two matches. Bayly had three representatives in the Intercol. Cricket: Sweeney (vice-captain), Chappell and Speakman, with only Chappell doing well.

First Term 1967

This year Bayly has five school prefects: Sweeney, Arthur, Speakman, Howland and Lellman. At our first meeting, Sweeney was elected house captain, with Arthur (vice-captain), Speakman, Craven, Lellman, Hudson, Howland, Richardson, Dalton, Frolick and Lawson making up the house committee. Our house masters this year are Messrs Brown, Allen, Jones, Gabb, Nicholson and Stratfold. Mr Stratfold has replaced Mr Crawford (overseas) on our house and we feel sure that he will help us in our cricket endeavours.

Bayly came a poor last in the recently concluded swimming sports, although the open relay team (Cooper, Hudson, Richardson, Lellman) won by almost one length of the pool. The entries for the sports were above normal, but the previous standard of very good swimmers was lacking this year.

Lastly we would like to congratulate a former member of our house, Greg Chappell, on becoming a regular member of the South Australian Sheffield Shield cricket team.

Parents and Friends Association—

President-chairman: Mr A. McEwin.

Vice-president: Mr C. Rogers.

Secretary: Mr B. Monckton.

Our group can thus be seen to function mainly through four separate troops each with its own complement of leaders. There are two scout troops—1st (juniors) and 3rd (seniors), whilst the sea scouts are 2nd (seniors) and 4th (juniors).

The two senior troops meet on Wednesday mornings between 9 and 10.30 a.m. with alternate programmes in the gymnasium and 'incidents' based on Hazeldene. The two junior troops meet on Friday afternoon and evening, the two troops alternating each term. Thus each week there are four parades and a great amount of scouting is carried out.

Of course, real scouting is done 'out-of-doors' and hardly a week-end or holiday passes without scouts being out somewhere—first class hikes, ventures, camps, patrol week-ends, sailing week-ends, courses, projects, and various state and district-run activities. This keeps everyone busy and makes heavy demands upon the scoutmasters. Here, therefore, I would pay full tribute to the sterling work over the years of Mr C. Crouch and Mr I. Gray and to welcome most heartily Mr B. Bryant (from the U.K.), Mr D. Stratfold and Mr P. Emery (also from U.K.).

Strongly supporting them we have an enthusiastic and very able band of young cadet scouters and A.S.M.s—all of whom are P.A.C. scout 'graduates'—and it is a great joy to have them with us at camps and parades: long may they continue their scouting with us.

Also strongly supporting us is the very active Parents and Friends Association who by their interest and work give us all the encouragement, financial backing and loyalty which means so much to those 'in the field'.

As may be well realized with such a large and active group it is not possible to give anything like a full report of all our activities—we can mention briefly just a few of them. But we would like to assure all those who have helped in all and any of these that we do most sincerely appreciate their help—indeed we should not be able to have scouting at such a high level at the School were it not for their support.

Christmas party—a great success, enjoyed by all—something over 300 all enjoying themselves with dancing and games in the Assembly Hall and a fine supper (provided by parents) in the old hall. The Headmaster and Mrs Dunning once again very kindly received the scouts and their partners.

Cycle hike—a new route around the Mount Bold Reservoir and ending up with a welcome swim at the new Burnside Pool.

Junior Patrol Competition—keenness prevailed right to the end and Wes Howland just pulled his patrol to victory to win the Abotomey Cup, which was presented by the Governor on Speech Day.

Woodhouse Corroboree—The Group was ably represented by twenty-four Scouts and Seniors drawn from the four troops and all voted it an outstanding success. Our G.S.M. was responsible for all the religious observances and had a team of ten Chaplain Scouters; our own parents helped in the club tents, serving teas and ironing shorts!

Goolwa—Our waterside depot is being used more and more and hardly a weekend passes without someone being in residence. We had the entire property enclosed by a three foot six inch fence just in time for the Corroboree—for we lent it for Sea Scout ventures both during the Corroboree and immediately after for sailing around Hindmarsh Island.

Mylor—Our 'shack' is frequently in use for weekend patrol camps and for overnight stops of First Class Hikers and others seeking badges. It is in good repair and is a valuable asset—we are seeking a possible extension of our area and hope to be able to report favourably on this in the next issue of the Chronicle.

Boats and craft—We have overhauled thoroughly two of the Y.W.s, 'Little Trump' and 'Woodcock', and are now starting on 'Little Eve' and 'Little Sport' which have seen a great deal of use lately. 'Sea Prince' has been thoroughly overhauled, refitted and completely repainted. She looks and is in 'spanking' condition and 'Sea Princess' is her usual perfect self—sleek and easy to handle even in the most erratic breeze. We are fortunate to have these six boats—but now feel the necessity to have some 'power'—a small out-board motor for rescue work.

Queen's Scouts—Congratulations to W. Carr, Troop Leader of the Third Troop for gaining this coveted award. He will be our sole representative this year at the Queen's Scout Dinner. R. Hill also passed all the tests and badges but will have to wait until next year for the award because of his tender years! Congratulations to him also!

Easter camps—First Troop at Kuito (our own site) and Fourth Troop at Goolwa—both camps voted the most happy and successful yet to be held and, from what we and the many parents saw when they visited, we heartily agree.

The Future

The Third Troop to hike on last weekend of term from Wilmington, through Alligator Gorge to Mambray.

The Second Troop to camp and sail at Goolwa the first week of May holidays.

The First and Fourth Troops to have two weekend camps for each patrol: one at Mylor and the other at Goolwa.

The Third Troop to Kangaroo Island in August for their great annual venture.

The Second Troop to have each patrol at Goolwa for one weekend sailing.

The Third Troop to have each patrol at Kuito for a 'backwoodsman' weekend.

The Second Troop have not yet decided on the venue for their August Venture but are exploring the possibilities of another Murray sail.

The Annual Parker Hike will take a different form in the future and will be held on the Field Day after the mid-year exams.

And finally, we record our grateful thanks to all who have helped and are helping us: the Headmaster for his encouragement and facilities, the Chaplain for his help and advice, Mr R. Perkins for banking money, Mr M. Gray for advice and help on boat construction and maintenance.

Student Christian Movement

The movement has begun this year on a distinguished note, our first speaker (who also presented some interesting suggestions to the committee), being the General Secretary of SCM in Australian schools, Mr Michael Brown. He gave a stimulating talk on the position Christianity should hold in our lives—that it should be more than just another item with childhood significance, that it should become the very support and basis of our lives.

The recommending of second term discussions and the introduction of small-scale inter-school meetings are being considered as possible supplements to the programme. Thus the committee, under the presidency of David Martin, is hoping to present a programme which will appeal to all students of the school and interest a larger number of boys in the movement.

The committee can already appreciate the dependence of the movement in our school on Mr Mattingley, and we thank him for his guidance and look forward, with his assistance, to a fruitful year to come.

Cadets

Third Term 1966

The 1966 cadet year was brought to a climax with the presentation of the annual ceremonial parade which was inspected by Brigadier Bleechmore. In his address he complimented the unit on its efficiency. After the march past and salute, the band, led by Drum-Major Hains, gave an impressive demonstration of their drill. C.U.O. Brinsley was presented with the Sword of Honour for the most efficient Under-Officer during the year.

'A' Company

This year 'A' Company contains 120 second- and third-year cadets who are divided into three platoons. Our platoon commanders this year are C.U.O.s Raggatt, Hawke and Pfeiler. Our specialist platoon under C.U.O. Pfeiler consists of two groups, the Assault Pioneers and the Signals section. The medical section of two platoon is ably instructed by Sgt Thorpe who gained a high placing in the course at the January camp. Sgt

White must be congratulated on attaining first place in the Junior N.C.O. course.

The C.S.M. of 'A' Company is W.O.1 Drew who is also the R.S.M. of the unit. As in previous years, Captain Allen is the able O.C. and his years of experience are proving of much value to us.

All of our C.U.O.s and N.C.O.s are very enthusiastic and training is well under way for what we hope will be a very successful year.

'B' Company

This year, 'B' Company, which consists of first-year cadets, is considerably larger than in previous years. Comprising four platoons, the company's cadets are eager to learn and very interested in their new Wednesday morning activity. For the first time, one of the platoons consists of cadets training for the rank of corporal, which they will attain by the annual El Alamein camp. We welcome Lieut. Ashenden, who is new to the unit and is in charge of this special platoon.

CADET UNIT OFFICERS AND SENIOR NCO's, 1967

Back Row—Sgt McDonald, P. J.; Sgt Frost, P.; Sgt Richardson, D. G.; Sgt Bedford, D. W.; Sgt Thorpe, P.; Sgt Jackson, J. P.; Sgt Andary, R.; Sgt Sweeney, J.
 Third Row—Sgt Hounslow, E.; Sgt Kimber, R. P.; Sgt McQueen I. H.; Sgt Hunt, R. J.; Sgt Thomas, D. M.; Sgt Chapman, G. R.; Sgt Bailey, C. M.
 Second Row—WO2 Hunkin, P. J.; CUO Lellman, R. J.; CUO Frohlich R. F.; CUO Hawke, D. V.; CUO Pfeiler, M. J.; CUO Raggatt, A.; CUO Jones, M. W.; Sgt Hosking, M.
 Front Row—WO1 Drew, P. M.; Lt Baker, B. R.; Capt. McFarlane, H. F.; Major Woollard, G. H.; Capt. Allen, W. R.; Lt Bowden J.; Lt Ashenden, E. S.

During January, the annual courses were held at Woodside. All those in the cadet under-officers course passed, and Sgts Sweeney and Jackson gained high positions in the senior N.C.O. course. C.U.O.s Lellmann, Jones and Frolich and W.O. Hunkin are the platoon commanders of 'B' Company. Even with the larger platoons, each C.U.O. and N.C.O. is performing his task well, and with the added help and enthusiasm of Lieut. Bowden, a good and successful year's training is anticipated.

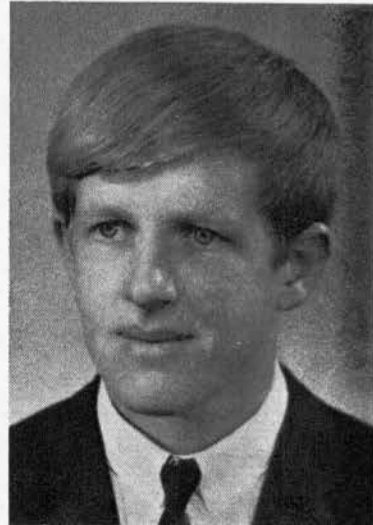

Although the standard of the band this year is not as good as it was last year, we managed to gain a place in the South Australian Band Competition at Hindmarsh Oval on 18 March. The spirit of the band is much higher than in previous years, which indicates a prosperous year ahead.

MATRICULATION SUCCESSES

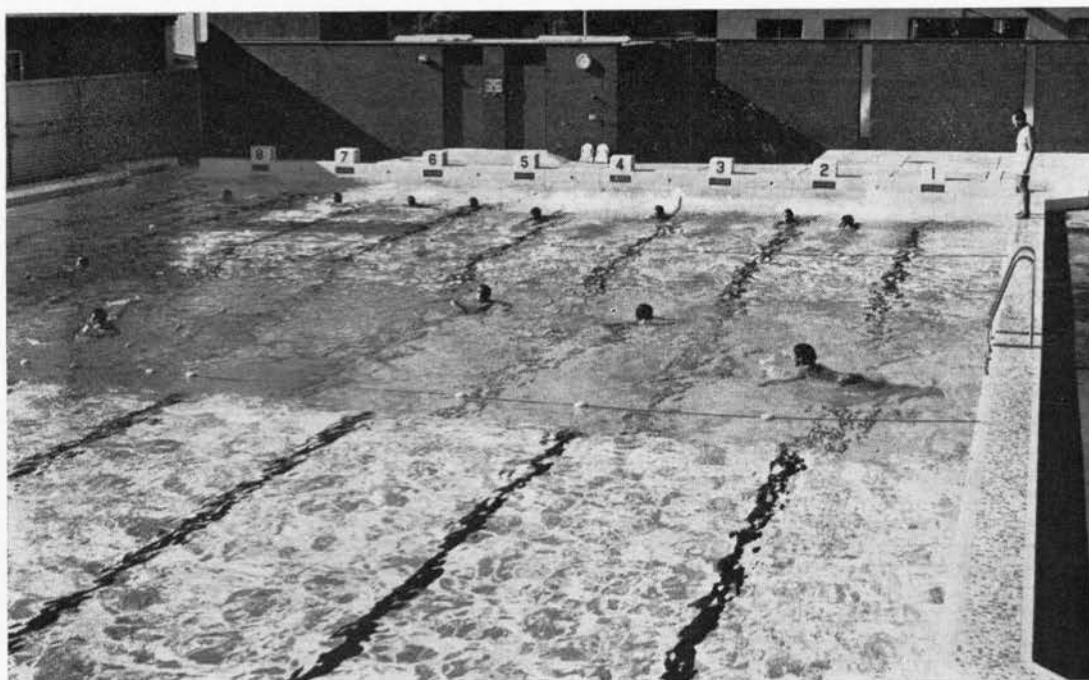

R. E. W. HANCOCK

D. K. BARRIE

In the Matriculation Examination 1966 R. E. W. Hancock was placed fourteenth and D. K. Barrie twenty-fifth.

THE NEW SWIMMING POOL

Our new 25-metre by 60 feet eight-lane pool has been a wonderful acquisition to the School this year. As can be seen by the above photograph, the pool can quickly be divided into three training areas, the foreground being 3 feet to 3 feet 6 inches, the centre section 10 feet for lifesaving and diving and the far end 4 feet to 3 feet 6 inches.

Each of the teaching areas is approximately 28 feet by 60 feet.

All classes from IA in the Preparatory School to V lower in the Senior School receive swimming and lifesaving instruction during their P.E. periods with special sessions each afternoon for all boys interested. The learn-to-swim session on Saturday morning for boys in the Preparatory School proved very successful, all being able to swim a few strokes and about 90 per cent gaining certificates by the end of the season.

Although crowded, the swimming sports proved an outstanding success in their new home and we feel sure of breaking many records with the magnificent training facilities now offered.

We hope that, when the pool surrounds can be enlarged, that a 1 metre diving board can be installed on the northern side.

Swimming

This year, with the completion of the new twenty-five metre pool, there has been a boom in the interest in swimming within the School. The new pool was completed several weeks after the commencement of school this term. The design of the pool is such that 'learn-to-swim' classes may be conducted in the shallow areas at either end while skills and lifesaving may be carried out in the ten-foot area in the centre. It has been pleasing to note that boys have been using the pool to the best advantage without violating rules set down by Mr Woollard.

On several Saturday mornings this term, swimming classes have been conducted at the pool. These were well attended by boys, mainly from the Preparatory School. It is very good to see that, with guidance from Mr Woollard and Mr Allen, boys from the upper part of the school did nearly all the teaching. For this, thanks must go to Tuckwell, McWaters, Ashby, Lord, Newman, Symes, Turnbull, Waters, Mack, Southwood and Hobbs. Ashby was elected captain of swimming and Lellmann vice-captain.

Swimming Sports

The Headmaster, Mr J. A. Dunning, officially opened the pool on Friday, 3 March. He paid tribute to all the work Mr Woollard had done before declaring it open. After this the 1967 Swimming Sports were held under almost ideal conditions. The form races had already been held on Thursday, 2 March.

All houses were well represented and again there was a very close finish, with the results dependent on the last relay. Before this event School House was three points ahead of Waterhouse House. The result of this relay was Bayly House first, Waterhouse House second and School House third which gave School House enough points to achieve a one-point victory win over Waterhouse House. The final point scores were:

School House 67; Waterhouse House 66; Cotton House 59; Bayly House 42.

Congratulations must go to Alf Brown for his magnificent effort in winning all five open events, in particular swimming the 100 metres freestyle in 57.8 sec. Other good efforts were Ashby in winning the under 16 freestyle (29.0 sec); Thorne, the under 15 freestyle (32.4 sec); and T. Phillips the under 13 freestyle (35.3 sec). All times this year are considered as new records due to the change from yards at the Norwood Pool, to metres at the school pool.

Results of the finals of championship events were:

Under 13 Freestyle—

1, Phillips, T. J. (W); 2, McGregor, S. K. (C); 3, May, I. H. (C). Time: 35.3 seconds.

Under 13 Breast-stroke—

Under 14 Freestyle—

1, Campbell, R. I. (W); 2, Hoad, G. W. (S); 3, Jackson, P. A. (C). Time: 35.6 seconds.

Under 14 Breast-stroke—

1, Hoad, G. W. (S); 2, Toop, P. G. (W); 3, Barnes, P. D. (C). Time: 49.5 seconds.

Teams Championships

Many boys gave up a good deal of time to train hard for teams to compete in 'The Advertiser' Teams Championships at the City Baths on 23 March. It was a cool evening and a large number of spectators were present. We had teams in under 12 freestyle, under 14 freestyle and medley, and open freestyle and medley. All teams reached the finals in their events but we were unable to win any events. However, the open freestyle and under 14 freestyle and medley teams all gained third place in their respective finals. A special mention must be made of the open freestyle. The finish was very close and the time of 1 min 58.8 sec was very good. The teams were:

Under 14 Freestyle—

1, Germer, J. S. W.; 2, Campbell, R. I.; 3, Phillips, T. J.; 4, Thorne, K.

Under 14 Medley—

1, Campbell, R. I.; 2, Thorne, K.; 3, Germer, J. S. W.; 4, Phillips, T. J.

Open Freestyle—

1, Ashby, J. E.; 2, Weeks, D. J.; 3, Lellmann, R. I.; 4, Brown, A. R.

Open Medley—

1, Richardson, A. M.; 2, Fogden, M. D.; 3, Brown, A. R.; 4, Ashby, J. E.

For a full report on lifesaving, see under Life-saving Club in the hobbies reports.

In closing this article I would pay tribute to the enormous amount of work done by Mr Woollard. Not only does he look after the pool and all its filtration equipment but also coaches all the swimming and lifesaving teams. All our successes are due to his energetic coaching and without his great enthusiasm there would not have been nearly as much success as there was.

SWIMMING AND LIFESAVING TEAM, 1967

Back Row—R. F. Frolich, A. R. Brown, A. M. Richardson, D. J. Weeks.
Front Row—M. D. Fogden, J. E. Ashby (Captain), Mr G. H. Woollard, R. I. Lellmann, D. G. Provis.

 Front Row—A. D. Crompton, M. J. Pfeiler (Captain of Boats), Mr C. D. Mattingley, T. A. W. Mayne, D. G. Provis, G. J. Stewart.

Rowing

First VIII

C. M. Bailey (bow), D. G. Provis (2), R. K. Lewis (3), R. I. Lellmann (4), G. E. Brown (5), A. D. Crompton (6), R. E. Hudson (7), M. J. Pfeiler (stroke), B. W. Cock (cox), Mr C. D. Mattingley (coach).

Most of this year's first eight are experienced in 'eight' racing, although in weight the crew is a little light.

At the beginning of the year they were eight individual oarsmen, but with many miles of rowing behind them, these eight oarsmen have gradually become a crew.

With the Head-of-the-River Regatta being held on the Port River this year, the crew has trained there every week-end to gain experience in rowing in the type of conditions which may prevail on the day of the regatta.

The crew has improved greatly, and in their first and only regatta to date, the Railways Regatta, it was beaten by Railways and Scotch by only three-quarters of a length in the Maiden Eights event.

Mr Mattingley is to be thanked for the time and effort he has spent coaching the crew.

Second VIII

M. J. Gerrard (bow), D. V. Hawke (2), R. F. Frolich (3), N. G. Martin (4), M. G. Page (5), D. A. Young (6), T. H. Bagshaw (7), A. D. S. Dowie (stroke), D. R. Riggs (cox), Mr N. C. Howard (coach).

Despite the short time the crew has been rowing together and the inexperience of many of its members, considerable progress has been made. The crew was outclassed in its first regatta but with continued improvement the crew can look forward to success in the future.

Open IV

J. A. Lowrey (bow), A. L. Raggatt (2), D. M. Runge (3), C. J. Rowe (stroke), R. A. Bennett (cox), Mr L. R. Cox (coach).

The crew this year includes two newcomers to rowing. In the Railways Regatta the crew was unsuccessful but is generally shaping up well, under the able coaching of a former captain of boats, Mr L. R. Cox.

Lightweight Open IV

S. A. Aram (bow), C. M. Reed (2), J. P. Bocaut (3), G. K. Davidson (stroke), D. I. Young (cox), Mr L. R. Cox (coach).

This crew was not formed until well into the term but has improved continually, despite the fact that it has to row in an old racing four.

Under 16 IV

D. A. Wise (bow), K. R. McBride (2), F. G. Hamood (3), D. W. Lock (stroke), P. B. Wilson (cox), Mr D. F. Provis (coach).

Coached by Mr D. F. Provis, this crew of inexperienced boys has improved satisfactorily over the past few weeks.

Under 15 IV

J. R. Frolich (bow), H. C. G. Dolling (2), P. G. Edwards (3), R. J. Fielder (stroke), P. G. Tucker (cox), Mr D. F. Provis (coach).

The crew did not finish very well in its first regatta, but since then has improved and is hoped to do well in future regattas.

SCHOOL SPORTS DAY

The full account of Sports Day 1966 and of the Combined School Sports was omitted from our October 1966 issue.

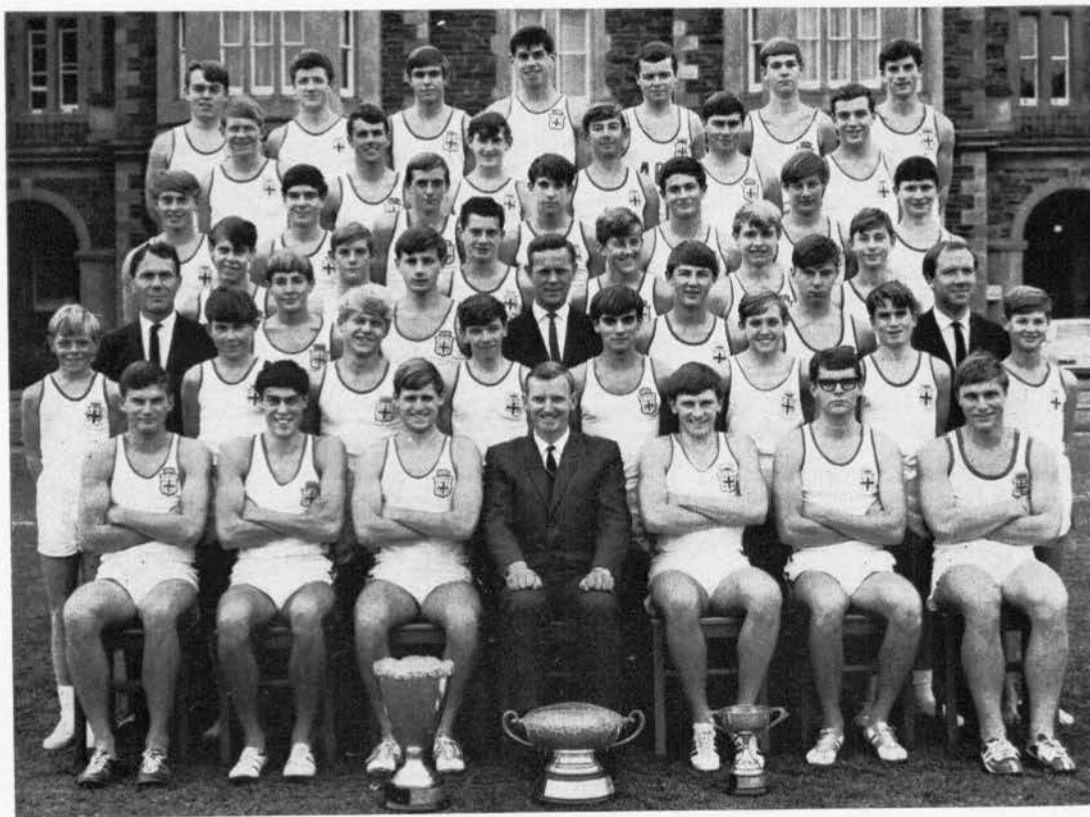

Following keen competition in the heats with some houses receiving a more even share of finalists than in past years, all looked forward to sports day on 8 April in eagerness. We were hoping for new records in some events and in fact five were broken and one equalled. This was excellent in view of the strong head wind that competitors had to contend with.

Hill broke the senior mile record with a time of 4 min 43.2 sec and also broke the under 16 880 yards record in the time of 2 min 6.6 sec. Winter broke both the under 15 triple jump and long jump records with distances of 40 ft 3 in and 20 feet 3 in respectively. Close broke his own record in the senior half mile walk and Lowe equalled the record in the under 16 220 yards.

The Senior Cup was won by R. Bond with an excellent performance, winning five events. Similarly M. Winter gained five first places to win the Under 15 Cup. Other cups were won by Weeks (under 16), Them (under 14) and Phillips (under 13). The Dalwood Shield for most points in the relays was won by School and Cotton houses, both equal. Cotton House took out the House Cup in one of the most even competitions for some years.

We should like to thank Mrs D. J. Pfeiler for consenting to present the prizes, and also Mr McFarlane and all his helpers as well as those who acted as official throughout the afternoon.

SPORTS DAY

Tennis

INTERCOLLEGIATE MATCH

The annual Intercollegiate tennis between S.P.S.C. and Princes was contested on the Memorial Drive courts on Saturday, 1 April. It was a very mild day; no wind, and in general, perfect conditions for tennis.

The teams were—P.A.C.: M. Craven (captain), A. Nicholls, J. Bickmore, R. French, A. Smith, J. Jackson, J. Hugo, W. Trengrove. S.P.S.C.: G. Lawrence (captain), T. Formby, A. Harrison, D. Bourne, P. Langcake, W. Jones, T. Barritt, W. Crawford.

Play commenced at 10.15 with the first round of doubles. Our first pair, Craven and Nicholls, were involved in a tense three-set struggle, with Saints' second pair, A. Harrison and D. Bourne, winning 6—4, 3—6, 6—4.

The second doubles pair, Bickmore and French, found the Saints' first pair, G. Lawrence and T. Formby, too strong and they went down 6—1, 6—2.

Smith and Jackson, our third pair, played well to defeat Barritt and Crawford, Saints' fourth pair, 6—4, 6—1, while our fourth pair, Hugo and Trengrove, fought tenaciously but were beaten 6—2, 2—6, 6—2.

Four singles were played before lunch, with Smith, French, Jackson and Hugo competing.

French, after a nervous start, regained his confidence and was too steady for Bourne and ran out the winner 6—5, 6—3. A. Smith, proving a tower of strength for Princes, won his second rubber by defeating P. Langcake 6—1, 6—3.

John Hugo, playing his first intercollegiate, was not steady enough to beat T. Barritt who won convincingly 4—6, 6—3, 6—1.

J. Jackson won his next rubber and proved himself a tower of strength for P.A.C. by winning 6—5, 6—4, in a hard-fought match.

At the luncheon period the rubbers were equal but P.A.C. held a slight advantage of two sets.

Immediately after lunch Craven and Nicholls outplayed the Saints first pair, Lawrence and Formby, 6—3, 6—4.

Bickmore and French proved too fit and strong for the Saints pair, Harrison and Bourne. Their fitness was shown in the last set, which they won, 6—4, 1—6, 7—5.

Saints number eight player, Crawford, defeated W. M. Trengrove from P.A.C., 6—5, 6—4. Trengrove played hard and well, and was perhaps a little unlucky.

The Saints captain, Lawrence, played a model game of consistency and was far too good for M. Craven, the P.A.C. captain, whose overall form on the day had been disappointing. The scores being 6—3, 6—1.

A. Nicholls and T. Formby provided a most interesting rubber with Nicholls going down 6—5, 6—4.

A. Harrison of S.P.S.C. defeated J. Bickmore of P.A.C. in a gruelling three-set rubber. The scores were 5—6, 6—5, 6—3.

P.A.C. were two rubbers down with two doubles to play. These doubles played with added incentive after Bickmore's defeat.

J. Hugo and W. Trengrove played extremely well, and with a great deal of determination. Their winning scores were 6—4, 6—5. This was their best doubles performance of the year and it could not have come at a better time for P.A.C.

The great excitement was, however, on the centre court, where A. Smith and J. Jackson knew that the School needed this rubber for victory. After losing the first set 6—4, they rallied well and played magnificent tennis to win the next two sets 6—2 and 6—3.

Final scores: P.A.C., 8 rubbers, 20 sets. S.P.S.C., 8 rubbers, 18 sets.

Open 'A' Tennis

The Open 'A' had a successful season, winning two matches out of three; two matches being cancelled, one because of rain. We defeated Westminster easily, 9 rubbers to nil, as well as beating Scotch. However, we lost the match we most wanted to win, being defeated by Saints 6 rubbers to 3. The team would like to thank Mr Gabb for giving up his valuable time to coach us.

Open 'B' Tennis

This year the 'B's have been a much more settled team than in previous seasons and have had a successful year. They easily defeated Scotch, Kings and Westminster and had an exciting but victorious match against S.P.S.C. Cooper, Venning and Jones were the most consistent but all performed well and our thanks go to Mr Fowler for his coaching and encouragement.

Under 16 'A'

The under 16 team has had a fairly successful season winning two out of three matches played.

Despite constant reshuffling of the team we defeated Scotch and Westminster, but found Saints too strong.

The team would like to thank Mr Fowler and Mr Ashenden for their help and supervision throughout the term.

Results—

P.A.C. versus S.C.: 7 sets to 2 sets.

P.A.C. versus W.C.: 9 sets

P.A.C. versus S.P.S.C.: 2 sets to 7 sets.

THIRD TERM

In the third term of 1966, the drive team won four matches of the five contested.

This year the team consisted of Craven, Nicholls, Bickmore, French, Smith, Jackson, Trengrove and Hugo.

We have won three matches, lost two, and the other match was cancelled due to rain. The competition this year has been stronger than in past years, so the team has performed very creditably. Much of our success is due to the keenness and tennis knowledge of Mr Gabb, and the team is very thankful to him.

Saturday Drive Match—

- P.A.C. defeated Henley High, 6—3.
- P.A.C. were defeated by Norwood High, 6—3.
- P.A.C. versus Adelaide High (cancelled).
- P.A.C. defeated King's College, 5—4.
- P.A.C. were defeated by Marion High, 5—4.
- P.A.C. defeated Pulteney Grammar, 7—2.

Under 15 'A' Tennis

So far this year we have had quite a successful season, winning three out of four matches. Our victories were against Scotch, Concordia and Kings, which were won very convincingly. Unfortunately we lost to Saints, six sets to three.

Under 14 Tennis

This year the under 14 'A' team has had a good season. Only three matches have been played; one was cancelled because of rain. All the matches were won.

The 'B' team has also had a successful season, winning two matches out of the three played.

The teams wish to thank Mr Fowler for his support and help throughout the season.

Under 13 Tennis

The under 13 teams have had limited success so far this year. The 'A' team has won two out of the five matches played and the 'B' team has won three matches.

However, the boys have shown interest and made some improvement under the supervision of Mr Glancey and Mr Fowler.

The 'A' team has had three captains: Tucker, O'Daniel and Rowe. Laird and McGregor have had experience in captaining the 'B' team.

First Tennis Critique

Craven, M. B. A consistent player, who played in his fourth intercollegiate match. He shows great determination at all times.

Nicholls, A. R. A vastly improved player, his ground shots, and serve have improved considerably. This was his second intercollegiate match.

Bickmore, J. A young but very consistent player, who has won nearly all his 'Drive Matches'. This was his first intercollegiate match.

French, R. J. A strong player with a great deal of determination, he was one of the stalwarts of the team this year.

Smith, A. W. A strong, intelligent player who tries hard all the time. His backhand lets him down sometimes. This was his first intercollegiate match.

Jackson, J. A player with a strong serve, his ground shots, however, let him down sometimes. First intercollegiate match.

Hugo, J. A consistent player who never gives up, and has show a great deal of natural ability. First intercollegiate match.

Trengrove, W. M. An intelligent doubles player who has a great deal of ability but at the moment lacks some physical strength. First intercollegiate match.

Bickmore, B. A young, consistent player, who was unlucky to miss selection this year. The school is looking forward to big things from him in future years.

Hetzel, D. J. A tall youngster with a fast and reliable serve and we are also looking for big things from him next year.

Cricket

The season 1966-67 has seen the general standard of cricket in the School maintained with fifteen teams competing regularly each Saturday in senior and under age grades.

The Firsts had rather a mixed season, losing to King's College in a high-scoring game, drawing with A.B.H.S. and defeating S.H.C. and P.G.S. in matches leading up to the intercollege match against St Peters.

As the last of our players with experience from the days when the First XI played in the District 'B' Grade competition left School at the end of 1965, a lack of sophistication is increasingly apparent in the approach of the First XI. Scores generally have been lower than previously, and certainly the scoring rate has been very much slower, but when a team total of 100 runs or so is more often than not a winning score, perhaps the incentive to score heavily and quickly is to a large extent removed.

The outstanding performance of the season was undeniably Graham Sweeney's century against A.B.H.S. In an innings occupying just 80 minutes he scored 130 runs, 98 of which, 20 fours and 3 sixes, came in boundary strokes.

He took his score from 82 to 106 off six balls, the 102 coming in 69 minutes with barely a mis-hit and no chances. The next innings in merit was of a completely different character, a match saver rather than a match winner. After a day and a half in the field Trevor Chappell, just turned fourteen, came in to bat at twenty past five on the Wednesday of the Intercoll. with our innings at 4 for 80 in a state of collapse. Poor light and a soft wicket made conditions even more difficult, but Chappell doggedly held his wicket intact until stumps. On the following morning play was delayed by overnight rain and our innings continued before lunch with the wicket playing awkwardly as it dried out. With the help of hard hitting Greg Stanford, Chappell added 50 runs before being caught at mid-off with his own score at 47, by which stage defeat had been averted. This was an innings of quality.

Greg Stanford had a very fine match in the Intercoll. He bowled with fire and determination throughout the game and in both innings his batting was vital because of the relative failure of preceding batsmen.

Richard Lower bowled very consistently throughout the season to take 30 wickets at 8 runs apiece but apart from Stanford the bowling lacked penetration.

Michael Gray batted well on occasions and made several good scores and the unlucky Brenton Green, suffering an eye injury at practice which forced his withdrawal from the team to play S.P.S.C., also batted very well during the season.

PRINCE ALFRED COLLEGE INTERCOLLEGIATE CRICKET TEAM, 1966

P.A.C., 195 and 5 wickets for 118; S.P.S.C., 244 and 3 wickets dec. for 146—Match Drawn.

Back Row—J. R. Faehse, C. M. Parsons, T. M. Chappell, P. A. Speakman, G. S. Martin.
Front Row—G. B. Stanford, C. J. Hamilton, G. P. Sweeney (Vice-Captain), Mr F. C. Bennett,
M. L. Gray (Captain), G. V. Hugo, R. J. Lower.

Among the juniors several fine performances were noted. David Thiem, a very promising young pace bowler, continued to take wickets in great profusion while Rick Gray and Ian McLean have shown promise.

Of the under 15s Mark Schwartz has held a place in the First XI this term and Andrew McPhee and Ben Ball have batted well.

The School thanks those members of staff whose interest contributes so much to the success of our teams, and particularly to Mr McFarlane as organizer and Mr Bennett as senior coach.

Mr Sylvester Fuchs struggled along during 1966 despite a most debilitating and painful illness, to maintain the high standards of our grounds and wickets and we thank him. All connected with P.A.C. will be delighted to know that his health is now much improved.

Cricket Critique

M. L. Gray (captain). A forcing opening bat, a useful medium-paced bowler and a brilliant fieldsman. His captaincy has been thoughtful and competent with the accent on attack.

G. P. Sweeney (vice-captain). A batsman of brilliant potential who has only to learn discretion to develop into a class cricketer. He kept wickets with enthusiasm and competency. His captaincy in the new year has been very good.

G. V. Hugo. A sound right-handed batsman with an excellent defence and a wide range of strokes. He needs only a more confident approach to develop into a class batsman.

C. J. Hamilton. A dogged opener who batted consistently without making big scores. A useful left-arm bowler and a sound slip-field.

G. B. Stanford. Rapidly developing into a match-winning all-rounder. A lively medium-fast bowler, a sound hard-hitting batsman and a fine field, he is at his best under pressure.

R. J. Lower. A left-arm medium-paced bowler with splendid control. He swings the ball most deceptively and has had marked success. Has batting ability but lacks confidence.

G. S. Martin. A free-stroking left-hander who times the ball well, he has to learn deeper concentration to realize his full batting potential.

T. M. Chappell. For a fourteen-year-old his technique and capacity to concentrate are quite remarkable. With his bowling and fielding ability he shows the greatest of promise.

J. R. Faehse. A young pace bowler who did very well in the Intercol, considering his almost complete lack of experience. His batting has shown marked improvement.

C. M. Parsons. A dogged batsman who scored consistently in the Seconds but never quite settled down to big scores in the Firsts.

P. A. Speakman. Fought his way into the First XI with a series of determined performances. He bowled his slow leg-breaks with some success but his batting has been rather disappointing.

B. J. Green. A very talented all-rounder. A batsman with a fine range of strokes produced in classic style and a lively medium-paced bowler. His loss through injury was a sad blow to our Intercol. chances.

INTERCOLLEGIATE MATCH

Teams—

P.A.C.: Gray (captain), Sweeney (vice-captain), Hugo, Hamilton, Stanford, Lower, Speakman, Chappell, Faehse, Parsons, Martin, Finnegan (twelfth).

S.P.S.C.: Lane (captain), Wells (vice-captain), Hewitson, Wiese, Bowman, Douglas, Betts, Bishop, Smith, Wallman, Pridmore, Carter (twelfth).

Lane won the toss for S.P.S.C. and elected to bat in overcast conditions. Stanford struck a mighty blow for P.A.C., when off the sixth ball of the match he bowled Hewitson, leaving S.P.S.C. 1 for 1. Following this early success a stand of 41 between Wiese and Wells restored the score. Lane was batting soundly until, in chasing a ball wide of the off stump he nicked a catch to Sweeney off Stanford. Lane occupied the crease for 264 minutes in compiling 75 runs, but although slow it was a great captain's innings. Betts also played a marathon innings, and this innings helped to make the match into a tame draw, because of the slow scoring rate. S.P.S.C. ended its first innings about forty minutes before tea on the second day. They were all out for 244, with Stanford being the most successful bowler (30 overs, 12 maidens, 4 wickets, 55 runs).

Gray and Hamilton opened for P.A.C. and after an hour had posted 43 valuable runs. When Hamilton was dismissed P.A.C. lost another four quick wickets to slump to 5 for 95.

An eighth wicket partnership between Stanford and Chappell put on 50 in 71 minutes, and this partnership greatly improved the P.A.C. score. Wallman, with some good bowling, ended the P.A.C. innings at 195, 49 behind. Wallman the best bowler for S.P.S.C., 4 for 53 off 21.7 overs, while for P.A.C. Chappell (47) and Stanford (35) were the most successful batsmen.

Stanford again raised P.A.C. hopes when he had Wiese l.b.w. for 0 in the third over of S.P.S.C. second innings. Then Hewitson and Wells wrecked P.A.C. hopes when they made 82 in 74 minutes. Hewitson was dismissed by the last ball of the third day from Stanford. On the final day Lane helped Wells carry S.P.S.C. score to 3 for 146, where S.P.S.C. declared and P.A.C. had to get 195 runs in 155 minutes.

In P.A.C. second innings three wickets were lost very cheaply. Then a fighting fourth-wicket partnership between Sweeney and Martin helped restore the P.A.C. position. Then to make things sure the first innings stars, Stanford and Chappell, came together and at stumps had an unfinished partnership of 47. Stanford remained 32 n.o. and Chappell 13 n.o. S.P.S.C. had P.A.C. struggling during this innings, mainly due to fourteen consecutive overs from Wallman. He bowled all these overs with a badly strained back and when he had to leave the ground S.P.S.C. hopes slumped.

Although the game was marred throughout by rain I think the result would have been the same. Although S.P.S.C. had a very experienced side they did not at any time exert their full power. An outstanding feature of this game was the magnificent batting performance of fourteen-year-old Trevor Chappell. The youngest member of either team, he showed outstanding ability and concentration. Also Stanford, with a magnificent effort in bowling, batting and fielding, showed that he is an all-rounder of considerable class.

THIRD TERM 1966

FIRST XI

The Firsts have played very well at times this term but also have not lived up to previous expectations. We had one win and one defeat while the other two matches were drawn. Sweeney, Stanford and Chappell have been scoring the bulk of the runs while Stanford, Lower and McEwin have shared the wickets. Schwartz, Herriot and Fachse have batted quite well at times.

Against Rostrevor we lost mainly due to the inexperience of some of the new players. Schwartz and Herriot, two newcomers, showed promise and with Stanford batting well we nearly made the Rostrevor score. After dismissing Rostrevor cheaply in the first innings we were looking for outright victory. We were well on the way when they were 3 for 10 but Stanford was unfortunately injured and our hopes faded because we did not have him to bowl. Rostrevor got out of trouble and so we were defeated on the first innings.

P.A.C. 91 (Schwartz 23, Stanford 20) were defeated by Rostrevor 92 (Stanford 3 for 19, Lower 2 for 19, Fachse 2 for 15, Speakman 2 for 15) and 5 for 110 (Stanford 2 for 3).

Against C.B.C. we won the toss and batted on an easy pitch. After losing two quick wickets Sweeney and Martin laid the foundation for a huge score. Later batsman, with the exception of Fachse and Herriot, failed to capitalize on this partnership. At stumps C.B.C. were 1 for 50. The second day of the match was washed out.

P.A.C. 170 (Sweeney 70, Fachse 42) versus C.B.C. 1 for 50 (match drawn because of rain).

Against S.P.S.C. Sweeney and Chappell batted well but the remaining batsmen offered little resistance to the bowling of Wallman and Wells. We were eventually dismissed for 109 and S.P.S.C. were 1 for 56 at stumps. On the second day, mainly due to splendid bowling and fielding, S.P.S.C. lost their remaining 9 wickets at a cost of 47 runs. In our second innings batsman failed to take the advantage of batting practice. In the finish we defeated S.P.S.C. on the first innings.

P.A.C. 109 (Chappell 30, Sweeney 20) defeated S.P.S.C. 103 (Stanford 4 for 40, Lower 4 for 18, McEwin 2 for 27).

P.A.C. second innings 7 for 78 (Sweeney 20, Lower 12 n.o.).

Against Westminster our batsman gained the early advantage and we were able to declare at 5 for 209. This left Westminster to get a run a minute to win. Our bowling was very tight although it was let down sometimes by poor fielding. Their batsmen fought very hard and eventually the match ended in a draw.

P.A.C. 5 for 209 declared (Stanford 63, Chappell 45, Schwartz 34, Sweeney 33), drew with Westminster 7 for 139 (Lower 2 for 35, Sweeney 2 for 21, Johnson 2 for 8).

On behalf of all the boys in the team I would like to thank Miss Woodcock, Sister McKenzie and all the mothers for providing splendid afternoon tea each Saturday.

Second XI

Captain: H. G. P. Chapman

Following its undefeated success in the first term, the Seconds were rather disappointing in the third term winning only two out of 4 games. In the two matches fielding errors cost the side dearly.

The most successful batsmen this term were Tregoning and Close, while for the year Speakman, Chapman and Brinsley made most runs. Close also headed the bowling averages this term with ten wickets, while Speakman with twenty wickets in only four matches was most successful for the year. Congratulations to Speakman on his well-earned inclusion in the Intercol team. His promotion to the Firsts left a gap in the Seconds which was difficult to fill.

In the first match against Sacred Heart Seconds accurate bowling by Close and Fyfe dismissed S.H.C. for 69. An opening partnership of 51 for us by Speakman and Finnegan put the issue beyond doubt. Brinsley also batted well.

P.A.C. Second XI: 7 for 131 (Brinsley 39 n.o., Speakman 27, Finnegan 20) defeated S.H.C. Second XI 69 (Close 5 for 17, Fyfe 3 for 4).

The second match was against St Peter's College Second XI at Saints. Saints batted first and compiled a good score, helped by poor fielding on our part. Speakman, using a slight breeze to advantage, bowled well, with Close and Chappell adding support. For our innings Speakman and Brinsley were lost to the Firsts. Parsons batted solidly to top score.

P.A.C. Second XI 149 (Parsons 32, Chappell 20, Hetzel 17 n.o.) lost to S.P.S.C. Second XI 8 for 212 (Speakman 4 for 67, Chappell 2 for 28, Close 2 for 45) and 2 for 46.

In the next match we soundly defeated the under 16 'A' team and the full potential of the side was realized.

P.A.C. Second XI 9 declared for 263 (Tregoning 66, Hetzel 52, Johnston 36, Close 35) defeated P.A.C. under 16 'A' 119 (Hocking 3 for 20, Hetzel 3 for 36).

The last match of the year was against Scotch College Second XI on the Front Oval. We batted first only to see the side collapse for 78. Chapman batted solidly and intelligently for 18. Scotch were 7 for 88—again fielding let us down. Townsend bowled extremely well.

P.A.C. Second XI 78 (Chapman 18, Finnegan 16, Close 13) lost to Scotch Second XI 7 for 88 (Townsend 4 for 23).

The team would like to thank Mr Bennett and Mr Nicolson for advice at practice and enthusiasm at the matches.

Under 15 'White'

Captain: D. Bartlett

The under 15 'white' did not have a very successful season winning only one game out of four. Pascoe had an outstanding season, making a well-hit century. The team would like to thank Mr Brown for his assistance at practice and attendance at matches.

Results—

P.A.C. 85 (Pascoe 42 n.o.) were defeated by A.B.H.S. under 15 'A' 110 (Faehse 4 for 19).

P.A.C. 82 (Faehse 16) were defeated by S.P.S.C. under 15 'A' 210 (Bartlett 4 for 40).

P.A.C. 276 (Pascoe 101 n.o., Hill 70, Bartlett 51) defeated S.I.C. under 15 'A' 26 (Pascoe 4 for 13, Sullivan 4 for 7) and 7 for 71.

P.A.C. 52 (McLaren 22) were defeated by P.G.S. under 15 'A' 8 for 75 (Bartlett 3 for 13, Pascoe 3 for 17).

Under 14 'A'

Captain: G. M. Schwartz

The under 14 'A' had a very successful season winning all five games played. We defeated Sacred Heart, S.P.S.C., St Ignatius, Scotch and Kings.

T. Chappell scored a century against S.P.S.C. and took seven wickets against St Ignatius. Others to do well on occasions were Schwartz, Jacobs and Dawkins.

On behalf of the team I would like to thank Mr McFarlane for his general guidance during the year.

Under 14 'B'

Captain: C. K. Nicholls

The team played five matches during the term in which they won three. Best with the bat were Ferris, Crompton and Nicholls while Hull and Mitchell bowled well. Thanks go to Mr Crouch and Mr McFarlane for their help throughout the season.

Under 14 C

Captain: B. W. Rundle

The last term of 1966 proved to be a very successful one. Of the nine games played seven were won and two lost. The best with the bat for the season was Brooks, who frequently made scores over 30. Our best bowlers were Cox, Brooks, and Hawkes.

Under 13 Red

Captain: R. D. Gray

The under 13 'A' had a good season, winning three matches, losing one and drawing another. The best batsmen for the season were Gray, McLean and Moffatt, while the most successful bowlers were Thiem, Bartlett and Gray.

P.A.C. 7 for 79 (Moffat 18, Bartlett 19) defeated S.H.C. 55 (Thiem 3 for 12, Bartlett 2 for 0).

P.A.C. 79 (McLean 34) defeated S.P.S.C. 76 (Thiem 6 for 18).

P.A.C. 9 for 98 (Gray 28, Thiem 25) defeated A.B.H.S. 76 (Thiem 3 for 19, Stevens 3 for 5).

P.A.C. 5 for 86 (Cuthbertson 21) drew with Scotch College 90 (Gray 5 for 21).

P.A.C. 92 (Gray 51 n.o.) lost to A.B.H.S. 127 (Thiem 5 for 58, Bartlett 3 for 22).

Under 13 White

Captain: M. J. Leach

The team had a very successful season winning five out of the six matches. The most successful batsmen were Solomon and Penhall while these two also bowled well. Waters and Parham spun the ball well and had their individual successes.

Our thanks go to Mr Bowden whose coaching and general enthusiasm was most helpful during the season.

Under 13 Green

Captain: R. Snow

We had a highly successful year, with only two losses. The main bowlers were Jackson and Haydon while Swift and Dunn bowled well to capture the remaining wickets.

In our batting Dunn and Smythe opened successfully with Haydon scoring most runs further down the list.

On behalf of the team I would like to thank Mr Jones for his untiring help and advice throughout the season.

FIRST TERM 1967Second XI

Captain: C. L. Brown

The performances this year were disappointing due to the lack of application showed by the earlier batsmen. This meant that the bowlers had a continual uphill fight. Despite this Rogers, Walkom, Sanders and Bartlett bowled well on occasion with Speakman performing excellently in capturing fifteen wickets in only two games.

The first game was against Rostrevor. Our first innings effort was poor—we were all out for 31. But our bowlers did well, dismissing Rostrevor for 117—Bartlett ending up with the fine figures of 7 for 40. Bartlett also batted well in the second innings compiling 28 valuable runs.

P.A.C. Second XI 31 (first innings), 4 for 50 (second innings) (Bartlett 28 n.o.) lost to R.C. Second XI 117 (Bartlett 7 for 40).

Our second match for the season was played against St Ignatius Firsts. Our bowlers toiled on a slow wicket and performed well to have a strong opposing side dismissed for 258. All the bowlers shared the honours with a special mention going to Walkom and Rogers for his long spells. Our opening batsmen gave us a good start and we were none for 25 at stumps. The second Saturday of this game was washed out.

S.I.C. First XI 258 (Rogers 3 for 68, Walkom 2 for 50, Bjordal 2 for 18), P.A.C. 0 for 25. Game washed out.

In our third match against S.P.S.C. Second XI we managed to save the game from a grave position. We were all out for 56 with only Bjordal and Campbell offering any resistance. In our second innings we fared better with Bjordal and Sanders batting well. Saints were dismissed for 181 with Rogers and Speakman sharing the bowling honours.

P.A.C. Second XI first innings 56 (Bjordal n.o. 18 and Campbell 16) lost to S.P.S.C. Second XI all out 181 (Speakman 4 for 61, Rogers 4 for 35). P.A.C. second innings 8 for 72 (Bjordal 21, Sanders 17).

In the final match of the term—a one-day game against A.B.H.S. Second XI—the match was the best fought for the season and one in which we almost won outright. Adelaide High batted first and with a fine team effort in fielding their run-getting capacity was restricted. Speakman, Rogers, and Sanders bowled well. In our batting, Martin, Speakman and Sanders batted solidly enabling us to declare 5 for 149. Speakman bowled intelligently and with fine team support secured 7 wickets in A.B.H.S. second innings.

P.A.C. Second XI first innings, 5 for 149 declared (Martin 45, Speakman 23, Sanders 21).

A.B.H.S. Second XI, first innings, 85 (Speakman 4 for 23, Rogers 3 for 15, Sanders 3 for 16).

A.B.H.S. Second XI second innings, 131 (Speakman 7 for 28, Bartlett 2 for 44).

P.A.C. 88 (Roberts 40, Karmel 29). P.G.S. 6 for 120 (Waters 4 for 35).

The second match for the season was played against S.P.S.C. Second XI. For our batting the game was washed out.

P.A.C. 1 for 11. S.P.S.C. 174 (Cox 3 for 11).

The following game was played against S.P.S.C. under 16 'A'.

The final match of the season was against Rostrevor—we lost outright.

P.A.C. (first innings) 40 (Agars 14). R.C. 6 for 119.

P.A.C. (second innings) 55 (Agars 14).

Fourth XI

Captain: M. J. Waterson

This term the Fourths had a poor season, winning one match and losing two others. The team thanks Mr Baker for helping us at the matches.

P.A.C. 96 lost to C.B.C. 114 (McNeill 33, Matheson 20, Mitchell 21).

P.A.C. 9 for 151 declared and 1 for 89 declared (K. Nicholls 77 and 60 n.o., Waterson 22) defeated Westminster 53 and 55 (Matheson 5 for 17 and Kember 2 for 14).

P.A.C. 66 and 54 (Sweeney 20, Brinsley 19 and McNeil 14) tied with P.G.S. 34 and 76 (Waterson 4 for 16, Matheson 4 for 18, McNeil 6 for 21).

P.A.C. 57 and 6 for 79 (Kelly 19, Matheson 24 and Kimber 18) lost to S.H.C. 9 for 138.

The best players for the season were Matheson, McNeil and Kimber.

Captain: A. J. Potter

This season was reasonably successful for the team. Playing four matches, one of which against Blackfriars was abandoned because of rain, we won two of the remaining three. The most successful batsmen were McPhee and Jacobs, while Dawkins did well with the ball. The team would like to thank Mr Brown for his helpful guidance at matches and Mr Stratfold for his help at practice. Results—

P.A.C. 92 (Dawkins 21 n.o.) defeated R.C. 40 (K. Nicholls 4 for 9, Bannister 3 for 13).

P.A.C. 176 (Mitchell 58, McPhee 55, Potter 25) versus B.F.

P.A.C. 118 (Jacobs 35, Dawkins 30) defeated S.P.S.C. 62 (McPhee 3 for 2, Hawkes 3 for 8).

P.A.C. 4 for 48 (McPhee 18 retired).

P.A.C. 62 (McPhee 28 retired, Jacobs 22 retired) were defeated by W.S. 65 (Potter 3 for 6, Dawkins 3 for 15).

Under 15 White

Captain: R. K. Jacobs

We had a good season winning two out of three games. The whole team played well with no one outstanding player.

P.A.C. 5 for 119 defeated S.P.S.C. 42.

P.A.C. 184 defeated S.I.C. 67 and 8 for 76.

P.A.C. 53 lost to R.C. 73.

The team would like to thank Mr Brown and Mr Stratfold for their help throughout the term.

Under 14 'A'

Captain: R. D. Gray

The under 14 'A' had a very good season winning all three matches played. Best batsmen for the season were McLean, Gray and Penhall, while Theim, Bartlett and Gray were the most successful bowlers.

P.A.C. 2 for 112 (Bartlett 41, McLean 39, Gray 25 n.o.) defeated St Ignatius 9 (Theim 7 for 4).

P.A.C. 6 for 191 (McLean 52 retired, Penhall 51 retired, Gray 43) defeated St Michaels 40 (Gray 5 for 7, Bartlett 2 for 2) and 9 for 116 (Gray 5 for 34).

P.A.C. 65 (Phillips 15) defeated Rostrevor 61 (Theim 5 for 14, Bartlett 3 for 11).

The team would like to thank Mr McFarlane for his coaching and guidance during the year.

Under 14 'B'

Captain: R. H. Lacey

We had a good season winning three out of four games. We lost the first game to Saints because of lack of time. The bowling which gave the most drive to the team was headed by T. Barton and D. Taplin. The batting was opened by D. Parham and P. Waters. T. Barton also gave a lot of drive.

Under 14 'C'

Captain: B. D. Haydon

The under 14 'C' team has not met with as much success as we would have wished but individual players have struck good form—mainly in bowling.

We have lost two out of three matches, once to S.P.S.C. and once to S.H.C. We defeated K.C.

In the match against S.P.S.C. we only just reached half their score, 49 to 88. Haydon took 5 for 25.

The second match of the season was more in our favour and we beat K.C. by 32 runs—29 to 71. Them, who usually plays in the 'A' team, took 7 for 5. Jackson scored 25.

The last match of the season found us being defeated once again, this time by S.H.C. We lost 50 to 66. Smyth took 6 for 16.

One feature of the team has been the enthusiasm and loyalty of each member of it.

Under 13 'A'

Captain: D. C. Lovell

P.A.C. (first innings) 76 (Lovell 29, Frazer 18); C.B.C. (first innings) 0 for 16. Rain stopped play.

P.A.C. (first innings) 86 (Sanders 34, Phillips 21); K.C. (first innings) 50 (Frazer, hat trick, and 7 for 19). P.A.C. (second innings) 1 for 88 (Sanders 36, Lovell 29); K.C. (second innings) 26 (Williamson 4 for 3), P.A.C. won outright.

P.A.C. (first innings) 12 (Young 6); St Michaels (first innings) 13 (Sanders 6 for 4). P.A.C. (second innings) 41 (Sanders 15, Lovell 11); St Michaels (second innings) 6 for 42. St Michaels won outright.

The first match for the under 13 white team resulted in a win to Princes. Dalwood scored 30 runs and Phillips took 4 wickets.

The next was lost by 3 runs, Fricker scoring 29 runs.

The last match for the season was another win, Dalwood scoring 24 runs and Phillips taking 5 wickets.

On behalf of the team I would like to thank Mr Bowden for his help at matches.

Under 13 'C'

Captain: M. R. Wills

This season only three matches were played, of which we won one. Mr. Willcocks became our coach just before the last match. The best players have been Wills, Rowe and Curnow.

P.A.C. 38 (Hosking, Martin 8) lost to S.P.S.C. 6 for 111 (Martin 3 for 31).

P.A.C. 32 (Wills 12) lost to S.P.S.C. 52 (Rowe 3 for 10, Wills 3 for 18).

P.A.C. 26 (Rowe 5) defeated A.B.H.S. 'B' 22 (Wills 6 for 14, Rowe 2 for 3, Curnow 1 for 5).

Rural Youth

The Rural Youth Club in the boarding house this year promises to be a very active and interesting group. The total of eighty-six members is made up of boys from intermediate level to matriculation. Included in this total is an elected committee of five boys who have the task of organizing the various functions of the club. The committee this year has as its president J. E. Ashby, with R. K. Lewis as vice-president, and C. M. Bailey, P. W. Walkom, and M. J. Pfeiler as secretary, treasurer and news reporter respectively.

Already this term three meetings have been held to discuss future undertakings. There was a suggestion of a trip to the abattoirs (mainly for those with bad sinuses or good stomachs) and several lectures and film shows by various masters and rural personalities have also been arranged.

A social was held with the P.G.C. Rural Youth Club on 25 February, and with music by the young school group, 'Obviously Five Believers', the social was a great success. Subscriptions of $1 per boy helped pay for this social and we hope that these will give the club many more enjoyable inter-club socials. A debate with P.G.C. is planned for the near future, whilst a special group of boys has been chosen to enter a display in this year's Royal Show.

With so many projects on the agenda, this year's club is sure to have a busy and enjoyable year.

Community Aid Abroad

Third Term 1966

Third term activities included a clothing sale, a book, magazine and record sale, and a film evening.

The clothing sale was very profitable and, as in previous years, so was the book, magazine and record sale. Although the audience was not as large as in other years, the film show was still successful, thanks to Publicity Officer, D. Bloomfield and many other helpers.

A very successful year for C.A.A. ended with the record total of $684.65 being raised. We especially thank Sandow, Barrie and Schmidt for all their work, and Mr Mattingley for his constant guidance.

First Term 1967

Speaking to morning assembly early in the term, Mr Mattingley, in introducing C.A.A. for 1967, announced that this year the money P.A.C. raised would go towards projects in underdeveloped, undernourished Africa. Until this year, our money has gone towards a project in India.

The following committee was elected at the first meeting for this term: president, R. I. Lellmann, co-secretaries, R. K. Lewis, P. W. Walkom; treasurer, M. J. Pfeiler.

A collection has been held for C.A.A. this term, but activities have not yet started because of the usual first term functions, sports and intercols. However, as soon as activities commence, we hope that the school will once again support this worthy organization.

Community Service

This year a new programme has been started which utilizes the 'remnants' not involved in scouts, cadets or other Wednesday morning activities.

Although for years the School has taken up weekly collections to aid various charities, we felt that direct contact would help them even more and also be most worthwhile for the boys concerned.

The project started with six boys going to the Helping Hand Centre at North Adelaide to sort clothes. In a few weeks, under the guidance of Mr Waters, who arranges visits and provides transport in his overloaded car, it has grown so that we now send out three parties.

One group, on alternate weeks visits the Helping Hand Centre to sort clothes and the Illoura Baptist Old Folks Home to do yard work. Another group visits homes of old people in the Kent Town area, and does any strenuous work for the owners.

A group of three boys, every Wednesday morning, visits the occupational centre for mentally retarded children on Kent Terrace, very near the School. They take a group of about a dozen boys for physical exercise for about three-quarters of an hour. It is most rewarding to see boys who have so little co-ordination that they cannot bounce a ball, slowly improve until they can play ball games with the other abler boys.

The programme has had a very successful launching and we hope it will continue for many years to come.

Prefects' Palaver

The nineteen school prefects for 1967 are forcefully led this year by John Pfeiler, the Captain of the School. Amongst the prefects are representatives of all fields of school activity. There are, for example, five prefects in the First VIII: Pfeiler (who is captain of boats), David Provis, Rob Lellmann, Grant Brown and Andy Crompton. In the First XI there are four representatives: Graham Sweeney—who is captain of cricket and the holder of a merit badge—Greg Stanford, Richie Lower and Phil Speakman.

Rick Bond and Phil Nehmy are representatives of the athletes of the School; they can between them beat any relay team. Robert French played a prominent part in the narrow victory of the intercollegiate tennis team over S.P.S.C. Along with John Arthur and 'Skita' Campbell, he is a prospect for the First XVIII.

Secretary of the S.C.M. is John Howland, the finest gentleman and scholar amongst the prefects. Mike Raupach is the editor of the Chronicle, whilst Nick Martin, who has recently returned from a trip to Europe, England and the United States, is a fiery orator who dabbles a little in the art of ballad writing, as we can see—

'Tank' Pfeiler is the leader
Of this our motley crew;
He strokes Prince Alfred College,
And Prince Alfred number two.

Ricky Bond's our athlete,
With Phil Nehmy fast approaching;
When Rostrevor sees that pair,
They'll come and ask for coaching.

The Head of the River this year
We must surely win anew,
With Provis, Crompton, Lellman, Brown
And an outboard motor or two.

Now of our many cricketers
Greg Stanford is our Davo,
Whilst our captain, Graham Sweeney,
Is our answer to Richie Benaud.

Two more men in white,
Phil Speakman and Dick Lower,
Send our scores rocketing up,
Over after over.

Bill Brown has a finger in every pie,
He's a ball of fire for his age,
While Skita Campbell's stuck behind bars,
Down in the cricket cage.

Frog French, he's in the drive squad;
He can really bash that ball.
John Howland is both gentleman and scholar,
A very fine chap in all.

The naughty knave in our pure midst,
As all the world can see,
Is John Arthur, who with silver tongue
Woos half of P.G.C.

Down from his ivory tower
Descends our editor Mike Raupachimus
Who, above his laboratory door has nailed
'Ubi non est scientia non est animus!'

And last but one, A. Bennett
Our businessman on Wall Street,
Who has promised to increase Science Journal ads
By at least four hundred square feet.

Finally comes our poet,
Our own immortal bard,
Nick Martin who, when writing this,
Found it very, very hard.

Parents and Friends Association

There was a good attendance at the annual meeting of the Association on Friday, 10 March. The president, Mr J. C. Freeman, presented his annual report, in which he told of the help given to the College by the Association and of the assistance given by members in connection with the Centenary Appeal.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: president, Professor B. S. Hetzel; immediate past president, Mr J. C. Freeman; vice-presidents, Mr C. T. Bennett and Mr M. Brinsley; honorary secretary, Mr C. G. Lands; honorary treasurer, Mr J. E. C. Stephens; honorary auditor, Mr R. C. Perkins; members of the committee, Mrs D. W. Gray, Mrs L. C. Holland, Mrs B. Potter, Mr A. W. G. Dawkins, Mr J. E. Marriott, Mr B. W. Phillips, Mr N. D. Thompson, and Mr R. C. Wills.

Warm tributes were paid to the work of the retiring secretary, Mr K. G. Tuckwell, who had served the Association so well for a long period.

On the afternoon of Thursday, 6 April, mothers of boys new to the Senior School were welcomed by the president and committee members at a pleasant function.

Public Examinations 1966

In 1966 the Leaving Honours Examination was replaced by the Matriculation Examination. Most of the boys sitting for the examination had already passed in the subjects required for matriculation at the 1965 Leaving Examination. For this reason we record below the results of boys passing in three or more subjects, without indicating those who passed the group of subjects required for matriculation.

There were major changes also in the Leaving and Intermediate Examinations in that there is no longer a pass mark in subjects and the certificate with its former requirements has been abolished. Every candidate receives from the Public Examinations Board a certificate which is a record of his performance in the subjects for which he sat. Results were graded 1 to 6 instead of A to G as in previous years. The grades were as follows:

Grade	Percentile*	Grade	Percentile*
1	0 - 10	4	51 - 75
2	11 - 25	5	76 - 90
3	26 - 50	6	91 - 100

* that is, the top 10 per cent will be awarded grade 1, the next 15 per cent grade 2 and so on.

Club Activities

SENIOR DEBATING CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Dennis

At the first meeting of the Senior Debating Club for 1967 the following were elected to offices: Mr Lloyd, president; Mr Close, vice-president; Mr Dubin, organizing secretary; Mr Martin, minute secretary; Mr Johnston, committeeman.

At two successive meetings, two debates have been held. The first, 'That religion has done more good than harm', was successful in that it had been well prepared and was of reasonably high standard. The second debate, 'That the majority of powers of the State Governments should be handed over to the Commonwealth Government', was of a lower standard, many of the arguments hinging on the undefined word, 'majority'. Both debates were won by the con side, a few good speeches being given by Messrs Dubin, Macdonald and Pryzibilla.

The committee realizes the need for a greater number of serious debates and has arranged a rough plan for the meetings ahead.

LIFESAVING CLUB

Masters in Charge:

Mr Woollard, Mr Brown, Mr Stratfold

The new school pool was opened early in the term and has provided the Lifesaving Club with a permanent home. At the first meeting a new member of the staff Mr Stratfold, was welcomed into the Club.

The pool has inspired much enthusiasm into the Club members, and at the first few meetings they settled down to some hard training for lifesaving awards. At the lifesaving examinations held on Friday, 17 March, a very large number of boys was examined, most passing their respective awards. J. Ashby, P. Walkom, L. Smith, D. Toop, and R. Southwood were successful in gaining the Award of Merit, almost doubling the number of these awards gained in the three previous years. So far this season the School has gained 1,889 awards: Safe Swimmer Certificate, 399; Survival Certificate, 180; Resuscitation Certificate, 351; Water Safety Certificate, 351; Elementary Certificate, 154; Proficiency Certificate, 231; Intermediate Star, 98; Bar to Intermediate Star, 11; Bronze Medallion, 36; Bar to Bronze Medallion, 33; Bronze Cross, 20; Bar to Bronze Cross, 10; Award of Merit, 5. Point total, 3,688.

On the night of Saturday, 18 March a squad comprising Fogden, Brown, Provis, Frolich and Lellmann represented the School in the State Lifesaving Championships. The team did not do as well as was hoped and was placed fifth overall and second in the schoolboy sections. An under 16 squad gained third place in their respective event. A. Brown and J. Ashby were successful in individual events.

Club members thank Mr Woollard, Mr Brown and Mr Stratfold who have spent considerable time with the Club and whose interest and enthusiasm have inspired greater efforts.

SENIOR OPEN FORUM CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Jones

This Club is an attempt to improve on last year's Literary Appreciation Club, and we have enjoyed great success already. The scarcity of our numbers has certainly not detracted from but rather added to our discussions by producing a more intimate atmosphere.

The first topic discussed this year was 'Should cadets be compulsory in schools?' and, despite the fact that most members were against the compulsion, we were divided as to how the activity should be conducted. The always controversial subject of censorship was tackled the following week, and it was generally agreed that some form of censorship should be imposed in society.

Thus in a very informal way we are attempting to learn and appreciate the opinions of others.

ART CLUB

Master in Charge: Mr M. Gray

1966 activities concluded with a successful exhibition of members' paintings and sketches which were on display in the foyer of the Assembly Hall. Also at the end of the third term, Art Club members produced a series of Christmas cards which proved very popular.

We congratulate last year's president, Ian Kerr, on winning the Art Club painting prize for 1966.

Club president for this year is Ian Dalton, who has a most enthusiastic committee which meets regularly to plan Club activities. These include printing, sculpture, pottery, metal enamelling, oil painting, water colours, drawing and picture framing.

Highlight of this year has been the leasing of a six-roomed stone cottage at Williamstown for a Club studio. Three groups of boys have made week-end working trips to the studio so far, and others are looking forward to future visits.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Bryant

We have had only a few hobbies periods this year, partly because of other school activities on Friday afternoons, but several interesting projects have been begun. One group is preparing alcohol and investigating its derivatives, while another pair of boys is using the Haber process on a small scale to make ammonia. We also make glassware for the laboratory and so foster the study of chemistry in the rest of the School as well as among our own members.

LEATHERWORK CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Duff

This year there are twenty-two boys in the Club. They are keenly interested and with the aid of a new set of tools are doing useful work and looking forward to a highly successful year.

JUNIOR DEBATING CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Mills

The club has twenty-five members and at the first meeting Cooper, Bartlett and MacLean were voted committee members.

The following week a debate was held. The motion, 'P.A.C. spends too much time on sport', was soundly defeated by a vote of five to fifteen.

We hope that, during this year, the Club will promote a feeling of self-confidence in all the members in the field of public speaking.

MODEL TRAIN CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Crouch

The Club has two tracks but so far we have been able to use only the small track, as the large one is still being tested. The Club hopes to purchase a transformer, as at present we have to use members' transformers.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

Masters in charge: Mr Fowler and Mr Bowden

During the last term of 1966 the Club had a number of interesting activities which were enjoyed by all of its members. A trip to Holdens was most successful but unfortunately cameras were not allowed inside the factory; so we could not record our visit with photography.

This term we have had already two interesting films and a trip to the zoo where some excellent photos were taken. A full-length film, a number of tours, talks and demonstrations of equipment are planned.

The photography club and advanced developing club have combined for most activities this year so that numbers are larger than in previous years.

SCOUT HOBBIES GROUP

Master in Charge: Mr Whitworth

Once again a small but hard-working band of Scouts, drawn from all the various troops are facing a busy year keeping our headquarters (Hazeldene) and our equipment in good repair.

Those from the Sea Scouts will be concentrating on boat repair, making sailing gear and doing rope work. Those from the Land Scouts will be devoting most of their time to tentage, axes and other tools, and making knotting and badge boards. And this year one of the Senior Sea Scouts has taken over looking after all the records and the library—a most valuable contribution to the smooth running of the group.

SLOT CAR CLUB

Master in charge: Mr I. Gray

This Club has proved very popular. Foundation members total forty at present. Plans are well in hand to build a track of suitable size to accommodate the members' cars. This we hope will be completed in the near future.

CURRENT AFFAIRS CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Mattingley

Although we have had only three meetings this term, the foundations have been laid for an informative and interesting year. At our last meeting, Mr Mills showed slides of Nigeria, and gave an interesting commentary on the geography of the country as well as the political situation. It is hoped that by the end of the term we shall have had speakers from the major political parties in Australia.

WOODWORK CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Welby

Several useful projects are taking shape. Amid the turmoil of shavings and dust, coffee tables, 'silent valets', a ship, and drawers are being constructed.

So far only three rectangular and kidney-shaped coffee tables are being worked upon, but in all possibility one or two more will be constructed by the end of the year. The three 'silent valets', when finished, will stand in the boys' bedrooms for the purpose of receiving clothes and so prevent creasing. Many of the boys in the Club are awaiting for the completion of the ship, as the final appearance has not been disclosed. Two sets of drawers are being made, which differ in the number of drawers according to their intended use after completion.

MODEL AEROPLANE CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Claver

There are about thirty boys in the club and most of them are first-year boys. The only boys that have brought and flown their planes are Dodd, Thompson, Philips, and Baker. There has only been one serious crash so far, and that was Thompson's Vulcan P.17. Dodd flew his Mustang Trainer with unquestionable skill. Baker had a little bit of trouble to start with, but after a while it was all right.

STAMP CLUB

Master in charge: Mr Glancey

During our first meeting, the officers were elected, the office holders for 1967 being M. W. Jones (president), A. D. Lyndon (secretary), C. J. V. Newbigin (treasurer), and R. F. Smyth (committeeman). A programme including stamp auctions, films, 'quiz' and other competitions and swapping was discussed. It was decided to have a 'quiz' during our second meeting and general swapping in the following meeting. A letter was received from a Malaysian boy, who wishes to exchange Malaysian stamps for Australian stamps. Several members brought stamps which have since been sent to him and we are hoping for a reply soon. All members seem to be keen stamp collectors and we look forward to an enjoyable year.

AND ALONE

Benje hung lazily on the screen door and looked out on the freshly painted morning. A warm sun was rising over rolling, brown-textured hills, casting cool, long shadows across their tree-spotted wastes. Pouring like some delicious liquor into the wooded lowlands it danced on spreading boughs, scintillating with a spark-like clarity among dew-glossed leaves. Dewy green slopes rose to drink. Grey wisps of smoke drifted sullenly from white weatherboard farmhouses scattered comfortably among nestling hillsides.

The west wind was sweet with citrus blossoms and rushed playfully across the porch, rustling dry leaves over the splintered boards. Catching the boy's hair the stoic breeze tossed golden brown tufts carelessly above a delicate, quiet face. His large blue eyes seemed to brighten and a smile flickered almost imperceptibly across his sensuous, brooding mouth. He stepped nervously, almost furtively from the porch into the caressing sunlight. Here he paused attentively. The clatter of morning dishes drifted with summer-soothing from the kitchen and mingled with the melancholy chugging of a straining tractor.

He sat down suddenly on the crusted earth and eagerly flung off his worn shoes and tattered socks. Jumping up, he dashed with an exuberant dexterity down the road that slept like a yellow river before his dry-cracked home. The friendly wind seemed to speak to him in a growling whistle as it rushed by, double-time. And he answered with bubbling vitality which splashed about his sprinting frame and gushed radiantly over his face in a life-singing expression of sun-drenched joy.

His bounding strides soon brought him to a patch of thin woods bordering on a dry stream bed. He stopped. Panting in deep breaths, he leaned against the dead hulk of an old oak. Above, the shrill cries of birds rang, like sharp-silvered flute notes, through the whispering breeze. A brown ball of fur scuttled with fervent hops into the undergrowth. The boy smiled. Sunlight dappled the dusty road as it wound narrowly through the bordering trees.

Once again the need for extravagant exertion welled up through his rushing blood into his heated face.

He raced wildly, with flailing arms, along the tree-arched road and burst into the sunlit open. As the woods fell quickly behind, the road grew wider and was covered with a thick blanket of sand. He walked, calming his still-running breath and dragging his small, thin feet through the luxurious mounds. It squeezed through his toes, cool, lifting, drying-loving his moist skin. He tossed golden handfuls into the whispering wind. Bending over he flung splashing scoops, dog style, through his blue-jeaned legs and felt them rain softly on his faded red corduroy shirt. Stopping suddenly, he half-heartedly brushed the sun-yellow grains from his hair.

A life-oblivious truck rushed drunkenly around the bend.

The boy was kneeling, paralyzed with leaden fears, he started. Time stood still, the world swam in dizzy shadows; please! The sun-bright world reeled about him. Why now? Sometimes . . . a dream . . . asleep. Can't die, please. . . . A screaming blow, shattering the blue, cloud flecked sky.

Oh, green! Summer hay. Own the farm . . . red bricks. Can't die . . . mother . . . don't leave . . . alone . . . please help me. I don't want to die . . . alone . . . can't see . . . play softball . . . I'll be all right . . . hurt . . . please . . . want to see . . . to live . . . please help . . . can't hear . . . mother, help me, come . . . alone . . . please . . . daddy . . . Be all right . . . just hurt . . . dying . . . Frisky died . . . bones stick out . . . be all right . . . hospital . . . mother I want you . . . please help me . . . come . . . by myself . . . die alone . . . help me . . .

The boy lay huddled by the side of the road crying softly. He shuddered bitterly and lay still. The world swam. Suddenly he felt a warm, luxuriant wind across his cheek; the world slipped away.

THE DARK WORLD OF TCABUINJI

Tcabuniji wandered aimlessly down a back street of Alice Springs. His aching feet, caked with dust, suddenly halted, as he saw a vacant lot across the street. He slouched over to it and settled down among the prickly weeds, his tired, brown eyes closing almost immediately. He began to dream about the past which he bitterly resented.

He despised his parents, one white, one black, (of whom he knew nothing) for bringing him into this cruel world. Yet it was not only the prejudice of colour which burned into Tcabuniji, but also the deprivation and injustice which went with it. Fate seemed as though it had designed the pattern of his life from the outset.

Tcabuniji can vividly remember his unhappiness in a Boys' Home. Here he was constantly made aware of his inferior position by the remarks of his school-mates. He also hated the sadistic priest in charge of the home, who would enjoy working out his frustration on a pathetic little half-caste.

Many times he had ventured to Adelaide to try and find work, but each time he was turned away, being told that he was 'the wrong colour'. Each time Tcabuniji heard this he became more furious, realizing that he was not the wrong colour but a mixture of colours. Often he had wondered what it was like to be a full-blood.

Yesterday evening he pictured himself as a young teenage Australian able to go to a well-to-do school and then university. He enjoyed the security and happiness of being an adolescent who knows he was wanted. He could go out with girls without feeling inferior. He liked the freedom of his society and appreciated its many luxuries.

This evening he imagined himself as a full-blooded aborigine. He was proud of being a direct descendant of the first 'Australians'. He enjoyed hunting and fishing and appreciated their primitive culture and traditions.

Yet he was neither Australian nor Aboriginal. Tcabuniji belongs to no race and because of this must face the scorns of his half-brothers. For him there appears no future.

He was aroused from his sleep by the powerful kick of a patrolling policeman. This poor, unwanted man was hauled to his feet by his black, curly hair like a sack of potatoes. He heard the familiar shout of 'damned half-caste' and realized it was time to move on.

Tcabuniji staggered down the street, not yet fully recovered from the policeman's kick, muttering, 'If only I was white.' He wondered whether the policeman's attitude would have been changed by this.

The policeman showed no sympathy as he stared at the lanky figure and the dark face which had an air of resignation, defeat and an acceptance of fate.

THE BEACH

The sun rises slowly, waves lap the shore,
The sea-gulls crying in melodious voices,
Nature has its own laws;
The world is quiet.

But into this serene silence come noises,
Happy, laughing, children's cries,
Children who only know the world
As a joyful, carefree paradise.

Mothers and fathers, uncles and aunts,
Settle themselves beneath umbrella shade.
They have their own worries but today
All is forgotten.

The bronzed lifesavers, standing by the boats,
Know tragedy only too well;
T'was but the week before, a child, like these,
Was drowned. They were alert.

Old men fishing off the jetty
Look down at this picturesque scene,
And remember that many years before
They too had been able to enjoy themselves.

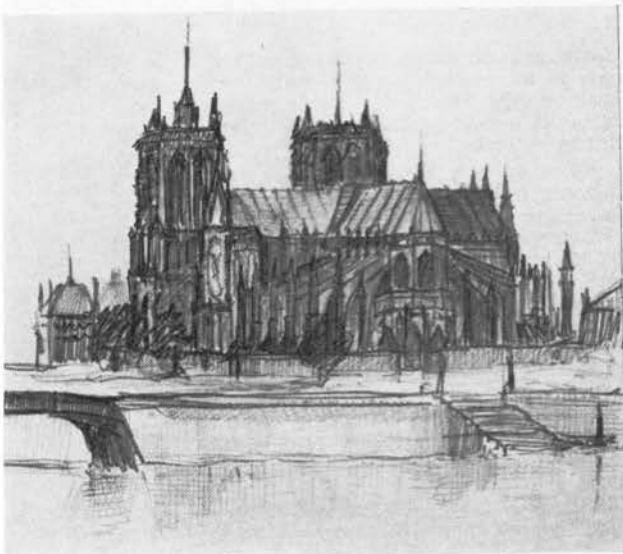

Dogs chasing sea-gulls, splashing water,
Fighting, licking, kicking, swimming.
They too enjoy the beach,
A land of contentment.

All this sign of activity.

But all good things come to an end.

The sun sinks slowly and tired picnickers
Make their way back to their cars and return
To the reality and terror of the busy world.

WATER DIVINING—FACT OR FANTASY?

I have always been a bit sceptical about water divining, mental telepathy and such inexplicable phenomena, but recently I have been convinced that there really is something behind this. For last week-end I myself divined and obtained indications of water which are otherwise unaccountable.

On Sunday we drove down to our block of twelve acres at Willunga to see the boring rig drill for water. Today was the day we had been waiting for—today the bore, which would decide the success of our almonds, was to be started. Half-way through the afternoon the boring rig arrived and trundled the third of a mile to the top of the block where some preliminary divining had been done.

The gentleman who owned the rig had only been known to me as a result of 'phone calls and so we had nick-named him the 'boring man', but as he had a good sense of humour, he did not take offence. Inside of five minutes the 'diviner man' pulled up. This was the man who had done the initial water divining with us and so his name was obvious.

The divining man took from his car an L-shaped piece of fencing about five inches by twenty inches. He then went to the place where he had sensed water before. He held the five-inch end tightly in his right hand so that it was in the position like a pistol. He walked over the previously marked patch of ground and then it happened—the long, horizontal leg swung slowly north-east! He continued for twenty feet and the wire swung to its original position. He repeated the procedure and pointed out the deepest place, approximate depth and direction of flow of our subterranean stream.

Then the diviner got from his car a ten-inch piece of dowel with a billiard ball suspended from eight inches of cotton at one end. He set the ball in a circular motion, the cotton describing a cone. As he walked across the marked ground, the orbit of the billiard ball, watched by seven pairs of eyes, changed from circular to elliptical to pendulous! As he crossed the marked edge of the stream, the orbit went back from pendulous to elliptical to circular. He looked up and smiled with relief. One test to go before he was sure where to bore!

This time he returned from his car with a thirty-inch piece of wire bent to a U-shape with hand-grips in the ends. This time he walked over the same ground with tense concentration; then the wire dipped—he bent at the knees and back, his knuckles showed white, he went red in the face. He fought with the invisible force, the wire writhing in his hands. Finally the battle subsided and he stood erect once more. Physical exertion showed up on his face and eyes. He was breathing rapidly. 'If there isn't a 200,000 gallons flow down there, I'm a monkey's uncle'. He looked to the boring contractor. 'About 170 feet, I'd say.'

I was naturally incredulous and asked if I could try it. I picked up the wire and walked over and across the supposed stream. The wire twitched and moved uncertainly, as if wondering whether it should respond for its new master. Then it moved over to the north-east and I, hardly believing my eyes, shouted, 'Hey, get a look at this, it's for real!' My sister rushed over and tried it—it swung around just as it should.

When we tried the other methods we did not get any results but the L-shaped wire was convincing enough on its own. We tried to work out a reasonable answer to this, but there was no concrete evidence. We considered static electricity, magnetism with some form of polarised water, difference in gravitational force through different densities, and many others, but nothing was at all substantial. In the end we concluded that it was one of those many things about which man has much to discover.

We watched the rig back in to position and raise its sixty-foot portable derrick. It will be a fortnight before we know whether we have struck water but until then we shall just have to wait and believe in something which we do not understand—more important, have faith in the 'divining man'.

ATHENS; FEBRUARY

Do you remember the air so cold it froze your lungs and burned your cheeks?

The brazier smoke crystallized in the air and the hot chestnuts burned your hands and smelled so good you wanted to breathe them.

Boys ran down the pavement with cups of bitter-black espresso thawing your nostrils.

Archbishop Makarioses argued down the street, two by two. They were lucky; they could store the chestnuts and espresso in their beards and smell them when they pleased.

Do you remember the fare collector sitting up there with his piles of drachmas like a modern Matthew?

We rumbled past a ruined temple and he kept counting his money.

Then, out into the cold, dry air again.

Puffing up the hill, wanting to stop and feel the cold better.

Hadrian's chair under the olive grove was so cold and clean and the theatre so empty and white that Hadrian and the actors would be litter there today.

Running up the steps, clambering over the fragments of some temple and standing on the wall breathing cold, cold, dry cold air, so clean that your lungs wanted more and the sun was cold and white and looked like an early morning sun, not like a one o'clock sun at all.

Holding cold marble until your hands were numb and staring at the Mediterranean, silver in the weak, wintry sun.

Wandering around Hadrian's library: deserted: decaying. Green grass and broken bottles on mosaic floors. Tiles being ground to dust and boys playing soccer in an old reading room.

What does it matter? It's only Roman.
Not even two thousand years old.

The sprawling Agora where the earth is broken amphora chips and grass grows in the bouleterion and trains run through the law courts,
And this was once the centre of the world.

Speeding around the bay to catch a 'plane.
White houses tumbled into the bay, brim-full and brilliant blue.

We stood on the tarmac staring at brown hills which hid their secrets of ancient power under goats' feet and olive groves.

We circled above the blue bay, white houses, brown hills and then away, over the black, snowiced mountains.

FIREBUG

Through the bushland burns the fire—
Scaring hot, and ever higher;
Horses bolting 'tween the trees,
As if stung by swarming bees.

Flames are licking round the roots,
Singeing fur on bandicoots—
T'ward the dam, the 'possums flee
Dodging every blackened tree.

'Roos and wombats scurry past,
Lest for days the blaze should last:
Dog-leg fences up in smoke—
All because of that fire-bug bloke.

THE DUEL

The moon's behind the wispy clouds,
The stars are in the sky,
And brightly lit the meadow is,
While behind the chair am I.

Two coaches silhouetted.
Against the black horizon,
Slow down and stop, beyond the top,
But still I keep my eyes on.

Four men get out,
Two come towards me,
And back to back,
Pace stealthily.

Suddenly they turn and shoot,
The nearer falls in pain,
The other walks away from him,
While thinking of his gain.

The coach drives off, into the night,
The meadow once again is free,
The television I must turn off,
As it is time for tea.

THE SUN HAS NO SHADOW

A huge red neon, perched tenaciously on the roof of a decaying tenement house, mechanically etched 'Coco-Cola' across the black chill of a starless night. Grey-posted street lamps winked with cold fluorescence on yellow, cracked sidewalks and hummed nervously over trickling gutters. The air was dead.

Grit-echoing steps rang empty through the black hollow of a narrow alley way. A dark, shadow-painted figure stumbled furtively in the blackness and emerged with an awkward lurch into the grey-stark street. A gaunt, ragged body swung drunkenly in the screaming light and fell, sprawling heavily, into the street.

They say the gardens are so beautiful in the spring. Maybe tomorrow. So your boy is going to war . . . be good for him, teach him to be a man . . . killed?

Night caressed the breath-gulping frame with her cool fingers. He felt her touch and shuddered pitifully. His voice cracked and the stillness, hoarse, choking.

'Why have you left me . . . I can't . . . you've taken everything from me . . . huh? why? . . . even Susan . . . and . . . you drove me out . . . and . . . here . . . hah! . . . every minute . . . I might have had a fortune . . . and Roger . . . you're not . . . I needed you and you weren't there.

The silence laughed. 'You fool, I never left . . . You did'.

MIDNIGHT

K. G. Lasscock, VI A

'Hah! Then . . . Then I don't need you. I never did . . . never . . . wait!'

Silence smiled 'You need not fear my going . . . I'll wait. It is you who run, floundering in your own tracks and choking in your own dust. . . . Will you not look for me? Fool! I am not there . . . not in the night. In you, fool, in you.'

'No! You lie. You hate me. All these years . . . what have you done for me? Huh? You hate me. You do!' The figure writhed stertorously.

'Fool!' Silence laughed almost audibly. 'You need yourself. You detest every foul breath, every sordid second, of your life. You hate yourself for yourself. No, fool, you are lost. Lost so deep that even I can't find you. Lost!'

'No! I am not . . . just can't . . . I just need . . . I'm not.

'Fool!' Silence laughed almost audibly. 'You need me'.

Footsteps and voices pounded the night, 'He's here!'

The figure screamed, 'No! He made me do it! He hates me!'

LIBRARY

It it not well pleasing
To see
All those great books leasing
The shelves,
To think that so many Topics
Are discussed—that any Number
Of topics will yet be Printed,
Filling old folk with glee,
And young?

Have you ever stopped to Muse on How many truths they do
Include,
How many hours of toil
Therein
Are represented? Soil Pages
Without care for the lives
Given
To sugar others' lives
Of sour
Sweetness—centuries, now
Public,
Of thinking they endow
On us.

Glorious chances giv'n
To us:
Glorious futures riv'n

MODERN . . .

Flashing lights, dust, loud music, and the beat goes on.

People wandering like phantoms,
Each wondering where he's going.
Buildings hide old mother earth:
She's covered with a lumpy scum
Of asphalt and concrete.
'Man is a social animal' they cry, and continue to spread their cosmopolitan rubbish dump
Over the face of earth.

Where have you gone, you waving, lonely grass-lands,
Flecked with spreading, cooling gums
Brooding over tingling, pebbly streams?
You're fenced, littered, peopled.
Then comes the city.

They call it progress. I suppose it's necessary.

REBELLION

No one here yesterday
abhorred the passing of the old ways except those whose life and blood and being were in them and around them.

No one here today
abhors the passing of the old ways except those whose life and blood and being is in them and around them.

No one here tomorrow.
will abhor the passing of the old ways will be in them and around them, except Us.

THE DESERT

The rock is bare and desolate
Life from this plain is gone,
And has left a barren waste
That wind and sun cast scorn upon.

A vulture flies; swoops overhead
Then all is still and quiet again
Save the ceaseless drumming of the wind
Which keeps away the rain.

Maybe once a year some rain will fall,
And fill the ground with bloom
But this is only fleeting life
Which soon for death makes room.

MOMENT OF TRUTH

Here I sit, with knocking knees, not daring to move, waiting, for what seems an infinite length of time. A sea of faces, some happy, others deadly serious lie before me. The moment has actually arrived and I go into a cold sweat. My throat feels like a piece of sandpaper as I glance over the few verses, seemingly filled with unpronounceable words and tongue-twisting phrases. The Service begins and I quickly establish the fact that the moment of truth will come after the hymn. A cool breeze blows in from the side, sending a shiver down my spine as the chaplain addresses the Assembly. Suddenly he sits and glances over in my direction. All eyes are upon me because this is my cue to begin reading. Slowly I rise from the huge chair in which I have been trying to hide. A few words are spluttered out, announcing the text of the reading. Pages rustle as I wait for what seems an indefinitely long period. I begin to read, not daring to look up, and as I progress, my confidence gains with every syllable spoken, until it is all over: until tomorrow.

THE AUSTRALIAN BUSH

There is a silent, soothing hush,
Lingering in the Australian Bush.
The koala bear is quiet, too,
And even our friend the kangaroo.

Way up high in a tall gum tree,
A kookaburra laughs with glee.
And further down some possums sleep,
But now and then they take a peep.

A deadly foe invades the scene,
Fear now reigns where peace has been.
A wisp of smoke, a sound of burning,
Into an inferno, the bush is turning.

Animals flee as the flames draw near,
Natural enemies as one in their fear.
The trees explode in showers of flame;
Trees that were there before the White man came.

When the horror and death of a disastrous day
Had passed, black ashes everywhere lay.
Nature the healer will lend her hand,
And new green will cover a timeless land.

SWITZERLAND

After spending almost a week in Italy my family caught a train bound for Geneva in Switzerland. As the train wound its way through the Italian Alps, we were treated to beautiful vistas of rugged mountains, many of them covered with snow. Just as the train approached Switzerland, we were plunged into darkness as we entered the twelve-mile long Simplon Tunnel. One does not gain a true impression of the great work of engineering until it is realized that it is a tunnel twelve miles long gouged out of solid rock.

After about twenty minutes we were once again in daylight and had passed into Switzerland, a land of high alps and beautiful lakes.

We left the train at Geneva and went to our hotel. It was not until the next morning that we fully realized that, although this great city is not the capital of Switzerland, it is the centre of many great world organizations such as International Red Cross, and The United Nations. The palace of the United Nations is immense and beautiful—it alone deserves a book, not just a brief mention.

In a garden near the University is sited the Reformation Wall. This is a large stone wall with frescoes of many of the 'Great Reformers' such as Martin Luther and Calvin. Under each carving is a quotation from some of these famous men. It is a fitting memorial to them.

On our way to Zurich we drove through many interesting Swiss mountain villages, not the least of which was Spiez where we spent a night in a delightful chalet. The nights are so cold that the eiderdowns provided are between nine inches and a foot thick. We were awakened in the morning by the sound of cowbells as a herd of cattle were taken through a city street.

We left on that morning for what is probably the most fascinating part of the trip, a journey through the Sustler Pass.

As the pass had been opened for only three weeks there was still a large amount of snow piled up next to the road where the bulldozers had cleared the way. As we wound our way up this highway we passed through many well-illuminated tunnels gouged from the rocky mountains. As we neared the topmost part of the pass, we noticed signs showing the height which, when converted from metres to feet, told us that we were now at about 7,000 feet.

At the highest point we were about the same height above sea-level as Australia's highest mountain—Mount Kosciusko. We drew off the road into one of the many pull-offs and parked right next to snow about three feet deep. While we enjoyed our lunch we could gaze in wonder at a huge glacier which was about a mile away. But we had to move on; so now we started our winding descent. In several places the snow was piled up to a depth of about twenty feet on either side of the road.

When we left the pass we entered some forested areas where the Swiss woodcutters worked. We stayed that night at Zurich—or rather at a small village several miles away on the shores of a lake known as 'Zurich Sea'.

During the next day we saw that, although this city is the commercial centre of tri-lingual Switzerland, it is not spoilt by this and is a very picturesque city on the shores of a beautiful lake.

On the next day, time forced us to leave Switzerland and start our brief trip to France. Although I was in Switzerland for only a week, I think that it is a week that I shall never forget.

NATIONAL DISASTER?

Five hundred miles of gleaming pipe,
Five hundred miles in vain,
For now the Moomba gas supply
Is flooded out by. . . .

RAIN in northern Queensland,
Fire in Hobart town,
Oh how I wish they'd hurry up
And pull that opera house. . . .

DOWN in bonny Canberra,
By Lake Burley Griffin,
Old Arthur C. is thrown out,
And young Gough Whitlam's. . . .

IN the centre of our land
The greatest tragedy's here,
For poor old Alice Springs' pubs
Have run right out of beer!

CATCHING AN EYEFUL

I'm lookin', finding it hard—but managing to see,
 I'm listening, plenty of noises—but I can hear:
 There's a million things to watch,
 And there's a million things to hear:
 And if you only concentrate—well, you won't find it hard;

I'm starin', at a lampshade—easy to see,
 'Cept for the dirt-specks on my glasses:
 And underneath it, the red door—and further still the carpeted floor:
 It's a study—that, I can tell
 By the books on the shelf;
 Too hard for myself
 But nevertheless, one day I might start to read them. . . .

I'm glancin', at a notice-board—with notices!
 It's old, but it serves its purpose:
 There are more holes in it than in a cheese, but its notices some people please:
 For interests far and wide;
 No secrets does it hide;
 Confessin' notices inside
 But nevertheless, one day I might start to read them. . . .

I'm gazin', at the ground around—so worn,
 Because it's old; and I'm told:
 That if you look hard enough you'll see some names:
 Drawn with sticks in wet cement;
 Bigger names makes a bigger dent;
 Other names were borrowed or lent
 But nevertheless, one day I might start to read them. . . .

I'm peerin', at the sky—today it's neither blue nor grey,
 Tomorrow it should be blue—because the sun's getting warmer:
 A 'plane just passed, I heard it,
 It shouldn't crash—if it did, it would rot:
 Might land in the sea;
 Just in front of me;
 On a school or academy,
 But nevertheless, the passengers should be all right,
 I guess. . . .

I'm catching an eyeful of everything—what a bluff!
 I'm lying for I am blind—blind from nine:
 Why can't I imagine—I feel happy
 And disturbing no one I am sure:
 No one cares if I am here;
 My handicap I'm sure they fear;
 My callousness to shed a tear,
 But nevertheless, I am alive and some are not even this. . . .

I'm lookin', finding it hard, but . . .
 . . . if you only concentrate—well, you won't find it hard.

FREEDOM

Night.
 At last
 I am alone,
 Free to wander on.
 Along the street I walk,
 Watching people who exist
 But are they alive?
 They come and go forever
 Doing nothing.
 Do they have someone somewhere to return to?
 Me, I have the night.
 She, elusively beautiful,
 Silently stops the world
 And lets me live,
 Until the torch is held up again.
 People crawl out,
 Shuffle on forever,
 But too fast.
 I need quiet
 And dream myself back
 Among the innocent life I understand
 In the peaceful ferns and life of Nature.
 These friends let me sleep
 And dream away the eternity
 Before twilight, when I awake
 And another day is gone.

SOME THOUGHTS ON WORLD PEACE

What makes the world tick? Everything nowadays seems to be so confused that we could be excused for believing that world events simply take their own course, unmindful of any rules or principles that the egg-heads affix to them. But on closer inspection, a kind of pattern can be built up. In this, I'll try to give a few of my views on world politics.

All over the world, countries can be seen in various stages of economic, industrial and social development. America and Australia are prosperous—and firmly capitalistic. The United Kingdom is in economic strife—the Britons are feeling the pinch. They are becoming more and more Socialist in their outlook. Why is this?

The French were depressed in the eighteenth century. Result—a bloody revolution. Russia in the early twentieth century and China thirty years later had dissatisfied, poverty-stricken multitudes—and the harsh principles of Communism gained acceptance after revolutions had overthrown the satisfied capitalistic aristocracy.

But Russia is today prospering—and private enterprise is coming in; Russia is, in effect, slowly swinging over to capitalism. Red China is in distress, and staunchly Communist. This is the main cause of the disagreement between the U.S.S.R. and Red China—the Soviets urge moderation that the economically depressed Chinese do not want. Russia, therefore, is no longer a threat to the rest of the world, in my opinion. But China, still adhering to the Communist ideal of expanding its influence, is making big trouble in South-East Asia.

From these facts I have deduced a general principle, which I consider is, broadly speaking, correct. The more socially and economically backward or underprivileged a nation is, the more Socialist it is in its general outlook. That is to say that in China, all things are State-controlled, in Russia some private enterprise is allowed; in the U.K. there is a fair amount of State control, and in the U.S.A. there is very little State control.

Using this 'principle', many otherwise obscure things can be explained. Indonesia, for instance, is clearly becoming more Socialist as the governments take measures to counteract the poverty that has gradually become worse under Sukarno.

Britain's attitude is explained by this, and so is that of the prosperous Americas.

But what is the best type of government to have—what is the best stage between Marxism and America's 'laissez-faire' politics? It depends, of course, on a country's needs, position, population density and many other factors. But a sensible balance needs to be struck—so that government intervention can go so far and no further. I believe that this balance is being gradually attained, and that the so-called 'Third World War' is actually becoming farther off every day.

AN OLD OAK TREE

In an overgrown forest,
Surrounded by miles of trees;
Stands an old oak tree
Just as grand as can be:
Waiting for eternity.

For hundreds of years
The old oak has stood,
Waiting to be chopped down;
And by and by, don't ask me why,
That tree will hit the ground.

THE STREWBUNGLEMENT

Old George once coreflunked round a figamous tree.

And whistled a whisfleeuous note,
He porefungled a plan to highwuzzle the Zan
And in his note book he wrote:
To highwuzzle a Zan,
You must have a plan,
Of such a stupendous degree,
That it blurries the guard
And outboobles the Bard,
And invites the Zan out to tea.

Preparatory School

We were very happy to welcome two new teachers and seventy-two new boys to the School this year, and our enrolment at the beginning of the year was 256. Mr N. O. Wilkinson came to us from Scotch College to be form-master of one of our Grade Six classes, and Mrs A. J. Ludbrook returned to us to be in charge of Grade Two. Already, they are making their presence felt in the life of the School, and we are grateful for their efforts on our behalf.

At Easter, David Dorling who had been a boarder in the Preparatory School for over four years, left us to go to Sydney, and we wish David well in his new surroundings. Brett Eglington came to us at that time, and we hope that his stay with us will be happy.

At the beginning of the year, Christopher Martin was made Captain of the Preparatory School, and we congratulate him on his appointment. He has already shown that he is going to carry out these duties well.

We are most grateful to the Mothers' Club for further assistance both for equipment, and for the purchase of books for our libraries.

The School swimming pool which was ready early in the first term of 1967 has proved a tremendous boon to the Preparatory School, and we are very much indebted to Mr Woollard for his untiring efforts to teach our boys to swim. His Saturday morning classes particularly were a wonderfully generous idea, and many boys have gained considerably from these lessons.

Leaders

We congratulate the following boys on being elected Leaders for 1967: Christopher Martin (Captain of the Preparatory School), Peter Brinsley, Stephen Davies, Michael Fricker, Phillip Kiosses, Trent Leaver, Wayne Pascoe, David Raggatt, Michael Rook, David Southcott, Mark Waters.

After undergoing a very pleasant course of instruction at the Police Training School, these boys have been carrying out their duties as traffic monitors on Dequetteville Terrace each morning, and they are doing this and their other duties reliably and well.

Preparatory School Mothers' Club

The half-yearly out-grown clothing sale was held the second Tuesday of the first term.

During 1966 $66 was paid to the Library and Music Fund, $150 for education aids and equipment, $18 for raincoats for traffic monitors, and $50 for electric fans for I B and I C.

We are grateful for the untiring effort of the retiring committee: Mesdames Craven, Gray, Tidswell, Crompton, Ferris and Tucker.

The following mothers accepted nomination and were elected to the committee: Senior Vice-President, Mrs Moffatt; Junior Vice-President, Mrs Dennis; Mesdames Mason, Woolford, Davies, Walker, Beauchamp, Newman, Wills, Fricker, Dorsch; Mrs Condon, Secretary.

Mr Leak addressed the meeting held on 16 March, and expressed appreciation of the interest shown by the Mothers' Club. He outlined the changes which are taking place in education, and the need for each child to progress at his own speed.

The meeting closed with afternoon tea.

House Competition

There was a most interesting competition for the House Cup in 1966. At the end of the second term, Chapple House had set up a handy lead by good all-round performances. In the third term Robertson House made a very strong effort and with victories in cricket, swimming, and in classwork plus a second in tennis, they succeeded in wresting the title from Chapple.

'A' Cricket

During the third term of 1966 the team won seven of the nine games played. Brinsley, Lovell and Taplin were the outstanding players. Congratulations go to Peter Brinsley on winning the Fuller Cricket Cup.

This year the Prep. XI has won three of the five matches played. Brinsley, who is captain of the side this year, has once again excelled, scoring 82 runs so far and taking 15 wickets for 71 runs.

Raggatt with 54 runs, Stephens 38, and Pascoe 38, have given valuable support.

'B' Cricket

The Prep. Second XI finished the 1966 season on a high note, winning their last two matches against King's College and Pulteney Grammar. Geoff Coombe was our most prolific wicket-taker whilst David Southcott in a whirlwind of enterprising batting near the end of the season, managed to outscore all others in the side.

A feature of 1967 has been two very easy wins for the Second XI with Mark Shephard as its captain. Pulteney Grammar and Sacred Heart could only manage 35 and 38 runs respectively against us, while we scored well over the century each time. We had a close call against St Ignatius before finally winning by 2 runs on the last ball of the day. In our match against St Peters, we put up a rather disappointing performance to be beaten by 70 runs. Tony Buttery has been the terror of the opposing batsmen taking 12 wickets for 14 runs off 9 overs. Bill Bunday has hit 81 runs in 4 innings. Our close-in catching this season has been particularly good with Peter Underwood, Bill Bunday, Mark Shephard and David Hickinbotham snaring 13 catches between them.

Cricket Day at S.P.S.C.

We are very grateful to our old rivals for a most enjoyable day of cricket and tennis matches on their grounds on Tuesday, 6 December 1966. They proved to be too strong for us on the day once again, but we managed to save 'face' in two of the matches. Once again we were entertained at afternoon tea and we should like to express our thanks to the ladies who made this such a delightful interlude.

Tennis

Only two games have been played in the first term. On 11 March a team consisting of John Radbone, David Heier, Hugh Bayly, Trent Leaver, Stefan Dorsch and Tasman McEwin travelled to S.P.S.C. and after a most enjoyable and exciting morning's tennis managed to win a close match by five sets to four. The following Saturday, with Alister Haigh and Ronald Tanner replacing the last pair from the previous game, we played another very enjoyable game against Pulteney Grammar, which we managed to win by six sets to three, but only after some very exciting tussles.

Junior Concert

This annual event was held in the School assembly hall on 10 December 1966. The youngest boys of our School from IC presented 'Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs'. Most people present will remember this as 'She's mighty pretty'. Miss Wilkins again showed us that even though these boys are only six years of age, they can put on a wonderful performance. The boys from IB (Mrs Symons) reminded us that 'Lemons and honey are good for you, if you have the cold or 'flu'. IA and IB combined to present this year's Nativity Play which as always brought the message of Christmas close to us all. The audience joined in the singing of traditional Christmas carols to round off a fine evening. Mr Davies again produced the concert in his usual efficient way whilst Miss Dunn was able to achieve some very good results by her careful work with the choir.

Chess

There are now many boys playing chess in the School, and we have been very well represented in the Schools 'E' Grade competition during the third term of 1966. The team was always well up the premiership ladder, but eventually finished second to Seacombe High School by a narrow margin. We congratulate Michael Wills on his success in his age section of the State Schoolboy Championships and Mark Waters for coming second in his group. Already in 1967 there is great interest again, and endeavours will be made to field more teams. We are hoping to nominate two teams in the 'E' section and another team in the newly-formed primary section.

Swimming Sports

Our swimming sports for 1966 were held on 31 October at the Unley Olympic Swimming Pool. There had been showers early in the morning and it looked as though we might have to cancel the event, but as no other date was possible it was decided to carry on under conditions which were not very pleasant for spectators. The boys, however, had a most enjoyable morning, and performances generally were very good.

Class Picnics

Monday, 11 December 1966 was a splendid day for the beach, and everyone looked forward to a happy time. There was the usual colourful array of beach-wear, and the usual confusion about getting boys into the right cars, but soon all was sorted out and we set off. The boys in II B, I A, I B and I C travelled to Tennyson, where Mrs B. A. Tidswell had kindly allowed us the use of her beach home, while the bigger boys went to Brighton as usual. The weather was very kind to us, and boys, teachers, and some of the parents all enjoyed a swim.

We are most grateful to those mothers who helped us with transport for the day, and we trust that the noise we made didn't spoil the day for them.

RAIDERS OF THE NORTH

Through mists impenetrable veil
 Onward through storms of sleet and hail;
 Their boats to beach, men leap to arms
 Burning all from abbeys to farms:
 From battle-axe to tomahawk,
 From naked sword to old pitch-fork,
 A Norseman's weapons a lethal lot!

Behind them is a trail of slaughter,
 The Vikings plunder, then back to their boats
 Now low in the water,
 Out to sea the warriors retire
 With gold enough for any sire!

LIFE ON A LONELY ISLAND

While cruising leisurely on an ocean liner I heard a crunching grinding sound. The ship's bow was set firmly in a submerged reef. The panic-stricken passengers made a frantic rush to the lifeboats. They took only some of their valuable possessions as they didn't have enough time to gather them all. Suddenly the liner sank without any warning and everybody was drowned except me. I saw a lifeboat which had drifted away but luckily no damage had befallen it. I swam quickly over to it and scrambled in. Then I started rowing. I approached an island but I was rowing more slowly now as the everlasting strain of pulling my arms backward and forward made my work more strenuous. I was now about five hundred yards from the shore when a large fin penetrated the water and began to swim closer to me. I realized it was a shark. I sat there cringing with fear. Desperately I tried to pull the boat faster but it was to no avail as the shark swam closer and closer. I beat it harshly with an oar until finally it, reeling in pain, swam quickly away.

Finally I reached the island and decided to explore it. I found it was uninhabited. As I wandered on my way through the dense jungle I saw majestic trees towering fifty feet high and on the forest's ferny floor I saw large ants marching in stately procession. These were driver ants which are venomous. I knew I'd better keep away from these tiny animals as although they were small they are very harmful. I also saw tiny birds chirping and chattering merrily in the tree tops. This scene I can say without any hesitation was the most glorious and picturesque I had ever seen. After I had investigated the island thoroughly I decided to make a dwelling.

For my meals I had some rich, juicy berries and tasty fruits. When I first arrived on the island I ate a type of grape which grew profusely throughout the year but these made me very ill and wan, but by the process of elimination I found which food was suitable to eat. At first this process proved extremely hard as it was difficult to distinguish between the type of grape and the berry as they were very much alike in appearance.

After three long years of pioneer life I arose one morning to smell the fresh morning air and I saw in the distance a ship. Frantically I ran to the top of a nearby hill and lit a fire. My spirits rose and my heart glowed but as it passed by an awful feeling surged inside me. I walked down the grassy slope of the hill feeling very dejected and sorry. As I walked into my rocky cave I thought to myself that that might have been my only chance to get back to human civilization again.

After this unfortunate occurrence I started my usual day's work again. Another five weeks passed without any further ships passing by. My appearance was awful. My face contained many ridges and my hair was long, forlorn and bedraggled. Another day dawned and I commenced my usual walk up the steeply sloping hill to see if any ships were in sight.

I saw one. I lit a fire hastily and waved my hands above my head. Suddenly a change of direction of the ship's course filled my heart with glee. A lifeboat was manned and on its way to my rescue. I ran to the shore where I was greeted heartily. When I arrived back on the boat I felt extremely happy as I knew I would soon be back in civilization again.

ESCAPE!

The shadows of the trees flitted across the dusty track as my horse slowly ambled towards Somerset. I had once again shaken off the Roundhead troops who had tried to take me prisoner. I smiled grimly to myself. There was no laughter in that smile. Laughter was an unknown thing in England at that time: Instead the ring of steel against steel cast an atmosphere of doom over the whole country.

The haunting hoot of an owl broke the still silence.

In the distance I could faintly hear the galloping hooves of a horse. They were getting louder. Immediately I spurred on my horse, which suddenly broke into a fast gallop. There was a Roundhead following me. I knew what would happen if I was caught. He was gaining quickly. His horse must have been fresher than mine. I realized that I would have to find some way of avoiding him other than outpacing him. On my left I saw a small glade. I rode my horse into it and put myself in a position where I could not be seen from the road. The soldier slowed up as he neared the spot where I had left the road. He stopped. I wondered how he could have possibly known that I had not ridden straight on. Suddenly cold realization struck me. My tracks on the road had stopped where I had ridden into the glade. The Roundhead had an unintelligent look of confused bewilderment on his face. Shrugging his shoulders he rode on.

I wiped the sweat from my face and sighed with relief.

Making sure that he was gone I mounted my horse and continued on. Fate had been on my side once again.

When I reached the town of Derby I went to the nearest inn and had a meal. There was a man at the next table. The firm, set lines of his face made him appear cold and merciless. His clear, blue eyes revealed no pity. He had huge, swarthy hands and rather short legs. An immense chest did not hide the fact that he was tremendously strong. Someone, I thought, whom you would not like to oppose in battle.

He whispered to me: 'Are you a Royalist?' Slowly I nodded. He went on quietly: 'If you are looking for escape from England I am boarding a ship tomorrow which will take me to France. I could take you'.

'Agreed', I hissed.

'We will have to leave at four in the morning.' 'Right.'

The next morning at four precisely, we rode out of the village.

A Roundhead trooper appeared after about an hour. Like a flash my pistol was smoking and a bullet was through his brain. I never hesitated to kill Roundheads.

At dusk that evening weary after a day's hard riding we boarded the ship. A day later we felt French soil beneath our feet.

I had escaped.

MYSTERY ON BOARD A LINER

'Hi! captain', called Jack from the deck of the huge cargo liner. 'When do we shove off?' he asked.

'Tomorrow, if possible', the captain replied.

The day passed very quickly what with getting all the supplies on board and seeing about the cargo which was to be taken overseas. The next day the captain was up early and went to the head office to see if they could set off that day.

The chief said they could, so they rang up the two tug drivers who were to pull the big liner out to sea. Soon all the crew arrived and the tugs came up. The heavy, strong, iron chain was tightened and the big liner began to move.

On board Jack went down to check the luggage and saw that a box was coming apart, due to rough handling in the dockyard. He decided to open it and, to his amazement, he saw all kinds of things like watches, bracelets and all other things that were valuable. The thing that attracted his attention was a little radio with a message on it saying: 'For Bob from your boss'.

Jack could hardly believe his eyes! Fancy Bob being a crook! While he was still wondering, he heard footsteps coming to the luggage compartment so he quickly hid himself and saw Bob with his own eyes go to the same box and open it, pick up the radio with the message tied on to it and walk out. Jack very soon went to the captain and told him all about it.

The captain decided not to send a radio message because Bob might be listening with his radio. The days passed very quickly and soon the liner pulled in to the dock of London. The captain called the police and the customs. When they came Bob was taken away and then the police waited anxiously for all the members of the gang to arrive. Soon they came, or, one of them did. The rest waited outside.

One policeman arrested the first one, then the other policeman arrested the others. Meanwhile the customs searched the ship for other valuable things, but found none. As the captain and Jack were very good friends, the captain asked Jack to come to his cousin's place.

Jack said 'Yes' to this, of course. As they were going home Jack and the captain nearly fell asleep because they had had a very long trip. Soon they were in bed fast asleep.

JACKY AND THE ALLIGATOR

Once upon a time there lived a native boy named Jacky. His mother and father were killed by an alligator and Jacky had vowed to kill it. Now he was sixteen and wanted to find the alligator. Suddenly there was a rustle in the leaves and there he saw the alligator. He quickly raised his spear and brought it down, but it had missed and the alligator scuttled away. Jack was so angry with himself that he picked up the spear and threw it into the swamp. Suddenly the alligator floated to the top of the water with the spear in its back. Jacky was so happy he dived in the water. Later he took the alligator home and skinned it.

DEMON, THE MISFIT DACHSHUND

Demon was a hunting dachshund, who loved his master very much. He had everything, a nice home, good food, and a good master.

One day they were hunting in the woods and in two hours they hadn't shot one badger. Tom was so disgusted, that he took off Demon's collar, and shot at him but didn't get him.

So began the outdoor life of a little dachshund. He spent two weeks of starving hunger. After a while he saw a farmer. Demon went up to him and sniffed at his legs, and at once liked the kind face of Pedro. He liked Demon and gave him food, water, and shelter. Demon knew he was a sheep grazer, but that was not all he noticed for there sat Greta, Pedro's sheep dog. Greta had always been loyal to Pedro and also liked him. Pedro had always had a lot of trouble; from coyotes killing his sheep. So Demon was taken in as a sheep dog.

The coyotes soon learnt not to tangle with Demon for his score was three coyotes all dead. Demon, Greta and Pedro always worked together until Pedro was too old to graze sheep.

LOST LAND

Once I had a dream. At the start, I was walking round lots of plants. They seemed to have very sly faces; I did not like them so I ran away.

It was getting cold and dark, but it wasn't too bad. I could faintly see a broken-down castle. I walked up to it, and in the mist behind it there was a huge pillar, on which there was a creepy spider.

It was about five feet by three feet. All was quiet, and the creepy old thing disappeared.

I quietly and slowly walked to the big creaky door. All of a sudden, the huge door opened; I was frightened to death, but slowly I walked in. On the big brown-black walls, there was a small hole, quite jagged.

I walked past it, but as soon as I had done so it let off some sharp pieces of iron. I did not like them because they were extremely sharp, so I went out.

By this time I woke up. I got out of bed and told my mother the dream.

THE GILL MAN

Once upon a time there lived an old man and two young men. They went on a trip to a great river to look for a most awful, ugly-looking monster called a Gill Man.

'Well, I think this is about the spot, Jack. I'll go down and have a look', said Pete. 'Yes, okay. I'll put the net down.' Splash! In went the net down to the bottom of the river.

'I'll go down and have a look to see if it is all right', said Richard. Down went Richard to the bottom of the river. When he came up he said, 'Everything's all right and I saw the Gill Man; ugly-looking thing, isn't he?' After a lot of tries, they caught him and took him back to England, where they put him in a big glass tank full of water.

They used to go into the tank and feed him but one day he escaped and swam away in the sea.

'Well', said Jack, 'that's the end of our famousness, if there is such a word.'

ADVENTURE ON THE HIGH SEAS

My friend and I decided to have an adventure together and chose to sail my sixty-foot yacht from Sydney to Rio de Janeiro.

Two weeks later we sailed out of Sydney Harbour and encountered rough seas and strong winds. That night we took it in turns steering while the other slept. Every hour we changed and we often slept during the day. We cooked our meals on a stove in the galley and while eating our meals our plates often slipped up and down the table because of the rough seas.

For the next month it wasn't terribly rough but as we rounded Cape Horn our yacht was pitching and tossing as huge waves crashed upon the deck. For the next two days we had no sleep and we were glad when we had passed Cape Horn. From then on it was mostly calm and we arrived in Rio de Janeiro three weeks later. As we entered the harbour we saw the famous Sugar Loaf, a conical peak 1,200 feet above the sea.

That night we stayed in a luxurious motel and planned our return voyage to Australia via the Panama Canal.

THE LOST GALLEONS

We made ready to depart from the Cuban port of Havana after meeting the ten other galleons, in September, in the year of our Lord, 1715. Our holds were laden with over five million pesos worth of gold bullion, coins, silver, emeralds, porcelain and pottery, all destined for King Philip V's noble bride.

Many of the gold ingots and escudos bore the stamp of the Mexico City mint, while the silver ingots had been won by suffering tribesmen of Peru under the lash of the harsh and brutal conquistadores. These coins had then been hauled overland by mule trains to various coastal points where they were loaded into the spacious holds of the galleons awaiting them. The delicate porcelain and china had been shipped from China to Acapulco, and from there across the Panama Isthmus by mule. The rest of the cargoes consisted chiefly of great iron chests of magnificent necklaces inlaid with emeralds and other valuable gems, and some pottery toys the crews were taking back home to their children as gifts.

Before we embarked on 'Isabella', the flagship, which carried no treasure, our captain, Juan de Fernandez, had a lengthy argument with Don Urbilla, the Admiral. Juan claimed that if we held to the planned route at this time of the year, we would be sailing to our doom on the reefs off Sebastian, a town on the coast of Florida. The exasperated Admiral, standing on the foredeck, swung his golden whistle on its costly chain and threatened to deprive him of his title if he did not obey. Only then did Juan stamp sullenly back to his cabin. Then we sailed, I taking the first watch. Behind me, receding slowly into the horizon was the dense jungle of Cuba, ahead, the heaving ocean and all its unforeseen dangers.

For the first three days, Juan, our captain, seemed nervous and restless, eye-ing the other galleons with a suspicious frown creasing his forehead. But finally after hours of pacing the deck, he seemed calm and decided. He gave the order to sail for the Bahamas. The helmsman carried out the command without a word, but there were murmurings amongst the crew for several days following. I only hoped it was not mutiny. If it was, I assured myself I would take no part in it.

We were twenty sea miles out from Sebastian when, after several ominous storm clouds had gathered on the horizon, we found ourselves on the edge of a hurricane. In the blind panic that followed, with men sliding and falling all over the decks, two men were drowned. It was too rough to save them. For two days and two nights we were pounded by tremendous seas, while shrieking winds lashed the thin sails, straining them to breaking point, and only by the utmost accuracy and precision did we miss the treacherous reefs against which the hurricane was driving us. Things had gone so badly that even the captain began to pack his belongings.

If we, on the edge of the hurricane, had only barely escaped this terrible death, we could guess the fate of the rest of our noble fleet and those five million pesos. It was hard to believe that ten of the stateliest, swiftest and strongest galleons Spain possessed, with all their holds stacked with priceless hoards of treasure, those galleons with all their high-prowed splendour, had sunk, one by one, to the ocean's floor, and were now dragging helplessly with the tide.

But our proud galleon, 'Isabella', crippled by the ocean's ceaseless battering, limped bravely on. She arrived in Spain four weeks later, to find herself the sole survivor of a tragedy involving the lives of many helpless sailors, and leaving more than five million pesos for divers of the future to rediscover.

TRAGEDY

His face all bloodshot,
His eyes a deathly red.
His throat as prickly as a batch of thorns,
His feet as winding as a kudu's horn.
For seven long days he had walked
For seven long days to no one he had talked.
All his water he had drunk,
And his feet deeper, deeper into the sand they sank.
Not a scream nor a cry,
He knew that he was doomed.
But where there's hope there's always life
But nothing in this weak, frail body lived, except fear and strife.
Then suddenly death struck without a warning,
The chosen victim died, but without mourning.
Everything now was quiet and still.
Suddenly there was an awful shudder,
It was death's truthful chill.

OUR PRESIDENT — B. A. FRICKER

Mr Brian Arthur Fricker, who attended the School 1938-45, is one of the four sons of the late Mr A. W. Fricker, all of whom attended the School. Mr Fricker was first elected to the Committee in 1957 and since then has served on various sub-committees, including a term as chairman of the Old Scholars Football Club. In 1964 he was elected Junior Vice-President, Senior Vice-President the following year and President at the annual general meeting last November.

He was elected to the School Council in 1959, where he has since done valuable work on the building sub-committee. During his stay at P.A.C. he represented the School in rowing and played cricket and football. He had an extended career as an Amateur League footballer and is a playing life member, both of that body and the Old Scholars Club, of which he is a former captain. In addition, he was for many years a member of the Club committee and its treasurer. His other old scholar activities include foundation membership of the Squash Club and he has represented the Association in various contests against St Peters.

Our President was a member of the original provisional committee of the Public Schools' Club, from which he retired last year after honourable service, including two terms as chairman of committee, and before that as chairman of the building sub-committee.

Other activities include membership of the Commonwealth Club, Amateur Sports Club, Koo-yonga Golf Club and the Lions Club of Burnside.

Mr Fricker has been for many years actively connected with the building industry and is a director and secretary of the well-known family business of Fricker Bros. Pty Ltd. He is a member of the Australian Institute of Builders (South Australian Chapter) and is currently serving on one of the sub-committees of the Master Builders Association of South Australia.

Married with one daughter who attends P.G.C. and two sons attending the School, Mr Fricker resides at 15 Wootoona Terrace, St Georges.

NEW YEAR HONOUR SQUADRON LEADER LIONEL WEST, M.B.E.

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II has been pleased to confer on Lionel Thomas West Membership of the British Empire. He attended P.A.C. 1940-45, proceeded to the University and gained the Diploma in Pharmacy in 1950. After two years at the Royal Adelaide Hospital he enlisted in the RAAF as a pharmaceutical officer. Posted to No. 6 Base Hospital, Laverton, he spent eleven years there. During that time he engaged in further study and subsequently obtained his Fellowship of the Victorian Pharmaceutical Society.

In August 1964 he was posted overseas to the R.A.A.F. Base at Butterworth, Malaya, and was responsible for the equipping and general inception of a hospital which, due to his untiring efforts, was opened on the planned date of 1 March 1965. This hospital, which employs professional staff drawn from the R.A.A.F., R.A.F., and British Army, provides an impressive list of facilities for servicemen and their families, and is a fine example of inter-service and international co-operation.

Posted back to Australia at the end of last year, he was appointed to the post of Command Pharmaceutical Officer, Victoria Barracks, Melbourne.

Annual General Meeting

The eighty-eighth annual general meeting of the Association was held at the School on Thursday evening, 17 November 1966. Considerable details relating to the School and the Association were given by the Headmaster, Mr J. A. Dunning, the retiring Association President, Mr Robert Craven, and the retiring Association Treasurer, Mr Ern Hunwick. Altogether it was an excellent meeting and the pity is that so few see fit to attend.

After the notice convening the meeting had been read and apologies received, the minutes of the previous annual general meeting, which had previously been approved by the Committee, were adopted. In moving the adoption of the annual report, statement of accounts and balance sheet, Mr Craven said the past twelve months had been both memorable and successful when viewed in the light of the Centenary Appeal. He also referred to the new annual dinner venue at Tonsley Park (and was happy to announce we would be there again) and the continued growth of the sporting clubs. Mr Craven was supported by the Treasurer, Mr Hunwick, who said the finances of the Association were now in a reasonably satisfactory position, and it was no longer necessary to rely on a profit from Old Boys Week to pay our way. The market value of our shares as at balance date was well in excess of cost, income was rising steadily and expenses had been kept within bounds. The motion was carried.

The election of officers followed the usual pattern with Mr Brian Fricker (formerly Senior Vice-President) being elected President, Dr David Riceman (formerly Junior Vice-President) being elected Senior Vice-President, and Mr Ern Hunwick being elected Junior Vice-President. Mr Craven automatically became the holder of the office of Immediate Past President. The new Treasurer, Mr Eric Cox, is a former member of the Committee, and our worthy auditors, Messrs Geoffrey Clarke and Carl Muecke, were re-elected.

There being ten nominations for eight vacancies on the Committee, the President called for a ballot, with the result that the following were elected: Messrs A. W. Crompton, D. L. Davies, Dr M. W. Evans, Messrs I. B. Gemmell, W. M. Johnson, M. B. McLachlan, R. W. Piper and M. H. Skinner.

Mr Fricker, in proposing a vote of thanks to the retiring President, Mr Craven and his wife, referred to the long family connection with the School and the dedicated way in which they had both carried out their duties. Mr Craven in responding said the job had been a rewarding one for both of them and thanked the Committee for their support. Dr Riceman then proposed a vote of thanks to the Headmaster, Mr Dunning, and Mrs Dunning. He referred to their untiring interests, both in relation to the School and the Association, and said much of the success of both bodies was due to the leadership given by the Headmaster and the support given by his wife. Mr Dunning in responding congratulated both Mr Craven and Mr Fricker and thanked the Association for what they had done in the past twelve months. He also made references and extended particular thanks to Mr Alan Crompton (chairman of the Appeal Committee), Messrs Fricker, Davies, Piper and Dr Evans (the latter four being also members of the School Council).

Some interesting details were given relating to recent property acquisitions, the new swimming pool, the centenary building programme and the life of the School generally. Members will be interested to know that on this day flowers were sent to Mrs Dunning and Mrs Craven with the best wishes of all members. Mr Piper then proposed a vote of thanks, firstly to the retiring Treasurer, Mr Hunwick, who he said had occupied the Treasury benches with distinction for ten years. He then referred to retiring Committeemen, Norman Harris and Andrew Jeffery, both of whom had rendered splendid service both to the Committee and the clubs with which they were connected—in the case of the former, the Football Club and the latter the Athletic Club and more recently, the Basketball Club. All votes of thanks were carried enthusiastically and with acclamation.

At the close of the meeting, supper was served and members were able to meet and chat. Following this adjournment the President, Mr Fricker, introduced Mr Robert Day, who, he said, had brought great credit to himself, the School and the Association, by the fine reputation he had acquired in Australian Rules Football. In asking him to address members on football, he also congratulated him on having been awarded an All-Australian blazer at the Hobart Carnival. The address was full of interest, both in relation to anecdotes and the hard facts of the game. A vote of thanks, moved by Mr Hunwick, was well deserved and well carried.

New and Retiring Committeemen

NEW

Mark Skinner attended P.A.C. from 1949 to 1961, during which time he represented the School in football and athletics. In his final year at School he was captain of the athletic team and vice-captain of the football team. After leaving School he continued his football with Norwood in the National League for three seasons, and since that time has played with the old scholars team in the Amateur League and has been selected on several occasions for the Amateur interstate side. He is a delegate from the Club to the League and is also a member of the executive. During this time Mark has also represented the State in athletics and is still the holder of the South Australian high jump record. He is a journalist with Advertiser Newspapers, married, and lives at St Peters. Mark comes from a well-known P.A.C. family and his other three brothers all attended the School.

Ian Gemmell attended the School 1954-57, during which time he also played football and tennis and was a member of the Debating and Chess Clubs. He then proceeded to the South Australian Institute of Technology, where he completed his building technology course in 1961. Ian then joined the family building firm, A. & J. B. Gemmell Pty Ltd, of which he is now a director. He is also a member of the Australian Institute of Builders (South Australian Chapter). Always an active and enthusiastic old scholar, he has given fine service to the Football Club, which includes captaincy of the 'B' team and membership of the executive committee for the past four years. His other active sporting interests include squash and water skiing. Ian is married, has two small daughters, and lives at Belair.

RETIRING

Norman Harris was elected to the Committee at the annual meeting 1961. He attended School from 1925-28, where he was a successful student and also played cricket and football. Most of his working lifetime has been spent with the Commonwealth Bank, where he was senior valuer in this State, and more recently he has been seconded for similar duties with the Reserve Bank of Australia. Mr Harris had a fine war record with the A.I.F. and sailed from Australia with the first contingent of troops to go overseas. After service in the middle east he was co-opted for intelligence duties with the American forces and was subsequently awarded the M.B.E. He is a member of the State Board of the Commonwealth Institute of Valuers and a past committee member of the 'Thirty-Niners' Association. In pre-war days he was a prominent member of the old scholars Cricket and Football Clubs. During his term on the Committee he has rendered outstanding service to the old scholars Football Club, including holding the office of chairman. It was during this time and due largely to his initiative that the northern end of the Parklands Oval was drained and re-grassed. Also for some years Mr Harris was in charge of the interstate telephone hook-up at the annual dinner. His work, which takes him to all parts of the State, resulted in his decision not to offer himself for re-election, and his valuable services will be missed. Mr Harris is married with four boys, one of whom is an old scholar whilst two are currently at the School.

Andrew Jeffery was elected to the Committee in 1960. He attended the School from 1949 to 1955, represented the School in athletics, was captain of the Second XI, and a prefect in his final year. He has been for some years a high school teacher with the Education Department. Andrew has had a long connection with the Old Scholars Athletic Club, of which he was secretary for some years, and during that time did very good work in compiling the records of the Club and building up its membership. On the formation of the Old Scholars Basketball Club he was appointed chairman and maintained a keen interest in the Club. He is a Queen's Scout, has been actively interested in church work, and served on the Federal and State Councils of the Methodist Youth Fellowship; he is now actively interested in school cadets. An enthusiast in everything he does, Andrew gave very good service both to the Committee and the Association. A brother, Robert, who recently completed his medical course, also attended the School. Andrew is married with a young family, and lives at Mitchell Park.

EDUCATION FUND

The education of all the children of Old Boys killed on active service has now been completed. The remaining fund is available, at the discretion of the Committee, for the children of Old Boy ex-servicemen who have died since their discharge from war service, or failing any children within this category, for sons of Old Boys who shall die before their children's education has been completed.

Should any Old Boy learn of a child or children who may be eligible for the benefits of the fund, would he please inform the Secretary or a member of the Committee so that the matter may be investigated.

SPECIAL PURPOSE FUND

From time to time members and friends of the Association had mentioned the practicability of having a fund to which contributions may be made for the purpose of assisting the objects of the Association.

In 1964 your Committee resolved to create in its accounts a Special Purpose Fund into which all gifts of money, legacies and bequests to the Association could be paid, and the money used from time to time at the discretion of the Committee to further these objects including assistance to old scholar sporting clubs, interstate and overseas branches, and for administrative equipment.

Should any members desire to contribute to this Fund either during their lifetime or by their wills the monies will be gratefully received and used accordingly.

Annual Get-Together

There was a record attendance of new old boys at this very successful evening. Mr Malcolm McLachlan (convener) occupied the chair and in his opening remarks welcomed all those present, tendered apologies for the Headmaster, Mr J. A. Dunning, and pointed out that the affairs and activities of the Association were closely interwoven with the School. He reminded the boys that though Mr Dunning remained Headmaster of the School, the emphasis for them had shifted somewhat from that position to the top position of Patron of the Association. The chairman then introduced the officers and committee members of the Association who were present, including the President, Mr Brian Fricker, and the Senior Vice-President, Dr David Riceman. In his address Mr Fricker said it was a great pleasure for him to address the boys present and an important occasion for all of them because it was their first attendance at an official Old Scholars Association function. The President then detailed the objects of the Association and gave practical examples of the ways in which they were being carried out. He stressed the need for unity and loyalty and a life-long interest in the School. Then followed details of the various functions and events during the year, including sporting fixtures, luncheons, country dinners and Old Scholars Week. Mr Fricker also gave details of the various categories of membership and extended a warm invitation to everybody to join for the benefit of the School, the Association and themselves. Some details of interstate branches and the Public Schools' Club followed and in conclusion he thanked Messrs McLachlan and Mark Skinner for having arranged the function.

The chairman then introduced the following speakers, who spoke on behalf of the various sporting clubs: Geoff Shuttleworth (basketball), Ian Day (squash), Grant Stephens (football), David Smith (cricket) and Mark Skinner (athletics). All five are to be congratulated for their authoritative and concise remarks, which gave to the new members a very comprehensive survey, and it was pleasing to note that many of them intimated they would be joining one or more clubs.

Mr McLachlan then introduced the guest speaker, Dr Tony Clarkson, whose address was entitled 'Football'. The chairman detailed Dr Clarkson's academic and sporting careers and said he had been eminently successful in both. The speaker then gave a very comprehensive and interesting history of Australian Rules Football, which owes its development to a Mr Thomas Wills, who after completing his education in England, returned to Australia and was appointed secretary of the Melbourne Cricket Club, and to a Mr Harrison, who gave long and valuable service to the game. Early matches consisted of forty a side, with the goal posts a mile apart, but by 1872 teams were down to twenty a side with a well-defined playing area and a central umpire. Dr Clarkson said the game was a unique combination of many winter games and required physical fitness, concentration and determination. With some of the top-line players, he felt they had an inborn native cunning and intelligence. Reference was made to many delightful people whom the speaker had met during his career, the fanatical interest of the public, the press in all forms and the fact that the game was now big business. He thought the greatest thrill of all was playing in a grand final and winning. A vote of thanks proposed by Mr Ted Stephens was carried with acclamation.

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL

Old scholars are reminded that copies of Mr Ward's most interesting and valuable book of the first eighty years, 1867-1948, of Prince Alfred College are still available. No old scholar can afford to be without a copy of this excellent record. Copies bound in red cloth at $2.10 plus postage are available from the School bursar or the Association secretary.

Country Dinners

EYRE PENINSULA

A very pleasant and successful annual re-union was held at the Hotel Boston on Friday evening, 28 October, and it was particularly pleasing to see so many of the younger old scholars present. John Richardson did an excellent job as chairman, and kept the programme moving so that we finished in good time. Proceedings commenced with Lloyd Clarkson giving the Grace, and a little later the Chairman submitted the Loyal Toast which was followed by the National Anthem. In his remarks the Chairman welcomed all those present and introduced the party from Adelaide, which included Mr Ray Smith, representing the School and the Headmaster; Mr. Robert Craven, the Association President; Mr E. C. Stephens, a member of the committee of the Association; and Mr David Clarkson, a past president of the Association and member of the School Council. The chairman also managed to tell an appropriate story and then read the list of apologies. Members then stood and gave their names and the year they left School.

John Kelly, the proposer of the toast to the School, was then introduced and it was very pleasing to note his already good record of community work. John said that he felt quite honoured on this occasion, and also took some pride in having been a fourth generation student at the School. He thought that as the School approaches its centenary it could look back on a record of fine achievement and a constant effort to blend the old with the new. In this connection, he referred to the wonderful service rendered to the School by the various Headmasters and Masters. The success of the Centenary Appeal had also been most heartening, and the country members were, of course, pleased to learn about the proposed new Boarding House. From his own experience he was quite sure that the School was fitting and teaching boys the way to live and take their place in the community, and for this they were all very grateful. He assured Mr Smith of their continued loyalty and good faith.

The Chairman then introduced Mr Ray Smith and asked him to respond. Mr Smith in doing so thanked the proposer and members for the toast, and said he brought greetings from various members of the staff, and greetings and apologies from the Headmaster. He referred to the growth of the School since he started there thirty years ago—the number of students had more than doubled, the staff had trebled, and the number of sporting teams and hobbies had increased tremendously. Also during this period there had been greater changes in education and teaching, particularly in relation to science and mathematics. He was pleased to be able to say that the School had kept pace with this, both in relation to the quality of the teaching and the facilities available, and the success of the appeal would ensure that this state of affairs would continue. The speaker said it was always pleasing to know of and hear about the successes of old boys and quite a number had had brilliant academic careers and made their marks in the various professions and in commerce.

Another equally important and pleasing aspect, but less publicised, relates to the number of old scholars all over the State who were prominent in their centres in local government and community affairs, and also to the number of old boys who were prominent in sport, and the successes of some of the sporting clubs. All this, he suggested, pointed to the fact that the School was still turning out good all-round boys who would continue to make their marks in various spheres. He concluded by thanking members for their welcome, and wished them well.

Members then sang some School songs composed by David Clarkson and with Glen Pearson at piano.

Peter Dunn was then introduced to propose the toast to the Association, and here again his various community interests were most noticeable. He said, 'We are all here tonight because we are old scholars, and although we sometimes feel a bit isolated from the city, we still have the same common ties in relation to the School and the Association'. These two institutions, he suggested, were like a football team and its supporters. Both were interested in getting to the top and staying top, and both were for the good of each other. 'It is good for the School', he continued, 'to have our interest and our support; perhaps it needs it, and this contact is provided by the Association. Furthermore, this friendship here tonight is a very real thing, particularly so when there are common interests and ideals, and perhaps there is no mate like a school mate!'

The President in responding thanked the proposer and members, and said Adelaide members were delighted to be present. He stressed that the Association looked on country dinners as one of the important aspects of its activities each year. Referring to a recent trip to Japan, the speaker said that one could not but quickly notice the crash programme of education which was going on in all sections of the community as a matter of sheer necessity. This contrasted sharply with education in this State and country which had been developed over the years, in which church schools had played a very prominent part, and for which all of us should be both grateful and thankful to P.A.C. The President then outlined the many activities of the Association each year, the development of the sporting clubs, and the recent prominence of several old scholars in various spheres. Finally, he said he wished to thank all members for their support of the Centenary Appeal which had been a mighty effort.

Mr Craven then announced the winners of the three Association ties who were: Lloyd Clarkson (oldest member present and who won by a wide margin); David Kelly from Yeelanna (youngest member); and Peter Penna from 'Strongmead', Mount Wedge (who had travelled the farthest distance).

During the question and information session, Geoff Pearson said he wished to support the remarks of Mr Craven about the appeal, and would personally like to thank West Coast contributors. He would also like members to know that letters had been received from the Headmaster and Mr C. R. Kelly, expressing thanks and congratulations. Further questions relating to information about the School were satisfactorily answered by the people from Adelaide. It was decided that the dinner next year would be held on the third Friday in October (and not the fourth as previously).

The Chairman, in thanking members for their attendance, said he hoped they would all be present again in 1967, and also thanked the hotel management and staff for a very good meal and service. Auld Lang Syne was a fitting finish to a good evening.

The Adelaide party again had a most enjoyable week-end at Coffin Bay as the guests of Lloyd Clarkson and Hubert Mellor. Their warm friendship and hospitality is legend, and though the weather was not very kind for our purposes on the Saturday, Sunday was a beautiful day and it was a happy occasion. Our thanks must also include Mesdames Glen Walkom, Lloyd Clarkson, and Hubert Mellor who also help so willingly each year with this week-end, and whom it was our pleasure to have down to tea on the Sunday evening. Glen Walkom continues on as regional secretary—faithful as ever. Thank you, Glen.

SOUTH-EAST

This year the dinner was held at the Kincaid Hotel, Naracoorte, with Ken De Garis, Regional Secretary, capably carrying out the duties of Chairman. A good representation from Adelaide included Mr Chester Bennett representing the School and the Headmaster; Mr. Brian Fricker, President of the Association; Dr David Riceman, Senior Vice-President; Mr Ern Hunwick, Junior Vice-President; Messrs Jack Gerard, Bob Piper, Brian Potter, Eric Cox, Dr Brian Hobbs—all members of the Committee. Other Adelaide visitors were Norman Todd, Alex Brown, Tom Chapman and Graham Alexander. Local representation was down on previous years and it is hoped this will be rectified next year by old scholars in various areas personally contacting members. Also at the end of this dinner the Chairman very patiently went through the list of members, so that addresses are now much more up to date. The Chairman gave the Grace and during the meal submitted the Loyal Toast which was followed by the National Anthem. In welcoming all present, he made special reference to the visitors from Adelaide. After the apologies had been read, members stood in turn, gave their name, and the year they left School.

Mr Bert Curnow, the proposer of the toast to 'The School', was then introduced. An interesting point about Bert relates to the fact that he was a keen boxer in his school days and was a member of the 1924 Intercoll. team, the only year in which Princes competed—so that he is a member of a select group. In referring to his scholastic record at School, the speaker said that when he changed from Latin to Economics, he went from third last to fourth last in the form! The theme of his remarks related to the great maturity and stability of the School which had been fortunate in having only six Headmasters in nearly 100 years, and all of them had left their imprint on the staff and boys who were under them in their day and generation. The speaker also made special reference to the present Headmaster, Mr J. A. Dunning (who was a worthy successor to Mr Ward), and to the growth of the School during his time. Additionally, many masters have given long and faithful service, and he felt sure that much of the success of old scholars was due to this maturity and tradition which they inherited. It had given them faith in themselves, led them to a mature manhood and, whether doing little things or big things, had made them understand that neither success nor failure need be permanent. He assured Mr Bennett that old scholars pledged their loyalty to the School, and felt sure that the Headmaster and staff would maintain its standards and traditions. After the Toast, members sang 'Our School Colours' followed by the war cry.

Mr Bennett in responding thanked Mr Curnow for his excellent toast and said the Headmaster sent greetings and best wishes to everyone. In discussing the new Matriculation requirements, the speaker said the top part of the School must inevitably become bigger and the tendency would be for boys to enrol later rather than earlier. The Centenary Appeal has been a great success and it was hoped that some of the new buildings would be started by the end of the year. Tribute was paid to local Old Scholars for their support and generosity. The new boarding house would not necessarily mean that more boys could be accommodated, but rather that the accommodation would be better. The new swimming pool was a great success, apart from some apparent trouble with the electric motor, as it was thought that it should not be issuing clouds of smoke! The speaker also referred to various members of the staff, including one whose blue shirt and matching shorts have graced the scene. He then gave a run-down on the various sporting activities, including the increasing interest in athletics where Mr Wyndham Harvey was doing a splendid job. He concluded by thanking local members for their invitation and wished them well.

Jack Gerard then compered some enthusiastic singing which included the Football Song, School Song and Happy Wanderer. Mr Jim Kelly gave a very thoughtful address in proposing the toast to 'The Association'. Firstly, he said reference to the Centenary Fund reminded him to say that it was still not too late to contribute, and if members believed in private Church schools, they must be prepared to support them. As regards the School, he said it would be presumptuous for him to suggest the curriculum but he would like his son to develop as the result of three things—firstly, sufficient training to specialize in some field; secondly, a study of the humanities; and thirdly, a sense of responsibility towards his fellow man. The Association which was closely linked with the School was a continual reminder of the things for which we ought to strive, and gave us an opportunity to support and keep in touch with the School and its old scholars, whether our contemporaries or not. As old scholars of a Church school, we should also be interested in our Church. He asked members to stand and drink the toast if they believed in these ideals and this way of life.

President Brian Fricker in responding thanked Mr Kelly for the toast and members for the way in which they had received it. He said he felt sure that the School and the Association would both maintain their good record and standing. Country dinners were a very important part of the Association's activities and this one was important to him, being the first in his presidential year. It was also a happy coincidence that when he moved into the big School twenty-five years ago, Mr Bennett was his form master, and since then had given wonderful service to the School and its scholars as coach of the First XVIII and First XI. Additionally, he had given great assistance to the Association sporting clubs in recruiting players.

The President then gave details of membership, the improvement in the finances (due in no small measure to Mr Ern Hunwick during his term as Treasurer), sporting results to date against Saints, and social functions, and made particular reference to the Dinner Dance to be held at the South Australian Hotel on 30 September, in place of the Ball previously held in Old Scholars Week. He assured members that the Association was in good heart, that they were represented by a good Committee, and thanked Mr Ken De Garis on behalf of all members for chairing and organizing the dinner. The President then presented three ties to the following members: oldest old scholar present, Mr Ralph De Garis from Millicent; youngest old scholar present, Tony Barret of Naracoorte, and to Blair Cowan of Keith for having travelled the farthest distance.

It was decided that the dinner next year would be held at Penola on Saturday, 23 March, with Andrew Keeves as convener (his address: Penola Forest, phone Penola 72372). Mine host would be another old scholar in the person of Fred Basheer.

A very happy and successful evening concluded with 'Auld Lang Syne'.

Sports

PERSONAL

Cricket

Ian Chappell, without reaching great heights, proved himself a worthy all-rounder on the recent Australian XI tour of South Africa, and played in all five Tests. He was amongst the leading wicket takers, and had a handy batting average of approximately 40.

Brother Greg Chappell had a very good initial season with the South Australian Sheffield Shield side, scoring 501 runs at an average of 35.8. He opened the District Cricket season sensationally with two successive centuries, followed by 88 against University. In the semi-final for his club (Glenelg) against West Torrens, he returned the fine figures of 5 for 56 and made 62.

Early this year the Chappell brothers (Ian and Greg as above, and Trevor still at P.A.C.) each scored a century in the same week: Ian in South Africa, Greg in Brisbane, and Trevor for Glenelg in the S.A.C.A. Schoolboys Competition.

Brian Hurn was also another regular member of the State side. Though it was not one of his most successful seasons, he and Greg Chappell with 79 not out and 104 respectively, were the only worthwhile scorers in South Australia's first innings in Brisbane.

John Causby, recalled to the State side for the last Shield match of the season against Western Australia in Perth, acquitted himself creditably. Against Kensington in February he scored 149 not out, his highest district score, and batted throughout the innings. Furthermore, it was his third successive century against Kensington—a very rare feat.

Brian Hurn and John Causby were also selected in the S.A.C.A. team which played a combined South-East team at Mount Gambier.

Myles Fuller captained the Adelaide Turf Association team which played against the Victorian Sub-District Association in Melbourne over the Christmas holidays. Ray Lyon was also a member of the team. South Australia lost its last 5 wickets for 2 runs, to lose by 5 runs on the first innings.

Saturday, 4 March was a 'Red letter' day for Princes old scholars in District cricket, as the following scores indicate: Ashley Woodcock 113, John Lill 111, John Ducker 64, Greg Chappell 62, John Causby 20.

John Ducker again captained Prospect, who won the premiership. He played a real captain's knock in the second innings, when Glenelg were striving for a break-through for an outright win.

Others noted playing District cricket were: Brian Dickson (Salisbury), Ross Hocking (Sturt), and Geoff Rogers (Adelaide).

The following figured prominently in the district averages:

Batting—J. Lill (579 runs, average 44.5); J. Causby (472 runs, average 52.4); J. Ducker (446 runs, average 34.3); G. Chappell (441 runs, average 55.1); A. Woodcock (421 runs, average 30.0).

Bowling—G. Chappell (18 wickets, average 18.2); B. Hurn (15 wickets, average 17.7).

John Lill (captain of Sturt) was equal second in the S.A.C.A. Umpires Association's Cricketer-of-the-Year award. He has won it on three previous occasions.

Noted playing in the Country Cricket Carnival were Ron Faehse and his son Jim (still at P.A.C.), David French, Graham and Jack Ashby, Ian Timperon, David McWaters and Graeme Chapman.

Old scholars prominent in grade cricket at Broken Hill are John Beck (who top-scored for his side in a semi-final), John Crace (captain of Zinc Corporation), and the Smith brothers, Kym, Rowley and Marshall.

Tennis

The following have been noted playing District tennis: Ken Baker, Graham Gabb and Chris Green (all Kensington); Bill Johnson (Unley); Wayne Jackson (University); Ed Little and Rob McNeil (Woodville).

Bill Johnson remains chairman of selectors for the men's interstate teams. At the Woodville Easter Tournament, he and his partner won the doubles, and he was runner-up in the singles.

Ken Baker is a men's selector and also chairman of the Women's Selection Committee.

Bowls

Don Collins of the Salisbury Club was the leader in the Australian Triples and Fours teams that won events in the first World Bowling Carnival held in Sydney. In March he defended and retained the title of South Australian Masters Champion, which he won last year. Four old boys reached the quarter-finals of this event: Len Northey (defeated by Don in a semi-final); Ern Dawkins (a previous winner) and John Greenslade (from Riverton). John, still in his twenties, earned a 'giant-killer' reputation, defeating a Victorian champion and previous winner, Jackson.

Bill Chapman from Balaklava played No. 3 in the rink that won the Country Fours Championship. Six behind, with one end to play, they scored a seven on the last end to win. This calls to mind that Merv Evans' rink did a similar thing in winning the 1962-63 State series.

Herb Richards is the leading Hawthorn skipper. His rink has qualified to play in the elimination rounds to decide the State Champion Four at the end of the season.

Prominent in 'A' Grade pennants: Ern Dawkins, Howard Greenslade and Max Jarvis (Adelaide); Don Collins (Salisbury); Eric Wilson (Beaumont); Lloyd Chinner, Laurie Walsh and Merv Evans (Toorak); Jack Fricker (Semaphore); Bob Pearce and Ron Dixon (Sturt); Peter Kitto, Len Anderson and Keith Davey (Marryatville); Keith Angel, Jim Heaslip and Vic Octoman (Kensington Gardens); Len Clarkson and Lloyd Heaslip (Unley Park); Len Northey (Grange) and Trevor

Jenkins (Prospect). Messrs Collins, Dawkins and Kitto were selected in the Metropolitan team which played a country side in Adelaide in February. Ern Dawkins was also in the South Australian team which played in the Australian Carnival in Melbourne last December.

Athletics

The Old Scholars Club had probably their best season ever when they won three pennants in the S.A.A.A. Competition, namely 'D' Grade, Junior and Sub-Junior. In addition, they finished third in 'A' Grade. The Club has approximately 100 registered members and includes schoolboys of P.A.C. and Westminster, as well as old scholars. It is greatly to the credit of the Club officials, the coach, Trevor Siegele, and the competitors themselves, that everyone is so enthusiastic and friendly.

Peter Whitham (senior, walk); Peter Brebner (junior, 200 and 400 metres); Robin Day (junior, 110 hurdles and triple jump), and John Tilbrook (decathlon), were selected in the State side which competed in the Australian Championships in Adelaide. John Tilbrook's effort in finishing sixth in the decathlon is worthy of particular mention. The State titles provided an impressive list of victories and placings for Club members, as follows:

Senior—

3,000 metre walk: Peter Whitham, second.
Shot put: Barrie Koch, third.

Junior—

Triple jump: Robin Day, first.
110 hurdles: Robin Day, third.
220 hurdles: David Keynes, third.
200 metres: Peter Brebner, second.
400 metres: Peter Brebner, second.
Pole vault: Colin Haslam, third.
Hammer throw: Dale Cooper, second.
4 x 100 metres relay: Bond, Low, Nehmy, Day (record).
4 x 400 metres relay: Brebner, Keynes, Nehmy, Day.

Sub-Junior—

200 metres: Richard Bond, first.
100 metres: Richard Bond, second.
400 metres: Phil Nehmy, second.
1,500 metres walk: Andrew Close, first.
4 x 100 metres relay: Bond, Nehmy, Low, Winter.

Golf

Trophy winners noted during the summer months included Robert Hunwick, Dudley Trott, Eric Cox, Jim Trott (Royal Adelaide); Keith Chapple (Glenelg); Ian Day and Alex Gray (Kooyonga); Bryan Constable (Grange); Ian Jefferson (Blackwood), and Garth Cord-Udy (Mount Lofty).

Bob Christie, well-known proprietor of the Wonderland Ballroom, was a star golfer in his younger days, and is one of the five remaining members of the State Amateur Golf team which won the Australian title in 1938. (Incidentally, South Australia has not won it since.) He is a former State Amateur Champion and represented South Australia for ten years. Invited to tour overseas on several occasions, he preferred to remain in South Australia.

Bill Shepherd is currently president of the South Australian Golf Association.

Doug Sanders, in 'borrowed plumes' and with borrowed clubs, holed in one at Kooyonga over the Christmas holidays.

Other old scholars noted taking part in events included Laurie Johnston, Bob Wills, Nic Cox, Noel, George and Gary Taplin, Ern and David Rowe, Keith Trott, Robert Jeffery, Colin Rossiter, Norm Jolly, Ken and Robert Babidge, John Woolcock, Lionel Greenslade, Fred Catt, Crawford Hill, Peter Johnston, Dud Richards, John and Rodney Hill, Don Bartlett, Brian Fricker, Charlie South, Clem Middleton, Colin Newbery, Charles Felstead, Paul Dalwood, Brian Faehse, Colin Dewar, Geoff Trott, Max Raggatt, Bob Harbard, John Stephens, Colin Compton, John Merry, Peter Wiadrowski, Doug McKay, Rex Lloyd, Geoff and Ken Cooper, Lloyd Fletcher, Mostyn Phillips, Ray Leach and Syd Forbes.

Football

In the October issue of last year reference was made to the Tennyson Cup, which is the perpetual trophy for the Intercollegiate Football against Saints. As a result, the following letter from one of our well-known old scholars and a past President of the Association is of particular interest and is published in full:

22 November 1966.

The Editor.

Prince Alfred College Chronicle.

Dear Sir,

In the last Chronicle there is a very interesting paragraph (in the Old Boys Section) referring to the result of Intercollegiate football matches since the advent of the Tennyson Cup in 1901. This shows a remarkably even result but this game was just as important to all concerned before Lord Tennyson arrived, and I think it is a pity not to make some reference to the previous twenty years.

To ignore the more historical years could create the very wrong impression that this famous annual game only started, or was not important, before 1901. Several games were played before the results were recorded and kept, but my father, born in 1867, told me they were all won by Princes, and incidentally, the unrecorded cricket matches were all won by Saints.

Anyhow, from 1880 until 1901 Princes are known to have won fifteen games and Saints six. So up to date Princes have won forty-six games and Saints thirty-nine.

A very even result and the fact that we have won a few more games over most of a hundred years is not important, but I do think the complete record of this match is most interesting and historically important.

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) Joseph Crompton

Also in the same issue last year reference was made to the South Australian Amateur side which defeated Victoria in Melbourne for the first and only time in that State, and to the prominent part played by three old scholars. It now appears that four old scholars took part in that match—the fourth being none other than Don Burnard, playing for Victoria. He had previously played for Adelaide University, Princes Old Scholars, and South Australian Amateurs. One wonders if anybody else can claim this distinction!

Again in the October issue reference was made to John Stephens' career, and amongst other details it was stated that he won the 'Mail' medal for playing for Balaklava in the Adelaide Plains Association in 1940. The fact is that he only played in the first six matches prior to his enlistment in the A.I.F., which made his win an amazingly good performance.

The South Australian National Football League's five-man new management committee includes two old scholars in the persons of Don Brebner and Alan Hickinbotham. The former, now president of the League, has had a fine career in Amateur League football with University and South Australia and was selected in the first all-Australian Amateur League team. Alan was a League player for South Adelaide, made the interstate side, and afterwards played for Geelong. He is currently president and chairman of his old club.

Max Basheer, formerly chairman of the League Tribunal, has been appointed vice-chairman of the National League, following the elevation of Don Brebner to president.

Brian Faehse, former West Adelaide captain and State player, has been appointed to the League Tribunal, and Jack Glover continues as a proxy commissioner.

Peter Darley has been appointed coach to South Adelaide.

Don Bartlett has been re-elected to the committee of the Sturt Football Club.

Alan Statton has been re-elected secretary of the South Australian Amateur League, and Mark Skinner elected to the executive.

FOOTBALL CLUB

With the first round to be played on 15 April, the Club appears to be geared up and ready to go. The 'B's and 'D's will be playing in the same grades as last year, namely A3 and A3 Reserve, whilst the 'A's and 'C's have moved into A1 and A1 Reserve respectively. A very promising trial game was held at the oval on 18 March and I believe all spectators were pleased to see many of the new recruits showing a great deal of promise.

Three new faces appear on the executive committee this year. They are Mark Skinner, Leighton Williams and David Haynes and we would like to take this opportunity of thanking our retiring members, John Edwards, Norm Harris and Ian Wallace, for the valuable work they have done in the past few years.

An interesting new rule, which should add to the spectacle of the game, will probably be adopted by the Amateur League this season, and reads as follows: 'The umpire shall blow his whistle and give a free kick against a player who kicks the ball out of bounds without it having been touched by any player, to the opponent nearest to where the ball went out of bounds'.

To date, sixty players have registered with the Club, but this is nowhere near enough if we are to field four teams. An appeal is therefore made for more old scholar footballers to turn out—particularly the younger chaps who have left in the last few years. The games are well run and controlled, on good ovals, and an enjoyable Saturday afternoon is assured. The social club, under the guidance of chairman, David Haynes, has planned a very full calendar of activities and the pre-season barbecue at Port Willunga early in March was the most successful ever run.

For a copy of this year's programme, please contact the secretary, Ian Hall (63 4472 day, 31 1016 night) and it will be mailed to you without delay, together with any other information you require concerning the Club.

CRICKET CLUB

In the 1966-67 season our A1 team reached the final for the second year in succession, but once again a premiership eluded us. Nevertheless, the past season has been quite a successful one for the Club. Three sides were again entered in the Adelaide Turf Cricket Association, in Grades A1, A5, and A6. The A1 side finished runners-up again, the A5 side seventh, and the A6 side fifth. The latter two sides were unlucky in missing out on the four.

The A1 team, under Myles Fuller, were undefeated until the latter half of the season. Myles had another good year with the bat, scoring the Club's top aggregate of 508 at an average of 31.7. He has topped the aggregate for the past three seasons, scoring over 500 runs each time. Phil Brown, Bob Pearlman, Rod Wicks and Ray Lyon also did well with the bat and each scored over 300 runs. It was good to see Bob Gibbs back again this year to open the attack, and taking 48 wickets. Ray Lyon also had a good season with 42 wickets. Rob Shaughnessy, Brenton Paul and Richard Blake also bowled successfully during the season.

The A5 team came close to reaching the four, but one or two narrow defeats proved costly when it was fighting for a place. The bowling was good and we were able to dismiss the opposition for reasonably low scores in most matches. However, a general improvement in the batting would have been necessary for the side to have reached the four. Ted Norman and Nigel Paterson were the best with the bat, each scoring over 200 runs, and others to do well were Ron Ellis and Ian Kerr. Des Windebank had another good season with 36 wickets, including a hat trick. Des has topped the 'B' team's bowling aggregate for the past three seasons, and must be congratulated on his hat-trick. Other bowlers to shine were Ian Kerr with 23 wickets and David Compton, Peter Butcher and Colin Forrest (who captained the side).

The A6 team under Murray Olsson had a very good year, although it finished fifth. The team made many good scores, including several totals of over 200 runs. This was mainly due to Murray Olsson, who opened the batting and scored 421 at an average of 30.1. Other batsmen to do well were vice-captain Gavin Rundell with 297 and Don Packer, Mark Saddler, John Thredgold and Ian Kerr. Peter Cox took the bowling honours with 28 wickets at the excellent average of 7.4, and is also to be congratulated on taking a hat trick. Mark Saddler and Gavin Rundell also excelled with the ball.

The annual dinner was again held at the Public Schools' Club on 30 March, with Club chairman, Don Davies, in charge. Those present included Mr Chester Bennett, representing the School; the Association President, Mr Brian Fricker; and Mr Don Bartlett (an old scholar) represented the Adelaide Turf Cricket Association. The President presented Don Packer with a certificate of life membership of the Club. Trophies were presented to Myles Fuller, Bob Gibbs, Ray Lyon, Nigel Paterson, Des Windebank, Ian Kerr, Murray Olsson, Peter Cox and Brian Wheatley.

The Club would like to express its appreciation to the Headmaster and the School for their assistance and for the use of the School ovals and facilities. Before the 1967-68 season commences, the Cricket Club, in conjunction with the School, will be carrying out improvements to the Parklands Oval, including widening of the wicket area.

The secretary, David Smith (3 3619) and Murray Olsson (8 6843) would be pleased to hear from any intending players for next season. Our thanks are due to all those who have helped in many ways during the past year, including the social committee, who arranged several successful functions.

ATHLETICS CLUB

This season has been the most successful season ever in the history of the Club, both on the track and off. We had 109 registered athletes, the highest ever, and Westminster School competed with us for the first time, and it is pleasing to see the enthusiasm of their athletes and several of their staff in this, their first year of competition. Indeed, their efforts in the Junior and Sub-Junior events helped considerably towards the success of the Club in those grades. As in the past the Club has had a large number of schoolboys from P.A.C. competing, and their keenness and potential augurs well for the future. (Athletics, like other sports, is now a sport in which the schoolboys can take part every Saturday.) However, the number of old scholars competing was greater than in the past and it was good to see a number of old boys come back to us this year.

For the first time, the Club entered four teams this season—in 'A' Grade, 'D' Grade, Junior and Sub-junior. All four teams managed to finish top in their grade at the end of the minor round. Unfortunately, we were hit by injuries during the final rounds, but despite this we went on to win premierships in 'D' Grade, Junior and Sub-junior. The Club has fewer champions than in the past but our all-round strength was the key to our success. In the State Championships we had no champions in Senior, whilst in the Junior Robin Day was our only individual winner (triple jump), but we were successful in the 4 x 400 relay and the 4 x 100 relay. In the latter event the team broke the State residential record. In Sub-junior events we had two victories, Richard Bond being first in the 200 metres and Andrew Close being first in the 1,500 metres walk. Here again we won the 4 x 100 relay. It is also pleasing to be able to report that the Sub-junior and Junior Shields presented for the most place-getters in these sections were won by the Club. All told, a fairly impressive list of placings, particularly amongst Juniors, and we hope for some State champions in the not too distant future.

Phil Day scored 165 points in 'A' Grade this season, to win the P.A.O.C.A.C. Trophy for the most points scored in 'A' Grade. We congratulate him for this and also for winning an athletics scholarship to Valparaiso University at Indiana, U.S.A. This season twelve athletes scored over 100 points for the Club in one or more grades. Leading point scorers were John Tilbrook (195), Richard Bond (191), Phil Day (165), and Peter Dalwood Jun. (142).

The Club record book has largely been rewritten. Senior records were broken seventeen times in eight events, while Junior records were broken sixteen times in nine events. Outstanding performances amongst these were Richard Bond (Sub-junior) who lowered the senior 100 metres record to 10.9 sec and Peter Whitham who lowered the 1,500 metres walk record three times to 6 min 33.3 sec, and the 3,000 metres walk record five times to 14 min 8 sec. Peter Brebner's junior 21.8 sec 220 yards in the Highland Games was also an outstanding effort in that he almost edged State champion Ivone Kirkpatrick (University) on the tape. Other record breakers were: Senior: J. Tilbrook (pole vault, 11 ft 5½ in; javelin, 184 ft 1 in); Junior: R. Bond (100 metres 10.9 sec), P. Brebner (200 metres 21.8 sec; 400 metres, 49.4 sec), A. Close (1,500 metres walk, 7 min 43.2 sec), C. Haslam (pole vault, 10 ft), P. Dalwood Jun. (long jump, 21 ft 10½ in), R. Day (triple jump, 46 ft 8 in). The 4 x 100 metres relay and the 4 x 400 metres relay records, Senior and Junior, were broken this season. Our Junior (twice) and Sub-junior (three times) 4 x 100 metres relay teams also broke State records with final times of 43 sec and 44.2 sec respectively.

Off the field the Club was active for the first time in its history, holding four very successful barbecues, and some of the older members (notably Trevor Siegele) who are unable to distinguish themselves on the track any more, distinguished themselves at these functions. A dinner this year at the Public Schools' Club was an outstanding success and an event we have been missing for some time. It is so long since the previous dinner was held that only the older members can recall it. We were honoured to have in attendance the Headmasters of P.A.C., Mr J. A. Dunning, and of Westminster, Mr D. H. Forder, and the President of the Australian Athletic Union, Mr Ron Aitken, the President of the Old Scholars Association, Mr Brian Fricker, as well as officers of the South Australian Amateur Athletic Association. The Club itself was well represented (also an historic achievement) and in all, thirty-four attended the dinner. Toasts were proposed to 'The Schools and Old Scholars Associations' by David Johnston, and to the South Australian Amateur Athletic Association by Peter Whitham. Responses were made by the Headmasters of each School, the President of the Association and the President of the A.A.U. It is rumoured that after the dinner some members adjourned to the captain's residence until 'the wee small hours of the morning'.

This report would not be complete without recording our thanks to the Club committee, who have worked together well at all times, and perhaps special thanks to Malcolm McLachlan (chairman), Dick Cleland (secretary), Trevor Siegele and Wyndham Harvey (coaches). Also, our thanks to the Headmaster, Mr J. A. Dunning, and the School for the facilities we enjoy and very much appreciate.

SQUASH CLUB

The Club's annual general meeting again held at Peter Dalwood's home was well attended.

Throughout the evening emphasis in discussion was placed on the desirability of encouraging junior players to join the Club, and special arrangements are now under consideration by the Committee to retain the ten young players keenly interested.

The controlling association has altered the playing season and the recently completed competition series was not as successful as some.

The Club has commenced its autumn pennant series, and although it is too early to predict the outcome, all teams are well balanced and enthusiastic. The reserve depth is encouraging and with several of the new junior members already showing excellent potential the Club's future strength seems assured.

Congratulations are in order to our two new life members, Brian Measday and Malcolm Barton, both of whom have loyally served the Club since its inception and have each played over 200 games.

Remember all players are invited to attend regular practice sessions at the Public Schools Club on Sunday mornings at 9.30.

For any further information contact Malcolm Barton 71 1188 (business), 71 8058 (private).

BASKETBALL CLUB

During the 1966-67 summer season our team playing in 'B' Grade at Bowden Stadium began with mixed fortunes, winning four of the first seven matches up to the Christmas break. This was due in part to the re-arrangement of the team. However, after the side had settled down in the new year they began to play well and are now, with one match remaining, on the verge of gaining fourth position. The best players this season have been K. Hocking, I. Shaw and R. Krantz. The Club has nominated two teams for the winter competition, and would like to hear of interested players.

The annual meeting was held at Mr Dud Shaw's home on Thursday, 16 March, and we would like to express our thanks to Mr and Mrs Shaw for their hospitality. The secretary is Keith Hocking, who lives at 21 Penny Street, Semaphore. Phone 51 2136 (business).

CLOSE BOWLS

This very popular annual event was played at Toorak on Wednesday evening, 8 March. The weather was a little cold, but the night was fine and the greens in good condition. Though the attendance was still very good, numbers did not constitute a record and so we would be pleased to hear from any other members—bowlers or non-bowlers—who would be interested in playing in future.

After the game supper was served in the Club-house, where President Brian Fricker asked Mr Wal Hinckley (who was representing the Toorak Club President) to convey to the Club our thanks for allowing the match to be played there and for the use of their Clubhouse facilities. Mr Fricker said this match originated about seventeen years ago and had been played at Toorak on every occasion. He also thanked the ladies' committee, convened by Mrs Fricker, for the excellent supper arrangements, and Ted Stephens and Robert Craven for organizing the match. Mr Hinckley, in responding on behalf of the Club, assured members that it was always a great pleasure to have them hold this match at Toorak, and that he would convey their thanks to his Committee—he also hoped they would all be back again next year. The President then announced that his side had won the match by eight rinks to seven with two drawn. [If memory serves me right this is the nearest that the Headmaster's team has come to registering a victory.—Ed.]

An interesting comment by the President was to the effect that both the masters' rinks were wins for the President's team. The writer regrets that he was unable to hear the comment made by the Headmaster—but perhaps it was just as well. The rink winning by the greatest margin comprised Warren Allen, Scott Ashenden, Trevor Fowler and Ian Gray—all masters at the School—and the team they defeated included Alan Dennis, Reg Jones, and Brian Baker who were led by the redoubtable second master, Ray Smith. Believe it or not they crashed to an ignominious defeat, the scores being 44 to 7. The winning rink, after being presented with Association ties by the President, made their way to the kitchen to do the washing-up, as is the traditional right of the winners. However, prior to this the President reminded Eric Padfield of his offer last year to continue to do this job each year until some other rink broke his record win of 41 points. It is sad to have to report that Eric reacted rather violently and denied ever having said any such thing. Higher authority has decided that his reply, which was quite definite and specific, should not be printed.

Altogether, a very happy and successful occasion.

BOWLS v. SAINTS

The popular annual event was played at South Park on Wednesday evening, 8 February. After the very hot weather the cool night was appreciated, although the wind at times was quite cold. Twelve competitive rinks were played, and progress scores during the evening indicated it would be a close match. Early in the evening Saints had a slight lead—79 points to 73—but later on Princes had gone to the front with the scores at 170—158. Eventually on the final count we won 253 to 233. (The result is determined by the total number of points, but it is of interest to note that Princes won eight of the twelve competitive rinks.) The two non-competitive committee rinks resulted in a win for each side. Details of scores are as follows:

Rink 1: Rundle (leader), Gray (No. 2), Mutton (No. 3), Clarkson (skipper). Princes won 17—14.

Rink 2: Padfield (leader), Storer (No. 2), W. Chapman (No. 3), Evans (skipper). Princes won 31—13.

Rink 5: Hunter (leader), Gordon (No. 2), Treloar (No. 3), Packer (skipper). Princes won 27—14).

Rink 6: Bennett (leader), Gerard (No. 2), Anderson (No. 3), H. Greenslade (skipper). Princes lost 16—32.

Rink 7: Spinkston (leader), Wilkinson (No. 2), McWaters (No. 3), Jarvis (skipper). Princes lost 17—24.

Rink 12: Willsmore (leader), L. Patterson (No. 2), Catt (No. 3), Tonkin (skipper). Princes lost 18—26.

Committee Rinks:

Rink 14: Skinner (leader), Stephens (No. 2), Davies (No. 3), Craven (skipper). Princes won 31—11.

After the match supper was served in the Club dining-room, and Mr Keith Sims (Chairman of Saints) presented the Lucy Shield to Mr Brian Fricker, President of Princes. In offering congratulations, Mr Sims pointed out this would be the last result to be inscribed on the original shield, which dates back to 1928. He thanked South Park for again allowing us to play the match there as has been the case for many years, also the staff for looking after members during the evening, and finally the conveners of many years' standing—Maurice Brown and Mervyn Evans. Saints then gave three cheers for Princes.

Mr Fricker, in responding, endorsed the various votes of thanks and said Princes were naturally pleased to have been successful again, although the social aspect of the evening was the all important feature. He called on Princes to give three cheers for Saints.

It was pleasing to note a number of ladies present, and members should know that they are very welcome to attend this gathering. Prior to the players they also had supper in the Club dining room.

TENNIS v. SAINTS OLD SCHOLARS

This year the match was played on 15 March at the Keswick and Wayville Club, with the usual twelve players a side. The weather was warm but pleasant and the courts were in excellent condition. After the first round Princes had established a long lead with the scores being 5 rubbers to 1. However, several of these games were keenly contested, and two of them went to 3 sets. At this stage afternoon tea was served in the comfortable Club House, when the President, Mr Brian Fricker, welcomed players and spectators and thanked Mr and Mrs Ross Macdonald for arranging the refreshments.

The highlight of the second round was the match between Bill Johnson-Dean Davies and Grant Kerr-Tony Bills, which the Princes pair eventually won, 6-5, 5-6, 6-4. It was an excellent match with Bill Johnson probably the outstanding player. As in the first round we scored only one loss, and so ran out winners with the final scores being 10 rubbers 20 sets to 2 rubbers 8 sets, thus repeating our success of the previous year. Detailed scores were as follows (Princes names on top):

First round—

Johnson and Davies defeated Hawkes and Barker, 6-5, 6-3.
Gabb and Little lost to Kerr and Bills, 2-6, 4-6.
Jeffrey and Trott defeated Davidson and Wilson, 5-6, 6-1, 6-3.
Baker and Dennis defeated Allen and Astley, 6-0, 6-0.
Watts and Tasker defeated Muecke and Muecke, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.
Williamson and Jackson defeated Brookman and Brookman, 6-4, 6-3.

Second round—

Johnson and Davies defeated Kerr and Bills, 6-5, 5-6, 6-4.
Gabb and Little lost to Hawkes and Barker, 5-6, 5-6.
Jeffrey and Trott defeated Allen and Astley, 6-4, 6-4.
Baker and Dennis defeated Davidson and Wilson, 5-6, 6-1, 6-3.
Watts and Tasker defeated Brookman and Brookman, 6-3, 6-1.

Williamson and Jackson defeated Muecke and Muecke, 6-5, 6-1.

In the evening the Dinner was held at the Arkaba Hotel, with Mr J. C. Irwin, President of Saints, in the chair. The attendance of players was good, and special guests included the Headmaster of St Peter's College, Rev. J. S. Corfield Miller, and Mr T. G. Luke representing the Headmaster of P.A.C., Mr J. A. Dunning (who sent his apologies), Mr Brian Fricker, President of P.A.O.C.A., and Mr Fax Bonnar, a member of Saints Old Scholars Committee. In welcoming everybody the chairman said that he wasn't quite sure whether he approved of the predominantly red colour scheme, and perhaps this was a forerunner of bad news when the scores were to be announced. After submitting the loyal toast the chairman said it was with much sorrow that he announced the scores in favour of Princes, 10 rubbers to 2. In handing over the E. T. Rowe Cup to the captain of Princes, Wayne Jackson, Mr Irwin said that by some devious means which he was unable to explain he understood that this appointment had been made after the match! Wayne, in responding, thanked Saints for a good game and said Princes chaps looked forward to this match each year. He thanked Mr and Mrs Macdonald for arrangements earlier in the afternoon, and the conveners, Messrs Bill Johnson (Princes) and Fax Bonnar (Saints). Michael Astley, in speaking on behalf of Saints, said it was quite obvious why he had been selected captain on this occasion—he thanked Princes for a good game and a very pleasant afternoon and evening. In lighter vein he said it was interesting to note that Graham Brookman Jun. had consented to bring his father along and allow him to play in the team. This report last year referred to the 'retirement' of Graham Sen., and I quote: 'We do not know whether this was in jest or in earnest', but we presume now that it was the former. (However, this is a point of considerable interest as in all likelihood it is the first occasion on which a father and son have both played in the same team.) Michael concluded his comments by saying that he hoped next year he would be asked for afternoon tea only—we will see. During the evening the cup was filled with sparkling moselle and passed around in the traditional manner.

SCHOOL ETCHING

After persistent enquiries from members for some years, the Association has been able to purchase a limited number of excellent prints. The cost to members is $10.50 and copies may be obtained from the Association office.

BROKEN HILL VISIT

This long standing biennial visit took place on the weekend of 4 and 5 March. The party from Adelaide, which flew up on Friday evening, included Mr and Mrs Gleg Luke (representing the School and the Headmaster); Mr Brian Fricker (Association President) and Mrs Fricker; Mr and Mrs Peter Dalwood; Mr Malcolm McLachlan; Dr Brian and Mrs Hobbs; Dr John and Mrs Bunday. On arrival at Broken Hill they were met by an enthusiastic welcoming party, consisting of the branch president, Mr Alwyn Edelman and Mrs Edelman; secretary John Beck and Mrs Beck; Mr and Mrs Reg Glasson; Messrs Alan Bartholomaeus and Eric Minchin; Mr and Mrs Michael McBride; Mr and Mrs John Crace.

A very pleasant social evening was spent on the lawns at Lodge Motel, where Rev. Gordon and Mrs Young also joined the party. Some of the male members of the party then set out at a late hour with a firm intention of covering their expenses—several were successful, but the majority, including the writer, came to the conclusion that some people 'just never learn'.

Saturday morning was free for the visitors whilst the locals prepared the C.W.A. hall for the dance in the evening, where the School flag and red and white balloons were much in evidence. In the afternoon a visit was made to the Royal Flying Doctor Service base where Mr Hepworth gave a most interesting and instructive talk on their work, and by means of several maps was able to indicate the vast distances involved. Mr Howard Edelman proposed a vote of thanks. This was followed by a sightseeing trip of the city and the Zinc Corporation mine. The latter is a real showplace with its lakes, gardens, lawns and plantations. A visit was also made to the winding house, the museum and Pro Hart's Gallery. This was followed by late afternoon tea under the shade of the trees in part of the lovely recreational area maintained by the company. A very pleasant afternoon concluded with a visit to the 'A' Grade semi-final cricket match between North and West. John Beck, who is a good all-rounder, made top score and also opened the bowling. Several excellent well-grassed ovals were visited before returning to headquarters at 6 p.m. The Adelaide ladies were very thrilled with the red and white posies which local members had put in their rooms.

The dance held in the evening was most friendly, enjoyable, and in every way a complete success. Mr and Mrs Edelman received guests on their arrival, and during the evening Mr and Mrs Luke and Mr and Mrs Fricker were introduced to the guests, and chatted with them in their various parties. Just prior to supper Mr Edelman made a short speech of welcome to Messrs. Andrews and Cutten, representing Saints, John Lyons representing Pulteney, and with particular reference to the party from Adelaide. Mr Luke, in responding on behalf of the School, said he brought good wishes to them all from the Headmaster, Mr Dunning, who was very sorry that circumstances prevented him and his wife from being present. Mr Luke then gave details of the Appeal, some 'inside' information in relation to the rest of the Inter-collegiate matches this year for the benefit of those who might be having a pecuniary interest, the new swimming pool (a wonderful addition), the new maths course, and concluded by saying that the School was in good heart and going as well as ever.

The Association President, Mr Fricker, congratulated the branch on the well-organized and successful weekend, which was being enjoyed by everyone, and said it was a great pleasure to be back again. He also referred to the long and outstanding career of Mr Luke at the School, and said that it was an honour to have him and his wife present on this occasion. (The fine ovation which followed was more than good and sufficient proof.) The President also referred to various Association functions, the improvements in the finances, the good membership, and the dinner dance on 30 September. Mr Fricker said it was a happy coincidence that John Beck had this afternoon top scored for his side with 57 in the North versus West semi-final, and that John Crace, captain of the Zinc Corporation team, had made his top score for the season (71). He also said that rumour had it that the Smith boys (Kym, Rowleigh, and Marshall) between them had had another frustrating afternoon, and that their total of dropped catches would represent a respectable score for a tail end batsman! The supper, tastefully laid out on a long table at the end of the hall, was excellent and thoroughly appreciated by everyone. At midnight a very happy and enjoyable evening concluded with the National Anthem.

By a happy thought and through the good offices of Rev. Gordon Young, a service for old scholars and their wives was held at the Railwaytown Methodist Church at 9 a.m. on the Sunday morning. The church is a fine modern building, opened some seven or eight years ago. The minister based his sermon on the forty days of Lent and the temptations of our Lord. In so doing he showed there was a similar line of thought and conduct between the Jewish church as represented by the Old Testament and the Christian Church as represented by the New Testament. He urged that complete allegiance only would be sufficiently strong and good enough and that both must be for a cause of love and sacrifice willingly accepted. Material and selfish motives, though very human, must be kept in control and if possible eliminated.

After the service a large party went to 'Pine Creek' Station for a picnic outing and barbecue. Here we were received by Mr and Mrs Alan Bartholomaeus in their cool and spacious home. Nearer lunchtime the 'cavalcade' proceeded a few miles to a creek where everybody was able to sit in the shade of the magnificent gum trees. Others not mentioned in this report who joined the party were Mr and Mrs Ron Crossing and their family, and Mr and Mrs Don Crossing and family. One would have thought that after the sumptuous meal the male members would have been satisfied to rest on their laurels. However, fired by the enthusiasm of the small children who had been playing cricket, they took over, and whilst the writer is of the opinion that no new material was at hand for the Australian eleven, some big hits were recorded and probably more catches spilled than was the case with the Smith trio mentioned above.

During the afternoon the President moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for the wonderful job they had done on this day and on Saturday: he wanted them to know that all of us were very appreciative of their generosity and excellent cooking. Mr Fricker also thanked Mr and Mrs Bartholomaeus for their invitation to visit the property and also for their hospitality. Members of the local committee were also thanked for helping with the arrangements and providing transport. The branch president, Alwyn Edelman, in responding, supported Brian's various votes of thanks, and said he was sure all had thoroughly enjoyed themselves and that it had been a very happy occasion. Furthermore, there was the additional reason for being very pleased in that the weather had been well nigh perfect throughout both days.

The Adelaide visitors entertained the local committee at tea in the evening. This was another happy occasion which necessitated some quick changes. At the end of the meal the President presented Association ties to Alwyn Edelman and John Beck. Everyone was tired but happy when 'goodbyes' were exchanged at the airport, and the plane took off for Adelaide at 8.30 p.m.

This Broken Hill visit has become by tradition a significant occasion in the calendar of old scholar events, and this year was no exception. Stalwarts in the persons of George Fisher, Jack Prider, Bill White, and the late Bill Harbison were noticeably absent, but their places have been taken by equally keen and enthusiastic old scholars, and our hope is that these visits will continue for many years.

BROKEN HILL

President: Alwyn Edelman.

Vice-Presidents: Senior, Alan Bartholomaeus; Junior, Eric Minchin.

Treasurer: Reg Glasson.

Secretary: John Beck.

An excellent party from Adelaide made their bi-annual visit on the weekend of 3 and 4 March. The whole arrangements were very successful and a full report appears elsewhere. Several letters of thanks and appreciation have been received from Adelaide and we would like to assure the writers that we enjoyed their stay every bit as much as they apparently did. The local committee also wishes to thank old scholars in the area for their support.

At the end of November Princes old scholars played a cricket match against a combined team of old boys from other colleges (Saints old scholars being in the majority). The final scores were 100 to 92 in favour of Princes.

We were all very sad to learn of the sudden death in Adelaide of Bill Harbison and extend our sincere sympathy to his wife and family. Bill and his wife did a sterling job for this branch over many years, as indeed did their daughters. Bill had held all offices—committeeman, secretary, vice-president and president. We are glad to have known him and his family: they will be remembered for many years whenever Broken Hill old scholars meet together.

LONDON

The annual dinner will be held as usual at the Oxford and Cambridge Club on Friday, 14 July. The branch secretary is Dr Stanford Howard, whose address is 148 Harley Street, London, W.1, and who is most anxious to hear from any old scholars who are visiting the United Kingdom and Europe. Those who do go overseas are urged to try to fit this dinner date into their itinerary, as members resident in the United Kingdom always find it most interesting to meet those from 'the home town'. A full report of last year's dinner appeared in the October 1966 Chronicle and it is hoped that this year's will be equally successful.

the third successive year, we were fortunate to have ideal weather.

Two golf days have been arranged this year and it is anticipated that Saints will join us on both occasions. We would like to see some additional golfers participating in these matches and the secretary will be glad to provide interested members with details.

A dinner party is being arranged at Hunters Lodge for members and wives during June and we expect this to be a popular evening.

Of special interest to Victorian old boys—

Peter Hodges has recently joined Reid & Co., Sharebrokers as an investment adviser.

Peter Newman has been appointed management services manager of BALM Paints.

Branch secretary: Peter Dunn, 35a Hampden Road, Pennant Hills. Phone 84 4523, business 27 4771.

Pre-Christmas Barbecue

The branch president and his wife made their delightful home at Killara the venue of a very pleasant evening for old boys and their wives on Saturday, 12 November.

The weather was mild, the hospitality first-rate, the food good and the company excellent.

During the evening a volume was autographed by all present for presentation to the school library.

Personal

Adrian Ashton (son of the greatly-beloved late Sir Will Ashton and himself an old boy) was recently appointed Public Information Officer at the University of New South Wales. An architect, Adrian has been associated with the technical press for many years as managing editor of various architectural and engineering journals produced by Building Publishing Co. Pty Ltd. He has resigned from this company to take up his new appointment.

Ken Brown has been appointed to the Council of Newington College (our sister school in New South Wales).

Jack Hiatt, Q.C., has recently made several trips to Darwin in his capacity as chairman of United Uranium N.L., in addition to two trips to Melbourne in connection with the margins case.

Russel Ward, Professor of History at the New England University, was one of the lecturers at the 'Writers and Readers' seminar held at Armidale recently, which was attended by a wide range of literary people from all over Australia.

Don Spry, branch secretary from 1958 to 1966, leaves shortly on a world tour in connection with his firm Byrne & Davidson Pty Ltd. His itinerary includes South Africa, Kenya, the Continent, Scandinavia and America.

Bob Honey is at present overseas on a business trip representing his company, United Dominions Corporation Ltd.

Peter Dunn recently inspected copper deposits at Sabah, Malaysia, on behalf of his firm, New Consolidated Goldfields.

J. L. B. (Les) Cowan of QANTAS is in the news again. This time he flew to Mauritius on the Boeing proving flight. The return trip of 5,750 miles was non-stop from Mauritius to Sydney taking ten hours. Les was navigator of the original survey flight in November 1948 to Johannesburg in a Lancastrian aircraft, a flight which took thirty-three hours. He was also the navigator of the Constellation proving flight in 1952 and, in 1952 and, in 1961, as resident officer for QANTAS at Mauritius, he was able to welcome the Electra proving flight. In view of his close association with all the proving flights in this region QANTAS accorded him the honour of a passenger-berth on the latest flight.

It will be recorded that during the Royal Visit he had the honour of being navigator of the Queen's plane.

General Interest to Sydney Old Boys

At a lecture given by Mr E. F. Constable, botanical collector for the National Herbarium at the Sydney Botanical Gardens. Mr Constable made reference to the figurine, presented to the Gardens by the late Leo Buring, which stands on the site of the old wishing tree.

Two branch ex-presidents, Messrs Ken Brown and Frank Hunter, were prominent in the final stages of the Centenary Building Fund Appeal.

The Chronicle of fifty years ago carried the news that Lance Rhodes had been awarded the Military Cross and that Henry Brose, interned in Germany, had celebrated Old Boys Week with two other old reds in the uncongenial atmosphere of an internment camp.

Harold Woodman had won his commission and been awarded the D.S.O.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA

It is very pleasing to report that 1967 has commenced most favourably for the old reds in Western Australia with victories over Saints in both the annual cricket and bowls matches. With only the golf match to go, we will be striving our utmost for a clean sweep this year.

Our cricket victory was due to an excellent and entertaining opening partnership by skipper Ken Hewett and David Oaten. David has only recently arrived in this State and what a welcome arrival he is! He could only spare us time for the pre-lunch session before going on to play his pennant match in the afternoon, but that was all we needed. The rest of the team comprised Alec Dawkins, John Pitman, John Pelham, John Livingston (what a howler!), Brian Kelton, Ken Stanton, Roger Weber, Dean Weber, Bronte Rundle and Bob Page.

This year's bowls victory (almost taken for granted these days) was mainly due to the overwhelming win by the rink skippered by young Edgar Liddelow (a sprightly eighty-two). The attendance for this match, particularly by our own senior members, was excellent. Other rink skippers were Rex Morgan and Lin Wilson and the following made up the team: Con Bussenschutt (all the way from Three Springs), Alec Dawkins, Ken Hewett, John Pitman, Ken Stanton, Brian Kelton, Roger and Dean Weber, Chris Harvey, Vern Dawe, Bob Page and David Oaten. We missed our stalwart bowler, Spencer Haslam, who unfortunately was in hospital and we all wish him speedy recovery.

We enjoyed a very close struggle for golf match honours last November, but sad to say, lost by two. We can assure you that one member of our team, no names no pack drill, will in future check his card before handing it in (It made the difference between halving the match and losing it.)

Our combined Christmas buffet was again a great success and well attended. From all reports, everybody had a most enjoyable evening.

The programme for the rest of the year is as follows:

Friday, 5 May—sundowner.

Friday, 7 July—sundowner.

Thursday, 27 July—annual dinner.

Sunday, 24 September—golf match.

Friday, 1 December—Christmas buffet.

CANBERRA

This is a combined Saints and Princes branch, and it seems most appropriate that two Associations should be represented in the National Capital. The secretary, who is Alan Crawford—address, 37 Rosenthal Street, Campbell—would be interested to hear from any old scholar of either school who moves into Canberra. While it is realized that in many cases residence will only be of a short term or temporary nature, the secretary would nevertheless like to know so that notices may be sent regarding functions taking place during their stay. Major Robin Hone, who was the first president of the branch, is now military attache to the Australian Embassy in Laos, and whilst congratulations are offered on his appointment, it is a distinct loss to the branch! There can be no doubt that he was the guiding light in the formation of the branch, and we extend our thanks to Robin both for his enthusiasm and the work he did.

This year we are planning to have fewer functions, and as a result hope they will be better attended. Members will be receiving details in April.

ASSOCIATION RECORDS

To enable our section of the Chronicle to be a history of the doings of old boys, you are asked to forward to the Association office any relevant items of interest.

Members are also requested to notify promptly any change of address, and next of kin can be very helpful by sending in the names of any deceased members.

PAST ISSUES SCHOOL CHRONICLE

Your Association has not over the years kept complete records of previous issues. This, however, would be a proper and worthwhile thing to do, and in fact two or three sets could well be used by the Association itself. To date there has been some gratifying response from members, to whom we express our thanks.

The Headmaster, Mr J. A. Dunning, is also anxious to build up further complete sets at the School, so that back numbers are much in demand.

So far as the Association is concerned the issues we particularly require relate to the years 1908-1923 (numbers 91-138).

If transport should be a problem this can be arranged by telephoning the Association office.

Lincoln College

It is pleasing to report this year, with the arrival of eight 'old scholar' newcomers, our numbers at the College increased to nineteen, which is well above the average.

These new arrivals have quickly settled into their new surroundings and already form an enthusiastic and popular group. Of those in College last year only one failed to make our scholastic record an enviable one. Alex Brown graduated to gain his law degree. The medical faculty is still well patronized by old scholars and we have Peter Bastian and Bob Thompson in fifth year, Reg Ananda and John Lewis in fourth year and Don Barrie as our sole first year representative. Lew Rayner is facing the prospect of getting his economics degree this year which means his working future is not far distant, Graham Trengove continues to make good progress with agricultural science, being in his fourth year. Tom Newland is continuing his somewhat involved academic career in search of a Bachelor of Technology, John Norman continues towards his Bachelor of Science, while Phil Lynch is doing second year law. Bill

Holmes is once again our sole representative in dentistry, being in fourth year. Among the first years, Geoff Martin and Leigh Hobba are doing arts, Mark Jarvis and Dave Sandow agricultural science, Dave Nicholls engineering, and Ken Eberbach and John Woodruff are both doing a Bachelor of Technology.

Surprisingly, not a great deal of interest has been shown by old scholars in the running of the College, the only one being Bill Holmes who is on the committee. However, it appears that all the College teams will have more than their fair share of old scholars. In this connection it is interesting to note that all but one of the College Eight are old scholars, including the cox.

The College has definitely changed character over the last few years as it has increased in size. This growing up phase has been helped by the old scholars—the place has definitely left its wild adolescent past and with its head in the air is setting out after a world it must catch and find out all about.

During the last six months the Lodge has enjoyed a very interesting series of lectures. The most interesting was delivered by the Grand Master, the Most Worshipful the Rev. Canon W.

R.Ray, O.B.E., B.A., Th.L. His subject was 'The Image of Freemasonry, Present and Future'. Apart from just keeping the interest of the Brethren, he left each one there with a great deal to think about.

At the April meeting R.W. Bro. G. M. Potts, in recognition of his great service to the Lodge, was elected an honorary member.

R.W. Bro. Potts has been a member since 1930, and was installed as Master in 1944. During the years he has been an active member of his Lodge and also Grand Lodge. In April 1965 the Most Worshipful the Grand Master was pleased to confer on R.W. Bro. Potts, Past Grand Warden, the rank of Past Deputy Grand Master, in recognition of his devoted and meritorious service to the Craft over a long period of years.

The Lodge has been pleased to welcome three new members. Bros. E. S. Whitworth, R. K. Mason and D. W. R. Quin. Bro. Whitworth is a member of the teaching staff at P.A.C.

Public Schools' Club

Old scholars on the general committee have been appointed to the following sub-committees:

Malcolm McLachlan (finance), Don Brebner (membership), Don McKenzie (house and chairman of sports). An a la carte dinner is now held at the Club on Wednesday evenings, which is available to members and their wives and friends. This is being done for a trial period of three months, and if successful will become a regular feature. Charges are very moderate, and it is hoped that members will give it their patronage and support. To assist with the catering members must make reservations.

The billiard room has been repainted, and the almost inevitable maintenance work (so it seems) carried out on the squash courts. The carpeting and refurnishing of the dining room area has been a major undertaking but the results, at least appearance wise, have made it worthwhile. We do think, however, that a separate dining room is 'a must' at the earliest possible date.

The billiards and snooker tournaments have been completed, the winners being R. C. Baxter (billiards), W. J. Dalby (snooker), and the snooker doubles, R. C. Baxter and Tony Fox. A successful tennis day for members and friends was held at Memorial Drive on Sunday, 12 March. The Club golf day is to be held at Royal Adelaide on Tuesday, 18 April, when the winner of the handicap tournament will be presented with the Lady Sandford Trophy. It is proposed to hold a social evening at the Club following the Combined School Sports on the Adelaide Oval in May, and to have a guest speaker. The ladies nights, which have been well supported, continue to be held regularly every three months, and bookings are now open for 6 May.
